Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beams returned from Toledo, last Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Getts, mother of Mrs. John Wise, died Tuesday, and was taken to 16, for interment.

The Burns Comedy Co., failed to receive sufficient patronage to justify a performance, Saturday evening.

A fellow, from Hicksville, possessed of too much lip carried home with him an evidence of his pusillanimity, Saturday evening.

Tickets for the course of lectures at St. Joe, are on sale at Provines' drug store. The best talent this part of the country affords, has been secured, and people should extend a liberal patronage.

BUTLER.

Rev. Stewart, of Columbia City, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Wilcox, last Sunday.

Orla Campbell had a close call, recently, by falling between the cars of a moving train.

Gabe Strauss is about to engage in the saloon business. He will occupy the rooms vacated by Chambers & Hose.

Ben. Stiefel's new building is nearing completion. As he has purchased indulgence from Court, to deal in the fiery liquid, we infer that it is another saloon.

The story circulated a few weeks ago, that the horses that were stolen had been found, proves to be a mistake. The buggy has actually been found, but none of the horses have been recovered.

Elias Strauss is afflicted with some disease of the jaw, which has baffled and defied the skill of our best physicians, and he is about try the curative virtues of Ann Arbor, or some other like place.

Chambers & Hose retire from the saloon business, either from choice, or from their inability to secure suitable quarters. They have been in the livery business for some time, and we hope this more honorable enterprise will engage their whole attention.

James Gaff, an old and well-known resident of Stafford township, was buried last Sunday. Mr. Gaff was among the early settlers of the township, and by a life of industry and frugality, had succeeded in acquiring a moderate competence. He leaves a wife and four children—two sons and two daughters. His funeral, which was largely attended, took place at Big Run chapel, Rev Diffenbach of the Lutheran church officiating. The remains were interred at Big Run cemetery.

SUMMIT.

Peter Snowberger is happy—its a girl.

John Zimmerman, of Hudson, was in town, Monday.

Mrs. Catherine Zimmerman is better at this writing.

Robert Snowberger visited his brother, H. D. Snowberger, Sunday.

Jacob Mortorff has been under the doctor's care the past week.

Mike Miller and wife, of Auburn, made our town a short call Monday.

Miss Margaret Mortorff visited her sister, Mrs. Frank Hilt, over Sunday.

Bert. Coonrod came to town last Tuesday, smiling all over. Investigation, however, led to the exposure of the fact that the whole foundation for his jolly mood, was the advent of a little girl in his household. Usual weight.

Commissioner's Court.

On petition of owners, Ensley's 4th addition, that along the Avenue, was vacated. It will be replatted, George Hamm, of Newville township was appointed constable in place of E. Baird, resigned.

Among the licences granted were to C. Fell, and E. Eldridge in Auburn; J. H. Zeek, C. Hike and J. Wm. Wagner, in Garrett; R. Till, W. J. Miller & Joseph Foreman, C. Teutsch, W. F. Shaver and C. M. Meek in Waterloo: B. Stiefel and G. Strauss in Butler; C. A. Washler, St. Joe. Nelson Thomas was appointed constable in Concord township in place of John Springer, resigned. On petition of L. J. Gengler, T. S. Merica, B. Hunsel, L. M. Sapp, Geo. Reeves and others, George Arnold was made constable for Keyser township, which had been without any. The board have had to spend some time accepting bridges at Corunna, in Troy township, etc. They finished their labors yesterday.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,
In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling. Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.
44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. HELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

The Farmers' Institute.

As noted last week the attendance was not as good as could be wished, but those who were present, were well paid for their time and trouble. The papers and lectures were able, and interesting and brought out facts that even experienced farmers never heard of before. Mr. Lockhart, as manager of these meetings for this part of the state, presided while Geo. H. Dunn, of this county was made secretary, and during his absence his place was taken by Mr. Fitch, of Allen county, a brother of Perry Fitch. Prof. W. C. Latta and Prof. F. M. Webster, of Purdue university delivered a number of valuable lectures and papers were also given by J. N. Babcock, of Lagrange, H. S. Barthomew, of Elkhart county, Hon. James Rosco, of Noble, A. B. Walsworth, of Auburn, and others. Cal. Husselman was present and took an active interest in the work, especially in the discussions. We cannot help but think our home boys did as effective work as any. For instance there was the talk of A. B. Walsworth on sheep raising, the various talks and lectures by Mr. Bartholomew, of Middlebury, and the practical discussions by Mr. Husselman, D. T. Smith, Mr. Lockhart, Mr. Rosco and Mr. Fitch. There was a good deal, that we did not hear, as the busy season prevented our attending but a part of the time. If there is ever another meeting held in Auburn, we believe there will be a better attendance. It reminded old teachers of the first county teachers' institute we had when that kind of work was commenced back in the 60's. At first only a few came, and a still smaller number assisted. Then the meetings proved interesting and valuable. More came, more assisted, and so the growth went on, a healthy, natural permanent growth, till to-day no county of its size in the state can show a better institute than can DeKalb. Let us hope the farmers will go and do likewise. We believe an extra institute will be held in Waterloo some time in January, as Mr. Lockhart informs us there will be a small sum left over from the expenses of each institute, so that he will have about enough left to pay out the extra one. It should be understood that the last legislature appropriated $40 for each of these meetings. This is used only to pay the traveling and hotel expenses of those who come from a distance to help. No one gets any other pay. All who help, give their time free. So no one makes any "spec" by the institutes. The Arion Quartet of Auburn, and the club from Waterloo, C. R. Reed, Bert Beidler, Wm. Harper and Bert Butler, took turns in furnishing music, which was excellent of course. J. I. Chaney was organist. At the organization, an address of welcome was made by Hon. E. D. Hartman and Mr. Lockhart gave a brief history of the farmers institutes as now held. He was followed by Mr. Babcock, in "Does it Pay to be a Farmer?" S. H. Hine, gave his talk on "Small Fruits" the second day; "Fencing" was the subject of Mr. Moore, of Ligonier. Afternoon Prof. Webster gave, "Causes of Injury in certain Wheat Fields." Mr. Bartholomew spoke on, "The Reading Circle among Farmers," all being excellent. A. B. Walsworth, S. H. Hine, L. A. Henning, Emory Johnson and G. H. Dunn were made a committee on permanent organization for the county. H. S. Bartholomew was asked to draft a resolution favoring protection by law, through the entire year, to beneficial birds.

At the close of the meeting they unanimously adopted the following

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved: 1. That we approve all farmers' organizations that seek to better the condition of the farming classes in general.

2. That we recommend that steps be taken to form a permanent county association for Institute work.

3. That we endorse the Act of the Legislature appropriating $5,000 for holding Farmers' Institutes; and we also recommend to the Legislature, soon to convene, that a further appropriation be made to continue the work.

4. That we favor such a revision of our recent Ditch law, as will make it more efficient, economical and just.

5. That we are in favor of adopting a system of improving our public highways, that shall be more efficient and economical than our present laws.

6. That we demand a dog law that will give adequate protection to sheep husbandry.

7. That we are unalterably opposed to all trusts, combines and dealing in margins, and earnestly demand national and state legislation to restrain or suppress the same.

8. That we favor the passage of a fee and salary bill that shall make the compensation of public officials commensurate with the duties and responsibilities of the office and with the prices of labor and industrial products.

9. That we appreciate the earnest effort and efficient services of Mr. R. M. Lockhart in arranging for and conducting this institute.

10. As to the matter of forming reading circles, we earnestly request that our representative in the state board of agriculture may lay this matter before said board in such a manner that steps shall be taken for the formation of farmers' reading circles in every county in the state. We fully realize the importance of farmers' reading circles and earnestly request our representative in the state board of agriculture to lay this matter before said board in such a manner that steps may be taken for the formation of said reading circle in every county in the state.

Resolved; That our thanks are due and are hereby tendered to our institute workers for services rendered, and to the L. S. & M. S., and B. & O. Ry. companies for reduced rates granted.

Jno. J. Randles,
S. H. Hine,
Emory Johnston.

AGENTS WANTED [illegible]

Yes GrandPa, I'm a soldier and you're my prisoner here,
But I'm not going to hurt you, so you need have no fear.
Just sit and take it easy you are not scared I hope,
Only you must surrender, to General Santa Claus Soap.
FAIRBANK'S SANTA CLAUS SOAP
FOR LAUNDRY USE
MADE ONLY BY
N.K. FAIRBANK & Co. CHICAGO.
FOR HOUSEHOLD USE

"WELL BRED SOON WED."
Girls who use SAPOLIO are QUICKLY MARRIED.
SAPOLIO is one of the best-known city luxuries and each time a cake is used an hour is saved. On floors, tables and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans and metals it has no equal. If your store-keeper does not keep it you should insist upon his doing so, as it always gives satisfaction and its immense sale all over the United States makes it an almost necessary article to any well supplied store. Everything shines after its use, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.

DR. CHRISTOPHER,
OF
NEW YORK POLYCLINICS,

DR. THOMPSON,
OF
PHILADELPHIA AND CHICAGO POLYCLINICS,

WILL BE AT THE
Swinetord House, AUBURN, IND., Thursday, Dec. 25, '90
AND EVERY FOURTH THURSDAY THEREAFTER.

THESE eminent Physicians and Surgeons, and founders of the LIMA CURATIVE INSTITUTE, have had years of experience in the best hospitals in this country, and devote their entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and all Chronic, Private and Nerve diseases and deformities, as Granulated Lids, Cross-Eye, Deafness, Rheumatism, and all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Heart, Stomach, Nervous System and all blood diseases, Such as Scrofula Running Sores, Varicose Veins; and diseases of the Skin.
PILES and all other Rectal Diseases, such as Internal, External, Itching and Bleeding Piles, Fissures, Fistula and Ulcers cured permanently, without pain or detention from business. They do not use the knife, caustic or ligature. Cures guaranteed.
EPILEPSY or FITS permanently cured by their new and special remedies, and own ELECTRIC BODY BATTERY, which they manufacture and use in treating all forms of Nervous Diseases. It is guaranteed to cure and never fails.
RUPTURE or HERNIA positively cured. Not by the knife nor injection, or by wearing a cumbersome and painful truss, which gets out of place and must be left off at night; but by the use of their own medical appliance, and which is comfortably worn day and night, thus making a constant support, and, by its medicating properties, cures permanently in a short time. Come and see and examine it.
Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all Lung and Throat troubles, and difficult Asthma cases treated and CURED by their special aparatus which they manufacture and supply to patients. It is a cheap, pleasant, home treatment, wonderful in its effects upon all diseases of the air passages. Call and see it. It is unsurpassed, and guaranteed to cure.
MEN Young, Middle aged, and Old, who suffer from Spermatorrhœa, impotency (loss of manhood), or from any weakness due to indiscretion or overindulgence, can be permanently cured in a short time by using their special treatments and by the use of THEIR POWERFUL GALVANIC BODY BATTERY, which is a specific in all forms of nerve weakness and debility. See it and be convinced. This is an opportunity you can not afford to miss. Consultation free and confidential.
Tumors, Moles, Warts, Superfluous hairs and Scars removed without pain by new method, Electrolysis, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Tape Worm, Piles, Strictures, and Female Troubles are successfully treated, and all difficult cases which other physicians have failed to cure, receive their special attention.
DR. J. GORE GALLEHER, the great Optician, will accompany us each visit. If troubled with your eyes call and see him.
Bring specimens of Urine for Chemical Analysis. Consultation free.
DRS. CHRISTOPHER & THOMPSON,
Lima Curative Institute, Lima, Ohio.

Harper's Bazar.
ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home, Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891 Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.
PER YEAR:
HARPER'S BAZAR............ 4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.......... 4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY............ $4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.... 2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.
The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.
Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume,) for $7 per volume.
Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.
Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.
Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.
Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, NEW YORK.

Harper's Young People.
AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be "Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Munroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophia Sweett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Lassetter Bynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel, adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms, Postage Prepaid, $2.00.
Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.
Single Numbers, Five cents Each.
Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.
Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.
Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1890. NUMBER 51.

CHRISTMAS COMING!

Make your friends a

USEFUL PRESENT!

FINE

SLIPPERS,

For Ladies and Gents, in large variety, at

WILSON'S SHOE STORE

Fine Shoes, Boots, Felts, Rubbers, etc., at Lowest Prices. Call early before sizes are broken, and secure your presents.

Yours Truly,

J. N. WILSON & SON,

Auburn and Waterloo.

AT POST'S

This week!

AT POST'S

Great Cut!

AT POST'S

In Ladies'

AT POST'S

and Children's

AT POST'S

Scarlet Underwear

AT POST'S

5c., to 30c off for CASH. A drive in Gents' 4-ply Linen Collars at 10c., worth 25c. All Table Linens ¼ off to close them. Napkins, Towels and Crashes lower than the lowest. All Dress Goods one-fourth to one-half off regular price. These goods must go. We mean just what we say. Call and see us

AT POST'S

Obituary.

Mrs. Sarah J. Henning, daughter of David and Elizabeth Swihart was born Jan 7, 1862, near Garrett, DeKalb county, Ind., and died at her home near Waterloo, Dec. 8, 1890, her age being 28 yrs. 11 months, and 1 day.

When she was about 4 years old her mother died, but in her affection and regard, her step-mother was as near and dear to her, as though she was her own mother. There are two sisters, two brothers and an aged father, who are left with the stricken husband and children to mourn their irreparable loss.

She was joined in marriage with Louis A. Henning, Feb. 26, 1880. To this union three children were born, two boys and one girl; one of which, a little boy preceded her to the better world more than one year ago.

Mrs. H. was naturally of a cheerful, jovial disposition, and much given to looking on the bright side of all lifes interests, and not of a despondent nature.

She held a large place in the affections of all her neighbors and friends; always obliging and very helpful in times of sickness and distress. None are found, but to speak in her praise in the community where she has spent most of her married life. Her married life was one of much happiness, always painstaking in making all comfortable and happy in her home. In her domestic life, she was diligent and leaves many marks of faithful fingers here and there in the home that will remain as reminders to the bereaved ones, of a devoted wife and a loving indulgent mother.

About three years ago she embraced the christian religion and joined the M. E church with the Barker's class of worshipers. Her christian life was not one marked with much demonstration, but more quiet, yet deep and genuine. Her christian graces were more fully illustrated, through her, in her home life where she sought to instill its highest principles into the hearts and minds of her children and admonishing her husband to faithfulness in his Master's service. She manifested a deep interest in the welfare of the church. She loved christian song, and the beautiful hymn, "I need Thee every hour most gracious Lord," was her favorite, and on her last evening on earth she joined with her husband heartily in singing this hymn.

As we look at life we would say, her light went out all too soon, but her work is finished. Heaven is merciful. God is love. The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away.

Her funeral services were held in the Barker Chapel Dec. 10, in the presence of a congregation that could not all gain admission to the house, and her body laid to rest in the cemetery near the Chapel.

"The Talleyramd Memoirs" in The Century.

The Century magazine is running a fast press day and night in order to print the first installment of the delayed "Talleyrand Memoirs" in the January number. This same magazine was the first to print, before its appearance in France, the life and literary remains of the great French artist, Jean Francois Millet, and now The Century is to bring to light, before they appear in any other country, the long-hidden memoirs of the most famous of French diplomatists. This first article will be preceded by what is said to be a brilliant pen-portrait of Talleyrand, by Minister Whitelaw Reid, who has made the selections from the most interesting chapters of the first volume. The first installment of selections from "The Memoirs of Talleyrand," which is to appear in the January Century, will contain a sketch of the author's strange and lonely childhood, an account of his entry into Parisian society, his estimate of La Fayette, some account of the beginnings of the French Revolution, a striking passage concerning the Duke of Orleans; an account of Talleyrand's residence in England and America, and of a most interesting conversation between Talleyrand and Hamilton on the subject of Free Trade and Protection.

Paid in November.

The following subscribers have thanks for various amounts paid in the past month. E. R. Blattner, Joseph Whetsell, Wm. T. Allison, J. W. Jackman, Phillip High, John Barney, Dr. E. L Siver, Laban Brown, A. Bartles, Murray A Smith, J. C. Smurr, John Summerlott, Henry Ernest, S L. Schoup, R. G. Dun & Co., Geo. B. Goetschius, Henry Wilkes, Samuel Lung, G. O. Dennison, E. T. Cochran, N. Griffith, T. P. Scott, S. T. Groff, Henry Lochner, Ellen Keeran, Perry Link, G. W. Dowss. W. H. Rakestraw, S. Swihart, J. W. Boyle, F. Gfeller, Daniel Mottinger, C. A. O. McClellan, W. H. Dills, Jacob Shull, G. L. Hurni, J. R. Metcalf, G. W. Frick, Rev. N. J. Myers, John W. Buss, Henry Stomm, Thomas Chandler, F. C. Bartels, T. C Stafford, Frederick Rohm, W. H. Fair, Henry S. Smith, H. D. Rohm, Sam. A. Squires, Mrs. G. W. Morr, A. W. Meek, N. Friend, Wm. Kruse. Charley Hoff, H. D. Boozer.

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. BELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

6 Per Cent.

MONEY

=

We have a limited amount of money to loan in sums of one thousand dollars and over, on farms in DeKalb county, at six per cent. per annum, interest payable at the end of the year.

Those who want to make a loan should make their application at once.

Call and see us and we will explain fully our plans of loaning.

After January first interest rate will advance. So do not delay, but call at once.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

REAL ESTATE,

AND

LOAN,

AGENTS.

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

IN SELECTING YOUR

CHRISTMAS

PRESENTS

WE WOULD

KINDLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION

TO OUR ELEGANT DISPLAY OF

Fine Dress Flannels and Henriettas,
Fine Silk and Satin Rhadames,
Plush Capes, Jackets and Sacques,
Cloth Newmarkets and Jackets,
Suits and Overcoats,
Hats and Caps,
Chenille Table Covers,
Linen Table Sets,
Fine Napkins,
Towels,
Handkerchiefs,
Silk Umbrellas,
Gloves and Mittens,
Neckwear,
Fichus,
Smyrna Rugs,
Fur Rugs,
Furs, etc., etc.

Kindly favor us with your patronage and you will be pleased.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

In Switzerland, it is said, they will pay higher wages to a milkmaid who can sing to the cows than one who cannot. This is done on the principle that bad treatment of the cow injuriously affects its milk.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

Some men have done really hard mental work while asleep. Condorcet finished a train of calculation in his sleep which had much puzzled him during the day.

The Secret of Success.

Davenport the druggist, believes that the secret of success is perseverance. Therefore he persists in keeping the finest line of perfumeries, toilet articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals on the market. He especially invites all persons who have palpitation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side and shoulder, oppression, nightmare, dry cough, smothering, dropsy or heart disease to try Dr Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, before it is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Fine book of testimonials free. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, fits, etc., and it contains no opiates. 2

The Ceylon pearl fishery, it appears, was a failure last year, the number of pearl oysters collected not more than covering the cost of obtaining them.

A Husband's Mistake.

Husbands too often permit wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co, of Ft Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich.; and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottles and fine book on nervous diseases, free at F. E. Davenport's. 2

A Spartansburg, Pa. man eats his meals in Erie county and sleeps in Crawford county, all in the same house.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Blinders were invented by an English nobleman to cover up the defect of a wall eyed horse, and then they were found to be good places to put on the coats of arms of the nobility, and so they came into fashion.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

Mr d'Auria concludes that the force of the waves which in 1885 moved three feet the superstructure of the breakwater at Oswego Harbor, N. Y., exhibited a force per square foot of 40,500 pounds.

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.

Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

Of the 4,000 and more graduates of the Girl's Normal College of the City of New York, nearly one-half have been teachers in the city schools and one is a commissioner of education.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

The population of foreign descent in North America may be broadly considered as belonging to three races—the African, the Latin and Teutonic Aryan.

A Prominent Farmer.

Mr. Nicholas Wagoner, of Monroe, Ind., gives us the following statement in regard to Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. He says: I have used a great many different kinds of medicines for bronchitis, a disease I have had for the last ten years, and found nothing that would relieve me until I commenced to use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I took ten 50c bottles of this medicine and was entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person that is suffering from this disease.

NICHOLAS WAGONER

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Dec. 12, 1890.

Questions affecting the financial condition of the country are at present absorbing almost the entire attention of congress, and the administration has at last become convinced that something must be done. Opinions differ as to what convinced Mr. Harrison and his cabinet, but it is more than probable that the action of Senator Plum, who in introducing a bill to replace the retired circulation of national banks and providing for the free coinage of silver, stated that it was his intention, if the Federal Election bill was not speedily disposed of to move that it be laid aside and his bill and others relating to financial matters be considered, in order that something might be done to meet the just expectations of the people, had a great deal to do with it. It is an open secret here that the republicans who believe with Senator Plumb—there are lots of 'em—have become greatly dissatisfied at what they consider the waste of valuable time, which the debate on the election bill has taken up, and there have been mysterious hints about their forming a combination with the democrats for the purpose of passing a free coinage bill.

All this has had an alarming effect upon Mr. Harrison and those republicans who have appeared to legislation. The fact of the matter is that at least three-fifths of congress, irrespective of party, have become converted to the ideas of the Farmers Alliance, as far as financial matters are concerned.

There is an evident desire on the part of the administration to prevent the adoption of a free silver coinage bill by congress, by offering something in the place of it, in fact several somethings. One of which is the immediate purchase by the government of the thirteen million ounces of silver bullion now stored in various sections of the United States. If congess gets an opportunity it will certainly authorize this purchase, as the money thus put in circulation would greatly help the money market, but this measure will not be accepted as a substitute for free coinage by the silver men, who are fully aware of their strength in congress.

The apportionment bill which the census committee of the House has reported places the membership of the House at 356, and is generally regarded as a fair measure. And owing to the fact that under it no state loses any members it will be extremely difficult for the democratic leaders to unite their party in opposition to it, even if they are so disposed. At present their only ground, as stated by themselves for opposing it, is, that it does not provide for the increase that New York might be entitled to by a possible recount of the population of New York City and Brooklyn.

The House committees have so far done an enormous amount of hard work, and one of the regular appropriation bills has been passed and three others reported to the House. This is something unusual at this stage of the session, and yet those who ought to be best informed are predicting that an extra session of the fifty-second congress will be absolutely necessary, and the democrats are beginning to make things very interesting in the campaign for the speakership of next House.

The House has refused to adopt the Plumb resolution for the removal of the remains of Gen. Grant to Arlington cemetery.

It has been practically agreed by the pension committees of the House that no special pension legislation shall be passed this session. The idea of revising the present pension rolls is making headway, although nothing may come out of it at this session. It is stated by those who ought to know that many names are fraudulently on those rolls.

Mr. Wanamaker most positively denies the rumor, which was given a fresh start this week, that he is about to fail.

Senator Gorman's statement in speech that the country was standing over a financial volcano may be true but it is considered by many that such a statement should not have been made by a United State senator. The aim of every man of prominence should be to inspire, not destroy confidence in business circles.

Mr. Plumb wants the Senate to meet daily at 10 o'clock and to take a recess from 5:30 to 8 p. m. each day and has offered a resolution to that effect.

Mr. J. W. Hathaway, of Montana, has been elected postmaster of the House of Representatives.

The Conger lard bill, which was condemned by the recent Farmers Alliance convention, has been reported to the Senate by the agricultural committee without recommendations. The Paddock pure food bill will be offered as a substitute for it, and it is thought that the Senate will adopt it.

The republicans of the Senate finance committee are working on a financial measure, which is to be reported to a republican caucus Monday.

Wanted 1000 Ladies!

To call on their druggist. F. E. Davenport, and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption. Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those thta have used it to be the most pleasant to the taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales. SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, 842 Broadway, N. Y.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

A STATISTICIAN estimates that the number of passengers carried each day on all the railroads in the world averages six and a half million.

SARA BERNHARDT has dresses enough to fill forty-eight large trunks. If Sara should get lost in them it would be like looking for a needle in a haystack to find her.

A MICHIGAN man to cure himself of the opium habit smoked cloves until he is a confirmed clove-smoker. There is but one downward step left for him to take and that is to contract the cigarette habit.

IN Paris the simplest form of embalming costs usually 800 francs, but should an autopsy have been performed or death occurring through other than natural causes, a much heavier sum would be incurred, rising in some cases to as much as 5,000 francs.

A GIGANTIC pendulum has been suspended from the center of the second platform of the Eiffel Tower. It consists of a bronze wire 380 feet long, with a steel globe weighing about 198 pounds at the end. Its object is to exhibit the rotation of the earth by the Foucault method.

A MONUMENT is to be erected by the State of Minnesota to commemorate the battles and incidents of the Sioux Indian war of 1862, and especially as they relate to the town of New Ulm. The burning of the town and the massacre of the whites are to be shown in two elaborate bas reliefs.

COPIES of the "poems" of the Sweet Singer of Michigan are so scarce that one of them is worth its weight in gold. Why doesn't Ella Wheeler Wilcox buy up all her editions, publish her verses in one book, and sit down like a real-estate buyer to await the fortune that would be certain to come?

THERE is a growing tendency among chemists to regard the elements as varying arrangements—produced at successive stages in the process of cooling—of one original form of atom. Evidence in favor of the hypothesis is claimed in the fact that some elements seem not to have formed in the sun, while yet more are absent from still hotter stars.

A FRENCHMAN has taken advantage of the big neckties which men are wearing and has constructed a camera which fits perfectly into them. The pin forms the nozzle of the machine, and a tube runs down under the waistcoat and is buttoned just under the lower pocket. The camera can be exposed by this application and by pressing the tube an instantaneous photograph can be taken.

A COMPANY has been formed under the supervision and control of the government for the irrigation of the steppes in South Russia. It proposes to dig canals and to lead water to lands belonging to the government, to various rural constituencies, and to private persons. Several government engineers have been detailed for the services of the company, which will begin work in the Crimea.

THE national flag will be saved from ignoble uses hereafter. According to the new law passed by Congress, any person who shall use the national flag, either by printing, painting, or affixing on it any advertisement for public display or private gain, will be held to be guilty of a misdemeanor, for which the the United States courts may mulct him $50 or send him to jail for a period of thirty days.

THE number of immigrants arriving in the United States during the nine months ending September 30, 1890, exclusive of those from the British North American Possessions and Mexico, and comprising about 99 per cent of the total immigration, as compared with the arrivals of the corresponding period of 1889, was (1889) 339,080 and (1890) 381,399—a gain of 42,319 in 1890. And still there is room for a few more good immigrants.

THE authorities of the Government of Taurida, Russia, have issued an order that women bathing in free waters shall wear bathing suits. The women of Yalteen protest against this order with an energy and unanimity worthy of a better cause; they are preparing a petition to the general government urging the repeal of the order and declaring that the curative powers of the water have no effect upon those that bathe in clothes.

THE official report that the new State of Washington has in six counties 213,000 acres of developed coal lands within a radius of forty miles of tidewater will do much towards determining the character of the State as a manufacturing center. It is by no means probable that these figures represent a moiety of the coal-producing area of the State, and further encouraging developments in the near future may be anticipated.

A SENSATIONAL preacher died some years ago, says the Rocky Mountain News. Often in the excitement of his preaching he would work himself up to such a degree that he would occasionally shed tears, which had a great effect upon his congregation. After his death his sermons were examined by his executors, and it was frequently found in some of his most exciting sermons that he had inclosed in brackets the words, "Cry here."

IF the waiters are in earnest in determination not to have their employers count in tips as a part of their wages, they can easily arrange the whole matter by making it a rule of their association that no member shall receive a fee. Of course when this is once understood the men are put upon a perfectly definite and satisfactory footing with their employers, and the public will not be likely to be incensed at the move. It might be considered, moreover, that the waiters, by refusing to receive gratuities, put themselves upon a self-respecting plane, and consequently one respected by others. It is idle for the waiters to hope to be treated like independent artisans while they extend a catch-penny hand to the tip-giver. Manifestly their only course is either to give up tips and be contented with a fixed and adequate wage, or keep on as they are. They are likely, however, to fail in an attempt to get both.

PLEASANT PARAGRAPHS.

THE foolish man maketh haste to remove his winter flannels, and pneumonia taketh their place.

FIRST newsboy—What's that you're smoking? Second newsboy (who has made a tour of the saloons)—Dat's a Floor del Fumar.

WHAT is it the German philosopher says, "A handsome woman is always right?" "That was the way he said it. I suppose he meant that pretty girls are never left."

PARTICULAR citizen—These new red stamps are not as adhesive as they ought to be." Postal official—I guess you never tried carrying a sheet of them in your pocket on a hot day."

IRATE GUEST—See here, Your advertisement said "no mosquitoes." Summer landlord—There wasn't a mosquito here when that advertisement was written, not one. You must remember I began advertising in April.

"I KNOW why you go down town every night now, William?" "You do?" said the young husband, and his face blanched. "Yes; You're learning to ride. I heard you say in your sleep, "You fellows take what you please, I want a pony."

Strassburg's Wonderful Clock.

Far through all the civilized world stretches the fame of Strassburg's wonderful clock. This clock, which is the second one of its kind put up in Strassburg, was built in 1842, the first one, built in 1573, having fallen into decay. It stands in the south transept of Strassburg Cathedral, and is fifty feet in height by thirty in width. It contains some of the mechanism of the old clock, but is not an exact copy of it.

Tourists crowd the transept, in order to see the automaton procession, at the hour of noon. As the clock strikes twelve the cock flaps his wings and, with apparent effort, gives a feeble, hoarse (it must be confessed), ridiculous crow. Then the procession begins. The apostles are waiting at the door to the left of the upper platform, one by one they cross the stage, pause before the figure of Christ, bow in a jerky fashion, receive the blessing of the uplifted hand, and pass out at the other side of the platform. The second effort of the cock takes place ere the procession is half over, the third when the last apostle has disappeared from view. The central figure on the lower platform holds the bells in balance. Automatic figures appear every fifteen minutes, and cross the stage to strike the hour. A youth is seen at the quarter, a man at the half-hour, while the figure of time with his scythe strikes the full hour.

The clock also tells the times and seasons of ecclesiastical events, so far as they are associated with astronomical phenomena, the phases of the moon, and the equation of time. There is also a celestial circle, or orrery, that shows the motions of the heavenly bodies.

Sad, Solemn Men.

The gentlemen who provide humanity with its last lodging require no cards to designate their calling or to indicate what they are ready to undertake for their defunct fellow-beings. It is written on their faces, in their deportment, on their habiliments—all over them. They are their own cards, as a writer expresses it. If one were to meet an undertaker under the shadow of the pyramids or at Spitzbergen there could be no difficulty in recognizing him as a member of the funeral profession.

Undertakers, as a rule, are moral, estimable men, but they certainly do differ in aspect and manners from the mass of mankind. There is an indescribable air about them, which, for lack of a better word, we must call posthumous. Constant intercourse with the bereaved makes their voices mournful; for your undertaker ever assimilates his tones to those of his afflicted customers, and he thereby acquires a habit of talking as if he had lost all his friends. In like manner the "'havior of his visage" becomes woe-begone past all remedy. His very smiles are only deadly-lively. Then there is a severe plainness about the cut of his black suit which, to say nothing of its melancholy hue, is a rebuke to worldly vanity and a solemn hint that fashion and frivolity are of small account when his duties are to be performed. Nevertheless, the craft is a highly respectable one, and we have not a word to say against it.

What They Learned.

Few manufactured malapropos speeches are so droll as those which little children make without knowing it. The Pittsburgh Bulletin gives the following:

Mamma—Did my darling little Nellie hear the words of the wedding ceremony?

Nellie—Yes, I heard every word.

Mamma—And what did the minister say?

Nellie (glibly)—He said: "We have now entered the holy bands of padlock, and you twine are now one "fish."

The Hartford Post reports another, which, as the Irishman said, is "equally worse."

A little girl, just old enough to enter the infant class at the Sunday school, was ambitious to repeat a text of Scripture as the older ones did at the concert exercises.

In order to humor her ambition and make it reasonably certain that she would succeed, the mother selected the brief text, "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day." and taught her until she rehearsed it several times correctly.

When the supreme moment arrived, however, the little orator electrified her audience and mortified her mother by saying, "It is awful to do good on the Sabbath day."

Fed by an Eagle.

A lady of Newburyport was greatly astonished on Monday to see a live pickerel weighing about one and a half pounds drop in the road at her feet. Glancing upward, she discovered hovering about the spot a large American eagle, which had evidently secured the fish from one of the neighboring brooks and had dropped it. She secured the fish and served it for breakfast the next morning.—Newburyport (Mass.) Herald.

OLD FIGURES AND NEW.

"M'KINLEY PRICES" FOR ENAMELED AND GROUND GLASS.

An Advance of Forty to Seventy-five Per Cent.—The Village Home and McKinleyism—Hard Lot of the Importer in Free America.

The McKinley tariff law continues its work of raising the prices of the things that the people need. The purpose of the law being to do that very thing, the men who passed it are now finding new occasions to rejoice in its success.

A late case that has just come to light is that of enameled and ground glass. This glass is made from the plain sheets used for window glass by grinding figures upon it. There are too kinds of it: what is known in the trade as "clear" and as "obscure." The first is made by grinding figures in the plain, transparent sheets, and the eye can easily distinguish objects through it; the second is made by grinding one surface of the transparent sheet till it loses its transparency, and then the figures are ground upon this surface. The figures are usually squares or diamonds in ornamental designs.

This glass is used mainly for making glass doors in the interior of houses; and much of it goes into the cottages of people of modest means. Much of it is used in village and country houses. It is, therefore, an article which it is to the interest of our people to keep within the reach of their purses. They were paying 45 per cent. tariff tax on this glass up to Oct. 6, but Maj. McKinley, having taken it into his head that "cheap and nasty go together," has put the duty enormously higher, and so the price of it has now become a regular "McKinley price."

A large New York dealer recently showed the writer some samples of this glass and gave him a table of the old prices and the "McKinley prices." The old prices here given are those which prevailed last July, and the "McKinley prices" took effect Nov. 19, or as soon as the stock of glass imported under the old tariff was sold out. The prices here given are the wholesale net prices per 100-foot cases.

Here is the table:

	Old price.	McKinley price.
Single, clear enameled	$ 6.90	$10.80
Double, clear enameled	8.70	15.00
Single, obscure	8.70	12.60
Double, obscure	10.80	16.50
Single, ground	6.00	10.20
Double, ground	7.80	13.80

The cause for these higher prices was explained by the dealer to be the new McKinley duty. What those duties are may be seen by taking a 100-foot case of the last kind of glass in the above table, double-thick ground glass. The old duty on this was $1.35 per case, and it was sold in July at $7.80, and some of it was sold as low as $7. The McKinley duty on such a case is $5.55, and on some of it is as high as $6.85. It is not strange, therefore, that the wholesale selling price has now gone up to $13.80.

The increase of duty does not account for the entire advance, but the other McKinley law, the customs administrative law, explains the difference. This law, which went into operation Aug. 1, compels the importer to pay duties on all glass broken in shipment.

The dealers allow from 10 to 20 per cent. for breakage in this kind of glass, and they must add to their selling price enough to make up for the broken glass and the duties on it. Even the glass broken by the custom-house officers is lost to the dealer, and he must pay the duty on it, too.

Is it any wonder that the importers feel the injustice of such a law? "We talk a great deal about our rights under a free government," said the glass man to the writer; "but we importers find that in this country might makes right. I should like to see you tell a custom-house officer that you ought not to be made to pay duties on the glass that he breaks. He would take you for a fool, and would laugh in your face. We have no rights which the dominant party is bound to respect. It has sold itself to the domestic manufacturers for 'fat,' and they dictate what they want, and the law-makers obediently vote as desired."

A Prosperous Industry.

Our protectionist law-makers have the habit of laying on duties without the slightest regard for the needs of our industries. It is assumed that all industries are helpless without protection; hence, duties are dealt out right and left, and even the most prosperous industries are given protective duties for which there is no shadow of excuse.

The latest number of Bradstreet's, certainly one of the foremost authorities in this countty, has the following to say about our leather industry:

"The cost of tanning hides is cheaper here than in any other country. This is due in large measure to the low cost of materials. We are therefore not only able to tan all our domestic hides but the major part of those produced in Central and South America. We supply European countries with about $900,000 worth of leather each month, and our exports have been increasing rapidly within the last few years, as may be seen from the following table:

Exports.	Pounds sole leather.	Pairs boots and shoes.
1880	21,834,492	378,274
1881	28,030,648	300,968
1882	33,777,711	369,120
1883	28,598,894	442,687
1884	22,421,293	502,122
1885	27,313,766	492,906
1886	24,265,880	554,965
1887	30,530,488	623,714
1888	28,712,673	563,871
1889	35,558,945	518,750

Notwithstanding these growing exports, there is in the McKinley tariff law a duty ranging from 10 to 35 per cent. on leather and manufactures thereof. These duties are almost as absurd as the McKinley duties on corn and wheat.

A Big Protectionist Fails.

The Rittenhouse Manufacturing Company, of Passaic, N. J., has just failed for $800,000. The company was engaged in the manufacture of blankets, woolens, and mixed goods. The President of the company was E. H. Ammidown, who is President of the American Protective Tariff League in New York. Mr. Ammidown has always been one of the highest of high protectionists, and was one of those who wanted the McKinley duties on blankets and woolens.

These duties were greatly increased, which was to Ammidown's advantage; but the duties on wool were also much increased, which was to his disadvantage. It is said that, in anticipation of the increased tariff imposed on wool by Congress, the Rittenhouse Company made heavy purchases last summer which have not proved profitable. These purchases were made on credit as a speculative venture, in view of the certain increase in price of blankets and woolen goods to be caused by the McKinley law.

But other people were speculating at the same time and in a contrary direction. In anticipation of the tariff every merchant who could afford it laid in a good stock of woolens, arguing, as Mr. Ammidown did, that woolens would go higher. The rise in the price of woolens was defeated for a time by the large supplies thus laid in; and Ammidown's wool debts proved too heavy to carry in a tight money market.

In view of these facts, and that the tariff had been made as high as the most ardent protectionist desired it, and that notwithstanding all this his manufacturing company had failed, Mr. Ammidown was asked whether his views upon the tariff on woolens had undergone a change. But this Mr. Ammidown refused to discuss, saying that his advocacy of the high tariff had been from mixed motives, and that while he had once advocated the high tariff he did not care to talk about it now.

Ammidown attributes his failure to the Democratic victory of Nov. 4; but he does not explain how it was that half of the woolen mills of the country were idle last summer before there was any Democratic victory. He will not get intelligent men to believe that he has lost $800,000 since Nov. 4 on account of the election, especially as no change in duties can be made for two or three years yet.

TARIFF LETTERS TO FARMER BROWN.

NO. 10.

Does Protection Increase Wages?

DEAR FARMER BROWN: We saw last week that protection is not necessary to prevent money from "flowing out of the country," since trade consists in exchanging commodities for commodities, and we are only too glad to send away our surplus commodities which we cannot consume, in order to get others which we can consume. That notion of preventing money from flowing out of the country is the protectionist's error No. 1. We come now to error No. 2.

The protectionists assert that the difference of wages between American and European labor puts our manufacturers at a disadvantage in competition with European manufacturers; and that, in order that our manufacturers may be able to sell their goods with profit, they must have a protective duty on European products sufficient to cover this difference of wages. Here is where the protectionists in this country rest the weight of their case; here they make their fight. Hence the vast amount of rubbish that they give us about the "pauper labor of Europe," "cheap, pauper-made goods," and "men who eat meat only once a week." To read this dreary stuff one would suppose that Europe were one vast poor-house.

These people do not seem to perceive that they push their case too far. If Europe is so crowded with paupers, all the greater is our ability to compete with them. The man who is so poor that "he eats meat only once a week" is necessarily a very poor workman and produces less than a well-paid and well-fed laborer; for a man is like a steam engine—you must throw in fuel liberally if you want results. Are you afraid of the competition you meet from the poor-house farm? It is reported that an English officer in the Peninsular War spurred his soldiers on to the attack by saying: "Are you Englishmen, who eat beef, afraid of Spaniards, who eat oranges?" That the man who gets good wages and has an abundance of good food is the most efficient laborer is proven by the observations of the pains-taking statisticians.

The claim of the protectionists that protection raises wages can be shown to be false in two ways: first, by taking as examples those countries which have protective tariffs and comparing them with other countries which have no protection; and secondly, by showing from the laws of production and distribution of wealth that protection cannot raise wages.

First as to examples. When we select examples to support a statement, we must always have regard to the little words frequently used in this connection, "other things being equal." The countries compared must themselves be equal, so far as possible, as to density of population, unused land, and in other features not necessary to mention here. The protectionists can never be prevailed upon to make such a comparison fairly and fully. They always insist upon selecting our own country, with its vast amount of unoccupied land, and making a comparison between it and the densely populated countries of Europe, where there is no government land to be taken up, and where even the roadsides are seldom suffered to go to waste. Every man naturally prefers to work for himself, and as long as land can be had cheaply men will become land-owners, and thereby not only take their own labor out of the labor market, but they will become employers of other men, and thus further reduce the number of competing laborers who might otherwise seek employment in manufacturing industries. On the contrary, in a country which has so much unoccupied land in reserve the entire increase of population must find employment in existing industries, or, if possible, must create new industries.

The countries affording an adequate comparison are such as England, France and Germany. It is a well-known fact that in "free trade England" wages by the day or week are much higher than in "protected" France or Germany. Protectionists themselves admit this when they are not discussing the subject of wages and protection. Only last winter a Philadelphia manufacturer of glassware confessed before the McKinley committee that the wages in his particular industry were twice as high in England as in Germany. If protection increases wages, how does it happen that Germany has not succeeded in getting wages up to the English standard?

Nor will it do for the protectionists to answer that we have got ours up to the English standard and beyond it; for we had higher wages than England before we had any protection. Even when we were yet colonies we were paying higher wages than England, and were sending pig iron to that country and successfully competing with English iron makers, notwithstanding the fact that England at that time had a protective duty on iron.

It is a fact which the protectionists themselves are fond of calling our attention to, that even in colonial days England prohibited rolling and slitting mills in the iron industry of America. The long-established concerns of England, with their "pauper labor" and protective duties in addition, found themselves unable to compete successfully with the free-trade American colonies and their dearer labor. Is it not, then, a very cheeky thing for the protectionists to claim that protection is the cause of our higher wages?

The only comparison that is worth anything between the wages of two countries is a comparison of the labor cost of commodities, not one of wages by the day or week. It is always this latter form of comparison that the protectionists insist on making. Of course, we pay higher wages by the day or week, but as our labor produces more than European labor, the actual labor cost of production is less with us than in Europe. An official report from the United States Labor Commissioner shows, for example, that the labor cost of producing a ton of steel rails from the steel bars in this country is $1.54 in one mill and $1.38 in another; that in England the like cost is $1.36 in one mill and $2.54 in another; that on the Continent of Europe the cost in several mills is $1.04, $2.51, $2.97, and $4.64.

And now as to the second point, the laws which control the production and distribution of wealth. Everybody knows that it is an inexorable law that competition forces down prices, and nobody knows this better than the protected manufacturers who combine and form trusts for the purpose of stifling competition. The men who have commodities to sell want first of all to cut off competition from—not from some other commodities that are different—but from commodities of the same kind. The hat-manufacturer wants no competition from foreign hats, hence he asks for a protective duty on hats, not one on hatchets; and the manufacturer of saws cares nothing for a duty on eggs. Like competes with like, hats with hats, and saws with saws; shut off competition from the outside on hats and saws and the home price will go up.

But the laborer has no hats and saws for sale, nor any other commodities; he has only his services. If he refuses to sell his services at a satisfactory price other laborers stand ready to underbid him. There is no duty on labor; our ports are open to the mighty stream that flows in from Europe. The population is growing rapidly from the natural increase, and no part of it so rapidly as the laboring population. There is thus a rapidly increasing number of laborers offering their services in the labor market and obliged to sell their toil under the law of supply and demand. Where laborers are scarce wages will be high, but as the number of laborers increases competition for work grows sharper, and wages become lower. Like competes with like, and no protective duty on commodities ever prevented competition in the labor market. Labor competition goes on all the same, and as no duties on commodities can prevent this competition of labor with labor, no such duties can raise wages.

Nobody knows this simple fact better than laborers themselves, hence the enormous growth in late years of labor organizations for the purpose of enforcing their demands for higher wages. The regulations of these organizations are shaped with a view to preventing labor competition. In no industries is the fight of the workmen for higher wages more determined and better organized than in the highly protected industries.

One of the most highly protected industries in this country is the window glass manufacture, the average duties paid on imported window glass being considerably over 100 per cent.; and yet the American glass workers have one of the most compact, well-organized associations among all our labor organizations. They have the most cast-iron rules for limiting the number of apprentices in each factory, in order thus to keep down labor competition among themselves. The owners of the factories want as many apprentices as possible, so as to increase this labor competition and thus make wages lower. On this point the workmen make a vigorous fight, and no increase of apprentices can be made without their consent. The workmen are too sensible to trust to the high protective duties on glass to keep their wages high.

When the protectionists speak of increasing the wages of labor they forget that the word labor must include all the people of this country who work in all occupations, and that the number engaged in protected industries is very small as compared with those in non-protected industries. The so-called "protected" laborers are hardly more than five in every hundred workers.

Now let us suppose that protection raises the wages of five, or even ten, workers in every hundred. These higher wages are possible solely by reason of the higher prices which the mill-owners are able to charge for their goods on account of the protective duty. But even if we assume that all this increased price goes to the ten laborers, what happens to the other ninety laborers? They are compelled to buy these goods at higher prices. Buy them with what? With money. Where do they get this money? By laboring for it. But if you make the price of goods higher, the labor of these ninety men will buy less of them. In other words, you reduce their wages; the loss to the ninety men will outweigh the supposed gain to the ten, and the total result to the hundred men cannot possibly be a gain—it is certain to be a loss.

I deny, however, that the ten men get any permanent advantage from protection; for, in the first place, there is no law which compels the protected manufacturer to divide his gains with his men; and, in the second place, even if protection should raise the wages of the ten, this increase could be but temporary, for some of the ninety would at once begin to bid for the more profitable labor. Thus the general tendency is toward a common level of wages, allowing, of course, for the differing degrees of skill and training required. Even if the Government, therefore, should vote a certain sum to be applied to increasing the wages of the ten "protected" men they would not receive any permanent advantage from such an appropriation, for a portion of the ninety would become applicants for work in the favored industry. Competition for work would become very sharp, and the result would be that the employers would have to pay less and less from their own pockets, and the wages of the laborers would remain the same. You cannot raise the level of water in the bays and harbors without first raising the level of the ocean, and certainly you cannot raise the level of the ocean by raising the bays and harbors.

I conclude then that of all the humbug claims put forward in defense of protection, the most transparently false and absurd is the claim that protection raises wages. Yours truly,

RICHARD KNOX.

A Living French Novel.

What does a young girl know of life save what she hears and reads?

I would rather take an innocent young creature through the worst part of New York City at midnight than put bad books into her white hands. There is little romance or allurement in naked human vice, but vice clothed with a poet's fancy, beautified by the imagination, is another sort of thing.

There is so much in a girl's commencing right in the things she reads. It is often the making or marring of her whole future life.

There are women today 40 years old still living in the pernicious books they read. They started with bad books in their teens. They follow bad heroines, and may, according to their now diseased minds, find themselves an improvement on the creatures they imitate. They are, if not actively vicious, silly, unnatural creatures whom everybody ridicules and no one respects. I know a young woman who has been acting out French novels all her days to the best of her ability, with the result of dressing like a guy when she means to be artistic, acting like a coarse woman when she means to be a siren, and talking absurdities when she means to be enchanting.—Atlanta Constitution.

UNDER the old tariff law the duty on silver-gray tissue paper was 15 per cent. ad valorem, and the selling price of it was $1.17 per ream. The McKinleyites placed an additional duty of 8 cents a pound on it, and now the selling price is $1.75 per ream. If the foreigner pays the tariff tax, as McKinley claims, the price of this paper ought not to have advanced for the American consumer.

THE McKinley duty on hats of fur and felt is 55 per cent. The old duty was 30 per cent., or an increase of 50 per cent.

GUN-BARRELS paid 10 per cent. under the old law; they now pay 45 per cent, which is an increase of 350 per cent.

PLAIN ivory buttons, which paid 25 per cent duty under the old law, now pay 50 per cent.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.
My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.
MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.
JOHN T. MISH.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend this medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE
COURIER.

ADVICE TO SANTA CLAUS.

UNDER the brow of the mountain
Nestles a quaint little town,
Into whose old-fashioned chimneys,
Mossy, and broken, and brown,
Santa Claus, dear old marauder,
Christmas Eve always comes down.

Fleet are his mythical reindeer,
Swift, as though gifted with wings,
Bearing their bountiful burden
Of the most beautiful things,
Gathered from earth and from ocean,
That the dear saint always brings.

Yet, though he loves all the children,
Some of them must be his pets;
There are those, orphaned and lonely,
He almost always forgets,
Whose little stockings are empty,
Whose hearts are filled with regrets.

Santa Claus, I always fancied
You were excessively nice;
That your ideas were quite perfect,
And your kind heart beyond price;
If so, 'twill surely not pain you
To take a woman's advice.

Seek first the poor little wee ones,
Loveless, and lone, and distressed;
Fill up their stockings with treasures,
Gather their thanks to your breast.
Then we will crown you King Christmas,
Of all kings dearest and best.

JONAS' XMAS PRESENT.

BY ISABEL HOLMES MASON.

THE lights of the little church on the hillside shining invitingly in the gloom, made the semicircular grove behind it look dark shadowy on that Christmas Eve. The pines whispered, and the spruce and fir trees nodded confidentially toward the lighted windows, for a chosen member of their family stood inside the church, the "observed of all observers," ready to shower its Christmas fruitage presently upon the expectant hearts and hands of the gathering.

All Millville was out, even to blind Joe, who could feel the Christmas gladness even if he could not see it, and who was sure also of a goodly number of presents. There were the youth and "small fry" of both sexes, the blacksmith, miller, grocer and doctor, and, not least, the minister and his bride of three months, a pretty little brown-eyed creature sitting in a front pew beside her husband, her radiant countenance crossed now and then by a shade of anxiety as she glanced down the aisle at the stern face of Jonas Hideaway. There he sat in the midst of the buzz and hum of half a dozen beehives, silent and unsmiling, with his fur coat folded across his knees, caring for nobody, and nobody caring for him seemingly.

"He's like a death's head at a feast," the doctor remarked to his wife.

"Yes. I wonder what brought him out?

"He wants to save himself from petrifaction, I suppose," returned the Doctor dryly.

"It's a shame he is so hard toward Prissy," said the lady warmly. "He might afford to forgive her before doomsday, I think. Of course she was foolish to go off and marry the son of her father's worst enemy, but the poor thing was starving for affection, I suppose. She's in actual want now since her husband has been sick, and there's her father alone in that big comfortable house, and with money in the bank. But she'd starve before she'd ask him for anything."

"Ain't Jonas Hideaway cross?" queried Nat, the miller's boy, of Tom Wilcox. "Jyp is scared to death when she meets him. You ought to have heard her whine when she went with me up there on an errand."

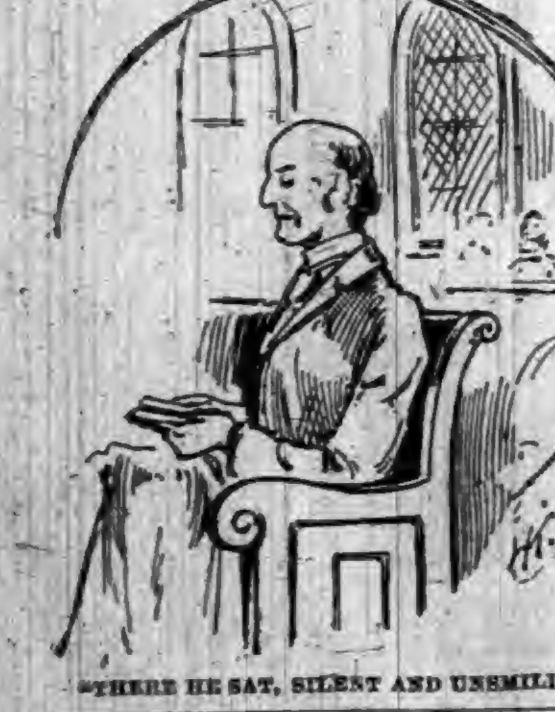
"He don't do nothin' but read books," returned Tim. "He's got a room full of them. Books must be poor company all the time."

"He needs to be shook up a spell in a grist mill."

"Mill? He don't care for grists. He feeds on books."

"Yes; he's a bookworm. The minister said so," assented Nat, solemnly.

"The minister's wife is lookin' at him.



"THERE HE SAT, SILENT AND UNSMILING."

Hain't she a daisy? I'm goin' to her class in Sunday school," said Tim.

"Mother says she won't teach no class. She's too much of a baby."

"Baby? I guess she ain't no baby!"

Other comments were being made upon the lady in question.

"There's no denying she has a pretty face," Mrs. Tallboy, the blacksmith's sister, assented, "but she'll never make a minister's helpmate. He might as well have married Josie's doll there."

"I'm not so sure of that," returned the blacksmith. "See her face. She'll smile folks straight to heaven while the parson is hammering away on the gospel anvil in his slow way."

"Her voice is sweet as a bobolink's," blind Joe whispered on the other side of Mrs. Tallboy.

"Yes, she's trained herself to speak soft," assented the lady, who was of the masculine order of women. "Men always see such women cross-eyed. Seth, here, was always an idiot about a pretty face."

A long wicker basket which hung low on the tall Christmas tree was the subject of much comment and conjecture. Very few were aware of the treasure with which it was freighted, or that it was watched stealthily through the half open door near the desk by a pair of soft, dark, anxious eyes.

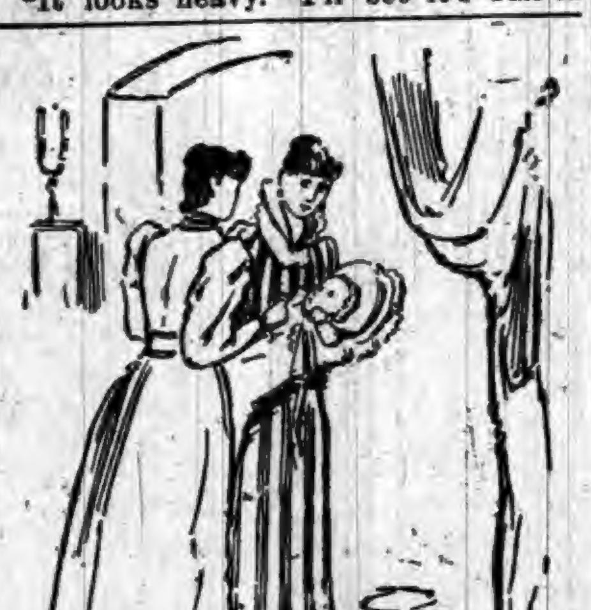
A jolly-faced Santa Claus commenced to unload the tree. The din waxed louder as name after name was called. Blind Joe was heaped with presents. The minister's wife had a lap full, but a good share of her attention was bestowed upon that wicker basket, she being opposite to it.

"Mr. Jonas Hideaway!"

Everybody stared and wondered as Santa Claus drew the mysterious basket from the bough gingerly.

"Why, it's for Jonas!" was breathed in concert all over the church.

"It looks heavy. I'll bet it's full of bricks." Nat hazarded.



"I OWE THIS ALL TO YOU."

"Bricks is all he deserves," assented Tim, oracularly.

"Mr. Jonas Hideaway!" Santa Claus called again with special emphasis.

The owner of the name did not budge, whereupon Santa Claus marched down the aisle with the basket and set it upon the coat folded across Jonas' knees. With something between a growl and an exclamation he lifted the wicker cover.

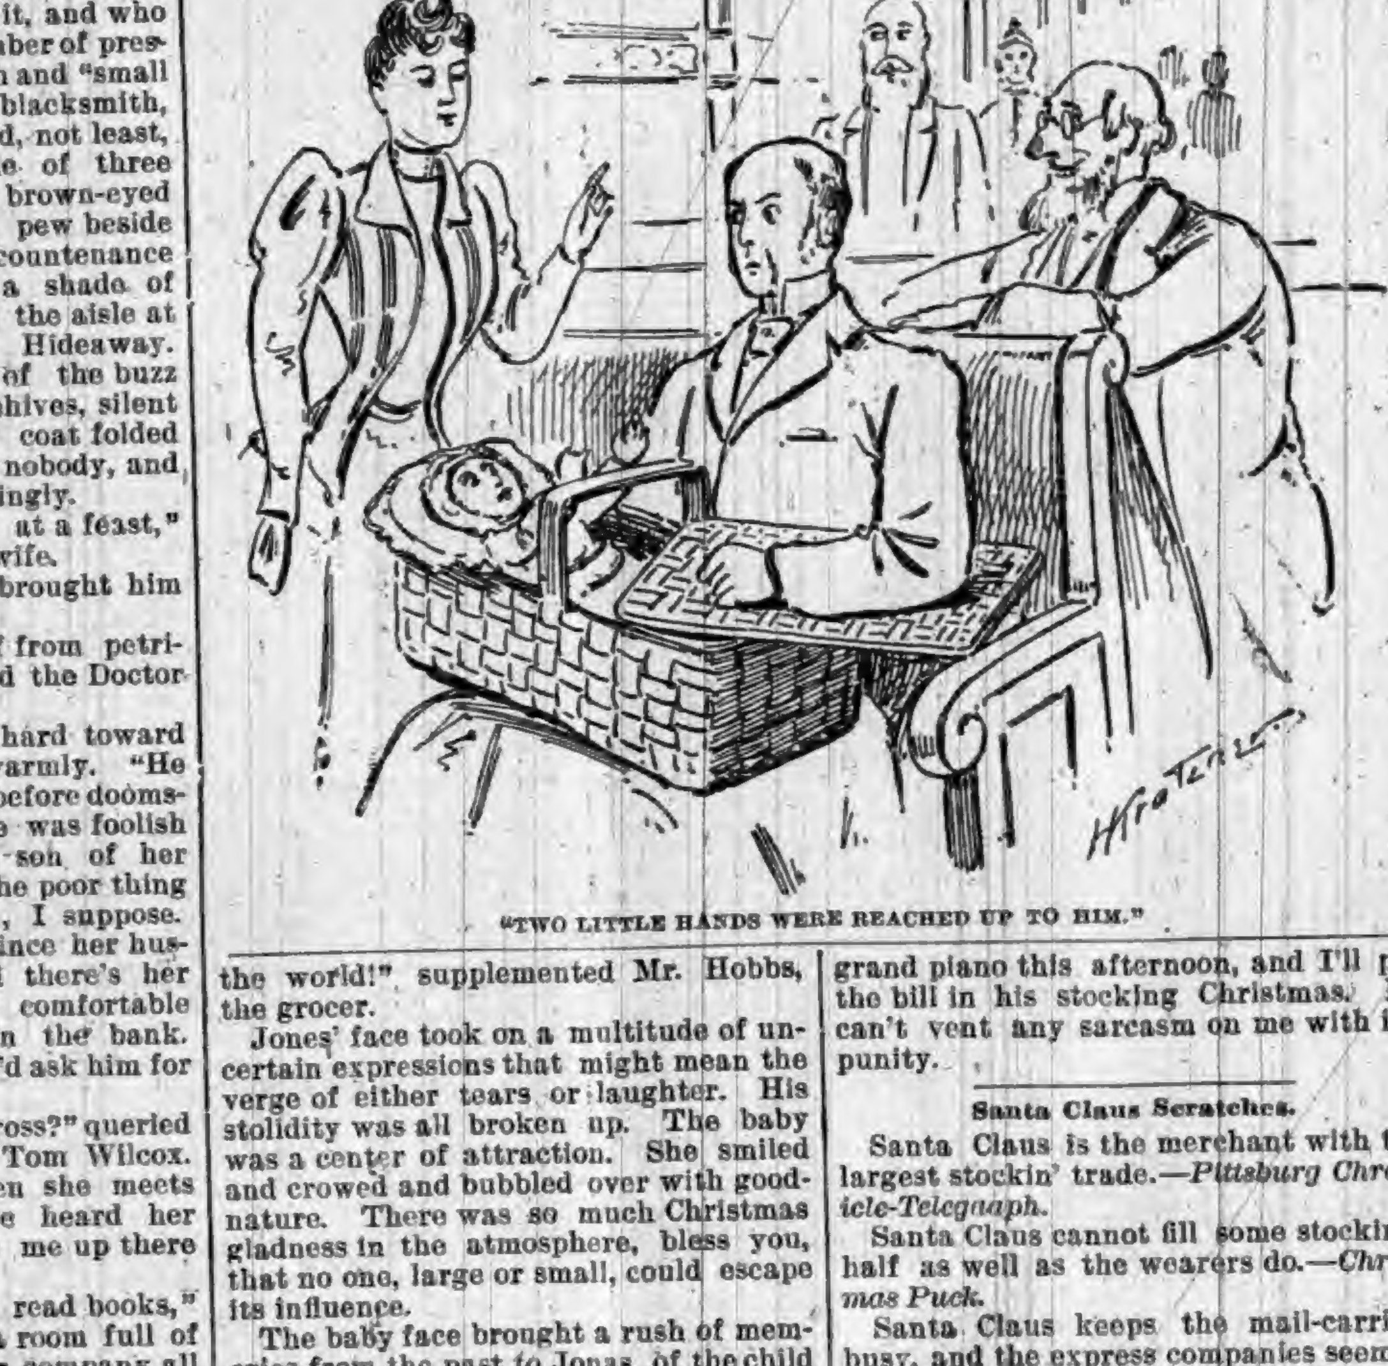
Was it the face of a lovely doll half hidden in lace and lawn and pink ribbons that he looked down upon? The light was not the brightest in that corner, and there was a strange film over his eyes, but surely it seemed to breathe, and its weight upon his knees was like flesh and blood! Jonas sat helpless under the burden, dimly conscious that the hubbub around him was stilled suddenly.

In the midst of his bewilderment, a pair of large dark eyes opened slowly. Jonas felt an unusual stir in the region of his heart. The eyes were regarding him steadily with a curious little pucker of the brows. After a few moment's inspection, two little hands were reached up to him, and three fingers closed tightly around the thumb of the hand that steadied the basket.

"If she don't look sweet enough to eat!" said Susie Baker, leaning over his left arm.

"She's the dead image of Prissy when she was a baby," declared motherly Mrs. Nesbit above his shoulder.

"She's got your nose, Squire, sure as the world!" supplemented Mr. Hobbs, the grocer.



"TWO LITTLE HANDS WERE REACHED UP TO HIM."

Jones' face took on a multitude of uncertain expressions that might mean the verge of either tears or laughter. His stolidity was all broken up. The baby was a center of attraction. She smiled and crowed and bubbled over with good-nature. There was so much Christmas gladness in the atmosphere, bless you, that no one, large or small, could escape its influence.

The baby face brought a rush of memories from the past to Jonas, of the child he had held in his arms long ago, when the tenderness of fatherhood had first dawned upon his heart, and of the sweet young wife and mother whom, a month later, he had laid away forever. He recalled his bitterness and rebellion against his lot, his hardness toward the child for whose sake he had been bereaved, and the increasing coldness of the years, with no wifely touch to soften the strong, stern, uncompromising qualities which predominated in his nature.

The fountains of the great deep were broken up now. Tears forced themselves slowly from his eyes and fell upon the baby's cheek. Its smile died, and it looked up into his face with the mysterious, searching eyes of babyhood. He lifted it from its warm nest and held its soft cheek against his.

"He has a heart, after all," said the Doctor's wife, with a movement of her handkerchief across her eyes.

"Heart!" echoed the Doctor. "He buried it with his young wife long ago, but it looks now like a resurrection."

Jonas looked up, to meet the moist shining eyes of the minister's wife. Some instinct taught him her share in this matter.

"Where is the child's mother?" he asked, brokenly.

The little lady turned and drew Prissy, pale and trembling, from her covert behind the brawny, big-hearted blacksmith, where she had stood watching her darling crowd its way into her father's heart and arms.

"Prissy, my child!"

"Oh, father! father!"

"Don't you want to take charge of my Christmas present?" he asked, with a mighty effort at self-control. "The whole house up there is at your disposal —and hers. I will send for—your husband."

The baby's face had a baptism of happy tears this time, as its mother carried it into the ante-room where she had watched the experiment. She was followed by the minister's wife and others.

"I owe this all to you," she said, gratefully, to the doll wife.

"I knew he was good as gold, away down," returned the little lady, softy.

How the glad Christmas bells rang in the air around Jonas' old homestead that night! How peacefully the angels of good-will brooded over the slumber of the inmates!

Christmas "Bran Pie."

Perhaps everybody has heard of "bran pie," but if there is somebody who hasn't, the description may not come amiss.

A tub is to be used for the dish, the size to depend on the probable number of the gifts, and clean bran for the lining and the crust. In other words, the tub may be half filled with the bran, and then the presents neatly covered with brown paper, tied and labeled, placed in the bran, here, there, and everywhere, so as to require as much hunting for hidden treasure as possible, and finally a covering of bran put over the whole.

Those who are to be served with this very substantial sort of a Christmas pie surround it in a circle, each in turn drawing out a bundle from the all-enveloping bran. If the drawer of a prize finds his own name written on the bundle, he keeps it, but if it is the name of some other member of the party, he returns it to the pie, and waits until his turn to draw comes round again.

A good deal of amusement may be added if an appropriate motto or proverb be written on each bundle; for instance, with an embroidered needle-book, the words, "A stitch in time saves nine;" with a calendar, "Take time by the forelock," and so on.

Christmas Customs.

The small boys make it a point to attend Sunday school in force.

Nobody notices the old maid when she gets under the mistletoe.

The schoolteacher spares the rod from about Dec. 1 until the holidays are over.

Little Johnnie always makes a noise, even though it puts a hole in the head of his new drum.

Uncle 'Rastus feels in honor bound to pay a nocturnal visit to the hen-houses of all his neighbors.

The married man has not only to pay for the present he gives his better half, but for the one his wife gives him.

Santa Claus is almost as blind as his little friend Cupid. The old man seldom sees the chimneys of the poor.

A dog which was given a collar and chain, and tied up all day and night, failed to appreciate his Christmas present.

The mistletoe is always hung up on the chandelier because it is not necessary to have any one out on the stairs or in other dark places.

The tin soldiers the small boys get are more bloodthirsty than they look. When they fight they show no quarter, and it isn't long before the whole army is annihilated.—Judge.

"Peace on Earth, Good-Will Toward Men."

Mrs. Humble—Have you any idea what you will have for Christmas presents?

Mrs. Goahead—Well, yes; and I'll just make it hot for the giver too. My husband had a box sent to the house yesterday, and I opened it before he came home.

Mrs. Humble—What was in it, dear?

Mrs. Goahead—A pair of doeskin dress-trousers, a wooden crown and scepter, a receipt for one year's membership to the woman's suffrage union, and a card that said, "A Merry Christmas to my Darling Little Wifey."

Mrs. Humble—What are you going to do about it?

Mrs. Goahead—Do? I bought a sealskin cloak, a set of diamonds and a grand piano this afternoon, and I'll put the bill in his stocking Christmas. He can't vent any sarcasm on me with impunity.

Santa Claus Scratches.

Santa Claus is the merchant with the largest stockin' trade.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Santa Claus cannot fill some stockings half as well as the wearers do.—Christmas Puck.

Santa Claus keeps the mail-carriers busy, and the express companies seem to have been made expressly for him.—New Orleans Picayune.

A great argument in favor of bachelorhood is that nowhere doth it appear that there ever existed a Mrs. Santa Claus.—Yonkers Statesman.

Santa Claus says that the modern chimneys are a nuisance, as they land him away down in the cellar in a red-hot furnace, and half the time the cellar door is locked.—Dansville Express.

"Sunder Claus" in the Rhine Countries.

The advent of the patron saint of children is variously observed throughout the world. In the Rhine countries, he is "Sunder Claus," and some one fittingly arrayed impersonates him for the amusement of the children. The night before he is supposed to descend the chimney with his generous store of gifts the little ones may be heard singing:

Dear Santa Claus, for the children's sakes,
Bring us nuts and sugar cakes;
Throw them into my apron here.
And help to swell the Christmas cheer.

He Will Hang Up Both Stockings.

"Mamma," asked Dick, plaintively, "am I all the children we've got?"

"Yes, dear," answered mamma, smiling at his curious plural and pronoun.

"Then," said Dick, with decision, "I shall hang up both stockings next year so they'll just touch the floor easy, and ask Santa Claus to please put a foot in each, with a little brother onto 'em. I'm tired of playing I'm a family all the time."—Time.

The Alsatian "Christ-Child."

In France, it is the Jesus bain-bin, Christ-child, who comes. Among the Alsatians a beautiful young girl personates this character, and with a bell in one hand and sweetmeats in the other, she goes about the village distributing the coveted gifts among the children.

"Editing" Hotel Bills.

A friend of mine, who was for some time a city editor of one of the New York papers, went over to Europe last summer and made "the grand tour." In telling me some of his experiences he remarked that he had taken his "blue pencil" along with him, and had found it very valuable. "In Italy particularly," said he, "I made extensive use of it in 'editing' my hotel bills. The rascally landlords would charge me for carriages, wines sent to my room, dozens and dozens of candles and all sorts of things I never enjoyed.

"Of course I did not propose to pay for what I had never become acquainted with, so I simply used to obliterate the improper charges with a broad blue line. Of course you never receive your hotel bill over there until the proprietor thinks he has left you just about sufficient time to pay it hurriedly and then scamper off to catch your train.

"I always announced that I proposed leaving by a train earlier than the one I actually intended to take, and then when my bill was presented, apparently at the last moment, I would calmly begin revising it as if I had hours before me. That versatile individual, the porter, would become almost frantic in his endeavor to have me get through so as to make my train.

"He would fairly dance about me and gesticulate like a Delsartian gone mad, but I never minded it; my big blue pencil gave me confidence as it ploughed its way through the yard-long bills. As I invariably missed the train the kind porter, who was interested in my convenience, and the enterprising landlord, who was interested in my pocket, looked almost as blue as my bill after I had finished with it. The odd thing was that I never had any trouble in settling these 'edited' bills at the proper amounts. There were protests, of course, but they never were persisted in in the face of my blue pencil."—New York Star.

Embarrassed in a Tunnel.

Perhaps they were not so much interested in each other as they seemed to be, but they were both young and she was pretty, and every one in the car got the idea into his head that they were a good deal in love with each other. At any rate, shortly after the train left the station only two people were talking, and these two were the young man and the young woman. All the rest were just watching.

"There is a tunnel a little way up the road," he said, trying to appear self-possessed, but looking a little guilty.

"Is there?" she said, blushing faintly and loooking out the window.

"I suppose it's about a mile long. I don't know, though," he added hastily; "it might be less."

"I've been through snowsheds out West," she answered, "that took seven minutes to go through."

"Oh, this is less than two minutes long," he said. Their glances happened to meet, and they both turned their eyes quickly.

Every one in the car was now in breathless suspense, for the tunnel was near.

"Tunnels are such"—but the sentence was lost in the rush of wind and the clanging of the bell as the train went rushing through the blackness. There was that sudden roar that comes at such times, a dark shadow over the car and then a yellow light, for the lamps were burning, turned down low enough to be unobserved in the daylight, but with the flame which gathered life underground. And the two young people looked at each other with startled eyes. It wasn't so bad after all. Perhaps no one likes a tunnel under such circumstances. There are so many idiotic people in the world. Some hard-hearted wretch snickered. That was all, but it was bad enough for two people who sat in the same seat.

Too Great Tyranny.

A young lady of one of our suburbs who married recently and went to a Connecticut city to live reports a remark on the part of a servant girl which is quite epic in that line, says the Boston Transcript. The lady, having a large house and being desirous of running it in good form, called up her cook each day to the dining-room (which was on the main floor, the kitchen being in the basement) and there gave her her orders for the meals and other matters connected with the down-stairs work. For a day or two the cook took the orders with a rather bad grace, but committed no overt act of insurrection. But presently, one day after the mistress had finished her orders, the cook spoke up:

"And now, mum," she said, "I want ye to listhen to what I have to say, an' it's this: That, if ye're go'an' to shtay here, an' ye have ordhers to give me, ye'll have to come downshtairs to the basement, for I'll not be comin' up here to ye anny more."

Before the young mistress could recover her breath after that "if ye're go'an' to shtay" the girl went on:

"An' there's another thing I want to tell ye: I notice that ye have wine on the tebble, aich day, but that none of it whatever gets down shtairs to the kitchen. Now, that's naythur roight nor fair, an' I give ye warnin' that some of that wine must find its way to the kitchen or I'll be lavin' ye."

The mistress had by this time recovered her composure. "You may be lavin' me this afternoon, please," she said.

A Policeman's Fist Cowed Him.

The Buffalo policeman of whom this story is told is a big handsome fellow, with the brawn of a Hercules, and more grit than can be found in a plate of restaurant baked beans. A couple of nights ago he had arrested a desperate character, who was wanted for a serious crime. Having handcuffed him he was taking him to the station. They had reached one of the most lawless parts of the city when the prisoner said: "D——n you. It's good thing for you that you've got these 'comealongs' on me, or you'd never get me to the station—you or no other man."

"I wouldn't?" replied the officer. "It only takes a minute to take them off." With that he pulled out the key, took off the bracelets, and put them in his pocket. "Will you come now?" said the officer, doubling up a fist like a Westphalia ham and advancing a step or so forward.

"Oh, if you are going to fight, I'll come," said the thoroughly cowed "crook." The officer looked at him a moment with disgust, and then taking him by the collar led the meekest man in the States to the station like a delinquent schoolboy.

A NEWSPAPER writer flippantly refers to Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Empress of India, "as her nibs the Queen." Is this because she is so careful of her pen(ce)?

Pioneer in Edge Tools.

There had been some progress in the colonies since 1731 in the secondary manufacture of their native iron. The chief branch of this industry was the conversion of bars into nail-rods at the "slitting mills," as they were called.

These nail-rods were dovetailed into many sorts of domestic manufactures. Small nails, indeed, could be imported cheaper than they could be made by hand, but ordinary nails and spikes were the common offwork of blacksmiths.

Old diaries show many days spent in nailmaking. Farmers, too, would employ their winter evenings in shaping rods into nails by the fireside. To supply the nail-rods there were, in 1650, two slitting mills in Middleboro, one in Hanover, one in Milton, and Massachusetts had one plating forge with a tilt hammer and one steel furnace.

With the tilt hammer iron bars would be worked into anchors and various forgings needed in shipbuilding. This was one of the industries which the British manufacturers were determined to destroy, and the act of 1750 prohibited the erection of slitting mills in the colonies.

The most conspicuous American iron worker in the eighteenth century was Hugh Orr, of Bridgeport. He was the pioneer in the fabrication of edge tools. He introduced the trip hammer, and the manufacture of scythes and axes followed.

In the year 1748 he made 500 stand of arms for the province. It is worth remembering that Orr was very serviceable to the cololonists by casting and boring cannon during the revolution.

Fed Too Much.

"I have formed a settled conviction that the world is fed too much. Pastries, cakes, hot bread, rich gravies, pickles, and pepper sauces are all discarded from my 'bill of fare,' and I firmly believe they will be from the recipes of the twentieth century. Entire wheat flour bread, vegetables, fruit, fish, with a little meat, and milk as the chief drink, will distill in the alembic of the digestive organs, into pure, rich, feverless blood, electric but steady nerves, and brains that can 'think God's thoughts after Him,' as they have never yet been thought. This is my recipe: Plain living and high thanking, and this my warning: With high living you will get exceedingly plain thinking. Yours for stomach right."—Francis E. Willard.

A Point in Manliness.

Learn to be a man of your word. One of the most disheartening of all things is to be associated in an undertaking with a person whose promise is not to be depended upon; and there are plenty of them in this wide world—people whose promise is as slender a tie as a spider's web.

Let your given word be as a hempen cord, a chain of wrought steel, that will bear the heaviest sort of strain. It will go far toward making a man out of you; and a real man is the noblest work of God; not a lump of moist putty, molded and shaped by the last influence met with that was calculated to make an impression, but a man of forceful, energized, self-reliant, and reliable character, a positive quantity that can be calculated upon.

Business Education.

Educate your sons and daughters by sending them to the Bryant & Stratton Chicago Business College, Short-hand Institute, and English Training School, located at the corner of Washington street and Wabash ave, Chicago, Ill. This is the great Business University of America, and the only college with which the world-renowned firm of Bryant & Stratton are personally connected. Send 10 cents to pay postage on, magnificent 112 page catalogue, 9½x12 inches, printed on finest enameled paper, and illustrated with thirty elegant full-page engravings.

They Thrive.

"If 1,000 professional snake-killers should begin work to-morrow," says a Harrisburg paper "and not lose a single day far the next fifty years, it is doubtful if they could rid this state of its rattlesnakes and those of other varieties. We have a climate in which they thrive."

PURE soap is white. Brown soaps are adulterated with rosin. Perfume is only put in to hide the presence of putrid fat. Dobbins' Electric Soap is pure, white and unscented. Has been sold since 1865.

Calling Him Off.

Indignant Bicyclist—Madam, your dog snaps at me every time I pass. Here he comes now. [Starts off.]

Old Lady—Sport! Sport! you foolish dog! Come here. Them ain't bones. Them's legs.—New York Weekly.

This century has produced no woman who has done so much to educate her sex to a thorough and proper knowledge of themselves as Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham.

Two Points of View.

Single Man—Poor George! He fell in love with a beautiful girl who cared nothing for him, and he has finally gone crazy.

Married Man—The fool!—New York Weekly.

MAMMA, your little girl grows more pale and thin each day. It needs Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyer. Get her some before it is too late.

"Do you enjoy good health?" asked Cross. "Why, yes, of course. Who doesn't?" replied Boss tersely.

FOR A DISORDERED LIVER try BEECHAM'S PILLS.

A MEMORIAL statue is to be erected to the martyr William Tyndall on the Thames embankment in London.

COUGH AND COLDS. Those who are suffering from Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, etc., should try BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Sold only in boxes.

"ORDER slate" is the injudicious advice suspended before certain coal offices.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address F. CHANDLER, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Charlie Usually Does.

One of the most unnecessary remarks ever made by human lips—from the cold-blooded outsider's point of view—is the young bride's tender injunction as she stands in the doorway with her arms twined lovingly around her husband's neck and says:

"Now, do take care of yourself until you get home again, won't you, Charlie, dear?"—Somerville Journal.

LADIES, attention! If any readers of this paper are wearing the shoulder cape, now in fashion, we hereby advise them to make dog blankets of them—or throw them to the dogs—and adopt a more sensible and safer outer garment. These abominable abridgements of hygenic decency invite intercostal neuralgia, lumbago, pleurisy, rheumatism, consumption and pneumonia, and already promise to make more business for physicians than any other folley or fashion for a long time.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

The Dear Girl's Mistake.

"How do you tell when there is any gold in this funny-looking stone?" asked the dear girl who was being shown around the mint by an official.

"Why, we smelt it," he replied.

Holding it to her pretty little nose, she remarked very innocently: "Why, I smelt it, to, but I don't see anything about it to—— Why, what are you laughing at?"

BEFORE the use of Prickly Ash Bitters became general throughout the South and West, it was a fearful dose of "Blue Mass," and daily doses of quinine, that was forced down the throats of suffers from all malarial troubles. In place of such obnoxious, harrowing curatives, Prickly Ash Bitters, with its mild, soothing action, now holds supreme sway, and after one trial, its use when necessary, is forever established. You who have sick-headaches, sour stomachs, diseased liver or kidneys, can do no better than to give it a trial.

Might Get Tired Standing.

"But before I can admit of your paying your addresses to my daughter" said the father, "I must know the extent of your debts. Come, now, tell me what you owe?"

"In that case, sir," said the suitor, "will you kindly permit me to take a chair?"—Philadelphia Times.

Says the Southern Medical World:

"Mother's Friend" is growing in favor throughout the South and is highly recommended by physicians. We consider it indispensable to those who know they must pass through the ordeal of childbirth. Write Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by all druggists.

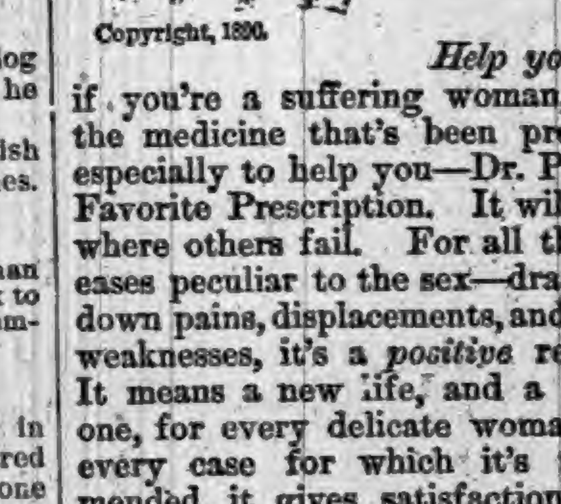
MRS. MCCURRY, of Buzzard Roost, Whitfield county, Ga., held out as long as she dared, and then at 108 was baptized.

"A FOOLISH woman is known by her slovenly house." Get wit and earn good repute by using SAPOLIO. Try a cake in your next house-cleaning.

THERE are only 262,000 Indians in the United States.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

IT is a difficult job to set a hen or a good example.



Copyright, 1890.

Help yourself if you're a suffering woman, with the medicine that's been prepared especially to help you—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will do it where others fail. For all the diseases peculiar to the sex—dragging-down pains, displacements, and other weaknesses, it's a positive remedy. It means a new life, and a longer one, for every delicate woman. In every case for which it's recommended, it gives satisfaction. It's guaranteed to do so, or the money is refunded.

It improves digestion, invigorates the system, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, produces refreshing sleep, dispels melancholy and nervousness, and builds up both flesh and strength. It is a legitimate medicine—not a beverage. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to sour or ferment in the stomach and cause distress. As peculiar in its marvelous, remedial results as in its composition. Therefore, don't be put off with some worthless compound easily, but dishonestly, recommended to be "just as good."

Save the Boys

And save the girls—from their intense sufferings from scrofula and other foul humors in the blood by giving them Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands of parents are unspeakably happy and thousands of children enjoy good health because of what this great blood purifier has done for them. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scrofula, salt rheum, etc., and vitalizes and enriches the blood.

"Scrofula bunches in my neck disappeared when I took Hood's Sarsaparilla." A. R. KELLEY, Parkersburg, W. Va.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

RIDGE'S FOOD IT IS USED by CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. By Druggists. WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

FAT FOLKS Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS! Instructions FREE to inventors. Write at once for hand-book of information. J. B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C.

Ely's Cream Balm For CATARRH THE POSITIVE CURE.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD in HEAD HAY FEVER ELY'S CREAM BALM

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

"CAN I ASSIST YOU, MADAM?"

This is an every-day occurrence; she is taken with that "all-gone" or faint feeling, while calling or shopping. The cause of this feeling is some derangement, weakness, or irregularity incident to her sex. It matters little from what cause it may arise; instant relief may always be found by using LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound. It is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for those peculiar weaknesses and ailments of our best female population. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

One of the most important organs of the human body is the LIVER. When it fails to properly perform its functions the entire system becomes deranged. The BRAIN, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS, all refuse to perform their work. DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DISEASE, etc., are the results, unless something is done to assist Nature in throwing off the impurities caused by the inaction of a TORPID LIVER. This assistance so necessary will be found in

Prickly Ash Bitters!

It acts directly on the LIVER, STOMACH and KIDNEYS, and by its mild and cathartic effect and general tonic qualities restores these organs to a sound, healthy condition, and cures all diseases arising from these causes. It PURIFIES THE BLOOD, tones up the system, and restores perfect health. If your druggist does not keep it ask him to order it for you. Send 2c stamp for copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER," published by us.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO., Sole Proprietors. ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Pills

enable the dyspeptic to eat whatever he wishes. They cause the food to assimilate and nourish the body, give appetite, and DEVELOP FLESH. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co., 24 State St., N. Y.

ISLAND HOME

Stock Farm. H. C. Farnum, Importer and Breeder of Percheron & French Coach Horses. I offer a very large stud of horses to select from. I guarantee my stock, make prices reasonable and sell on easy terms. Visitors always welcome. Large catalogue free. Address H. C. FARNUM, Grosse Isle, Wayne Co., Mich.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE. 50 STYLES BABY COACHES. INVALID CHAIRS AND WHEEL CHAIRS. We retail at the lowest wholesale factory prices and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. FREE. LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Phila., Pa.

PENSIONS!

The Disability Bill is a law. Soldiers disabled since the war are entitled. Dependent widows and parents now dependent whose sons died from effects of army service are included. If you wish your claim speedily and successfully prosecuted, address JAMES TANNER, Late Commissioner of Pensions, WASHINGTON, D. C.

ASTHMA. Popham's Asthma Specific Gives immediate relief. It is believed to be the Best ASTHMA Remedy known to humanity. As evidence we give a Trial Package FREE. Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, for $1 per Box. Address THOS. POPHAM, 2001 Ridge Avenue, Phila., Pa.

NEW PENSION LAW. THOUSANDS NOW ENTITLED WHO HAVE NOT BEEN ENTITLED. Address for forms for application and full information WM. W. DUDLEY, LATE COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS, Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C. (Mention this Paper.)

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY MEMORY Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. [illegible]

MOTHERS Dr. Snyder's [illegible] For sale by all druggists [illegible] Dr. G. W. F. Snyder, 243 State St., Chicago. Ask your Druggist to order it for you. MENTION THIS PAPER WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co. CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

PEDINE, the great foot remedy [illegible] THE PEDINE CO., WORLD BLDG, N. Y.

PATENTS Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent. [illegible] PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washington, D. C.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....DECEMBER 18, 1890.

The Pope is dangerously sick, at his palace in Rome.

Buffalo, N. Y., will have a supply of natural gas brought over from Canada.

Pierre, South Dakota gets 7,624 majority over Huron for state capital. That ends it.

Wabash College, at Crawfordsville, gets $50,000 by the death of a New York millionaire.

Corn crop of Illinois about ninety millions less than in '89, when they had 250,000,000.

Pittsburg inventor has learned how to fuse steel and nickel. It will be of great value.

Kansas farmers demand that Ingalls retire from the Senate. He don't vote to suit them.

Democrats carried Boston at city election last week, electing the mayor by over 12,000 majority. Last year republicans carried the city by over 5,000.

Plumb, of Kansas had a bill in the senate to remove Grant's remains from New York to Washington, but it was lost on a vote, and New York still keeps her illustrious dead.

Wealthy Indianapolis parties want to buy our state fair grounds at $6,000 an acre, and lay it out in town lots. The fair could likely get cheaper land a little farther off, that would do just as well.

Voorhees told the senators last week, that if they would secure honest rations for the Indians there would be no war No one seemed able to contradict this, as he gave Ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, as his authority.

New ways of wasting time It is a game of "winter base ball" now. They are having this sort of thing in the great brick building near the B. & O. depot in Chicago, known as Battery D.

The Chicago Herald, commenting on the desire of the postmaster general to have postage reduced to one cent, says: "If Wanamaker thinks that a 2 cent postage stamp is a burden, what does he think of a 60 per cent tax on the necessities of life."

Wade Hampton, the present able senator from South Carolina, will not be in the senate next year. He was beaten for re-election last week, the legislature sending in his place, Col. J. L. Irby, an Alliance democrat, who is speaker of the present South Carolina House.

Dr. Koch, of Berlin, Germany, has been creating a great deal of excitement about his supposed discovery of a cure for consumption. Experiments are being made with it in New York, also. The form in which it is used, is called "lymph," and it is a powerful drug of of some sort. It will take time, however, to test its value

Farwell & Co, the great Chicago carpet dealers, wrote to a customer under the date of Nov. 20, which was "after election," saying, "Replying to yours of 19th will say the body Brussels samples we sent you yesterday have advanced 5 cents per yard more." We suppose the Press and other republican papers will add, "Thanks to the McKinley bill."

The Butler Record still insists that "foreigners must be made to contribute to the national treasury." It is an old saying, "There are no postoffices on the ocean," but it appears that republican editors believe the Atlantic is all dotted over with custom houses. Or do they think the foreigner pays the duty into the custom houses in his own country? We wouldn't mind having this explained.

Sitting Bull, the famous Sioux chief is dead. He was killed Monday morning. It had been the intention for some weeks to arrest him, as he was a disturbing and dangerous man. Early Monday morning a posse of Indian police surrounded his tent and took him After starting back, they were attacked by his friends, and a fight ensued. The white troops came up and saved the friendly Indian police from destruction. But when the fight was over, it was found that Sitting Bull and one of his sons, were killed, together with six of his Indians and four Indian police. It is now hoped the troubles may be settled.

Geo. W. Fay, a druggist at Hammondton, N J., died about the middle of November. He had dreamed he was to be buried alive, and warned his sisters not to bury him till certain he was dead, and if in doubt as to real death to plunge into his heart, a small dagger, which he gave them, and to leave it in his body. After death he appeared of a natural color for about two weeks, but the physicians said life was extinct. But to carry out promises to him, the only relatives he had were called in, and the dagger driven into his heart and left there There was not a drop of blood, and so he was buried.

Patents Granted

to inventors in the state of Indiana, during the past week, reported by C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Attorneys and agents for procuring patents, opposite U. S. Patent office, Washington, D. C. J. Bresson, Milton, Rail-brace; G. H Brower, Roann, Evaporator; A. L. Kitselman, Ridgeville, Fence-post; C. Korntrumpf, Huntingburg, Watch case bezel; J. T. Mekim, Thorntown, Paint; W. T. Nickerson, Worthington, Gripper perforator; W. Tennison, Mount Vernon, Mosquito net frame and pillow sham holder; R. E. Van Zant, Noblesville, Lock; J. L. Wagner, Indianapolis, Car-door; F. G. Wiselogel, Indianapolis, Bleaching hair.

Judge Mitchell Dead.

Judge Joseph A. S. Mitchell, of the supreme bench of the state, died at his home in Goshen last Friday morning, of inflammation of the bowels. He had been sick but a short time, and no fears were entertained till within a day of his death. His funeral took place at Goshen, on Monday, at 2, p. m., and called out an immense concourse of people, not only of his neighbors and of neighboring towns, but prominent people from all over the state. The governor and all the state officers were there, and several of the new members who have not yet taken their places. All the members of the supreme bench were there also to do honor to their late associate. The sermon was by Rev. C. C. Albertson, of the M. E. church there, Judge Mitchell being a prominent member of his church The sermon was one of remarkable power, eloquence and beauty. Those so fortunate as to hear him will not soon forget it. He was laid to rest in the beautiful Oak Ridge cemetery west of the city. The members of the bar, the G. A. R., the state officers, secret orders, etc., attended in a body, the lamented jurist to his final resting place. The large church was filled, and the crowd surged back, down the stairways and halls, and out on the streets,—thousands lining the streets, filling the wide pavements for a block or two on each side of the street, and they remained there waiting for the end of the service. Judge Mitchell was highly regarded by all his neighbors, and had won the respect of people of all classes and parties over the state. At the recent election he received the highest vote of any one on the state ticket. He was born in Franklin county, Pa., studied law at Chambersburg, and came to Goshen in 1860 He served during the war, as a captain, starting with the second Ind. cavalry, but serving most of the time on the staff of Gen. A McCook. His death is a loss to the state, as he was one of its ablest judges. His first term of six years will expire in January and he had been elected for six years more The governor will appoint someone to serve this remaining few weeks and also for two years of the new term, or until a new man can be elected at the next election. Gov. Hovey himself thinks he can appoint a man for the whole six years, but that is doubtful. He was the only democrat on the bench, and now a republican will be chosen, of course. Just who it will be is not known, but the chances seem to favor his late opponent, Judge McBride.

Say Farmers are Stupid.

Bob Ingersoll the well known republican orator and unbeliever, is quoted by the Lagrange Register, a staunch republican paper, as follows:

Robt. G. Ingersoll: I have no reason to be thankful I refuse to rejoice in the wholesale defeat of the republican party. I am a protectionist, not for money, but because I believe protection makes better citizens. First, man is a hunting and fishing animal; then he tills the soil Stop at the farmer, and you stop at stupidity. It is varied industries, arts, and manufactures that develop humanity. I would protect everything that we can produce, while I'd let in everything else free. I don't know the provisions of the McKinley bill. I do know, however, that I'm not at all thankful for the results of the election. I am not happy at the sight of triumphant democracy, and, with the Greeks, I feel like exclaiming, 'In the presence of human stupidity even the gods stand helpless."

The Song Friend

for December is received. It contains a portrait and biographical sketch of the wonderful child pianist, Gussie Cottlow; "How to Train the Voice," by the great tenor Italo Campanini; "The Different Hands Piano Teachers Have to Contend with," by the pianist and teacher, Arthur M. Straub; able editorials on practical topics and musical news from all parts of the world. It also contains nine pieces of excellent vocal and instrumental music. The Song Friend is a most excellent journal and should be in every musical family. Subscription price only $1.00 a year. The publishers, S. W. Straub & Co., 243 State street, Chicago. offer to send a sample copy for 10 cents and make liberal inducements to canvassers.

Deer in Auburn.

We don't mean wild ones of course, such as ran through the forest, here at the date our "Early History" is speaking of in the current numbers of the Courier. We mean the fine specimens at G. S. McCord's, and which he had been fitting up and mounting for our local hunters. We dropped into his "studio" Monday morning and saw some of the finest specimens of these long since departed animals. Besides the one of his own, which he had at the fair, were two others, recent additions. One is the property of Holmes Link, as large a buck as one often sees, with five huge antlers and huge body. He looked like the king of the forest. The other was a yearling or last spring's fawn, a very fine one, the property of John Neal.. They shot the animals themselves, while on a hunt in Michigan a month or two ago. They are "trophies of chase" of which we presume, both are very proud. They are no less proofs of the skill and patience of Mr. McCord. We saw there also, a beautiful and rare bird, obtained by him from Florida. It is a white bird, some sort of a heron, with plumage, that would set a lady wild with admiration.

Notice.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to A. Lewis for building material please call and settle their accounts. Must have a settlement before Jan. 1, 1891. Will accept bankable notes in payment of accounts. 51-52

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

Additional Local.

Gene Trout went to Chicago this week on business.

Little Katie Kiblinger is able to be about once more.

See that elegant case of bottled perfumes at Davenport's.

Mr. Jerry Boyer and wife, of Waterloo, were driving on our streets Monday.

Melt Johnston will come home next week to rest up during the holidays.

The days grows longer after next week. No one objects, as far as the Courier has heard.

Like most of the old veterans Joseph Truitt pays his subscription to the Courier promptly.

Mrs. George Lanning and daughter are home again after their visit with friends in Ohio.

F. E. Davenport certainly has the nicest stock of perfumery that has ever been carried in Auburn.

Look over the advertisements in the Courier and pick out a place to get a holiday gift for some one.

George Shafer, who resides in Gas Addition, has been quite sick for some weeks, but in now improving.

The Waterloo Agricultural society holds its annual election of officers, Thursday, Dec. 25. Don't forget it.

Hon. Miles Waterman was in town yesterday and made us his usual friendly visit. He is not in very good health.

Square up all accounts by New Years if you can, and begin the 1891 as nearly even as possible, is a good idea if we can only carry it out.

Hon. Freeman Kelley was in town yesterday consulting the people of all classes as to the work of the coming session of the state assembly. He is deeply interested in all needed reforms.

Rev. Mr. Healy, who preached so acceptably at the Presbyterian church last Sunday, will be here again next Sunday and hold services both morning and evening. All are cordially invited.

H. C Shuh's wood house caught fire from coals in the ashes last Saturday night and was burned. The fire company were on hand but the flames were already stopped when they arrived.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Kiblinger has a variety of fine goods on sale for holidays, many of them being new features. He will also have a ten-cent counter, for cheap articles. His display should not be overlooked by purchasers.

The Bosco Company at the Opera House last week, drew moderate houses. The performances of Bosco himself, and of the man who did the balancing tricks, were good. But the dramatic part of the entertainment did not amount to much.

In looking over our exchanges we find that the Courier was one of the very few papers that gave the president's message Dec 4 The most of them did not give it till a week later. The Courier gets the earliest and livest news That is one reason why its subscription list beats all the rest.

Among those who attended the Mitchell funeral from this county, were; From Auburn, Ex-Clerks Husselman and Baxter, J E Rose, W. H. Dills, the editor of the Courier and Judge Powers, who was holding court here. From Waterloo were W. H Leas and C. M. Phillips, attorneys, and others from Kendallville, Ligonier, Albion and Lagrange.

The Si Plunkard Company had a splendid house on Tuesday evening, and deserved it. It is a company full of brilliant talent, especially given to fine music. There were many new features, even in their grand music. The play itself while not exactly new, was fine in all its parts, though mostly fun. They will get a good patronage should they return. The managers of the Opera House have been after this company for some time, and at last succeeded in making them see that Auburn was big enough to induce them to come If their receipts were less than they have in great cities, the applause was surely generous enough. The Opera House managers should have credit for giving us a good show.

Ex Treasurer Brandon informs us that his House, the Auburn Foundry & Machine Works, now devote special attention to the Reamy Ideal Feed Machine, for use in regulating the feed in sawmills The Courier spoke a few months ago of this machine, and of its great advantage to mill owners, enabling them to do a great deal more work in the same number of hours. The improved machine is now being put into mills everywhere. Mr. Brandon himself is on the road all the time, while seven other men are out looking to sales and two putting up the machines and getting them to running, properly. Clyde Brandon and Oliver Gilford, do the setting up and starting of the machines, working at that all the time. Two men are in Ohio, two in Michigan and three in this state to assist Mr. Brandon in selling and introducing the machines Our people will no doubt be surprised at the extent to which this line of their business has suddenly grown. Mr. Reamy the patentee and inventor, whose home is in Tennesee, is here a part of the time, also. The Machine Works have the agency to control this business for all the states north of Mason & Dixon's line, and will continue to push business vigorously.

The Wabash Changes Time.

Under the new time card, trains pass Auburn as follows:

EAST BOUND.

No.	Train	Time
No. 56,	Atlantic Express	2:38 a. m.
" 52,	St. L. & Boston Ex	5:45 a. m.
" 26,	Detroit Accommod'n	2:30 p. m
" 54,	N. Y. Limited	8:04 p. m.

WEST BOUND.

No.	Train	Time
No 55	Pacific Express	1:32 a. m.
" 51,	Mail and Express	12:38 p. m.
" 53,	Chicago Limited	5:12 p. m.
" 27,	St. Louis "	7:33 p. m.
" 97,	Local Accommodation	7:55 a. m.

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

I. M. Zent, Agent

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling. Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.

A Professional Nurse.

One who is thoroughly competent, who is neat, tidy and quiet, whose very touch is medicine, who knows what to do, and when to do it is a blessing indeed, but a few there are who fully understand, know, and are able to use the requirements, the endorsement of a medicine, by such a person should carry weight. They have practical experience, and opportunities of seeing and noting the effect better really than the physician in charge, as they are with the patient day and night and every change and symptom is noted and watched. I have myself used and in my profession as nurse administered your Red Clover remedies, and find that it does all and more than you say for it. I cheerfully recommend it for troubles of stomach, liver or bowels, and have advised my friends to use it, which has been done and in every case with the very best results and all speak of Loose's Extract Red Clover in the highest terms.

Mrs Osborn,
Marion, Ohio.

Of Interest to Pensioners.

We publish to-day, a notice to pensioners, from Charles McClellan, son of Congressman McClellan, and who is now in Washington, where he has established and will conduct a pension agency. Of course, a man who is right at headquarters has many advantages, and can push claims in person before the pension bureau. If cases had been neglected, he can go right there and find out the cause, and if possible get the case at once before the bureau or the proper clerk, and can see to it that it is no longer neglected. In case of a new claim he is in a situation to put his client in a proper light before the department and to see that the case is rightly understood, and that it has as good showing as any. These, and many other advantages, Mr. McClellan is prepared to offer to his clients, and being a young man who is ambitious to succeed, we believe he will give all cases entrusted to him the most prompt and thorough attention. He will devote all his time and energies to this work, and we believe any ex-soldier who needs assistance, will do well to consult him.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, Ind., for the week ending Dec. 16, 1890 Lilly Laemle, Mrs. Rachel Reeve, Mrs. W. C. Swift, George C. Beneway, Rev. William Wildermeith.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

Geo. W. Gordon, P. M.

WATERLOO

Mrs. Lill Beck, Dan Conrod, James Clifton, Mrs. C. M. Dukeum, Will Hoynes, Mrs. Martin Jackman, Martin Kiplinger, W. Martin, Frank Lewis, Harry Montagne, Eli Nelson, Chas E. Reed, W. O Rathford, James O. Ross, Amis Smith, S. A. Seydel, Rev. S. P. Stevens, Thos. Williams, J A. Walerman.

James N. McBride, P. M.
Waterloo, Ind.

Literary Note.

The J. G. Cupples Company of Boston, will soon issue a very dainty holiday book entitled "Aunty's Elfin Land." It is a collection of fairy stories; or rather, the combined histories of three children who had most strange adventures in the land of "the little folk." They are written by Mrs. Mariah Hildreth Parker, and are illustrated by Herman D. Murphy. The book will commend itself to those who are in search of holiday gifts for children who have outgrown the jingle of nursery rhymes Mrs. Parker is the widow of Col. J. M. G. Parker, for many years a prominent citizen of New Orleans, and is the sister-in-law of Gen. B. F. Butler.

Winter Millinery.

Our large stock of fine winter millinery must be reduced as the season is far advanced. As the season is far advanced, everything will be sold very low to close out our winter stock as our expenses are small we can afford to sell for much less than can be done in a larger town Ladies are kindly invited to call and inspect our goods while our stock is yet complete with all the novelties of the season.

Miss F. A. Husselman,
Corrunna, Ind.

Christmas and New Year Excursions on the B. & O.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co. will sell round trip excursion tickets December 24, 25 and 31, 1890, and January 1, 1891, good for return passage to and including January 5, to all points between Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago For time of trains, rates and other information, call on agents of the B & O. 52

To the Pacific Coast.

Go to California via the through lines of the Burlington Route, from Chicago or St. Louis to Denver, and thence over the new broad gauge, through car lines of the Denver and Rio Grande or Colorado Midland Railways, via Leadville, Glenwood Springs and Salt Lake through interesting cities and unsurpassed scenery. Dining cars all the way. 51-3

Notice to the Public.

Auburn, Ind. Dec. 15, 1890.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern, that on the last meeting night of the month, Auburn Lodge, No. 191, K. of P., will according to the constitution and by-laws of the Lodge elect one trustee to serve three years, for the above Lodge.

Attest, M. B. Willis Jr.
K. of R. & S.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.

Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Call for Town Orders.

Upon presentation I will pay outstanding municipal orders up to and including No. 1476 date Dec. 3, 1888. Interest will stop Dec. 18, 1890.

Charles H. G. Jones.
Treas. Town of Auburn, Ind.

Disappointed.

In a Massachusetts town live a worthy couple who have so far obeyed the Scriptural injunction to increase and multiply that they have eight sons, of whom the oldest is not over a dozen years of age. They are bright and lively little folk, and play together with the greatest zest, only now and then falling into some disagreement when one or the other pair of twins does not approve of the general scheme of play.

It chanced not long since that to this interesting family there came a still further addition in the shape of a baby sister. The father and mother were delighted that there should be a girl in the family, and supposed that the sons would be equally pleased. It was accordingly with a smiling face that the father went to make the announcement to the little fellows, who at the moment were all together in the breakfast room.

"Boys," he said joyously, "you have a darling little baby sister."

There was a look of blank disappointment on every face and a moment of profound silence. Then excitable 8-year-old Master Tommy spoke for them all by exclaiming explosively:

"Oh, dear, dear! that is too bad; it just spoils our baseball nine!"—Youth's Companion.

King Alfonso's Democratic Ways.

Whenever the king sees a grandee or gentleman whom he knows he calls them by their Christian names, or their surnames without their title, a custom always reproved by his governess. "Eh! Xiquena!" exclaimed the king one day, as the ex-minister passed. The governess, who knew that the count's father was dead, and that the son had inherited the title, observed, "Sire, permit me to remind your majesty that the person whom you do the honor to address is the Duke of Bivona." The king burst out laughing and exclaimed: "The Duke of Bivona! This is nice! But I know that it is Xiquena! Are you not Xiquena?" he added, addressing the count. "Yes, sire." "Do you see," the little king went on, "this woman has a mania for giving people new names. Doesn't she pretend that Juanito" (an officer of the royal guard much loved by the king) "is the Marquis of Soto Mayor?" "Indeed, sire, he is; and you will permit me to remind your majesty that he should be so addressed," replied the governess. "Don't be stupid," was the monarch's answer: "this is Juanito, and the other is Xiquena."—Corriere de Napole.

Diseases of Childhood.

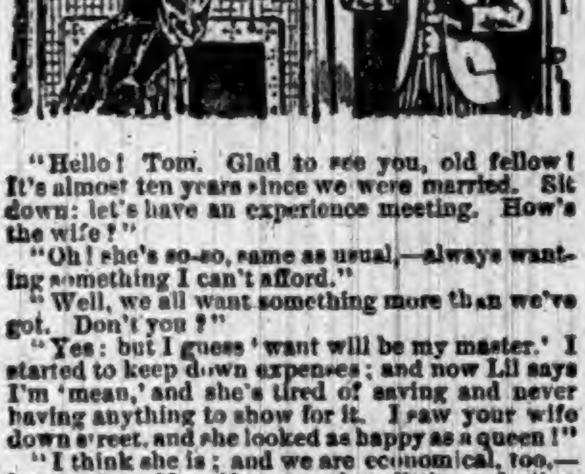
Perhaps the most important physiological period in childhood is when the first set of teeth is erupting. Dr. Arbuthnot has calculated that one child in ten has its life destroyed in consequence of diseases which have their origin at this time. Professor Camper states that out of 5,989 infants admitted to foundling hospitals only 884 were alive at the end of the fifth year. Thus it is evident that children should be carefully cared for, and I believe that besides those who die from diseases readily traceable to irritation during the eruption of the temporary teeth a number are the victims of diseases superinduced by general neglect of the mouth, and the consequent tooth decay and improper mastication of food.—Cor. New York Herald.

The largest beer barrel in this country is an attraction in a St. Louis saloon. It is 23 feet high, 22 feet wide, and has a capacity of 34,400 gallons.

Poultry.

10 000 pounds of poultry wanted at once at the Palace meat market. I am now prepared to buy all kinds of poultry for which I will pay the highest markert price during the season.

B. C. Zeigler,
Auburn, Ind. 40tf



"Hello! Tom. Glad to see you, old fellow! It's almost ten years since we were married. Sit down: let's have an experience meeting. How's the wife?"

"Oh! she's so-so, same as usual,—always wanting something I can't afford."

"Well, we all want something more than we've got. Don't you?"

"Yes: but I guess 'want will be my master.' I started to keep down expenses; and now Lil says I'm 'mean,' and she's tired of saving and never having anything to show for it. I saw your wife down street, and she looked as happy as a queen!"

"I think she is; and we are economical, too,—have to be. My wife can make a little go farther than anyone I ever knew, yet she's always surprising me with some dainty contrivance that adds to the comfort and beauty of our little home, and she's always 'merry as a lark.' When I ask how she manages it, she always laughs and says: 'Oh! that's my secret!' But I think I've discovered her 'secret.' When we married, we both knew we should have to be very careful, but she made one condition: she would have her Magazine. And she was right! I wouldn't do without it myself for double the subscription price. We read it together, from the title-page to the last word: the stories keep our hearts young; the synopsis of important events and scientific matters keeps me posted so that I can talk understandingly of what is going on; my wife is always trying some new idea from the household department; she makes all her dresses and those for the children, and she gets all her patterns for nothing, with the Magazine; and we saved Joe when he was so sick with the croup, by doing just as directed in the Sanitarian Department. But I can't tell you half!"

"What wonderful Magazine is it?"

"Demorest's Family Magazine, and—"

"What! Why that's what Lil wanted so bad, and I told her it was an extravagance."

"Well, my friend, that's where you made a grand mistake, and one you'd better rectify as soon as you can. I'll take your 'sub.' right here, on my wife's account: she's bound to have a china tea-set in time for our tin wedding next month. My gold watch was the premium I got for getting up a club. Here's a copy, with the new Premium List for clubs,—the biggest thing out! If you don't see in it what you want, you've only to write to the publisher and tell him what you want, whether it is a tack-hammer or a new carriage, and he will make special terms for you, either for a club, or for part cash. Better subscribe right off and surprise Mrs. Tom. Only $2.00 a year—will save fifty times that in six months. Or send 10 cents direct to the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York, for a specimen copy containing the Premium List."

BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR
CURES ALL DISEASES AND IRREGULARITIES PECULIAR TO WOMAN.

PAID 31 DOLLARS DOCTORS' BILL.

paid 31 dollars doctor's bill for my wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine she had taken before.
JAMES T. COTT, Carmi. Ill.

Have suffered periodically for years—been treated by the best physicians without relief—Bradfield's Female Regulator did me more good than all the other remedies.
Mrs. ELIZA DAVIS, Charlotte, N. C

Have used Bradfield's Female Regulator and can recommend it to all my friends.
Miss C. S. WIEMEYER, Denver, Col.

Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.
Sold by all Druggists. Price, $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

Root & Company

FORT WAYNE, IND.

LOTS AND LOTS OF NEW THINGS
—IN—

NICE DRESS GOODS.

You Want the Dress to be Nice if it is a Low Priced One.

English Meltons.

40 inches wide, full measure. A Handsome durable fabric. Makes up splendidly. Wears well.

38 Cents.

Very, Very Pretty,

Serviceable Dress goods have piled in upon us at these low prices

7c, 9c, 10c.

PLAIN SATINS

For your fancy work. They can be had in shades

At 50 Cents.

PLUSHES IN COLORS.

These you will need too, if only a small piece. Come and get them. It will pay you.

50 Cents.

BLACK GOODS NOVELTIES,

Scarce and rare have just reached us and are now displayed at the Silk Counters,

Astrachan Effects,
Bucle Cloths,
Gisconda Polka Dots.

The Bucle Cloth is a lovely thing. It comes in subdued Black and White effects. The most stylish fabric we have shown at any time.

BLACK CASCADE SILKS!

Don't forget this brand. There's no silk in the market equal to it for genuine good wear. We warrant it.

$1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00.

SILK WARP BROCADED HENRIETTAS!

Something no one in this section has got, Priestley's Famous New Fabrics.

HOLIDAY NOVELTIES

Arriving almost every day! Call in and inspect the new goods. None too soon. Samples mailed upon application.

Root & Company.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of John Butt, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares

Witness my name this 13th day of December, 1890. A. B. RICHARDS, Executor.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Delia Butt deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why our Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of December, 1890. A. B RICHARDS, Executor.

Order of Business—Commissioners' Court.

Ordered: First. That all claims and accounts against the county must be filed on or before the third day of the term, which shall be filed and numbered as presented, with the name of the claimant, amount and nature of the claim endorsed thereon. All claims filed afterwards will be allowed only in the discretion of the board.

Second. All claims shall be specifically itemized and intelligibly written.

Third. No claims will be allowed at special sessions, except under contracts, or for which members of the board have personal knowledge.

Fourth. All claims for services rendered and necessaries furnished the poor shall have attached thereto the affidavit of the claimant showing the justice of the claim, and that the same was done or furnished upon the order of the overseer of the poor of the proper township first obtained therefor, except that physicians may charge the first visit, if he is afterwards employed by the overseer in such case, and such account shall also be certified by the proper overseer, that he ordered the service rendered or necessaries furnished before they were rendered or furnished, except such first visit by physicians. And it is also ordered that there will not be allowed a sum in excess of twelve dollars ($12) for the burial of any poor person out of the county treasury.

Fifth. The ditch petitions and reports will be heard on Tuesday of the first week of the session.

Sixth. Applications for liquor license will be heard on Wednesday of the first week of the session, and not before.

It is ordered that the above orders be published in the Auburn Courier and Auburn Dispatch, and the auditor is directed to send a copy of one of said papers to each township trustee, having the above orders marked.

I hereby certify that the above is a true copy, as the same appears of record in my office.

Witness my hand and official seal at Auburn this 11th day of December 1890.

H. N. COFFINBERRY.
Auditor.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California.

J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:00 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

Wanted.

Two reliable men who understand Loan Association work to act as General Agents for the People's Building, Loan and Saving Association, of Geneva, N. Y. Write early giving age and references to S. F. Gascoigne, Manager, Geneva, New York.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein John Leas is plaintiff and Josiah McAntarfer, Mary M. McAntarfer, Isaac Hague, Charles Rast and Jacob Lowenstine are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of Five hundred six dollars and sixty one cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

Saturday, December 27, 1890.

The undivided one-third in the following tract, to-wit: Beginning at the east line of the North-east quarter (¼) of section nine (9) in township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east at the south east corner of out lot owned by Elijah Hill, in said quarter, thence west on a line to the Jackson, Saginaw and Ft. Wayne railroad lands thence south westerly along the line of said railroad lands to the south line of north-west quarter of said section nine [9], thence east on the quarter line to the east line of said section nine [9] and thence north on said line to place of beginning, being a tract known as the lands of the hiers of Jacob McAntarfer, deceased. Said to contain a tract of about ninety-three acres, situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana,
Wm. H. Leas, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sheriff's office Dec. 11th, 1890.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James M. Goetchius deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent,

DANIEL Z. HOFFMAN, Administrator.
November 29th, 1890.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.

44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Travelling and Local, to sell our Choice Nursery Stock. Fast Selling Specialties in hardy fruits, etc. SPLENDID OUTFIT FREE! Steady Employment Guaranteed. YOUR PAY WEEKLY. Write for Terms.
GERMANIA NURS RY CO.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

WANTED AT ONCE! A man to Sell CHOICE VARIETIES of NURSERY STOCK in and around AUBURN, during the fall and winter We solicit the correspondence of anyone wishing a SITUATION. SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS to BEGINNERS. Permanent Employment to those desiring it. Good Pay. Address, COLUMBIA NURSERY COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

SHORTHAND. You can earn $75 per month as a shorthand writer. Learn at home.

Employment Guaranteed

as soon as you thoroughly complete the study. Do not delay be matter, but write at once. It will pay you. For full particulars, address,

Stenographic Institute,
ANN ARBOR, MICH.

Honest Work! $20 to $40 a week, by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in towns and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 628, Cincinnati, O.

HOLIDAY GOODS!

LARGE and PRETTY SELECTION!

NEW AND ATTRACTIVE NOVELTIES!

Including that which is Useful and Ornamental, which we offer AT VERY CLOSE PRICES.

Toilet Cases,
Work Boxes,
Manicure Sets,
Shaving Sets,
Smoking Sets,
Glove and H'dk'f Boxes,
Collar and Cuff Boxes,
Fancy Baskets,
Christmas Cards,
Fine Lace Aprons,
Mufflers,
Silk Mittens,
Stamped Linens,
Linen Table Sets,
Fancy Towels,
Table Covers,
Napkins and Bed Spreads,
Smyrna Rugs and Mats,
Doll Toys, etc.,
Drums and Horns,
Boys' Tool Chests,
Girls' Toy Pianos,
Doll Carriages,
Blocks and Games,
Doll Heads and Bodies,
Toy Banks, etc.

XMAS HANDKERCHIEFS!

The Selection is the Largest we have ever offered, and the Variety Unexcelled. At

HARTER'S

EAST OF COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Attention!

J. Wm. WAGNER respectfully announces to the public, that he has opened a large and well selected stock of HOLIDAY and VARIETY GOODS, such as

Albums,
Toilet Sets,
Smoking Sets,
Vases of all kinds, styles and prices;
Toys—and endless variety of them;
Glassware,
Chinaware,
Queensware,
Woodenware,
Willow-ware,
Ladies' and Gents' Underwear,
Hosiery,
Gloves and Mittens,
Handkerchiefs,
Mufflers,
Laces and Ribbons,
Books and Stationery,
Notions of all kinds,
And a general line of Household Articles,

And invites everybody to call and see the great variety of goods and Low Prices at

The Fair,

OPERA HOUSE BLOCK,

GARRETT, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Hats and caps a specialty at Yesbera's.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Huiselman, Waterloo, Ind.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolford's Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

Mrs. Silver and son Ray, visited friends near Ft. Wayne over Sunday.

To counteract the desire for strong drink take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Holiday goods a special feature at F. J. Yesbera's popular jewelry store. 52

Crosscut saws at Beuret's, put down to lowest notch prices Come in and see them when you need a saw.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Columbia City Commercial: Phillip Ramp has two chestnut trees standing in front of his country residence, about two miles east of town. They are about forty years old and yield quite a supply of nuts each year.

If you want a good work horse or a fine brood mare, or milch cows, you can get them for red elm logs or lumber. For particular address C. C. Boyer, Waterloo, Ind. Mr. Boyer also wishes to let the contract for making 500 of his patent gates.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Col. Tom Mays, he is "Col" now, has a subscriber write to his paper, the Benton, Ark., Courier, who objects to Tom's style of obituary. He says it is not good to say on the death of a judge, "The death angel flopped his wings within the portals of this temple of justice." The writer even objects to that kind of an angel. Well, we know of several who "flopped" in this section of the country, along about the first week in November, but they were not angels. They were very good men, and we don't object to such floppers up here.

An exchange calls attention to the fact that in Indiana one person out of every forty-seven draws a pension from the national government. In Ohio it is one to every sixty-five. These two states together have about one fourth of all the pensioners in the country. In Massachusetts the proportion is less than one to each one hundred of the population. There is nothing like being in close states politically or those given to unexpected political avalanches.

SCHAAB & MURPHY

For Bargains In

CLOTHING!

West of Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

Read our Washington letter.

Stoves, extra nice at Beuret's. 50-52

When at Garrett be sure sure to call at The Fair.

Trustee Wm. Whetsell of Franklin, was in town Saturday

Suitings, the latest styles and best goods, at G. H. Yesbera's.

The best assortment of juvenile books in town are at the City Book Store.

Nobody can be troubled with constipation if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

J. H Roland, who has been sick some time with a severe attack of asthma, is able to be out again.

Everybody is surprised at the low prices we ask for our beautiful dolls. Robbins & McCord.

Our old friend, A. Hablawetz came up from near Newville with a sleigh yesterday, but found it rather poor sledding.

Books make the best Christmas presents. You can get them from one cent to ten dollars each at the City Book Store 51-52

There will be a merry Christmas in every family, whose presents are selected from our holiday stock, Robbins & McCord. 51

Heating stoves for wood or coal, at Beuret's hardware store in Auburn. Will be sold at rock bottom prices to close out the winter stock. 50 52

Fine watches, silverware, jewelry, etc., for holiday gifts, at Yesbera's. Nothing so good for a present Look over his stock. You can't fail to be suited. 52

All parties indebted to Posts are hereby requested to call in and settle at once. All unsettled accounts after Dec. 15, will go to our attorney for collection

A bald headed woman is unusual before she is 40, but gray hair is common with them earlier. Baldness and grayness may be prevented by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

A very good holiday gift for for your distant friends, would be a copy of the COURIER a year. They would get ten times as much of the news from the old home, as they could in any other way.

Call and test some of the new odors just received at Davenport's drug store, "Wild Plum Blossoms," "Minosa," "Frances Folsom," "Apple Blossoms," "Something New," and a dozen others.

Talk of advancement in machinery and and the sewing machine cannot be over looked. The White is the highest state of perfection in finish, quiet running, strength, durability and convenience, of all others Sold by G. W. Stahl. 52

Mrs. J. C. Henry was the fortunate lady this week, for on cutting the loaf of bread Monday morning, she found the silver bread check of Fin Gibson, imbedded in it. This entitles her to three more checks on delivering it to Mr. Gibson.

Nearly all colds are slight, at first, but their tendency is to so lower the system that the sufferer becomes a ready victim to any prevalent disease. The use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, in the beginning of a cold, would guard against this danger.

Joseph Rainier has a letter from his brother-in-law, James K. Kirk, that he has been appointed assistant superintendent of public instruction for the state of Illinois. We believe Mr. Kirk is also a minister of the gospel, a member of the Disciple church.

F. P. Myers of Smithfield, was here Friday looking up some lumber and timber matters. He reports Henry Myers as prospering up in Gratiot county, Mich., and also the McEnterfer boys. Byron McEnterfer, is now a telegraph operator at one of their stations.

Mrs. Konse was around this week, getting signers to a petition to have her husband reprieved. We are told that a great many signed. All feel sorry for her, as she seems to be a sensible, devoted woman. Still, there are some who think Kouse should be punished a while, anyhow.

Mitchell Haines will have a sale of personal property at the John A. Ditmar farm a mile and a half south of town on Saturday, Dec. 20. There will be some good, heavy work horses, a lot of hay, corn and fodder, reaper, mower, drills, wagons, harness, etc., Don't forget the date.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. McKay, Program, Outline History of England, Mrs Moody; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs. Dills; The English Constitution. Mrs. Plum; The Brazilian Constitution, Mrs. Penfield; What Shall we do with our Children, Mrs. McKay; Select Reading, Mrs. McKay.

Our neighboring town of Churubusco must still be in the state of original simplicity, at least as to their school methods. We met the little son of Dr. James Squires of that place Tuesday, Lloyd Squires, the bright little lad who recited a piece at the Decoration Day exercises here two years ago. As we had always supposed him to be a quiet, well bred boy, we were not prepared to hear that he had received a regular old fashioned school whipping Yet such was the case as we learned it from his own lips, and the evidence was strengthened by numberless black and blue spots on his legs. It appears he and other boys were playing and as too often happens, one got mad, and a fight ensued. Lloyd got all the "results," however, viz, a thrashing by the principal. We presume that "equal and exact justice to all," would indicate that if one must be "licked" all those concerned should have the same dose. However, it does seem barbarous, that a lad like that should be pounded black and blue by way of punishment. It does seem that in this age of intelligence and christian influence, some more sensible and humane method should be adopted. The lad may have done wrong, so may the others, but that is no reason for treating them in such a brutal way.

See Davenport's dollar Album.

Mrs. Askew has a good house to rent.

Best gasolene stoves at Beuret's. 25

Full line of skates at Beuret's. Boys, call and see them.

Yesbera's, Auburn; neatest tailor made suits for gents.

Try the new odor "Sweet Apple Blossoms" at Davenport's.

Best heating stoves in Auburn. Call at Beuret's on North Main.

Nobody can have dyspepsia if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Hats, bats, all the latest and toniest styles. Get the best at Yesbera's.

Finest lamps for holiday presents. See the lovely display at Kiblinger's.

Nobody will suffer from liver disease if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Dolls! Dolls!! from 5 cts. to $1. Make the little ones happy. Robbins & McCord.

Fine celery at Fleming's greenhouse now. Fine flowers, plants and boquets always.

Nobody need suffer from languor and melancholy if they take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Dr. S. B Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Garrett, the groceryman, has fixed up his windows with moss and shrubs, in quite tasty style.

A fine line of pictures that are suitable for Christmas presents are offered very low at the City Book Store. 51-52

Don't miss seeing and trying the New Home sewing machine at F. J. Yesbera's. He is the agent for this locality.

A good holiday remembrance to the COURIER, would be a new subscriber, one of your neighbors for instance.

Buy a sparkling present for someone, at Yesbera's. Take your choice of fine watches and jewelry at prices lower than ever before. 52

ROOMS TO RENT: Good desirable rooms for small family in good location. Inquire of Francis Picker, South Main street, Auburn.

If you are in need of a pair of spectacles or some article of jewelry that can be warranted as represented, at lowest price Call at the City Book Store.

Come early. Remember our holiday stock opens at its best, so call at once and make your selections while our line is full and complete. Robbins & McCord. 51

Wolcottville is a part in Lagrange county, and a part in Noble, Recently the part in Lagrange has voted to become an incorporated town. Now the Noble county part wants to do the same and then the burg can be incorporated.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a social in the basement of the church on next Friday afternoon from five until seven o'clock All are cordially invited to come and partake of a very nice supper.

The young ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a series of entertainments during the winter the first of which will be a musicale given at the home of Mabel Hartman on Tuesday, Dec. 30. See further notice.

Mrs. Mary Cool, goes this week to the home of her brother L. A. Henning in Smithfield township, to remain there and keep house for him. The death of his wife leaves him alone, with his two little children, and it is fortunate for him, that a sister's care and sympathy can be united with his, in looking after their comfort and welfare.

LOST: A diploma, issued to W. H. Christopher, by the Starling Medical College, of Columbus, Ohio, February 25, 1879. When lost, diploma was in a hard brown paper roll. Finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving at the Swineford House, Auburn, or sending to W. H. Christopher, M. D., Lima, Ohio. It was lost in Auburn, on thanksgiving day.

Mrs E. C. Foltz, of South Van Buren street, returned from Chicago, one day last week, where she had been for three weeks attending her daughter Mrs. Etta Kircher, who is lying dangerously ill at their home in that city. Mr and Mrs Kircher were for a number of years residents of this place, but lately have taken up their abode in the city of stockyards, since which time Mrs. K's. health has not been good.

We met, again last Friday the three sons of Christian Lehner, Lewis, Edwin and Sydney. They now reside at, No th Star, Mich., where they have been for several years. They were here to attend the funeral of their grandmother, W. H Getts' mother and returned home on Friday. When they left D. Kalb county, they were mere lads, but are now young men. We are pleased to know the family are prospering.

D. H. Patty, a prominent nurseryman in Geneva, New York has written us enquiring where he can get a few good, reliable men to solicit orders. He wishes men to canvass and take orders for Trees, Shrubs and Vines for fall delivery and promises steady employment to good salesmen. If any of our readers desire a good position we would advise them to write to Mr. Patty for particulars. Address with reference, D. H. PATTY, Nurseryman, Geneva, New York.

The Press is still defending the McKinley steal. It says "the price of tin had been increasing all along till the McKinley bill went into operation when it fell $1 on a box, etc," But the editor forgets to explain, how putting a tax of two cents a pound on tin plate, makes it $1 a box cheaper. We have put similar questions at him and his kind very often, but he is as dumb as an oyster If there was not an increased profit in a tariff why do tin men come before congress and ask for an increase? We would like to have this question at least receive a little notice.

Call on Beuret, Auburn, for best prices on stoves. 50 52

New goods this week at The Fair Garrett, Indiana.

Kiblinger has several pair's of fine bob-sleds for sale.

A bisque doll with kid body for a quarter at Davenport's.

Postmaster J. N. McBride of Waterloo was over here a short time this week.

Finest and most beautiful holiday gifts at F. J. Yesbera's, Auburn. 52

New Home Sewing Machine best in the market at F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store.

Mrs. James McClellan is up at Fremont, visiting her daughter. Mrs. Will Ryan.

The sensation of the season. Be sure and see it, our holiday stock. Robbins & McCord.

Any paper or magazine furnished at publishers prices at the City Book Store and News stand. 51 52

Get your mill feed, oats, corn and flour at Ford & Maxwell's store across the street from Ed Baker's.

Don't! Let go of your money until you have seen our holiday goods and learn our prices Robbins & McCord.

Any soldier or soldier's widow desiring information about their pension claims should write to Chas. McClellan, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington D. C.

Come to headquarters where your money will go the fathest and where you are sure to find just what you want for Christmas. Robbins & McCord.

Fashionable goods, neat fits, perfect fitting suits, made on honor and promptly, at G. H Yesbera's, Auburn's popular merchant tailor. Call and see his splendid goods and nice work.

It will pay you to take advantage of the very reasonable prices we are asking for the neatest, handsome and most desirable line of Christmas gifts ever shown in Auburn. Robbins & McCord.

Mrs. Bell came down from Detroit Monday, to remain awhile with her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Yesbera, who is sick. As she resided here for some years she will find many old friends to greet her.

Rev. Mr. Healy will be at the social of the Presbyterian church Friday evening to meet and get acquainted with our people. We hope to see all there who can come.

W. S. Sewell, of Butler, has moved up to this place, and will become a citizen of Auburn. He is a young man of more than average intelligence and business ability, and of couse we are glad to welcome him.

Parties from this city, who desire to attend any of the performances of "The Still Alarm," at the Masonic Temple, Fort Wayne, three nights, December 25, 26 and 27, can secure seats by communicating with the Temple Box Office

SPECIAL CHANCE: On Friday, Dec. 19 F. J Yesbera will have an experienced traveling man, at his jewelry store, who will assist anyone to select special jewelry such as is not kept in stock, but which may be wanted for holiday gifts. It will be a rare chance.

We see by the daily papers that D. S. Ober of this place has an increase of pension allowed him. It also appears that Isaac Williams of Waterloo, has got a pension. As he is now at Michigan City he can save it all for a few years.

No remedy for blood disorders can equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Though concentrated and powerful this medicine is perfectly safe, and may be taken by children as well as adults. Physicians recommend it in preference to any other. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

Lockwood & Clark are putting up a new barn on the bank of the creek by Ninth street bridge. It will stand on piles, so as to be above high water. The barn they now occupy, will we are told, be purchased by the town, as the town barn will not accomodate the teams the town now has.

Auburn, Ind., Dec. 15, '90.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern, that on the last meeting night of this month Mentor Lodge No. 591, I. O. O. F., will, according to the constitution and bylaws of the Lodge elect three trustees for the Lodge.

Attest M. B. Willis
Recording Secty.

Many years practice has given Messrs C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Solicitors opposite U. S. Patent office, Washington, D. C., unsurpassed facilities for obtaining patents. They give the same courteous attention to a request for information from a stranger that they do to their clients business, which accounts for much of their success.

MARRIED: At the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. W L. Meese, Auburn, Dec 4, 18[illegible], Mr. Jeremiah Carmer and Miss Nora Reasoner. The groom is a resident of this township, and son of A. J. Carmer, and the bride is of Concord township, and the daughter of Hiram Reasoner. The COURIER sends its best wishes to the young couple.

Wm. Knepper is the second who has paid his subscription up to '92. He has been very busy this season, he and his son George having put up twelve dwellings this summer, besides a barn or two. The last house they built was for Mrs. Probst at her place near St. John. They are now putting up the work for a house for Sam Nickey, to be shipped to [illegible]oover, a station on the Wabash near Logansport.

A new business company has been formed in Auburn, the Wittmer Lumber Company, composed of Geo. F. Wittmer and several other substantial business men, who will engage in buying lumber, logs and all things in that line. They have a wide field in which to operate and are in shape to do an extensive business. Parties who have lumber or logs to sell, would do well to consult them.

SPECIAL SALE OF

DIAMONDS,

Watches, Clocks, Jewelry,

And Silverware.

Having made arrangements with a traveling man representing a large wholesale firm in New York City to be with me on

FRIDAY, DEC. 19, '90,

I shall be able to supply all my customers with Diamonds and fine Watches, you do not need to go to the city this year but come right to F. J. Yesbera's Jewelry Store, and make your selections. We will give

EXTRA LOW PRICES

ON ALL GOODS

During the Holiday Season

So do not fail to give us a call.

I have the nicest line of Silverware this year ever before brought to Auburn at prices to suit the times.
I also have a large line of Spectacles in gold, silver and steel frames, from 25c. to $8.00 per pair.
Gold Pens, Pencils, and Toothpicks, I shall sell regardless of cost as I wish to close them out.
In the musical Instrument line I have Violins, Guitars, Banjos, Accordians and Harmonicas.
Please remember the date and let everybody come. Remember We are agents for the New Home Sewing Machine, the best in the market. Very Respt.,

F. J. YESBERA, Jeweler,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ AT ABRIGHT'S OLD STAND.

Mrs. Clint Potter has a sister here visiting.

Mrs. T. H. Sprott is sick with some sort of fever.

Read Yesbera's jewelry and silverware advertisement.

Good span of mules and harness for sale. Inquire at this office.

When you are ready to buy a hat call at Cowan Sisters'. Prices way down.

Dr. Johnston has a niece, a Mrs. Reed, of Mansfield, Ohio, visiting here at present.

Ladies, you will find Cowan Sisters ready to meet the lowest prices on everything in the millinery line.

Ford & Maxwell, opposite Ed. Baker's is the place to buy the best flour, bran, mill feed, oats and corn. Don't forget it.

J. J. Walter, present trustee of Jackson township was in town Tuesday. Having been himself a teacher, he is of course well fitted to attend to the business of his township, and in other matters, is actively alive to his people's interests.

George Probst, of Keyser township, son of the late Treasurer Probst, was in town Saturday on business. He was his father's assistant in the treasurer's office here, and made many friends by his efficiency in that position. He is now on the old home place.

S. W. Treesh, a former resident of Richland township, and brother to John and Levi Treesh, has been elected Judge of Bonhomme county, South Dakota. Another instance of the success of De Kalb boys in getting onto front seats. The Tindall Register, the local paper, gives Judge Treesh a most flattering sendoff. Speaking of his great popularity and legal ability, it adds that he had been among them but three years, but in that time had taken a front rank. We are always glad to hear of our old friends doing well.

Mrs. R. S. S. Reed spent Monday in Ft. Wayne.

Frank Zimmerman and George Weamer were down at Ft. Wayne, Monday.

Mrs. S. D. Long is in Ft. Wayne visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Dr. Siver.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

"Go snowshoeing?" Yes, my dear madame, why not?—provided the heavens be propitious and furnish the snow, and there is every prospect of plenty this winter. Snowshoeing is as easy as sliding down hill, after you know how, and you will know how, and how to form a club, and what to wear, and all about it, after reading the breezy article on "Snowshoeing" in Demorest Family Magazine for January; and if you don't become enthusiastic about the subject, we are mistaken. Or if your tastes are artistic rather than athletic, you will be delighted with the excellent paper on "Modeling for Sculpture," with its numerous and beautiful illustrations, including a superb full-page portrait of the eminent American sculptor Hartley; and if you have never modeled in clay, the suggestions for amateurs and beginners will be of great assistance. "Sage Maidens of Cornell University" is another handsomely illustrated article, written by one of them, telling of some of the trials and many of the pleasures of the life of a "co-ed" at that noted seat of learning; the other stories are all good; the "Sanitarian" has seasonable articles about the "Effects of Cold," and how to take sitz, foot, and other baths, for remedial purposes; "Chat" and "The World's Progress" are especially attractive; and all the other departments are brimful of good things. Indeed, for beauty, variety, and completeness, Demorest's Family Magazine must be awarded the palm of superiority as the Family Magazine, and should be in every household. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, Publisher.

TOLD BY THE TELEGRAPH

A BAG OF LIME THROWN IN PARNELL'S FACE.

He is Completely Blinded and Suffers Intense Pain—Powder Mill Explosion—Cut to Pieces—One Killed and Others Mangled—Death of Gen. Terry—About the Pope's Health—Burned to Death.

DASTARDLY DEED.

A Bag of Lime Thrown in Parnell's Face.

Balinakill special. After the trouble here the Parnellite party drove to Castlecomer, and Davitt and Tanner soon made their appearance in the latter place. They began at once to address the audience, dilating upon the events that had just occurred at Ballinakill, and asserting that Mr. Parnell had brought a mob of hirelings to attack them. Mr. Parnell's carriage, while passing, was hooted and Davitt sent word to Parnell that if he would come and stand by him he would guarantee him a peaceable hearing. Mr. Parnell replied: "I am not in a position to treat; I am only in a position to fight." Then, addressing a small audience, he said he valued the quality and not the quantity of his hearers. He expressed confidence that the voice of Kilkenny would be for him. He spoke in an impassioned vein declaring that he would not assail any one, nor would not ask permission to speak from a cock-sparrow like Tanner, or a jackdaw like Davitt. A body of Davitt's partisans coming up, another row occurred. During the scrimmage some miscreant threw a bag of lime at Parnell. It struck him full in the face and the lime filled his eyes, blinding him and causing him intense pain. His carriage was just driving away when the lime was thrown. After riding some distance he was obliged to alight at a laborer's cabin in a fainting condition. A doctor was called, but could do little to assuage the pain. He urged that Mr. Parnell should be driven immediately to Kilkenny for proper treatment. The start was made, but Mr. Parnell was unable to endure the agony, and another stop had to be made at a hotel on the road, where another doctor endeavored to relieve the sufferer by applying castor oil to his eyes and attempting to scrape off the lime with the point of a lead pencil. Some slight relief was thus afforded, and Mr. Parnell finally reached the Victoria Hotel in Kilkenny, where he had to be led to a room, being unable to use his eyes. A surgeon was summoned, who said that all the lime is now removed from the eyes, but Mr. Parnell is still suffering greatly and will probably be disabled for a long time. He hopes that the results will not be serious.

A Big Black Bear Bagged.

For several weeks past the farmers in the vicinity of Pittston, Pa., have been living in mortal fear of a large black bear, which made its appearance at regular intervals in that vicinity. Many small domestic animals fell a prey to bruin's appetite. All efforts to put an end to his bearship's ravages failed until the other day. A party of hunters found him on the mountain side, and succeeded in bringing him down, after a desperate battle. The animal was one of the largest ever seen in this part of the State.

Death of Gen. Terry.

Major General Terry, U. S. A., retired, died at his residence in New Haven, Conn. Heart failure, due to Bright's disease, was the cause of death. He had been ill for over two years. Gen. Terry was born at Hartford, Conn., November 10, 1827. He graduated from Yale, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1848. In 1860 he commanded the Second Connecticut regiment, and marched with it to the war. In March, 1862, he was made brigadier general. At the time of his death he was 64 years old.

Cut to Pieces.

Heram Pepple, a well-to-do farmer near Arcadia, O., left a happy home and family and started for Fort Wayne, Ind., and a few hours later his remains were brought home in a most terrible condition, almost unrecognizable. He was at Stuartville awaiting the Nickel Plate passenger train, and stepped upon the track and was run over by a freight train. Pepple's body was cut into four pieces. He leaves a wife and four children.

Powder Mill Explosion.

A special from Warren, Ohio, says that the mills of the Ohio Powder Co.'s powder and wheel house blew up. James Kerr and William Lewis, employes, were killed, but by a fortunate chance sixty employes were at dinner and thus escaped. The works were situated twelve miles from Warren and the shock was plainly felt there.

Anxiety About the Pope's Health.

A dispatch to the Berlin National Zeitung from Rome says that there is much anxiety at the Vatican over the condition of the Pope, who has been seriously affected by the extremly cold weather. Dr. Ceccerelli, who is in attendance on His Holiness, is prepared for the worst.

Defiance Excited.

Defiance, Iowa, is excited over what is supposed by the doctors to be a genuine case of leprosy. The State Board of Health sent a committee there to investigate, but the patient fled on learning the object of their visit.

Burned to Death.

Miss Annie Hectlae, while dressing for a Christmas tree party at Crawford, Ga., was burned to death. The drapery of her dress caught fire from a gas jet.

One Killed and Several Mangled.

A terrific explosion occurred at Millers, Ind., in the works of the Ætna Powder Company. The wash house was almost entirely demolished. William Clark, an employe, was killed outright, and several others are probably fatally injured.

Suicide.

August Dillman, aged 71, and one of the oldest residents of Terre Haute, Ind., made his will, disposing of real estate valued at $40,000, and then shot himself. Prolonged ill health is supposed to have been the cause.

Is the Gas Supply Diminishing?

After Bement Lyman, secretary of the Indianapolis Gas-trust Company, had inspected the company's wells near Noblesville, he was seen by a correspondent and asked to give his opinion as to whether or not natural gas would cease to flow in a few years. To the above he made the following statement: I think it is only a question of time until the Indiana gas fields are a thing of the past. Several of our strongest wells are gradually decreasing in their yield and we are compelled to drill new ones every few months in order to keep the supply the same as now. A few years will leave Indiana without natural gas. One thing that I would urge upon the public that is a prime factor in this business, and that is not to waste the large amount of gas that is now being let flow off into the air in some towns. The Legislature should frame a law prohibiting such wastage.

SITTING BULL.

The Treacherous Red Man, at Last Bites the Dust.

The following telegram was received at army headquarters at Chicago:

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 15.

Col. Corbin, Assistant Adjutant General, Chicago:

Sitting Bull was arrested this morning at daylight by Indian police. Friends attempted his rescue. Fight ensued. Sitting Bull, his son, Black Bird, Catch Bear, and four others were killed; also seven Indian police. Capt. Fechet arrived just in time with two troops. Hotchkiss and Gatling guns drove the Indians away and secured the body of Sitting Bull.

By command of Gen. Miles.
[Signed] MAUS, Aide.

When the Indian police, who numbered about twenty men, reached Sitting Bull's village, they found the Sioux all ready to depart for the Southwest, and instant action was necessary to prevent this movement. The police at once made a rush for Sitting Bull, surrounded him, and, telling him he was a prisoner, started at once on the trail for the agency. The old chief made no attempt at resistance but hardly had his capture been made known than his son and a party of Bull's followers attempted to recapture their chief. A desperate running fight ensued and the police were getting the worst of it. In the skirmish Sitting Bull attempted to get away from his captors, and to join the attacking party of his friends. He fought wildly, and was killed, with several of his followers. Seven of the Indian police also fell dead, and the whole band would probably have been massacred had it not been for the timely arrival of the cavalry.

Gen. Miles says that Sitting Bull had been dispatching couriers to all the tribes—even those in Canada—instructing them to secure all the ammunition possible and be prepared to go on the war path in the spring. When he found that preparations were being made by the army to break up his scheme, it was believed that he intended to begin fighting very soon, and his arrest was ordered. "I leave immediately for the Black Hills," said the General, "and I shall be on the reservation in three days. Gen. Brooke has reported to me that he has exhausted all peaceable means of settling whatever difficulty there may be."

PARNELL ON TOP.

With a Crow Bar He Forces the Door Open and Secures Possession of His Newspaper.

The offices of the United Ireland are again in the possession of Mr. Parnell. The anti-Parnellites, who ousted the representatives of Mr. Parnell from the premises after destroying such leaders as had been prepared by his newly appointed editor, Mr. Leamy, took their departure, after having appointed a guard, which was left in possession with orders to prevent Mr. Parnell or his friends from entering the building. Mr. Parnell, accompanied by his friends and supporters, proceeded to the offices of United Ireland, forced open the doors, drove out the anti-Parnellite guard and again assumed possession. The whole affair was witnessed by a number of policemen, none of whom offered any opposition to the summary proceedings of the Parnellites. As soon as Mr. Parnell found himself again in control of the building, he appeared at a window and addressed the crowd.

The tremendous popular ovation tendered Mr. Parnell at the Rotunda exercised a most favorable influence upon Irish opinion. The numbers of his exponents is growing rapidly. At Limerick and Cork great popular displays are being arranged in honor of the Irish leader, and his visits to these cities promise to be the occasions of ovation rivalling that received by him in Dublin.

JUDGE MITCHELL.

Death of One of the Judges of the Supreme Court of Indiana.

Hon. J. A. S. Mitchell, who was re-elected at the State election Judge of the Supreme Court of Indiana, died at his home in Goshen. He was stricken suddenly ill a few days ago with congestion of the bowels. He was one of the greatest jurists Indiana has produced, his opinion having been widely quoted in courts all over the United States. He was an alumnis of DePauw University and was one of the principal lecturers in the law school of that institution. He was born in Elkhart conty, Indiana, December, 1836, and entered as a private in the Second Indiana cavalry at the outbreak of the war. He served with distinction on the staff of Gen. Ed McCook in the army of the Cumberland, and was mustered out with the rank of Captain at the surrender of Lee. Judge Mitchell was elected Judge of the Supreme Court on the Democratic ticket at the election in 1884 and was re-elected at the last election. He was the only Democratic member of the Supreme Court.

BADLY BURNED.

Three Young Ladies Fatally Burned at Akron, Ohio.

A horrible casualty occurred in Akron, Ohio, during the celebration of a bithday by nine young lady students of Buchtel College. The girls were dressed as Santa Claus, their dresses and heads being covered with cotton batting. One girl danced too near a gas jet and the cotton took fire. In an instant she was enveloped in flames and the clothing of the other girls was soon on fire. Three of them were perhaps fatally burned. They are May Stevens, of Clifton Springs, N. Y.; Lulu Steigmeyer, Attica, O., and May Baker, of Fort of Plains, N. Y. The two first named will surely die, while the recovery of the last is doubtful. Addie Buchtel, of Columbia, Kan.; Diana Haynes, of Abilene, Kan.; Aurelia Wierick, of Storm Lake, Pa., and Myrtle Barker, of Peru, Ohio, were also seriously burned. Miss Dora Merrill and Miss Estelle Munson, teachers, received bad burns while trying to extinguish the flames on the dresses of the students.

Fight Among Indians.

A special from Pine Ridge Agency, S. Dak., says: Tired of waiting for the soldiers to come and get killed the Indians in the Bad Lands have begun fighting among themselves. This news was brought in by both goverment scouts and friendly Indians, and is reliable. The battle took place in an ampitheater of Grass Valley. Two Strike and his followers circled around Short Bull and his followers all the forenoon, actively skirmishing, each leader is bound that his supremacy as chief of the whole body should be acknowledged. The killed are reported all the way from twenty to forty. As the scouts and friendly Indians had to escape during the confusion and the result of the skirmishing is not known. Gen. Brooke sent Little Bat and five other Indians back with old Two Strike, under the agreement made in the council that one should return each day and report the progress of the reds in coming in. Not one of those men have returned but are held close prisoners of war. It is reported that Little Bat has been killed but the report is not verified.

One Life Lost.

A cash boy discovered fire in the cellar of the building occupied by the J. B. Barnaby Clothing company, Providence, R. I. There were over 100 persons employed in the building, and only by the most heroic work of the firemen were they saved from death. While the fire was at its worst one of the walls gave way, and three firemen were severely injured. Orrin Mowry, one of the men injured, died at the hospital.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

In Attempting to Cross a Railroad Track Several Persons Are Struck by a Train and Killed.

A special from Bristol, Pa., says an accident occurred at the Mill street crossing by which four persons were killed and one seriously hurt. The accident was caused by the safety gates at the crossing being raised just before the New York west-bound express was due. A number of persons were waiting for a freight train to pass, and as soon as the gates were raised, started to cross. A wagon, in which there were five persons, also attempted to cross. The express train, which was running at full speed, struck the wagon, instantly killing Neil McIlvaine, Joseph Hussey, and Hugh Dever, and John McIlvaine received such severe injuries that he will die. Joseph Johnson, who was crossing the track on foot, was also struck and instantly killed. John McGee, who was in the wagon, was seriously, though not fatally, injured. The gate keeper says he did not hear the bell on the express. He will probably be arrested.

Death in the Wind.

During the high winds at Brooklyn, N. Y., a two-story and basement, brick building owned by Chas. F. Butler, and which was being erected by Riley & Buchanan, contractors, for him on Fifth street and Sixth Avenue, was blown down. Adjoining the building was a one-story brick structure occupied by an Italian shoemaker, named Nichalino Delhino, and his wife and two children. This small building was crushed in and the family were buried under the debris. Two officers and a large crowd went to work to rescue the unfortunate people. Delhino and his wife were soon dragged out cut and bruised, and also one of the children. Rosino, a 13-year-old girl, was killed and her body was removed to the station house.

Death of a Hermit.

The death of J. J. Bayard, an old hermit in the mountains of Kendall County, Texas, brings out a singular story. Bayard claimed to be a brother of ex-Secretary of State Thomas F. Bayard. He was on the staff of Gen. Taylor during the Mexican war, and settled in Kendall County a quarter of a century ago. He broke off all intercourse with his neighbors, who were few and widely scattered. He came to their aid, nowever, in sickness, and was an expert in compounding medicines out of herbs. He was buried in his cave, as requested in his will.

Prosecuting Train Men.

W. J. LeRoy, a freight conductor of the Louisville and New Albany road, was arrested at Louisville. His arrest, it is alleged, is the first of a wholesale prosecution to begin at once against train men on the road. They are accused of systematically breaking into and robbing freight cars, and it is even charged that wrecks have been arranged, in advance to cover evidence of wholesale thefts. These thefts, it is stated, are part of a conspiracy against the road which has existed since the strike of three months ago.

A Fearful Fad.

A curious state of affairs is reported from Mayence, Germany, where during the last few days, twenty-five females have been assaulted by a boy with a large saddler's needle, with which he inflicted upon them wounds in the legs and stomach. In some cases the injuries are of a serious nature, and as the assailant has not been caught, women are afraid to go out of doors after dark. A special detective force is employed to effect the arrest of the culprit.

Presidential Commutations.

The President has commuted to three years the sentence of Fitz E. Stevens, sentenced in Detroit July 30, 1888, to five years in the Detroit House of Correction, for embezzlement. He denied pardons in the cases of John L. West, sentenced in the District of Coulumbia March 1, 1887, to six years in the Albany Pennitentiary, and H. G. Douglas, sentenced August 11, 1890, to six months' imprisonment for embezzling $260 as postmaster at Plainfield, Ind.

"Jack, the Kisser."

The women of Fort Wayne are terrorized by a tall, dark-complexioned man who sneaks up behind them, throws his arms around their necks and gives them a hug and a kiss. This has been an almost nightly occurrence for weeks. Among the ladies who were insulted were Miss Celeste Fleming and Mrs. Charles Brackenridge, wife of the ex-City Engineer, who are very sick from the nervous excitement consequent from their unwilling hugging.

Battle with the Reds.

A courier from the camp of two troops of the Sixth cavalry, stationed at Sonth Fork, Cheyenne, says a squaw-man, named Rider, brought the report to the commanding officer that there had been a bloody encounter four miles north of Pine Ridge Agency, between the United States troops and some 400 or 500 Indians, under Kicking Bear, and that a number had been killed on both sides. The Indians were put to rout and a large number captured, including Kicking Bear.

Serious Charges.

Mayor Gardner of Cleveland, was suddenly called from his office recently to visit the bedside of a noted law-breaker, Aug. Fay, whose parents were once wealthy and respected residents of that city. To Mayor Gardner, Fay made serious charges against Superintendent J W. Schmidt, of the police force, declaring that Schmidt has extorted large sums of money from him at various times during his administration.

Opposition to the Harvester Trust

A special from Springfield, Ohio, says: The Farmers' Alliance has appointed a committe to get the Mammoth East street shops here to manufacture farm machinery and to oppose the American Harvester Co., a combination of havesting machinery manufacturers. They propose forming a stock company, no one to furnish over $1,000, and to furnish machinery at cost to all Alliance members.

Killed by the Cars.

Benjamin Motter, aged 40, was instantly killed at Atlanta, Ind. A horse and buggy containing a small boy was running down the street towards the railroad crossing when the Lake Erie train was due. Motter stepped upon the track to stop the runaway when the engine ground him under its wheels crushing him to death. Both legs were cut off.

The National Farmer's Alliance.

The National Farmers' Alliance has passed a resolution advising alliance men to read no newspaper not maintaining an alliance department and maintaining a friendly attitude toward the alliance. This was passed as a substitute for an ironclad resolution boycotting all non-alliance papers.

A Black Fiend.

Dan McAllister, a negro, was arrested at Mt. Vernon, Ind., charged with assaulting three prominent young ladies with evident intent to rape. Fortunately, the ladies all escaped without injury. There is great excitement, and a strong probability that the negro will be hanged by a mob.

Poor Man's Panic.

Isadore Strauss, of New York, in an interview predicts a poor man's panic. "So far," said he, "we have had a rich man's panic, induced largely by speculative efforts to depress securities. Before the situation is relieved," said Mr. Strauss, "the masses are bound to suffer. I expect to see factories shut down, or run on short time, wages lowered and a general era of hard times."

Re-Coinage of Trade Dollars.

The Republican caucus committee has reached an agreement which will take the shape of a bill to be prepared by Senator Sherman, providing for the purchase of surplus silver bullion, estimated at twelve million dollars' worth, and the issue of $100,000,000 of 2 per cent. bonds to purchase silver bullion from time to time to make good the retirement of national bank circulation and the r-ecoinage of trade dollars.

Kuhns, the Outlaw.

Mervin Kuhns, the Rube Burrows of Indiana, who lies in the Allen County, Ind., jail, is fast recovering. Although he has five bullets in his body, three of which are in his lungs, he has a good appetite, plays cards, and amuses himself in other ways. Officer Kennelly, who was wounded three times while capturing Kuhns, is not so well, and there are grave fears that he will not recover.

All Three Drowned.

The bodies of Joseph Marshall, his 15-year old son Charles, and a young man named Herbert Corner, of Harbor Springs, were found on the beach seven miles west of Petoskey, Mich. They were seen returning from their fishing-ground just before a terrible squall and snow storm swept over the bay.

Chatham, Ill., Subsides Two Feet.

A considerable area of ground in the village of Chatham, Illinois, settled about two feet, carrying with it several houses and a portion of the Chicago and Alton Railroad track. The ground has been undermined by the Chatham Coal Mining Company, which will probably be called upon to make good the loss.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

The west-bound passenger train on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad crashed into the caboose of a freight train near the Needles, Cal. It is reported that the fireman of the passenger engine, an unknown man, and M. A. Thompson, a wealthy cattle breeder of Iowa City, were killed. It is also reported that five passengers were fatally injured.

Perished in the Flames.

The residence of Cyrus Butter, a farmer living about twelve miles north of Alliance, Ohio was, destroyed by fire. His four children were asleep upstairs when the fire broke out, but all escaped except Esther, age 5 years, who perished in the flames. The loss is not known and there was no insurance.

Fatal Wreck.

There was a disastrous wreck on a branch line of the Danville road near Laurenseile, N. C. A construction train jumped the track and piled up alongside of it. John Lawrence, James E. Walling, John Ellis, and Robert Scott, members of the train's crew, were taken out of the wreck dead. Four others were badly injured.

Sail for Paris.

The Irish envoys, Mr. Wm. O'Brien and Mr. T. P. Gill, have sailed on the steamship Obdam for Boulogne, from whence they will proceed to Paris. Mr. Timothy Harrington, another of the envoys, sailed on the Cunard steamer Aurania for Queenstown.

The American Peace Congress.

The American Peace and Arbitration Association, in session at Richmond, Ind., has elected the following officers: President, Dr. Richard H. Thomas, Baltimore; Secretary, Daniel Hall, Richmond; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Emiline H. Burgess, New York.

A Big Fire.

A cooper shop in Benwood, Ohio, caught fire and the flames spread to six dwelling houses, completely destroying everything in the way. The town was at the mercy of the fire until hose companies from Bellaire and Wheeling went to their relief.

What the Grangers Want.

The Michigan State Grange passed a resolution demanding the issue of $12,000,000 currency by the Government monthly. Gov. Luce addressed the meeting. Thomas Marr, of Berrien, was elected Grand Master.

Miss Vorhees Embraces Catholicism.

A private letter from Washington, received at Terre Haute, states that Miss Hallie Voorhees, only daughter of Senator Voorhees, has been received in the Roman Catholic faith.

Wade Hampton Beaten.

On the fourth ballot in the South Carolina Legislature Col. Irby, Speaker of the House and an Alliance Democrat, was elected United States Senator over Gen. Wade Hampton.

An Aged Couple Robbed.

An unknown robber attacked Asa Wallace and wife, an aged couple residing near New Castle, Ind., and beat them fatally, and, taking $1,000, escaped.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Common to Prime	$3.25	@ 5.00
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.25	@ 4.00
Sheep	3.00	@ 5.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.92½	@ .93½
Corn—No. 2	.51½	@ .52
Oats—No. 2	.42	@ .43
Rye—No. 2	.67	@ .69
Butter—Choice Creamery	.25	@ .28
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@ .10¼
Eggs—Fresh	.23½	@ .24½
Potatoes—Western, per bu	.85	@ .95
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping	3.50	@ 4.75
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@ 3.75
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@ 4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.93	@ .93½
Corn—No. 1 White	.50	@ .51
Oats—No. 2 White	.48	@ .48½
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.00	@ 5.25
Hogs	3.00	@ 3.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.94½	@ .95½
Corn—No. 2	.51	@ .52
Oats—No. 2	.44½	@ .45½
Barley—Minnesota	.74	@ .76
CINCINNATI.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.50
Hogs	3.00	@ 3.75
Sheep	3.00	@ 5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.97½	@ .98½
Corn—No. 2	.52½	@ .53½
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.47½	@ .48½
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.86	@ .88
Corn—No. 3	.49	@ .50
Oats—No. 2 White	.44	@ .45
Rye—No. 1	.68	@ .69
Barley—No. 2	.64	@ .66
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@ 4.25
Hogs	3.00	@ 3.50
Sheep	3.00	@ 4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.96	@ .97
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.53	@ .53½
Oats—No. 2 White	.46½	@ .47
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.96½	@ .97½
Corn—Cash	.52	@ .53
Oats—No. 2 White	.47½	@ .48½
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.00	@ 5.00
Hogs—Medium and Heavy	3.50	@ 3.75
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	1.09	@ 1.09½
Corn—No. 2	.58	@ .58½
EAST LIBERTY.
Cattle—Common to Prime	3.50	@ 4.75
Hogs—Light	3.75	@ 4.50
Sheep—Medium to Good	4.00	@ 5.00
Lambs	4.00	@ 5.75
NEW YORK.
Cattle	3.50	@ 5.25
Hogs	2.50	@ 3.75
Sheep	4.00	@ 5.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.04	@ 1.08
Corn—No. 2	.54	@ .58
Oats—Mixed Western	.43	@ .51

INDIANA NEWS BUDGET.

INCIDENTS THAT HAVE LATELY OCCURRED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes Casualties and General News Notes.

—A. J. Cottrell, of Atherton, was killed by the cars.

—Elder M. M. Vancleve, of Crawfordsville, is 80 years old, and has married 681 couples.

—John Payne, of Mount Auburn, aged 80, committed suicide by swallowing morphine.

—John G. Lantz, an aged German, who lived alone at LaPorte, was found dead in his chair.

—The American glass-works at Anderson, closed down for some months, will resume Jan. 1.

—An incendiary burned G. W. Watkin's stable at Mt. Vernon and six draft horses perished.

—The Morgan County F. M. B. A. has petitioned the Martinsville authorities for a market house.

—Dr. W. W. Steel, of Waveland, is under arrest at Anderson on the charge of highway robbery.

—Anson Albee, of Crawfordsville, aged 72 years, walked off a trestle at Martinsville and was killed.

—Benjamin Bains, of Greentown, was fatally crushed by a saw-log, which he was assisting to load.

—Daniel Taxworthy, of Johnson County, lost his right arm by the careless handling of a shot-gun.

—Frank Ballinger, of Rome City, attempted to skate across the lake at that point and was drowned.

—The barn and out-buildings on Sheriff Brown's farm, near Seymour, was burned. Loss, $2,800.

—The population of Crawfordsville, including the suberbs, is 7,649, according to the new city directory.

—Prof. A. H. Graham, of the Rushville Academy, was thrown from his carriage and dangerously injured.

—Thomas Edwards, who mysteriously disappeared from Goshen some days ago, was killed by a train in Ohio.

—Mary Faulkner, colored, of Jeffersonville, didn't know a flobert rifle was loaded. She will probably die.

—A wild beast, supposed to be a panther, is playing havoc with stock in Sugar Creek Township, Vigo County.

—Lewis Myers, a prominent farmer of Hanover Township, Shelby County, was found dead in his barn. Heart disease.

—The Orange County Poor Farm has been run during the past year at a net cost of 77 cents per week for each inmate.

—Mrs. L. A. Henning, of Waterloo, was killed by the discharge of a revolver which she knocked off a table in the dark.

—Bainbridge claims the tallest man in the State in the person of Andrew Hart, who measures six feet and eleven inches.

—The carriage firm of Berkner & Buser, at Crawfordsville, has made an assignment. Assets, $1,200; liabilities, $2,000.

—Fort Wayne boasts a "Jack the Kisser," and several respected women have fallen victims to his unwelcome caresses.

—W. J. Weedman, of Jeffersonville, coughed up a piece of a rib that had been lodged in his lung by an accident during the war.

—Henry Volmerding, employed in a Fort Wayne brass foundry, was horribly burned by the upsetting of a ladle of molten metal.

—Fire in the Lowell school, near Columbus, was discovered by the teacher just in time to clear the room before the roof collapsed.

—Two policemen had a lively pistol battle with half a dozen tramps in the railroad yards at Greencastle, but no blood was spilled.

—William Gipe, of Wilkinson, was accidentally shot on his leg, below the knee, with a shotgun, by his brother, while out hunting.

—The Montgomery County Commissioners have elected W. T. Whittington as county attorney and Dr. E. W. Keegan as county physician.

—Benjamin Harris, aged 93, fell down the cellar stairs while carrying a keg of lard at his home near Sevastopol and was seriously injured.

—The committee appointed by the Wittenberg Lutheran Synod has declared Rev. D. J. Mitterling, of Lagrange, guilty of immorality.

—George Webb who had been employed as telegraph operator at New Castle, for some time, has fled the town taking $200 of the company's money.

—Matthews & Hatland, of Indianapolis, have purchased two hundred acres of heavily-wooded land near Wheatland, and will convert the timber into lumber.

—The house of T. H. Winton, at Crawfordsville, was damaged by fire to the amount of $1,000. There was no insurance, the policy having expired the 1st of the month.

—The threatened injunction against the disposing of the Pettit history of the trial has not materialized yet, and the books are being sold at Crawfordsville in large numbers.

—The city officials of Crawfordsville are inspecting the electric-light system at Rushville, having in view the putting in of a new system to be owned by the city. The contract with the present electric-light company expires next June.

—August Reiling, a locksmith, 65 years old, fell off a ladder while repairing a bar sawed out of a window in the county jail at Fort Wayne, and struck the stone floor fifteen feet below. He suffered a fracture of the skull and died in two hours.

—About a dozen persons in Heth and Washington townships, Harrison County, have been notified by the White Caps that they must reform or take the consequences.

—John Truse, a switchman in the Evansville and Terre Haute yard, was crushed to death at Terre Haute. He was standing between two tracks on which were moving freight trains. A door of a box car bulged out far enough to catch him, and he was rolled along between it and the car on the other track until all his ribs and shoulder-blade were crushed in.

—The pension department has appointed a board of examining surgeons for Huntington county consisting of Drs. LaGrange, Severence, E. H. Leyman, and B. H. B. Graystone.

—The authorities of Wabash College do not know anything about the $50,000 bequeathed to the college by D. B. Fayerweather, of New York City, other than what is stated in the dispatches.

—A bill has been prepared to be introduced in the Legislature providing that children born out of wedlock shall take the father's name, be supported and educated by him, and become an heir to his estate.

—Freeling Fetters, a Wabash brakeman, was horribly crushed, at Lafayette, while making a running switch, which resulted in his death. The deceased leaves a wife and two children. The remains will be sent to Andrews, where he resided, for interment.

—The schools at Swamp College, Blackford County, have been closed on account of scarlet fever. The County Board of Health has taken hold, and will do all in its power to prevent the spread of the disease, of which there are grave fears.

—A corn show was held at Whitlock and premiums were given by F. J. Phillips. There were thirty-three entries for the best bushel of corn, and the first prize, a stove, was secured by Jesse Palin, and the second best by Clint Otter. The prize for the two best ears of corn was given to Campbell Schemerhorn. The display of corn was exceedingly fine, and the judges William Kerr, Brazie Kiff, and David Flacher.

—A frightful accident, the result of carelessness, occurred at Montgomery. A miner, named Malachi Salters, started hunting. He stopped to talk with friends and rested the gun-butt on a rail. While toying with it the weapon slipped off and was discharged, the full load entering his breast. He cannot recover. Salters was nearly fatally shot in a row, two years ago, and had his jaw broken by an officer's club several months ago.

—One of the most bitterly-contested applications for liquor license ever known in Miami County, consuming four days' hearing before the County Commissioners, with over one hundred witnesses, and able counsel on both sides, has just been adversely decided against William Lancaster, a saloonkeeper at Xenia, that county. This leaves only one saloon in the village, and is a great triumph of the temperance and moral element of the place.

—Billy Grogan, a tinner, had what is probably his last fall when he fell sixty feet from the top of the new refrigerator building erected by the brewery company at Terre Haute. One of his arms was broken, and he is injured internally. He was on the roof of the tool-works when it fell in recently, and was badly injured. Later he was on top of the woolen-mill when it caught fire, and was again seriously injured in trying to get down.

—One of the boldest robberies ever committed in Delaware county was perpetrated at Cowan. Some time in the night the robbers drove a big wagon to the general store of Perdue & Knott, loaded it with $100 worth of assorted goods and drove off unmolested. When leaving, the robbers awakened a number of unsuspecting citizens with their loud hallooing. They gained an entrance by chopping a large hole in the side of the building, and then climbed in and opened the door.

—In the report to the Governor, for 1890, of President Langsdale, of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Commission, he reviews the causes of the delay in the completion of the works, and details how the commission has used every means to have it forwarded as rapidly as possible. The disbursements during the year amounted to $27,566.61, of which amount $3,310.61 was for incidental expenses, and the entire expenditure to date is $112,864.99, of which sum $26,423.88 were for incidentals, and the remainder, $86,441.11, for the structural work.

—On waking up the other morning Miss Lagora Jones the 14-year-old daughter of Charles Jones, chief of the Brazil fire department, discovered that she had been relieved of her beautiful tresses of auburn hair, which were the pride of the family. Investigation showed that a window at her bedside had been raised, after forcing open the shutters, through which the thief had reached and clipped clean and close her beautiful, wavy ringlets. All the girls in town with beautiful tresses are on the qui vive.

—Police Officer William W. Reeves, of Union City, was struck by the incoming passenger train on the Big Four Road and instantly killed. He was watching for suspicious characters, who rendezvous in Kuntz's lumber-yard adjoining the west end of the railroad yard, and, being confused by the headlights and escaping steam of engines on the side tracks, he did not notice the in-coming train, and attempted to cross the track immediately in front of the engine, which caught him and mangled his body in a horrible manner. Mr. Reeves served through the war as a member of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Indiana Volunteers, being mustered out as first lieutenant. He leaves a widow and one son.

—In the postoffice at Rockport, Miss Annie Brown was assaulted by Miss Bettie Love, with an improvised slung-shot, inflicting injuries that will probably prove fatal. Jealousy over a lover was the cause of the trouble.

—The Government Engineer has accepted and approved the awarding of the Madison ship-yard bid for building thirteen new government barges. The same yard recently completed a similar contract for thirty barges, giving good satisfaction.

—A Miss Acrea, who lives with her parents near Reelsville, eight miles east of Brazil, has begun suit in the Putnam Circuit Court for $5,000 for defamation of character against Moses Risley, a wealthy young farmer neighbor.

—The directors of the Montgomery County Agricultural Association met and elected new officers as follows: President, John L. Davis; Senior Vice-President, M. B. Waugh; Junior Vice-President, Wm. H. Durham; Treasurer, G. W. Hadley; Secretary, W. W. Morgan. The Fair-Ground Committee is J. S. Brown, Jacob Hutton and Colonel Barnhill.

An Equivalent for Suicide.

If we allow our bodily infirmities to make away with us through neglect, have we such an immense moral advantage over the deliberate suicide? Scarcely. For example, the deadly progress of Bright's disease, diabetes, acute nephritis and gravel is sure—often terribly swift in the catastrophe. Most people of average information know that this is the simple, unvarnished truth in regard to these widely prevalent maladies. To delay judicious medication is specially suicidal in such cases. The means of restraint is to be found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Give an impetus to the action of the kidneys with this safe and reliable diuretic, and the infant complaint is shorn at its birth of the power for evil. Allow it to grow, and anticipate the worst. The Bitters, which annihilates these growing troubles, also eradicates dyspepsia, rheumatism, malaria, and liver complaints. Appetite, sleep, and vigor are also promoted by it.

Storm Signals by Telephone.

It is proposed to increase the facilities for obtaining warning of coming storms by utilizing the telephone. Mr. Faye, a leading authority of the French Academy of Sciences, has asserted his belief in the feasibility of the plan, and he is of the opinion that the telephone is capable of transmitting storm sounds and of predicting a tempest at least twelve hours before it bursts. There seems to be no reason to believe that the telephone cannot be used for the purpose, as satisfactory work has been done on somewhat the same lines by the microphone, by which instrument, indeed, most reliable indications of subterranean disturbance are now obtained.

$100 Reward. $100.

The numerous readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

His Modest Request.

Distinguished Individual — Possibly, sir, you do not remember me. Years ago I was your office boy. One day you sent me with $10 to buy stamps. I took that money, invested it, and realized a cool $100,000.

Great Merchant—Well, I'll forgive you. What do you want now?

Distinguished Individual—I would like to borrow another $10.

How a Girl Made Money.

MR. EDITOR:—I am tempted to give my experience for the benefit of others. I sent $5 to H. F. Delno & Co., Columbus, Ohio, and received a fine machine for plating with gold, silver and nickel. The plating is done so nice every person wants work done. I get all the knives, forks and jewelry I can plate. I made $4.40 the first day, $27.90 the first week; in one month I had $168 clear profit. My brother makes $10 to $20 per day selling platers. Any one can do as much by writing to the above firm for circulars.

Yours truly,
LUCY V. BABBIT.

A Co-operative Farm.

A colony of about twenty-five families have recently purchased a tract of 3,000 acres of choice farm land in Cullinan County, Ala., on which to locate a co-operative farm. It is to be organized as a joint stock company with a capital stock of $200,000, limited to 200 shares of $1,000 each.

A WHITE man named Johnson shot and killed a negro at McCool's Station, Miss., because he would not dance to suit him.

For Cure of SPRAINS & STRAINS use
St. Jacobs Oil
Cures
STIFFNESS.
Stiff Neck, Soreness

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

SHILOH'S
CONSUMPTION
CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

CATARRH CURED. Write for sample. LAUDERBACH COMPANY, Newark, New Jersey. FREE

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles, EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST! LUNEAS! NEVADA! IMPERIAL PINK! ROUSSEL ROSE EDEN BOUQUET! LILY OF THE VALLEY! All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a cobweb, Lasting as the hills."

☞ If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.

46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND.

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?

1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.

2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.

3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.

CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.

MASTERS CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

BUY AT DRUGGISTS.

HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR and STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER VII.

THE HAUNTED TOWER.

Leaving Sir Reginald to his wild ride on that lovely May morning, we will go back a day or two in our story, and again seek Dr. Elfenstein.

In many of his visits, which were all professional, he had, by dropping some leading word, striven to discover the public mind in regard to the murder committed in their midst twenty-five years before.

To his surprise, he met everywhere a decided reluctance to talk upon the subject, as the law had acquitted the only one suspected, but the gloomy looks and wise shakes of the head he so often met told him well that the younger brother Fitzroy was still held guilty in the opinions of the general mass of the inhabitants.

Sorry to see that his friend was still so hardly thought of, Earle Elfenstein dropped the subject. Jumping into his gig, he drove away to the village, resolved to go through the extensive grounds of the "Hall," as strangers were in the daily habit of doing.

Glendenning Hall lay next to his own cottage home, and stopping at the gate lodge, he asked permission of the keeper to drive around the premises.

This permission was easily gained, and the son of the gatekeeper, an intelligent boy of fourteen, volunteered to ride with him, to explain the places on the route.

So climbing to his side, Sandy began at once to chatter of all that come into his young head.

"You are the new doctor, I know that well," he remarked; "so it is all right for you to know how to get to the Hall, in case you are sent for in a hurry. It is quite a ride, you see, before the mansion comes even in sight. This front part of the house is where the family live, and is of stone, very handsome; but all that wing, or part, that runs back, very old, deserted, and almost falling to pieces."

Dying insensibly away
From human thoughts and purposes,
It seemed—wall, window, roof, and tower—
To bow to some transforming power,
And blend with the surrounding trees.

These lines flashed into Earle Elfenstein's mind as he gazed on the almost ruined portions of the old Hall. Then, again, his thoughts returned to the boy, and he said, quietly:

"There was a murder committed here once, I have been told, my boy. Which part was that done in?"

"It is not on the front, but on the right-hand side, where the blind is half-open. That was Sir Arthur's room, and is now occupied by Sir Reginald. It is in the second story; but the balcony railing that surrounds it, you see, is not so very far from the ground, as the house sets so low at that end.

"The body was evidently swung from that balcony to the ground by means of a rope tied under the arms. The rope was dangling there, the next day, in the wind.

"See! This path leads to a beautiful lake; you can see the water plainly through those parting tree boughs. There the body was supposed to have been flung, to hide it for a time; but it must have been carried away the same night, for it never has been found."

"That is very strange," quoth the Doctor. "Where could the murderers have hidden it?"

"No one can tell. People think his brother did the deed, as they had quarreled the night before it happened; but when he was tried it seemed to be proved that he did not."

"Yonder is a curious-looking building," remarked Earle, pointing to a square brick tower that stood beyond, yet attached to, the deserted wing. "What may that be?"

"It is called 'The Haunted Tower.' Please drive fast past that, Doctor, for I shiver whenever I think of it, even, much less pass near it!" returned Sandy.

"Why?"

"Because it is a fearful place. It is haunted!" was the whispered reply.

"Who says so?"

"Everybody. No one likes to take this path, even in daylight, such terrible things appear at those windows at the top of the tower on dark, stormy nights."

"Who, for one, has seen these things?"

"I have. And so has every person who lives in a house with windows facing this way, or who is out much nights. You see, that tower is very tall, and soars way above the trees. I saw it myself the last time we had a terrible storm. I was staying with Jim Colgrove all night. Jim lives just below you, in the village. It was about ten o'clock, and we were in his room, undressing.

"When we were ready for bed, Jim put out the light and I ran to the window to see if it still stormed, when suddenly a bright light caught my eyes, in the top of the tower, and, looking up, I saw the most frightful object eyes ever beheld, dancing inside, plainly seen through the windows."

The boy stopped here, while his eyes seemed dilating with horror at the remembrance, and his lips grew pale.

"What was it like?"

"Oh, I don't want to describe it! I can't, really! Jim looked out when I screamed, and was as frightened as I, so we both jumped into bed, quick, and covered up our heads to shut out the sight. It was terrible, Doctor, terrible!"

"Are you sure others have seen it?"

"Oh, yes; and you can see it yourself if you look that way about ten o'clock the next hard storm that comes. It seldom fails to appear then."

Dr. Elfenstein said no more, but inwardly resolved to remember, and be on the lookout for the specter of the Haunted Tower. Yet, while he resolved, he laughed at himself for putting the least faith in this boy's unlikely story.

"It is a wild tale these villagers have invented, in order to excite strangers and draw attention to this quiet, rural place. I do not believe one word about the ghost, yet, for the joke of the thing, I will look this way about ten some real stormy night and see what is to be seen."

As if to keep the thing in remembrance, Earle saw that the sun was sinking, even then, into a bank of clouds, and he concluded that a thunder storm would burst over them that very night.

One thing, however, Earle Elfenstein noted, the present baronet's apartments were on the same side of the building that connected with the ruined portion, while the tall old tower, which seemed of more modern build, stood just back of the whole, while its large windows on each of the four sides could be distinctly seen by the whole village inhabitants, as it rose so far above the houses, and even above many of the numerous trees that filled the grounds.

With a breast full of curiosity and eager to be at work unraveling the mystery that hung so deeply over this well-known place, Earle turned the head of his horse toward the entrance, determined if a storm did rage at ten that night to be stationed at some window or place where the Haunted Tower could be distinctly seen.

Could Dr. Elfenstein have known what the appalling storm had in store for him he surely would have dreaded more its coming.

CHAPTER VIII.

WHAT DR. ELFENSTEIN SAW.

The life of a physician is certainly a very unsettled and unsatisfactory one. No sooner, therefore, had Earle Elfenstein retired to his library after his lonely supper and become deeply interested in a book, while waiting for the hour to come, than a severe thunder shower was ushered in by muttered thunder and zig-zag lightning, and a rat-tat! tat-tat! rat-tat-tat came at the door, and a call for services about two miles off.

"Well," he thought, as he vaulted upon the back of his faithful horse Sultan, "I can, perhaps, have a view of his ghostship on our way back if we hasten.

"My! what a sharp flash that was!"

So saying he touched his horse and sped off in the darkness.

Before reaching the home of his patient, the storm was indeed upon him.

He lingered fully an hour, hoping it would abate, but instead, its fury seemed to increase with every breath. His patient had fallen into a quiet sleep, and he was anxious to be off. Donning his rubber coat, with its protecting hood well drawn over his hat, he started homeward.

Pitchy darkness he encountered all the way, relieved only by vivid flashes of lightning that darted hither and thither over the inky sky, while the wind, eerie-like, soughed through the tall trees of the grounds surrounding Glendenning Hall; then, seeming to gather force with each lull, broke loose again into fury, lashing and thrashing the branches in a fearful manner.

The rain also fell in torrents.

Suddenly, a brilliant flash of lightning caused his horse to shy to one side, while a crash of thunder almost appalled him.

Raising his eyes instinctively toward the sky, they fell by accident (for its very existence had been forgotten in the excitement of the moment) upon the windows of the Haunted Tower.

The words of the boy were fully confirmed; the most horrid creature fancy could picture was surely dancing just within the tower in full, plain view.

A hideous figure, with large, flaming eyes, and strange, fully defined horns each side the head, was jumping up and down, amid a glare of what seemed sulphurous light, while every now and then it sank down only to reappear, going through the same wild motions and capers, each one appalling enough to strike terror to the hearts of the superstitious beholder.

But Dr. Elfenstein was not a superstitious man. Ghosts, goblins, specters, all were to him mere vagaries of a crazed brain. Therefore, while startled and horrified for one moment by this singular apparition, the next he coolly reined in his horse, and thus stood still, calmly contemplating the scene.

He certainly had not fancied the thing he saw! He felt himself, the horse; then again comprehended fully the situation; the pouring rain, the wild thunder and still wilder lightning, and there ahead of him, distinctly visible, the windows of the Haunted Tower, with this hideous dancer.

No! He, Earle Elfenstein, M. D., was not dreaming, but, in truth, was a living witness of something so inexplicable and singular that he then and there instantly determined that it should be his aim, his study, nay, his duty, to unravel the meaning of this perplexing enigma, this covert mystery that had for years, it seemed, almost paralyzed the villagers with fear, and now had obtruded upon the notice of himself, a stranger, engaged in following out the duties of his profession in a dark and stormy night.

While still sitting there upon the back of his horse, lost in amazement and conjecture, the demoniacal hobgoblin, apparition, or whatever the evil genius of the Haunted Tower might be called, dropped from sight; the strange, lurid light disappeared; darkness reigned over the place, except as revealed by the lightning flashes, and the puzzled and undaunted physician was free to urge his horse onward once more towards the peaceful cottage that he called his home.

Once within the cheerful shelter of the library he seated himself beside the table, drew nearer the wax candles, and again took up his book to read another chapter before retiring for the night.

But he soon found that reading was impossible, for ever before the page flitted the impish figure he had seen, with its horns, its flaming eyes, and hideous contortions.

Closing the book then he leaned his head against the tall back of his chair, and thought long and deeply.

At the close of his cogitations, as he laid himself down upon his bed for the night, one result alone was reached, namely:

"There had been a murder committed years before within Glendenning Hall, and the murderer was still unknown and at large.

"For some unaccountable reason the tower was made to appear in the possession of evil spirits by some parties, also unknown."

In his soul Dr. Elfenstein believed the dreadful apparition he had himself witnessed that night was the work of some wicked person, wrought out, probably, to keep up the superstitious notoriety such a mystery would bring upon a place.

Whichever or whatever the motive, and what the meaning of the whole thing might be, he was resolved to find out.

But how? Such questions are often asked by human hearts on private meditation, and as no answer comes, they press on blindly, seeking the fulfillment of their queries in their own way, and that way often leads, as it did in this case, to strange and wholly unlooked for results.

Finding sleep impossible, the Doctor again arose, and drawing aside the curtain from the window once more gazed forth into the darkness of the night.

But while the storm still raged furiously, and the sky was shrouded by an inky pall, no light appeared from the direction of the Hall to whisper forebodingly of the specter of the tower.

Leaning his head against the sash, the young physician soon found himself pursuing another and an entirely different train of thought.

This time the storm passing before his eyes was transferred to the wildly lashed and foaming billows of the sea. His peaceful home had changed to the cabin of an ocean steamer, and the goblin of night into the graceful form of Ethel Nevergall, his lovely fellow passenger of a few weeks before.

Again he seemed to be supporting her in his arms, while guiding her feet across the saloon of the rocking, swaying, plunging steamer.

Once more their fingers seemed to have met, and he was gazing, with a thrilling pressure upon his heart, into her frightened eyes and upon her blushing cheeks.

Ah, beautiful, lost Ethel! How he longed to see her, to speak to her, to be near her; but he knew that for him such a pleasure would never again be, so with a weary sigh he dropped the curtain and turned to his pillow, but not to sleep even, but to toss around and strive in vain to banish from his mind thoughts of the girl who had unconsciously succeeded in leaving so indelible an impression upon his heart.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

TEN ordinary eggs will weigh a pound.

A DANGEROUS AGENT.

INDISCRIMINATE USE OF HYPNOTISM CONDEMNED.

Chicago Medical Men Commend the Action Taken by the Medico-Legal Society—They Say Hypnotism Should Be Employed Only by Experts—Some Interviews.

[Chicago dispatch.]

All reputable physicians in this city unite in commendation of the resolve of the Medico-Legal Society of Chicago to seek the passage of a law preventing laymen from employing hypnotism, mesmerism, or magnetism for experimental or other purposes. The society, which was organized for the purpose of discussing the legal phases of medicine and the necessary legislation for the science, has passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That public seances of hypnotism, mesmerism, and magnetism should be prohibited by law under severe penalty, and that the employment of hypnotism for medical purposes should be permitted solely to duly qualified medical men, conditioned upon its being practiced only in the presence of other medical men or undoubted friends of the patients operated upon.

A committee was appointed to present this resolution to the Legislature.

"Hypnotism," said Dr. E. M. Hale, "is a dangerous agent in anybody's hands, and its use should certainly be restricted to those who are responsible to the law as medical men are. I have read sufficient in the French journals to know that the subject under the operator's hands is absolutely irresponsible and will do anything suggested—even what is suggested in the operator's mind. After coming out of the hypnotic state a subject does not recollect what he did when in that state. There is nothing, therefore, to prevent murder and make an irresponsible criminal.

"When I was young I took up the study of biology—what is now called hypnotism and mesmerism—and lectured on it. I was astounded by the results that can be secured by the power, and it is clear that it should be used only by medical men for the relief of suffering and disease."

"Why should hypnotic seances be stopped?"

"Medical men are conservative, and will not adopt any method that is in vogue amongst the laity or charlatans. If a law were passed preventing the quacks from employing hypnotism the study would be taken up by all medical men in earnest. Mind-curers are a species of hypnotizers. They cure at times, especially nervous diseases, by the power of one mind over another, but medical men do not stoop to consult them."

"Would the law, then, if passed, wipe out the mind-curers?"

"A strict construction of the law would put faith cure, mind cure, and Christian science in the same category with hypnotism. Public exhibitions of hypnotism tend to degrade the science, just as vivisection would do. The law confines that to the medical college. There is just as good reason for confining the use of hypnotism as the use of poison. No layman can secure morphine or arsenic without a physician's prescription. I know twenty or thirty prominent citizens who have become monomaniacs by being votaries of hypnotism or Christian science, which is the same thing. A law such as the one proposed will meet with the approbation of every reputable physician in the city."

Dr. J. E. Owens said: "The resolution is proper and should be enforced as speedily as possible. The indiscriminate use of hypnotism should no more be tolerated than ether for amusing audiences, individuals, or for self-gratification. Hypnotism, I think, will not be of much use in therapeutics. It's an old thing that has been revived to be used by more efficient and more scientific men, but I do not think it will take a strong hold on the profession. The doctors, however, see that if it is going to be planted with an expectation of growing some restrictions ought to be placed around it. I do not think a law on the use of the power will affect faith-curers."

Dr. J. H. Stowell said: "There is a good deal of danger attending the practice of hypnotism, and it ought to be handled by those who are skilled in its use. The means to which it can be put are too far-reaching to be intrusted to laymen. I think that is the chief reason why such a law should be passed. Outsiders might use hypnotism for base and improper purposes. As for public exhibitions, they are used for deceiving people, and the science is brought into ridicule. There is some good in hypnotism, and it should be kept under the most careful supervision. There is sufficient merit in the proposed law to engage the support of all upright physicians."

"Hypnotism ought to be policed, just as alcohol is," said Dr. J. H. Etheridge.

Dr. George S. Isham—The subject is comparatively a new one, which in the next few years will demonstrate just what can be done with it. With the dangers arising from it at present are I do not know, but I do think these public and private seances given for amusement ought to be broken up, as we can not tell what might result from them. In our profession hypnotism's practicability has yet to be demonstrated."

ARE WE TO HAVE A PANIC?

The Financial Situation the Subject of a Cabinet Consultation.

[Washington (D. C.) dispatch.]

The financial situation was looked upon to-day as worthy of a special consultation between the President and his Cabinet officers, and a special message is talked of. There is not much that the administration can do to relieve the situation except by buying bonds. It has been shown conclusively that the Treasury Department will not go back to the policy of turning the Government receipts into the national banks instead of into the Sub-Treasury. That would be a good thing for the speculators who want the use of the Government money. But under conditions like the present if the deposits were to be called in a panic would almost certainly follow.

The propositions received to-day for 4 per cent. bonds reached a total of $4,000,000, at prices ranging from $1.22 to $1.25. The statement is made that this is a great showing for the first day, since it leaves but $1,000,000 to be offered.

That New York banks wanted the money the offerings seem to show. But it does not look as though the cheerfulness over the prospect of giving permanent relief to the speculators is warranted by the facts. Within a week Wall street will be asking that more bond calls be issued, and pretty soon the Government will find that holders are not anxious to part with their bonds. Secretary Windom was able to tell his colleagues in the Cabinet to-day that the offerings had been large enough to ease the pressure for the present.

The open question was how to do what could be done for legitimate business without giving further encouragement to the speculators. If the present circulation is really not sufficient for the wants of the country the remedy must come through the legislative branch of the Government. All the executive department can do is to keep what money there is in circulation.

Efforts are making to have the President send a special message to Congress urging prompt legislation, but the conservative force in the administration is probably strong enough to prevent flying a danger signal.

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Law-Makers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

IN the Senate, on motion of Mr. Aldrich, the House bill to authorize the payment of drawback or rebate on tobacco (to correct an omission in the tariff bill) passed on the 10th, and it now goes to the President for his approval. The Senate then resumed consideration of the election bill, and Mr. George spoke in opposition to it. Mr. George occupied just four hours in the delivery of his speech, all of which he read from manuscript. Senator Farwell introduced a bill to amend Section 1 of the act of July, 1890, "directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon," so as to read as follows: "That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby directed to purchase from time to time all the silver bullion that may be offered at the market price thereof, not exceeding $1 for 371.25 grains of pure silver, and to issue in payment for such purchases of silver bullion Treasury notes of the United States to be prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury, in such form and of such denominations, not less than $1 nor more than $1,000, as he may prescribe. And a sum sufficient to carry into effect the provisions of this act is hereby appropriated. Congressman Abner Taylor introduced in the House a bill to restore the law in relation to importation of tinplate as it was before the McKinley bill was passed. He proposes to reduce the duty to 1 cent a pound. He says he does not ask that tinplate be put on the free list, because he is a protectionist, but he thinks 1 cent will give all the protection needed. He would like to have the McKinley act amended by reducing duties that it increased on some other articles, but he does not seem to be hopeful the Ways and Means Committee will consent to any change in the law.

IN the Senate, the resolution offered by Mr. Plumb for daily meetings of the Senate, with recesses from 5 to 8:30 p. m., was taken up on the 11th. Mr. Cockrell suggested that if 11 a. m. were fixed for the hour of meeting there would be an opportunity to attend to some committee work, whereas if the Senate met at 10 no committee work could be done. He also questioned the advisability of night sessions and the probability of an attendance of a quorum. No vote was taken. On motion of Mr. McKenna, of California, the House passed the Senate bill appropriating $10,000 to reimburse Charles N. Felton, formerly Assistant Treasurer of the United States at San Francisco, for losses incurred in the payment of forged checks.

THE Senate decided on the 12th to hold longer daily sessions. The resolution offered by Mr. Dolph instructing the Committee on Privileges and Elections to inquire and report whether the right to vote at any election for Presidential electors, members of Congress, or State legislatures is denied to any male citizens of any State, or is abridged, except for participation in the rebellion or other crime, was taken up, and Mr. Dolph stated the reasons which had induced him to offer it. What he desired the committee to give special attention to was whether some States had not provided in their constitutions or laws such voting qualifications as were not permitted by Section 2 of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution, without an abridgment of representation. He claimed that the constitution recently adopted in Mississippi did impose such qualifications and that, therefore, the representation of that State should be abridged. The reapportionment bill, based on a representation of 356 members of the House of Representatives, as originally proposed by Mr. Frank of Missouri, was favorably acted on by the House Committee on Census. The agreement to report the bill was unanimous, although Mr. Holman and Mr. Tillman reserved the right to vote for a different number than 356. The only vote taken was on a motion made by Mr. Holman to fix the number at 332, and it found no second.

AMONG the bills introduced and referred, on the 13th, were the following: By Mr. Gorman—To establish a record and pension office in the War Department. By Mr. Frye—To establish a marine board for the advancement of the interests of the merchant marine. Mr. Casey offered a resolution calling on the Secretary of Agriculture for information as to the progress made in the investigation for irrigation purposes under the deficiency act of last session. After considerable discussion the resolution was agreed to. The Senate then resumed the consideration of the election bill. Mr. Jones, of Arkansas, made an argument in opposition to it. The interstate meat inspection bill, which passed the Senate some time ago, struck a snag in the House. This measure was designed to relieve meat products to some extent from the delays and expenses of State and local inspectors by providing for careful inspection by United States inspectors. The bill went through the Senate easily, but when it was called up in the House some of the Democrats raised an outcry against it on the ground that it was an unwarranted assumption of power belonging to the States, and the friends of the bill consented to allow it to be referred to the Committee on Agriculture for a report rather than to risk an immediate vote. The proposed legislation was desired by Chicago packers.

MR. EDMUNDS presented the credentials of the election of his colleague, Justin S. Morrill, in the Senate on the 15th. Laid on the table. The first bill considered on the calendar was one enlarging the rights of homesteaders on the public lands. Passed. (It provides that parties who settled opposite unsurveyed lands, and therefore were obliged to take up less than 160 acres, may extend their holdings not to exceed 160 acres. On motion of Mr. Pierce the House bill was passed for the erection of a public building at Fargo, N. D., at a cost of $100,000. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the election bill, the floor being taken by Mr. Colquitt. He made an earnest appeal for the abolition of sectionalism. In the House Mr. Spinola, of New York, from the Committee on Military Affairs, moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill appropriating $100,000 for the erection of a monument to the victims of the prison ships at Fort Green, Brooklyn. Mr. Allen, of Michigan, opposed the bill. The soldiers had died for their country, and they had suffered untold horrors. But it was likewise true that there were all over this country living men who had suffered horrors equally atrocious. At Libby Prison, at Andersonville, and at every prison pen south of the Potomac during the war men had lost their health, and to-day were physical and mental wrecks because of their confinement in the prisons of the South. They should be relieved before monuments to Revolutionary heroes were erected. The motion was lost.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

THE Mikado of Japan will visit Wiesbaden next summer.

RUDYARD KIPPLING is known to his familiar friends as "Ruddy."

SUSAN B. ANTHONY is sitting for her first portrait to a Boston artist.

TOLSTOI has left off smoking cigarettes as a luxury unsuited to his present principles.

MR. JOSEPH PULITZER, of the New York World, has recovered the sight of one eye.

EDWIN ARNOLD'S new poem, the "Light of the World," will appear about Christmas.

LORD LYTTON has written a novel in French; said to be one of the very best of his works.

WILLIAM E. RUSSELL, the Democratic Governor-elect of Massachusetts, is only 33 years of age.

THE man who invented the pig-in-clover puzzle has been sent to a lunatic asylum in St. Louis.

WILLIAM H. ENGLISH, of Indiana, ex-candidate for Vice President, is writing a history of Hoosierdom.

WILLIAM BLACK, the English novelist, likes Americans very much and has hosts of friends among them.

MAIL car No. 14, belonging to the Illinois Central Railroad, has the reputation among the employes of being haunted.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

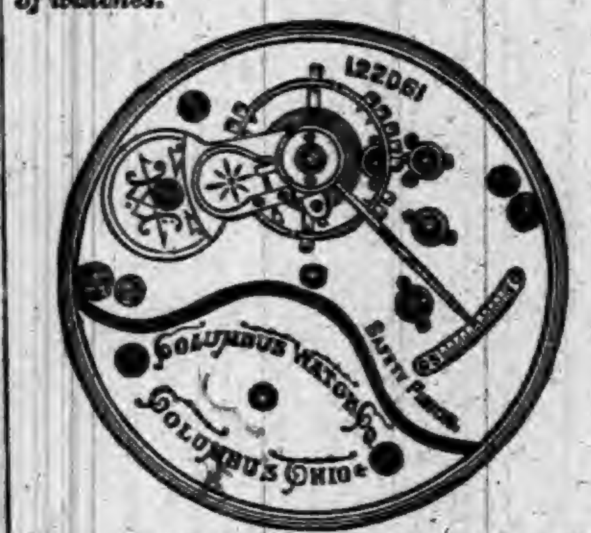
NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester" "ADHESIVE COUNTERS" and you can walk, run or jump in them.



AN ACCURATE WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by

THE COLUMBUS

Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM Florence Mfg. Co., Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN. CLEAN, PERFECT WORK. Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE. IT IS FOR EVERYBODY. Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have 250. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 16, 1890.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
		pm	am	am
Sandusky......lv	......	......	7 30	......	......
Wheeling.........	am *6 50	9 15	......	10 05	pm †9 35
Zanesville.........	8 58	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 17
Newark.........	pm 12 30	1 50	......	3 05	8 30
Columbus......ar	1 25	2 50	......	4 05	9 30
Columbus......lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm 10 50
Mansfield.........	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 38
Deshler.........	3 12	5 52	10 50	10 24	am 1 47
Defiance.........	3 50	6 30	11 47	11 20	2 38
Auburn jc.........	4 44	7 28	pm 1 07	am 12 48	3 29
Avilla.........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.........	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro.........	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro.........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.........	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla.........	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc.........	......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 06	9 42
Defiance.........	pm 3 00	8 00	2 12	4 27	10 48
Mansfield.........	6 14	11 20	......	9 45	am 12 44
Columbus.........	*9 30	am 2 50	......	pm 11 25	3 30
Newark.........	8 07	1 00	......	12 40	5 00
Zanesville.........	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 58
Wheeling......ar	11 55	4 40	......	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh......ar	......	7 25	......	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 50	pm 4 45	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore......ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 25	8 15	......	11 13	......
New York......ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Cincinnati, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't.,
L. S. ALLEN, Assist. Gen. P. A. Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

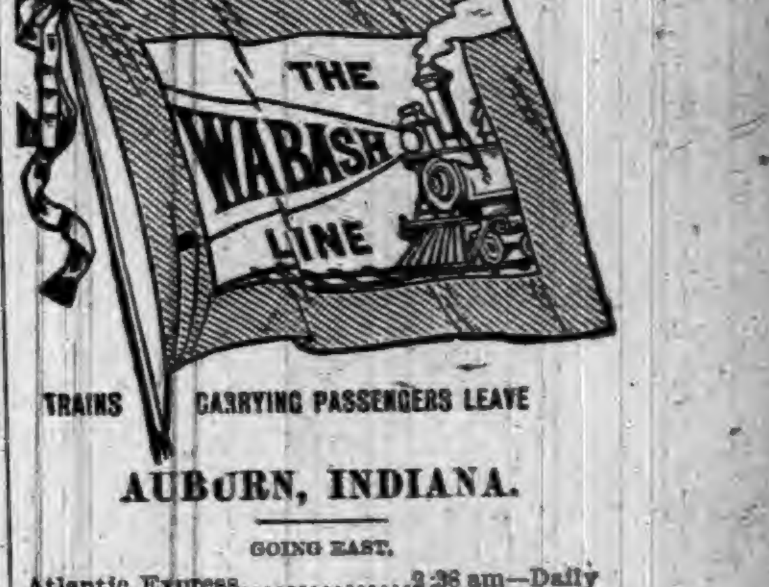
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era.........	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc.........	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn.........	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo.........	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit.........	1 02	5 58	10 35
Pleasant Lake.........	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola.........	1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont.........	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading.........	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers.........	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale.........	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc......	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville.........	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson.........	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson.........	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville.........	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Fort Wayne Junc......	8 56	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale.........	....	12 30	7 35
Bankers.........	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading.........	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont.........	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola.........	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake.........	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit.........	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo.........	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn.........	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc.........	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era.........	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne.........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express..............2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express..............5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom..............2:30 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim..............8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..............1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom..............7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express..............12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim..............5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis..............7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

8 Points on Old Honesty PLUG

1. It's the best.
2. It lasts.
3. It's a pleasure to chew it
4. It satisfies.
5. Always the same.
6. Everybody praises it.
7. You will like it.
8. You should try it.

Ask for it. Insist on having it.
John Finzer & Bros.
Louisville, Ky.

THE LADIES' FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO, ILL. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
ATLANTA, GA.
ST. LOUIS, MO. FOR SALE BY DALLAS, TEX.

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind

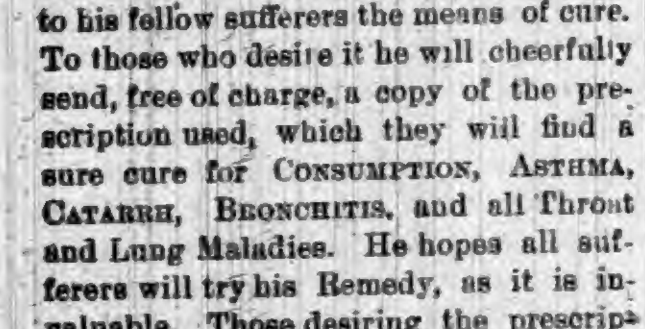
PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.
Our Office is Opposite U.S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y



THE PALACE
LIVERY
SALE AND FEED BARN.
West of Swineford House,
Cor. Ninth and Jackson Sts.,
AUBURN, IND.
J. C. Emry & Geo. Swineford, Pro's.

Good, New Carriages and Fine Horses to let on Reasonable terms. Board for Horses by the Week or Day.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of Its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1840.

Along in December 1840, Park's house burnt down and the log building which had the honor of having the first court in the county held within its rough walls and in addition was the first tavern in Auburn, thus early became the prey of that fiery element which has been so adverse to the financial prosperity of Auburn ever since.

That building recalls the organization of the county. The first judicial proceedings in the administration of law and justice, the first legal punishment of criminals. There were held religious meetings, for Wesley Park was steward on the circuit of the M. E. church embracing a large extent of territory and up into its upper story the criminal went to remain till called to descend the replaced ladder and go back to his clearing or to the solitude of the woods.

As a tavern, many a weary traveler, through the dense and lonely forest, has been sheltered and refreshed beneath its humble roof ere it was turned to ashes. Mr. Park again took possession of the little cabin, he had built on occasion of his first visit and engaged carpenters to rebuild on the same site on a larger scale.

Four years had elapsed and the population probably did not exceed forty persons, and yet a few leading men here at the county seat with confidence in the future that brooked no discouragement invested in town lots and with kind greeting to such as joined them showed how, from an humble beginning, honest labor, pains-taking industry and thrifty management can triumph in the face of all difficulties.

1841.

Most men act from motive and a course known to be attended with some danger and much hardship would not be taken without due deliberation and just estimate of the immediate or future probabilities of benefits.

Elsewhere enterprising men had gone in search of furs, just as more recently, they have explored the Rocky mountains prospecting for mineral wealth, but those men of family who located in Auburn and settled within the limits of DeKalb county had no thought of either.

No chimera of sudden riches led them on through swamps and wood, no expectation of honors cheered their long, difficult journeys. They knew that travel was but a prelude to labor and that there was no room for idlers.

In the old McGuffy's third reader there was a delightful dialogue in which Mr. Barlow calls the boys about him, and proposing himself as the founder of a colony, invites each to announce his trade or profession and as this is done, accepts or rejects with good reasons, the volunteer as useful, partly needed or out of place there.

Wesley Park, of Auburn, might well stand for Mr. Barlow and the newcomers as the actual settlers. Most hoped to find a home for themselves and family, to grow up with the country and whatever their trade had been, to temporarily subordinate this to that common labor essential to the clearing of lots and land and the erection of dwellings, barns and public buildings.

The preacher upon the Sabbath was a laborer on work day; the carpenter, blacksmith and others worked at their trade as opportunity followed that business which paid best. A. T. Frink, probably Auburn's first carpenter, found place to use his knowledge as a surveyor. Nelson Payne, the blacksmith, became a merchant, tavern-keeper, judge and trustee of seminary fund.

The commissioners in session received their plan of the court house, entered into detail of structure and fixed the date when the work was to be done as July 1, '42. L. Ingman as county treasurer made annual report in January, '41 that there was indebtedness on the book of $422.65 and, "no money to pay them." He had received for license since April 30, '39, $105.43¾.

The fraction recalls the sixpence and shilling by which computations were made and the settlers were more familiar with Spanish quarters and Mexican dollars, than the present dimes and the light-weight dollars of the day.

Rufus R. Lounsberry, commissioner of the three per cent fund reported his receipts at $493. He had let jobs to the amount of $511.50 and had paid on them $257.25. Increase of population and location of new roads caused a redistricting of road districts in Concord, Union and Franklin townships.

The license on the vendor of wooden clocks was continued at $50. Brass and composition clocks could be sold by paying a license of $20, and the old time caravan was taxed $30.

Ingman was reappointed treasurer and Wm. P. Means assessor of the county. The superintendents for building a court house were authorized to contract for the clearing or partial clearing of the public square to be paid from common fund if sale of town lots proved inefficient.

An act of the legislature approved Feb. '37 to provide for distributing so much of the surplus revenue of the United States, as the state of Indiana may be entitled to by virtue of an act of Congress passed June 23, 1836, was taken into consideration by the commissioners, who were called upon to decide whether DeKalb's apportionment should be vested in bank stock or loaned out in the county. With excellent good sense, the board ordered that the money should not be invested in bank stock, but should be brought into the county and then loaned out by the surplus revenue agent of the county. In this connection Samuel Widney was appointed revenue agent for the ensuing year.

(To be continued next week.)

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.
W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Last week Monday, Judge McBride, of Elkhart, was in Waterloo.

Mr. Gingery, from Hicksville, Ohio, was in Waterloo a few days since.

E. Thompson has moved his family into the house ownld by Mrs. Clutter, on Elm staeet.

Miss Flora Speer will return from Westerville to spend the holidays with her parents here.

S. J. Lock has received word that the two oldest children of his daughter, Hattie Nolton, have died of diphtheria and that the other may not live.

J. D. McAnnally and Norris Williamson have purchased the property on the east side of Wayne street, heretofore occupied by Charles Meeks for a saloon.

Elmer Speer and Frank Rempis returned Monday to Colorado, after a few weeks' visit with the old friends here. They are interested in mining out there.

Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, Rev. F. C. Knoph, of Elkhart, will deliver a lecture in the M. E church, before, and in the interests of the Epworth League and the Christian endeavor society. Rev. Knoph is spoken of as an interesting speaker and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. The subject is, "A Modern Seer and Prophet."

Married, Dec. 3d, 1890, at the home of the groom's father in Butler City, Montana, by Rev. Howell of the Congregational church, Mr. A. G. Stanley, of Wisdom, Montana, and Miss Cora Fancett, of Waterloo, Ind. The groom is a ranchman of the Big Hole Basin, and the bride will be remembered as one of the successful teachers of this county. Her friends here join in wishing her abundant prosperity and happiness in her new home.

The holidays are now at hand, and the shop windows and show cases of our dealers are filled with beautiful, valuable and attractive, as well as useful goods. Xmas comes but once a year, to commemorate the birth of the Christ child. At this time, everyone should do something to make others happy. All cannot have well-filled purses to purchase expensive gifts for friends, but beautiful and useful articles may be found, for which the lighter purses will be found amply sufficient. Some there are who place more value upon the handiwork of the giver than something that has cost but little thought and no time or labor—but all should be dictated and given from love and kind feelings. At this time, too, the poor should be remembered with gifts and sympathy.

CONCORD.

Oyster supper, Dec. 20.

Richard Ervin is quite sick at present.

James Gifford and wife were at Auburn last Saturday.

Bell Milton returned from visiting her sister, at St. Joe.

Several of the boys have gone to Huntertown to team.

Mrs. F. Buchanan took ill at singing last Sunday evening.

Beef and hog killing is on the farmers' programme, at present.

Several attended the lecture at St. Joe last Sabbath afternoon.

Mrs. Nettie Culbertson has been sick. Hope it is nothing serious.

Joseph Link, of Auburn, is collecting delinquent taxes for several days.

G. W. Draggoo and son Frank was at Waterloo last Thursday on business.

Miss Ida Koch, of Fairview, was the guest of her sister Anna last Sabbath.

C. H. Simonton and wife, of Newville, were here calling on their many friends, Monday.

Mrs. Howard, of Adrian, Mich., is here visiting her daughters, Mrs. Mansfield and two Mrs. Johnsons.

Mrs Ann Culbertson, of Auburn is spending a few week with her many relatives and friends.

A Christmas tree for the little folks on Christmas eve for their punctual attendance the past year.

The hub factory is in operation again under the management of Henry Baker. The saw mill will soon resume its work again.

BUTLER.

Norman Nichols lies seriously ill at his home north of town.

A serious wreck took place on the Wabash Sunday. No one was seriously injured.

Mrs. Anna Glennen, living on East Green street, is seriously ill with consumption, with small hopes of recovery.

The stolen horses have all been recovered, and are but little worse for the forced journey to which they have been subjected.

Father Frederick Hoffman, living three miles east of town, is prostrated by a serious illness. His recovery is a matter of serious doubt.

The P. I craft seems to have been allowed to drift on a bar, or at least to have struck shallow water, owing, perhaps, to the helmsman freezing at his wheel, judging by the deep if not loud mutterings of some of their faithful adherents. Possibly a flood tide may carry the craft again into deep water.

Smooth, dry roads and a clear, bright sky are not a common thing for this latitude in December, but such has been the condition for more than two weeks.

The different churches are making great preparations for Christmas services and the children are looking on with wide-open eyes, in anticipation of the good time coming.

Brick are being delivered on the east side of Broadway for another good building on the burnt district. We hope to see better use made of it than that to which the old was devoted.

DEKALB.

Mother Hall remains about the same.

Wood chopping seems to be the order of the day.

Protracted meeting is in progress at Cedar Creek Chapel.

Wm. Holman and wife are both sick with colds on the lungs.

St. John is being noted for shooting matches and noisy dances.

Fair weather, with the thermometer ranging from twenty to twenty-five above zero.

For felt boots and overshoes give A. McKinley a call. He sells as cheap as the cheapest.

School at this place is prospering. Mr. Bender is engineer and I think understands his business.

Seven or eight men left St. John Sabbath morning with shot guns in hand, for Allen county for a rabbit hunt. They returned in the evening with a two bushel sack full.

Is there a law to prohibit men from gathering together and playing cards until a late hour, poisoning the minds of our boys and inclining them into a train of bad habits which may follow them a lifetime? Young married men have been found at just such a place and taken home, which we think was right and just. Perhaps a few words from you, Mr. Editor, would be of much benefit to the community.

SUMMIT.

Jacob Mortorff is still on the sick list.

O W Stofer, of Hudson, was on our streets last Monday.

E. A Metz, of Hudson, was on our street last Thursday.

A. Forney and wife went to Waterloo last Saturday on business.

John Moore, of Hudson, made our town a short call last Saturday.

Mrs. Mell Lacy visited her parents, P. H. Gramblin, one day last week.

James S. Kelley, of Turkey Creek, was in our town on business last Thursday.

Peter Freed and wife from north of Fairfield Center were in town Monday.

Miss Georgie Chapman commenced her school at the center school this week Monday.

Mrs G. H. McDougle, of Hudson, visited her daughter Mrs. Henry Lawson one day last week.

Misses Lottie and Hattie Heckathorn, of Hudson, visited their uncle, Jacob Mortorff last Sunday.

Edward Huffman, wife and Freddie Mortorff were the guests of Frank Hilt and wife last Sunday.

FEAGLER'S CORNERS.

Farmers are enjoying the fine weather.

George Feagler is plowing his oats ground.

Nelson Chaney expects to build a barn next spring.

David Clutter has rented the house owned by A. B. Hartman.

Rev. S. P. Klotz is holding a series of meetings at Showers' Corners.

Daniel Achemier, of Fairfield township, is hauling his wood to market.

The meeting at Showers' Corners was largely attended Sunday evening.

B. C. Reeder visited friends and relatives at Butler Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Dewie and wife were the guests of J. W. Johnston and family, Sunday.

The literary at Feagler's Corners was largely attended last Thursday evening.

F. Roop and wife visited friends and relatives in Steuben county, Saturday and Sunday.

Kendallville News: At the election McClellan, Babcock and Hubbard, for congress, received 102 votes more than the highest number cast for the several candidates for any county office in this county. This shows that at least 102 ballots were lost to all candidates except those for congress, by the mistake of stamping the square to the left of the first name on the ticket instead of that to the left of the name of the party. Dr. Teal has given the matter some thought, and has had correspondence relating to proposed amendments to the law, after which he concludes that a circle should be placed at the head of the ticket and that the square should be made larger. Should the ballots be thus made it would be easy for anyone to determine where to stamp his ticket. To vote a straight or principal part of a ticket, he would then stamp in the circle at the head, and to vote for any one on any other ticket than his own, he would stamp to the left of the name of his choice.

CONSUMPTION,

In its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Important Church Decisions.

During the past week there have been decisions rendered in the courts of two of the most important, and hotly contested cases in the property matter of the U. B. church. On June 23, at Richmond, Ind., before Judge E. H. Bundy was hotly contested by able counsel on each side, and lasting till July 11th, when the judge took the case under advisement. On Monday, Dec. 1st, he rendered his decision in favor of the Liberals. This was a test case for the state of of Indiana, and on it the radicals had staked their all, considering it their strongest case. On Dec. 4, before Judge H. Elliot, of Dayton, Ohio, was commenced the hearing of the now celebrated Publishing House case involving over a quarter of a million dollars worth of property. This was the property of the whole church, and hence was looked upon by the whole church as a test for it. Judge Elliott also decided it in favor of the liberals. The main and only question in all these cases was, which party is the United Brethren church? Judge Bundy treated the two parties under the heads of "liberal" and "radical" in a lengthy and able review, and came to the conclusion that the acts of the General conference of 1889, were legal and binding, and its adherents, the liberals, are the real church and entitled to its property.

They Got the Fur.

[Hicksville News.]

Myron Miller, of this place, and Hollis Akins, of Newville, have been hunting along the St. Joe river, between Newville and Webster's bridge, the past ten days, and succeeded in killing three otter, two mink and $5 worth of birds. They got on the track of the otters at Orangeville Monday evening too late to do anything that day, but bright and early the next morning they took up the trail and about dusk the next evening caught sight of them on the opposite bank of the river. Here is where Mr. Akins distinguished himself as a marksman. The otters were close together, and he broke the back of each at one shot. Thus crippled they rolled into the river, but came up pretty soon at the edge of the ice, which extended out about fifteen feet into the river. The wounded otters then started for the shore occupied by the hunters, but after reaching the middle of the river began drifting sideways down stream. One of them was lying on its back and was thought to be dead, but came around all right in a short time. The men knew they had only to wait now until they drifted in toward the shore, which they did shortly, and by getting into the water up to his waist and using a long pole, Mr. Miller succeeded in landing both of them on the bank, where what little life still remained in them was quickly snuffed out. Myron started for Newville on Monday, and he and Mr. Akins will again take up the hunt and look after the traps they have set for three more otter. As both gentlemen are hunters of some "rep," we expect to hear of their securing the prizes they covet and make a neat little speck of money, as an otter skin is worth from $8 to $14. The three they now have will net them $30 easy, to say nothing of the mink hides, which are also selling at a fair price.

Proposed Amendments.

It is probably not generally known that the last legislature adopted nine joint resolutions proposing amendments to the state constitution. The Elkhart Truth says: The legislature this winter will probably endorse them, and then they will be submitted to the people, most likely at the spring election of 1894.

The first amendment lengthens the term of all county offices to four years and makes the officers ineligible for the second consecutive term, except county surveyors.

The second defines the residence and qualification of voters and provides for registration.

The third provides for the election of a clerk of the supreme court and limits his term to four years.

The fourth provides for the election of state officers for four year terms and no longer.

The fifth provides for the election of state superintendent of public instruction for four years and no longer.

The sixth provides for increase of supreme judges and extends their terms to eight years. It also provides for their election at different times so there will never be a complete change in the court.

The seventh provides for the organization of the militia of the state.

The eighth provides for indefinite sessions of the legislature and an increase in legislative salaries.

The ninth grants permission for all men of good moral character to practice law.

Purdue University.

This excellent State Institution has made arrangements for a winter term, a special course for the benefit of such young men as can only be there for a short time, and that in the winter season. The term begins Jan. 13, 1891, and continues six weeks. At least fourteen special lectures will be delivered by experts on some of the following topics: Farm economy; the farmer as a citizen; farm drainage; dairying; straw-berries and small fruits; the farmer's garden; market gardening; intensive culture; the influence of fertilizing elements on plant growth; poultry; and farm law. Besides, there will be a full course of lectures on agriculture in all its phases, as well as horticulture, stockraising, chemistry, zoology, entomology, and veterinary science. For further particulars address, the president, Jas. H. Smart, Lafayette, Ind.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To The Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

I use
You use
He uses
We use
You use
They All Use SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
SANTA CLAUS SOAP

FAIRBANK'S
SANTA CLAUS SOAP,
The Leading Laundry Soap of the world.
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. — CHICAGO.

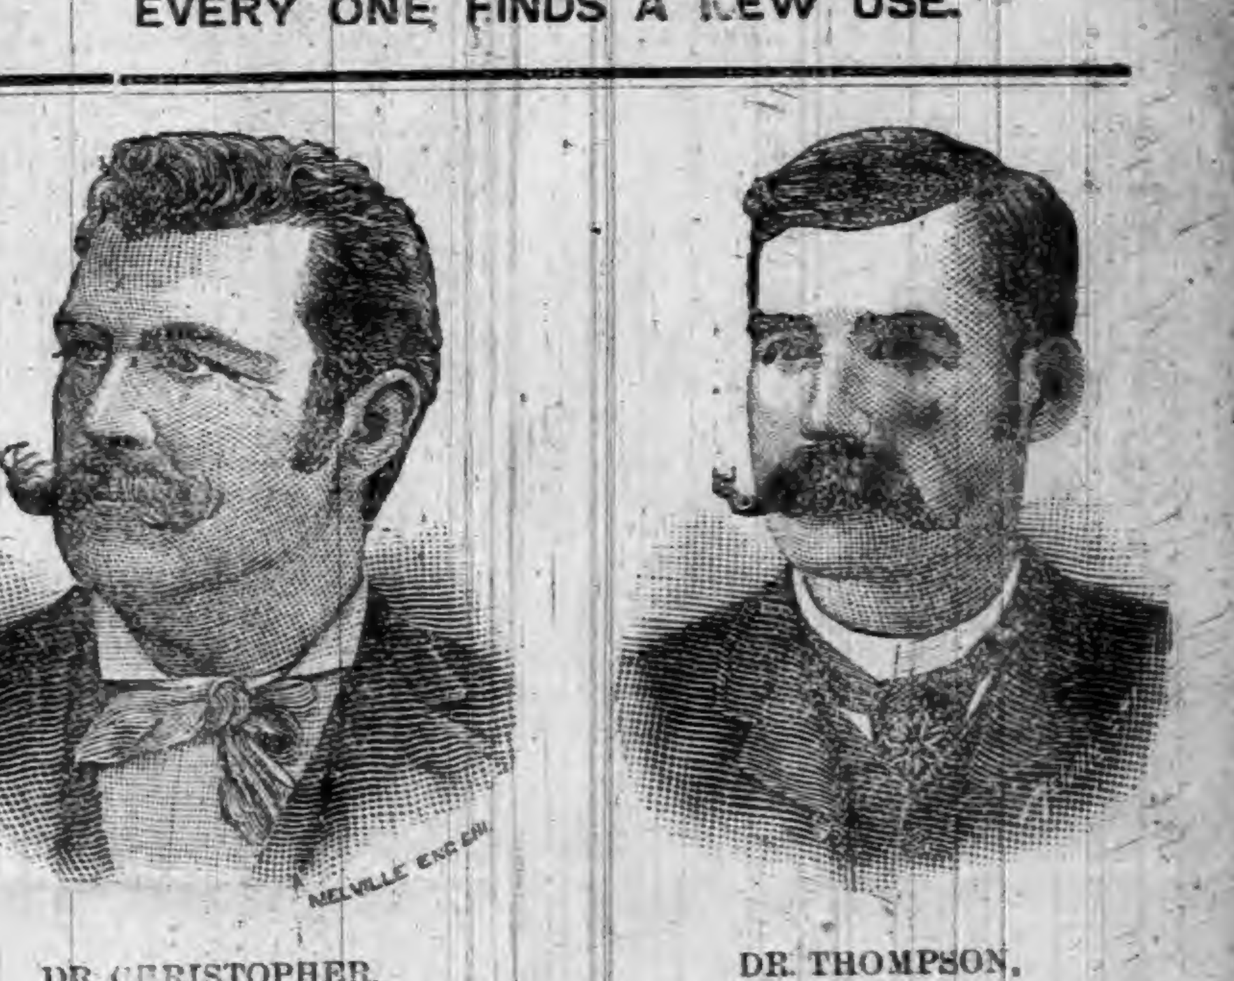
THERE ARE MANY USES FOR SAPOLIO.

To clean tombstones. To renew oil-cloth. To renovate paint. To brighten metals.
To polish knives. To scrub floors. To wash out sinks. To scour bath-tubs.
To clean dishes. To whiten marble. To remove rust. To scour kettles.

EVERYBODY USES IT.

Dentists to clean false teeth. Surgeons to polish their instruments. Confectioners to scour their pans. Mechanics to brighten their tools. Cooks to clean the kitchen sink. Painters to clean off surfaces. Engineers to clean parts of machines. Ministers to renovate old chapels. Sextons to clean the tombstones. Hostlers on brasses and white horses. Artists to clean their palettes. Wheelmen to clean bicycles. Housemaids to scrub marble floors. Chemists to remove some stains. Carvers to sharpen their knives. Shrewd ones to scour old straw hats. Soldiers to brighten their arms. Renovators to clean carpets.

EVERY ONE FINDS A NEW USE.



DR. CHRISTOPHER, OF NEW YORK POLYCLINICS.

DR. THOMPSON, OF PHILADELPHIA AND CHICAGO POLYCLINICS.

WILL BE AT THE

Swineford House, AUBURN, IND., Thursday, Dec. 25, '90

AND EVERY FOURTH THURSDAY THEREAFTER.

THESE eminent Physicians and Surgeons, and founders of the LIMA CURATIVE INSTITUTE, have had years of experience in the best hospitals in this country, and devote their entire attention to diseases of the Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs, and all Chronic, Private and Nerve diseases and deformities, as Granulated Lids, Cross-Eye, Deafness, Rheumatism, and all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Heart, Stomach, Nervous System and all blood diseases. Such as Scrofula Running Sores, Varicose Veins, and diseases of the Skin.

PILES and all other Rectal Diseases, such as Internal, External, Itching and Bleeding Piles, Fissures, Fistula and Ulcers cured permanently, without pain or detention from business. They do not use the knife, caustic or ligature. Cures guaranteed.

EPILEPSY or FITS permanently cured by their new and special remedies, and own ELECTRIC BODY BATTERY, which they manufacture and use in treating all forms of Nervous Diseases. It is guaranteed to cure and never fails.

RUPTURE or HERNIA positively cured. Not by the knife nor injection, or by wearing a cumbersome and painful truss, which gets out of place and must be left off at night; but by the use of their own medical appliance, and which is comfortably worn day and night, thus making a constant support, and, by its medicating properties, cures permanently in a short time. Come and see and examine it.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all Lung and Throat troubles, and difficult Asthma cases treated and CURED by their special apparatus which they manufacture and supply to patients. It is a cheap, pleasant, home treatment, wonderful in its effects upon all diseases of the air passages. Call and see it. It is unsurpassed, and guaranteed to cure.

MEN Young, Middle aged, and Old, who suffer from Spermatorrhœa, impotency (loss of manhood), or from any weakness due to indiscretion or overindulgence, can be permanently cured in a short time by using their special treatments and by the use of THEIR POWERFUL GALVANIC BODY BATTERY, which is a specific in all forms of nerve weakness and debility. See it and be convinced. This is an opportunity you can not afford to miss. Consultation free and confidential.

Tumors, Moles, Warts, Superfluous hairs and Scars removed without pain by new method, Electrolysis, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Tape Worm, Piles, Strictures, and Female Troubles are successfully treated, and all difficult cases which other physicians have failed to cure, receive their special attention.

DR. J. GORE GALLEHER, the great Optician, will accompany us each visit. If troubled with your eyes call and see him.

Bring specimens of Urine for Chemical Analysis. Consultation free.

DRS. CHRISTOPHER & THOMPSON,
Lima Curative Insitute Lima, Ohio.

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home. Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891, Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR:

HARPER'S BAZAR.............. 4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE........ 4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY...........$4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE... 2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding will be sent by mail, post paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume.) for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Monroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm" by Sophie Swett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Nelsetter Brynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms; Postage Prepaid. $2.00.

Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Single Numbers, Five Cents Each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XX. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1890. NUMBER 52.

CHRISTMAS
COMING!

Make your friends a

USEFUL PRESENT!

FINE

SLIPPERS,

For Ladies and Gents, in large variety, at

WILSON'S SHOE STORE

Fine Shoes, Boots, Felts, Rubbers, etc., at Lowest Prices. Call early before sizes are broken, and secure your presents.

Yours Truly,

J. N. WILSON & SON,

Auburn and Waterloo.

AT POST'S

This week!

AT POST'S

Great Cut!

AT POST'S

In Ladies'

AT POST'S

and Children's

AT POST'S

Scarlet Underwear

AT POST'S

5c., to 30c off for CASH. A drive in Gents' 4-ply Linen Collars at 10c., worth 25c. All Table Linens ¼ off to close them. Napkins, Towels and Crashes lower than the lowest. All Dress Goods one-fourth to one-half off regular price. These goods must go. We mean just what we say. Call and see us

AT POST'S

From the Patrons of Industry.

WATERLOO, IND. Dec. 22, 1890.

J. A. BARNS, AUBURN, IND.

DEAR SIR: By request of the farmers that met at Waterloo, Dec. 20, for the purpose of making demands of our next legislature, I send you the following report, hoping that you will publish it in the next issue of your paper. The committee was called to order, and R. N. Crooks was chosen as chairman; C. P. Hamman, Sec'y. There were a few short speeches, and the following demands were made of our next legislature:

1. We demand that the salaries of the county officers be reduced, so that the Clerk of the Court receive a salary of $1,500; Auditor, $1,500; Recorder, $1,000; Treasurer, $1,800; Sheriff, $2,500 per year. (This demand to include this county only, as other counties may regulate for their own county.)

2. We favor a repeal of the law giving Commissioners the power to grant special elections for voting aid to railroads and corporations.

3. We demand a law prohibiting the office of Township School Trustee being filled by any person living within the corporation of any town or city; also, prohibiting voters in such towns from participating in such elections.

4. We demand a law that all saloonkeepers be held responsible for the actions of their clerks.

5. We demand a thorough and radical revision of our state tax laws, which shall provide for an equal and fair assessment of all kinds of taxable property, real, personal and corporate, to the end that all classes shall contribute in maintaining the public burdens; that mortgages and other incumbrances upon real estate shall be assessed as a part of the realty, thus relieving the mortgagor from a double taxation.

6. We demand that sheep husbandry shall be protected from dogs, and the law protecting dogs repealed.

7. We condemn the presence of Deputy United States Marshals at our elections, as entailing a useless expense, and is a reflection upon the ability of citizens of Indiana, to conduct elections.

8. We demand that it shall be a trespass to hunt upon enclosed lands without the written consent of the occupant of the land, and that it shall be unlawful to kill quail under any circumstances.

9. We favor a law requiring all goods manufactured by convict labor, to be plainly branded as convict products.

10. We demand a law that the County Superintendent of Schools be elected by the people.

11. We demand that appropriations for existing State institutions shall be kept at the minimum for their proper maintenance and support, and that no new institution shall be commenced or authorized, until after the project shall have been submitted to, and approved by a majority vote of the electors of the whole state.

12. We demand that the retinue of unnecessary employes and attendants of the legislature shall be dispensed with, and the practice of voting said employes extra compensation shall be discontinued.

After adopting these, the committee adjourned, hoping that these would meet with the best satisfaction to the people of DeKalb county, and also, throughout the state of Indiana.

Respectfully Yours,

C. P. HAMMAN,
County Sec'y of P. of I.

A Severe Surgical Operation.

Our readers will perhaps remember that about two years ago, the COURIER had a short note in regard to Artie Hines, son of 'Squire Hines of Jackson township. The item stated in brief that Artie, then about 18, had a severe attack of lung fever beginning the Saturday before presidential election and that soon after recovery an abscess or something of the sort, had formed in his side, and had become very troublesome and dangerous. The attending physicians, Dr. Lewis and Dr. Ford, had to open the abscess and empty it with tubes. This was done several times. But the lung became involved, a hole being eaten through into it, and frightful quantities of matter were thrown off by the patient from the lungs. Drainage tubes were provided, but though temporary relief was obtained, the wound never entirely healed. Recently he has been at the Medical College at Ft. Wayne, studying medicine. Lately the trouble in his side and lung has been increasing and he decided to have a more thorough operation performed, and as much as possible of the diseased parts taken out. Acting on the advice of the faculty of the College, and of his people, on Monday of last week, Dec. 15, the operation was performed. Two ribs were cut away, and the diseased parts removed. A letter from his eldest brother, F. M. Hines, who is also attending the Medical College, says, that the hole or cavity was found to be about a finger length and funnel shaped, extending into the lung at which point it was about the size of the end of a finger. When all was done, that was thought advisable the wound was dressed, and tubes inserted to keep it clear. F. M. Hines came up Friday evening and reported his brother getting along well, though of course still weak. They have hopes the operation will restore him to health, and surely the pluck and endurance he has shown, prove him to be worthy of a long life. We hope soon to record his perfect recovery.

6

Per Cent.

MONEY

=

We have a limited amount of money to loan in sums of one thousand dollars and over, on farms in DeKalb county, at six per cent. per annum, interest payable at the end of the year.

Those who want to make a loan should make their application at once.

Call and see us and we will explain fully our plans of loaning.

After January first interest rate will advance. So do not delay, but call at once.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

REAL ESTATE,

AND

LOAN,

AGENTS.

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

IN SELECTING YOUR

CHRISTMAS

PRESENTS

WE WOULD

KINDLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION

TO OUR ELEGANT DISPLAY OF

Fine Dress Flannels and Henriettas,
Fine Silk and Satin Rhadames,
Plush Capes, Jackets and Sacques,
Cloth Newmarkets and Jackets,
Suits and Overcoats,
Hats and Caps,
Chenille Table Covers,
Linen Table Sets,
Fine Napkins,
Towels,
Handkerchiefs,
Silk Umbrellas,
Gloves and Mittens,
Neckwear,
Fichus,
Smyrna Rugs,
Fur Rugs,
Furs, etc., etc.

Kindly favor us with your patronage and you will be pleased.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

"Little Phil" Sheridan, who is now just ten years old, is said to be a perfect counterpart of his father. He gives promise of exhibiting the pluck and endurance of the great cavalry leader. He is destined for West Point.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Robbins & McCords drug store, large bottles 50c and $1. 2

King George of Greece, is one of the most democratic of rulers. He has a thin and rather elegant figure, a fresh complexion and is bald. He is a fine horseman, but prefers walking to riding.

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced; usually subject to headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, immoderate crying or laughing. These show a weak nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nervine, Trial bottles and fine book, containing many marvelous cures, free at F. E. Davenport's who also sells and guarantees Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure, the finest of heart tonics. Cures fluttering, short breath, etc. 3

Ex Senator Thurman no longer uses snuff. He found that the constant titillation of his nose affected his eyes and so he weaned himself from the snuff-box.

HAPPY HOOSIERS. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at Robbins & McCords drug store. 2

Arbitration is very well and the Peace Society has a glorious mission; but how would it set about arbitrating with the Rosebud Indians, for instance?

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. HELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

Jean Ingelow is sixty, but her cheeks are as rosy and round as a girl's. She writes but little now and lives in an old stone house in Kensington, England.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

The death is announced of Mrs. Lemon, widow of Mark Lemon, late editor of London Punch. She survived her husband twenty years.

Height of Cruelty.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the pictures of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering, pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvelous testimonials free. Sold and guarranteed by F. E. Davenport. 3

The commander-in-chief of Uncle Sam's army receives $13,000 a year and his duties are merely nominal.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

Mrs. Harrison is busily engaged painting little gifts to be sent to old friends at Christmas. They are principally flower pieces.

A Prominent Farmer.

Mr. Nicholas Wagoner, of Monroe, Ind., gives us the following statement in regard to Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. He says: I have used a great many different kinds of medicines for bronchitis, a disease I have had for the last ten years, and found nothing that would relieve me until I commenced to use Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I took ten 50c bottles of this medicine and was entirely cured, and can recommend it to any person that is suffering from this disease.

NICHOLAS WAGONER.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Dec. 19, 1890.

Senator Paddock who, like some of the other republican senators from the northwest, has a mind of his own as to how he shall vote, and who values the interests of his constituents above caucus decrees, gave Mr. Harrison a bad turn when that gentleman attempted to bulldoze the doughty Nebraskan into voting for the Force bill, by telling him plainly that he was very decidedly opposed to the measure and would certainly vote against it. Mr. Harrison then made an ineffectual effort to get Mr. Paddock to promise that he would absent himself when the vote was taken.

As a last resort to get the republican senators into line Mr. Harrison is said to have stated to several of them that he would consider the defeat of the Force bill an intimation that they did not wish him to be a candidate for a renomination in '92. That is a very dangerous argument for Mr. Harrison to use, and it will probably result in making more votes against the bill that in its favor, for it is doubtful whether there is a half-a-dozen republican senators who are sincerely in favor of giving Mr. Harrison another nomination.

A republican caucus has voted to change the rules of the senate in order to push the Force bill through. The programe is to debate the bill the rest of this week, then to take up the new silver bill approved by the same caucus, and pass it in its present condition, if the wicked democrats do not succeed in substituting free coinage therefor; afterwards the change of rules is to be adopted, if enough republicans can be persuaded to vote for it.

The rumor is again current here, and generally believed to be true, that Mr. Harrison has fully made up his mind that Commissioner Raum is a heavier load than he cares to carry. He will ask for Raum's resignation, it is said, as soon as the House committee, which is pretending to investigate the pension office, makes its report, which will probably not be until after the holidays.

The House expects to vote on the substitute for the senate subsidy shipping bills tomorrow. This substitute is a sort of a combination of the subsidy and bounty features of the other two bills which has been concocted by the republicans of the House committee, on merchant marine in order to compel certain republicans who favored subsidizing steamship lines, but opposed the bounty bill to vote for both. The republicans claim that it is certain to pass. An attempt will be made by democratic members to attach an amendment providing for free ships to the bill, and it may succeed as a number of republicans are believed to be willing to support it.

Representative Pierce, of Tennessee, a member of the Farmers Alliance, has introduced in the House a resolution instructing the committee on ways and means to report the sub-treasury bill not later than Monday, January 5, and fixing the following Monday for its consideration.

Representative Mills has introduced a resolution providing for a recess from Dec. 22, to January 5, and it has been referred to the committee on ways and means. It is not believed that the republicans will agree to such a lengthy recess in fact a senatorial caucus said there would be none.

Representative Wilson, of Washington, who took part in one of the notorious slugging matches on the floor of the House at the last session came very near to having another one with Representative Milliken, of Maine, whom he accused of having "turned down" his bill for a public building at Spokane Falls. Milliken called him a liar and Wilson started for him in regular pugilistic attitude when a friend grabbed him and Mr. Milliken made a hasty exit from the speaker's lobby, where they had met. There may be more of it, as Wilson is known among his friends as a fighter.

While the apportionment bill, which passed this week, was under discussion in the House the democrats paid their respects to Secretary Noble, Superintendent Porter and the faulty census upon which the bill is based. If the census was a correct one, which it was not, the bill would be as fair as could be expected.

A joint congressional committee will undertake next week to make some of the gentlemen concerned tell something about the buying of American industries by foreign syndicates. If they'd tell what they know it would be interesting.

Mr. Wanamaker has succeeded in getting the House committee on postoffices to report a resolution to the House setting aside January 6 for the consideration of the postal telegraph bill. He doesn't seem to be worrying any to get a one cent letter postage bill through.

The National Citizens Alliance, which is intended to be a twin brother to the Farmers Alliance, is to have headquarters and a newspaper in this city.

Wanted 1000 Ladies!

To call on their druggist. F. E. Davenport, and ask for Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the best medicine to take for coughs, colds and consumption. Guaranteed to cure or money refunded. This medicine is considered by those that have used it to be the most pleasant to the taste, and more effective than any other cough remedy in the market. One single bottle often curing the most severe cases of so called consumption that were really nothing more than a neglected cough, with pains in the throat and lungs. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

AGENTS WANTED [illegible]

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, • PUBLISHER.

It is estimated that Indian wars have cost the Government $700,000,000. At this rate dead Indians must cost us about $1,000,000 apiece.

An educational authority says the annual cost of teaching this country's school children is $122,455,252. As a rule it is money well expended.

A late novelty is an invalid's chair propelled by electricity. The battery will drive it over an ordinary road for nine hours at the rate of six miles an hour.

There is a great future for the gold mining industry in America. The citizens of the States annually bury with their dead £100,000 worth of gold teeth fastenings!

A distinguished Bostonian has been paying an election bet by playing a cornet on the Back Bay streets and collecting what pennies he could for the performance.

It has been suggested that the phonograph shall be used as a cash register. Every sum the cashier receives might be called into the phonograph and there recorded, as a check on the accounts.

The favorite food of the Sandwich-Islanders is the flesh of the Mexican hairless dog. It is said to taste like spring chicken and is considered a great dainty. These dogs are raised in large numbers and are fattened for the market.

While we propose to treat everybody fairly and with due consideration, still, people who have business with the chiropodist themselves will do well to avoid stepping on our feet. We pare our own corns with a razor, and it might be dangerous.

The meteorological observatory at the Massachusetts Agricultural College has received a delicate and expensive apparatus for the measurement of the electric potentiality of the atmosphere. This instrument is the only one of its kind in the United States and one of the few in the world.

The tapering-off school of New York philosophers will find comfort in the fact that a Chicagoan whose married life had been one endless quarrel killed himself the day after his wife left him. The shock of sudden change and the dull monotony of one piping day of peace was too much to be endured.

The chief religions of the world may be classified as follows: Christianity, 450,000,000; Confucianism, 390,000,000; Hindooism, 190,000,000; Mohammedanism 18,000,000; Fetichism, 150,000,000; Buddhism, 100,000,000; Spirit Worship, 50,000,000; Shintoism, 22,000,000; Jews, 8,000,000; Parsees, 1,000,000; total, 1,449,000,000.

Railroad statistics show that no one car on a train is safer than another. Sometimes the last car is the only one to drop through a bridge, and again the first coach climbs on top of the baggage-car. Pay your fare, have faith, and take your chances. Of the forty-two men hung last year none were ever hurt in a railroad accident.

The attempt to resurrect a Charlie Ross sensation was short-lived. His alleged discovery in Boston under the guise of a burglar proved as baseless as the thousand and one others that his abduction has given rise to. In all human probability the boy is dead long since, and has not been brought up to a life of crime. It is at least to be hoped so.

One of the results of the development of Africa will be an increase in the supply of ivory. The annual slaughter of the elephant on the continent at present reaches 65,000. The ivory product is worth $850,000. With the influx of European capital and enterprise, it is to be supposed that the elephant will be exterminated, as has been our American buffalo here.

In Paris the thousands of sardine and other tin boxes that are thrown away every month form the basis of an industry which has reached large proportions. These refuse cans are stamped by machinery into tin soldiers, and sold so cheaply that the poorest children can possess them; yet the manufacturer makes a fair profit, which he could not do if he used new material.

The two sides of the human face are not exactly alike, and a German biologist asserts that the lack of symmetry, as a rule, is confined to the upper part of the face; in two cases out of five the eyes are out of line, and seven persons out of every ten have stronger sight in one eye than in the other; another singular fact is that the right ear is almost invariably higher than the left.

During the last nine months 20,400 Italians (chiefly of the less desirable class), 11,000 Poles, and 17,700 Hungarians have been admitted into this country. It is safe to say that not one in ten of these 49,100 immigrants will act the part of honest, industrious and desirable citizens; and still we go on receiving such people, careless of the grave danger that such a course involves.

Every established local newspaper receives subscriptions from large cities which puzzle the publisher, but which the New York Times explains as follows: "A wholesale merchant in the city who became rich in the business says his rule is that whenever he sells a bill of goods on credit, he immediately subscribes for the local newspaper of his debtor. So long as he advertised vigorously, he rested, but as soon as he began to contract his advertising space he took the fact as evidence that there was trouble ahead and he invariably went for the debtor. He said the man who is too poor to make his business known is too poor to do business. The withdrawal of an 'ad' is evidence of weakness which wholesale men are not slow to act upon."

There were in the United Kingdom, at the end of June last, according to a recent return, 10,034 engines, or 96 per cent., and 51,793 passenger vehicles, or 96 per cent. of the total, fitted with continuous brakes, which comply, or partly comply, with the Board of Trade requirements. As compared with the returns of June, 1889, there is an increase of one in the percentage of engines, and of four in that of the carriages thus fitted.

Probably the smallest and most unique postoffice in the world is a barrel which swings from the outermost rock of the mountains overhanging the Straits of Magellan, opposite Terra del Fuego. Every passing ship opens it to place letters in it or take letters out. Every ship undertakes to forward all letters in it that it is possible for it to transmit. The barrel hangs by its iron chain, beaten and battered by the winds and storms, but no locked or barredoffice on land is more secure.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles, in his annual report, favors legislation that would provide some system of more reasonable professional advancement. The artillery branch should be increased by at least two regiments, and the same organization be given the infantry that exists in the best armies of the world—namely, three-battalion organization. When officers have served without promotion fifteen years they should be advanced one grade, as is done in certain of the lower staff grades.

The two worst despotisms in the Europe of to-day are those of Russia and nihilism. Russia refuses to recognize the rights of men, as individuals, and nihilism ignores the rights of men as organized in communities. The people of the United States are justly horrified at the atrocities of Siberia, but they have as much reason to be horrified at the false and fatal doctrines of the extremists who deny that there is any right higher than that of the individual to please himself. Absolutism would be better than this.

An Egyptian scythe, recently unearthed, is exhibited among the antiquities in the private museum of Flinders Petrie, in London. The shaft of the instrument is wood, supporting a row of flint saws, which are securely cemented into it. This discovery will set at rest the speculations which have been made as to how the crops of the land were gathered in the flint and early copper age. It has long been suspected that such an instrument as Mr. Petrie has brought to light was used, but there was no direct evidence.

Those who have given close study to the requirements of the human system in the matter of food say that a healthy man requires 300 grains of nitrogen and 4,600 grains of carbon daily to repair the waste that goes on during the twenty-four hours. As meat contains 100 grains of carbon and 300 of nitrogen in every 1,000 grains, it would be necessary to eat six and one half pounds of meat to supply the amount of carbon the system requires, which would entail the consumption of a great deal more nitrogen than the system needs. On the other hand, bread contains 300 grains of carbon and ten of nitrogen in every 1,000 grains, so that to obtain the amount of nitrogen required it is necessary to consume twice as much bread as will supply the requisite of carbon. These caculations indicate the value of a mixed diet.

Refusal to marry has of late become, rather too frequently, an excuse for deliberate murder. It is generally the man who does the killing, and the woman who does the refusing. Great day! The time may not be far distant, if this thing is allowed to continue, when even the city thug will be afraid to "pop the question," unless he has his "pop" ready drawn, and no young lady will feel safe in refusing an offer, unless her "pop" or big brother may be concealed near by, armed and equipped and ready to defend her from the lover who wants her for a wife. Pray tell us who will provide for the old bachelors and elderly maidens left wandering over the face of the earth unmated, unmatched? The prospect is perfectly unhinging to the nerves of the ordinary journalist. It must be changed. This wiping out of young girls because they will not unite their fortunes with those of every hoodlum that asks them to share his name and fortune and become his social slave, must be stopped. It has gone on long enough. Too many good wives-that-might-have-been have already been slaughtered. A law will have to be passed by Congress absolutely prohibiting "pops" of either sort—vocal or metallic—otherwise consequences can only be conjectured—but they are awful to contemplate.

Where Coral Comes From.

The largest quantity and the handsomest corals come from the Algerian coast. These coral grounds have been worked since the middle of the sixteenth century. Other coral grounds are found on the coast of Sicily, Corsica, Sardinia, Spain, the Balearics and Provence. More than 500 Italian barks and over 4,200 persons are engaged in the coral fishery. Besides these French and Spanish barks are engaged in the same occupation. The Italian fishermen pay a high royalty to the French Government for their right of fishing for corals on the Algerian coast. There are more than 60 coral workshops in Italy, 40 of which are in the little town, Torre del Greco, at the foot of Vesuvius. These shops give employment to about 9,000 persons, mostly women and children.

She Saw Too Much.

She (after marriage)—You told me that I was your first love, but I have found a whole trunk-full of letters from all sorts of girls, just bursting with tenderness.

He—I—I said you were the first I ever loved. I didn't say you were the only one who ever loved me. See?

TO WORK FOR REFORM.

THE REFORM CLUB OF NEW AND ITS GREAT FIGHT.

A Great Power in the Recent Election—How the Tariff Fight Was Carried On—Victories Gained on the Stump and Through the Press—Already Opening the Great Battle of '92.

One of the most important agencies in securing the great tariff reform victory of November 4 was the Reform Club of New York City. This club was organized in January, 1888, for the purpose of furthering several important reforms, such as the Australian ballot law and the reduction or abolition of tariff taxation, especially the latter. It at once attracted to itself a strong membership of enthusiastic men in business or professional life, who were earnestly impressed with the idea that our present protective system is a gross injustice, and that all patriotic citizens ought to enlist themselves in the war against it, and continue that war till just relations are established between producer and consumer.

In the Presidential election two years ago, the club took an active part in the fight for tariff, reform. Undaunted by the defeat of that year, the club determined to begin at once the fight for the Congressional elections of 1890. The publication of tariff-reform literature went on without interruption, and already in the fall of 1889 the club was maturing its plans for work during the winter and spring of this year.

A meeting of the club has recently been held, at which reports of its work were read. Some of the points in these are of interest to the friends of tariff reform everywhere, as showing the vigor and effectiveness with which the fight was carried on.

At the meeting referred to, Hon. John De Witt Warner, Congressman-elect from the Eleventh New York District, read the report from the General Committee on Tariff Reform, of which he is Chairman. From this report, which includes reports of the various subordinates, a most interesting view of the scope and thoroughness of the club's work is obtained.

One of the most important pieces of work done by the club was a complete poll canvass of the voters of New York State outside the larger cities. In this way the names and addresses of 659,100 voters were obtained. The lists conveyed also some general information about each voter, such as his politics, his tariff views, his occupation, whether a Grand Army man, etc. This last was used with excellent effect in distributing the tariff reform documents which the club publishes and circulates. Tariff matter was sent to each man which would be best suited to his case. When, for example, it was desired to inform the farmer of the State of the humbug nature of the McKinley tax on barley, the mailing clerks of the club had but to turn to the poll-lists and select the farmers in the barley-growing counties of the State.

But this subcommittee, of which Mr. Jason Hinman is chairman, did not content itself with the mere distribution of documents. It organized speaking tours in many of the counties and sent out speakers in this way to talk tariff to the farmers and people of the smaller country villages. An extensive series of such meetings was held in the winter and spring, and these tours were resumed in the fall. More important still were the joint tariff discussions at county fairs in August and September. On July 22 Mr. Hinman challenged the American Protective League to debate with Reform Club speakers the tariff question before the farmers at sixteen annual fairs. A month passed without an answer; then, in the middle of August, the Protective League replied that they had the matter under consideration. Two county fair meetings had been addressed by tariff reform speakers before the protectionists awakened to the real situation. On Aug. 29 they sent in a notice of acceptance of Mr. Hinman's challenge. In accordance with this plan debates were arranged at forty-one fairs. The Reform Club was represented in these debates by tariff reformers of national reputation, like Hon. Wm. M. Springer of Illinois, Hon. W. D. Bynum of Indiana, Hon. Wm. L. Wilson of West Virginia, and Hon. John E. Russell of Massacusetts.

The effects of this work were seen at the election on Nov. 4. In the twenty Congressional districts north of New York City, in which this work was done, the Democrats made a gain of seven Congressmen.

Simultaneously with this activity in New York the committee was carrying on operations in every other State in the Union, but, of course, giving its attention chiefly to those States which most needed evangelistic assistance. Literature was sent into those States, agents of the committee were dispatched to some of them to aid local reformers in organizing tariff reform movements upon the lines adopted by the committee, and during the campaign speakers were sent to points where help was most needed in the fight for Congressmen.

Under the auspices of the club poll canvasses were made in the whole of Iowa and Connecticut, and in parts of Washington, Maryland, South Dakota, Michigan and Wisconsin, while in a number of other States one or more Congressional districts were canvassed in the same way. The lists thus collected were used by the club in the distribution of literature. Many of the club's documents were also supplied to the campaign committees of the various States, the State Central Committee of Wisconsin alone circulating 250,000 of them.

One district in the West was selected in which to make special efforts. This was the district in Illinois now represented by Mr. Powell. Here a special canvass was made at the expense of the Reform Club. The district was supposed to be hopelessly against tariff reform. It was covered, however, and a few weeks before the election a complete canvass was handed to Mr. Scott, the tariff reform candidate, with data showing him that he would be elected—as he was by a good majority—though neither he nor his opponent could believe it until some days after the election

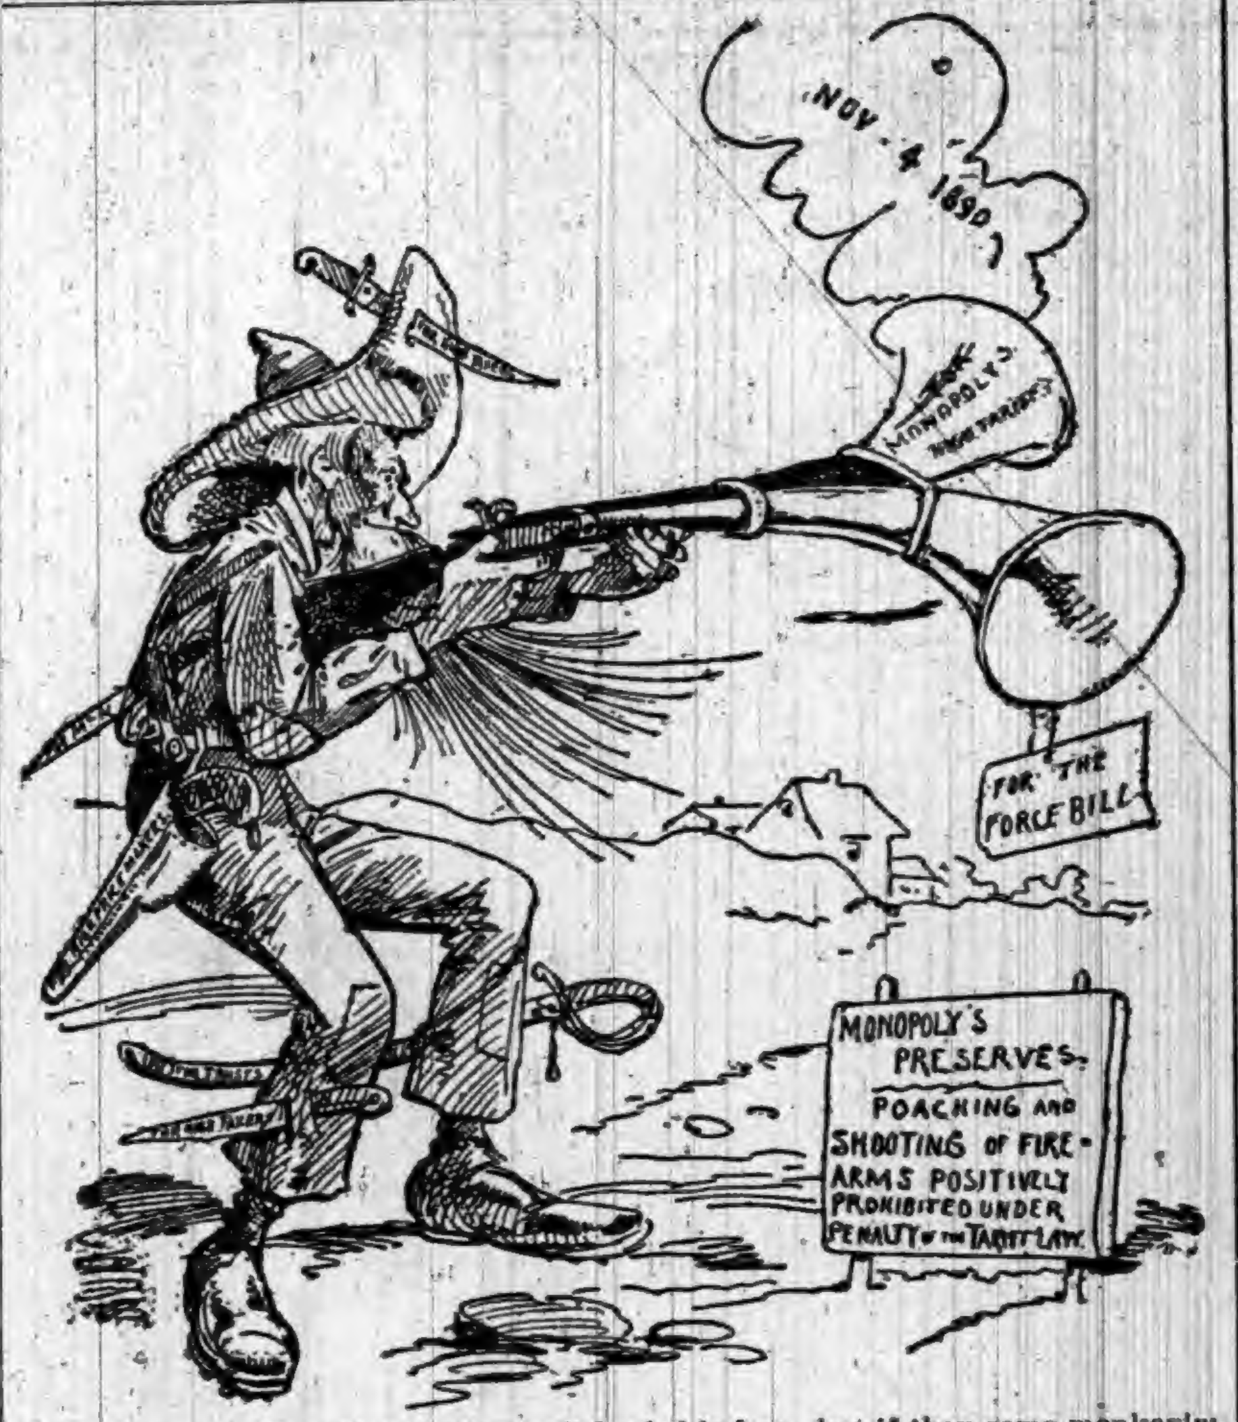
The good results of the club's work in the West may be seen from the following extracts from letters:

Wesley W. Hyde, Grand Rapids, Mich.: I cannot refrain from writing you in relation to your influence and effectiveness in the campaign in Michigan and the West. I believe that to your literature, more than any other one thing, the Democrats owe their victory. Nothing could be more admirable and timely than the literature on tariff questions. It formed the text-book of speakers and writers alike, and enabled us to present our side of the question intelligently, exhaustively and forcibly. I want to thank you in the name of all, tariff reformers here for your good work.

Hon. Neal Brown, Warsaw, Wis.: You have helped us very greatly in Wisconsin during the present campaign, and personally I owe a great deal to the information obtained from your briefs on the tariff question. I hope that you will not cease your work, but that you will at once commence the campaign of 1892. In Wisconsin we shall do our utmost to hold the electoral vote for President, and from present indications we shall succeed. From what I know of your work in other States I have no doubt but what you have made tens of thousands of votes for tariff reform. The greatest good you have done has been in educating our own leaders upon the tariff question.

A most important part of the club's work during the campaign was the furnishing of tariff-reform matter through newspaper syndicates and press associations to more than 1,000 country papers, having, as is estimated, a reading circulation of at least 2,000,000 readers. This work was begun a year ago and has grown up gradually to its present proportions. It goes on since the election just as during the campaign, and there is scarcely any less demand for the matter than during the campaign. This part of the work will be carried right on through the great tariff reform battle of 1892.

The Reform Club has recently moved into its new house on Fifth avenue, in New York, bought and fitted up at an expense of about $325,000. Its membership, both local and non-resident, is growing rapidly, and the club is fast becoming recognized as the leading organized force in this country at work against the iniquitous high tariff. It work will go forward with energy and courage until justice is done in the matter of taxation.



NOV. 4 1890
MONOPOLY'S NEW TARIFF
FOR THE FORCE BILL
MONOPOLY'S PRESERVES. POACHING AND SHOOTING OF FIRE-ARMS POSITIVELY PROHIBITED UNDER PENALTY of the TARIFF LAW.

The Farmer—They thought I wasn't loaded before, but if they come monkeying around again I'll let 'em have the other barrel.—Chicago Herald.

IMPORTED INDUSTRIES.

A GREAT LOCK-OUT IN THE SPOOL THREAD MILLS.

The Clark Spool Thread Company Locks Up Its Mills and Throws 3,000 Operatives Out of Employment—A Case of Protection for Labor.

Our high tariff apostles always greet with joy those European industries which are compelled by reason of the high tariff to remove their mills to this country. When McKinley was defending his high Chinese wall in Congress last May he said: "Let them bring their factories right over here. Bring $25,000,000 over here and sit down among us and employ our labor and consume the products of our farmers." McKinley's Republican cohorts applauded the sentiment.

Since the passage of the McKinley law there has been a great deal of talk about European manufacturers who are reported to be on the point of setting up mills on this side of the ocean. The Republican papers print such news as this and comment on it as vindicating the wisdom of recent tariff legislation Since the election, however, there has been a noticeable falling off of rumors of this kind, and when the London Economist pointed out that European manufacturers, who had contempleted establishing mills here, would now perhaps be deterred from that step by reason of the Democratic victories, our protectionist journals copied these expressions with great satisfaction. These journals do not seem to see that news of this kind makes out a strong case against McKinleyism.

Tariff reformers have never wearied of reiterating that our high tariff secures undue profits to the manufacturers, and that the McKinley law must increase these profits to a greater extent than ever. When a European manufacturer decides to go to the great expense of moving a mill to America, paying high duties on his machinery, it is the most convincing proof possible of the assertion that manufacturing is in many lines assured of undue profits. When, therefore, these manufacturers are frightened out of moving their machinery over here by a Democratic victory, they simply recognize the fact that the Democrats are not going to allow undue tariff spoils to be collected from the people by the protected interests.

Which way?—Chicago Times.

But McKinley did not originate the notion of transferring European industries to America: the old tariff had already forced some manufacturers to establish themselves in this country to avoid higher duties, and reap their portion of protection's spoils. A company of this kind is the Clark Thread Company, of Newark and Kearney, N. J. The old duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem on linen thread and a duty on cotton spool thread equal to over 50 per cent. caused this company to set up mills here some years ago as branches of their great establishment in Scotland.

McKinley raised the duty on linen thread to 45 per cent. ad valorem in the better grades and higher still on the cheaper ones. This was done notwithstanding the fact that a prominent Massachusetts firm engaged in the manufacture of linen thread said to McKinley through their authorized agents that they did not need any higher protection, and that if the duty on dressed flax were removed altogether they would be willing to have the duty on thread reduced to 35 per cent. But, alas, there were other people who wanted a still higher duty on dressed flax. The old duty was $40 per ton; they wanted this doubled. McKinley raised it to $60 per ton; and then, to compensate the thread men, he raised the duty on their product as above shown.

The high duty on cotton thread and the increased duty on linen thread ought to make the manufacturers able to keep their labor happy and contented; since it is always in behalf of labor that protection is pretended to be given. But these same imported Clark establishments at Newark and Kearney, N. J., have not succeeded in making their labor happy and contented. A difficulty has recently arisen between the superintendent and the operatives, resulting in a strike of the spinners and the lock-out of all the other employes. The total number thus out of employment is 3,000. Nearly half of these are girls, and some of them showed their disappointment in their tears.

It is true that the lock-out did not have its cause in a dispute about wages. But the McKinley scheme of compelling foreigners to "sit down among us and employ our labor" ought to guarantee employment to that labor. Is the country to be forced to pay higher prices for thread to enrich these foreigners and to get our labor employed, and is the labor then to go unemployed, while the protected foreigners jingle their guineas in their pockets?

Does it not seem that the Republican scheme for protecting labor by enriching the employer is a scheme with an enormous hole in it? Where is the guarantee that the laborer will get steady employment, and if he does, that he will get any higher wages?

Prices Still Going Up.

The advance in prices, which made havoc among Republican candidates for Congress on Nov. 4, still goes on. In reviewing the market for foreign dry goods in New York, the Journal of Commerce of that city says: "Prices are as strong as they have been at any time since higher values were demanded. The advance to full tariff rates is necessarily slow, but the desired end is gradually being reached, and the new season will not have advanced far before prices will have actually reached that level."

The trade papers simply record facts as they find them in the markets. Their reports cannot be subject to suspicion as being influenced by the "Democratic conspiracy to raise prices." It is interesting to note that while trade papers in sympathy with protection print the facts about rising prices, Democratic papers which reprinted these facts were denounced by the Republican press and speakers as in a "conspiracy to raise prices."

One such trade paper in sympathy with protection is the New York Dry Goods Economist, which is perhaps the leading organ of the dry goods trade in this country. In a recent number the Economist shows how the McKinley tariff is still getting in its work of raising prices. The Economist says:

"A 54-inch double-warp Italian, which cost 52½ cents to import on Oct. 1 last, one week later cost 72½ cents; a little better grade, which cost 60 cents to import, was jumped up by the McKinley bill to 82½ cents, making a difference in the retail price of either grade not less than 25 cents a yard. The amusing part of this is that one-third in value and about the same in weight of this cloth is American cotton, on which the McKinley tariff imposes, in addition to the ad valorem duty, four times the duty on the Australian wool, of which the remainder of the fabric consists. This putting an enormous wool duty on our own cotton when we bring it back to this country would be enough to make a cow laugh, if it were not such an irritating piece of stupidity."

What better description can we have of an old decaying and forsaken house than Byron's line,

"All tenantless, save to the crannying wind."

Man is sometimes self-made, while woman is often tailor-made.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic,

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

Dear Gents:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. Hardee,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

Mrs. W. S. Ensminger.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
Chas. M. Travis, Notary Public.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

John T. Mish.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
Chas. W. Wright, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the one and only one great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

THE SLEEPY PIGEON.

BY J. F. HOWARD.

O, give me back the morn
Whose fields of yellow corn
Waved in the autumn wind
Long ago.

Let me when it shall break
From sleep of health awake,
And seek the woodland haunts
That I know.

Across the meadow mown
Up from a stump or stone
A sleepy pigeon flies,
Wet with dew.

Like him we leave the glade,
And in the leafy shade
Wait as the fairies wait,
Hid from view.

And see the rabbit when
He bobs from out the fen,
Alternate drooping ears,
Looking bland.

And hear in symphony
The divers notes agree,
As birds of dawning wake
The matin song.

The owl on a dead tree
Deplores the melody,
And the returning light
In his eyes.

The pine its golden head
Bows in the sun so red,
And thus the wood concludes
Its sacrifice.

HAVANA, N. Y.

THE INDIANS' CHRIST.

WEIRD MESSIAH OF THE CREDULOUS RED MAN.

He Wears a Blazer—Munchausen Porcupine's Startling Story—What the Ghost Dance Is Like—Cause of the Indian Uprising in the Northwest.

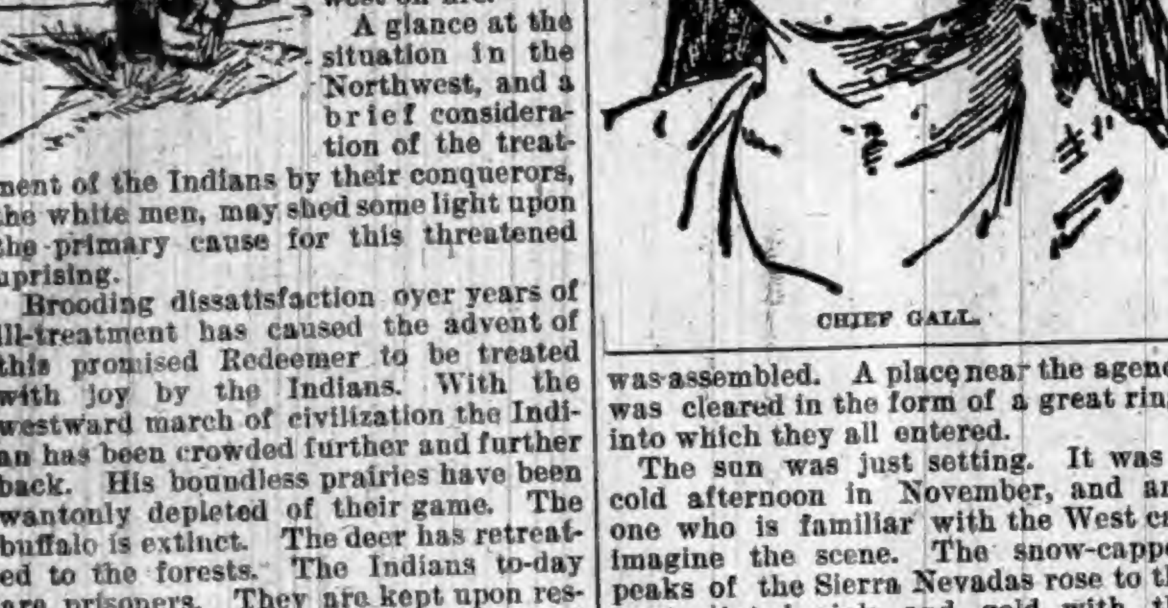
THE white man had a Christ. The red man, too, will have one.

Such is the doctrine that has set the whole Northwest on fire.

A glance at the situation in the Northwest, and a brief consideration of the treatment of the Indians by their conquerors, the white men, may shed some light upon the primary cause for this threatened uprising.

Brooding dissatisfaction over years of ill-treatment has caused the advent of this promised Redeemer to be treated with joy by the Indians. With the westward march of civilization the Indian has been crowded further and further back. His boundless prairies have been wantonly depleted of their game. The buffalo is extinct. The deer has retreated to the forests. The Indians to-day are prisoners. They are kept upon reservations limited in extent and limited in their stock of game and fish.

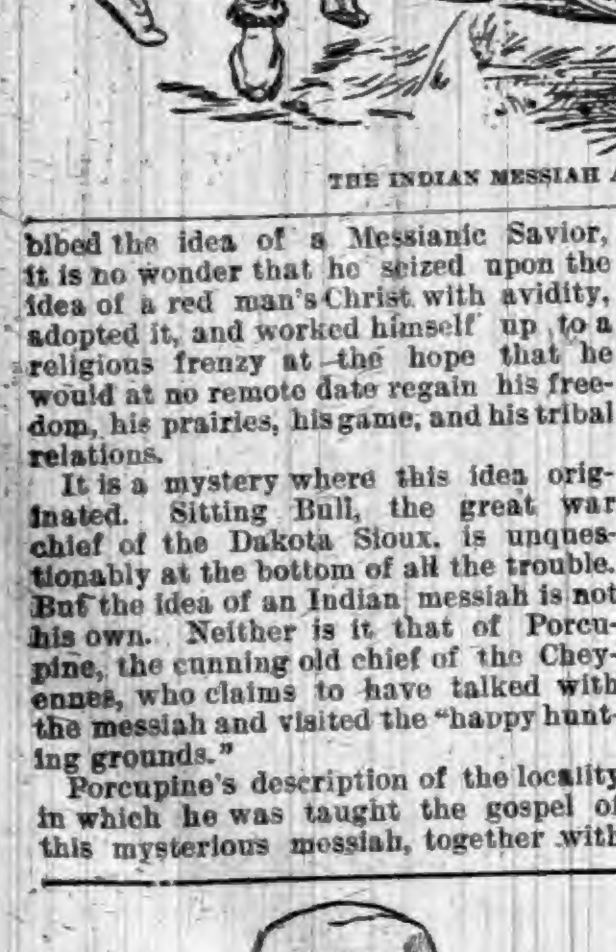
No wonder, then, that the Indian has come to the conclusion that Christ was only for the white man. Having imbibed the idea of a Messianic Savior, it is no wonder that he seized upon the idea of a red man's Christ with avidity, adopted it, and worked himself up to a religious frenzy at the hope that he would at no remote date regain his freedom, his prairies, his game, and his tribal relations.



THE INDIAN MESSIAH AS SEEN BY PORCUPINE.

It is a mystery where this idea originated. Sitting Bull, the great war chief of the Dakota Sioux, is unquestionably at the bottom of all the trouble. But the idea of an Indian messiah is not his own. Neither is it that of Porcupine, the cunning old chief of the Cheyennes, who claims to have talked with the messiah and visited the "happy hunting grounds."

Porcupine's description of the locality in which he was taught the gospel of this mysterious messiah, together with the description of the apostles he met on his trip, points to Utah and the Mormons.



SITTING BULL.

There seems to be little room for doubt that the Mormons of Utah and Nevada are at the bottom of the new craze. In many of its features it resembles the Mormon faith. It bears the ear-marks of Mormonism all over it.

One of the cardinal doctrines of the Mormon faith is a belief in revelation. From time to time the apostles of the Latter-Day Saints, as they call themselves, see visions and have all sorts of things revealed to them by God. So that not only does the location of the new messiah but the essential points in the whole story point to the Mormons as the authors of the evil.

Among the Arapahoe Indians in Wyoming it is supposed the messianic craze was first started. They talked of it in the fall of 1889, during a visit of Porcupine to Shoshone Agency. The doctrine was preached by an Indian called Sage, who said he learned it while in the country to the southwest of the Shoshone Agency during the summer.

This man Sage described where the messiah was to be found, and intimated that he had come on earth for the purpose of restoring it to its rightful owners—the Indians; that he would wipe the white men from the face of the earth, and restore the country to the condition in which it was three hundred years ago.

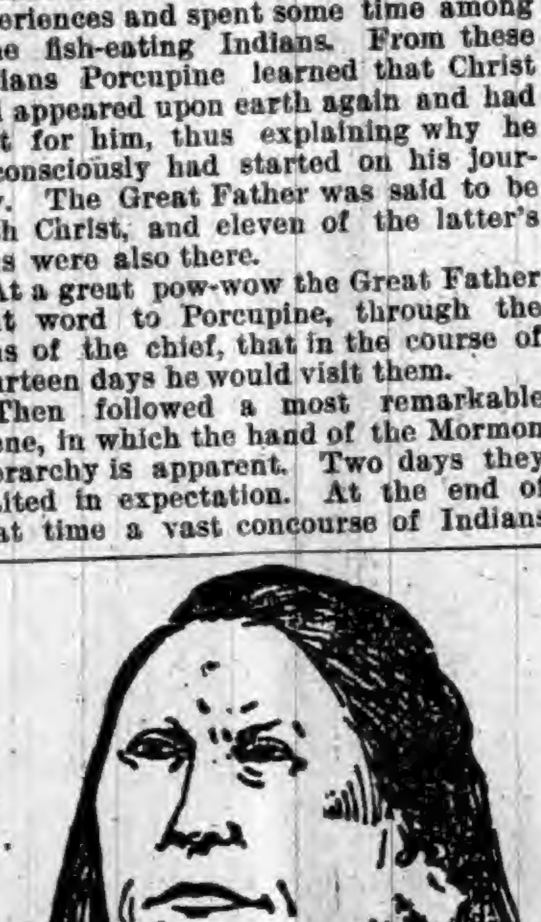
The Cheyenne chief, Porcupine, was naturally interested by this. He and his companions determined to go to see this new Redeemer. He sent several Indians up to the Indians on Tongue River, in the northern part of Wyoming and the southern part of Montana, to tell them the good news. Then he and a few companions started off on a long and perilous journey.

It must be remembered that Porcupine lives at Cheyenne Agency, which is on the Missouri River, in almost the center of South Dakota. He was visiting at the Shoshone Agency, which is almost in the center of Wyoming, and far away from home. He had probably obtained permission to make this visit, but the step he was taking in journeying a thousand miles further west was unauthorized and he knew it.

Traveling for several days among Indians and white men, they had various experiences and spent some time among some fish-eating Indians. From these Indians Porcupine learned that Christ had appeared upon earth again and had sent for him, thus explaining why he unconsciously had started on his journey. The Great Father was said to be with Christ, and eleven of the latter's sons were also there.

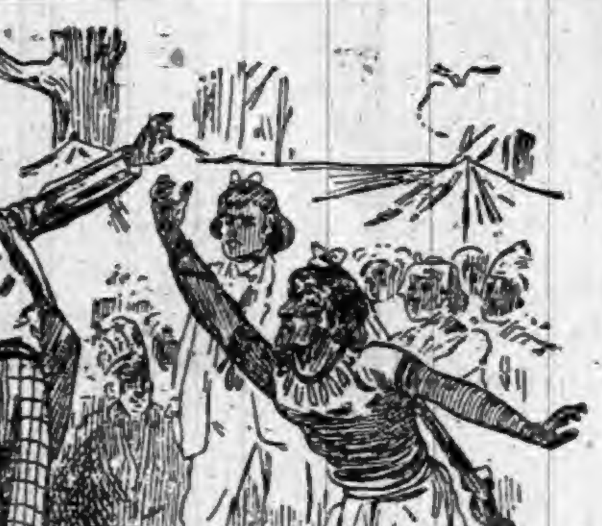
At a great pow-wow the Great Father sent word to Porcupine, through the sons of the chief, that in the course of fourteen days he would visit them.

Then followed a most remarkable scene, in which the hand of the Mormon hierarchy is apparent. Two days they waited in expectation. At the end of that time a vast concourse of Indians was assembled. A place near the agency was cleared in the form of a great ring, into which they all entered.



CHIEF GALL.

The sun was just setting. It was a cold afternoon in November, and any one who is familiar with the West can imagine the scene. The snow-capped peaks of the Sierra Nevadas rose to the west, tinted pink and gold with the glory of the western sunset, the dark pines around their bases mirrored in the still darker waters of the lake, the vast assemblage of Indians, clothed in brilliant blankets, the blue smoke of the fires rising among the tepees, straight up, up, up into the cold gray vault above. The silence is scarcely broken. The Indians are sitting around smoking their pipes and saying nothing.

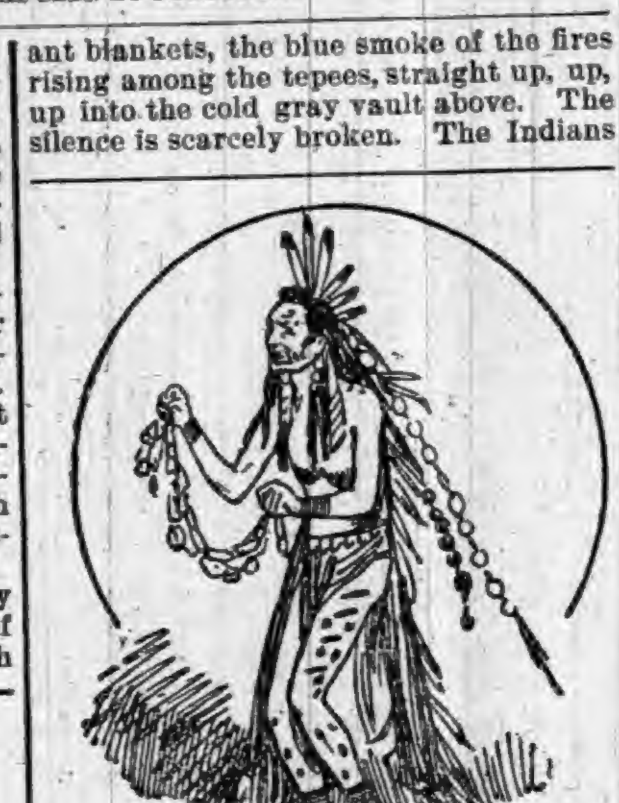


A MEDICINE MAN.

Just as the veil of darkness began to spread itself over the pine trees in the valley, while yet the light shone upon the mountains, a large body of men, dressed in the garb of civilization, arrived and entered the cleared circle. They had no tents, so sheets were erected all around the circle to keep off the cold night wind.

A whisper went around among the assembled Indians.

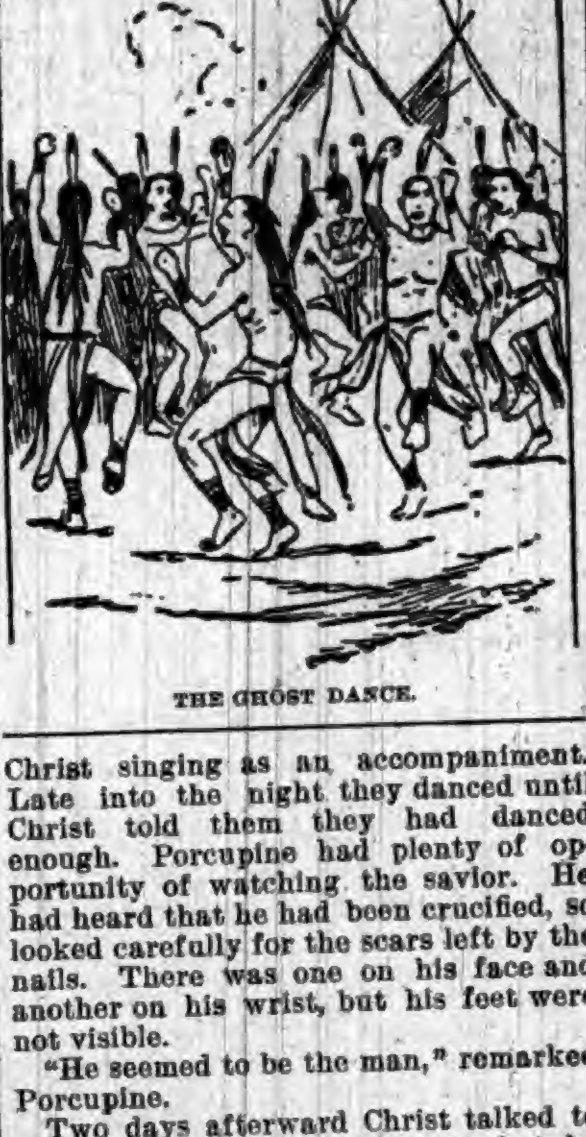
"Christ has come!"



RED CLOUD.

Porcupine's description of Christ's garb is rather incongruous. Says he: "He was dressed in a white coat, with stripes. The rest of his dress was a white man's, except that he wore moccasins."

By this time it was dark, and by the light of the camp fires Christ began to dance in the slow, rhythmic style of the Indian. The others all joined the dance, Christ singing as an accompaniment. Late into the night they danced until Christ told them they had danced enough. Porcupine had plenty of opportunity of watching the savior. He had heard that he had been crucified, so looked carefully for the scars left by the nails. There was one on his face and another on his wrist, but his feet were not visible.



THE GHOST DANCE.

"He seemed to be the man," remarked Porcupine.

Two days afterward Christ talked to them all day. He told them what he wanted them to do, and explained what he himself would do to aid them. He asked them to remain at peace with the white men. They must prepare for their coming deliverance and spread the news as far and as wide as possible.

The deliverance is to come about in this wise: Some time during the coming winter the messiah will come in all his majesty. With Him will come all the braves who have died and who are now supposed to be in the happy hunting grounds. A great wave of earth will pass over the whole crowd, burying everything thirty feet deep beneath it. The whole race of white men, with their towns, their railroads, their ships and munitions of war, will be exterminated by this burial.

The red men will be buried, too, but will have a supernatural power given them, by which they will climb out through the stratum of earth. When they arrive on the surface they will find themselves purified. They will find every trace of civilization and the hated pale-face wiped out.

The prairies will be covered with waving grass waist-deep. Buffalo will roam as they did of yore. The spirits of the departed dead will all be there, restored again to life. Wild horses will be ready for their use, and the millennium will have dawned.

This climbing out through the earth is a sort of purgatory through which the Indians will have to go in order that they may be purified from every contaminating stain left by the white race. Pain, tribulation and trouble will be encountered, but strength will be given them to overcome the obstacles.

WHAT THE GHOST DANCE IS LIKE.

In preparing for the dance the Indians cut the tallest tree that they can find, and, having dragged it to a level piece of prairie, set it up in the ground. Under this tree four of the head men stand. Others form in a circle and begin to go around and around the tree. The begin the dance Friday afternoon. It is kept up Saturday and Sunday until sundown. During all this time they do not eat or drink. They keep going round in one direction until they become so dizzy that they can scarcely stand, then turn and go in the other direction and keep it up till they swoon from exhaustion. This is what they strive to do, for while they are in swoon they think they see and talk with the new Christ. When they regain consciousness they tell their experiences to the four wise men under the tree. All their tales end with the same story about the two mountains that are to belch forth mud and bury the white men and the return of good Indian times.

They lose all their senses in the dance. They think they are animals. Some get down on all fours and bob about like buffalo. When they can not lose their senses from exhaustion they butt their heads together, beat them on the ground, and do anything to become insensible, so that they may be ushered into the presence of the new Christ. One poor Indian, when he recovered his senses, said that Christ had told him he must return to earth because he had not brought with him his wife and child. His child had died two years before, and the way the poor fellow cried was most heartrending. At the end of the dance they had a grand feast, the revel lasting all Sunday night. They kill several steers and eat them raw and drink and gorge themselves to make up for their fast. Every Indian has about four war clubs made out of round stones twisted in rawhide. They throw these around during the dance, strew the ground with them, and beat their heads against them.

An Odd Proposition.

One of the oddest contributions to the really large body of literature called forth by the "servant question" is the proposal of Mrs. Frances Darwin in an English magazine that a servant girl when applying for a situation should have the same right to ask for references from the mistress that the mistress has to ask them from the servant. For the purpose of meeting this legitimate demand she suggests that each mistress should name two referees among her former servants who have lived with her within a year. This assumes a judicial mindedness and power of expression on the part of servant girls which they hardly ever possess, and it assumes also that the servant girls do not already act as references about mistresses for each other. The truth is that nearly every employer's character, as an employer, is pretty well known to all the servant girls in the neighborhood. They describe the ways of the people they live with to one another at their Sunday evening conventicles with a minuteness and prolixity which leaves nothing to be desired in the way of information about temper, habits, kind and amount of work. It would be a waste of labor for any housekeeper to appoint standing referees, because their judgment would either be superfluous or ineffective, and would besides this be highly colored by the reasons of the referee for leaving or staying in the house.

PASTOR—And what would you like to give your pastor for a present? Rollo (who loves his pastor)—A phonograph. Pastor—A phonograph! Why a phonograph? Rollo—Because papa said you like to hear yourself talk!

FAME is a glorious thing to achieve, but a small salary is more negotiable.

A DIME in time saves many a dry moment.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Cause of Action.

"You ought to have that fellow in front of your store arrested."

"Why?"

"Why? Don't you see he's painting your name in big black letters?"

"I'm paying him for that."

"Yes; but he's blackening your name just the same."

Her Notions of Grammar.

Miss de Hub—And those dear little squirrels that sported under the hedge last summer, where are they now?

Miss Rustic—Oh, they're holed up for the winter.

Miss de Hub—Ugh! My dear, your notions of grammar make me shiver. I presume you mean held up.

A Purchase for Mother.

Mother—Are you going out, my dear?

Daughter—Yes, ma; the Physical Improvement Society meets this afternoon.

Mother—Well, I wish you would stop in somewhere and buy me a broom.

Routed the Enemy.

Maud—What a dear, good chaperon you are. But how did you manage to get my rival out of the room just at that critical moment?

Chaperon—I whispered to her in a kind, confidential tone, that there was a rip in the back of her black silk waist.

Excusable Profanity.

Managing Editor—William, go into the next room and see who is swearing. Such language cannot be used in this office.

William—Please, sir, it's Mr. Jones. He filled his fountain pen with mucilage by mistake, sir.

Injudicious Praise.

"We gave you a good notice in our paper."

"Oh, did you? Well, don't do it again. I don't mind your saying our vegetables are delicious and the milk pure, but when you add that our butter speaks for itself, we object."

A Consummation to Be Desired.

In the newspaper office:

Competitor Damner—When I determine to settle down, I will seek out an armless woman.

Circulation Swearer—That'll be pleasant.

C. D.—Mightn't be so pleasant, but it will save me the engagement ring.

Be Fashionable or Die.

Huggle—Wedding rings for men are coming into fashion again.

Kissem—They are? Then I'll break off my engagement with Alice Scott.

Huggle—Wouldn't you wear one?

Kissem—Oh, yes; but I can't afford to buy two wedding rings.

The Terrors of Bankruptcy.

First Merchant—Met Snodgrass last evening entering Delmonico's. He was dressed in the height of fashion, and a large and juicy cigar was between his lips.

Second Merchant—Snodgrass? Oh, yes; he failed two months ago, and is trying to settle at ten cents.

Learning the Business.

Dealer—Vat happen to dis hat?

Small Son—I was snappin' id wif my vingers, like you do, to show a gustomer vat goot stuff it vas, and it proke.

Dealer—Mine coodness! You haven't prains enough to zell beanuts. Ven you shnap a hat to show it can't be proke, you must keep vun hand inside, so id nod break.

The Wily Georgia Editor.

"We are going to start a paper in this town," writes a Georgia editor, "and we hereby put in our application for church membership and ask the prayers of the brethren for our success. A collection will be taken up after the service."

Undoubted Hypnotism.

Wilkins—I just tell you, there is something in this hypnotism. It's a true bill, and no mistake. You know Jinks? Well, that man is a hypnotizer—a wonderful one. I stand aghast when I think of that man's power.

Bilkins—I never heard of his hypnotizing any one.

Wilkins—He has done it, though. He has hypnotized his wife.

Bilkins—How do you know?

Wilkins—Easily enough. I was at his house the other evening when they had a little dispute about something, and she let him have the last word.

Three Minutes to Spare.

Old Lady (in railway train)—Conductor! How soon does this train start?

Conductor—It starts in three minutes, madam.

Old Lady—Well, I don't travel very much, and of course, I got a little confused with all the hurry and bustle, and so many things to think of, and I don't know how I'd got along at all today if it hadn't been for my darter, who is married and livin' here, but she thought of everything, she's got a wonderful memory, Sarah has, her name is Sarah, you know, and she helped me bring all my bundles to the depot, and she put them in my arms just before I came through the gate; but she forgot my spectacles, which I put in her pocket, and I want to know if there'll be time for me to run back and hunt her up and get them. How much time would I have?

Conductor—Three seconds. All aboard! All right! Go ahead!

Old Lady—Did you say for me to go ahead!

Conductor—We're off, madam. Take your seat.

Old Lady (to herself)—The idea of starting off a train three minutes ahead of time! I'll report that conductor.

Inadvertent but Appropriate.

Harry—Dearest, I love you better than any one on earth. If you will consent to be mine I will be your humble slave until death calls me hence. My heart is wholly yours. I love you distractedly. If this does not satisfy you of my devotion, what will?

Dearest—Cash!

She was a saleslady, and the word came to her ruby lips by force of habit. But it came like a cruel blow, and Harry, with a great gulp of sorrow, turned away and went out into the silent night to tell his grief to the cold, unfeeling stars in the ebon vault above. —Boston Transcript.

BY electrolysis of a fluoride in a molten state, M. Minet extracts 21.5 grammes of aluminium for an expenditure of one horse-power hour.

A NOVELTY of an electrical exhibition at Frankfort, Germany, is to be the transmission of 500 horse power to a distance of 140 miles.

KANSAS KERNELS.

HE who is long in choosing his friends has the fewest foes.

SO MANY of us receive praise when we really need criticism.

EVEN the good man who is able to forgive, is never able to forget.

AN amateur singer may lose his friends, but he will never lose his voice.

THE survival of the fittest is so often the survival of a coward with long legs.

DO YOU know of any good reason why any one in the world should like you?

THE Lord intended women to be good. The devil is content if they are pretty.

IF you want a man's candid opinion of you, make him angry, and you'll get it.

THE less we know of men, the more competent are we to be the friends of others.

THE more tiresome a friend is the harder you will find it to pick a quarrel with him.

THE greatest success we can attain is that which we achieve by successfully avoiding failure.

A MAN who has nothing but his time to sell ought to be careful about giving good measure.

WHEN a coward discovers that he is the largest man in the crowd, he puts a chip on his shoulder.

IF you have the disgrace of engaging in a fight, you should have the comfort of whipping the other fellow.

THERE are so many people in the world who laugh all the way home, and stop as soon as they reach the door.

ALL a boy hears until he is grown is that he is in the way when he is not wanted, and out of it when he's wanted.

A MAN never outgrows the small-boy desire of wanting to do the things the women in his family are most anxious he shall not do.

MARRIAGE is never so much a failure as when a man reminds the only woman in the world who would have him, how many there are who wanted him.

MAN regrets the past, despises the present, and ignores the future. He should, instead, forget the past, improve the present, and prepare for the future.

YOU young girls of sixteen: don't be pert because you are young and pretty. After you are married, and have two or three children, and are compelled to do your own washing, your friends may remember that you were once almost impudent.—Atchison Globe.

Strange Coincidences.

The dramatist H. J. Byron, who kept a list of coincidences, replied to the critics who denounced the improbabilities in one of his comedies by telling him that the improbable incident of the changed children, the subsequent production of the doctor's notebook in court to settle the right of the true claimant to the estates, and two or three other improbabilities of the sort, were taken literally from the instructions in a lawyer's brief in an action at law then in his possession, says the New York Saturdry Review. Here's another one: The wife of a country doctor, (who told the story in the leading medical journal at the time, giving his name) missed her wedding ring on a February morning. She had been mixing food for the fowls. The ring was searched for everywhere, but in vain. On April 8 she was eating an egg at breakfast, and her ring was found imbedded in the bottom of the egg, which was extra large and had been laid the day before.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

Let Her Come.

At least a dozen medical savants are now investigating to discover an elixir which will prevent decay for a certain period, and within the next ten years such a discovery is quite likely to be made. It will hold a person's age at forty-five for ten years or more, thus prolonging life by that many years.—Detroit Free Press.

A CHILD cannot tell what ails it. A shrewd mother will not take chances but will try Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers at once. Don't let your druggist sell you any other kind of worm candy. Bull's is the best.

A New Brand of Fish.

"You have fish?" she queried as she looked at the display in the window.

"Certainly."

"Well, I'll take some."

"What kind, ma'am?"

"Oh, it doesn't make very much difference. A leghorn will probably do as well as any."

THROAT DISEASES commence with a Cough, Cold or Sore Throat. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give immediate relief. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

He Failed to Utter.

Gazzam—Did Jaysmith make that speech he was booked for the other night?

Maddox—No; he got up, but he couldn't say a word. I was very sorry for him.

Gazzam—Then it was an utter failure, I suppose.—Yenowine's News.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

Correct, as Usual.

Simeral (to his cousin, who just arrived from California)—Why, you are the last man I expected to see to-day.

His Cousin—Well, you haven't seen anybody since I came, have you?

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Billious and Nervous Ills.

THE more you contract a cold the greater it becomes.

From Father

To son, through generation after generation, the taint of scrofula descends through the blood, blighting life and hastening death. The great majority of cases of scrofula and other blood diseases are hereditary, and therefore difficult to cure. But we wish to state in the most positive, emphatic manner that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula in every form. The most severe cases, too terrible for description, have yielded to this medicine when all others failed. The greater includes the less—and if you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or impure blood in any form, take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Entitled to the Best.

ALL are entitled to the best that their money will buy, so every family should have, at once, a bottle of the best family remedy, Syrup of Figs, to cleanse the system when costive or bilious. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

In the Czar's Country.

"Lunchski is servedupovitch, Your Highness," said the attendant.

"Has the Lord High Taster tested our Imperial food?" asked the Czar.

"Yes, Your Highness, and it is for himski the flagovitch is a half-mastovitch."

"Ah! Then we will dine out to-day. Give the remainder of the lunch to the cook and see that he eats it."

BEFORE the use of Prickly Ash Bitters became general throughout the South and West, it was a fearful dose of "Blue Mass," and daily doses of quinine, that was forced down the throats of suffers from all malarial troubles. In place of such obnoxious, harrowing curatives, Prickly Ash Bitters, with its mild, soothing action, now holds supreme sway, and after one trial, its use when necessary, is forever established. You who have sick-headaches, sour stomachs, diseased liver or kidneys, can do no better than to give it a trial.

Had Enough of It.

Tompkins—I see that by your mother-in-law's will nothing is left to you. Are you going to fight it?

Wheeler—No, sir! I fought her will too often when she was alive!—Lawrence American.

WOULD you think that refinement is acquired by the use of SAPOLIO? Yes. "Cleanly habits refine the mind." It is a solid cake of Scouring Soap.

IN the three fan districts of Japan 100,000 persons make fans.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

IT takes only about two seconds to get up a duel.

Takes 1000 people to buy Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, at 50 cents a bottle, to make up $500.

One failure to cure would take the profit from 4000 sales.

Its makers profess to cure "cold in the head," and even chronic catarrh, and if they fail they pay $500 for their over-confidence,—

Not in newspaper words but in hard cash! Think of what confidence it takes to put that in the papers—and mean it.

Its makers believe in the Remedy. Isn't it worth a trial? Isn't any trial preferable to catarrh?

After all, the mild agencies are the best. Perhaps they work more slowly, but they work surely. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an active agency but quiet and mild. They're sugar-coated, easy to take, never shock nor derange the system and half their power is in the mild way in which their work is done. Smallest, cheapest, easiest to take. One a dose. Twenty-five cents a vial. Of all druggists.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
LONDON, ENGLAND.

PATENTS Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent, sent free.
PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washingt'n, D.C.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims.
Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau.
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS! Instructions FREE to inventors. ☞ Write at once for hand-book of information.
J. B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D.C.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
PAINLESS. EFFECTUAL.
☞ WORTH A GUINEA A BOX. ☜

For BILIOUS & NERVOUS DISORDERS

Such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Fullness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness, and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c.

THE FIRST DOSE WILL GIVE RELIEF IN TWENTY MINUTES.
BEECHAM'S PILLS TAKEN AS DIRECTED RESTORE FEMALES TO COMPLETE HEALTH.

For Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Disordered Liver, etc.,

they ACT LIKE MAGIC, Strengthening the muscular System, restoring long-lost Complexion, bringing back the keen edge of appetite, and arousing with the ROSEBUD OF HEALTH the whole physical energy of the human frame. One of the best guarantees to the Nervous and Debilitated is that BEECHAM'S PILLS HAVE THE LARGEST SALE OF ANY PROPRIETARY MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Prepared only by THOS. BEECHAM, St. Helens, Lancashire, England.
Sold by Druggists generally. B. F. ALLEN CO., 365 and 367 Canal St., New York, Sole Agents for the United States, who (if your druggist does not keep them) WILL MAIL BEECHAM'S PILLS on RECEIPT of PRICE 25cts. A BOX. (MENTION THIS PAPER.)

Ely's Cream Balm Cures
COLD IN HEAD
RELIEVES INSTANTLY.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAY FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
25 CTS
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
25 CTS

PENSIONS!

The Disability Bill is a law. Soldiers disabled since the war are entitled. Dependent widows and parents now dependent whose sons died from effects of army service are included. If you wish your claim speedily and successfully prosecuted, address

JAMES TANNER,
Late Commissioner of Pensions, WASHINGTON, D. C.

NEW PENSION LAW. THOUSANDS NOW ENTITLED WHO HAVE NOT BEEN ENTITLED. Address for forms for application and full information

WM. W. DUDLEY,
LATE COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS,
Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.
(Mention this Paper.)

K. U. F. W.......................No. 52—90.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

St. Jacobs Oil
CURES BRUISES,
FROST-BITES,
INFLAMMATIONS
—AND ALL—
HURTS AND ILLS OF MAN AND BEAST.

Some Children Growing Too Fast

become listless, fretful, without energy, thin and weak. But you can fortify them and build them up, by the use of

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE COD LIVER OIL AND HYPOPHOSPHITES Of Lime and Soda.

They will take it readily, for it is almost as palatable as milk. And it should be remembered that AS A PREVENTIVE OR CURE OF COUGHS OR COLDS, IN BOTH THE OLD AND YOUNG, IT IS UNEQUALLED. Avoid substitutions offered.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co., 24 State St., N. Y.

THE NUPTIAL CHAMBER Or, Before Marriage and After; by a leading physician. "Here are a few of the unpleasantest words that ever blotted paper"—(Shakespeare.) A book for every young man and woman meditating matrimony. It treats of all those vices which invade the domestic sanctuary. The author says: Nothing but a sense of inexorable duty, in the hope of effecting a radical reform by awakening alarm to the enormous frequency and horrible consequences of this revolting crime could induce the author to enter upon the shocking revelations. The work is complete in one handsome octavo volume of 426 pages, marbled edges and bound in English cloth, silk finish. Price, $1.15. Will be sent postpaid to any address on receipt of price.

BRENNAN BROS., 36 State Street, Chicago.

HOMES WANTED.

We want to secure permanent homes for a number of Orphan Babes and Children. Responsible parties who want to adopt a bright, healthy and well-grown child are invited to correspond with us.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY,
204 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

The "Little Beauty" a $5.00 Scale for $1.00

Capacity 1-4 oz. to 4 lbs. Steel Bearings, Brass Scoop and Beam. For Housekeepers, Offices or Stores. Weight packed, 3 lbs. Sent by express.

$5.00 SCALE For $1.00

A $65.00 Sewing Machine $18.00
A 500-lb. Platform Scale 18.00
A $125.00 Top Buggy 65.00
A 2-Ton Wagon Scale 40.00
A 5-Ton Scale and Stock Rack 75.00
A $50 Feed Mill 10.00
A $40.00 Road Cart 15.00
A $15.00 Single Harness 7.50
A 240-lb. Platform Scale 3.00

Price List Free. CHICAGO SCALE CO., Chicago, Ill.

YOUR BOY WANTS

Our Illustrated CATALOGUE of Scroll Saws, Designs, Magic Lanterns, Skates, Boxing Gloves, etc. ☞ Send stamp for our No. 200 Catalogue.

THE JOHN WILKINSON CO.,
269 & 271 State St., Chicago, Ill.

If You Want to Know

1,001 curious things about the human system, How life is perpetuated, health saved, disease induced, How to avoid the pitfalls of ignorance and indiscretion, How to apply Home Cure to all forms of disease, How to cure Croup, Old Eyes, Rupture, Phimosis, etc., How to mate, be happy in Marriage and have prize babies, and an eddition of Doctor's Droll Jokes, profusely illustrated. Send ten cents for new Laugh Cure Book called

MEDICAL SENSE AND NONSENSE,
M. HILL PUB CO., 129 East 28th St., New York.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY MEMORY

Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave, New York.

MOTHERS Dr. Snyder's Kidney Balsam cures Enuresis BED-WETTING. Price $1 per package by mail. For sale by all druggists or at office. For circulars and testimonials address, with stamps, Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago.

☞ Ask your Druggist to order it for you.

MENTION THIS PAPER WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS.

RIDGE'S FOOD IT IS USED by CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up.

By Druggists. WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....DECEMBER 25, 1890.

THE Indian troubles remain about as before but will likely be settled.

FUR animals in the great north west are decreasing in numbers. Too many want their hides.

THE House of representatives will probably adjourn for the holidays, though the senate will not.

MAJ. GEN. A. H. TERRY, the hero of Ft. Fisher, died at his home in New Haven, Conn., last Tuesday. He was 61.

TEN men were drowned at Halifax, last week, while unloading a big steamer, Storm caused a part of the dock to give way suddenly.

SNOW so deep last week near Lockhaven, Pa., that many barn roofs were crushed. The supply ought to be divided a little better.

ALL the new organizations, such as the Alliance, the patrons, and others, will probably unite on some basis and form a new national party.

THE amazing stupidity and blundering of this administration has never been equaled. And even after the late election, Harrison doesn't seem to have learned anything.

S. A. KEAN, the well-known Chicago banker, failed last week. The W. C. T. U., had deposited with them the money they were gathering to build a fine structure in that city.

SEVERAL lumbermen in Canada, were attacked by wolves in the woods, and had a hard fight, defending themselves with axes. The wolves left only when about a dozen had been killed.

INDIANS near Colfax, Wash., refused to pay their taxes, and the officers seized a lot of their ponies. It may make trouble. The red man can't get used to all the points of civilization.

BOOKKEEPER, at Milwaukee, was accidentally seen by his employers, drinking champagne at a restaurant. They knew he could not afford this, and examined the books. He had stolen $5,000.

SENATE is likely to adopt a rule to limit the time of debate on a question. They have never limited debate in that body. They will try the "previous question" to shut off debate on the e ection, or force bill.

A SHERIFF, at Sherbrook, Canada, last week, led out a murderer to hang, when under the excitement, the sheriff dropped dead from heart trouble. The deputy sheriff, then took the prisoner and hanged him.

SITTING BULL'S followers have, a part of them, come in and surrendered. The others may fight. His three wives and daughters have come in. The widow of one of the friendly Indians killed in taking Sitting Bull, walked eighty miles to attend her husband's funeral.

FARMERS and similar organizations met in state meeting in Illinois, a week or so ago, and decided to favor the Australian ballot law, uniform text books for schools all over the state, and several other things exactly what Indiana democrats have secured, and what democrats, generally, advocate.

MR. IRBY, the new senator from South Carolina, though selected by the Alliance, has always been a democrat, and says he will act with the democrats in the senate, for he believes the Alliance is in full accord with the leading principles of democracy, and can attain their ends only by the help of democrats.

IDAHO, has chosen her first senators. She selected three. Gov. Geo. L. Schoup gets the remainder of a term ending next March. W. J. McConnell, gets the remainder of the four year term ending March 4, 1893. F. T. Dubois, gets a full term of six years from the time Schoup's short term ends the 4th of next March.

PARNELL, the Irish leader, has managed to get his party divided and quarreling. A part want him to remain as their leader, and the others want him to retire on account of scandals about him and Mrs. O'Shea. At a meeting last week, Parnel's carriage was attacked, and in the row, some one threw some lime into the carriage. Some got into his eyes, and for some days threatened the loss of his sight.

WYOMING has adopted her state constitution. In the state seal, is seen a woman, with uplifted arms, from which dangle a broken chain. This gives notice that women are permitted to vote. Our own idea is, that each family should have one vote, to be exercised by that member that supported the family. In this place we know of some ladies who would in this way be entitled to cast a vote, while the husband was loafing about town.

ONE important duty which the people expect of the coming legislature is cutting down the number of appointed employes, such as door keepers, clerks and pages. There is no sense in having more than half the number generally employed. Two years ago, the House had 29 clerks, 29 doorkeepers and 10 pages. Two years before, the republicans had control and they had 31 each of the doorkeepers and clerks. This House will not be held blameless unless it cuts the clerks and doorkeepers down to 20 each, and the pages to six. They could go lower and still be safe, and have the work well done. And there must be no extra pay voted at the close of the session, to any employes. We should start out right, and hang to it.

Volume Twenty.

With this number of the COURIER we close Volume Twenty. T. C. Mays bought the "Air Line" of us in the latter part of December, 1870, and moved it to Auburn, and the first Thursday in the new year, 1871, published No 1, of Vol. I. of the COURIER. Ten years ago this week, the present publisher and D. Y. Husselman assumed charge, the former being still at the helm. Under all changes and circumstances the COURIER has moved right on increasing its list every year, having never had a healthier or more gratifying increase of its circulation than during the present year. The circulation is now nearly double what it was when we came into control ten years ago. The size of the paper has been increased one-third; the material in the office has been more than doubled, especially in putting in a cylinder power press and steam in place of the antiquated hand press. We have given to the business, ten years of hard, ceaseless labor, and we believe there are indications that our exertions to make a good, readable, clean and pure paper have been appreciated. The first number of volume 21 will be on Jan. 1, New Year's day. We hope to begin the new year with many new subscribers and with as many of the old ones paid up on the books as can do so. Let all who are getting in arrears, try and fix up, or a part at least, for we have bills to meet with the new year, and besides, we wish to go forward making the COURIER better and more worthy. In the mean time the COURIER and its staff sends out friendly greetings to its thousands of readers all over the country, scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Lakes to Gulf. We wish them all happiness and prosperity, for the coming year, and for the present season a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Coroner Miser.

The Waterloo Press, and indeed a few other papers, seem to take great pleasure in what the Yankees would call "ben buzzy business." That is a desire to interfere in other people's business so as to get other people to quarreling. Witness its last issue when it tries to dictate to one county officer and prophesy for another, as to how and by whom the business is to done. This we call extremely small business. It had things fixed up for Treasurer Sawvel. Then it attacked Auditor Coffoberry, and wound up with Coroner Miser and ex-Coroner Wood. It even predicted that Mr. Miser would permit Dr. Wood to serve another term. On Saturday last Mr. Miser filed his bond in the auditor's office, with ex-Sheriff J. C. St. Clair, Rev. S. P. Klotz and John Miser, as bondsmen in the sum of $5,000. He expects his commission to reach here any day. The reason he has not qualified sooner, was that being a carpenter, with a goods deal of work on his hands, he had waited till work was in shape to leave long enough to attend to this matter. We do hope this explanation will relieve at least temporarily, the uncertain state of mind into which these meddlers have worked themselves Now let the good old county ship sail on.

Departed.

Sarah Beaty Getts, was born in Pennsylvania, March 11th, 1811. She united with the Evangelical Lutheran church, at Spencerville, in 1857. After removing from this place, to Noble county, she united with the Lutheran church at that place, of which, she was a consistent member up to the time of her death, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Wise, Dec. 2, 1890, aged 79 yrs., 8 mos. 22 days. She leaves six children, two sons and four daughters, with a large number of friends to mourn their loss. Her husband and three daughters having preceded her to the better land. Another one of the mothers of Israel, has gone to reap the reward of the finally faithful. The funeral services were held at the Richland Center E. V. Lutheran church, and were conducted by D. F. Kain, Pastor of the Lutheran church, in Auburn.

"Mother, now thy labor ended,
And thy hand need toil no more;
Sweetly rest; by angels tended,
Over on the golden shore."

"Mother's gone! our home is lonely,
But our loss is her real gain;
She is where there is no weeping,
And she is where there is no pain."

"O'er that bright celestial river,
She is with our God above.
She's so happy now, dear loved one,
In that clime where all is love."

A DISPATCH, from Pierre, South Dakota, Dec. 17, has this item:

"White Buffalo Man, son of Sitting Bull, who lives on Bad river, west of here, came in town to-day. He says the killing of Sitting Bull is right, and that the Bad River Indians are all glad. But White Buffalo Man says a messenger from Sitting Bull's camp will no doubt visit the bad land hostiles to-day and when they hear of Sitting Bull's death they will kill every white man they see. He says the government must now capture and disarm them or great trouble will follow."

The dispatch errs in one point. White Buffalo, is Sitting Bull's nephew, not his son. The editor of this paper, met him on the banks of Bad river, near Pierre, a few years ago, and had a sort of introduction to him. He was then, and is probably yet, in the employ of the government as a mounted police, to help keep order among the Indians. He wore a uniform of light blue, such as was worn by the "veteran reserve corps" during the rebellion, and made a fine appearance. The interpreter spoke highly of his character as a man, but the newspaper man, who could not speak Indian, did not find it very satisfactory interviewing a Sioux, who would not speak English. So the confab was mainly confined to gestures and guesswork.

Horses for Sale.

Eight good horses for sale at the Lockwood stables east of the public square. Call on Joe Pfefferl at the stables for information, terms, etc. tf

Additional Local.

Remember the musical at Mabel Hartman's Dec. 30.

E. L. Casebeer of this place has received an increase of pension.

Don't forget the basket social at the Lutheran church. See their notice.

Some articles came too late this week, as we had to close up early for holidays.

Stella Hague is home for the holidays She has been attending school at Bloomington.

That new silver cornet at Davenport's, cheap. Cost $30.50. You can have it for $15.00.

Josiah Teeters has come home from Purdue, to spend the days of Christmas at home.

Mr. Otto Blum, of Mexico, Ohio, is here spending the holidays with his brother, Rine Blum.

F. E. Davenport certainly has the nicest stock of perfumery that has ever been carried in Auburn.

Edith Trentman came home for a holiday vacation, yesterday. She has been attending school at Ft. Wayne.

POULTRY WANTED: The highest market price paid for all kinds of poultry. Call at J. A. Clifton's meat market, Auburn, Ind.

Young people remember the Reading Room. Daily, weekly and monthly papers, of the best. And a good lunch room besides.

Miss Mary Kelley who has been attending school at Findlay, Ohio, is home for a holiday visit with her people Dr. and Mrs. James Adams.

Dr. Casebeer was called to Ohio last week by the sickness of a sister who, lives in Wayne county. She was better when he left Tuesday.

We read in the Daily Sentinel that Phil Myers of Auburn, has secured a pension. Good idea, for Phil can find plenty of good uses to put it to.

C. C. Shaffer has a whole room stored full of fine furniture purchased for Christmas gifts, by people who had him store it away till he could deliver it today.

Mr. A. H. Blaker, of Stafford township has been awarded a pension. We believe he is deserving it. The same may be said of John Springer, near this place, who has also secured one.

The Wabash Extension going through from Montpelier, west, has bought forty acres of land at Hudson, so we are told. This looks like making that enterprising little burg, into a big station.

The attendance at the social of the Presbyterian church Friday evening was good. A meal as excellent as that is extremely cheap at fifteen cents. And the ladies are good entertainers.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Ann Culbertson returned last Saturday from an extended visit among her former neighbors at St. Joe and vicinity. She reports a splendid time, and says St. Joe and its people are as lively as ever.

Geo. Foster and wife called up to see their old friend of the COURIER last week. We always had faith in George and are greatly pleased to see them getting along so well. And his COURIER is paid up to '92.

The ladies of the north section of the M. E. church will hold a social in the lecture room on New Years eve to which all are invited. They are making an extra effort to give you a grand supper. Mite 15 cents. Supper from 5 to 7.

The young ladies society of the Presbyterian church,–i. e.–the D. S. A's will give their first entertainment at the home of Miss Mabel Hartman on Tuesday eve, Dec. 30. A unique and interesting program has been prepared. All are cordially invited. Mite 10 cents

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Imus at DeSmet, Dakota, have met with a double bereavement. Last week, we noted the death of the little boy, by scarlet fever. Now, as we go to press, comes a paper from there, noting the death a few days later, of Mr Imus' mother at the same place.

C. C. Shaffer has purchased the two business lots so long owned by Phillip Finke, situated between the Farmers' Bank and the Ford block at the north. It is a valuable piece of property, and we are told cost $4000 We have not learned whether Mr. Shaffer will build on it soon or not.

The Press last week again asserts that Mr. Sawvel promised to make young Miser his deputy, though the COURIER had already said that Mr. Sawvel denied it. There was no such thing thought of. But if there had been, why should the Press care? We believe an officer has a right to select his own deputy.

Sam Weaver was arrested by the marshal the other day and fined for getting drunk and boisterous. We hope this will be a lesson to him. When sober he is quiet enough, but he has got so used to having a good time whenever he pleased, that it is hard to quit. The new marshal is going to keep order. Mr. Pfefferl will have thanks of all our people if he can do this, and he acts as if he was in earnest.

MARRIED.

MARRIED: At the residence of W. L. Meese, the officiating clergyman in Auburn Sunday Dec. 21, 1890, Wm. M Ballentine to Miss Elnora Smith both of this county, the bride being the daughter of Fred. Smith of Butler township.

Also at the same time and place by the same, Joseph W. Ferguson to Miss Cora Koeht, both of Union township in this county.

Also, at the same place, by the same Dec. 18, 1890 Wm. H. Grube to Miss Addie Sheets, both of this county.

MARRIED; At the residence of the bride's parents in Auburn, Dec. 17, 1890, A. Mason and Miss Elmina Mitchell, youngest daughter of Jacob Mitchell. The wedding was largely attended. A splendid supper was served and all did ample justice to the hospitality of the host and hostess. Many valuable presents were received by the happy couple. The Foundry Band serenaded them at the close for which they have thanks of the bride and groom and all present, for splendid music.

MARRIED: Elmer C. Miller, to Melissa S. Apple, at the home of George Apple, Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, by Rev. D. F. Kain. The newly wedded couple are inhabitants of this county, and the COURIER extends its best wishes and congratulations.

MARRIED: Samuel Haverstock, to Maud M Walter, at the home of the bride's parents, in Franklin township, Thursday evening, Dec. 18, Rev. D F Kain officiating. The COURIER sends congratulations.

Judge McBride Appointed.

As foreshadowed by the COURIER last week, Judge McBride was appointed by the governor, to the place on the state supreme bench, made vacant by the death of Judge Mitchell. The matter was rushed through at a lively rate as if it had been a matter of life or death. Judge Mitchell was buried on Monday, and on Wednesday the new man was appointed. But when republicans have an office in sight, the wheels of the clock can't go fast enough for them till they get it. This gives a state that went democratic by 20,000, not one democrat on its supreme court bench. Of course this is an injustice, but that is the way things often happen. No one expected Hovey to appoint a democrat, though it would have been a good thing for the people of the state. The people at the late election gave 22,000 against McBride. But death and the governor, though these are but two, have got the advantage of the people.

Election Expenses.

In our list of allowances for election purposes, it will be seen that some townships had a much larger bill than others. The cause of this is, that a part of them had brought in bills for this expense, at the special session of the commissioners, which was held a few days after election. Those who put in a part of their bill then only had a small amount to put in at the regular session. Hence the apparent difference as shown in the allowances at their regular session. We make this explanation in answer to the question from one or two townships, as to why their townships had to pay more than others. They really did not, as the expense for each precinct has been about the same all over the country. The meals of the board, the pay of the board, and the expense of putting up booths, and then of taking them down, all had to be paid, and many thought they had to bring in their bills at once, at the special session, and did so, although it would have been just as well to wait till the regular session, as many of the trustees did In fact, it is always preferred by the commissioners that parties bring in bills of any kind only at regular sessions. They publish now an order of business in which they require this to be done. It is in the COURIER and should be read by all having business with the commissioners.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair will be held in Ensley's hall in Auburn, on Thursday, January 15th, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m. officers will be elected for the ensuing year, as follows, viz.,

One President.
One Vice-President.
One Secretary.
One Treasurer.

Twenty Directors and an Executive Committee composed of five persons. A full attendance is desired, as business of vital importance will be brought before the meeting. By order of the President.

CAL HUSSELMAN, Secretary
JNO. L. DAVIS President.

Railroad Rates for Holidays.

On Dec. 26, 25, and 31, 1890, and Jan 1, 1891, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets between points on its line, at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets good going day of sale and to return until Jan. 3d.

Postoffice Notice.

The postoffice will be closed Christmas from 10:30 to 3 p. m. standard time. Saturday evening the office will be moved three doors west, and will be closed at 7:30. G. W GORDON, P. M.

Come Let us Settle.

We hope everyone indebted to the COURIER on job work, subscription or advertising will come in and settle by New Year's Day, or as soon after as possible. That will help us to settle what we owe, We especially urge the settlement of subscriptions, much of which is now due. You can call at the office any day or if at a distance you can send by mail. Please don't neglect it At this season we generally look over these accounts and find now and then one who must be cut off, and the account given for collection. Some names will be dropped with the New Year.

The First Shall be Last, etc.

Rather an unusual thing occurred at the residence of Rev. W. L Meese last Saturday. A young couple from near Cedar Creek, William Ballentine and Miss Elnora Smith, daughter of Fred Smith, called to have Mr. Meese marry them Like a thoughtful man, even on this trying occasion, Mr. Ballentine did not forget his horse's comfort, and, leaving the young lady at the minister's he went to put his horse in the livery stable Scarcely had he gone when another young couple, bent on the same errand, came in. They were Joseph Ferguson, son of J L. Ferguson, of Union, and Miss Cora Koeht. The situation was a little awkward at first but the young couple meant business, and stood up before Mr. Meese and were married, giving the waiting bride a chance to witness the ceremony in which she was just then most interested. Then Mr. Ballentine returned, and he and Miss Smith were married in the presence of the other couple. It was a case in which the scripture came true, "The first shall be last and the last first."

To the Pacific Coast.

Go to California via the through lines of the Burlington Route, from Chicago or St. Louis to Denver, and thence over the new broad gauge, through car lines of the Denver and Rio Grande or Colorado Midland Railways, via Leadville, Glenwood Springs and Salt Lake, through interesting cities and unsurpassed scenery. Dining cars all the way. 51-3

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James M. Goetchius deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL Z. HOFFMAN, Administrator.
November 29th, 1890.

More Natural Gas.

John H. Pyle, living three and one-half miles east of Auburn, assures us that he has gas on his farm. That part of his farm where the escape of gas is noticed, was purchased by A. C. Brown, who occupied it about the year 1844. Old Settlers will remember it as the hard winter, in which the thunder came with such terrific force that it shook his log cabin. This peculiar shaking has occurred every winter since that time, when the ground was frozen. On such occasions the flashes as of burning gas may be seen. When the ground is not frozen it escapes for a period of from two to six weeks, without noise. The way we have of knowing it is gas, is by the peculiar odor that issues from the earth. After a dry spell, if we have rain, then the smell is plainly like natural gas. A. C. Brown leased the farm to an Oil Company, of Pennsylvania, for twenty one years, (it is on record) and the company seemed to think there were good evidences of an abundance of oil and natural gas. But the newness of the country prevented any attempt to utilize the gas. Later, this farm was leased to an Auburn company, on conditions, that they were to bore on this land before boring at Auburn. However, the gas company returned the lease and bored for gas at Auburn. Mr. Pyle not being able to put down a well himself, is desirous of having the thing developed by some person or persons, who have the nerve, capital and back-bone to venture an enterprise, where the prospects are so promising He offers an opportunity to any company, who will bore for gas on his farm. Another strange thing on his farm, is a spring. This is walled up, but is noticed to rise, often about two feet, about twenty four hours before a storm, and then afterwards, it will go back to its original level. * * *

Took a Free Ride.

Some one took a free ride at the expense of Dr. Buchtel, last Thursday evening. He had been out into the country some miles southwest of here to see a patient, and turned in at Mr. Gilliland's in the southwest part of town, to make a call there. This was about half past six in the evening. On coming out after a brief stay, he saw his horse was gone. He at first thought it might have got loose in some way and gone back up town to Trout's barn, where he keeps it. He went up to the barn, but it was not there. He then began a search for it, and soon recognized its tracks, going out on the Spencerville road. He and Mr. Trout followed the tracks for a long way, for the hoofs were very small and peculiar. But at last they came to a spot in the road so much used, that they could no longer keep the trace. They soon after turned homeward, when they met Cal. Husselman, who was on his way to Boots' district. Mr. H., said a horse of that description, driven at a good rate, had gone around him a short distance back, and was probably now somewhere ahead. But the searchers finally concluded to come back home, and on arriving here, found the horse safe in Trout's stable. It appeared the one who had taken it, had driven it as far as he cared to, and then as it was sweating freely, thoughtfully put the blanket on it, and started it homeward. The horse probably kept the road all right, and came into town from the south. It was noticed by Charley Mitchell going by without a driver and he drove it up town and had it cared for. The Doctor was greatly pleased to get his rig back in safety, but does not know yet who took it, or what the original object was.

A Serious Accident.

We are again called upon to chronicle another serious accident, which happened Monday morning, to Garry A. Maurer, one of our enterprising young friends, who lives in Stametstown. It seems that he and Arthur Thomas, a neighbor boy, were cutting wood on Moses Brandon's farm, west of his house, and on the morning mentioned, they were trimming the branches from a tree preparatory to making it into wood. Apparently the body of the tree was some distance from the ground, and in trying to cut some of the limbs out of the way, his ax caught on an over-hanging branch causing the ax to glance from the limb he was chopping, striking his right foot across the instep, inflicting a horrible gash about three inches in length and deep enough to sever two or three arteries. He ran about a quarter of a mile, climbed two fences and jumped across a good sized ditch, before he got to Mr. Brandon's house, where he removed his boot, and attempted, by the assistance of Mr B., to bandage the injured member, This accomplished, he was brought in a carriage to Dr. Nusbaum's office, where his foot was properly dressed and the gash sewed up, which required several stitches. This is a sad occurrence, to say the least, and it has victimized an industrious, hard-working young man, who is not prepared to meet such an emergency. He will doubtless be laid up the most of the winter, as it is a difficult wound to heal. He has so far, displayed a remarkable spirit of patience and manly courage, in trying to make the best of his misfortune. At last reports he was doing fairly well, and it is hoped his recovery will be speedy and permanent.

Court.

Business has been some interrupted, but a good deal of scattering work done. Divorces have been given to Louis and Lucinda Baird, Margaret and Henry Miller, Henry and Olpha Copenhaver, Jane and David Cattell, John and Laura Dawson. Case of Beard vs Aldrich has been dismissed. Charles Mercer for cruelty to animals, and A Borden for assault, got $1 and costs The U B. church case from Jackson township, to see who holds the property, will come up Jan. 26, till which time they agree to hold meetings alternately in peace. Grand jury are investigating boys for drunken riot at Waterloo Adjourned Wednesday evening till Monday, Dec. 29.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.

44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

Root & Company

FORT WAYNE, IND.

LOTS AND LOTS OF NEW THINGS

—IN—

NICE DRESS GOODS.

You Want the Dress to be Nice if it is a Low Priced One.

English Meltons.

40 inches wide, full measure. A Handsome durable fabric. Makes up splendidly. Wears well.

38 Cents.

Very, Very Pretty.

Serviceable Dress goods have piled in upon us at these low prices

7c, 9c, 10c.

PLAIN SATINS

For your fancy work. They can be had in shades

AT 50 CENTS.

PLUSHES IN COLORS.

These you will need too, if only a small piece. Come and get them. It will pay you.

50 CENTS

BLACK GOODS NOVELTIES,

Scarce and rare have just reached us and are now displayed at the Silk Counters,

Astrachan Effects,
Bucle Cloths,
Gisconda Polka Dots.

The Bucle Cloth is a lovely thing. It comes in subdued Black and White effects. The most stylish fabric we have shown at any time.

BLACK CASCADE SILKS!

Don't forget this brand. There's no silk in the market equal to it for genuine good wear. We warrant it.

$1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00.

SILK WARP BROCADED HENRIETTAS!

Something no one in this section has got, Priestley's Famous New Fabrics.

HOLIDAY NOVELTIES

Arriving almost every day. Call in and inspect the new goods. None too soon. Samples mailed upon application.

Root & Company.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of John Butt, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of December, 1890.
A. B. RICHARDS, Executor.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Delia Butt deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 5th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why our FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of December, 1890.
A. B. RICHARDS, Executor.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Edhu McInturf, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, or claim, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 23d day of December, 1890.
WM. M. MCINTURF. Adm'r.

Literary Note.

The J. G. Cupples Company of Boston, will soon issue a very dainty holiday book entitled "Aunty's Elfin Land." It is a collection of fairy stories; or rather, the combined histories of three children who had most strange adventures in the land of "the little folk." They are written by Mrs. Mariah Hildreth Parker, and are illustrated by Herman D. Murphy. The book will commend itself to those who are in search of holiday gifts for children who have outgrown the jingle of nursery rhymes. Mrs. Parker is the widow of Col. J. M. G. Parker, for many years a prominent citizen of New Orleans, and is the sister-in-law of Gen. B. F. Butler.

Christmas and New Year Excursions on the B. & O.

The Baltimore & Ohio R. R. Co. will sell round trip excursion tickets December 24, 25 and 31, 1890, and January 1, 1891, good for return passage to and including January 5, to all points between Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago. For time of trains, rates and other information, call on agents of the B. & O. 52

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn. Ind., for the week ending Dec. 23, 1890. Mrs. George Kelbaum, Mrs. Sarah Jones, James Baty, Ira R. Barsgar, Dave Copenhaver, J. S. Lawhead, John Lysher, Sam Miser.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

—GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of a certified copy of a decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, in a cause wherein John Lease is plaintiff and Josiah McAntarfer, Mary M. McAntarfer, Isaac Hague, Charles East and Jacob Lowenstine are defendants, requiring me to make the sum of Five hundred six dollars and sixty-one cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate to-wit:

Saturday, December 27, 1890.

The undivided one-third in the following tract, to-wit: Beginning at the east line of the North-east quarter (¼) of section nine (9) in township thirty-four (34) north of range thirteen (13) east at the south east corner of out lot owned by Elijah Hill, in said quarter, thence west on a line to the Jackson, Saginaw and Ft. Wayne railroad lands, thence south westerly along the line of said railroad lands to the south line of north-west quarter of said section nine [9], thence east on the quarter line to the east line of said section nine [9] and thence north on said line to place of beginning, being a tract known as the lands of the hiers of Jacob McAntarfer, deceased. Said to contain a tract of about ninety-three acres, situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

PHIL. PLUM,
Sheriff of DeKalb county, Indiana.
Wm. H. LEAS, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sheriff's office Dec. 11th, 1890.

Secretary Board of Health.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of county commissioners on Monday, January 5, 1891, will receive sealed bids for services as secretary of the County Board of Health for the ensuing year. All those desiring this appointment should leave their bids at the auditor's office in Auburn, by 11 a. m. of that date.

JOHN HOFFELDER
Pres. Board.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

Notice.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to A Lewis for building material please call and settle their accounts. Must have a settlement before Jan. 1, 1891. Will accept bankable notes in payment of accounts. 51-52

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Poultry Show.

The great poultry and bench show of the Steuben county Poultry Association will be held at Waterloo this time, from Jan. 13 to 17. It will be an extensive affair and all who are interested in "Poultry and Pets" should attend.

LOW PRICES!
FOR THE
NEXT 30 DAYS
ON ALL KINDS OF WINTER
GOODS!

As our large Stock must be reduced before taking our annual inventory. YOU WILL SAVE MONEY by Trading with

HARTER,
EAST OF COURT HOUSE,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

SCHAAB & MURPHY
For Bargains In
CLOTHING!
West of Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Attention!

J. Wm. WAGNER respectfully announces to the public, that he has opened a large and well selected stock of HOLIDAY and VARIETY GOODS, such as

Albums,
Toilet Sets,
Smoking Sets,
Vases of all kinds, styles and prices;
Toys—and endless variety of them;
Glassware,
Chinaware,
Queensware,
Woodenware,
Willow-ware,
Ladies' and Gents' Underwear,
Hosiery,
Gloves and Mittens,
Handkerchiefs,
Mufflers,
Laces and Ribbons,
Books and Stationery,
Notions of all kinds,
And a general line of Household Articles,

And invites everybody to call and see the great variety of goods and Low Prices at

The Fair,
OPERA HOUSE BLOCK,
GARRETT, IND.

LOCAL NEWS.

Read our Washington letter.

Hats and caps a specialty at Yesbera's.

See that elegant case of bottled perfumes at Davenport's.

Three-fourths of your ailments arise from liver troubles which Simmons Liver Regulator cures.

To overcome the marks of age, all who have gray beards should use Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers, the best and cleanest dye made for coloring brown or black.

Kiblinger has a variety of fine goods on sale for holidays, many of them being new features. He will also have a ten-cent counter, for cheap articles. His display should not be overlooked by purchasers.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Drunkenness and the craving for liquor banished by a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

The special quality of Ayer's Hair Vigor is that it restores the natural growth, color, and texture of the hair. It vitalizes the roots and follicles, removes dandruff, and heals itching humors in the scalp. In this respect, it surpasses all similar preparations.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Indianapolis Sentinel: The appointment of Judge McBride to fill the vacancy on the supreme bench, caused by the death of Judge Mitchell, will be received by all fair minded men as a gross partisanship. Six weeks ago the people decided, by a majority of more than 20,000 that they did not want McBride for judge. Political decency would have dictated the appointment of a democrat, but this was not expected of Gov. Hovey, although he would not have violated the rules of propriety if he had appointed a republican who had not been repudiated by the people. In the face of the largest majority ever cast against the republican party since the war, the people of Indiana will see for the first time in the history of the state, a solid republican supreme court. It is now in order for Gov. Hovey to write another message on "non-partisan boards."

Get ready to write it 1891.

Stoves, extra nice at Beuret's. 50-52

When at Garrett be sure sure to call at The Fair.

Suitings, the latest styles and best goods, at G. H. Yesbera's.

The best assortment of juvenile books in town are at the City Book Store.

Baby carriages fearfully cheap at Foster's Furniture store, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Yes, the days are getting longer, though we won't notice it much for awhile.

Hon. John H. Baker, of Goshen, was here Friday attending to some court business.

Everybody is surprised at the low prices we ask for our beautiful dolls. Robbins & McCord.

Master Fred Leas, of Ann Arbor, was here over Sunday. He is the son of the late Ex-Sheriff A. S. Leas.

Don't miss seeing and trying the New Home sewing machine at F. J. Yesbera's. He is the agent for this locality.

Books make the best Christmas presents. You can get them from one cent to ten dollars each at the City Book Store 51-52

The Fifth Indiana Battery, known about here as "Simonson's" will hold a reunion at Columbia City, Dec. 31 and Jan. 1.

There will be a merry Christmas in every family, whose presents are selected from our holiday stock, Robbins & McCord. 51

Heating stoves for wood or coal, at Beuret's hardware store in Auburn. Will be sold at rock bottom prices to close out the winter stock. 50 52

Fine watches, silverware, jewelry, etc., for holiday gifts, at Yesbera's. Nothing so good for a present. Look over his stock. You can't fail to be suited. 52

The contents of slender purses, invested at the store of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., Fort Wayne, will go as far as those of fat purses invested elsewhere.

The Foster Furniture and Carpet Co., at Fort Wayne display the newest, handsomest, largest, best and cheapest line of every kind and grade of carpets of any house in northern Indiana.

A very good holiday gift for for your distant friends, would be a copy of the COURIER a year. They would get ten times as much of the news from the old home, as they could in any other way.

Call and test some of the new odors just received at Davenport's drug store, "Wild Plum Blossoms," "Minosa," "Frances Folsom," "Apple Blossoms," "Something New," and a dozen others.

Mrs. A. J. Ralston, and Mrs. Hodge went out into the country five miles on the Newville road, Saturday to visit one of the pioneer ladies of the county, Aunt Mary Brown. They had an enjoyable visit.

The new M. E. church is nearing completion. The floors ceiling, etc, are about done, and the other interior work will be pushed rapidly. They expect to have it done in time to hold the dedication ceremonies Feb. 15.

Talk of advancement in machinery and and the sewing machine cannot be overlooked. The White is the highest state of perfection in finish, quiet running, strength, durability and convenience, of all others. Sold by G. W. Stahl. 52

The last case the late Judge Mitchell decided was the bridge case which was in the COURIER of Dec. 4. A most important decision, and which had it been made a year or two earlier, would have saved this county quite a sum of money.

An Exchange says: "From a bushel of corn the distiller gets four gallons of whisky which will retail at $16. The government gets $3 60, the farmer gets 40 cents, the railroad gets $1, the manufacturer gets $4, the retailer gets $7 and the consumer gets drunk."

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Moody. Program, Outline history of England, Mrs. Moody; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs. Dills; The Tenure of Land in England, Miss Ober; Studies in Astronomy, Mrs. Clifton; Essay, Mrs. Moody.

Kuhns and all the others wounded in the Churubusco fight, will likely recover. Messe has been taken to Columbia City, Kuhns will likely be tried for the murder of his horse thief pal, Campau, near Fostoria. It will be hard to convict him, as the evidence is only circumstantial.

Hoosier Tidings: N. L. Drake, living at Avilla, exhibited a queer specimen of some kind of mineral ore, taken from his farm near Avilla. It resembles iron, and is in heft equal to iron. He says it underlays his entire farm, and he anticipates having the same examined by experts.

G. W. Downs, who has been spending the fall in Fairfield township, making improvements on his farm, started again for his home at Clay City, Kansas, on Monday, of last week. The COURIER and scores of the old friends in this county follow him and his family with good wishes

The shrewdest of politicians in the country, democrats and republicans, say that the next campaign will be conducted principally by the newspapers. Democrats should govern themselves accordingly and see to it that sensibly edited democratic papers find their way into the household of every voter, who cares to read wholesome political literature.—Ligonier Banner.

If you want to trade with a firm that will always try and get the highest possible profit out of you, that has half a dozen prices on the same article and which charges you one price and your neighbor another, keep away from the store of the Foster Furniture and Carpet Co, Fort Wayne. They do business on the principle of treating everybody well and everybody alike.

See Davenport's dollar Album.

Lunch counter at the reading room.

Mrs. Askew has a good house to rent.

Best gasolene stoves at Beuret's. 25

Full line of skates at Beuret's. Boys, call and see them.

Yesbera's, Auburn; neatest tailor made suits for gents.

Try the new odor "Sweet Apple Blossoms" at Davenport's.

Best heating stoves in Auburn. Call at Beuret's on North Main.

Hats, hats, all the latest and toniest styles. Get the best at Yesbera's.

Finest lamps for holiday presents. See the lovely display at Kiblinger's.

Dolls! Dolls!! from 5 cts. to $1. Make the little ones happy. Robbins & McCord.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Ice five inches thick was cut last week on the creek, and some of it brought up town for use.

The nickel social will be entertained by Mrs. Charles Rant Friday, Dec. 26, 1890. All are invited.

The ladies aid society of the Lutheran church will give a basket social on New Year's evening. Everybody come.

A fine line of pictures that are suitable for Christmas presents are offered very low at the City Book Store. 51-52

A good holiday remembrance to the COURIER, would be a new subscriber, one of your neighbors for instance.

John H Gill, of Corunna, called in last Saturday, to chat about old times with the head mogul in the COURIER office.

Buy a sparkling present for someone, at Yesbera's. Take your choice of fine watches and jewelry at prices lower than ever before. 52

ROOMS TO RENT: Good desirable rooms for small family in good location. Inquire of Francis Picker, South Main street, Auburn.

If you are in need of a pair of spectacles or some article of jewelry that can be warranted as represented, at lowest price. Call at the City Book Store.

All parties indebted to Posts are hereby requested to call in and settle at once. All unsettled accounts after Dec. 15, will go to our attorney for collection

Come early. Remember our holiday stock opens at its best, so call at once and make your selections while our line is full and complete. Robbins & McCord. 51

Fin. Gibson started to Ohio, Monday evening, taking his two little boys along. They go to make a visit with Mr Gibson's father, at Ashland. We wish them a pleasant time at the old home.

Frank Rush, son of W. E. Rush, came back Monday, for a visit at the old home. His wife has been here some weeks. They have been at Aurora, Nebraska, some years, but are now looking up a new location.

Kiblinger has enlarged and improved his counting room, extending it west for some distance, and will divide it, so as to make it more convenient for business. He has for some time needed additional room, especially a private business room, to accommodate the increasing needs of his great establishment.

LOST: A diploma, issued to W. H. Christopher, by the Starling Medical College, of Columbus, Ohio, February 25, 1879. When lost, diploma was in a hard brown paper roll. Finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving at the Swineford House, Auburn, or sending to W. H. Christopher, M. D., Lima, Ohio. It was lost in Auburn, on thanksgiving day.

The finials, or tops for the spires on the M. E. church, were lifted into place last Friday, thus giving the finishing touches to its great steeples. These finials are quite artistic, and were made by the workmen, who have the contract for doing the cornice work for the whole building. The ball at the top is covered with gold leaf, the work of Geo. Quince, who donated this extra expense to the church. He very correctly argued that a spire without gilt at the top, would look a little dull and odd, and assumed the expense himself rather than have that part omitted. It will shine up there for many a year, as an evidence of his good taste, skill and liberality.

We hastily grasp our pen to chronicle the promotion of one of our enterprising young men, A. L Kuhlman, to the highest local position to be occupied in the Order to which he belongs—Indiana Division Sons of Veterans. On Thursday evening, Dec. 18, 1890, he was elected to the position of Captain of Samuel Ford Camp No. 114. The regular election of this organization occurred Dec. 4, 1890, at which time, Al. A. Rowland, who had served efficiently for two years in that station, was elected to a third term. Owing to reasons, best known to himself, he declined to accept the recent election to that office, which declination was reluctantly received, and a reelection ordered, which result is given above. As a military man, we know of no one in this community that is better fitted for the place than Mr. Kuhlman, and surely his long and faithful service as Sergeant of the Guard has not been in vain but by efficient labor in the lower ranks he has won the entire confidence of the brotherhood and merited the honorable advancement, which he enjoys. And we are of the opinion that he will leave nothing undone that has any tendency whatever, to build up the Order and further the cause of patriotism, and we believe he will, by the hearty support of his constituents, carry the Camp over the rocks and shoals to a triumphant year's service. He is a young man of good character, and favorably known throughout this part of the country, and doubtless his many friends will appreciate his promotion to this honorable position.

Call on Beuret, Auburn, for best prices on stoves. 50 52

New goods this week at The Fair Garrett, Indiana.

Kiblinger has several pair's of fine bob-sleds for sale.

A bisque doll with kid body for a quarter at Davenport's.

S. W. Ralston has a brother visiting him. He resides at Sioux City, Iowa.

Finest and most beautiful holiday gifts at F. J. Yesbera's, Auburn. 52

New Home Sewing Machine best in the market at F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store.

The sensation of the season. Be sure and see it, our holiday stock. Robbins & McCord.

Any paper or magazine furnished at publishers prices at the City Book Store and News Stand. 51-52

Get your mill feed, oats, corn and flour at Ford & Maxwell's store across the street from Ed Baker's.

Mr. Merica's old house is being moved east across the creek, where it will be remodeled and used as a dwelling.

Mrs. C. F. Thompson, formerly Miss Lizzie Parnel, was here about a week since visiting her aunt, Mrs. Baird.

Don't! Let go of your money until you have seen our holiday goods and learn our prices. Robbins & McCord.

M. W. Johnston is home from Indianapolis to spend the holidays. He says they have to hustle at the Dental College now.

Miss Kittie Dills has returned from her visit to Angola, where she was the guest of Miss McConnel, daughter of Dr. G. W. McConnell.

E. E. Ensley, of Leipsic, Ohio, is here for a holiday visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ensley. He has had a position there for several years.

The ladies' missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Rose on Monday evening of next week. All cordially invited.

Willis Townsend of Lima, Lagrange county, and wife, were here over Sunday, the guests of J. A. Clifton, who is Mrs. Townsend's brother.

Any soldier or soldier's widow desiring information about their pension claims should write to Chas. McClellan, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington D. C.

Come to headquarters where your money will go the fathest and where you are sure to find just what you want for Christmas. Robbins & McCord.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Rev. W. L. Meese is doing a great deal of good this fall. Notice the great number of weddings at which he is the chief personage—next after the bride and groom, of course.

Fashionable goods, neat fits, perfect fitting suits, made on honor and promptly, at G. H. Yesbera's, Auburn's popular merchant tailor. Call and see his splendid goods and nice work.

Edson Evans, a lively young business man is here buying poultry. He has his headquarters at Clifton's meat market, where he will be on hand to talk business to those who have poultry to sell.

It will pay you to take advantage of the very reasonable prices we are asking for the neatest, handsome and most desirable line of Christmas gifts ever shown in Auburn. Robbins & McCord.

C. E. VanAuken, has made extensive improvements on the little farm he bought of the Askew estate. It is west of town, near the tile factory, and Cal. says he will have a fine home when it is completed.

Uncle Samuel Ralston, was eighty-three on Friday, Dec. 12. To see him about town, no one would think he had reached that advanced age. He bids fair to enjoy life, as we hope he may, for many years to come.

Mrs. E. Zent has word from her husband, who went to South America. He has about concluded his business and will soon return. He speaks of a rather exciting adventure with a genuine water spout while at sea.

Henry McIntyre has put up a neat little residence for some one just east of Ninth street bridge. Purdy put down a well for him on the same lot and got a flowing fountain. It rises about as high as the one by the tank on this side of the creek.

Auburn, Ind., Dec. 15, '90.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern, that on the last meeting night of this month Mentor Lodge No. 591, I. O. O. F., will, according to the constitution and bylaws of the Lodge elect three trustees for the Lodge.

Attest M. B. Willis
Recording Secty.

Many years practice has given Messrs C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Solicitors opposite U S. Patent office, Washington, D. C., unsurpassed facilities for obtaining patents. They give the same courteous attentention to a request for information from a stranger that they do to their clients business, which accounts for much of their success.

If we ever omit to say a good word for the deserving it is by oversight or forgetfulness. Especially, we would not slight the deserving little folks. But the little misses of Mrs. Plum's class gave a most complete entertainment at the Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Dec. 14, when they not only entertained highly, a large audience, but took in about $20, which they will use to assist in raising a salary for the minister. It was a great success everyway and should have received at least a few good words. We beg the pardon of these talented and worthy little ladies, and will promise to try and do better next time.

PLENTY OF GOODS

AT THE
Usual Low Prices
AT
F. J. YESBERA'S
Jewelry Store.

QUICK SALES
SMALL PROFITS,
OUR MOTTO.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. J. YESBERA, The Jeweler,
AUBURN, IND.

Read Yesbera's jewelry and silverware advertisement.

No harm ever done by the use of Simmons Liver Regulator.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

Mrs. Sophie Baird has a few nice rooms to rent. Call on her at her residence near the Presbyterian church.

Ford & Maxwell, opposite Ed. Baker's is the place to buy the best flour, bran, mill feed, oats and corn. Don't forget it.

Miss Alice Johnson, who has been with Mrs. Funk, as trimmer in her millinery establishment here, returned last Friday to her home in Ft. Wayne. She made many acquaintances and friends during her stay in Auburn.

Rev. Mr. Healy, who has filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church for the past two Sundays, has given his hearers excellent sermons. He seems to be a man of more than average ability. His discourses show not only good thoughts and good doctrine, but abound in passages of rare eloquence. We are told, he will probably be solicited to take charge here permanently. We hope we shall be able to do this.

Robert McDougall, of the Postal telegraph, has received a small rule of the new, and coming metal known as "aluminum" It is white, bright, and very light, seemingly not much heavier than a similar piece of card board. It has heretofore been expensive on account of the difficulty of getting it, though it is very abundant in nature, existing in all clays, granite and some other rocks. It is easily worked, and many years ago it was predicted it would come into general use some time. Now, new processes have been invented, and we look before long to see it used in many things heretofore made of silver, steel, iron and brass.

Good span of mules and harness for sale. Inquire at this office.

Pleasant to the taste and readily taken is Simmons Liver Regulator.

Holiday goods a special feature at F. J. Yesbera's popular jewelry store. 52

One dollar a year will cover your doctor's bill if you take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Crosscut saws at Beuret's, put down to lowest notch prices. Come in and see them when you need a saw.

Wilson will move his stock of boots and shoes into the building where the postoffice has been so long. The change will be made about the first of February. The postoffice will be moved into the third room west.

Many an otherwise handsome face is disfigured with pimples and blotches, caused by a humor in the blood, which may be thoroughly eradicated by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the safest blood medicine in the market, being entirely free from arsenic or any deleterious drug.

If you do not feel well it is because you have violated some law of nature. Nature, however, is kindness itself, and has provided that which if properly taken will again permit you to enjoy her in all her beauty. We have but one of her numerous remedies to give you, which will not cure you of every ill flesh is heir to, but to you who are suffering with indigestion, bad taste in your mouth in the morning, headache and a general depressed feeling, if you have any rheumatic trouble, be it in any form, if you have a running sore which won't heal, take Loose's Extract of Red Clover, which contains nothing but pure extract of the clover blossom, and if it does not cure you of all we hereon advertise your money will be refunded. It costs nothing for the experiment and can do you no harm. Is it not worth a trial? For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA,
JAMES A. BARNS, PUBLISHER.

WEEKLY NEWS BUDGET.

SOME SIXTY HEAD OF HORSES BURNED TO DEATH.

A Despicable Villain Assaults a Lady at Cleveland — Parnell Defeated in Kilkenny—Five Men Fatally Burned by Molten Metal—Chief of Police Hennessey's Slayers. — The Indian Trouble—A Batch of Miscellaneous News.

HORRIBLE!

Five Men Fatally Burned by Molten Metal.

An explosion occurred at the New Jersey Steel and Iron Works, at Trenton, N. J., fatally injuring five men. A large mass of molten metal, known as a "cinder," had been taken from one of the furnaces to undergo the process of cooling. This is done by dashing buckets of water upon it after it has been exposed to the air long enough to somewhat abate the white heat at which it emerges from the furnaces. The furnace man decides the proper time at which to throw the water on, and men stand in readiness with buckets to follow his orders. One of the helpers, Michael Fuda, without waiting for the signal, threw his bucket of water upon the "cinder" almost as soon as it was taken from the furnace. As the water struck the huge mass the extensively heated metal exploded with a deafening report, hurling in all directions large pieces of iron, some of them weighing hundreds of pounds. Michael Fuda and his four companions, who were standing around the "cinder," were thrown to the ground covered with horrible wounds, their clothing and flesh burned, and emitting a sickning odor. Fuda, who stood a few feet nearer to the cinder than the others, had his eyes burned completely out. In the back of his neck was burned a large hole and several holes was burned in his body.

They are all in a critical condition, and the chances of the recovery of any of them are small. The rail mill, the scene of the explosion, presented a horrible sight. Great chunks of flesh dropped from the bones of the mangled and roasted men, filling the air with a stifling odor, while the surroundings bore hundreds of traces of the force of the flying pieces of metal. The escape of the five men from instant death and others in the mill from injury, is miraculous.

A DESPICABLE VILLAIN

Assaults a Lady at Cleveland — Women Arming to Defend Themselves.

As Miss Mary Billson, daughter of a prominent citizen of Cleveland, Ohio, was passing an alley almost in the heart of the city at about dusk, a well-dressed man sprang out and attempted to drag her into the dark passage-way. She screamed for help, after having torn the fellow's hand from her throat, whereupon he dealt her a terrible blow and left her lying face downward, in a puddle of water. People who were attracted by the girl's cries, saw the fellow running for dear life, but his start was so great that he could not be overtaken. Miss Billson would probably have been drowned had she been allowed to lie in the water a minute longer. Assaults upon unprotected women, as they have been returning home from work, have been so frequent of late that there is a concerted movement on the part of shop and factory girls to prepare themselves for making a vigorous defense of their honor, and it is now quite fashionable for Cleveland ladies to carry daggers and other life-destroying implements. The police seem to be unable to afford any protection whatever.

The Indian Trouble.

Gen. Schofield believes the Indian trouble is now about over and the remaining Indians that are not now on the reservation will soon be brought in. He thinks the speedy end of the difficulty with so little blood shed is largely due to the concentration of troops before actual hostilities were commenced. It is believed the rapid concentration of soldiers and the complete hemming in of the Indians before they were aware of what was going on impressed them with the overpowering strength of the Government and the futility of attempting to resist its authority.

Miscreants Upset a Union Pacific Train.

A Union Pacific passenger train was wrecked a few miles from Beatrice, Neb. An obstruction, evidently placed on the track out of malice, caused the engine to jump the track, carrying with it the tender and mail car. Bridge Inspector W. H. Mercer, who was riding on the engine, was fatally scalded, and the engineer seriously injured. The obstruction was placed at a curve, where it was impossible to check the train.

Hennessey's Slayers.

The nineteen Italians accused in the Hennessey case pleaded not guilty in the Criminal Court at New Orleans and filed a plea in bar on the grounds: First, that the Grand Jury could not have found the indictment in the short time in which it did; second, that the allotment of the case was improperly made. Judge Baker overruled both motions.

Sixty Head of Horses Roasted.

The extensive stables of the Citizens Street Car Company, of Fort Wayne, were entirely destroyed by fire, and sixty head of horses were literally roasted to death. The loss will reach $50,000.

Parnell Defeated in Kilkenny.

A special dispatch to the London News says there is not the slightest doubt that Sir John Pope Hennessey, the anti-Parnell candidate, is elected by at least 500 votes.

Mormons to Go to Mexico.

John W. Young, a son of Brigham Young, has obtained 3,000,000 acres of land in Mexico and intends to send 10,000 Mormon colonists there.

Closed the Public Schools.

The public schools of Laporte, Ind., were closed by order of the Board of Health, owing to the poor sanitary condition of the buildings.

A Milliner Dealer Assigns.

Daniel J. Goldberg, the well-known millinery-dealer of Baltimore, failed for nearly $100,000.

Business Bandits.

Havana special: Juan Avento, the wealthy farmer of Batadano, who was kidnapped and carried off into the mountains by bandits of Manuel Garcia, was held three weeks for ransom, $10,000 being demanded. He was set free on the payment of $3,000 in gold and engaging to pay $2,000 more within three months. He was well treated during his captivity, although he suffered much from exposure and hardship, to which he was unaccustomed. There have been several engagements this month between the bandits and the troops. The former were always successful in their encounters, having succeed in making their escape. Up to date not a noted outlaw has been killed or wounded.

FIGHTING.

Captain Stanton and His Men Engage in a Brisk Skirmish With the Hostile Redskins.

A special from camp Cheyenne, dated the 21st inst., says: Early this morning Gen. Carr sent Capt. Stanton, of the Sixth cavalry, with his troops, numbering about sixty men, to scout and look around for Indians in the Bad Lands. Three heliograph stations had been established—one in camp, one up on top of the high bluffs, and one which had followed up as nearly as practicable Capt. Stanton's command. At 2 o'clock p. m. a soldier was seen coming down the bluff, putting his horse at full gallop, and immediately the heliograph lines commenced working. The rider crossed the river and reported to Gen. Carr that Capt. Stanton was in an engagement with the Indians. Gen. Carr gave orders for Lieut. Scott and troop D to go to the assistance. Within a few minutes the troops were charging up the bluff to the scene of action. The soldier's horse, upon his dismounting, dropped dead, having been ridden so hard for such a long distance. Other troops were immediately placed in marching order, and were held in readiness to march at a moment's notice. Two hours passed, news being transmitted by the heliograph. Sometime later Capt. Stanton and the other troops returned, whereupon, being interviewed, it was learned that some time after noon he noticed a large party of Indians with a herd of ponies coming from the east and heading from the Bad Lands. He immediately gave chase, and after running some miles gradually drew upon the Indians, who commenced firing, but their bullets were wide of the mark. Shots were exchanged quite lively for some time, when the Indians approached and made for a creek called Wounded Knee. They went down this creek and into the brakes up a deep draw and were lost to view in the Bad Lands. Captain Stanton followed them for some time, but, fearing an ambush, withdrew his troops and returned to camp. Most of the ponies, upon hearing the firing, stampeded and were lost to the Indians, but it is thought they will try and regain their stock in large numbers. To-morrow General Carr will again send out a large force to look for them. To-night there will be posted on each of the adjoining bluffs some hundred pickets, and no fires will be lighted in camp. The signal of attack will be a rifle shot. The troops are all holding themselves in readiness. It is expected that an attack will occur about daylight in the morning between the hostiles and the pickets. Everybody in camp is on the tip-toe of expectation.

PAID THE PENALTY.

Two Ohio Murderers Executed.

Elmer Sharkey and Henry Popp were executed at the Ohio Penitentiary. Isaac Smith, who was to have been hanged with them received another respite until March 20. Elmer Sharkey killed his mother, a widow, near Eaton, Preble County, January 12, 1889, crushing her skull with a maul, while she was sleeping. He feigned a burglar had committed the crime, but the suspicion was so strong that he was arrested at the funeral of his mother. After a few days he confessed the crime. His motive was to get possession of the farm and remove the objections of his mother to his marriage with a girl of the neighborhood. Sharkey had two trials, at both of which he was convicted. He claimed more recently that a confession was forced from him through threats of lynching. Commutation of the sentence was urged on the ground of insanity in the family. He claimed to have no remembrance of committing the crime. Sharkey's age was 23.

Henry Popp, a German, was born in the old country. He Killed Morris Grether, saloonkeeper at Canton, by stabbing him with a pen-knife after he had been several times thrown out of a saloon. The crime was committed April 21, last. Popp was illiterate, and had no friends to intercede for him. He claimed in the interest of commutation that he was drunk at the time the crime was committed. The condemned men spent a quiet day in the annex and visitors to the prison were not allowed to see them.

TO DEATH.

An Express Train Goes Through a Trestle.

A fearful railroad accident occurred at Bolivar, Ohio, a small town on the Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad, about fifty miles southwest of Cleveland. The express train going south was running about twenty miles an hour when it struck a trestle that had been weakened by the recent rains. As the engine passed upon the structure, the timbers gave way, precipitating the locomotive, baggage car, smoker, and day coach into the creek. The fall was only about four feet, but the wreck was complete. The train was not heavily loaded with passengers, else the list of deaths would have been appalling. As it was, four persons lost their lives, two others were fatally injured and eight badly hurt. The list of killed is as follows: Mrs. Ada Hall, Sherroddsville. Henry Hill and Miss Carrie Hill, both of Shelby County, Illinois. An unknow woman. The wounded are: Leonard Whitman, Marietta. Mrs Louisa Pepper, Stark County, Ohio, cannot recover. Ira Cowen, engineer, Norwalk. William Gratzenger, Ada, Ohio. Charles A. Conrad, Massillion, Ohio, recovery doubtful. William Hall, Sherroddsville, Ohio. William Graham, Norwalk. The wreck was a bad one and several persons received injuries, though not of a serious nature.

HOOSIER RUFFIAN.

He Assaults His Grand-Parents and is Lodged Behind the Bars.

Lincoln Gossett, the rascal who assaulted the old couple, Asa Warnock and wife, at Honey Creek, Ind., last Friday night, is in jail at New Castle, having made a confession, and will be sentenced. He is a grandson of the old people, and was recognized by the old lady while at his work. She informed his father, who is a United Brethren Minister, and he began to hunt the matter down. His father confronted him at Elwood, where he was working, with the evidence at hand, and the latter broke down and confessed the crime. He had become heavily involved at Elwood, and knowing that the old people had money, walked all the way to their house—a distance of forty miles—only to get $2. The father brought him and turned him over to the authorities. Young Gossett is 25 years old and has hitherto borne a good reputation. He confesses that this is the third time he has tried to rob the old people.

A Black Messiah.

Nearly all the low class of negroes living along the levee streets in Kansas City having been seized with a craze similar to the Messiah superstition. The negroes have been led astray by a voodoo doctor who came from Bismarck, Dak. He proclaimed that he was the courier of the coming black Messiah and that dances must be commenced at once. The craze is spreading.

Judge Mitchell's Successor.

Judge R. Wes. McBride, of Elkhart, was appointed to succeed Judge Mitchell, deceased, upon the Supreme Bench of the State. Judge McBride was Judge Mitchell's opponent in the late election. He has been a Circuit Judge in DeKalb County; was a soldier and twice wounded, and is a Scottish Rite Mason of the thirty-second degree.

Fatally Burned.

The Ohio Oil Company's drillers, who have been putting down a well near Carey, Ohio, unexpectedly drilled into the Trenton rock, the gas and oil rushing forth with terrific force, flooding the derrick and saturating the drillers. The gas ignited from the boiler, covering the men with oil and fearfully and fatally burning one or two before they could get out of the burning derrick. The head driller, a man named Wolff, is not expected to live, and his assistant is, perhaps, fatally burned. The derrick and everything connected with the well was speedily burned down, and the volume of oil and gas continues to burn as it comes from the well.

The Sheriff Drops Dead at a Hanging.

Remi LaMontagne, the murderer of Napoleon Michael, his brother-in-law, was hanged in the jail yard at Sherbrooke, Quebec. The tragedy was a double one, for it involved the death of Sheriff Webb as well. A few minutes before 9 o'clock the Sheriff arrived at the jail and was admitted to Jailer Read's private apartments. Three minutes later messengers were running for Dr. Austin, but when he arrived the aged Sheriff was dead. Death was due to acute heart failure, induced by excitement. The death caused universal sorrow and it was a gloomy crowd that filed out into the yard where the gallows was erected, and this incident lessened the sympathy that was felt for the murderer.

Not Dying Just Yet.

Rome special: The physicians attending on the Pope have issued a statement, claiming that Leo XIII. is in marvelous health in spite of his great age and frail appearance, and they express the opinion that he may occupy the chair of St. Peter for many years yet. His ripe old age is due to his regular, simple habits. He is up and at work before others in the Vatican are awake, and he is the last to retire. His only recreation consists of walks in the Vatican garden, and he does not require the aid of a stick.

Hundreds Were Killed.

The steamer Balgic arrived at San Francisco, bringing Chinese advices to November 20 and Japanese advices to December 3. The deaths resulting from the powder explosion at Taiping was more than at first estimated, it being stated that 800 coffins had been taken out of the city and yet there was not enough to bury all the dead. A Chinaman lighting a pipe while repairing the roof of the powder mill is said to have caused the catastrophe.

Love Their Old Premier.

Prince Bismarck, while passing through Berlin, was greeted with popular demonstrations, and was delayed nearly two hours in returning his acknowledgements. The students were especially loud in their cheering. The Prince remained in his carriage and chatted cheerfully with bystanders. He was in excellent health.

Dynamite Shells.

Joel G. Gardiner made three successful tests with his dynamite shell at the Perryville, N. Y., range. Each shell weighed 275 pounds, contained seven and one-half pounds of dynamite and was fired with thirty pounds of powder from a Blakeley cannon which weighed 30,000 pounds. The big gun stood the test perfectly. The quantity of dynamite was less than that used on the two previous occasions.

Dr. Koch's Promise.

Berlin Special: Prof. Koch was visited by Mr. Phelps, who has just returned from America. The savant said that he would soon be able to do something for the American physicians. The reception room was filled with American doctors at the time, but Prof. Koch would not talk to anybody but Dr. Neuer, of Denver, who handed him an introduction from the Governor.

Schooner Gone Ashore.

The schooner Judah Nelson has gone ashore at Cape May. There was a heavy gale and the vessel was seen firing distress signals. The captain and crew were rescued by the life-saving people. The schooner was laden with lumber, and bound from southern ports to New Bedford, Massachusetts, where she is owned. The vessel is a total loss.

Shoemaker's Strike.

At a meeting of 2,000 shoemakers, men and women, at Rochester, N. Y., it was voted to fight the manufacturers, and that arbitration was out of the question. An assessment of 10 per cent. will be levied to pay expenses. The whole question will be laid before the executive committee of the International Union.

Three Senators.

In the Idaho legislative joint session, Gov. Geo Shoupe, W. P. McConnell, and Fred T. Duboise were elected United States Senators according to an agreement. Shoupe's term will end March 4, 1891, and McConnell's March 4, 1893. Duboise gets the full term—six years—from March next.

Found a Robber's Cave.

A genuine robber's cave has been discovered at South Haven, Mich., in which a quantity of goods stolen at the time of the disastrous fire in that place was found.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3.25	@	5.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.00	@	3.50
SHEEP	3.00	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.92	@	.93
CORN—No. 2	.52	@	.53
OATS—No. 2	.41½	@	.42
RYE—No. 2	.67	@	.67½
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.26	@	.29
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@	.10¼
EGGS—Fresh	.23	@	.24
POTATOES—Western, per bu	.85	@	.90
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	3.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@	.94½
CORN—No. 1 White	.50	@	.50½
OATS—No. 2 White	.48	@	.48½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@	5.50
HOGS	3.00	@	3.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.95½	@	.96½
CORN—No. 2	.48	@	.49
OATS—No. 2	.43	@	.44
BARLEY—Nebraska	.72	@	.74
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.00	@	4.50
HOGS	3.00	@	3.75
SHEEP	3.00	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.99	@	.99½
CORN—No. 2	.52	@	.52½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.46½	@	.47½
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.87	@	.88
CORN—No. 3	.48½	@	.49½
OATS—No. 2 White	.43	@	.44
RYE—No. 1	.67	@	.68
BARLEY—No. 2	.65	@	.66
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@	5.00
HOGS	3.00	@	3.50
SHEEP	3.00	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.98	@	.99
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.52	@	.53
OATS—No. 2 White	.45½	@	.46
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.96½	@	.97½
CORN—Cash	.53	@	.53½
OATS—No. 2 White	.45½	@	.46½
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.00	@	5.00
HOGS—Medium and Heavy	3.50	@	3.75
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.08	@	1.08½
CORN—No. 3	.57½	@	.58½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	3.50	@	4.75
HOGS—Light	3.25	@	3.75
SHEEP—Medium to Good	4.00	@	5.25
LAMBS	4.00	@	6.00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.50	@	5.60
HOGS	3.25	@	3.75
SHEEP	4.00	@	5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.06	@	1.07
CORN—No. 2	.63	@	.65
OATS—Mixed Western	.47	@	.50

THE STATE OF INDIANA.

WHAT IS GOING ON WITHIN ITS BORDERS.

Rewards of Genius—More Light for Thorntown—Big Pickings for the Lawyers—Arrests — Accidents — Diphtheria — Suicides—Fires—Deaths, Etc.

Crop Report.

W. A. Peele, State Statistician, has compiled the tables relating to farm products for the past year and these figures will be embodied in the forthcoming report of the bureau.

There has been a decided falling off in the number of bushels of grain, as compared to the crop of 1889. The wheat crop for 1890 lacks 13,000,000 bushels of reaching the amount of 1889. Corn lacks fully 19,000,000 bushels, oats 13,000,000, while the potato crop is short 5,000,000 bushels from the yield of the previous year. On the other hand, the crops of timothy and clover are regarded as the best ever raised in the State.

Although the principal cereals have fallen off so largely in the yield, the money loss to the farming interest has been comparatively small, because bad crops, as a rule produce good prices, and market, prices show a decided advance over other years.

The reports takes up the principal crops, showing acreage, number of bushels and estimated values, as follows:

Wheat—Number of acres sown, 2,821,129; product in bushels, 28,352,346; value of crop, $25,084,158.

Corn—Number of acres, 3,446,430; product in bushels, 87,092,513; value of crop, $43,546,256.

Oats—Number of acres, 1,019,398; product in bushels, 15,553,207; value of crop, $7,316,117.

Barley—Number of acres sown, 22,745; product in bushels, 387,803; total value of crop, $232,681.

Rye—Acreage, 58,785; product in bushels, 784,191; value of crop, $470,515.

Clover Hay—Acreage, 1,196,040; product in tons, 2,057,182; total value of crop, $16,457,504.

Timothy Hay—Acreage, 1,242,627; product in tons, 2,112,457; total value, $23,237,027.

Irish Potatoes—Acreage, 89,747; product in bushels, 2,688,875; value of crop, $2,285,544.

Sweet Potatoes—Acreage, 2,645; product in bushels, 158,700; value of crop, $193,440.

Cloverseed—Product in bushels, 265,923; value of crop, $997,215.

Timothy Seed—Product in bushels, 39,081; value of crop, $43,851.

Total value of all the crops estimated at $121,026,411.

A Narrow Escape.

A family of five, consisting of Mrs. Sarah Worstell, a daughter and three sons, came near meeting death at Logansport, from the effects of escaping natural gas. A leak in the pipes filled the house with gas after the family had retired, and about midnight one of the boys awoke, and by crawling and rolling over the floor reached a window and called for help. The other members of the household were carried to a neighbor's house and physicians summoned. The oldest son, Benjamin, was found to be in a critical condition, having become completely blind and his hearing gone. The various feelings experienced by the members of the family were terrible, and they describe their agony as excruciating for hours while they were in their beds conscious, but in a helpless condition. It is thought the whole family will recover.

Rewards of Genius.

The following patents to Indianians have been issued: Jasper L. Ackerman, Lowell, clamp; Thomas M. Bales, Dublin, alarm bell; Charles G. Conn and W. F. Seidel, Elkhart, cornet; Benjamin F. Haugh, Indianapolis, and P. F. Leach, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Cushion Carwheel Company, Indianapolis, cushioned car-wheel; Harrison P. Hood and F. A. Jacob, assignors to E. J. Robison, B. Carr and H. M. Lafollette, Indianapolis, wire stretcher; William I. Hunt, South Bend, wagon seat, wagon seat support; David Mack, buggy top lowery; Lemuel F. Norton, assignor of one-half to W. K. Fraley, Lebanon, fence post; Robert E. Poindexter, Indianapolis, saw-jointer; John L. Wagner and J. Seath, Terre Haute, said Seath assignor to C. L. Lewis, Indianapolis, car door.

Minor State Items.

—Montgomery county has 197 teachers.

—Diphtheria of a very malignant type is prevailing at Rockville.

—J. R. Brush succeeds G. W. James as postmaster at Lapland.

—Mrs. Wm. T. Abbott, of Fort Wayne, died suddenly of heart disease.

—A stock company is being formed to manufacture stoves at Lebanon.

—Shelbyville boasts that with cheap gas it can double its population.

—An electric light company has been formed at New Albany, with $100,000 capital.

—A military company has been organized at Bluffton, with W. L. Kiger as captain.

—William May, aged 84, died at Knightsville. He fought in the Black Hawk war.

—Charles Downs was rescued from drowning by his courageous mother at Logansport.

—Frank Borger had his hand crushed off in a box-press at the Elkhart paper box factory.

—John Trasper, of Greenwood, was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting.

—Joseph Sullivan, one of the leading farmers and pioneers of Miami County, died, aged 86 years.

—The farmers of Monroe Township, Putnam County, have recently suffered the loss of sheep, pigs, and calves from the depredations of a big gray wolf, at large in the neighborhood.

—While driving an entry late Saturday afternoon in Watson's shaft, two miles south of Brazil, Peter Massman was caught by a heavy fall of slate, which left only his feet visible. His body was crushed into a shapeless mass. The deceased was forty-four years old and left a wife and children.

—John Schrecker committed suicide at his home at South Bend. His lifeless body lying on his bed, a razor by his side and the clothing covered with gore was the ghastly sight which his horror-stricken wife witnessed on entering his room. His brother is an inmate of an insane asylum and it is supposed deceased ended his life by his own hand while temporarily insane. He was a native of Bavaria, Germany. Besides his widow he leaves five children.

—Thorntown is to have an electric light plant in the near future if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

—Frame, Signs & Co.'s store at North Manchester, was robbed of $1,000 worth of silks.

—Thomas H. May, of Cannelton, has been appointed a cadet of the West Point military academy.

—Judge R. W. McBride has been appointed to the vacancy on the bench of the Supreme Court.

—John Grienlich was instantly killed by a falling elevator at the Studebaker wagon works, South Bend.

—The Western Indiana Poultry Association will hold its annual poultry show in Lebanon, January 5 to 10.

—There were eleven cases of typhoid fever in the family of Stephen Frazee, near Bowling Green, and all recovered.

—Prominent citizens of Laporte County are demanding a new Court House, to cost not less than $65,000 or more than $100,000.

—William Kanfmann, jr., a lumberman near Vera Cruz, was fatally burned. His clothing caught from the camp-fire while he was asleep.

—Among the enterprises that are developing in St. Joseph County, and which bids fair to grow to larger proportions, is the culture of peppermint.

—A movement has been started and $25,000 of the necessary $60,000 has been raised to pipe natural gas from Sheridan through Big Springs to Zionsville.

—Mrs. R. H. Smith, of Kokomo, comes into a fortune of $100,000 by the death of her father, Capt. C. P. Freeman, of Baxter, Ark. She is the sole survivor of the family.

—Robert Groves, sitting in Lewis' hardware store at Plainfield, reading the morning paper, suddenly threw up his hands, gasping for breath and fell back in the chair dead.

—It has been discovered that a No. 1 glass rock is to be found near Abydel, in Orange County, on the Monon Railroad, and a crusher is to be put in. It is the intention to ship 100 car-loads to glass establishments per week.

—Samuel Brown and John Beard, young men who persisted in refusing to support those depending upon them, were taken from a saloon at midnight at New Albany and terribly flogged by White Caps. They promised to reform.

—The Methodists of Kokomo, have just completed a new church edifice, to be known as the Markland Avenue M. E. Church. It is a handsome structure, costing about $5,000. The rapid growth of the city necessitated this additional place of worship.

—The other night as Miss Mollie McCalif, of Crawfordsville, was returning home a large negro struck her and made an attempt to get her pocket-book, which she was carrying in her hand. She did not run or drop her pocket-book, but put the negro to flight.

—A fishing club has been organized at South Bend, known as the "Dead Game Dinglers," Their sport will be confined to Cynthiana Lake, in Elkhart County, and the South Bend Times vouches for the membership, that in telling fish stories the club can out-lie any crowd of its size on earth.

—A. R. Jackson, of Churubusco, who shot and crippled ex-convict Mease at the time the Fort Wayne officers were struggling with Mervin Kuhns, is daily in receipt of threatening letters, and his life is endangered. However, he is on the alert to avoid attack, and is armed for the emergency.

—Julia Nett, an elderly married woman, and Francis Bolska, her sister, were arrested at Evansville for shoplifting. They have been stealing for months, and their ill-gotten gains amount to hundreds of dollars. Four members of the family, three women and one man, are now serving penitentiary sentences for shoplifting.

—Robert Robertson, of Morrison, a widower, aged about 70 years, who has been paying attention to Mary Wall for the past two years, visited her recently, and it is supposed, proposed that she marry him, and being rejected, drew a revolver and shot her through the left temple. He then turned the weapon on himself and sent a bullet through his brain.

—As the north-bound passenger train on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville road pulled into Connersville, it was seen that the engineer, whose name is not known, was very drunk. Another engineer was sent for, but No. 1 refused to vacate his cab. After great delay a party of railroad men and indignant passengers took possession of the cab, and after a bloody fight the drunken engineer was ejected.

—Francis Campbell, a farmer who lives about five and one-half miles south of Fortville, made an attempt on the life of his wife and his uncle, John Campbell, who is very old. He shot his uncle three times breaking his right arm. Campbell, after leaving Fortville rode over the neighborhood hunting for a revolver with which to do his dirty work. Failing in this he went home and with an ax made his wife get his revolver. He then forced her to disrobe, which she did, and then in his drunken frenzy he began shooting at her. She finally made her escape as nude as the day she was born, walking four miles in the cold and over the frozen ground, until her feet were so swollen that she fell fainting. Her life is despaired of. There is strong talk of lynching Campbell.

—The extensive vinegar factory of Holly Austin, about three miles from Madison, burned. There was no insurance and the loss will be very heavy.

—Thomas Uttley, the Herculean negro in jail at Marion for the alleged murder of Col. Paul during a riot at Fairmount, attempted suicide with morphine and with difficulty his life was saved. Uttley claims to have been simply a spectator of that fight, and he was despondent because his trial had been postponed by the prosecution.

—The funeral of Judge Mitchell at Goshen was very largely attended. The cause of his death, which was quite sudden, was from gall stone. A post mortem was held and this was ascertained to have been the cause of his death.

—W. H. Winton's residence at Crawfordsville was damaged $1,000 by fire.

"SHARP, what ails you? You look as if you had lost fifty pounds of flesh since I saw you last." "Fifty pounds! Don't mock at a man's misery. I have lost 800 pounds of flesh. I bet a Jersey cow on Scott."

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives — Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

THE Senate, with a small attendance of members, proceeded on the 17th with the usual routine business of the morning hour. When Mr. Quay called up the bill providing for the sale of the old Customs-House building at Erie, Pa., Mr. Blair protested against giving time to such unimportant matters while so many bills of national importance were pending, and said that if the Senate could do nothing else during the present session but change its rules it should do that, and future Senators could then proceed to do something for the country. After a long debate the House passed the apportionment bill with amendment—yeas, 187; nays, 82. Mr. Flower presented the claims of New York City for a recount. Mr. Washington of Tennessee also argued in favor of the recount. Mr. Allen of Mississippi thought it a mistake to increase the House membership. Mr. Tillman of South Carolina spoke in favor of the bill. He defended the Superintendent of the Census, as did also Mr. McKenna of California. Mr. Blount of Georgia favored the bill. The previous question was ordered and a vote taken on Mr. McRae's amendment to make the membership 350. It was lost—yeas, 113; nays, 145. Mr. Washington offered as a substitute for Mr. Flower's amendment (to give New York one more Representative) an amendment ordering a recount in New York City and county, the representation of New York to be made thirty-five if the recount warrants it. Lost—yeas, 123; nays, 148. Mr. Flower withdrew his amendment and the bill was passed—yeas, 187; nays, 82. It fixes the membership of the House of Representatives at 356.

IN the Senate, the election bill was taken up again on the 18th, and Mr. Coke spoke in opposition to it. Mr. Cullom (Republican) accepted the bill as the best that could be framed to meet the evils complained of, with the understanding that he should favor such amendments as might be offered and might meet his approbation. The bill, he said, had been opposed on the other side of the chamber, notably by Mr. Gray and Mr. George, on the ground that the General Government had no right under the Constitution to control and manage the election of Representatives to Congress in the States. But in that objection there was no virtue. The duty was imposed upon it by the Constitution and by the results of the war—to protect the negro of the South in his right to cast a free ballot and to have a fair count; in his right to exercise, without fear of violence and undeterred by threats of any kind, all the political rights of American citizens. The time was at hand, Mr. Cullom declared, when the authority of the Government must be interposed in behalf of the negroes of the South. In the morning hour in the House the pending measure was the Senate bill amending the interstate-commerce act by providing for the taking of depositions by notaries public. The bill was passed. Mr. Farquhar, of New York, as Chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, moved that the House go into committee of the whole for the consideration of the Senate bill to place the American marine engaged in the foreign trade on an equality with that of other nations, with the House substitute therefor. Mr. Farquhar made a motion that the House go into committee of the whole on the state of the Union, and the House proceeded to the consideration of the Senate bill to place the American merchant marine on an equality with that of other nations.

MR. STANFORD addressed the Senate on the 19th in explanation and advocacy of his bill to provide the Government with means sufficient to supply the national want of a sound circulating medium. Said he: "The bill I am now considering proposes to put the Government in a condition to issue a supply of money equal substantially to the general demand, and to erect a standard by which the Government may determine what is the amount needed. This has never been attempted by any Government. The money (legal tender notes) will be issued under the provisions of this bill upon unimpeachable and practically inexhaustible security, and its supply is ascertained and determined by the rate which the borrower can afford to pay. Two per cent. is the amount to be paid to the Government for the loan of its money, and so long as money is worth more than 2 per cent., the security being practically inexhaustible, money will always be borrowed from the Government, and thus the Government will be able to discharge its duty and supply the general want. As borrowed money is not expected to lie idle, but to be used, it goes into general circulation to supply the needs of business, and its abundance stimulates not only the larger but the smaller enterprises and industries on which so largely depend the steady employment of labor with its natural consequences—general prosperity. The rate of interest on these loans on real estate is fixed at 2 per cent. in the bill, but in time may be reduced as experience shall teach. The rate of interest charged by the Government under the provisions of this bill will not necessarily fix the general rate of interest for business purposes. That always will be determined by its value in use. The farmer having this best security will borrow for his own use or the use of others who may be willing to pay him a satisfactory interest. The banker borrows money from the Government free of interest and loans it at such rate as its use commands in the market. No business of importance was transacted in the House.

MR. PETTIGREW introduced in the Senate, on the 20th, a bill to prohibit the sale of firearms and ammunition to Indians on reservations. Referred. A dozen private pension bills were taken up and passed. Mr. Moody, from the Committee on Indian Depredation Claims, reported from the House a bill for the adjudication of claims arising from Indian depredations. Calendar. Mr. Platt introduced a joint resolution appropriating $100,000 to enable the President to take action to obtain from the German Government a supply of the remedy discovered by Dr. Koch and the formula for the manufacture of the same. Laid over. Mr. Paddock gave notice that after the consideration of the pending bill (and before it should be concluded, if its debate was to be protracted to any great extent) he would ask the Senate to take up the pure food bill, which was demanded by the farmers from one end of the country to the other. Mr. Edmunds demanded the regular order, and the floor was taken by Mr. Spooner in a speech in advocacy of the election bill. In the House Mr. Milliken of Maine presented a number of conference reports on public building bills. In every case the change made in the measure was purely verbal in its character, and though this statement was made by Mr. Milliken Mr. Rogers of Arkansas insisted upon the reading of each report in full. The reports were all agreed to, but a good deal of time was consumed.

BIG THINGS.

THE highest waterfall in the world is that of the Yellowstone River.

THE greatest cave in the world is the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky.

THE greatest lake in the world is Lake Superior, 430 miles long and 1,000 feet deep.

THE largest bell in the world is the great bell of Moscow, which weighs 440,000 pounds.

A MORTGAGE on a railroad for $75,000,000, the largest on record, has just been filed at Pittsburg.

THE greatest natural bridge in the world is over Cedar Creek, in Virginia, eighty feet wide and 250 feet high.

THE United States Government holds in its Treasury more cash than any other state—$643,600,000 in gold and silver.

THE greatest city park in the world is that of Fairmount Park in Philadelphia, containing over twenty-nine hundred acres.

THE falls of Niagara carry down 10,000,000 cubic feet of water per minute, equal to about 3,000,000 horse-power.

THE largest tree in the world is in Fresno County, California. It has a circumference of 120 feet 5 inches four feet from the ground.

Something for the New Year.

The world-renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued popularity for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by The Hostetter Company, Pittsburg, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing sixty hands in that department. They are running about eleven months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1891 will be more than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian, and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, etc., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1891 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

A Precocious Fauntleroy.

A little New Orleans girl crossed the ocean this year with Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett and her two sons, and during the voyage received very flattering attentions from the 14-year-old "Lord Fauntleroy." "Do you still call your mother dearest?" she said to him one day. "Not much!" said "Lord Fauntleroy." "I call her 'Cherie,' and keep 'Dearest' for somebody sweeter." And he put his hand on his heart and sighed at the "somebody sweeter" in a way that would have secured him—a spanking had the dethroned "Dearest" been there to see him.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props, Toledo, Ohio.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

His Part of the Rite.

The blushing bride-elect was rehearsing the ceremony about to take place.

"I shall expect you to give me away, papa," she said.

"I'm afraid I have done it already, Caroline," replied the old man, nervously. "I told your Herbert this morning you had a disposition just like your mother's."

MILLIONS of women use Dobbins' Electric Soap daily, and say it is the best and cheapest. If they are right, you ought to use it. If wrong, one trial only will show you. Buy a bar of your grocer and try it next Monday.

JUDGING from the number of hairless heads that assemble in the parquette, the remorseless hand of time has been on a wholesale scalping expedition.—Peck's Sun.

A lady returned from a foreign tour claims that her health was sustained by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WHY is a dog with a lame leg like a boy at arithmetic? Because he puts down three and carries one.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

One of the most important organs of the human body is the LIVER. When it fails to properly perform its functions the entire system becomes deranged. The BRAIN, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS, all refuse to perform their work. DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, RHEUMATISM, KIDNEY DISEASE, etc., are the results, unless something is done to assist Nature in throwing off the impurities caused by the inaction of a TORPID LIVER. This assistance so necessary will be found in

Prickly Ash Bitters!

It acts directly on the LIVER, STOMACH and KIDNEYS, and by its mild and cathartic effect and general tonic qualities restores these organs to a sound, healthy condition, and cures all diseases arising from these causes. It PURIFIES THE BLOOD, tones up the system, and restores perfect health. If your druggist does not keep it ask him to order it for you. Send 2c stamp for copy of "THE HORSE TRAINER," published by us.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
Sole Proprietors. ST. LOUIS, MO.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

SMITH & WESSON

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application. SMITH & WESSON,
Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

FOR OLD AND YOUNG.

Tutt's Liver Pills act as kindly on the child, the delicate female or infirm old age, as upon the vigorous man.

Tutt's Pills

give tone and strength to the weak stomach, bowels, kidneys and bladder.

DETECTIVES

Wanted in every County to act in the Secret Service under instructions from Capt. Grannan, ex-Chief of Detectives of Cincinnati. Experience not necessary. Particulars free. Address Grannan Detective Bureau Co. 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co. CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring. Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts. at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and Illustrated pamphlet for a dime. THE PEDINE CO., World Building, New York.

FAT FOLKS Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address, DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

WANTED AGENTS, Male and Female, in every town in U. S. to sell our goods on commission. Send 2c stamp for reply. U.S. TEA & COFFEE CO., P.O. Box 600, Chicago, Ill.

PATENTS L. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

CANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills makes a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles.

EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!

LUNEAS! NEVADA!

IMPERIAL PINK!

ROUSSEL ROSE

EDEN BOUQUET!

LILY OF THE VALLEY!

All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label. "Delicate as a cobweb, Lasting as the hills."

If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.

46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND.

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?

1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.

2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.

3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.

CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.

Masters Croup and Whooping Cough.

BUY AT DRUGGISTS.

HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE NEW CITY.

BY MRS. NAPOLEON B. MORANGE.

They talked of a magic town;
 I heard nor believed it true
That a giant of such renown
 Should spring from the dwarf I knew;
Still, as I pondered thereon,
 I yearned for the old home-place;
I must see was it, too, gone;
 Surely that they would not efface.

I went to the magic city,
 Approached it almost by stealth;
Its progress I viewed with pity,
 I hated this influx of wealth;
Why had it come to take
 And change the familiar ways?
It made my worn heart ache
 For the memory of boyhood days.

Where are the sparkling fountains,
 Thought I, in bitter regret.
Well, they cannot remove the mountains!
 They are constant to greet me yet.
The bud had blown to a flower,
 I wandered its strange streets through,
Wandered, wandered an hour,
 Without meeting a face I knew.

The whir, the buzz, the rattle,
 Pierced even my hearing dead;
I thought I was in a battle,
 With missiles flying o'erhead.
And this is Progress, it seems,
 This riot of burly strife
That murders an old man's dreams
 And puts him at odds with life.

No Pantheon is there to-day
 For the past in this new regime;
No shrine for a pilgrim gray,
 No nook where an old man may dream.
Changed were the haunts I sought,
 The landmarks long overgrown;
The village and I were forgot
 In the triumph of mortar and stone.

NEW YORK CITY.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER IX.

WHAT CAME OF SIR REGINALD'S RIDE.

We left Sir Reginald Glendenning dashing in a wild and furious way, while in a fit of vexation, down the ramble or carriage way leading from the Hall.

The horse he sat upon was almost a colt, very wild and fiery, and, as he had not been ridden for several days, was particularly spirited on this memorable morning in the latter part of May.

The pathway over which they almost flew was very beautiful, surrounded on either side by grand old trees, whose soft boughs meeting, as we have before described, made a perfect canopy of green above, through which flecks of bright blue sky might be seen, and through which, also, rare slants of sunshine glinted, falling on drops of dew that lay upon the nodding grasses, or upon little clumps of flowers, whose cups lay open, ever turning skyward for a fresh supply of light or moisture.

Oh, it was a glorious morning!

Glorious in being a perfect contrast to the drear, damp, foggy ones that had immediately preceded it, with the fitful sunshine of the day before, that had ended in a wild storm.

But Sir Reginald saw not and cared not for the beauty that lay so ravishingly around him. He had received an unwelcome letter, one presenting to him a duty, which he meant not to fulfill, and now he was sullen, morose, and angry.

In order to gratify his whim, he was riding at a break-neck speed a wild young horse, going he cared not whither, nor how, so that his movements kept pace with the turmoil within.

On, on they flew, past fountain, statuary, groves, and hedges, until they dashed into the open road away, away.

Suddenly a large dog, roused from a drowsy morning nap by the heedless clatter of the horse's hoofs, sprang from a doorway almost to the flanks of the startled animal, barking savagely as he did so.

The suddenness of his appearing proved too much for the nervous organization of young Tempest, who, at the sight and sound, gave such a sharp, quick, sideward jump that he dashed his rider from the saddle and pitched him over his head, exactly upon a pile of stones that had been left by the roadside for removal, where he lay in a moaning heap, while he scampered carelessly on, all unmindful of the agony inflicted or the extent of the accident.

But while he paused not in his mad course, human eyes saw the misfortune, and kind human hands went to the assistance of the wounded baronet.

The slightest touch created the deepest agony; but that he must be carried home was evident to all, therefore a litter was easily constructed, and with as much tenderness as possible the sufferer was softly raised, placed upon it, and so taken to the Hall, to which a messenger had been sent ahead with the news, while another had rushed off for the Doctor.

By the time the sad procession had reached the grounds of the mansion, Dr. Elfenstein was on hand, ready to superintend their entrance, and to manage their progress up the stairs to his bed chamber.

It was the sight of this mournful cortege that had called the startled household to the hall, and the news of their coming that was suddenly imparted to her ladyship, as she emerged from her room on hearing the scream given by Belle, as she also heard for the first of the accident.

Very tenderly he was borne along, yet with all their care the slight jars that it was impossible to prevent drew forth groans of agony, causing frequent rests to be made, so that their progress was necessarily slow and very tedious.

But under Dr. Elfenstein's quiet and calm directions the last stair was reached in safety, and after one more turn in the hall he was placed upon his own bed in a large and airy room, and his sympathetic bearers wiped their heated brows, and drew a long breath of unspeakable relief.

For a few moments a breathless silence reigned, then the sufferer turned his pallid face to the Doctor, and begged him to see at once what was the full and exact extent of his injuries.

After a thorough and careful investigation, which caused great anguish, made evident by groans, mingled, I am sorry to say, with curses, the Doctor hastened to reply to his impatient demand to know the exact truth.

"I am happy to inform your lordship that the injuries, while severe, are not necessarily fatal," was the honest reply.

"Shall I soon be over them?" was the next question that issued anxiously from the pale lips of the sufferer.

"You will not, I am grieved to inform you. Your hip is so injured that you will be helpless for weeks, nay, months, while your spine also has received a terrible wrench."

"Doctor, I cannot lie here a single night; I must get up, and go around my house," returned the patient, throwing off the clothes in great excitement, and striving to raise himself in vain, while great drops of perspiration gathered upon his pale brow, brought there by the effort.

"You see yourself that it is impossible. You must obey orders and lie perfectly quiet, if you ever expect to walk again."

"I tell you I cannot lie here," shouted the sufferer, in the greatest agony of mind. "You don't know what you say when you demand it. I must, I will be around by night. It is of vital importance."

"I cannot help it. The dealings of Providence are mysterious, but also are inevitable. Your hip is broken, your spine is injured, and you are a prisoner for months," was the Doctor's serious but firm reply.

"My God! what on earth then is to become of my poor——" His lordship paused, wiped the great drops of agony from his brow, and concluded the sentence in a feeble wail, "my poor plans, my business."

"Do not worry over your earthly affairs. You surely can give orders to some person to attend to all and everything. Your chief duty now is to bear up, while I do what I can for your relief, so that you may at least have a comfortable night, if there is comfort to be had after so dreadful an accident," returned the physician.

"Doctor, answer me one question, and, at your peril, answer truly. Is there danger of delirium? Will my mind give way under this awful pain?"

"I think not. Your constitution is a good one, and your nervous system not at all shattered; but of course I do not say for a certainty, as these things are beyond a physician's knowledge."

"If there is the least danger of that within twenty-four hours I must know it, as I have business of vital importance to transact."

"There is no danger within that time, rest assured; so try and calm yourself, for the sake of your friends," returned the Doctor.

Sir Reginald was silent for a moment; then his eyes rested half-inquiringly upon his weeping wife and niece, then fixed themselves, as if in deep study, upon the face of his nephew, while bitter sighs escaped his white, trembling lips.

"Drink this, my dear sir, and it will, I hope, relieve you," said the Doctor at last, advancing to his side with some liquid medicine in a glass.

"Answer first, will it deaden thought? If it will, I cannot swallow it, as I have a terrible problem to be solved before my mind can have a rest," was the strange reply.

"Drink it. It may soothe pain, but, I assure you, not prevent reflection."

So the trembling baronet swallowed the potion, and then became silent and thoughtful.

Dr Elfenstein waited until he saw his patient calmed and more pliable, then proceeded to replace the bone of the broken hip and arrange the sufferer in the position most important for the success of his surgery.

After giving explicit directions to Lady Constance and Mrs. Fredon, an old family nurse, for his further treatment, he withdrew, promising to return by evening to see how his remedies were working, and to bring other needed articles for his comfort and relief.

No sooner had the door closed upon his retiring form than Sir Reginald ordered every soul to leave the room except Lady Constance, merely explaining to the wondering ones that he must consult his wife upon a matter of importance.

"Constance," said he, when he saw that his order had been obeyed and that they were alone, "go to my library and get me from the locked drawer of my bookcase, a letter which lies upon the very top. The key you will find in my pocket."

Lady Constance instantly did as he directed, and the letter from his dead sister was once more in his hand.

This time he read it in a different mood.

Instead of anger, one could see intense satisfaction in his eager eyes.

"Now, I will tell you the request made of me in this letter," and he repeated to her the words we read over the shoulders of his niece and nephew, as they stealthily possessed themselves of its contents. "This girl needs a home for a few months. I need some private assistance, and you need some person to aid you and the nurse in taking care of me, or at least in amusing me. If this Ethel is willing to do as I wish, I will pay her for her services well, and thus my sister's desires will be carried out. What say you to the arrangment?"

"I am perfectly willing to acquiesce in what you think best," was the meek reply of the wife.

"Then give me a paper and pencil while I write a telegraphic dispatch.

"There," said he, handing her the following message, addressed to the person alluded to:

"Sir Glendenning is ill. You can be useful here if you wish, so come instantly. Answer. Will be met at station."

"Call the coachman; tell him to take Jerry and go with all speed to the office and see that this is sent at once. Have him wait for an answer."

A short time elapsed only, when Matthew returned with this message: "I will come to you on the 4 o'clock train."

A few words concisely written, but on them hung a long train of terrible events that the movements of the dread future could alone unfold.

CHAPTER X.

MRS. NEVERGAIL.

We will now return to look a little into the welfare of Mrs. Nevergail and her sorrowful niece, after they had reached the home of their relative, Mr. Charles Rogers, in Charles street, Liverpool, and bidden the handsome young physician farewell, who had cared for them both so tenderly during their passage across the Atlantic.

It need only be said, in reference to that farewell, that the tears rushed to the hazel eyes of Ethel as she saw him disappear in the distance, and a great and lonely void seemed suddenly to have dropped into her heart.

She knew not why she had taken such a deep interest in this grave and often preoccupied stranger, but from the first word of kindness spoken to her, the first glance into his earnest eyes, she had felt toward him as she had never done toward any person of the opposite sex before.

Then he had been so tender and kind toward her suffering charge, had looked so gently after the welfare of each, that she had learned to trust him implicitly, to look to him for advice, and to lean upon him as a sister would upon a brother while thrown so much together upon the deep.

But now it was all over. He had gone, and henceforward she could but learn to do without him.

For a day or so it had almost seemed an impossibility, but with the rapid failure of her aunt's strength her thoughts were forced into another channel, and her own lonely feelings had to be pushed aside for the more momentous and important one of their impending separation.

The third week was drawing to a close, and the young girl had thrown herself upon her knees by the bedside of the invalid to catch the last words that she had to speak in her ear.

At her request, she had been left alone with her child, and now, with her hand in hers, she murmured:

"Ethel, darling, I feel that I have but a few hours more to be with you, as my strength is fast waning; but while I may, I wish to tell you what I thought might be kept from your ears until your twenty-first birthday; but as I shall not be with you then, I must impart to you now an important secret, and give into your charge some documents not to be opened until that day. My dear, will you take those papers, and promise me that you will not break their seal until that time arrives?"

"I will, dearest aunt; rest assured I will do exactly as you wish."

"The papers I speak of, then, are in my trunk, inside a small wallet. Take charge of them immediately, and be sure to attend to them at the time I mention. Now, I must tell you a fact that I have withheld from your knowledge for the best of reasons, and in order to keep a solemn pledge of secrecy given to your father when a babe. I took you, as you are aware, when a child of a few weeks old, as my own had died, as well as my husband's sister, who was your own dear mother.

"You were so young, and to be so entirely ours until your twenty-first birthday, that all thought it best to call you by our own name. I now tell you, for the first time, what has been kept secret. Your father still lives, but for various reasons did not wish to claim you or be known to you until that time. I have informed him of my husband's death, my failing health, and of my return to England. I have also given him Cousin Rogers' address, who will also tell him where you can be found when that date arrives.

"I will only add that there is nothing to be ashamed of in your birth. You are a true gentlewoman, and when twenty-one will come into property sufficient for your support; but this fact is not to be generally known. Four months will elapse before that time comes, and I can leave only enough to bury me and purchase suitable mourning apparel for yourself.

"I dare not leave you without a protector and guardian, and as our present host is poor and has a struggle to provide for his own six children and wife, I have written to my brother, Sir Reginald Glendenning, asking him to take charge of you. I told him unless he did you would be obliged to earn your own living, and I hated to send you out into the world alone for such a purpose. I asked him if you could not be of use in some to him, until the fifth of October, when you would be otherwise provided for. This letter must be sent after my interment. Let him be notified of my death and invited to my funeral; then, after all is over and your mourning garments are made, send him the letter.

"Now, my love, I wish you to promise me that you will go to him if he sends for you, and assist him in whatever capacity he offers, even though it may be distasteful. Will you do this for your dying aunt, Ethel, my child?"

"I surely will," was the low reply, sobbed out almost with a wail, "but I cannot think of your dying. O, auntie! I have loved you so, how can I live without you?"

"'As thy day, so shall thy strength be,' is all I can say. God will comfort you, and in a few more months your father will claim and protect you."

"Thank God for that. Dear aunt, I shall rejoice in that father's love, I trust."

"You will, my darling. But what is this? I cannot see! I am growing numb—cold, Ethel—Ethel—I am dying!"

She spoke no more, and as Mr. and Mrs. Rogers hastened back to the room at Ethel's hurried call, they saw that she was indeed breathing her last.

Ethel mourned, as one with such a loving heart would naturally do over her great loss, but amid all her grief she remembered distinctly every direction she had received from those loved, dying lips.

The package spoken of was hidden instantly amid her own possessions, and a message dispatched to the baronet, notifying him of his sister's death and the hour of her funeral.

To this no answer was vouchsafed.

The day came and passed without his presence, and in a little less than a week after all was over, the letter to be delivered after death was forwarded to Glendenning Hall.

The next day a telegraphic dispatch summoned the young girl immediately to the presence of the baronet, saying "that he was ill, and needed her at once."

An hour later saw her seated in a railway train that passed through ——shire, on her way to the Hall.

Poor girl; she little knew what awaited her there.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Wouldn't Have It.

The Widow Grangely had an important case in court. She knew that if she should win her condition thereafter would be one of financial ease, and she had accordingly employed the most effective lawyer in the county. When the case came to trial, the shrewd lawyer saw that his success lay through the emotions of the jurymen.

"Gentlemen," said he, "look at this poor woman. Is she not enough to excite the pity of any beholder? Decrepitude has not spared her, and age is fast spreading its blight upon her once fair face. She——"

"You stop right where you are!" exclaimed the widow. "I need the money that might come out of this case, but I'll be hanged if you shall stand up there and call me old."

The lawyer hastened to her and said: "Why, madam, I must talk that way or lose the case."

"I don't care if you do have to talk that way, you sha'n't. I'd rather lose the whole thing than to be called old. I am just as good-looking as I ever was, and I want you to understand that fact. Decrepit, indeed. I'll bet I could gather you up and throw you over a ten-rail fence right now. If you want to talk about the law there is in the case, go ahead, but if you call me old again, we'll fight, that's all."—Arkansaw Traveler.

A Premature Discussion.

Miss Flighty—Have you decided to take any part in the discussion, "What shall we do in heaven?"

Good minister—No, miss. I am at present much more interested in the question, "What shall we do to get there?"

THERE are some mistaken people who will say to you, love is not enough—love will not feed you, nor clothe you, nor keep a roof over your head. There is no spur like love, there is no incentive like it. It brings out the best in man and in woman. Working-day love for me, love that will make both of us stronger to work, braver to overcome, more patient to endure. If it is this love that your lover offers, be not afraid to take him and it into your heart, for it will make the fire in the kitchen and even turn the roast upon the spit. Working-day love is what every woman hungers for, whether she marries a rich man or a poor man.—Maud Howe.

SPARTA, the capital of Laconia or Lacedæmon, was the most considerable republic of the Peloponnesus and the rival of Athens. Though without walls, it resisted the attacks of its enemies by the valor of its citizens for eight centuries. Lelex is supposed to have been the first king. From Lacedæmon, the fourth king, and his wife, Sparta, who are also spoken of as the founders of the city, it obtained names. The Lacedæmonians were a nation of soldiers, and cultivated neither the arts, sciences, commerce nor agriculture. The early history is traditional.

WHAT MY LOVER SAID.

[The following poem is recognized as one of the most charming gems published in the English language. Its authenticity is wholly unknown, though it has been long suspected that it came from the fertile brain and tender heart of the immortal Horace Greeley. Recently an Eastern gentleman offered to deed his splendid farm, valued at $15,000, to any one producing a copy of the poem antedating the one in his possession.—GEO. F. ALFORD.]

By the merest chance, in the twilight gloom,
 In the orchard path he met me;
In the tall wet grass, with its faint perfume,
 And I tried to pass, but he made no room.
 O, I tried, but he would not let me.
So I stood and blushed till the grass grew red,
 With my face bent down above it,
While he took my hand as he whispering said—
How the clover lifted each pink sweet head,
To listen to all that my lover said!
 O, the clover in bloom—I love it!

In the high wet grass went the path to hide,
 And the low wet leaves hung over,
But I could not pass on either side,
For I found myself, when I vainly tried,
 In the arms of my steadfast lover.
And he held me there, and he raised my head,
 While he closed the path before me,
And he looked down into my eyes and said—
How the leaves bent down from the boughs o'erhead
To listen to all that my lover said!
 O, the leaves hanging lowly o'er me!

Had he moved aside but a little way,
 I could surely then have passed him,
And he knew I never could wish to stay,
And would not have heard what he wished to say,
 Could I only aside have cast him.
It was almost dark, and the moments sped,
 And the searching night wind found us;
But he drew me nearer and softly said—
How the pure sweet wind grew still instead,
To listen to all that my lover said.
 O, the whispering wind around us!

I am sure he knew, when he held me fast,
 That I must be all unwilling,
For I tried to go, and would have passed,
As the night was come with its dews at last,
 And the sky with its stars was filling;
But he clasped me close, when I would have fled,
 And he made me hear his story.
And his soul came out from his lips and said—
How the stars crept out, when the white moon led,
To listen to what my lover said.
 O, the moon and stars in glory.

I know that the grass and the leaves will not tell,
 And I'm sure that the wind, precious rover,
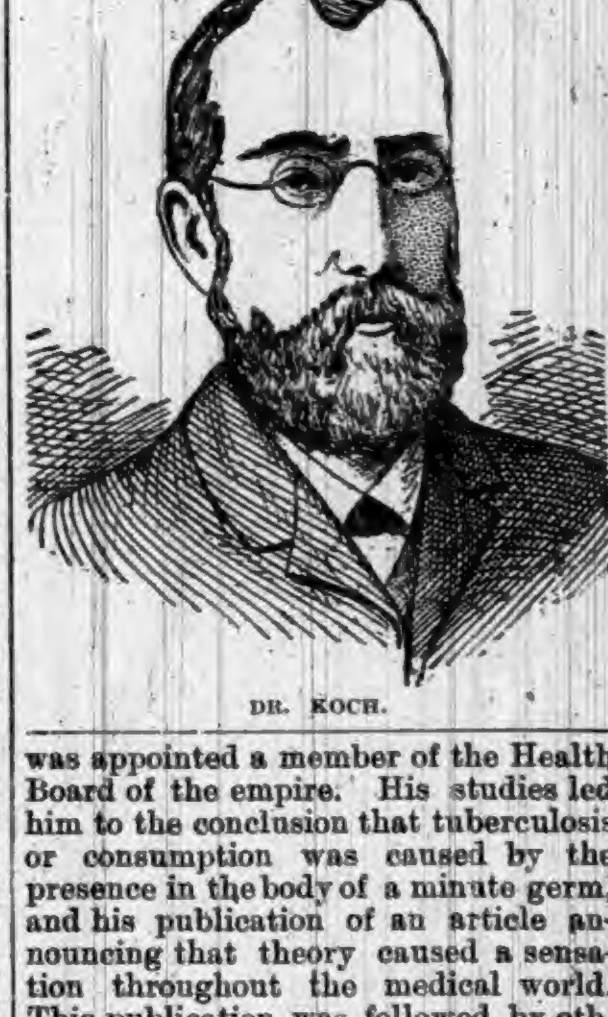
Will carry this secret so safely and well
 That no being will ever discover
One word of the many that rapidly fell
 From the eager lips of my lover;
 And the moon and the stars that looked over
Shall never reveal what a fairy-like spell
They wove 'round about me that night in the dell,
 In the path through the dew-laden clover;
Nor echo the whispers that made my heart swell
 As they fell from the lips of my lover.

DALLAS, Texas.

DR. KOCH.

The Discoverer of the Alleged Cure for Consumption.

The story of the life of Dr. Robert Koch is interesting. He was born in Clausthal, Germany, on Dec. 11, 1843, and is, therefore, a comparatively young man still, being only 47 years old. He graduated in medicine in 1866, at Goettingen, and settled down to practice his profession in Buckwitz, Posen. From 1872 until 1880 he devoted himself almost exclusively to the study of chemistry and bacteriology, and was so successful in the latter direction that he was appointed a member of the Health Board of the empire. His studies led him to the conclusion that tuberculosis or consumption was caused by the presence in the body of a minute germ, and his publication of an article announcing that theory caused a sensation throughout the medical world. This publication was followed by others, and Dr. Koch's name became so famous that he was made privy counselor, and was put in charge by the Emperor of a scientific expedition to Egypt and India, with a view of studying the cholera. It was on this expedition that he discovered the cholera germ, and for his invaluable services he received a handsome financial reward from the Emperor, and was made a professor in the Imperial Hygienic Institute in Berlin, which chair he still occupies.

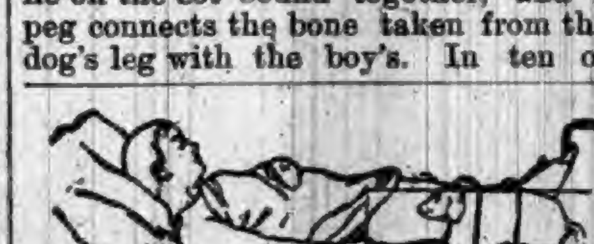


DR. KOCH.

A REMARKABLE OPERATION.

A Dog's Leg Engrafted on a Boy's to Supply Missing Bone.

Dr. A. M. Phelps, professor of orthopidic surgery in the University of New York, assisted by Drs. James D. Kelley and C. D. Roy, made one of the most remarkable surgical operations ever attempted at the Charity Hospital on Blackwell's Island recently, of which a New York paper says: The operation consisted in the engrafting of a living dog's foreleg into a boy's leg to take the place of the bone that was lacking. Just above the boy's ankle bone tissue was entirely wanting, and the foot dangled in the air, being held in place only by muscles and integument. It is to supply the bone wanting in this space that the operation is being performed. The dog is under the effects of an anesthetic. His right foreleg and head and tail are free, but the remainder of his body is immovable. The boy and the dog lie on the cot bound together, and a peg connects the bone taken from the dog's leg with the boy's. In ten or twelve days, if the dog's bone unites with the boy's, the operation will be completed, and the surgeon's knife will cut the last links of flesh by which the two are now connected. Should the operation be successful it will prove a great boon to mankind.



THE GRAFTING PROCESS.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE

SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the "COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO. offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester" "ADHESIVE COUNTERS" and you can walk, run or jump in them.

AN ACCURATE

WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by THE COLUMBUS Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

122061
COLUMBUS WATCH CO.
COLUMBUS OHIO

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM Florence Mfg. Co., Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK.

Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 25 parts; high-priced machines have 200. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 16, 1890.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
Sandusky......lv	......	pm	am 7 30	am	......
Wheeling......	am *6 50	9 15	......	10 05	pm 10 35
Zanesville......	9 58	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 17
Newark......	pm 12 30	1 50	......	3 05	8 30
Columbus.....ar	1 25	2 50	......	4 05	9 30
Columbus.....lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm ‡6 50
Mansfield......	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 28
Deshler......	3 12	5 52	10 50	10 24	am 1 47
Defiance......	3 50	6 30	11 47	11 20	2 39
Auburn jc......	4 44	7 28	pm 1 07	am 12 48	3 32
Avilla......	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc......	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro......	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25
Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
Chicago......lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro......	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc......	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla......	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc......	......	7 10	pm 12 48	am 3 06	9 42
Defiance......	pm 3 00	8 00	2 12	4 27	10 42
Mansfield......	6 14	11 20	......	9 45	am 12 44
Columbus......	*9 30	am 2 50	......	pm 1 25	3 30
Newark......	8 07	1 00	......	12 40	5 00
Zanesville......	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 52
Wheeling.....ar	11 55	4 40	......	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	......	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 50	pm 4 45	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 25	8 15	......	11 13	......
New York.....ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Cincinnati, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't.,
L. S. ALLEN, Assist. Gen. P. A. Chicago, Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

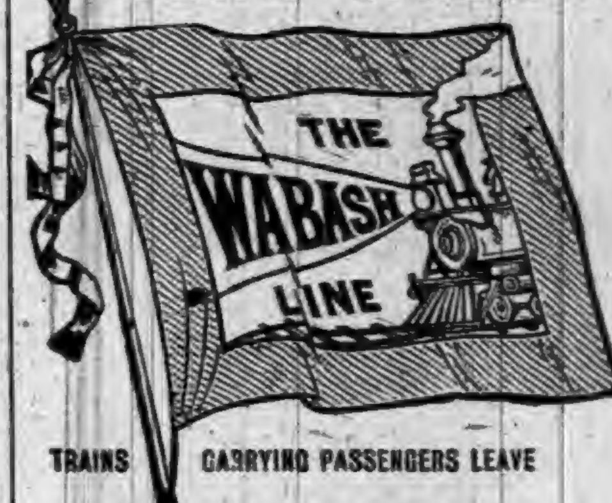
Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era......	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc......	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn......	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo......	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit......	1 02	5 55	10 56
Pleasant Lake......	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola......	1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont......	1 36	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading......	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers......	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale......	2 37	7 30	......
Fort Wayne Junc...	2 43	7 39	3 35
Jonesville......	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson......	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Expr'es	Mail.
Jackson......	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville......	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Fort Wayne Junc...	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale......	......	12 30	7 35
Bankers......	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading......	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont......	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola......	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake......	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit......	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo......	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn......	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc......	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era......	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne......	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE



TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express.......2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express.......5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.......2:20 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim.......8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express.......1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom.......7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express.......12:36 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.......5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis.......7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK.

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES.

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Have you tried OLD HONESTY CHEWING TOBACCO ?

Made from finest grades of Leaf Tobacco

Ask your dealer for it.
Insist on trying it.
John Finzer & Bros.
LOUISVILLE, Ky.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. TRADE MARK. IT CURES CANCERS. SCROFULA.

Female Weakness Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE $1. per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT
AUBURN, IND.

SHORTHAND. You can earn $75 per month as a shorthand writer. Learn at home.

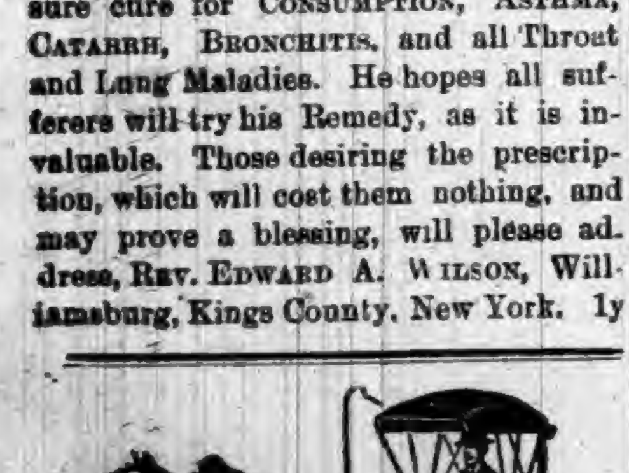
Employment Guaranteed

as soon as you thoroughly complete the study. Do not delay the matter, but write at once. It will pay you. For full particulars, address,

Stenographic Institute,
ANN ARBOR, MICH.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y



THE PALACE LIVERY SALE AND [illegible]

West of Swineford House,
Cor. Ninth and Jackson Sts.,
AUBURN, IND.
J. C. Henry & Geo. Swineford, Pro's.

Good, New Carriages and Fine Horses to let on Reasonable terms. Board for Horses by the Week or Day.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1841.

During this year a number of persons came to Auburn, among whom were Samuel W. Sprott and David Weaver, single men, and David Shoemaker, Henry Curtis and Lyman Chidsey, these last three were all carpenters and George Wagoner, a blacksmith who now lives and has his shop in the north suburbs of the town and has continued at his trade with fair results all these years. In February, '41 James R. Cosper, his father David Cosper, a veteran of 1812, wife Mary and a son Saxby, two years of age, also came to Auburn.

He had reached the Black Swamp, his goods being hauled by the team of Enos Ayres thus far, when snow began to fall and continued falling throughout the afternoon. While walking along behind the wagon, 'Squire Cosper saw some hogs come out to the road, one of which had in his mouth the skirt of a broadcloth coat. The animals stepped in the track left by the wagon and tore the cloth to pieces. The question naturally arose, whose coat this had been and how the hogs came by it.

A mile farther on, Bail's tavern located in the center of the swamp, was reached and lodging obtained. Next day the snow was quite deep and still falling so that progress with wheels was impracticable. Mr. Cosper, who was a carpenter by trade set to work and made a sled, put the wagon bed upon it, loaded in the goods and provisions and went on to Defiance. Here one of Ayres' horses got disabled by a kick and a Mr. Gorrill, who had settled on Big Run and was so far returned from a visit east, kindly hitched his horse with the other and came forward via Clarksville. Mr. Gorrill gave the use of his horse to return for the wagon. The company reached Auburn on Feb. 13, being nine days out from Knox county, Ohio.

They stopped at the tavern of Mr. Freeman just across the street from Charles Raut's house. They were met by O. A. Parsons, who had the care of the house of Mr. Coburn, who had lost his wife and had gone on a visit to Ohio.

Mr. Parsons gave them the key and directed the party down to the house in which was all of Coburn's furniture. They lived here till in May. David Cosper meantime had bought lot No 57 O. P. from Thomas Warner, of Ohio, and had traded a gold watch for two others, to A. and C. Alvord, who had bought Howe's interest in the town plat and were owners of a large number of lots.

It will be remembered that Mr. Park had promised to deed the county one third of the lots in the plat provided the county seat was located here. The Alvords refused to recognize this agreement as affecting their interests, made by Park during their absence, and Park manfully standing the loss, proceeded to deed the requisite number to the county.

The two lots traded for were numbers 59 and 61, now owned and occupied by Edward Eldridge and Samuel Ralston. All three lots were covered with trees. Those standing on No. 57 were chopped down and the logs furnished the material for a log house which was raised in short order by the settlers and the family moved in.

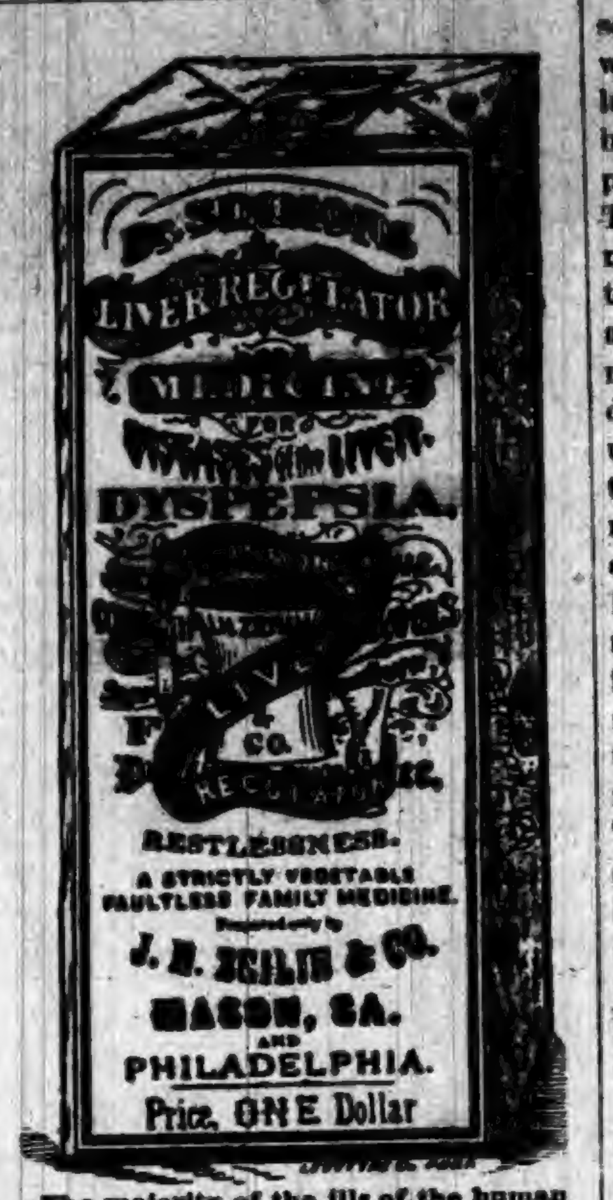
By this time, James Cosper had raised and enclosed the frame house on lot 161, now owned and occupied by Mr. Raut. Mr. Park had burnt out in December, and having met Mr. Cosper the previous year when he entered his present farm in Union township, four miles east of Auburn, invited him in and gave him the job of building this house. On its completion, Mr. Park moved in and there had his office as county treasurer and here commissioners, circuit and probate courts were held the same year.

The village now gave improved facilities for travelers as there were not less than four so-called taverns. Thomas J. Freeman's one and one-half story frame built by a carpenter from Angola standing west of Park. O. A. Parsons', one story, north of Park, J. O. P. Sherlock's one story frame on lot No. 165 which lot he had meantime cleared of trees, and Nelson Payne's in a frame standing on the corner of lot No. 60. It is probable that accommodations were not on a very large scale in board and bed, but hearty appetites and wearied bodies, made food palatable and slumber sound and restful. But rooms, like an omnibus, always had place for one more and the well-roped bed stead, was not infrequently called to hold two occupants and in extremity, possibly three.

The tavern sign was ubiquitous those days, and whether this compensated hospitality was lucrative to the many hosts or not, the result was a great air to the moving public. The days of the tavern are over, the era of railroads has left them in the far background with the stage coach, the plank road and the toll gates. Here and there all over the county, the traveler meets the dilapidated old frames and barns, silent and almost deserted where once all was life and bustle and confusion of arrival and departure. Auburn has been notable for its taverns, and its leading public houses of to-day, are well worthy of the appellation—hotel.

In mercantile ventures, we find Freeman, Parsons and Payne filling in time not required as landlords, in the retail of goods, groceries and spirituous liquors. Freeman continued in business a number of years, became involved in some trouble and though struggling hard was finally overcome. O. A. Parsons was associated in business with George Wright and these parties traded in foreign and domestic goods, jewelry, drugs and medicines under the firm name of O. A. Parsons & Co. N. Payne took out a license to keep tavern with the privilege to retail spirituous liquors in Auburn, one year from September, '41, for which he was charged $25 00. Later Freeman and Payne formed a partnership of brief duration, then did business as the agent of ex governor B. F. Wallace but he was in a manner unfortunate and unsuccessful.

(To be continued next week.)



The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a diseased Liver. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any other agency on earth.

SEE THAT YOU GET THE GENUINE.

CUT DOWN THE FEES.

A Writer Who Opposes the Salary System But Favors Reform.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

TO THE EDITOR—Sir: I notice in the public prints considerable discussion in regard to the redemption of the pledge of the democratic party of this state as to the fees and salaries of our public officers. I do not think there is any considerable complaint as to any officers' fees and salaries being too high, except county officers. These, it is conceded, are out of all proportion to the salaries of the judges of our courts and our state officers. The idea is preposterous that a man who by long years of study and practice has fitted himself for the bench should receive less than half or one-third of the pay of a man who never earned over $50 per month, and by chicanery or accident gets into a county office without any preparatory education. The manner in which these county officers charge and collect such enormous fees (and a large per centage is illegal) renders the present an opportune moment for a change. If the democratic party is a party of the people, and opposed to high salaries and excessive expenditures, it certainly is high time for it to take some decisive step to right this crying evil.

I have noticed several suggestions as to the manner in which this shall be done, but there is one that, to me, is quite objectionable—that is to allow the officers to charge and collect the fees fixed by law, pay the same to the county treasurer, and have the officers paid a salary from the county treasury. The first objection to this plan is that it is of very doubtful constitutionality. (32 Ind., rep. 1., 37 do., 383, 46 do., 150)

The second is that fees chargeable to the persons obtaining the services of these officers would not be fully charged, and when charged would never be collected.

On the first objection, let me ask by what authority should I be compelled to pay a portion of the public expenses when I get a deed recorded, when my neighbor who owns as much property does not pay the same amount because he did not get a deed recorded? The same could be said if I had a lawsuit, or a relative to die, leaving me a share of his property. No one but myself is interested in the recording of the deed, and no one but the parties interested in that lawsuit or estate should be compelled is pay for the services rendered. If any amount of money is collected of a litigant, or in the settlement of an estate, over and above the sum actually paid to the officers who render the services, it is a tax on justice, and is abhorrent to all well-disposed people and against certain constitutional provisions. I think the fees and charges should be lowered and be collected by the officers from the persons obtaining the services. In order to do so, there should be a fee for each and every duty any officer may be called upon to perform, with no loops or general statements whereby the officer can charge or claim constructive fees. No man should get on the committee of fees and salaries in the coming legislature unless he is, or will be, conversant with every detail of duties about the county offices.

For issuing a summons, why give the clerk 25 cents when it is no more trouble and takes no more ability than it does to fill up a blank note or a check? Make it 10 cents; that would be fair as compared with grand jury subpœnas for which be gets only 5 cents. They get 25 cents for other subpœnas; certainly it is no greater bother to issue than a grand jury subpœna. And so I would suggest that there be a general scaling down on each and every fee. One of the crying evils is the amount allowed by the county board. It seems to be an understanding, by such officers, that if anything is done by a county officer, and the law does not state specifically that the fee therefor is to be paid by some one, they charge it to the county, and then hoodwink the board into allowing it. The legislature should enact that such and such fees should be chargeable to the person for whom the services are rendered; such and such to the county, and further, that if by law any service is required of any officer, and no fee is allowable by law therefor, or if no person or the county is by law chargeable therefor, then in such cases such officer shall perform such services gratuitously, or if such officer be salaried, such salary shall be deemed to cover the services so unprovided for.

A great cry is frequently made about the varied and diversified duties of the several county officers—always by those who try to hoodwink the members of the legislature and get high fees—and thereby are to the impression that it is an impossibility to get up and enact a fee bill. This is absolute nonsense and foolishness. Any man who has personally attended to his duties in any county office a term can, by going into such office and making it his study for two or three days and looking at the statutes, make up a list of duties, and the length of time it takes to perform each act, and not miss or overlook one duty in 500. It can be as readily done as for a good housewife to sit down on Monday and make a list and amount of the wants of her household for a week, or a hotel man, restauranter, salesman or manufacturer to anticipate the wants of his establishment in advance for weeks or months. The special attention of the legislature should be called to the fees of officers in highway, ditch, turnpike and gravel road matters, but it should provide in distinct terms who should pay such fees. There is no uniformity as to such fees in the different counties.

The greatest swindle and the largest opportunity for illegal and constructive fees to officers is found in the enactments and provisions for omitted fees or for services not provided for. It is by authority of such general provisions when followed by the words that they shall receive "like fees as in similar cases," where the steal comes in. All such provisions should be repealed.

Auburn, Dec. 15. W. H. D.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Thursday last Dr. Yeagy and wife visited Auburn.

Rev. Loudy is holding services at Sedan for a time.

Richard Locke is home from De Pauw University, during the holiday vacation.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. F. Deventer visited their daughter in Butler. Mrs. D. returned Monday.

Last week week Thursday G. M. Ralston, of Auburn, was in Waterloo, also D. Clutter, of Ft. Wayne.

Tuesday Mr. Culbertson stopped in Waterloo on his way from Missouri to his home in Quincy, Mich.

Miss Alice Fisher has returned from her long visit in Toledo. She has taken a position as clerk in Mr. Loewenstein's store.

Jacob Shoemaker returned from New Orleans, La., on last Monday where he had been spending sometime for his health.

Mrs. S. P. Klotz was so overcome by escaping gas from a coal stove a few nights ago, as to be unconscious for awhile.

Rev. F. E. Knopp's lecture was finally given in the Presbyterian church and was quite well attended. It was also interesting.

Rev. H. Smith preached in the M. E. church Tuesday evening. He was former pastor of this church, is now located at Pierceton.

Giles Abby has bought and removed the small building on Franklin street to his lot on Elm street, where he will no doubt fit it up.

Some varieties of spring blossoming bulbs are showing vigorous growth, and should the warm weather continue, buds will soon appear.

Prof. Krieble, of the Butler, high schools preached a good discourse in the U. B. church on last Sunday night to a good attentive audience.

The L. M. C. met with Miss Mattie Maxson Tuesday evening. The attendance of members is good, and the interest in the studies pursued growing.

Mrs. Hattie Nolton, who is sick with diphtheria is better and the only remaining child, who also was sick from the same dread disease is improving.

Dr. Yeagy has been telegraphed to, to purchase about sixty horses, to supply the place of those burned in the street car barns in Ft. Wayne Monday night.

Rev. S. P. Klotz' revival meeting is progressing finely at the Showers church. Up to last Sunday there had been 13 conversions and 13 accessions to the church.

Adam Shull's oldest daughter, Stella, who went west with her parents, and married there, is here with her two babies spending the winter with her grandmother, Mrs. Shull, on Maple street.

Several young boys in Waterloo became intoxicated Saturday evening, and upon the appearance of the marshal, perhaps to arrest them, united in attacking him, and giving him blackened eyes. Perhaps a few more saloons will be desirable.

Most of the churches in Waterloo will have some form of entertainment for their Sunday schools on Christmas eve. As a rule the attendance is large in all the schools several weeks before that time. In some way the children should be so interested as to hold them for the year.

Last Thursday an excursion train from Zanesville, Ohio, came through here on the way to Lansing, Mich., and after getting north of the crossing, they went to back up the train, but whether from not understanding our system of switches or from some other cause, they backed the rear of the train off the track. The accident delayed them for sometime.

Sunday the Barker Chapel M. E. church was reopened after having been remodeled and improved in many ways. The dedication sermon was preached by Rev. Albertson, of Goshen. Sunday evening Rev. H. C. Smith, of Pierceton, preached. The indebtedness is entirely secured by subscriptions. Some of the Methodist people from this place attended the services.

BUTLER.

Simon Aldrich, son of Henry Aldrich, of this place, died last week.

Emlin Campbell is home from Angola on a short visit during vacation.

J. A. Campbell and wife contemplate a visit to central Michigan this week.

A goodly number of our people will improve the low railroad rates and make excursions during the holidays.

Jacob Helwig and Boon Madden are off to Carrol county, Ohio, for a visit this week. They will remain over the holidays.

The male members of the M. E. church held a social last week at the residence of Mr Lingenfelter, which proved a financial success, netting about $25.

Truman Showalter, residing in the east part of town had a narrow escape last week. He was in the woods cutting wood, and cut his foot so badly that he could scarcely get home, fainting upon reaching the door.

DIED—At his home three miles east of Butler, Ind., Dec. 16, 1890, in the eighty-fourth year of his age, Fred Hoffman. Mr. Hoffman was among the early settlers of Stafford township, settling on the farm where he died. He came from Wayne county, Ohio. His funeral took place from the Big Run church two miles east of Butler, Rev. Arthur, of Angola, officiating. Mr. Hoffman has been almost a life member of the Disciple church, and a worthy and consistent christian, loved and respected by all his neighbors and friends.

Last Thursday evening Mrs. Warren Blackwell was clearing away the supper she set the lamp on a projection of the cupbord and the door swinging round knocked it off. It exploded, scattering the oil in all directions and setting fire to all it came in contract with. Mrs. Blackwell's dress was in part consumed and she was badly burned about the neck and face and has suffered terribly, but her injuries are external and is not in a dangerous condition. Her husband was away from home at the time on business and but for the children's presence of mind the whole family would likely have perished in the flames. The little six-year old boy dragged his baby brother from an adjoining room out of the house. Neighbors hearing Mrs. Blackwell's cries for help arrived in time to put the fire out before it had made much headway.

Our people were startled last Wednesday evening by being apprised of the sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. John Blaker. She went to Bryan that morning to visit her daughter, who lives there, and seemed in her usual health. She left Bryan about eight o'clock in the evening, apparently well, but soon after the train had started she told a lady near her that she felt sick, and opened the window. The lady left the train at Edgerton. She soon after was seen to recline her head upon the seat, and when within a mile of Butler it was discovered that she was dead. Mr. Blaker was at the depot with a carriage to take her home and was completely prostrated by the shock when he found what had occurred. Her funeral took place from the Lutheran church last Friday, Rev. Diffinbach officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Blaker were among the early settlers in Butler, coming here in 1856. Their dwelling (on the lot where they now reside) was erected among a dense growth of elms that nearly covered the lot. Mercy Hall was married to John Blaker July 20th 1848; was the mother of twelve children, ten of whom survive.

CONCORD.

Mattie Buchanan was at St. Joe Saturday.

Mollie Kline was at Auburn last Saturday.

Mr. Kline's have friends visiting them from the east.

Several of the boys have returned home from Huntertown.

Will Farrington returned home from the west last week.

Mrs. H. H. Bhler has been quite sick at her mother's, Mrs N. Wyatt.

Richard Ervin left last Monday for Indianapolis for medical treatment.

Owing to the stormy indications of weather the oyster supper was not largely attended.

Mrs. G. W. Morr will spend her holidays with her daughter Emma, in Central Illinois.

Birdie Crevasse of Mt. Hope, and Dora Stafford, near Auburn, are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Baltz, of Huntertown, C. H. Brown and wife, of this place, celebrated the 30th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs T. H. Murray at their home in Spencerville, Saturday last, A pleasant time is reported.

Mr George Rogers of Defiance, Ohio, J. M. Hamilton of Newville, and G. W. Reed, of Union Chapel, were the guests of G. W. Draggoo and family. Mr. D. was absent at Auburn in the church interest as also F. Buchanan.

Lewis Layman and two daughters of Auburn Junction, were the guests of Sadie and Laura Layman Tuesday and Wednesday. Lula and Cristie lately returned from Kansas. They will make this their permanent home.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. Henry Lawson visited her parents at Hudson last Saturday and Sunday.

Jerry Perkins, from north of Fairfield Center, was in our town last Saturday.

The young people had an oyster supper at Mrs. C. Kegerreis last Tuesday evening.

Miss Della Hornberger, of Butler, visited her grandfather, Jacob Mortorff over Sunday.

Thomas Baxter and wife, of Cedar, Creek, visited Mrs. B's. parents over Sunday.

George Fisher and wife, of Hudson, took dinner with Jacob Mortorff last Sunday.

Anthony Schiffli and wife are visiting their daughter in Albion, Michigan, at this writing.

Mrs. Martin, of Turkey Creek, who has been visiting friends here the past four weeks returned to her home last Saturday.

Noah Mortorff, of Jennings, Michigan, is visiting his father Jacob Mortorff, who has been sick for some time, he is about the same at this writing.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

Every Monday, Mrs Grundy
Wished 'twas Sunday
And right here you see the cause.
When her basket
Showed her task, it
Looked too big for SANTA CLAUS.
But her mutter,
Changed to utter
Happiness of highest grade.
Buy it
Try it
None deny it
Is the best SOAP ever made
Dirty Clothes
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
Combination.

SANTA CLAUS SOAP
PHENOMENALLY POPULAR.
MADE BY
N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. CHICAGO.

"Some lives are like Horseshoes the more worn the brighter." Busy wives who use SAPOLIO never seem to grow old. Try a cake...

A complete wreck of domestic happiness has often resulted from badly washed dishes, from an unclean kitchen, or from trifles which seemed light as air. But by these things a man often judges of his wife's devotion to her family, and charges her with general neglect when he finds her careless in these particulars. Many a home owes a large part of its thrifty neatness and its consequent happiness to SAPOLIO.

Grocers often substitute cheaper goods for SAPOLIO, to make a better profit. Send back such articles, and insist on having just what you ordered.

100 PAGES WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cars, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Peronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming Illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistable little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs. Gen John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humperey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Seinte Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, BY E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

Harper's Bazar.
ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home. Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891 Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR:

HARPER'S BAZAR............ 4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.......... 4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY............ $4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE... 2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume,) for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

Harper's Young People.
AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Monroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophie Swett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Nelsetter Brynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel, adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existance. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms; Postage Prepaid, $2.00.

Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Single Numbers, Five cents Each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

Uncle Sam to his spoilt Indian children: There, there, put away your guns. They're too dangerous for playthings. And I'll give you some bread and butter.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To THE EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., [illegible]

THE LADIES FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS

CHICAGO, ILL. 28 UNION SQUARE, N. Y. ATLANTA, GA. ST. LOUIS, MO. DALLAS, TEX.

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling. To sell our permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.

Recorder's Office Recorders Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1891. NUMBER 1.

GOING TO MOVE!

WARRANTED GOODS.

Felt Boots and Overs at 75c and upward,
Ladies' Felt Shoes at 75c and up,
Alaskas at 75c and up,
Arctics at $1.00 and up.

Headquarters

for Rubber and Leather Boots. Fine Shoes for Ladies and Gents, School Shoes, etc.

We move to Old Post Office stand Feb. 1st.

Call and see us.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

Auburn and Waterloo.

POSTS

NOTED FOR

LOW PRICES!

ON STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

BANK BLOCK, AUBURN.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Miss Lizzie Fisher is in Ft. Wayne, visiting friends.

Mr. McNutt, of Ft. Wayne, was in town a few days ago.

Miss Gertie Blattn r is in Waterloo, visiting relatives.

Dr. Yeagy visited Angola, the early part of the week.

Miss Allie Philips is at Salem Center, spending the holidays.

Miss Fenner, from St. Johns, Mich., is in town visiting friends.

Rev. W. O. Butler, revenue collector, is home for the holidays.

Mrs. Peter Fisher is in Toledo, visiting her sister Mrs. Blattner.

Christmas eve a masquerade ball was held in the Opera House.

Lida Ettinger has returned to her school after a weeks vacation.

Mrs. W. H. Leas and children are visiting relatives in Reading, Mich.

William Maxwell has gone to Kansas, to see his father, who is very ill.

Misses Ada Williamson and Emma Adamson are at Kendallville, during holidays.

W. H. Leas and M. V. Leas, went to Chicago Tuesday night on a busines trip.

Misses Julia Lœwenstein and Flora Speer are home from school during the holidays.

Master Harold Blair, of Laporte, is visiting the family of his grandfather, Gen. Blair.

Rev. L. A. Rhetts, is holding a very successful protracted meeting, at the Barker M. E. Chapel.

Speer & Co., have a nice lot of celery in their cellar to supply their custcmers during the winter.

Monday, J. J. Fitzgerald and wife returned home from Edon, Ohio, where they have been visiting friends.

Sunday and Monday, Rev. Spitz, of Orland, was in town. He is assisting Rev. Rhetts at Barker's Chapel.

Miss Flora Ettinger left Tuesday to spend the remaining part of the winter at Mansfield, Ohio, visiting relatives.

Mr. Kapp, of the north meat market, got kicked by a horse on last Monday which disabled him from business.

L. A. Hine, of Sedan, and a senior student of the Pharmaceutic College, of Lafayette, was in our city, last Monday.

Indictments have been found against some of our young boys for drunkenness, and more will follow unless it is stopped.

Master Alpha C. Carpenter is spending his holiday vacation in California, Mich., visiting his grand-parents and other friends.

Rev. S. P. Klotz closed his protracted meeting at the Showers church by 14 accessions to the church. He and Rev. J. W. Lilly will commence a protracted meeting in Waterloo on next Sunday.

Dr. J. C. Fretz and family, of Deedsville, Ind., came to our city to spend the holidays with Mrs. F's people, the family of C. M. Philips. The Dr. is a prominent physician of his town, and enjoys the enviable reputation of being a DeKalb boy, occupying a front seat.

The new U. B. church, situated on the farm of James O. Blake, in Smithfield, was dedicated on last Sabbath by Rev. J. W. Lilly. The house was filled, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. It was stated by the trustees that $411 was needed to clear the church from debt. In a short time $470 was secured and the house was dedicated. This society has a very neat and comfortable house to worship in and are entiled to much credit for their enterprise in pushing it to a speedy conclusion.

Last Friday evening, the ladies of the Presbyterian church, held their social with Mrs. Keep. Each member had the privilege of inviting one guest, and each member also furnished something towards the supper. It was a very pleasant assemblage, and as for the supper, it would seem as if each lady had exerted herself to bring the best of everything she could think of, consequently it was not only abundant in quantity and excellent in quality, but an unusual variety, and evidently enjoyed by all.

Christmas eve, all the churches had some sort of entertainment for the Sunday schools. The Presbyterian, gave a treat to the children, and the teachers saw to it that their classes were prepared with recitations, songs, etc. The Methodists had a large house with snow on the roof, and lighted inside. This, I suppose, was Santa Claus' dwelling, since the Christmas boxes for the children were all brought out of it. The singing was excellent. The U. B's also had exercises by the children—music and gifts. Miss Mattie Maxson, who is organist, received from the members of the church and Sunday school, a very large and elegant plush dressing case, which was very highly appreciated, though altogether unexpected. The Evangelical church had a tree, loaded with gifts. We did not learn as to the exercises.

Guess this Conundrum.

What is the reason that a physician will not endorse a good thing when he knows as well as he knows anything that the article in question has been used for years and is a valuable remedy, but because it is a proprietary medicine they cry it down. There is not a prescription case in any drug store in all this broad land that does not hold this same article. There are few if any physicians who do not prescribe it. And yet when the same article is made and sold in larger packages, and the price is so much below a prescription that is where the shoe pinches. But there are physicians who are willing to indorse a good thing, as the following will show.

I have used quite extensively in my practice practice of late Loose's Extract of Red Clover for indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia and stomach troubles, with the very best results, and have found it worthy of all and more than is claimed for it. The only dissapointment to physicians is that it exceeds its recommendation.

F. H. KNAPP, M. D.,
Findlay, Ohio.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

AGENTS WANTED [illegible]

6 Per Cent.

MONEY

=

We have a limited amount of money to loan in sums of one thousand dollars and over, on farms in DeKalb county, at six per cent. per annum, interest payable at the end of the year.

Those who want to make a loan should make their application at once.

Call and see us and we will explain fully our plans of loaning.

After January first interest rate will advance. So do not delay, but call at once.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

REAL ESTATE,

AND

LOAN,

AGENTS.

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Senator Morrill is the patriarch of congress, being the oldest man in years, and the longest in service. He came to the house of representatives in 1855.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F. M. Shrout, pastor United Brethren church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my parishoners thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 26 lbs. in weight." Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, beats 'em all, and cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it." Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00. 3

Justice Brewer of the U. S supreme court wore a long beard when he first went to Washington, but now appears on the bench with a smooth face.

Specimen Cases.

S H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shephard, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucllen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O, had five large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucllen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely, Sold by Robbins & McCord 3

Galle d'Egout, the great French dancer, says that she follows inspiration while performing, and seldom takes exactly the same step twice.

A National Event.

The holding of the world's Fair in a city scarcely fifty years old will really benefit this nation as much as the discovery of the Restorative Nervine by Dr. Franklin Miles is doubtful. This is just what the American people need to cure their excessive nervousness, dyspepsia, headache, dizziness, sleeplessness neuralgia, nervous debility, dullness, confusion of mind, etc. It acts like a charm. Trial bottles and fine book an "Nervous and Heart Diseases," with unexualed testimonials, free at F. E. Davenport's. It is warranted to contain no opium, morphine or dangerous drugs. 4

It would be singular if enough of an Indian war could not be scared up to make an excuse for putting thirty or forty thousand new names on the pension rolls.

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. HELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

The salary of the Indian agent is but $1,500, and yet few positions have been more sought by those eager to lay up terrestrial treasurers.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

General Miles talks a great deal for a soldier. Is it possible he has a presidential bee in his bonnet? If so, mum's the word and the best one.

Remarkable Facts.

Heart disease is usually supposed to be incurable, but when properly treated a large proportion of cases can be cured. Thus Mrs. Elmira Hatch, of Elkhart, Ind., and Mrs. L Baker, of Ovid, Mich., were cured after suffering 20 years. S. C. Limburger, druggist at San Jose, Ill., says that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which caused the former, "worked wonders for his wife." Levi Logan, of Buchanan, Mich., who had heart disease for thirty years, says two bottles made him "feel like a new man.„ Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold and guarranteed by F. E. Davenport. Book of wonderful testimonials free. 4

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, wife of the Standard oil millionaire, is said to be one of the most modest and unpretentious of women.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

The costumes worn by Sara Bernhardt in "Cleopatra" are said to have thrown all Paris into ecstasies of delight.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

General Miles is a Boston man. So we guess the country is safe.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.

44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Dec. 26, 1890.

Senator Hoar did not, it is a safe thing to say, enjoy his Christmas dinner. He was too badly disgusted at his failure to get a vote upon the Force bill this week. He thought he was all right the other day when he offered a resolution proposing a recess until 8 'oclock in the evening and a continuous session of the Senate from that time until the bill was disposed of. But lo and behold when noses were counted there was no quorum present, and the point was quickly made by a democratic senator who had remained in the chamber for that very purpose, and most aggravating of all to Mr. Hoar was the fact that, in spite of all his coaxing and threatening, seventeen republican senators were among the absentees.

The republican mountain, after weeks of painful labor, has brought forth a mouse in the shape of a rule to cut off debate at the pleasure of the majority which has been reported to the Senate by Mr. Aldrich. But the democrats are not at all alarmed; on the contrary they are confident of their ability to defeat this proposed revolutionary overturning of the precedents of a century, and in any event fully determined that it shall not be done until every parliamentary expedient has been exhausted in the effort to prevent it.

Senator Vorhees made the speech of the week against the Force bill and his picture of Messrs Harrison, Quay, Dudley and Huston posing as the friends of honest elections while the rank corruption of the presidential election of 1888 was, with its "block-of-five," fresh in the minds of the American people, was as vigorous a bit of rhetoric as the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash" ever uttered. His denunciation of the attempt to colonize southern negroes in West Virginia and Indiana, which was fortunately exposed before it was consummated, was bitter, but not more so than it deserved. Senator Gray also did some vigorous talking in defense of the people of Delaware, whom Mr. Higgins, the accidental republican senator from that state, had grossly slandered in an effort to justify the passing of the Force bill.

If Mr. Harrison wished to select a gentleman entirely without a national reputation to succeed the late Justice Miller on the bench of the United States supreme court he certainly succeeded when he nominated Henry B. Brown, of Michigan, to the vacancy. Said a republican senator: "It was really amusing when the nomination was announced to see prominent senators going from one to the other in order to find out who this Mr. Brown is. The Michigan senators speak well of him, but I doubt if there are a dozen other Senators who ever heard of him before."

Representative Blanchard, of Louisiana, has offered a resolution in the House providing for a general Indian investigation. The same gentleman has offered a resolution instructing the House committee on banking and currency to report a bill to increase the amount of money in circulation to $50 per capita. He sets forth in a preamble the fact of its being impossible in many parts of the south to get an advance of even $10 a bale on cotton, owing to the scarcity of money.

The republicans of the Senate are getting their party into a nice snarl on the financial questions. The recent republican caucus approved a bill, in the hope of conciliating the free coinage republican senators, that providing for the issuing of treasury notes, based on purchases of silver bullion to make up the deficiency whenever the amount of national bank circulation fell below $180,000,000, but the finance committee to which the bill was referred when introduced, has cut out that section of the bill entirely and put in place of it one authoroizing the secretary of the treasury to issue $200,000,000 of 2 per cent bonds, and the amended bill has been reported back to the Senate by that strong and vigilant foe of silver, Senator Sherman. The silver men are mad as hornets and Senator Stewart has already offered a free coinage amendment to the bill, and overtures are being made to democrats to support it. What the democrats will do depends largely upon what action the republicans who favor free coinage take upon the force bill. Senator Stewart will do all he can to get them to oppose it.

The House will pretend to be doing business for the rest of Christmas week, but it had no quorum when it adjourned from Tuesday until to-day, and it is not probable that it will have again until after the first of the year. The Senate finding that it would be impossible to get a quorum present on Christmas day adjourned from Wednesday until Saturday. Senator Aldrich has promised to give 24 hours notice before calling up the cloture resolution, and as there will be a number of republican absentees during the rest of this month it may not be taken up before January.

Notice To Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 4, 1891, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the election of thirteen Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting.

J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Henning, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL SWIHART, Administrator.

December 28, 1890. 4

TWO VIEWS ON CROPS.

SECRETARY RUSK AND STATISTICIAN DODGE.

Sanguine Uncle Jerry Congratulates the Country—He Thinks Protection Has Dispelled the Agricultural Cloud—Statistician Dodge Reports Poor Crops.

In his second annual report Secretary Rusk congratulates the President "and the country at large upon the generally improved outlook in agricultural matters." He calls attention to agricultural depression in 1889 when the present administration went into power. But when he looks at the present condition of agriculture, Uncle Jerry imagines that he sees a vast improvement. He says: "The cloud which seemed to rest gloomily upon American agriculture has been lightened, while the wise, economic legislation already secured holds out still brighter promise for the future."

Uncle Jerry seems honestly to fancy that the "tin-whistle duties," as Butterworth called them, on wheat, corn, barley, eggs, etc., are really going to improve the condition of the farmers. He gives tables to show the increase in price of a number of agricultural products, which increase the old gentleman imagines to be the result largely of the higher duties on these articles.

But how the McKinley duty—or any duty, for that matter—on corn can raise the price of corn he does not undertake to show. As we imported only 1,636 bushels of corn for the fiscal year 1890, against 101,000,000 exported, it would tax the sanguine genius of even Uncle Jerry to show how the corn duty has helped our farmers or can help them.

About the same time the Secretary's report was issued another publication was sent forth from the Department of Agriculture. This was the statistician's "report on the yield of crops per acre." On the very first page of this report it is stated that the yield of corn per acre for the current year is the lowest ever reported, except the year 1881. The report also states that the yield per acre in 1889 was nearly one-half larger. Secretary Rusk is gratified at the improved outlook for agriculture, but our farmers will hesitate to accept his rosy anticipation, as they know very well that the higher prices of the present time are caused by short crops. No sensible farmer is willing to have higher prices at the expense of poor crops; he prefers rather large crops at low prices. The larger part of the corn grown by our farmers is consumed on the farm as food for man and beast. So far as this part of the corn crop is concerned, high prices avail nothing, and low production is disastrous. It is stated that many farmers in Illinois are actually buying corn at existing high prices to feed to their stock, so low was their yield.

Returning to the statistician's report, he says that the corn shortage this year is principally "in the corn-surplus States." That shortage is explained in detail in several pages of the report. Some of the causes of the failure of the crop are as follows: "Worms," "hot winds," "hail-storms in August," "mid-summer drought," "excessive rains," "frosts," and "all possible drawbacks." The farmers usually look upon all these things as evils to be deplored.

The report on the yield of potatoes is of a similar nature. The average yield is stated to be the lowest, with two exceptions, ever reported. The acreage was smaller than usual, and this fact, together with the failure of the crop, makes the supply per capita smaller than in any recent year." The statistician thinks that these facts "amply warrant the advance in prices now ruling in all markets." When our own crop is short there is usually a considerable importation of potatoes; but the statistician is of the opinion that the recent increase in the duty to 25 cents a bushel may check the large importation which our own scarcity would seem to make necessary. In other words, when our farmers have hardly any potatoes to sell, the duty comes into play to add greatly to the cost of the potatoes consumed by the poor in cities; but when our crop is abundant we supply our own market, and the duty then cannot possibly benefit our farmers. On the other hand, many of our farmers will be compelled to buy seed potatoes next spring with the McKinley duty added.

Fruit is an important product of many of our farmers. The statistician reports that "the season has been the worst for fruit that the department has ever reported." McKinley raised the duties on all kinds of fruit, but it is difficut to see how this will affect our farmers, except to increase the prices of the few lemons and oranges, nuts, raisins and prunes which they buy for their children.

The only crop that the statistician reports very favorably on is sugar, saying, "the crop will be a large one." But what do the farmers in general think of the McKinley bounty of 2 cents a pound on sugar. The larger the crop of sugar the greater the sum taken out of the treasury to pay the sugar growers for doing their own work. The prospect is that, with the introduction of the sugar beet, our sugar production will increase enormously in the next fifteen years, and in proportion as this sugar bounty grows in volume so much the more clearly will all other farmers be convinced of the injustice of the whole bounty system. Why should the grower of sugar have a bounty while the growers of wheat and corn and cotton are neglected? Is the grower of sugar a public benefactor in any higher sense than is the grower of other farm products?

The fact is that the high tariff makers are so accustomed to treating the farmer as the common burden-bearer of the entire country that when they do make a show of giving him some of the "benefits of protection" it is half humbug and pretense and half undisguised paternalism, for which there is no warrant in the Constitution.

Wages and Land.

In the United States there are 32.7 acres per head of the entire population, while in England, Germany, France, Italy, Holland and Belgium, the average is only 2.8 acres for each person. In Europe the number of people is so great that competition for employment is necessarily very sharp, and this reduces wages to the lowest possible figure. That is why there is a great stream of European laborers coming to our shores every year. Here there is more room, and a man can set up on a farm rather than work in a mill at starvation wages. For this reason the competition in the labor market is less severe with us than in Europe, and wages have not yet been forced down to so low a figure as the European level.

It is mainly on account of our 32.7 acres for each person that we have higher wages than Europe. Protection has nothing to do with the general average of wages with us. It is well known that the general average of wages in our protected industries is lower than in the non-protected industries.

A Case of McKinleyism.

Why the tariff is increasing prices may be seen from a case recently reported by the Boston Herald. This was an importation of table glassware of the medium kind which came the other day from Antwerp. The cost of this shipment was $1,775 in Antwerp. The duty on it under the old tariff law would have been $742.30; the duty as actually paid under the present law was $1,065, or an increase of $322.70 over the old duty.

This increase represents an advance of above 63 per cent. upon the old duty. A part of this McKinley duty is caused by the Administrative Customs Law which requires that the duty be calculated, not upon the goods alone, but upon the boxes, the straw, the packing, and all other expenses on the other side. In the case here described this additional duty amounted to $48.

And this glassware, be it remembered, was of the common kind and such as is bought by people in moderate circumstances. This is called "legislating for the American people."

TARIFF LETTERS TO FARMER BROWN.

NO. 11.

Can Protection Increase Wealth?

DEAR FARMER BROWN: You and I are familiar with the claim of the protectionists that protection increases the country's wealth. We look into their papers and we find reports of the vast increase of production in various industries. One will give us tables showing the growth of iron production—in 1885 we produced 4,044,000 tons of pig iron, in 1890 probably 9,000,000 tons. Others will run through the yearly reports of steel rail production, nail-making, barbed wire-making, plate and window glass, woolen and cotton goods industries—and everywhere they are able to point to growth, a growth which they claim in all cases as the result of protection.

In every case this claim rests upon that error in reasoning which is usually expressed in the Latin words, post hoc, ergo propter hoc (coming after this, therefore caused by this). The protectionist coolly assumes that since the country prospers under protection, therefore protection is the cause of such prosperity. If you should raise a good crop notwithstanding the drouth, you would not be so simple as to say that the drouth caused your good crop. On the contrary, you are sure you would have had a still better crop if rain had come as you needed it.

Imagine a steamboat beating its way down from Chicago to the northern end of Lake Michigan in the face of a fierce wind. The vessel certainly makes speed, but if a certain passenger should claim that the speed was caused by this north wind, he would be laughed at as a fool, every intelligent passenger knowing that the vessel was only retarded in its course by the wind. If the passenger should point to the receding fields and groves on the shore to prove that the vessel was going forward, and should still insist the progress was due to the north wind, the passengers would think either that he was crazy, or else that he was some belated Rip Van Winkle who fell asleep in the last century, before the day of steam, and who cannot now take account of anything else than the wind as a propelling force for ships. In the same way the country goes forward, not by reason of protection, but despite protection. As the vessel has within it a force which is able to overcome the external hinderance of wind, so the country has in it native forces of brain and muscle, inventive genius and skill of hand, Nature's rich resources and man's courage and industry, which are able to force the industrial ship of state forward in its course, notwithstanding the contrary wind of protection.

When the protectionists try to establish their claim that protection enriches the country, they always examine the matter from the standpoint of the producer, the consumer being rarely taken account of. If they can show, as they doubtless can in many instances, that the profits of an industry are caused by the protective duty, they at once conclude that protection is a wealth-producing factor in the nation's life. Some of them, however, do take account of the consumer, if only to show that although protection may make him pay more for his goods, still the money he pays for them remains in the country, and therefore the country is none the poorer for his loss.

But the true standpoint from which to estimate the cost of a given product to the country is the standpoint of the consumer. The total cost to all consumers is the measure of cost to the country. If the product in question is put down to the consumers of it at a higher price by the domestic manufacturer than it would be if that product was imported, is it not clear that we are buying at home at a loss, and that loss precisely equal to the difference of price between the domestic article and the similiar foreign article? For why do we labor? Is it for the sake of toil itself? Do we not rather labor for the sake of the things which labor produces, for what we call goods? But if goods can be had with less labor by an exchange with a foreign people do we not impose unnecessary labor upon ourselves when we undertake to make those goods ourselves?

Where a people are let alone by the tariff maker they naturally take to those employments which pay best, or, in other words, in which their labor is most productive. If however, the tariff maker comes along and decides that people must produce goods which they have not yet undertaken to produce, is it not clear that people must be taken away from profitable employment and put to doing what is relatively less profitable?

We do not make tin plates. Why not? Because our people find that they can make more money by doing other things. The present high McKinley duty on tin plates will doubtless cause some of our people to undertake the manufacture of them, and it may be done, too, at a profit, but this profit will be possible only by reason of the higher price caused by the duty of 2 2-10 cents a pound. The makers of tin plates may grow rich, they may give employment to several thousand laborers, and protectionists will then point to the wealthy capitalists in this business, and to the homes of the laborers engaged in it, and tell us that this is an example of wealth created by protection. But I deny beforehand that it wil be anything of the kind—deny it emphatically. The effect pointed to will be only a new distribution of old wealth. A few cents will be collected from each household which uses tinware, from each housewife who buys canned fruits and vegetables, a few dollars from each man who puts a tin roof on his house, and all these small contributions will flow together and reappear in the form of tin-plate mills and houses for tin-plate makers. Wealth has not been created; it has been scattered, and has been gathered up again by others. When the creek washes away your pumpkins your labor is lost, and you have no pumpkins; it is very little comfort to you to be told that your pumpkins lodged ten miles down the creek and that a brother farmer's pigs are five pounds fatter than they were before the freshet.

Let me call your attention to an actual case. The plate-glass industry of this country, consisting of nine or ten factories, is said to produce 25,000,000 feet of glass every year. Some years ago the price of plate glass was $1.50 per square foot; but it averages now somewhat above 75 cents a foot. Both the industry itself and the reduction of the price are claimed by the protectionists as bright and shining examples to prove the wisdom of the present high tariff system.

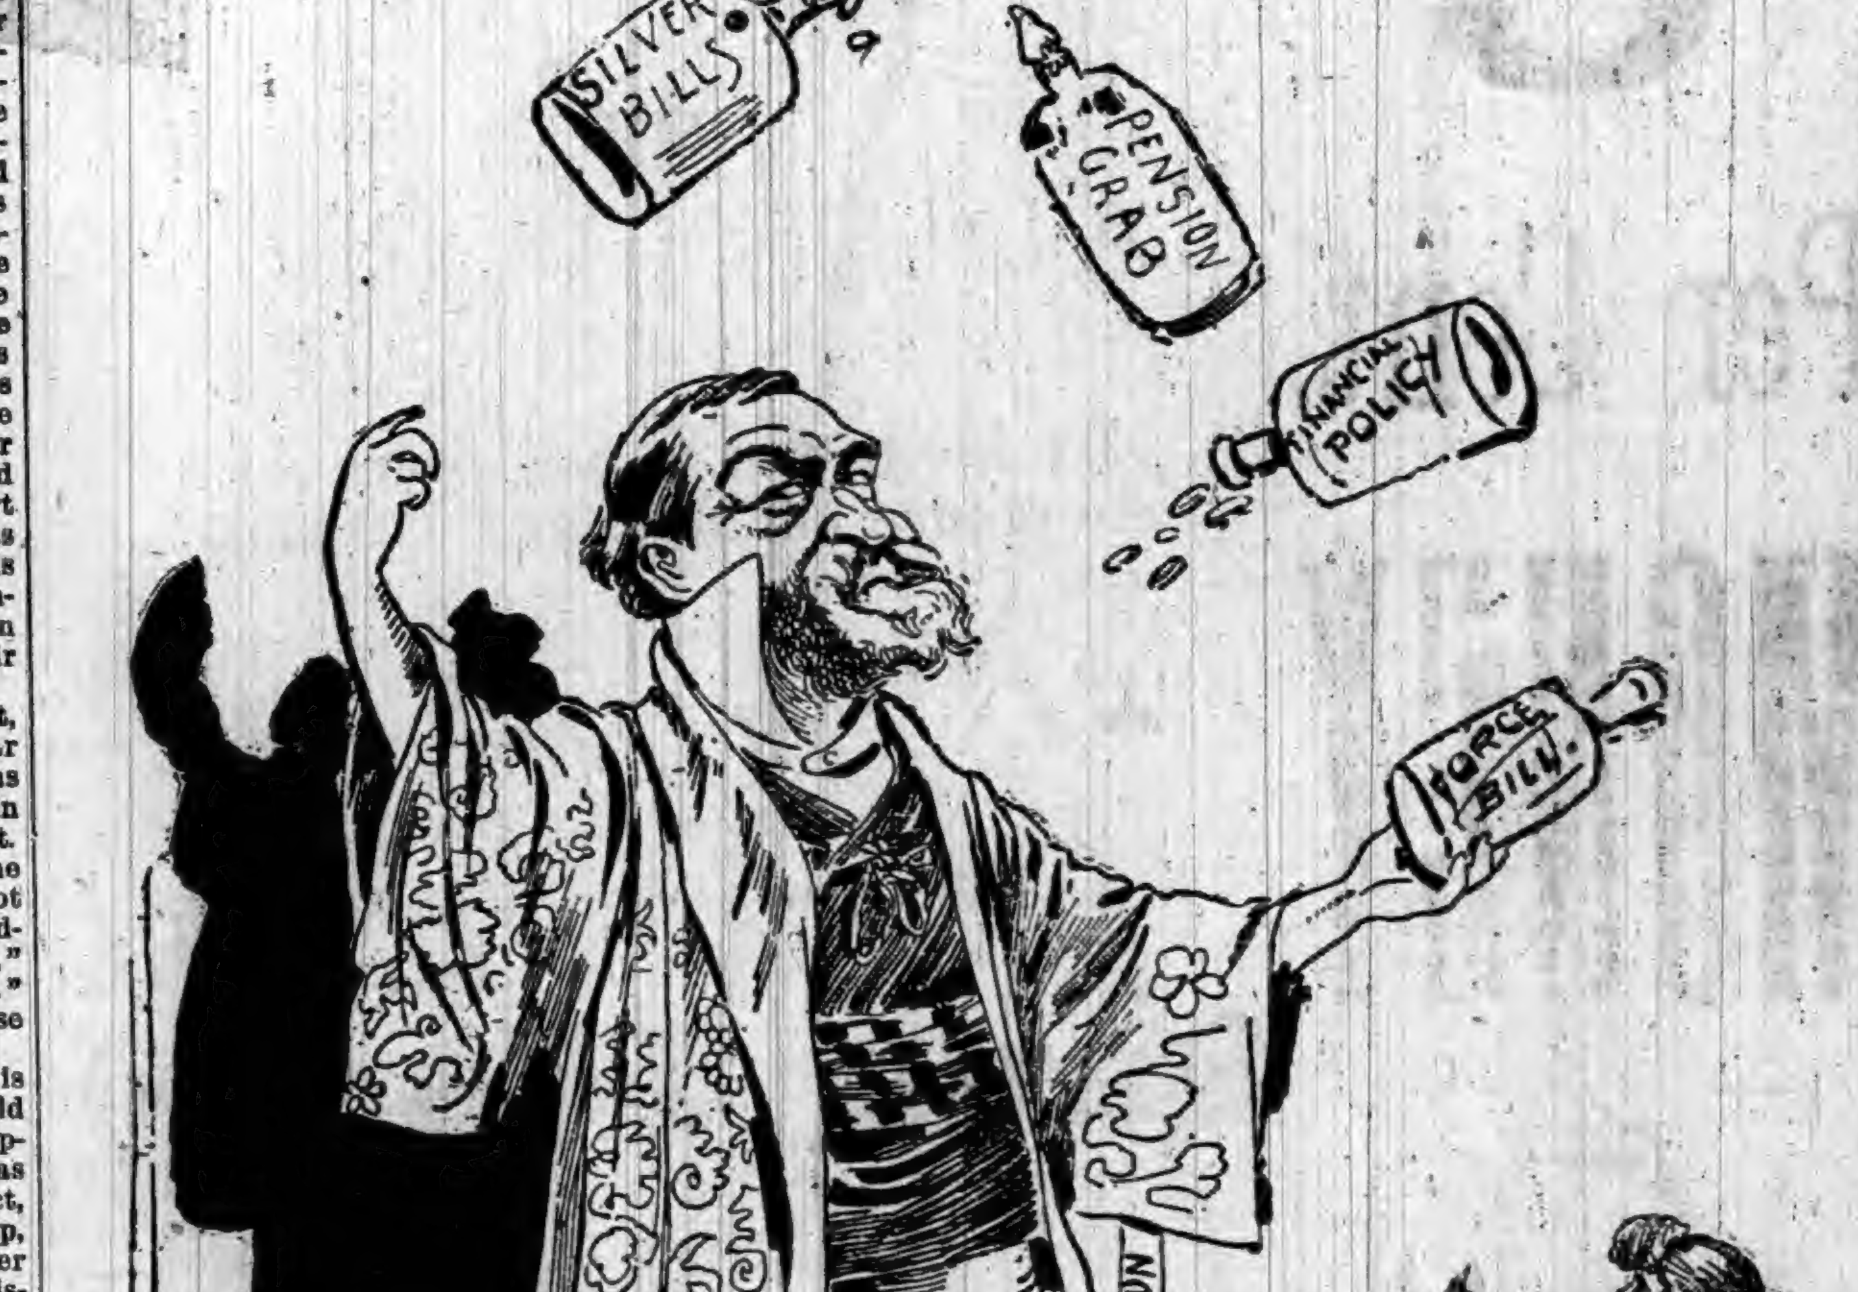
But let us figure on the problem a little. Our home market plate glass, 25,000,000 feet at 75 cents a foot, costs our people $18,750,000. The duty on plate glass is almost prohibitory; but the small quantity which came in in 1889 was entered at the custom houses, according to the Treasury reports, at 32 4-10 cents. If we had bought our 25,000,000 feet of glass in Europe at this price the total cost would have been $8,100,000, or a saving to the consumers of $10,650,000 in a single year. Now this vast sum is a clean loss to the buyers of plate glass. Mr. Blaine says that "protection is a great distributor of wealth." Of course it is. Here is distributed $10,650,000 in one year. But protection is also a collector of wealth; the principal plate glass concern in this country cleared last year 34¾ per cent. on its capital.

The meat of the whole question lies in this case, and the question is, Does it pay to spend ten million a year in order to have its nine or ten plate glass factories? Is not the country poorer by just the amount of $10,650,000 by reason of manufacturing its own plate glass? Would you conduct your business on such principles? Would you insist that it would be true economy to make your own farm wagon, costing you two weeks of labor, when you might buy one with one week of labor put upon your wheat fields? Would you think you had saved anything by having found a new way in which to employ yourself?

But this one case is enough; it contains all the elements of the question, "Can protection increase wealth?" What is true of plate glass will be found true of every other protected industry in which the duty is really protective. From one you can judge all. This is a typical case, and one of the greatest standbys of the protectionists. If plate glass is produced at a loss to the country, you may conclude that the whole system of protection is a dead weight upon our progress—not a producer but a destroyer of wealth. Yours truly,

RICHARD KNOX.

BENNY, THE JUGGLER.



Uncle Sam and Columbia—Wonder how long 'twill be before they are all smashed?—Chicago Times.

The Working Women of New York.

The statement is made by Mr. Rus, in a recently published work, that there are about 150,000 honest women in New York City who, by working fifteen hours or more a day, can earn barely 60 cents daily. This figure seems very low, indeed, when it is remembered that the expense of living in a city like New York is much higher than in smaller towns and in country districts. Sixty cents a day in New York means hardly as much as 30 cents in any small country town.

What renders the plight of these poor, hard-working women of New York still more pitiable is the fact that the money which they do earn is by the McKinley tariff law made less effective in buying the necessaries of life than it was before. Duties have been wantonly increased on many articles of prime necessity to them, and they are even told that these McKinley duties are in the interests of the laboring people. This year the potato crop of this country is a partial failure, large supplies must be brought in from Canada at an extra McKinley tariff cost of 25 cents a bushel, and to poor women in the sad situation just described 25 cents on a single bushel of potatoes is no small matter. True, McKinley imposes this duty on potatoes upon the pretense of helping our farmers; but it is an insult to our farmers to claim that they need a duty which lays such burdens upon the poor of the cities.

The most burdensome provision of the McKinley law upon these women, however, is the tax on all kinds of clothing and of cloth from which to make it. What is still more cruel is the fact that the very heaviest duties are in nearly every case imposed on the cheapest grades of cloth, whether woolen, cotton, or linen.

What the women of the slums of New York, the hundred and fifty thousand who labor day and night to keep soul and body together on sixty cents a day, or in many cases on half that amount, would be likely to think of that policy of protection which, for the sake of "infant industries," which are in many cases already the strongest in the world, keeps their wages down and the price of necessities of life up, is not perhaps of much matter. They are not educated in the consideration of great questions of economics, and if they were they have no time to think of anything. If they had, they might conclude that it was, on the whole, best to kill themselves. The question is, however, what do the men and women who are living in comfort think of it? Can they feel that so long as they aid in the support of the monstrosity called protection, that Frankenstein, which threatens the very life of the Republic, they are free of blood guiltiness concerning these poor creatures working and suffering in the slums?

For a Cold Day.

The old and the new duties on all wearing apparel of wool, wholly or in part, are as follows:

	Old rate.	New rate.
Value not over 30c. per lb....	33c. per lb. and 40 per cent....	49½c. per lb. and 60 per cent.
Value 30c. and not over 40c..	38½c. per lb. and 40 per cent....	49½c. per lb. and 60 per cent.
Value 40c. and over..........	44c. per lb. and 50 per cent....	49½c. per lb. and 60 per cent.

AT Birmingham, England, a "penny-in-the-slot" machine has been devised for small consumers of gas. A penny put into the slot gives twenty-five feet of gas, or at the rate of 80 cents a thousand. The gas company thus are sure of their pay, and the consumer buys what he wishes from day to day.

SOMEBODY has invented an automaton that plays the piano with expression and brilliancy. If an automaton can play the piano with expression and brilliancy, the girl next door who plays the piano is certainly not an automaton.

INTO the grave of twilight
The red gleam fades away,
And the westering clouds grow somber
With love of the dying day.

JOHNNY—I wonder why I can't make my kite fly? Elder sister—Perhaps the caudal appendage is disproportionate to the superficial area. Johnny—I don't think that's it. I believe there isn't weight enough on the tail.

END OF A FAMILY ROW.

CARL REHER TRIES TO MURDER HIS ENTIRE FAMILY.

He Succeeds in Killing His Wife, Fatally Wounding His Son, and Badly Injuring His Daughter, After Which He Hangs Himself, and Before He Strangles to Death Succeeds in Shooting Himself Through the Head.

[Fergus Fall (Minn.) dispatch.]

The chapter of horrors which has marked the closing year in Minnesota is not yet complete, and the tragedy which took place a few miles southwest of Carlisle, Wilkin County, in some respects caps all others of recent date in its horror and utter brutality. Yesterday the family of Carl Reher consisted of six persons. To-day the father and mother are dead, the son is hovering on the edge of the grave, and one daughter is dangerously wounded. Carl Reher was a German aged nearly 60, who lived in a cabin on "the flats," as they are called, in Wilkin County, about twelve miles from this city. His family consisted of his wife, aged 49; his son Henry, 25; and three daughters, aged 22, 16, and 14. Reher was a taciturn, moody man, who was held in much fear by his neighbors as a person of unbridled passions and dangerous disposition. His son Henry has served a term in the penitentiary for horse-stealing and was known as a hard character. Of the women of the family perhaps the less said the better.

For the last three years there have been bitter family quarrels which often resulted in violence. Against any outside interference, however, the family always united as one person, as in the case of the arrest of Henry Reher for horse-stealing, when the others did all they could to shield him from the law. A few weeks ago, after an unusually violent family broil, Carl Reher quit the house and went to Elizabeth, a German village eight miles from here, where he opened a shoe shop, and has since worked steadily until last night. Saturday night he got a ride with a neighbor and went home. The rest of the horrible story of last night's crime was learned from the lips of his dying wife and his daughters.

Reher entered his home on the flats at about 9 o'clock in the evening. All the members of the family were there, and jumped up in surprise at the unexpected appearance. He walked to the table with apparent unconcern, and laid down several small bags of candy and a large bottle of whisky. "These are Christmas presents for you, and I have got some more," he said, and stepped into a lean-to at the back of the house, used for a woodshed, and a moment later reappeared at the door with a self-cocking revolver in each hand. These he leveled and began firing. The first bullet was fired at his son, but missed its mark. The young man staggered back, and threw up his arms to protect himself. The second and third bullets struck him in the arm, which was shockingly mangled. The fourth bullet was aimed at his oldest daughter and entered her shoulder. The lamp was extinguished by the fifth shot, which entered the body of Mrs. Reher. By this time the whole family was in a frenzied state, and all made a rush for the door.

Reher dropped his revolvers and drew a huge carving-knife. As Henry Reher reached the door his father plunged the knife into his son's back, penetrating deep into the lungs. In spite of this ghastly wound the young man mounted his horse and rode two miles to the house of Henry Schomann, the nearest neighbor, who at once went to Carlisle and telegraphed this city and Wahpeton for surgeons.

The three daughters got safely out of the house and scattered to hide themselves in a haymow and outbuildings. Mrs. Reher was left alone in the house with the butcher. He attacked her fiercely with the carving-knife and stabbed her again and again. She fell, apparently dead, and he went to find his daughters and finish his work. He did not succeed and returned to the house. His wife was gone. The youngest daughter, who watched the scene from the haymow, describes what next occurred. Her father appeared at the door with his dripping knife still in hand. The moonlight lit up the landscape brilliantly, and he saw his wife crawling painfully on her hands and knees fifty yards away. He ran to her and again fell upon her with fiendish ferocity and plunged his knife again and again in her prostrate body. Then he returned to the house. Half an hour later several neighbors, well armed, arrived. The three daughters were still in hiding.

They had heard a single pistol shot, but no other sound. The neighbors entered the house and found Reher stone dead with a bullet in his brain and a rope around his neck. He had thrown the rope over a beam and put the noose around his neck, and as the noose tightened he had blown out his brains. He lay there with his own blood mingling in a pool with that of his wife and son.

Mrs. Reher also lay on the floor. She had crawled back into the house and lay almost by the side of her dead husband. She had only strength to tell the story of the awful tragedy, and then died. Her body and limbs were hacked full of holes, any one of half a dozen of which would have been fatal. Dr. Thomas N. McLean, of this city, arrived three hours later, and shortly afterward Dr. Triplett of Wahpeton, and dressed the wounds of Henry Reher and his sister. The former had lost a great quantity of blood and his injures are so severe it is thought he cannot survive. The girl will probably recover, though her wound is dangerous. Everything in and about the cabin was soaked with blood and the scene was one of the most ghastly that could be imagined.

Except the frequent quarrels in the family there was no known cause for Reher's action. He was not a heavy drinker and according to the neighbors with whom he rode home he was perfectly sober the night of the tradegy. That the deed was premeditated is shown by the fact that he brought with him from Elizabeth three revolvers, all fully loaded, and the rope which he used to hang himself with was entirely new, bought only the day before in Elizabeth.

Items of Interest.

ROCHEFORT'S list of duels up to date numbers twenty-three, in seven of which he was wounded.

RIDER HAGGARD, who is digging after Aztec treasures in Mexico, is reported to have made some rich finds.

SENATOR Moody, of South Dakota, is preparing a book on the Indian question, with special reference to the messiah craze.

SITTING BULL'S language was a compound of pure Sioux and mongrel English, in which a number of French words were mixed. The latter had been picked up from the post-traders.

MISS FLORENCE WINDOM, the daughter of the Secretary, is more than an amateur artist. She has been studying in Boston for some time, and has done work which critical judges have pronounced more than ordinary.

SENATOR STEWART is said to be a man of nerve in a game of poker. It is related of him that in the crash of 1873, when financial ruin stared him in the face, he staked and lost a mortgage of $75,000 on a single hand at poker. The mortgage was on his house, known as "Stewart Castle," and now occupied by the Chinese Legation.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.
My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.
MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.
JOHN T. MISH.
State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me, and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contamination and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely; that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

Forestalling Him.

"Hello, Shadbolt! Fine day, isn't it? Speaking of the weather, by the way ——"

"Yes, I know, Dinguss. Speaking of the weather, Old Probs says there is going to be a change, and speaking of a change reminds you that you came away from home this morning and left your pocketbook in your other clothes. So did I, Dinguss; so did I. It won't work this time. Good morning, Dinguss."

If every woman knew for herself the actual quality of Dobbins' Electric Soap, no other washing soap could be sold. Millions do use it, but other millions have never tried it. Have you? Ask your grocer for it.

Doing His Best.

First Anarchist—Ah, them doods calls theirselves our superiors. Some day we will trample on our superiors, though.

Second Anarchist—Yes; and just now I am walking on my uppers.

St. Jacobs Oil
The Great
IS THE BEST REMEDY FOR PAIN

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

Tutt's Hair Dye

Gray hair or whiskers changed to a glossy black by a single application of this Dye. It imparts a natural color, acts instantaneously and contains nothing injurious to the hair. Sold by all druggists, or sent by express on receipt of price, $1.00. Office, 39 & 41 Park Place, New York.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co. CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

ALL THE STATE NEWS

IS GIVEN BELOW IN THESE TWO COLUMNS.

Death Preferable to Eviction—Burned to Death—A Watermelon Story—Accidental Shooting—Badly Mangled—New Factory for Jeffersonville—A Goshen Gourmand.

—Elwood talks of annexing Alexandria.

—There are seventy-seven coal mines in Indiana.

—Logansport's supply of natural gas is all right.

—Columbus is getting ready to manufacture ice.

—Union City will have incandescent light by Feb. 1.

—Arthur Sturgeon was sandbaged and robbed at Logansport.

—Levi Beal, near Shideler, lost his house and contents by fire.

—Richmond is working hard to secure a new Government Building.

—Eighty head of Brown County cattle have died lately of an unknown disease.

—Frank Smith lost a leg at Noblesville by attempting to board a moving train.

—They've got lots of sand in Michigan City; have shipped over 1,000,000 tons this year.

—M. K. Donaldson was knocked down, beaten and robbed by footpads at Fort Wayne.

—Jesse Austin, of Frankfort, a brakeman on the Cloverleaf road, was crushed to death by cars.

—Morgan County is to have a workhouse.

—Marion citizens are pondering over measures to prevent the squandering of their natural gas.

—Rochester claims to be the "healthiest, neatest and most business-like little city in the State."

—Charles Bauer, proprietor of the Terre Haute House, was seriously injured in a runaway.

—A new Christian Church at Martz, was freed from debt and dedicated by Rev. L. L. Carpenter.

—Oliver Worle, of Loree, Miami County, was sandbagged and robbed of about $25 and his watch.

—Otis Hughes, of English, while drunk, fell off a bridge seventy-five feet and was practically unhurt.

—The Western Indiana Poultry Association will hold its annual poultry show in Lebanon, January 5 to 10.

—The present electric-light company at Crawfordsville will sell the plant to the city upon favorable terms.

—David Adkinson attempted suicide with strychnine, at Marion, and may die. Domestic trouble was the cause.

—The City House and Holland Hotel were destroyed by fire at Milltown, Crawford County. Loss, $3,000.

—Evansville Journal says several society ladies are on the grand jury's list, there, for gambling. Do tell!

—Capt. Ed Howard, of Jeffersonville, is putting in a steel ship-building plant, which will employ 200 skilled men.

—J. Brevort, an eccentric Columbus farmer, died recently and left his fortune of $7,000 to the Butler University.

—Sullivan County Commissioners will work their jail prisoners on a stone pile, in a yard enclosed with high fence.

—Mrs. Dado Ballard's Mooresville heirs are contesting her will. She left $10,000 in a shape they do not like.

—Jackson and Scott County farmers are losing their horses from a disease similar to distemper, but more fatal.

—Watson Boslic's country residence near Columbus, was destroyed by fire. Family barely escaped with their lives.

—George H. Hopkins, of Clay Township, Carroll County, swallowed arsenic for quinine and is not expected to live.

—The Wabash Railroad Company has paid to Mrs. Freeling Fetters $2,000. Her husband was killed while coupling cars.

—The first seal ever used by the Kosciusko County Commissioners was the reverse side of a silver ten-cent piece.

—Mrs. Tresse, aged 80, was burned to death by the overturning of a lamp, at the home of her son, in Tippecanoe County.

—A man at Crawfordsville, claims that he has a hen that lays two eggs per day, one in the morning and one in the evening.

—Indiana has a larger amount of water that is inhabited by the better class of indigenous fish than any State in the Union.

—A man was detected in Fort Wayne stealing a pair of shoes. In just forty-five minutes after he was serving a sentence in jail.

—Martin Baur, engineer in Lutz's stave factory, at Wabash, was badly mangled by the breaking of the fly-wheel of his engine.

—William Sherwin, a prominent young merchant of Point Isabel, Grant County, was kicked by a vicious horse and fatally injured.

—A company has been organized to boom Jonesboro, after the style of Elwood, having secured options on about 1,600 acres of land.

—John Walton, Coatesville, has been indicted for forgery. He paid Mrs. Bynum's taxes for her and is accused of raising the receipts.

—George Flemming, driving a bread-wagon at Marion, was thrown under the heels of the horses by the breaking of the king-bolt. The frightened horses kicked him a number of times, injuring him, it is feared, beyond recovery.

—P. N. Applegate, reputable Alaska citizen, says he planted watermelon seed around an old straw stack May 10 last. On Aug. 15 he ate ripe melons, and has been eating them off these vines ever since. Will have enough to last him 'til 1891.

—The sudden insanity and death of Miss Bertha Park, Columbus school teacher, has at last been explained. One morning she found on her school-room blackboard lines written saying that her father was guilty of the murder of his parents and other relatives, twenty years ago, a tragedy known as the Park massacre, and for which three negroes were lynched at the time. The accusation against her father preyed on the poor girl's mind continually and in a few days it gave way and she died. Every effort is being made to find the coward who wrote these words.

—Columbus Sheriff would not allow James Campbell, prisoner, to attend the funeral of his child. Campbell offered to go bound hand and foot.

—A flat-car loaded with stone was overturned on the White River bridge, Spencer, Monday. Wm. Gaskins, and Robert Boyd, were seriously injured.

—During a fight in a saloon at Loogootee Nich O'Brien, a young man, was shot and killed instantly. The murderer is unknown and yet at large.

—Farmer Thompson hitched his horse in Vincennes close to the railroad. A train came along and scared the animal so badly that it dropped dead.

—A company has been organized in Crawfordsville, to manufacture pottery from the fine clay discovered on Hence Coleman's farm, near the city.

—Mrs. Eliza Myers, 36, suicided in Seymour, by taking rough on rats. Had been abandoned by her husband and didn't care to buffet along alone.

—A laborer at the Bonney vise-works, at Marion, had an arm torn from the socket and otherwise seriously injured by being caught in the machinery.

—Timothy Hogan, Fort Branch, sued John Skipp for $10,000, claiming he had skipped with his wife's affections. Skipp paid him $3,000 and that settled it.

—"Bee" Eubanks got a life sentence at Bedford for murdering his sister last November. His father was his accomplice, and will probably get a like sentence.

—Hog cholera in the form of an epidemic; has struck Daviess County, and hundreds of porkers are dying. Farmers are much alarmed and fear to kill for meat.

—John Siberry has been convicted, in the Bluffton Circuit Court, of killing his wife, and sentenced to fifteen years in prison. Siberry claimed that the shooting was accidental.

—One hundred dollars of the $360 stolen from T. C. Courtney at Waynetown, last week, has been found in his yard, where the thief had dropped it in leaving the house.

—Rev. Dr. Alman Virgil, a well-known Baptist minister, died at Fort Wayne, aged 92 years. Death resulted from injuries received in a fall several days before. He was widely known.

—E. H. Noyes, station agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Coburg, was struck by a passenger train and killed. He was well known, and formerly a leading citizen of Michigan City.

—Rev. Petit, in Crawfordsville jail, attacked a fellow prisoner, and beat him most unmercifully; other prisoners had to separate them. Pettit caught him trying to steal his private correspondence.

—Mr. James McGregor, one of Terre Haute's substantial citizens, and who was largely interested in Cincinnati suburban real estate, was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting.

—Conrad Keller was found dead in the woods, near Huntingburg, skull crushed with a gun stock lying near him. Jas. Cane, known to have had trouble with him, was arrested on suspicion.

—Rev. James Campbell has been convicted at Columbus of criminal malpractice, with a penalty of three years' imprisonment. Miss Anna Huntsman, one of his parishoners, was the prosecuting witness.

—Poor old Mrs. Johann O'Dally, knowing she was going to be evicted from her house at Lafayette, mortgage on which had been foreclosed, took a dose of arsenic and the sheriff found her dead in bed.

—Rev. Milton Lee, Danville, received a "White Cap" letter some time ago, telling him if he didn't treat his family better he'd meet a dire fate. He worried so over it that his mind gave way and he became violently insane.

—The vote in the Methodist churches in the Northwest Indiana Conference upon the question of admitting women to the General Conference shows that out of a membership of 31,092 only 5,400 votes were cast. Of the votes cast 4,037 favored the proposition, and 1,363 were opposed, thus making a majority of 2,674 in favor of the question.

—John Brewer, almost a centenarian and one of the first settlers of Greenwood, fell and broke his leg, from the effects of which he is expected to die. Mr. Brewer assisted in founding the Presbyterian Church, sixty-seven years ago, and has, since that time, been a faithful officer and devout worshipper. He is well-known in the Presbyterian Church and as an old settler.

—Three brothers named Demoss went 'coon-hunting near Ewington. On their return home, two of them, Newton and Edward, were behind their brother. The one had reached home when he heard the report of a gun and loud hallooing. Returning he found that Edward had accidentally shot Newton through the groin, severing the femoral artery. The loss of blood was so great that he died.

—Recently the Montgomery County Commissioners passed an order that every application for a liquor license must be accompanied with a check for the license fee, $100, and in case a license was not granted the check would be returned. One applicant would not inclose the check and the board refused to grant a license. An appeal was taken to the Circuit Court, where the judge granted the license, overruling the order of the board in regard to the checks.

—Julius Ghoul, Goshen gourmand, has finished his feat of eating fifty oysters at a sitting every day for two weeks. He won't want any more this winter, thanks.

—At a depth of 225 feet, Paoli has secured a strong flow of sulphur water, equal to anything at the famous French Lick or West Baden springs. The water is now flowing out several inches above the casing. When the fresh water is cased out, the sulphur is expected to be not less efficacious than the renowned Pluto.

—Over a year ago the 7-year-old daughter of John Faulkner, or Brazil, swallowed a two-inch needle. The child suffered no pain and nothing was thought of the occurrence. The other day it was extracted from her ankle.

—Henry Sellers, of Andrews, started with a revolver to hunt Fred Swartz. Swartz saw him passing around the house and went to the door with a shotgun. Sellers started to run and Swartz fired. The charge of shot struck Sellers in the face and mangled him terribly. Swartz was arrested to await the result of Seller's injuries.

Popped to the Wrong Twin.

A well-known young blacksmith of East Bridgeport, Ct., is somewhat saddened over a very unfortunate mistake which he made one evening. The young man in question had recently fallen in love with a fair East Bridgeport maiden. The young lady has a twin sister who resembles her so much that it is at times very hard to distinguish one from the other. The young man called at the house of his sweetheart for the purpose of whispering love's message to the maiden fair. It happened, however, that she was out and the young man was met at the door by the twin sister, who received him cordially, and expected to entertain him until her sister's return. The young man, however, supposed that the young lady who received him was the one he adored. He, therefore, broached the subject of his love to her, and implored her to accept him as her affianced husband. The young lady had hardly time to reply when her sister entered the room. The young man was then informed that before him stood his true love, and the young lady whom he had just asked to accept him was her sister. He was completely upset by this explanation, and earnestly begged the sister's pardon, which was quickly granted. Things were then put to rights and the sister retired, leaving the young man happy with his own and rightful sweet-heart.

French Thrift.

The thrift of the French people is indicated in its accumulated savings, which are intrusted to the savings banks of the country. According to a document prepared by the head of the Statistical Bureau in the Department of Finance, there are recorded in the savings banks and postal banks 6,500,000 depositors, representing 2,800,000,000 francs, or say, $518,000,000. As gratifying as this exhibition must be to all, in or out of France, who believe in making man the cause of his own elevation, without recourse to Government ownership of land or Government suppression of competition, the officer points out that the figures would be much larger were it not for that foe to thrift, the drinking-shop. He declares that a war to the knife is waged in every French town and village between the savings banks and the rum-shop. In certain communities of Brittany the establishment of savings banks has been temporarily abandoned, so determined is the hostility on the other side. The annual outlay on spirits and absinthe amounts to $500,000,000, that on tobacco to nearly as large a sum.—Boston Transcript.

Watching the Clock.

As the Christian Union says, there is a deal of common sense in this story lately told of Edison, whether he said it or not. A gentleman went to the great electrician with his young son, who was about to begin work as an office boy in a well known business house. The father asked Edison for a motto, which the boy might take to heart in his struggle for promotion and success. After a moment's pause, Edison said, laconically, "Never look at the clock!"

Edison meant, we take it, that the man who is constantly afraid he is going to work over time or over hours, doesn't stand a chance of competing with the man who clears up his desk, no matter how long it takes. The carpenter who drops his hammer, uplifted above his head, when the whistle blows, is likely to remain a second-class workman all his life. The carpenter who stays fifteen minutes to finish a job is working toward a shop of his own.

Persian Slave Stealing.

The supply of Persian slaves, male and female, has been much diminished by the subjection of the Turcomans of Russia. Formerly the raids into Persia, and especially the garden Province of Khorassan, were as regular as seasons, and every year saw hundreds of that peace-loving race borne away to serve as the tools and toys of the Mussulmans, the Persians not being regarded as orthodox followers of the prophet by the remainder of the Mohammedan world. Persian slaves were for sale in every Moslem mart, from Mecca to Salonica, and they brought, as a rule, good prices; their comparative docility making up for any physical inferiority to the races of closer European affinity. The Persian villagers near the borders looked upon these annual raids much as the people in mythology who had to supply a victim every year for the dragon—as a matter of course.—Washington Post.

Uses for Old Kid Gloves.

By no means throw away old kid gloves. Cut off the hands, and save the long suede arms of your soiled, worn ball gloves. You can put the breadths left from such gloves to many uses. Use them for polishing silver mirrors, cut glass and jewels. Sew two of the long pieces into irregularly shaped bags for carrying the pieces of your silver toilet set when traveling. It preserves the silver from scratching and tarnishing, says the Illustrated American. Out of old tan or gray gloves you can make charming bags for carrying your opera glasses in. Cut the kid in the same pattern as is used for these silk and velvet bags, line it with China silk, and trace in pen and in water colors, or silk, your initials on the outside.

A Livelier Tune.

Domine Campbell was one day watching a carpenter do some repairs in his house. The carpenter whistled "Maggie Lauder," as he labored and worked in time to the tune.

"Sounders," said the domine presently, "can you not whustle a more solemn and godly tune while ye're at work?"

"Ay, weel, minister, if it be your will." And he immediately changed the tune to the "Dead March in Saul," still planing in tune to the music.

The worthy domine looked on for some minutes in silence, and then said:

"Saunders, I hae another word to say till yea. Did the guid wife hire yer by the day's work or by the job?"

"The day's work was our agreein', minister."

"Then on the whole, Saunders, I think ye may jist as weel gae back again to whustling 'Maggie Lauder.'"

Malaria

Is believed to be caused by poisonous miasma arising from low, marshy land, or from decaying vegetable matter, and which, breathed into the lungs, enter and poison the blood. If a healthy condition of the blood is maintained by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, one is much less liable to malaria, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many severe cases of this distressing affection even in the advanced stages when the terrible chills and fever prevailed. Try it.

And if you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any substitute.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Not That Sort of Tree.

A well-known newspaper man of Washington, whose custom it is to take long walks in the country, was out last Sunday. As he passed an orchard he noticed all the trees but one fairly filled with apples.

"That's strange," he remarked to his companion.

"What's the reason, do you imagine?" asked the other.

"Here comes a boy. I'll ask him," and the journalist tackled the boy.

"Fine apples you have for an off-year," he said, with an air of freedom and acquaintance with the facts.

"Kinder," replied the boy.

"Where do you sell them mostly?"

"Mostly don't sell 'em. Make cider."

"Ah, are they cider apples?"

"Course; couldn't make cider if they wasn't."

"Very true. By the way, my boy, I notice one tree over there by the fence hasn't an apple on it. Do you know why that is?"

"I reckon."

"Well, my friend here and I am a little curious and would like to have you tell us, if you will."

"Certainly. It's 'cause it's a plum tree, mostly."

The man with inquiring mind hung his kodak over his shoulder and went on.

Towers the Mania in New Jersey.

A very queer mania for towers has broken out on the Jersey seashore. Six houses in ten now have little towers added to them and the remaining houses seem to be preparing for alteration in the same way. The reason for this seems to be that a frail, small house will bring $1,000 more in the market or $200 more for a season's rental if it has a tower. But the oddest tower on the coast is a cylinder of brick that Mayor Fitler, of Philadelphia, has added to his property. It is of red brick and of feudal pattern and stands twenty feet from the big wooden house. The thousands who ride by it every day in the cars wonder what it is for, but no one has found out.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Boy-Preacher and Convert.

Mr. Harrison then asked some half dozen young men around the altar when they were converted, and they gave dates of various meetings. Pointing to an elderly-looking man, Mr. Harrison said:

"When were you converted?"

"Two years ago when you were in Brooklyn," replied the man.

"What converted you? How did you feel?" said Mr. Harrison,

"Your talk made me sick," was the response. There was a hearty laugh from the congregation, before the man added: "Your talk made me heart-sick and I came to God and got cured.

In the "Guide to Health and Etiquette" will be found much useful advice on both subjects. This book is sent free for two 2-cent stamps by the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A Good Collector.

Lawyer Pullman is an Austin Lawyer who has a great reputation for collecting bad debts. If the money can be got out of a man he will get it. It was to this lawyer that Bob Binckley refereed when he was requested to run quick for a doctor, as a neighbor's child had swallowed a coin. "Doctor be blowed. I'll run for Lawyer Pullman; he'll get the money out of the kid quicker than a dozen doctors," said Bob."—Texas Siftings.

Worm medicine! The very name puts a bad taste in a child's mouth, unless her mother has been kind and given her Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. These little candies taste good.

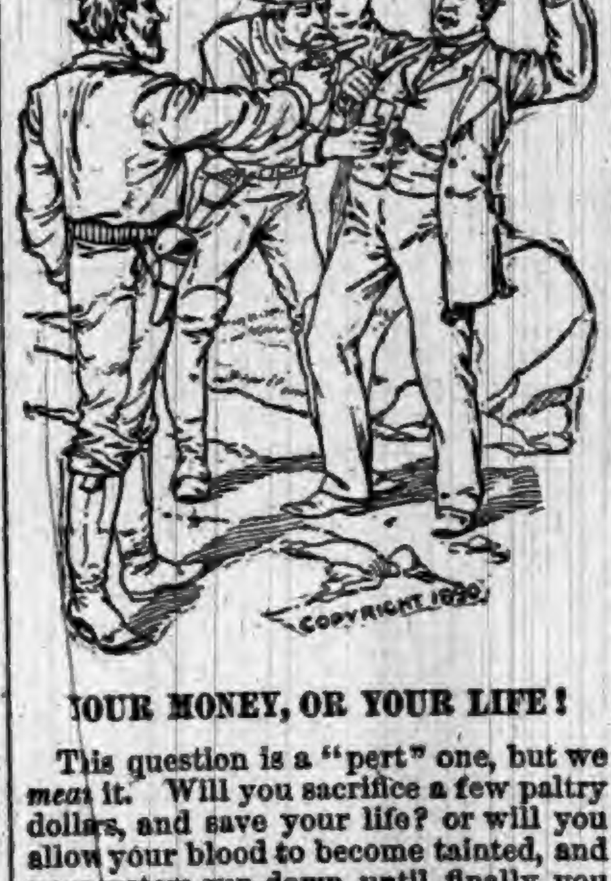
The London police force consists of 25 superintendents, 605 inspectors, 947 sergeants, and 9,657 ordinary "peelers."

"As the twig is bent the branch grows." Teach your children how to use SAPOLIO and they will always be neat. Try a cake of it in your next house-cleaning.

A newspaper reporter accidentally knocked a ladder down, but immediately set about righting it up.—Judge.

Beecham's Pills cure Sick-Headache.

The seating capacity of the new opera house, which is now being erected in New York city, will be 13,064.



YOUR MONEY, OR YOUR LIFE!

This question is a "pert" one, but we mean it. Will you sacrifice a few paltry dollars, and save your life? or will you allow your blood to become tainted, and your system run-down, until, finally, you are laid away in the grave? Better be in time, and "hold up" your hands for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a guaranteed remedy for all scrofulous and other blood-taints, from whatever cause arising. It cures all Skin and Scalp Diseases, Ulcers, Sores, Swellings and kindred ailments. It is powerfully tonic as well as alterative, or blood-cleansing, in its effects, hence it strengthens the system and restores vitality, thereby dispelling all those languid, "tired feelings" experienced by the debilitated. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Salt-rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck and Enlarged Glands. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Makers, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS! Instructions FREE to inventors. ☞Write at once for hand-book of information. J.B. CRALLE & CO., Washington, D. C.

FREEMAN & MONEY, Washington, D. C. PATENT, PENSION, CLAIM AND LAND ATTORNEYS. H. D. Money, 10 years member of Congress. A. A. Freeman, 8 years Ass't U. S. Att'y Gen.

TACOMA $100 to $1,000 Carefully invested here bring ANNUALLY from TWENTY to 100% Test of TACOMA INVESTMENT CO., TACOMA, WASH.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

Not Entirely Annihilated.

An Ohio poet recently wrote a pathetic poem about the little red school-houses in that State. When the poem appeared some heartless Gradgrind went to work and investigated the color of the school-houses, finding that out of 132 only two were red. But the poet was not annihilated, for he got off the chestnut that his poem was read in the school-houses weren't.

A Boon to Wives.

Having used "Mother's Friend," I would not be without it. It is a boon to wives who know they must pass through the painful ordeal of childbirth. Mrs. C., Melbourne, Iowa. Write the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

Misunderstood Him.

Little Jenks—It is astonishing that you girls will let yourselves be squeezed in tight corsets.

Katie—Why, if I refused, George, you know you wouldn't like it.—Texas Siftings.

An Extended Popularity. Brown's Bronchial Troches have for many years been the most popular article in use for relieving Coughs and Throat troubles.

Sale.

Bank Director—We find that teller Batsbury is short $675.20.

Another Director—Well, it is not lost. That's the exact amount I won from him at poker in the past three weeks.

Those of you who are weary and heavy ladened with sickness and care, weighed down with the infirmities that beset the human system, can find the one thing necessary to restore you to bright, buoyant health in Sherman's Prickly Ash Bitters. It invigorates and strengthens the debilitated organs, aids digestion, and dispels the clouds arising from a diseased liver.

The government of Australia offers 3d. per dozen for English sparrows' heads, and 2s 6d. a hundred for their eggs.

Best, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

One copy of Mr. Ruskin's volume of "Poems" recently brought over $100 at a London sale.

A RECORD OF A LIFE'S WORK.

The entire facts connected with every case ever treated by Mrs. Pinkham are on record. With the assistance of lady clerks writing at her dictation, over one hundred letters per day have been disposed of, the answers going to ladies in all parts of the world, and the facts compiled in a Library of Reference for the benefit of suffering women.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound is the only Positive Cure and Legitimate Remedy for those weaknesses and ailments peculiar to women.

Sold by all Druggists as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co., 24 State St., N. Y.

ISLAND HOME

Stock Farm. H. C. Farnum, Importer and Breeder of Percheron & French Coach Horses. I offer a very large stud of horses to select from. I guarantee my stock, make prices reasonable and sell on easy terms. Visitors always welcome. Large catalogue free. Address H. C. FARNUM, Grosse Isle, Wayne Co., Mich.

BEWARE OF THEM.

Cheap imitations should be avoided. They never cure and are often dangerous.

S. S. S. WILL CURE.

My daughter had a case of chronic Eczema, which for over five years had baffled the skill of the best physicians. As she was daily growing worse, I quit all other treatment and commenced using S. S. S. Before finishing the second bottle the scaly incrustations had nearly disappeared. I continued using S. S. S. until she was entirely cured. I waited before reporting the case to see if the cure was permanent. Being satisfied that she is freed from the annoying disease for all time to come, I send you this.

V. VAUGHN, Sandy Bottom, Va.

There is only one S. S. S. Take no other.

BOOKS ON BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES FREE.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

SEVEN SEVENTEEN
SEVENTY

This Picture, Panel size, mailed for 4 cents.

J. F. SMITH & CO., Makers of "Bile Beans," 255 & 257 Greenwich St., N. Y. City.

CURE Biliousness, Sick Headache, Malaria.

BILE BEANS.

Ely's Cream Balm For CATARRH THE POSITIVE CURE.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAYFEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND PENNYROYAL PILLS

THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA. Sold by all Local Druggists.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

HOMES WANTED.

We want to secure permanent homes for a number of Orphan Babies and Children. Responsible parties who want to adopt a bright, healthy and well-grown child are invited to correspond with us.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY,
204 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

THE DEAF HEAR

When the Deafness is caused by SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &c. by the use of the INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal. H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

NEW PENSION LAW. THOUSANDS NOW ENTITLED WHO HAVE NOT BEEN ENTITLED. Address for forms for application and full information

WM. W. DUDLEY,
LATE COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS,
Attorney at Law, Washington, D. C.
(Mention this Paper.)

MOTHERS Dr. Snyder's Kidney Balsam cures Enuresis (BED-WETTING.) Price $1 per package by mail. For sale by all druggists or at office. For circulars and testimonials address, with stamps, Dr. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago.

☞Ask your Druggist to order it for you.

MENTION THIS PAPER WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS.

RIDGE'S FOOD IT IS USED by CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. By Druggists. WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts. at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and illustrated pamphlet for a dime. THE PEDINE CO., WORLD BUILDING, NEW YORK.

PATENTS Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent, sent free. PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washingt'n, D.C.

BILL Posters, Agents, Women, boys, everywhere, 10,000 firms want 100,000 persons to hand out papers at $1 a 1000. Particulars for a 2 cent stamp. AGENTS HERALD, Box 2483, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE WONDERFUL LUBURG CHAIR
COMBINING 5 ARTICLES OF FURNITURE.
50 CHANGES
100 STYLES BABY COACHES
INVALID SUPPLIES AND WHEEL CHAIRS

We retail at the lowest wholesale factory prices, and ship goods to be paid for on delivery. Send stamp for Catalogue. Name goods desired. Automatic Brake on all Coaches FREE WHEEL CHAIRS TO HIRE. SPECIAL FREE DELIVERY. LUBURG MFG. CO., 145 N. 8th St., Phila., Pa.

PENSIONS!

The Disability Bill is a law. Soldiers disabled since the war are entitled. Dependent widows and parents now dependent whose sons died from effects of army service are included. If you wish your claim speedily and successfully prosecuted, address JAMES TANNER, Late Commissioner of Pensions, WASHINGTON, D. C.

ASTHMA.

Popham's Asthma Specific Gives immediate relief. It is believed to be the Best ASTHMA Remedy known to humanity. As evidence we give a Trial Package FREE. Sold by Druggists, Sent by mail, postpaid, for $1 per Box. Address THOS. POPHAM, 2001 Ridge Avenue, Philada.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY MEMORY Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

FAT FOLKS Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address, DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

CATARRH CURED. Write for sample. LAUDERBACH COMPANY, Newark, New Jersey. FREE

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY……..JANUARY 1, 1891.

SMALL revolution in Peru. Failed after a loss of forty lives.

GOOD HOUSE TO RENT: Inquire of A. B. Richards West Seventh street.

HUSTON, will not likely resign, but will remain U. S. treasurer for a time yet.

BEN. BUTLER has declared he will quit the practice of law, as he is getting old.

GEN. F. E. SPINNER, whose queer signature on the greenbacks is famous, now lies at the point of death at Jacksonville, Fla.

MRS. FREMONT, had a Christmas gift of a $10,000 residence at Los Angeles. Given by California ladies.

PORK from the United States has been seized at Cologne, Germ., and confiscated. Worth 60,000 marks.

A LIONESS, was last week found running at large near Liverpool, Eng., and shot. Don't know where it came from.

HARRISON has vetoed a bill for a big public building at Bar Harbor, Maine, a town not as large as Auburn. This is right. Now, let him veto about fifty more similar bills.

OKLAHOMA legislature has adjourned, after patching up a fair sort of code of laws. They did this by picking out of the laws of Indiana, Dakota, Nebraska and Illinois, such as suited.

DECIDED by New Hampshire supreme court last week, that a paster put on a ticket, made it illegal. This elects the democratic governor, though such a decision would not likely be allowed in this state.

IN 1874 California shipped to the eastern states only 200 pounds of raisins. In 1888, she shipped 18,000,000 pounds. As we use about three times that amount, the Pacific slope still has a chance to increase the trade.

JUDGE H. B. BROWN of Detroit, has been appointed to the supreme bench of the United States to take the place of the late Samuel Miller. Many had expected that Attorney-general Miller would be the man.

THE Buckeye reaper and binder works at Akron, Ohio, have cut down wages about 25 per cent, since they joined the great "Harvester Trust." They have been paying higher wages than the other companies, and this is the way they took to equalize it.

TAX on tobacco will be lowered Jan. 1. Tax on woolen clothing and necessaries, made higher by the McKinley bill. This is the work of republicans. Democrats ask to have taxes lowered on necessaries, and kept up on luxuries. How do the people like the two plans?

THE Goshen Democrat of Dec. 18, had the best picture of the late Judge Mitchell, we have seen. Anyone who knew the Judge in his life time would recognize it at once. Some of our exchanges, had a horrid picture in their patent sides, and the one in the Democrat is quite a relief.

THE idea of "protection to home industry," once took a queer form in England. All the dead were ordered to be buried in woolen shrouds, so as to give more business to the makers of woolen goods. That beats our wool tariff for utter meanness, and it is the only plan we know of that could beat it.

FIGHT with the Indians Monday morning. It was supposed the trouble was about over. Custer's old regiment, the Seventh Cavalry, went to disarm a band of hostiles, when the latter suddenly rose and fired, killing a captain and several others. A fearful fight ensued, the Indians being shot down and finally scattered.

PORTER'S wild census shows Indiana's increase in population is but 10½ per cent. in ten years, while our vote has increased 17½ per cent. Eleven of our counties are made to show a decrease of 19,527 in population, though their vote is 2,965 larger. Something rotten about this census. Indiana has no doubt increased enough to have another congressman, but she won't get one.

CLOTURE, is the French name for what we call the "previous question." It is a motion to call a vote on the question under discussion, and when it carries, debate must close at once, and the original or main question must be voted on. The U. S. Senate has never had this rule, though the House has for a long time. The senate has been trying to adopt it for some time so they can shut off debate on the Force Bill and bring it to a vote.

Notice.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

There will be elected, at the next quarterly conference of the church of the United Brethren in Christ, of Newville Circuit of the North Ohio Conference to be held in Milford township, Defiance county, Ohio, Jan. 17 and 18; one board of trustees for the parsonage property of said church, located at Newville, in Newville township, DeKalb county, Indiana; also one board of trustees for church property, located at same place. One board of trustees for the church property, located about 4 miles east of Auburn, on the State road, and known as Union Chapel, in Union township; also one board of trustees for the church property, at Mooresville, in Wilmington township. All of said property being situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

J. W. SROY, Pastor in charge of said circuit.

A Serious Runaway

Last Thursday morning, Calvin Grube, son of Squire John Grube, residing southwest of town, came in to get the family of D. D. Moody, to go out and enjoy Christmas with Mrs. M's people, John Grube being her father. They loaded a good stock of provisions into the buggy, enough for their share of the feast, and then Mr. and Mrs. Moody, the second son Ralph, and their little daughter Mattie got in, and with Mr. Grube for driver started off from the cross street on the north side of the house, out into Main street. The horses were restless and started off before Mr. Grube had fairly got ready, and turning at once onto Main street the buggy was turned over and the whole company piled into the road. But the buggy righted after the load was out, though the team kept on, wildly tearing down street, till finding a freight train on the track across the foot of the street, they turned and ran against a telegraph pole, and were stopped. The buggy was a total wreck. Romeo Tarney, Martin Marsh and Dr. Allen saw the accident and helped the injured parties to their feet, and Mr. Moody, who seemed to be the worst off, was carried into his house. It was found that he was badly bruised and injured internally. Mrs Moody was seriously bruised and cut, and Mattie and Ralph were somewhat injured. Mr. Grube was injured about his face, and one ankle was badly sprained. He was taken home in a carriage. All were badly shaken up and frightened. The food was scattered along in the dusty road, and the feast had to be postponed. Dr. Watson reports Mr. and Mrs. Moody as improving, though both were seriously hurt.

Waterloo Fair Meeting.

The meeting for the annual election of officers, for the Northeastern Indiana, Agricultural Association was held in that office at Waterloo on Thursday Dec. 25, 1890. The director's meeting in the forenoon was not well attended, but at the meeting of the stockholders in the afternoon, there was about the usual number, in spite of the fact, that this was a holiday. Reports of secretary and treasurer were read and approved, and then followed, the election of officers On motion of W. H. Leas, all the old officers, were unanimously re-elected: R N. Crooks, president; John W. Boyle vice-president; H. K. Leas, treasurer; M. Kiplinger, secretary. Mr. Crooks thanked the meeting for this expression of confidence, but said he would prefer to see some new man take his place. A committee to audit the books, was them appointed, and instructed to report at a future meeting. On motion of W. H. Leas, a committee of three was appointed by the chair, to present names for directors; John Buchanan, W. H. Leas and Gen. Blair were appointed. The men selected by them, were chosen directors for the next year They are: John Buchanan, L. J. Blair, J. A. Barns, John J. Baxter, J. N. Chamberlain, Daniel Thomas, G. O. Denison, R. G. Daniels, G. H. Dunn, W. H. Leas, Henry Hood, F. C. Waterman, Freeman Kelley, F. W. Willis, H. D. Boozer and H. M. Showalter. After some informal discussions, the meeting adjourned.

All Around the Year.

The daintiest of new calendars for 1891 is that in sepia tints and color, by J. Pauline Suntor, on heavy cards, gilt edged, with silver tassels and chain. The Lee and Shepard calendars have acquired such prestige that they are induced to bring out an entirely new one for 1891, which far surpasses any yet issued in the designs and quality of workmanship. In addition to the calendar for each month, each card contains a charming design and an appropriate sentiment in delicate tints and colors. The designs are mostly of chubby children in various scenes, drawn in the picturesque style of the artist, and altogether, it is the handsomest and most delicate calendar yet offered. [Boston: Lee and Shepard.] Boston Budget.

Chrismas Party.

On Christmas a party of persons for the most part those of a mature age, gathered at the home of Mr. Levi Harding. The guests present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. George Shaffer, Mr. A. Harding and wife, Mr. Henry Kline and wife, Mr. Solomon Harding and wife, Mr. J. S. Graham and wife, Mr. Simpson Farrington and wife, and Mr. Wm. Harding and wife. A handsome rocker was presented to Mr. H. and wife by their children and friends. An oyster supper was given in the evening to the young people. About thirty were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent by all.

Literary Note from the Century Co.

General John H. Morgan's audacious raid across the Ohio will be the subject of three papers in the January Century. Under the title "A Romance of Morgan's Rough Riders," the first chapter by General Basil W. Duke describes "The Raid," and relates numerous amusing incidents as well as daring exploits; General O. B. Wilcox's chapter on "The Capture" describes the chase of Morgan through Ohio and Indiana, and the capture of him and the last of his followers near the Pennsylvania line; while Captain Thomas H. Hines, in "The Escape," gives a thrilling account of the means, invented by himself, by which Morgan and a few of his officers tunneled out of the Ohio penitentiary and made a perilous journey to the Confederate lines.

In a Short Time.

A prominent man of Clarinda, Iowa, says: Through the recommendation of J. P. Burrows, of our city, I gave your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup a trial in a case of severe cough, after using it a short time my cough was cured. Which fact gives me such great confidence in it's merits that upon every occasion I recommend it to my neighbors.

Yours,

AMOS CLARK.

Additional Local.

M. Boland and family have friends visiting them.

Editor Willis, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday.

George Kennedy, of Waterloo, was in town Tuesday.

Frank Davenport was in Waterloo a few hours Tuesday.

Lila Baker and Lucy Otto spent Sunday in Ft. Wayne.

Miss Mollie Murphy is spending the rest of this week in Ft. Wayne.

Ice seven inches thick was cut on the creek this week, but raining now.

Josiah Teeters, James Hoffman and wife are home from Purdue, for a holiday vacation.

Mrs. Frank Borst has been seriously sick for about a week. Dr. Nusbaum reports her now as better.

L. Bowers had for a Christmas roast, a nice wild goose, sent by Cyrus Olinger from Kansas. It came just in time.

Rev. Chester Church, formerly pastor of the M. E. church at this place, has been visiting friends here a few days.

Nathan Smith, father of W. R. Smith of the Marble Works here died at his home in Churubusco last Thursday.

POULTRY WANTED: The highest market price paid for all kinds of poultry. Call at J. A. Clifton's meat market, Auburn, Ind.

Young people remember the Reading Room. Daily, weekly and monthly papers, of the best. And a good lunch room besides.

Frances Otto and Anna Teeters came up from Wabash where they have been teaching, to spend the holidays with their parents.

Hugh Culbertson's Christmas gift a big doll, hung on the front door till 9 a. m. and when at last he found it, he objected to its being a blonde. You can't suit some people.

The Christmas tree at the Lutheran church called out an immense attendance more than could get in. The presents were numerous, and the songs and recitations excellent.

Dr. J. C. Fretz, of Deedsville, Ind., made the COURIER office a pleasant call on Wednesday, of last week. He and his family were on their way to Waterloo where they expected to spend the holidays with friends and relatives. He is one of the old DeKalb boys, and takes front rank in his profession.

Week of Prayer.

At a meeting of the pastors on Monday, Dec 29, 1890, they arranged the following program for union services during the week of prayer, viz, Monday Jan. 5, 1891, at the Church of God, Tuesday, Methodist; Wednesday, Presbyterian; Thursday, Lutheran; Friday and Saturday at the Baptist. Service each evening to begin at 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend and share in the blessings of the worship.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, Ind., for the week ending Dec. 23, 1890. Miss Jennie Hettinger, Miss Susan Smith, J. M. Brown, E. Baker jr, John C. Justice, P. B. Manley, J. W. Miers, E. S. Sawyer, Charley Smiley.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

WATERLOO.

J. H. Brunn, Mr. Bradford, W. K. Brunn, Mable Clara, G. D. Davison, M. Harwick, Elmer Miller, George Obryne, Mary Sonil, Mrs. Thom. Stone, Edith Stont, Estella Thompson, J. S. Thompson.

JAMES MCBRIDE, P. M.

A New Tonsorial Parlor.

Notwithstanding the fact that Auburn is already supporting five good barber shops, and as strange and improper as it may seem, that any one should be so audacious as to boldly and unceremoniously usher himself into our midst, as a tradesman expecting to secure patronage and reap benefits from the trade already established, yet in the face of all this reasoning, we are to have a new shaver. The new manipulator of the "blade and strop," is an august personage, and has proved himself dishonest. He comes and goes when he chooses, and stays just as long in a place, as no one interrupts him. He, from all appearance, expects to stay in this place, until some of our citizens can muster up the courage to kill him, as it is a settled fact that he can be got rid of in no other way. His residence and shop is in the basement of Etna Kuhlman's office at 100 South Main street. This fellow's tools are a quarter's worth of high grade barber soap and three long bristle shaving brushes, that he stole a few days ago from B. F. Stahl. He is a slick fellow, and his name is ARTEMUS RAT.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Poultry.

10,000 pounds of poultry wanted at once at the Palace meat market. I am now prepared to buy all kinds of poultry for which I will pay the highest markert price during the season.

B. C. ZEIGLER,
Auburn, Ind. 40tf

Honest Work! $30 to $40 a week made by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in own and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 645, Cincinnati, O.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California.

J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:00 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

SALESMEN WANTED,

Traveling and Local, to sell our Choice Nursery Stock. Fast Selling Specialties in hardy fruits, etc. SPLENDID OUTFIT FREE! Steady Employment Guaranteed. YOUR PAY WEEKLY. Write for Terms.
GERMANIA NURSERY CO.
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

CORRESPONDENCE.

SPENCERVILLE.

Charles Kessler and wife rejoice in the advent of a son.

I. N. Hursh and wife are the happy parents of a daughter.

A fine lot of ice is being stored by a number of our citizens.

Rev. J. J. Fred is visiting his parents at McCordsville during the holidays.

Rev. J. S. Nelson will commence a series of meetings at St. Joe Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Shook visited several days with friends at Waterloo last week.

Rev. Stanton, of St. Joe, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church Sunday evening.

T. S. Murray was presented a gold headed cane on the occasion of his thirtieth wedding aniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Toledo, Ohio, are visiting their daughters, Mrs. J. W. Beams and Mrs. H. Carns.

Prof. Kœppe and wife gladdened the hearts of their scholars with a liberal supply of candy Wednesday.

Christmas was an unlucky day for Braid Kail. His smokehouse and all his meat with other articles was consumed by fire.

The supper given by the ladies of the Lutheran church was well patronized, and all passed off without a jar to mar the peace and good will of the occasion.

The following officers were elected at the last stated meeting of the masonic fraternity. G. B. Erick, W. M.; J. W. Beams, S W.; J. A. Provines, J. W.; J. H. Murray, Treasurer; O. H. Rummell, Secretary.

A very pleasant and enjoyable party was that at the residence of P. A. Shurts, Christmas day. There were present H. Culbertson and wife, of Auburn, B. A. Woodcox, son and daughter, O. W. Rummell, wife, two sons and daughter. A bountiful dinner was served to which the guests did ample justice.

The Christmas entertainments at the churches were the most successful and entertaining ever celebrated in this place. The Lutheran church was handsomely decorated, and a huge pyramid, adorned with beautiful and valuable presents greeted the eyes, and made happy the hearts of the children. The Methodist had a beautiful tree laden with presents for the children, also an arch, supporting "gates ajar." The speaking and singing by the children at both churches was all that could be desired.

BUTLER.

Eddy Fosdick occupies his new home.

The M. E. church gift concert proved a success.

Carl Worth, of Kan. is visiting his mother and sisters.

The railroad travel during the past week has been unusually large.

Rev. Arthur, of Angola has closed his revival effort at the Christian church.

Philip Sawyer living six miles south of town died very suddenly last Sunday.

J. A. Campbell wife and baby Florence visited Jackson and Grand Rapids last week.

Emlin Campbell and Louie Stoner returned to Angola last Monday to continue another term.

A. P. Morse is suffering severely from rheumatism, and is scarcely able to attend to his business.

Mrs. Warner Blackwell is slowly improving from her severe injuries caused by the breaking of a lamp.

Thomas Budd had a narrow escaped from fire last week, caused by the supposed explosion of a lamp.

Work is progressing rapidly at the new mill. They hope to be ready for business about the middle of February.

Our merchants report the best holiday trade in their experience. Possibly the hard times were so only in name.

A new firm from Edgerton, Ohio are about to open a drugstore in the vacant room on the corner of Oak and Broadway streets.

Miss Rena Vescelus, of Elkhart, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Oviatt Campbell. Before returning she will spend some time in Auburn, Ft. Wayne and VanWert, Ohio.

M F. Campbell and brother Charles spent Christmas with their sister, Mrs. Irene Fralick, at Garrett. Thos. Fralick, engineer, has resumed work on the B & O. after a lay off of sixty days during which time he has finished a very commodious dwelling on the east side at Garrett.

CONCORD.

Sherm Keller was home Christmas.

Flossie Buchanan is on the sick list.

Ingman Sebert came home from Iowa last week.

Harry Clear, of Churubusco, is visiting his many friends.

Will Baker and James Nichols were at Ft. Wayne last Friday.

Miss Della Miles, of Auburn, is visiting her cousin Mrs. Kate Lutz.

Alice Draggoo was the guest of G. Wilmot and family Monday.

Mrs. Matt Hay spent Christmas with her daughter Mrs. Dove, of Spencerville.

James Ragan, of Auburn, came down Sunday to take a look at at the boys, one day it was a girl.

Mrs. Ella Baker visited in the family of A. H. Provines, near Auburn, last Sabbath. Reports Miss Effie quite sick.

Will Simanton and wife, Elmer Ewing and wife, of Ashland, Ohio, are the guests of Geo. Simanton and S. G. Brown.

Doc. Stafford and family, near Auburn, Mrs. D. Hull and son, of Spencerville, were the guests of Wayne Scott last Sunday.

C. H. Brown Frank Rhodes and Miss Girtie Krise treated their scholars to candies, peanuts and popcorn on Christmas.

Miss Sue Miller, of Auburn, and Mrs. Mat Miller and son, of Blakeslee, Ohio, are visiting in the families of Newt Wasson and J. Hull.

Last Wednesday evening the old church was crowded to its utmost capacity, no doubt but for the last time on such an occasion. The little folks had happy hearts and smiling faces, and the oyster supper was fairly attended.

SUMMIT.

We wish you all a happy New Year.

Edward Huffman and wife spent Christmas at Hudson.

Mrs. Ida Boyer was the guest of Mrs. Emma Lawson last Tuesday.

Andrew Yerker and sister spent Sunday with her sister in Garrett.

Bennie Duncan, of Waterloo, was here visiting relatives the past week.

Nettie and Harry Grambling visited their sister at Butler Christmas.

Thomas Hammon, Jr. and wife visited friends in Ray, Mich., Christmas.

Della and Dolpha Hornberger returned to their home in Butler last Friday.

Carl Mortorff, of Auburn, is here visiting his grandfather, Jacob Mortorff.

Delbert Burk and wife, of Auburn, spent Christmas with Mrs. Maria Keys.

Mrs. Henry Forney's neice, of Butler, came last Saturday to spend New Years.

Thomas Hammond and wife were the guests of Henry Lawson and wife last Sunday.

Miss Nettie Coonrod, of Fremont, O., is here visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Coonrod.

Mrs. Wm. Updegraph, of Springport, Mich., is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Barker.

FEAGLER'S CORNERS.

Farmers are enjoying the fine winter weather.

Pete Neckyoke went up to Steuben to visit friends.

B. C. Reeder and family are visiting friends at Butler.

The carpenters are still working at J. M. Brumbeck's.

Mrs. George Likens has a sister visiting her from Michigan.

The Christmas entertainment at Sedan was largely attended

The Christmas ladder at Richland Center was a fine one and well attended.

Wash Chubb and family were the guests of Frank Roop and family this week.

H. M. Fretz and wife, Calvin Fretz and wife and Mr. Showalter went to Lagrange on a visit Saturday.

Mr. Gordon has added a large number of new boxes to the postoffice outfit making it the largest office in the county.

William Roop and wife, Frank Roop and family and Miss Martha Hartman were the guests of J. W. Johnson on Christmas.

Rev. S. P. Klotz has closed his meeting at Shower's corners, he closed with good results, there being about 14 accessions to the church.

Christmas Day.

Christmas was solidly observed here, everyone taking a rest from work or business. There were plenty of presents that changed hands that morning, and in fact during the day. These presents were mostly of the substantial, or at least, the useful kind, and many, old and young were made happy. The COURIER was remembered that day also, several subscribers being thoughtful enough to send handsome contributions by mail. All have thanks. The Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Church of God people had evening entertainments the night before, with Christmas trees, gifts, songs and recitations. At the Presbyterian church, these recitations were given by Master Hubert Hartman, Edna Whitmer, Braddie Ralston, Laura Rose, Ruthie Baker, Pearl Kelley, Mabel Baker, Dottie Gibson, and others. Altogether it was a nice affair, and so were the others, we are told.

Surprised Him.

About twenty-five of the friends of Daniel Metcalf, from town and country met at his residence out east of town on Tuesday and had an enjoyable visit of course. There was an abundance of good things for the inner man, and social enjoyments for all. The guests presented him a fine chair as a token of their esteem. All report a splendid time. The editor and his family were to have been among the lucky ones to be there, but unexpected business matters detained them at the last moment. We did not get the names of those present, but Dr. Adams and wife of this place were there, and Cyrus Branderberry and wife of Smithfield.

Court.

Work has been going on at a fair rate for the holidays. A number were fined for violation of liquor law of various sorts. Ed. Derthick of Waterloo was jailed on a charge of assaulting Marshal Vogtman, of Waterloo, after having been fined for intoxication. Two charges are on the docket against Recorder Crane for being intoxicated during business hours. It is hoped this will scare him into doing better. Divorces were granted to Emma and Nathaniel Beaird, and Margaret and Henry Miller, the wives getting the custody of the children. Of the damage cases against the B. & O. the Ellison case comes up Jan. 5, the Culbertson case Jan. 20, and the Saunders case will go to the U. S. court.

ALAS!

How wretched is the man who has fallen a victim to Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, or diseased Liver, with all the horrible attendants. Look upon the picture. Poor man, being tired of dragging out a miserable existence, he is the picture of despondency; altogether, he is rather a forlorn specimen. Do we pity him? Of course; but at the same time feel assured that in a measure he is to blame for the bad state into which he has fallen. A sure, safe, speedy and easy cure can be found in Simmons Liver Regulator—Nature's own remedy. No mercury or deleterious drugs, not unpleasant to the taste, and always reliable—just such a remedy as you can pin your faith to without a shadow of disappointment. Read the testimonial, don't take our word for it:

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator which gave me relief, without any interruption to business." J. HUGG, Middleport, Ohio.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
PRICE, $1.00.

WANTED AT ONCE! A man to Sell CHOICE VARIETIES of NURSERY STOCK in and around AUBURN, during the fall and winter. We solicit the correspondence of anyone wishing a SITUATION. SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS to BEGINNERS. Permanent Employment to those desiring it. Good Pay. Address, COLUMBIA NURSERY COMPANY, Rochester, N. Y.

Root & Company

FORT WAYNE, IND.

LOTS AND LOTS OF NEW THINGS
—IN—
NICE DRESS GOODS.

You Want the Dress to be Nice if it is a Low Priced One.

English Meltons.

40 inches wide, full measure. A Handsome durable fabric. Makes up splendidly. Wears well.

38 Cents.

Very, Very Pretty,

Serviceable Dress goods have piled in upon us at these low prices

7c 9c, 10c.

PLAIN SATINS

For your fancy work. They can be had in shades

AT 50 CENTS.

PLUSHES IN COLORS.

These you will need too, if only a small piece. Come and get them. It will pay you.

50 CENTS

BLACK GOODS NOVELTIES,

Scarce and rare have just reached us and are now displayed at the Silk Counters,

Astrachan Effects,
Bucle Cloths,
Gisconda Polka Dots.

The Bucle Cloth is a lovely thing. It comes in subdued Black and White effects. The most stylish fabric we have shown at any time.

BLACK CASCADE SILKS!

Don't forget this brand. There's no silk in the market equal to it for genuine good wear. We warrant it.

$1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00.

SILK WARP BROCADED HENRIETTAS!

Something no one in this section has got, Priestley's Famous New Fabrics.

HOLIDAY NOVELTIES

Arriving almost every day. Call in and inspect the new goods, None too soon. Samples mailed upon application.

Root & Company.

J. A. CAMPBELL,
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair will be held in Ensley's hall in Auburn, on Thursday, January 15th, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m. officers will be elected for the ensuing year, as follows, viz.,

One President.
One Vice-President.
One Secretary.
One Treasurer.

Twenty Directors and an Executive Committee composed of five persons. A full attendance is desired, as business of vital importance will be brought before the meeting. By order of the President.

CAL HUSSELMAN, Secretary
JNO. L. DAVIS President.

NOTICE! NOTICE! NOTICE!

All people indebted to us by Book account or Note, we kindly request to call and settle within 30 days from Jan. 1st, 1891, or else will find their accounts or notes turned over to the JUSTICE of PEACE for collection. Please pay attention to this notice, as it means business.

Yours truly,
J. LOEWENSTEIN & CO.,
Waterloo, Ind.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

Horses for Sale.

Eight good horses for sale at the Lockwood stables east of the public square. Call on Joe Pfefferl at the stables for information, terms, etc. tf

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James M. Goetchius deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL Z. HOFFMAN, Administrator
November 29th, 1890.

Secretary Board of Health.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of county commissioners on Monday, January 5, 1891, will receive sealed bids for services as secretary of the County Board of Health for the ensuing year. All those desiring this appointment should leave their bids at the auditor's office in Auburn, by 10 a. m. of that date.

JOHN HOFFELDER
Pres. Board.

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

Poultry Show.

The great poultry and bench show of the Steuben county Poultry Association will be held at Waterloo this time, from Jan. 13 to 17. It will be an extensive affair and all who are interested in Poultry and Pets" should attend.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION

Of the First National Bank at Auburn in the State of Indiana, at the close of Business December 19, 1890.

RESOURCES.
Loans and discounts	$124,614 85
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured	3,874 93
U. S. bonds to secure circulation	12,500 00
Due from approved reserve agents	2,077 47
Due from other National Banks	10,751 09
Banking house, furniture and fixtures	6,500 00
Other real estate and mortgages owned	3,500 00
Current expenses and taxes paid	1,128 98
Premiums on U. S. Bonds	2,084 45
Checks and other cash items	958 83
Bills of other Banks	910 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents	73 85
Specie	3,726 00
Legal tender notes	5,000 00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)	562 50
Total	$178,861 95
LIABILITIES.
Capital stock paid in	50,000 00
Surplus fund	8,000 00
Undivided profits	5,105 61
National bank notes outstanding	6,750 00
Individual deposits subject to check	48,085 71
Demand certificates of deposit	57,967 22
Cashier's checks outstanding	310 75
Due to State banks and bankers	643 16
Total	$178,861 95

State of Indiana, County of DeKalb, ss:

I, W. H. McIntyre, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

W. H. MCINTYRE, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 25th day of December, 1890.

EZRA D. HARTMAN, Notary Public.

CORRECT—Attest:
D. A. GARWOOD,
WM. MCINTYRE,
ISAAC HAGUE,
} Directors.

To the Pacific Coast.

Go to California via the through lines of the Burlington Route, from Chicago or St. Louis to Denver, and thence over the new broad gauge, through car lines of the Denver and Rio Grande or Colorado Midland Railways, via Leadville, Glenwood Springs and Salt Lake through interesting cities and unsurpassed scenery. Dining cars all the way. 51-3

Railroad Rates for Holidays.

On Dec. 26, 25, and 31, 1890, and Jan 1, 1891, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets between points on its line, at one and one-third fare for the round trip. Tickets good going day of sale and to return until Jan. 3d.

LOW PRICES!
FOR THE
NEXT 30 DAYS
ON ALL KINDS OF WINTER
GOODS!

As our large Stock must be reduced before taking our annual inventory. YOU WILL SAVE MONEY by Trading with

HARTER,
EAST OF COURT HOUSE,
AUBURN, - - - IND.

SCHAAB & MURPHY
For Bargains In
CLOTHING!
West of Public Square, AUBURN, INDIANA.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

LOCAL NEWS.

You will seldom need a doctor if you have Simmons Liver Regulator handy.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Headache, indigestion, and all disorders of the liver, Simmons Liver Regulator surely cures.

Dr. Wm. Sevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

Many years practice has given Messrs C. A. Snow & Co., Patent Solicitors opposite U. S. Patent office, Washington, D. C., unsurpassed facilities for Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

George W. Campbell was up here Christmas and took a whirl around among his old neighbors. We are pleased to see him looking well and prospering.

For more than a generation, Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been before the public, and its popularity, was never greater than at present. As a remedy for the various disorders caused by constitutional taint, this medicine has no equal. The demand for it is prodigious.

Miss Mary Husselfeld and Miss Minnie Standacher of Laporte, came to Auburn to spend the holidays. They are at present, visiting with the family of the latter's brother, Joseph Standacher. It will be remembered that Miss S., was formerly of this place, but for several years her home has been in Laporte.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

LOST: A diploma, issued to W. H. Christopher, by the Starling Medical College of Columbus, Ohio, February 25, 1879. When lost, diploma was in a hard brown paper roll. Finder will be liberally rewarded by leaving at the Swinsford House, Auburn, or sending to W. H. Christopher, M. D., Lima, Ohio. It was lost in Auburn, on thanksgiving day.

Sure to relieve. There is no failure in Simmons Liver Regulator.

Don't suffer from dyspepsia. Take Simmons Liver Regulator. It always cures.

Ward Latson, Chas. Kinney and Arthur Gleason, of Angola, were here Christmas to attend the rink.

The friends of T. R. Cool, will be interested to hear that he has moved from South Bend to Logansport. We presume he is still in the railway company's service.

MARRIED: At the residence of the officiating minister Rev. W. L. Meere, in Auburn, Dec. 24, 1890, Mr. Wright Armstrong and Miss Nellie Crew, both of Auburn.

Also, by the same at the same place, Dec. 26, 1890, Mr. Sherman D. Keller of Concord township, to Miss Ida E. Martin, of Fairfield township.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

Colds are frequently the result of derangements of the stomach and of a low condition of the system generally. As a corrective and strengthener of the alimentary organs, Ayer's Pills are invaluable, their use being always with marked benefit.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, [illegible], torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, [illegible] cts. Samples free at F. E Davenport's.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is [illegible] and mysterious. It removes [illegible] the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins [illegible], druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE. The best salve in the world for [illegible], sores, ulcers, salt rheum, [illegible], tetter, chapped hands, chil[illegible], and all skin eruptions, and [illegible] cures piles, or no pay re[illegible]. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

The Chrismas entertainment at the Church of God, Wednesday evening was one of a high order. The program was composed of an abundance of recitations of the proper character, interspersed with melodious songs. An especial feature was the "song and march" by the little folks. They deserve great praise for the part they took in trying to entertain those who came to see and hear. The exhibit of presents was not gorgeous, but everything seemed to be on "the useful" plan, and everyone went away with the thought that it was a pleasant occasion.

Henry Dills, of Butler, spent Christmas here.

There was quite a crowd at the rink Christmas.

Elder James Barton is another patron who has paid up to '92.

Maud and Nettie Baker visited relatives in Columbia City last week.

No cure-all or untried remedy will cure as does Simmons Liver Regulator.

Miss Bernice Sowle of Angola has been visiting Nellie Barns for the past week.

A number of young men were here from Columbia City to attend the rink, Christmas.

Will Eckhart, who has been attending college at Angola, is at home to spend the holidays.

We are told that parties from Ft. Wayne, are thinking of putting in another clothing store here.

W G. Boren, a young farmer of this vicinity, is ahead on his subscription, having paid to Dec. 1, '92.

The ladies aid society of the Lutheran church will give a basket social on New Year's evening. Everybody come.

Mrs. Sophie Baird has a few nice rooms to rent. Call on her at her residence near the Presbyterian church.

Poultry men should get ready to exhibit stock at the great poultry show at Waterloo, beginning Jan. 13, and ending the 17th.

The L. L. C. will meet with Mrs Barns Saturday afternoon of this week. A full attendance is desired as it is the annual election of officers.

We are often deceived in the age of people having beautiful and luxuriant hair, not knowing that they use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep gray hairs away.

Miss Eva May, one of Concord township's popular young ladies, spent Christmas in Auburn, visiting friends and acquaintances. She returned to her home Saturday.

The old postoffice room will soon be occupied by Wilson's shoe store, and the room he now has, south of the square, will, we are told, be occupied by a grocery store.

Teachers should remember the meeting of the county association at Waterloo, Jan. 10, in the high school room there. They have a good program of work laid out.

W. H. Palmer went over to Larwill last week to have a visit with his people, who reside near there. He has had a busy season working at his trade and took the holiday season for a little rest.

Herman Kessler, who has been at work in the piano factory at Ft. Wayne for some time, was home for holidays. We thank him and our friend Amandus Ashley for substantial favors. The latter is employed in the electric light works.

Mr. George Gillock, of Ft. Wayne, spent the holidays in Auburn, and vicinity. He is now employed by the Pittsburgh Company, as car builder. He is a good mechanic and doubtless his many friends will be pleased to note the important position he now occupies.

Lee Goetschius sending his holiday greetings from Montana, cannot help giving the republicans a dig in the short ribs. He is especially tickled at the tumblebug style of their present republican congressman. The weather there was cool, but mild, from 20 to 40 degrees above zero. He sends greeting to his father and all the friends.

Last Friday, Charley Bartles, had a sort of second Christmas, and entertained a number of his relatives at his home here. Among those present, were his father, Charles Bartles sr., Fred. Bartles, a brother residing in Jackson with his family, John Harkey and wife, of Butler township, Miss Katie Bartles, a niece, and Mr. B's mother-in-law, Mrs. Wagner, of Garrett. The latter is still here visiting in the family.

G. D. McGowan went to Springfield, Ohio, Christmas, having been called there by the Champion Machine folks. He understands that the big consolidation will certainly take place, and all the machine making companies will unite into one great trust. While this change may not affect him personally, he believes the principle of the thing is bad. Will Hoagland resides there, and has been with the Champion company many years.

The postoffice, which has been for many years in the Odd Fellows' building, was on Saturday evening moved into Mr. Gordon's building, three doors west. It would probably have remained at the old location, but the erection of the new block adjoining, on the east, shut off the light so as to make it inconvenient at times to handle the mail. The new location, will be a trifle more convenient to the business part of the town, and therefore no one will complain.

Kessler Brothers, our popular cigar men, last week received another order for their choice brand "Young America," from Louis Lemle, now located at Marshfield, Wisc. He said when he left, that he proposed to smoke the best cigars, and to secure them, he was going to send back to Kessler Brothers, at Auburn, when his stock ran out. And so he has been doing. The COURIER, in common with many other people here, is pleased to learn that he is prospering in business and that everything moves in lovely style for him in his new location.

An exchange says the coming legislative session forty-five of the 100 members of the lower house are farmers, and there are fifteen farmers in the senate. In the house there are twenty one lawyers, and in the senate there are twenty-one, a total of forty two lawyers. Together there are 102 farmers and lawyers out of the 150 legislators. There is a total of nine physicians in both houses, six being in the house and three in the senate. The only foreign-born members are a German, a Prussian and an Irishman. Sixty are Indianians by birth.

1891.

'91.

Write it 1891.

Don't forget your date, and write last year for this.

Goodby, Old Year. You have done very well, but we're going to try the new year for a while.

Now swear off —after you have driven your neighbor's chickens off your clean sidewalk.

Miss Bessie Moore, of Garrett, has been here visiting Ina and May Rose during the holidays.

Hon. A. P. Edgerton has a fine and scholarly article in the Hicksville News, a retrospect of things as they existed there fifty years ago, or Christmas, 1840.

Dr. Nusbaum was called up to Corunna, on Monday to hold a consultation with the physicians there, on the case of Charley Knapp's little son, who was dangerously sick.

The COURIER sends New Year's greetings to all its patrons and friends all over the land, and hopes the coming year may prove to them one of abundant prosperity and happiness.

The week of prayer preparatory to the opening of a revival at the Church of God, begins next Sunday, Jan. 4, 1891. All those interested in meetings of this character, are cordially invited to come and assist in the work.

W. A. Goodrich, of Morenci, who has taken the COURIER since it was running, could not sleep over the holidays without sending in his $1.50. He is a business man and knows that it is easier to pay each year as it goes.

Hicksville has organized a new fair association. The stock will be $8.000, in shares of $10 each. We see our friend M. E Chapman is one of the original stockholders and promoters. We wish the new company unlimited success.

A letter from B. F. Fretz, now a resident of Rochester, Ind., contained a generous supply of cash for subscription into the future. He is deputy treasurer of his county, and we are glad to say is prospering otherwise. Another DeKalb boy on the front seat.

The Phillipsburg, Mont. Mail, has a big map of the mining district there, and an extensive write up of the year's operations and future prospects. To a man out here, these mining plats are rather confusing. But we hope Josiah Shull and W. T. Allison, will strike it rich at any time.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Moss. Program, Outline History of England, Mrs. Moody; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs. Dills; The Intellectual Development of the English People, Mrs. Sheets; Six British Lions, Mrs. Yesbera; Select Reading, Mrs. Moss.

The snow storm that began Friday night, became boisterous, and all day Saturday blew through the whiskers of old DeKalb county in great shape. The snow would have been about two inches deep, but it was piled up too much to measure, and did not make sleighing, though a little distance south of here, they had enough.

"Lost in Sorrow," a Reverie, is a new piece of music transcribed for piano by J. E. Ecker. Full of beautiful harmony and by no means a trifling composition. This reverie may be played by those who are not yet master of the unwieldly classics. This beautiful reverie is published by Ign. Fischer, Toledo, Ohio, and may be obtained at any music store. Price only 40 cents.

Christmas night, snow fell at Indianapolis and extended across the country east to the Atlantic making good sleighing south as far as Kentucky. But up here in northeast Indiana there was not a drop of snow. The roads were dry and frozen hard, and all day Friday, the wagons and buggies raised the dust. It seems rather strange. However on Saturday morning there was about an inch of snow here, growing blustery through the day.

Cedar Creek was very high on Friday, so high that the workmen could not take across it, the building they were moving. There had been no rain for some weeks to amount to anything, and people coming into town could not understand it, as the other streams over the county were very low. Old Cedar's boom was caused by the ditchers' tapping Cedar Lake the day before, and lowering it six or seven feet. The water came out with a rush and filled the streams for a day, and then the rush was over.

The friends here have received word of the death of Jamie Rundles, at the age of about 14 years, at his home at Coldwater, N. Y. He will be remembered by the boys and girls of his age here, as a bright little lad, who went back to York state, with his parents seven or eight years ago. His mother, Anna Baldock, is a sister to Mrs. R. C. Baxter, and the others here. His death, was caused by inflammation of the bowels, and was a sad and sudden blow to the friends in Auburn.

A trip to Kendallville, last week, confirmed our belief in the liveness of that enterprising little city. Everything was showing up with wide open eyes. Factories are humming, and trade going forward. Brother Sheffer, of the News, is hustling to advertise the great poultry show at Waterloo, the 13th, of which he is secretary. The folks at the Standard office, are reveling in the luxuries of a prosperous daily paper, which they have now been running a year or so. They have there a big new Opera House, one that cost a pile of money, and is a credit to any town. We found there, Captain John Smith, Attorney Robert Barr, Dr. Teal and his son George, both practicing physicians; Ed. Casebeer, who is clerking in a drug store, and all these prospering. Besides we met one of the Fairfield teachers, Mr. Smith, and two others from that township, Mr. Bouchat and Mr. Nessel. Yes, Kendallville is a live town.

Volume Twenty-One, No. 1.

Lœwenstein & Co., Waterloo, have an important notice in to-day's COURIER.

Harry Henry came home from South Whitley, to spend the holidays with his parents.

Quin Altenberg came home from Toledo to remain with his folks here over the holidays.

See the important notice of O. J. Schwarz, the clothier. He is giving great bargains.

Mrs. J. W. McCrory and little daughters, of Angola, were here visiting with C. C. Shaffer and family.

Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, of West Seventh street, have relatives visiting them from Walkerton.

Prof. W. H. McIntosh will give a very interesting lecture at the Waterloo meeting of the Teacher's Association, Jan. 10.

J. A. Potter went to visit his sister, and will remain several week's among old friends about Mansfield, Wooster etc.

Posts had a beautiful little Swiss cottage lighted by an electric light, in their window Christmas. It was a pretty idea.

Hon. J. D. Leighty and ex-treasurer S. J. Brandon are jury commissioners for this year, and have been busily at work selecting names from which to draw the lucky men who will sit on cases at court.

Several of Auburn's popular ladies called up to pay their regards to the COURIER office this week. Among the number were Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. G. V. Schaab, Mrs. Ed. Freygang, Mrs. E. Rogers, Mrs. Gaylord and Jessie Weaver.

Bam Swart, "the rambler," is now giving some fine entertainments in the smaller towns in this part of the country. He has a first-class sun glass lens magic lantern, which produces a very large view of what he wishes to present. Large houses houses greet his appearance and he never fails to give satisfaction.

We call the attention of our readers to the strong indorsements presented by Dr. Man-O-Tee in another column of this paper. These patients were cured after trying repeatedly in other directions. The facts here given clearly, prove the Doctor's claims; That nature has provided remedies for all diseases, and if those remedies are properly given that hundreds of sick people can be made well.

The musical at Mabel Hartman's Tuesday evening was well attended, the receipts being $5.65. The entertainment was one of the finest and most enjoyable our people have had and consisted of songs, recitations, readings and closed with a dish of "Literary Salad" in which some wild guessings as to the authors of the quotations given. This part created great diversion. We hope these young people will give another in the near future.

There was another Christmas runaway. Our old friend Jacob Lochner, had been up here with his wife, to see the daughters who live in Auburn. His son Peter and wife, were also of the company. On going home, and when about a mile from home, one of the buggy axles broke, to the old gentleman's buggy, and he his wife were thrown to the ground, hurting them considerably. Mrs. L. was stunned and the horses dragged him several rods, but got away. Both are all right now, but the rig was badly smashed.

D. W. Jenner, proprietor of the Central House, is quite a wag, in his way. One of his strong points, is the readiness with which he can disguise himself. It has not been long since he "fixed up" and tried to buy Jim. Draggoo's stave factory, situated out of town a ways. Mr. D, took some time, after the close of the interview, to realize he had been talking to an everyday acquaintance. Jenner next tried on J. A. Clifton at the meat market. He was fixed up as a tramp, and asked Will Potter for credit for a small amount of meat. Will did not care to take chances and referred the stranger to Mr. Clifton, who was in the back room. Clifton refused the man credit point blank, and would not believe him when he said he had bought meat of him before. He then asked Clifton if the latter would take Jenner, of the Central, as security. "Oh, certainly I would," was Clifton's ready answer, and then the stranger threw off his disguise, to Clifton's astonishment.

Will Receive.

Mrs. Van B. Perrine of North Main street, will receive New Years calls from 4 to 8 p. m. assisted by Mrs. Don Garwood, Mrs. Chas. Schaab, Mrs. Annise Leas, and Alza Ralston.

Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, of West Fifth street, will receive from 3 to 7 p. m. She will be assisted by Mrs. George Weamer, Mrs. H. J. Shafer, Mrs. I. O. Buchtel, Mrs. H. A. Stevens and Callie Altenburg.

Mrs. Samuel D Hanna will receive at her home 59 South Jackson st. New Year's day from 4 to 8 p. m., assisted by Mrs. Edgar Rogers, Mrs. I. M. Zent, Jessie Weaver, Mabel Hartman, Mamie Trentman and Edna Davis.

Mrs. Dr. Nusbaum will receive at her home No. 55, South Main street from 5 to 8 p. m. assisted by Lillian Nusbaum, Lettie Meese, Etta Heist and Della Sungers.

Next Saturday Night

After six o'clock, or any day or night this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough. This medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough or cold and all lung or throat troubles. For bronchial diseases it has no superior and many cases of bronchitis have been entirely cured by its use. Do not hesitate to try this great, meritorious remedy and be convinced of its curative powers. You can buy this medicine for 25c to give it a trial, of F. F. Davenport.

PLENTY OF GOODS

AT THE
Usual Low Prices
AT
F. J. YESRERA'S
Jewelry Store.

QUICK SALES
SMALL PROFITS,
OUR MOTTO.
Call and see for yourselves.
F. J. YESBERA, The Jeweler,
AUBURN, IND.

CLOSING OUT!

Our entire Stock of Clothing must be sold out at once for less than manufacturers' prices.
Come early and avoid the rush.
Overcoats are sold for almost less than one-half their value and everything else in proportion. Don't wait too long, for the Best Bargains will soon be sold.

CLOSING OUT!
O. J. SCHWARZ.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, PUBLISHER.

A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS.

THE FIRST BLOW OF AN INDIAN WAR STRUCK.

The Red Skins Suddenly Turn on the Troops and a Bloody Battle Follows—Daring Robbery—The Dreaded Mafia—Died in a Snow Bank—Wife and Daughter of a Ranchman Abducted by Indians—Three Killed by an Explosion.

A BLOODY BATTLE.

Capt. Wallace Killed and Lieut. Garlington Wounded.

A special from Wounded Knee Creek, dated Dec. 30, says: Bright and early were the troops up this morning. At 8 o'clock they were ordered to be in readiness to move. At that hour the cavalry and dismounted troops were massed about the Indian village, the Hotchkiss guns overlooked the camp not fifty yards away. Col. Forsythe ordered all the Indians to come forward away from their tents. They came and sat in a half circle until counted. The dismounted troops were then thrown around them. Company K, Capt. Wallace, and company B, Capt. Varnum. The order was then given to twenty Indians to go and get their guns. Upon returning it was seen that only two guns were had. A detachment at once began to search the village, resulting in thirty-eight guns being found.

As this task was about completed, the Indians surrounded by companies K and B began to move. All of a sudden they threw their hands to the ground and began firing rapidly at the troops not twenty feet away. The troops were at a great disadvantage, fearing the shooting of their own comrades. The Indian men, women, and children then ran to the south, the battery firing rapidly as they ran. Soon the mounted troops were after them, shooting them down on every side. The engagement lasted fully an hour and a half. To the south many took refuge in a ravine, from which it was difficult to dislodge them. It is estimated the soldiers killed and wounded number about fifty. Just now it is impossible to state the exact number of dead Indians. There are many more than fifty, however, killed outright. The soldiers are shooting the Indians down wherever found, no quarter being given by anyone.

The troops are still firing from the camp, and pursuing the enemy in every direction.

To say that it was a most daring feat, 120 Indians attacking 500 cavalry, expresses the situation but faintly. It could only have been insanity which prompted such a deed. It is doubted that if before night either a buck or a squaw out of all Big Foot's band will be left to tell this day's treachery. The members of the Seventh cavalry have once more shown themselves to be heroes in deeds of daring. Single-handed conflicts were seen all over the field.

A later dispatch says:

The entire band of Indians, consisting of 120 braves and over one hundred and fifty squaws and papooses were killed. The loss of the soldiers were comparatively small, but several were killed, including Capt. Wallace, of the Seventh Cavalry.

The following is a list of the soldiers killed and wounded, so far as obtainable:

Killed—Capt. Wallace, Commander Troop K; Private Cook, Troop B.

Wounded—Father Crafts, Catholic priest, will probably die; Private Frank Lewis, Troop B; Privates Sullivan, Stone, and Smith, Troop K; Corporal Clifton, Troop K, Privates Hazlewood, Tooney and Davis, Sergeant Loyd, Lieutenant Garlington, P. F. Wells, interpretor; Lieutenant Kinzle; Trumpeter Chalderson will die. Sergeant Campbell, Private Sellers, Troop A; Sergeant Dyer and Hoduncan, Private Elliott, Troop K; Sergeant Ward, Troop B; Private Adams and Sergeant Hotchkiss, Troop K. The latter is mortally wounded. Private Cook, Troop I; Corporal Newell, Troop B.

Daring Robbery.

A most daring bank robbery occurred at South Chicago at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Three men drove up to the Merchants' Exchange bank in an open buggy. They entered and stepped to the cashier's window, where two of the ruffians engaged the bank officials in conversation while the third went through an open door, and, laying violent hands on the cashier, beat him into insensibility. Then the robbers cleaned out the bank, leaving not a coin or a bill. After a chase the police captured two of the ruffians, but the third escaped.

The Dreaded Mafia.

Detroit Special: Through the retaining of Charles A. Moore, of this city, to assist in the defense of the Italians accused of murdering Chief of Police Hennessey, of New Orleans, it has leaked out that a branch of the dreaded Mafia exists in this city. It is said that the society here numbers eighteen or twenty members. The managing editor of a Detroit daily has a letter in his possession which is signed by the Mafia, and which orders him, under the penalty of vague threats, to drop the use of the word Dago for Italian in his newspaper.

The Wife and Daughter of a Ranchman Abducted by Indians.

A report has reached the camp on White River in Dakota that the Indians have abducted the wife and daughter of a ranchman named Miller, and afterward burned the ranch. The troops have been sent in pursuit.

Robert Garrett Again O. K.

The mental condition of Robert Garrett, ex-president of the B. & O. railroad, once more appears to be sound. He was on the streets of Baltimore recently, looking as well as ever, and attended the stockholders' meeting of the South Baltimore Car works, and took an active part in the proceedings.

Transferred to the League.

The Chicago Players' League base ball club was formally transferred to A. J. Spalding. The price paid was $35,000 cash and $15,000 of stock in the consolidated New York club.

Counterfeiters Pulled.

A gigantic conspiracy to flood the United States with counterfeit silver dollars has been unearthed at Pittsburgh. Nineteen persons are already under arrest and $1,000 in spurious coin is in the hands of the police. Two Italians, named Ella Darige and Nelson Maggorina, accompanied by their wives, attempted to pass the spurious money over the bar of the Black Bear hotel, but were detected by the proprietors and arrested. The party at first refused to tell where they lived, but the women finally broke down and told the police that they had been living at No. 523 Lincoln avenue, east end. The house was quietly surrounded and fifteen Italians arrested. Secreted under a bed in one of the rooms was found a pile of counterfeit amounting to $1,000.

MIRACULOUS.

A Miner's Lamp Explodes in the Underground Stables of the United Coke Works—No Fatalities.

A miner's lamp exploded in the underground stables at the United Coke Works of C. Fricke & Co., near Mt. Pleasant, Pa. The explosion set fire to hay and feed. The flames spread to all parts of the mine. The tipple houses and several other buildings at the top of the shaft were also destroyed. Nearly all of the company's property above and below the shaft was burned. The fire was caused by Stableman John Skrogs lamp setting fire to a barrel of oil which exploded. The burning oil scattered all about the stable. Skrogs battled with the flames but without effect, and barely gained the top of the shaft when the flames followed him, setting fire to everything of an inflammable nature. There were 120 men at work in the burning mine. At the first alarm the entire population of the town rushed to the burning shaft and a babble of shrieking voices filled the air; half an hour later a hopeful cheer came from the door of an air shaft a short distance away that changed the wailings of the almost frantic people into shouts of joy as they saw their friends crawling out of the little hole in the ground to a place of safety. All of the miners were saved. Mine Master William West had discovered the flames and given timely warning to the workingmen who were scattered over a radius nearly a mile in extent. Mine Master West assuring himself that all his men were safe, with a dozen followers re-entered the mine and erected a brattice preventing the flames from spreading in the heading. Charles Bowder, the company master mechanic, ventured beyond the fire limit and was overcome by the gas. West dashed through the flames, dragging Bowder back to a place of safety, and resuscitated him. The company's loss will reach $75,000 and months will elapse before the works can be operated again.

A LITTLE LASS'

Letter to President Harrison Secures Her Mother a Pension.

Mrs. Bertha Krebs, of Newark, N. J., the widow of Charles Krebs, a veteran of the war, has just received a pension through the kindly intercession of the President. The husband served in the Thirty-third New Jersey Volunteers and was wounded. He died five years ago in the Soldier's Home at Newark, and as he had a small pension, the widow applied for its continuance, for she had children and was destitute. "It seems," said Mrs. Krebs, "that there was nothing done but to write letters and get papers signed. The pension never came." She had given up hope when her little daughter, Bertha, 9 years old, one day, unknown to her, wrote a letter to President Harrison. She told the President who her father was, when and where he died, of the unsuccessful efforts of her mother to get a pension. The child also wrote that she had three brothers and sisters; that her mamma frequently cried, and that she did not know how her mamma could support the family this winter. "That was one Tuesday in November," said the happy mother. "The next Tuesday the postman called at the house and said: 'A letter for Bertha Krebs from the President.' The letter was from the President's secretary, who promised Bertha that the case should be looked into. And now I've just got word from the Pennsylvania office that my claim is allowed. There is $960 back pension allowed with it. And it all came through my little daughter writing to the President." Mrs. Krebs has supported her family of four children by washing and hard day's work ever since her husband's death.

APPALLING.

Further Particulars of the Loss of the Shanghai.

Further advices from China as to the burning of the steamer Shanghai near Woo-Hoo, about fifty miles from Nanking, show that the disaster was much more serious than at first imagined. The earlier advices received stated that the crew, consisting of about sixty natives, together with several European officers, were supposed to have met death either in the flames or, subsequently, by drowning while attempting to escape from the burning vessel. It now seems that the number of lives lost will amount to over two hundred, and that they all lost their lives by drowning. A terrible panic, it appears, occurred among the Chinese passengers and crew as soon as the alarm of fire was heard, and the panic increased terribly when the flames spread beyond the control of the terror-stricken crew. The few European officers on board the Shanghai seem to have done their best to maintain some kind of order among the Chinamen, but without result. The large majority of those who lost their lives did so by jumping overboard in order to escape from the flames. Others met their death through the swamping of the clumsily lowered and overcrowded boats.

BATTLE AT NIGHT.

Kicking Bear Leads an Attack and is Repulsed.

A special from Camp Near Battle Creek, S. D., says: The situation here remains practically unchanged. The weather is cold and the river frozen solid. A company of Cheyenne scouts is encamped at the mouth of Battle Creek. Two attemps were made by the hostiles, who number about eighty, to break into their camp. The first attack was made by only a few of the Indians, who were quickly repulsed with a loss of two killed and several wounded. Three of the Cheyenne Indian scouts were wounded, and it is thought one is fatally hurt. The second attack was made after dark by what was supposed to be the whole band, who were led by Kicking Bear himself. Volley after volley was fired on both sides, and a desultory fire was kept up for an hour or more. It is not known how many of the hostiles were killed, but, judging from the reports of one of the scouts, there must have been several killed, as he says he heard several shout in the Sioux language that they were hit. Troops were sent to the scene at an early hour, and report everything quiet and no hostiles in sight.

Wants to Buy Alaska.

Capt. James Carroll, of Sitka, who has been elected to represent that Territory in Congress if that body would give him a seat, is in Washington, and says if the Government will not give the Territory a system of jurisdiction, and other rights to which it is entitled, he is authorized by solid citizens of the country to offer the Government $14,000,000 for the Territory, and, if accepted, he will pay it over in $20 gold pieces on the shortest sort of notice. This is $7,500,000 more than first cost to say nothing of what the Government has got from the investment in the way of sealing profits.

Don't Believe in Banks.

The other evening, between 6 and 7 o'clock, two men went to the residence of Beland McElroy, an elderly and wealthy farmer living near Huntington, in Rolls County, Mo. They knocked at the door, and when it was opened by Mr. McElroy they covered him with revolvers. One of them took charge of the family, while the other ransacked the house, in his search kicking open a trunk and stealing $4,600. They then left. The men were masked. An alarm was at once given, but no clew to the robbers has been found. Mr. McElroy did not believe in banks but kept his wealth concealed in the house.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION.

A Fierce Tornado Sweeps Over a Part of Ohio With Serious Results.

A fierce tornado visited the new syndicate town of Barberton, Ohio, fifty-eight miles south of Akron. The only buildings destroyed were the new shoe shop and the factory of the Creedmoor Cartridge Co. All the brick work had been finished and the carpenters were at work on the ridgepole when the high winds demolished the walls down to the first story in a twinkling, and seven men were hurled from the building into heaps of timbers and brick. John Triplett, of New Porte, aged 29, was instantly killed, crushed by the fall. Those injured were Frank Stuver, internally, ribs crushed in the region of the heart, in a critical condition; Louis Kantalla, leg broken, ribs broken and shoulder dislocated, may not recover; Isaiah Lower, internally, on back of head, serious; T. E. Homer, leg and arm injured; Frank Mallory, arm injured, shoulder dislocated; Horatio Leib, arm injured, body severely bruised.

DROWNED.

Several Hundred Skaters Plunged Into Icy Waters.

London Special: A terrible accident is reported from Warwick-on-Avon. While several thousand skaters were disporting themselves on the river at that place, the ice suddenly, and without a note of warning, cracked in the middle of the river. An immense fissure opened, through which some 500 skaters plunged into the icy waters. A cry of horror arose from the spectators, while the more fortunate of the skaters lost no time in reaching the river banks. When the first shock was over a number of people hurried to the rescue of the drowning, and a number of them were pulled out, but it is feared that many are drowned, as a large number are missing. The latest reports state that seventeen bodies have been recovered, among them several women.

Both Burned to Death.

Holden (Mo.) special: The home of Sam Malone was discovered to be on fire. When Chief Johnson, of the fire department arrived, and the side of the building fell in he could see into the sleeping room of the occupants. Malone and his wife had separated a few weeks ago, and his brother-in-law, John Hicks, was living with him. Johnson saw Hicks leaning against the head of the bed, dead, and Malone lying on the floor. It appeared that both men had tried to escape, or else had died in a death struggle with an assailant. Malone was an old soldier and drew a large pension. It is supposed he had considerable money in the house, as he drew his pension only a few days ago. The coroner held an inquest, but nothing definite was developed. Malone's skull was crushed and his brains running out, and it is believed that two wounds were discovered on the body, but the bodies are burned so badly that it cannot be said that these discoveries amount to anything.

A Lucky Catch.

On the 30th of November James T. Hamilton, Secretary of the Big Bend Mining Company, started from New York for his home in Seattle, Wash., having in his possession various stock certificates, the face value of which are over $82,000. While waiting for his train in the Pennsylvania Depot at Jersey City his valise, which contained the stocks and other papers of value, was stolen. The police were informed of the loss, and by some very clever detective work succeeded in tracing the thief to Philadelphia, where he was arrested on the 17th of December. The thief, who proved to be Harry Edwards, 24 years of age, of Camden, N. J., confessed his guilt and was taken to Jersey City to await trial. All the property, excepting a bank book belonging to Mr. Hamilton, has been recovered.

A Wife's Devotion.

Frank B. Aldrich and his wife met at Riverside penitentiary, near Pittsburgh, under touching circumstances. Aldrich was sent to prison last November for eight years, on the charge of having buncoed an old gentleman, named Lottin, who resides in Allegheny, out of $1,000. The condemned man's wife was firm in the belief that her husband was innocent. She wrote to the board of pardons and traveled all over the country procuring evidence, and enlisted prominent men in her cause. The result was that she proved a case of mistaken identity so strong that the pardon was granted. Bright and early the other morning Mrs. Aldrich was at the prison to welcome her husband again in freedom.

Parnell Is Beaten.

The election held to fill the seat in the House of Commons made vacant by the death of Mr. Marum, member for North Kilkenny, has resulted in the return of Sir John Pope Hennessy, the anti-Parnellite candidate. The vote stands as follows: Sir John Pope Hennessy (anti-Parnellite) 2,502; Mr. Vincent Scully (Parnellite) 1,356. The opponents of Mr. Parnell are exultant over the result which they consider but the forerunner of a sweeping victory in the coming general election. The Parnellites are greatly cast down, and practically concede the cause of their leader to be hopeless.

Heathenish Practices.

The bodies of four Indians, who were hanged at Missoula, have been buried at St. Ignatus Mission. The families and relatives of the dead men gathered in the night and began a weird ceremony, after the style of Indian funeral rites. The crowd was dispersed by the Indian police. The wives of Laze and Pascale, two of the executed men, gashed their own heads, and were preparing to cut off the fingers of one hand, when they were stopped. The children of the dead Indians also gashed their heads and hands, and their blood was dripping into the graves which had been partially opened.

Death of an Educator.

Rev. Dr. James Black, D. D., LL. D., professor of languages at Wooster, Ohio, University is dead. Dr. Black was a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, and a classmate of James G. Blaine. He was afterwards professor of languages in Washington College for several years; was President of the Iowa State University from 1868 to 1870, and not long after came to Wooster and entered upon the work from which he has just been released by death. Dr. Black was 65 years old.

Natural Gas Explosion.

An explosion of natural gas completely wrecked the residence of E. Berkoltz at McKeesport, Pa., and dangerously injured Mrs. Berkoltz recently. The gas pipe in the cellar was leaking, and an open door allowed the gas to escape to a stove, when it ignited. The woman was burned terribly about the face and hands. Her three children in the house escaped uninjured.

Every Bone Is Crushed.

Levin Jackson, of Steubenville, Ohio, met with a terrible death. He was tending a crusher at Nicholson's brick works. A stone in the clay clogged the crusher, and instead of stopping the engine he reached in to get the stone out while the mill was revolving and fell. The revolving pan carried him under the immense wheels that grind the clay, and in an instant he was dead, every bone in his body being crushed. He had only been married a short time, and his wife is almost heart-broken.

Homes of Missionaries Attacked.

Advices from Madagascar, under date of November 6, state that a body of Hovas, paid by the Malagasy premier, have pillaged the Catholic missionaries' premises at Antananarivo. Father Montant was wounded while doing his utmost to protect the property of the missionary station. In addition to this outrage, the Hovas attacked the house of the French Vice President, the Comptoir d'Escompte and other prominent buildings, which attacks were repulsed by the occupants of the buildings referred to. The protestant missions were not molested by the Hovas.

Through the Ice.

A shocking accident occurred at Ann Arbor, Mich., resulting in the death of Frank E. Dickerson, a student in the homœopathic department of the university, and Miss Gertrude M. Brundage, a student in the medical department. The couple went skating on the mill pond. Not returning, Miss Brundage's mother began search. She found her daughter's muff on the ice, and a little further on, a hole in the ice. The pond was dragged and both bodies recovered. Dickerson's home is in Dubuque, Iowa, and Miss Brundage's home, Long Island.

Identified.

The remains of the highwayman shot by Street Car Driver Seeley at Indianapolis, a few nights ago while protecting his cash box from robbery, were identified as those of Alex Cronin, a well-known Louisville crook, whose parents reside in St. Louis. Cronin has served one term in the Kentucky penitentiary and two terms in Indiana for highway robbery. Seeley was brought into court and all charges against him dismissed.

Killed at a Crossing.

Allen Green, aged 70, was standing on the railroad crossing at Newark, waiting for a train to pass, when an east-bound Panhandle freight engine struck him, knocking him under the wheels. His left leg was crushed and his left arm mangled, and he had a great hole cut in his forehead. He begged that his crushed limbs be not taken off, but the doctors amputated them. Green died from his injuries.

Falling Walls.

While some men were tearing down a wall of one of Armour's old packing houses at Forty-third street and Packers avenue, Chicago, the wall collapsed and fell, burying several men in the ruins. Michael Barry and an unknown man were instantly killed, and William Devine and John McInerny were fatally injured. A number of other men were more or less seriously injured.

Horrible Murder.

John Brennan, station agent at Bay's Station, on the Toledo, Findlay and Springfield Railroad, was murdered and robbed. His body was then thrown into the depot, which was set on fire. How much money was secured by the miscreants, or who they were, are matters upon which no light as yet has been thrown.

Farmer Robbed.

Frank Myers, a farmer and agent for agricultural implements, tells a thrilling story about three robbers relieving him of $1,400 near the scene of the Kuhns-Campan murder, at Fostoria, Ohio. The robbers impersonated officers and put Myers under arrest and placed handcuffs on his hands. He was then robbed. Marshal Neff filed the handcuffs off.

Fire at Walbridge, Ohio.

Three dwellings and four barns were burned at Walbridge, Ohio. While the loss will not exceed $8,000, it is a very severe blow to the village, as all are poor and no insurance. A gale was blowing and carried the burning embers to barns one-half mile distant.

Freight Depot Burned.

The freight depot of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad at Cincinnati, was entirely destroyed by fire. Seven or eight freight cars were consumed. The fire is supposed to have started from a stove in one of the offices.

Killed a Highwayman.

Two masked men attempted to rob a street car in the suburbs of Indianapolis, but Theo. A. Seeley, the conductor in charge, killed one and wounded the other. The dead highwayman is unrecognized. The other escaped.

Two Men Killed.

The packing house of the American Forcite Power Company at Kanville, N. J., blew up. Cause not known. J. R. Johnson and M. Sherry, the only men near the building, were killed. Both leave large families.

World's Fair Officially Proclaimed.

The President has signed the World's Fair proclamation. It gives notice that the fair will open May 1, 1893, and close the last Thursday in October. All nations of the earth are invited to participate.

Thirty-Three Persons Drowned.

The Hamburg ship Libussa, collided with the British ship Talookolar, from Calcutta for London. The Captain and twenty-two of the crew and ten passengers of the Talookolar were lost.

Gets Fifteen Years.

John Siberry was sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary for wife murder, at Bluffton, Ind.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	$3.25	@	5.50
HOGS—Shipping Grades	3.00	@	4.00
SHEEP	3.00	@	5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.91	@	.91½
CORN—No. 2	.48	@	.48½
OATS—No. 2	.40	@	.40½
RYE—No. 2	.64	@	.66
BUTTER—Choice Creamery	.26	@	.28
CHEESE—Full Creams, flats	.09½	@	.10½
EGGS—Fresh	.20	@	.21
POTATOES—Western, per bu	.85	@	.90
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping	3.50	@	4.75
HOGS—Choice Light	3.00	@	3.50
SHEEP—Common to Prime	3.00	@	4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@	.94½
CORN—No. 1 White	.50	@	.50½
OATS—No. 2 White	.48	@	.48½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE	4.00	@	5.50
HOGS	3.00	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.94	@	.95
CORN—No. 2	.46	@	.46½
OATS—No. 2	.41	@	.41½
BARLEY—Nebraska	.72	@	.74
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE	3.00	@	4.50
HOGS	3.00	@	4.00
SHEEP	3.00	@	5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.98½	@	.99½
CORN—No. 2	.52	@	.52½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed	.45½	@	.46½
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring	.85	@	.87
CORN—No. 3	.46	@	.47
OATS—No. 2 White	.41	@	.42
RYE—No. 1	.66	@	.68
BARLEY—No. 2	.66	@	.66½
DETROIT.
CATTLE	3.00	@	5.00
HOGS	3.00	@	3.50
SHEEP	3.00	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	.98	@	.99
CORN—No. 2 Yellow	.52	@	.53
OATS—No. 2 White	.45½	@	.46
TOLEDO.
WHEAT	.94	@	.95
CORN—Cash	.52	@	.53
OATS—No. 2 White	.46	@	.47
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime	4.00	@	5.00
HOGS—Medium and Heavy	3.50	@	4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard	1.08	@	1.08½
CORN—No. 2	.57½	@	.58½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime	3.50	@	4.75
HOGS—Light	3.25	@	4.00
SHEEP—Medium to Good	4.00	@	5.25
LAMBS	4.00	@	6.00
NEW YORK.
CATTLE	3.50	@	5.25
HOGS	3.25	@	3.75
SHEEP	4.00	@	5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red	1.04½	@	1.06½
CORN—No. 2	.58	@	.60
OATS—Mixed Western	.46	@	.50

CHRONOLOGY OF 1890.

RAW MATERIAL FOR HISTORY—RECORD OF A YEAR.

Victims of Steamship Wrecks, Mine Disasters, Fire Horrors, Boiler Explosions, Railroad Collisions and Epidemic Disease—Great Floods of the Year—Incidents of Each Month.

The year 1890 opened inauspiciously as far as accidents were concerned, and the national administration, outside of politics, was singularly unfortunate early in the winter. At the beginning of the social season in Washington life the wife of the President suffered an affliction in the loss of her sister. Then came the death of Walker Blaine, the eldest son of the chief member of the Cabinet. Within a fortnight Mr. Blaine mourned the loss of his eldest daughter, Mrs. Coppinger, and then came the terrible calamity that befell the family of Secretary Tracy. From the standpoint of the philosopher, the attentive reader will observe that neither wealth nor high official station exempts anybody from the ills of human life.

It is estimated that the railroads of the United States lose $2,000,000 yearly by landslides, $5,000,000 by floods, $1,000,000 by fire, and $9,000,000 by collisions.

Important occurrences follow, with dates:

JANUARY.
7. Several horses killed at St. Louis, Mo., and many small fires started by electric wires which were broken by a storm.
9. Announcement made of the discovery of Cleopatra's tomb in Egypt.
11. Fire at Lexington, Ky., cremated thirty-five valuable horses, among them the trotter Bell Boy, for which $51,000 had been paid, and whose owner had once refused $100,000 for him; total loss, $350,000.
12. Number of cases of influenza (or "la grippe") in Berlin to date, estimated at 400,000; number of deaths due to the disease, 650. Drunkenness greatly increased at Paris, because physicians prescribed alcoholic drink as a preventive.
15. The Pope issued an order that in countries where the government is opposed to Catholicism Catholics must obey the state where such a course does not entail disobedience to the divine laws; also, they must not tie the church to any political party......The South Dakota Legislature passed its first bill—to provide for refunding the indebtedness of the State.
21. About a thousand fishing boats wrecked off the Bosnu coast, Japan; nearly all on board, between 2,500 and 3,000, perished.
22. Incoming steamers at New York reported the worst weather ever before known on the Atlantic Ocean.
27. Andrew Charter (colored), aged 8 years, received at the Nashville penitentiary, to serve one year for larceny.
28. Near Cascade, Cal., the tracks of the Central Pacific Road were covered by snow to a depth of fifty feet; trains in the Sierras were snow-bound and passengers lived on canned goods for a fortnight.
FEBRUARY.
3. Burning of the residence of Secretary of the Navy Tracy at Washington; Mrs. Tracy, her daughter Mary, and a French maid, Josephine Morrell, lose their lives.
4. Celebration at New York of the centennial of the United States Supreme Bench; addresses made by ex-President Cleveland, Associate Justice Field, and others.
6. Explosion in Abasycham colliery, near Newport, Wales; 170 lives lost.
10. In the municipal election at Salt Lake City the Gentiles were successful by over 800 majority, the event being considered the virtual overthrow of Mormon rule in Utah.
19. Dead-lock in Iowa House of Representatives ended by compromise, having lasted over five weeks.
22. Sixty persons drowned by the giving way of a great reservoir at Prescott, Arizona.
25. Seventy bodies of murdered infants found on the premises of a midwife named Skobiski, whose house was burned at Warsaw, Poland.
28. Loss of the steamer Quetta in Australian waters; 113 persons drowned.
MARCH.
5. Near Chapel Hill, Texas, a hailfall to the depth of eighteen inches to two feet was reported.
10. Explosion in the Morsa colliery, Glamorganshire, Wales; 88 miners perished.
17. Prince Bismarck, Chancellor of the German Empire, tendered his resignation and retired to private life.
27. Louisville, Ky., swept by a cyclone; 103 persons killed. Along the line of the storm in Kentucky, outside Louisville, 150 persons were killed; at Clay the dead numbered twenty-three.
30. Strikes reported spreading in Europe; throughout Catalonia, in Spain, 40,000 factory employes and 20,000 shoemakers in England quit work, and the colliers at St. Elo, France, demanded an advance in wages......Levees along the Mississippi River broke, and a vast amount of damage resulted; the town of Skipwith, near Vicksburg, was swept out of sight by the water from a huge crevasse, and in Desha County, Arkansas, a section of land 20,000 acres in extent was covered by the flood, the settlers living on the tops of houses and in trees and suffering for food.
MAY.
3. At Laurel Fork, W. Va., James Sevate, aged 101, and Mrs. Terence, aged 83, were married; the groomsman was 81 and the bridesmaid 78......Hermit, the winner of the sensational Epsom Derby of 1867, when 66 to 1 was bet against him, died of old age; he was the property of Henry Chaplin, Minister of Agriculture of England, who won a fortune on him.
6. Fire in Longue Pointe Lunatic Asylum, near Montreal, Quebec; over 150 lives lost......Burning of the Singer sewing machine factory at Elizabethport, N. J.; loss, $3,000,000.
18. Powder explosion at Havana, Cuba, results in loss of thirty-four lives.
24. Ellis Island, New York harbor, turned over to the United States Government as a landing place for immigrants......Report that New York lawyers entered into an agreement to refuse answering questions of census enumerators touching acute or chronic diseases, or defects of mind or body.
JUNE.
5. Bradshaw, a Nebraska town, laid in ruins by a cyclone.
11. Democrats of the Fourth District of Indiana unanimously renominated Congressman William S. Holman—the nineteenth time he has been similarly honored by his party.
13. Cholera made its appearance at Valencia and Malaga, in Spain.
16. Explosion of fire-damp in a coal mine at Dunbar, Pa.; thirty-four killed.
25. The lower house of the Louisiana Legislature passed a bill extending the franchise of the lottery company twenty-five years; the company is to pay into the State Treasury $1,250,000 yearly.....In a match race at Sheepshead Bay, Long Island, the four-year-old colt Salvator established a record that is likely to remain unbeaten for many years—he having ran a mile and a quarter in 2:05.
JULY.
4. The President signed the bill admitting Idaho to the Union, and the forty-third star on the American flag was added.
7. Discovery of gold, the richest "strike" on record, reported near Tin Cup, Colo.....Fargo, North Dakota, swept by a cyclone, almost laying the town in ruins.
8. Seven hundred persons killed by a cyclone in Muscat, a province of Arabia.
10. The President approved the act for the admission of Wyoming to the Federal Union ......State Senator J. Fisher Smith, of Louisiana, died soon after the passage of the lottery bill by a two-thirds vote; he had been ailing, but was carried to his seat, as his vote was necessary to override the Governor's veto.
11. Explosion of gas on the steamer Tioga, in the Chicago River; forty stevedores and 'longshoremen hurled to instant death.
13. Lake City, Minn., swept by a cyclone which capsized the steamer Sea Wing on Lake Pepin, the latter being crowded with excursionists; 130 lives lost. The same storm swept on its way through the charming summer resorts of Northern Minnesota, adding scores more of victims to its fury, besides wounding a great number and destroying much valuable property.
16. White Star steamer Teutonic made the passage from Queenstown to New York in 5 days 13 hours—best on record.
29. Explosion of fire-damp in coal-pit at St. Etienne, France; 120 miners reported killed.
AUGUST.
4. Railway accident near Innsbruck, in the Tyrol; 120 people perished.
13. Bridget Doody died at Mineral Point, Wis., aged 120 years; she was born in Ireland, and the parish record shows the date of her birth.
13. Explosion in government powder mill at Canton, China; 200 houses destroyed and over 1,000 lives lost.
19. Wilkesbarre, Pa., and vicinity visited by a terrible cyclone; loss of life in devastated district exceeded 100.
22. Wreck on the Old Colony Railroad at Quincy, Mass.; twenty-two persons perished.
25. Tokay, Hungary's famous wine-producing town, wiped out by fire; only thirteen houses were left in the place....Great rejoicing marked the practical completion of the Canada-United States tunnel under the St. Clair River at Port Huron, Mich.
26. The Grand Master of Missouri Odd Fellows declared that the Grand Lodge had no authority to dismiss saloonkeepers from the order.
28. On the straight course at Monmouth, N. J., the horse Salvator ran a mile in 1:35½.
SEPTEMBER.
5. Great floods in Central Europe; 10,000 persons made homeless by the overflowing of the Drave, Elbe and Danube rivers.
6. Twenty men killed by a premature blast at Spokane Falls, Wash.
9. California celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the admission of that State into the Union.
11. First snow fall of the season in the United States reported from Fort Assinaboine, Montana.
12. Four million people rendered homeless in one province of China by the Yellow River floods.
18. Mining disaster at St. Wendel, Germany; 150 miners entombed.
18. Turkish man-of-war Ertogroul foundered in Japanese Sea; 500 lives lost.
19. Wreck at curve on Reading Railroad, near Shoemakersville, Pa.; fifty persons killed.
OCTOBER.
2. Forest fires in the Black Hills reported the most destructive in the history of the country; loss to mining camps and ranches and to timber interests very heavy.
7. Fifteen lives lost by an explosion at the Dupont powder-works, near Wilmington, Del.; the shock was plainly felt at Philadelphia and Chester (Pa.), Millville (N. J.), and other points thirty to thirty-five miles away.
30. Wreck of the Spanish steamer Viscaya off Barnegat, N. J.; ninety-seven lives lost.
NOVEMBER.
10. British cruiser Serpent founders at sea, off the coast of Spain; 275 lives lost.
DECEMBER.
12. Cholera ravaging the State of Guatemala; 1,200 deaths in the city of Guatemala in seven days.
20. At Cordova, in the Argentine Republic, the canal burst its embankments; 100 lives lost and hundreds of houses destroyed.
24. President Harrison issued a proclamation inviting all the nations of the earth to participate in the Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893.

THE DISTINGUISHED DEAD.

JANUARY.
2. Hon. George H. Boker, poet, playwright, and ex-Minister to Turkey and Russia; Philadelphia, aged 66.
7. Augusta, once Empress of Germany and Queen of Prussia, aged 78.
9. Judge Wm. D. Kelley, the father of the House of Representatives; Washington, D. C., aged 75.
10. Dr. Doellinger, head of the "Old Catholic" movement in Southern Germany.
14. Lord Robert Cornelius Napier of Magdala; London, England, aged 80.
15. Walker Blaine, eldest son of the Secretary of State; Washington, D. C., aged 35.
18. Prince Amadeo, Duke of Aosta, brother of the King, and formerly King of Spain.
23. Adam Forepaugh, the veteran showman.
24. Ex-Senator H. H. Riddleberger, of Virginia.
27. Ex-Lieut. Gov. Bross, of Illinois....Rev. Father Stroup, head of the Catholic Order of the Holy Ghost in America.
FEBRUARY.
2. Mrs. Alice Coppinger, eldest daughter of Secretary Blaine.
7. Captain General J. Salamanca, of Cuba.
8. Cardinal Pecci, brother of the Pope....William Goldthwaite, one of the old-time billiard players; New York, aged 47.
18. Count Julius Andrassy, Hungarian statesman.
19. Joseph Gillis Biggar, M. P., well-known home-ruler.
22. John Jacob Astor, grandson of the man of that name, and the richest man in America; New York, aged 70.
24. Mrs. Lovel Greeley, sister of the late Horace Greeley; Spring Creek, Pa., aged 75.
MARCH.
2. Ex-Gov. James E. English of Connecticut.
5. Abraham Lincoln, 17-year-old son of United States Minister Robert T. Lincoln, at London, England.
8. Matilda Ruley, at Raywick, Ky., aged 123 years.
11. Ex-Congressman Wm. Preston Taulbee, of Kentucky, who was shot by Chas. E. Kincaid, a newspaper man, at the Capitol, Feb. 11.
21. Major General George Crook, U. S. A.
23. Gen. Robert C. Schenck, ex-Minister to England......At Salinas, Cal., "Old Gabriel," an Indian, aged 151 years.
25. Prof. Richard Dale Owen, scientist; New Harmony, Ind., aged 80.
26. Archbishop Michael Heiss of the Catholic diocese of La Crosse, Wis......Justice James V. Campbell, of the Michigan Supreme Court.
30. David Dows, a New York millionaire who during the war rendered great service to the Government in organizing the national-bank system.
31. Vice Admiral Stephen Rowan, U. S. N.
APRIL.
2. Gen. Thomas C. Anderson, prominent Republican politician and a member of the famous Louisiana Returning Board of 1874 to 1876.
7. William Galloway, who ran the first locomotive on the Baltimore and Ohio Road, and probably the oldest railroad engineer in the world; Baltimore, aged 81.
9. Aristides Welch, a widely known breeder of famous horses; Philadelphia, aged 79.
11. George B. Stuart, organizer of the U. S. Christian Commission; Philadelphia, aged 74.
13. Samuel Jackson Randall, Pennsylvania's well-known Democratic statesman.
21. Captain William L. Couch, a leader of the Oklahoma boomers.
MAY.
2. Bishop Borgess, of the Catholic Diocese of Michigan.
3. U. S. Senator James B. Beck of Kentucky; Washington, D. C., aged 68.
5. Ex-Lieut. Gov. Andrew Shuman, of Illinois.
16. Ex-Judge Thomas Drummond, of the U. S. Circuit Court, Seventh Judicial District; Wheaton, Ill., aged 80.
JUNE.
2. Matthew Morgan, the famous artist.
3. Alfred T. Perrine, the inventor of the gatling gun; at the Cincinnati City Hospital, in poverty.
11. John Penny, a Scotchman, known as the "Silver King;" Bolivia, South America, aged 58....Mrs. Henry Jaha, the last survivor of the Nipuck tribe of Indians; Webster, Mass., aged 76.
23. Hon. George W. McCrary, ex-Secretary of War.
JULY.
4. Hon. Beverly Tucker, a noted politician of Virginia.
8. Ex-Congressman P. D. Wigginton, of California; candidate of the American party for the Presidency in the last campaign.
9. Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, a wise counselor and a sagacious leader of the Prohibition party.
11. Ex-Senator Thomas B. McCreary, of Kentucky.
13. Gen. John C. Fremont, first Republican candidate for President; New York City, aged 77.
19. Congressman James P. Walker, of Missouri ......J. W. W. Watson, literary man and author of "Beautiful Snow;" New York, aged 67.
26. Judge S. S. Marshall, one of the Illinois Democracy's ablest leaders.
AUGUST.
10. John Boyle O'Reilly, soldier, revolutionist, exile, poet, and editor; Hull, Mass., aged 46.
11. Cardinal John Henry Newman, eminent English Catholic divine.
18. Near Sandusky, Ohio, Margaret Soloman, the last of the tribe of Wyandotte Indians......At the Standing Rock Agency, N. D., George Faribault, chief of the Indian police; he was the Daniel Boone of Minnesota, and, being himself a quarter-breed, had great influence among the savages; during the Indian troubles he saved the lives of many whites.
25. Congressman Lewis F. Watson, of Pennsylvania.
SEPTEMBER.
4. Gen. E. F. Noyes, jurist, diplomatist, and ex-Governor of Ohio.
8. Hon. I. P. Christiancy, ex-U. S. Senator from Michigan.
18. Dion Boucicault, playwright and actor.
21. Gov. C. C. Stevenson, of Nevada.
OCTOBER.
2. Ex-Gov. Philip Francis Thomas, of Maryland.
12. Gen. W. W. Belknap, ex-Secretary of War.
13. Associate Justice S. F. Miller, of U. S. Supreme Court.
21. At the Columbus (Ohio) penitentiary, Pete McCartney, the noted counterfeiter.
NOVEMBER.
23. King William III. of Holland.
24. August Belmont, leading financier and influential Democrat of New York.
25. Benjamin P. Shillaber ("Mrs. Partington"), veteran humorist and author.
DECEMBER.
6. Joe Coburn, the once famous pugilist.
8. Washington McLean, formerly a leading politician of Ohio.
9. Gen. George C. Ginty, distinguished member of the Wisconsin press.
15. Sitting Bull, the Sioux chief—slain while resisting arrest.
16. Gen. Alfred H. Terry, U. S. A. (retired).

LEGAL EXECUTIONS.

JANUARY.
3. Calvin Morris at Houma, La.
17. James Holcombe at St. John, La.; Isaiah and Charles Dent at Clinton, La.
FEBRUARY.
14. Wong Ah Hing at San Francisco, Cal.
18. Ellison Mounts at Pikeville, Ky.
20. William Seeley Hopkins at Bellefonte, Pa.; Schoope and Coles at Philadelphia.
21. Rev. Henry Duncan at Ozark, Ala.
26. G. A. Black at Laramie, Wyoming; George Clarke at Waynesburg, Pa.
28. Dick Hawes at Birmingham, Ala.
MARCH.
7. Felix Camp at Charleston, W. Va.
14. Robert Raines at Hartzell's, Ala.
19. M. J. Cheatham at Grenada, Miss.
21. Prince Saunders at Plaquemine, La.
APRIL.
3. Robert McCoy and William Hicks at Homerville, Ga.
9. Alfred Andrews at Bellefonte, Pa.; William H. Bartholomew at Easton, Pa.; Zach Taylor at Waynesburg, Pa.; William Carter at Ebensburg, Pa.
11. Charles Simmons at Mount Pleasant, S. C.
16. Martin Futrell at Hernando, Miss.
18. Ben Eisoy at Birmingham, Ala.
MAY.
1. James Palmer at Concord, N. H.
9. Bob Hill at Augusta, Ga.; Sandy Jones at Birmingham, Ala.; William Davis at Union, S. C.
JUNE.
20. Josiah Potts and Elizabeth, his wife, at Elko, Nev.; Peter E. Davis at Belleville, Ontario; Fritz Dubois at Quebec.
24. Harry Ballard, Parker Harris, Edward Carr, and Frank Brennish at Memphis, Tenn.
27. William Brooker at Pine City, Minn.
JULY.
9. John Stansberry at Fort Smith, Ark.
30. Harry Bivins, alias Dudley, at Scranton, Miss.
31. Kelly Stewart at Live Oak, Fla.
AUGUST.
1. Rachel Cateo and William Clyburn at Lancaster, Pa.
6. William Kemmler put to death by electricity at Auburn penitentiary, N. Y.
15. John Phillips at Boynton, Va.
20. Otto Leuth of Cleveland and John (alias "Brocky") Smith of Cincinnati at Columbus, Ohio.
OCTOBER.
17. James Maxwell at Morris, Ill.
22. Harry Williams at Rolling Fork, Miss.
29. Thomas G. Woolfolk (who murdered nine members of his family) at Perry, Ga.
NOVEMBER.
14. John Reginald Birchall, at Woodstock, Ont.
21. Jack Staples, at Knoxville, Tenn.
DECEMBER.
1. Ellis Miller, at Columbus, Ohio.
12. William W. Blanchard, at Sherbrooke, Ont.
16. Arthur H. Day, at Welland, Ont.; Elmer Sharkey and Henry Popp, at Columbus, Ohio.
19. Four Indians—Lallacee, Pierre Paul, Antley, and Pascale—at Missoula, Montana; Remi La Montague, at Sherbrooke, Ont.
23. Mary Eleanor Wheeler, alias Mrs. Pearcey, at London, England.

VICTIMS OF JUDGE LYNCH.

FEBRUARY.
13. George Corvett at Crawfordsville, Ark.
27. Brown Washington near Madison, Ga.
MARCH.
8. Allen and Witherford Irving at Princeton, W. Va.
15. Amos Stanton at Bromfield, Neb.
16. Henry Williams at Gadsden, Tenn.
19. Benjamin Grewel at Robinson Station, Ky.
21. Robert Mosley near Huntsville, Ala.
MAY.
4. C. M. Miles in Indian Territory.
10. Ed Bennett at Hearne, Texas.
JUNE.
18. George Swayze at East Feliciana, La.
JULY.
17. Green Jackson at Fort White, Fla.
AUGUST.
9. William Beaver near Warren, Ark.
15. Charles Pratt at Blair, Neb.
17. Thomas Woodward at Rumboldt, Tenn.
SEPTEMBER.
2. Thomas Smith at Poplar Bluff, Mo.
OCTOBER.
2. Ernest Humphreys at Princeton, Ky.
11. Frank Wooden at Homer, La.
17. Bill Singleton at Macon, Ga.
30. Near Valdosta, Ga., ——— Palseo.
NOVEMBER.
14. Ned Stevens at Savannah, Tenn.
DECEMBER.
9. Moses Lemon at Roebuck, Miss.
10. Dan Williams, near Quincy, Fla.
21. At Boydtown, Va., five negroes who were in jail for murder.
22. Near Huntington, Oregon, three unknown tramps—by railroad men.

Victimized Reporters.

Among the amusing pranks played by reporters, the practical joke played on his colleagues by Peter Finnerty, the oldtime Parliamentary reporter, remains one of the best on record. The special victim in this case was a reporter named Morgan O'Sullivan who, feeling too drowsy during a dull debate to keep his eyes open, asked Finnerty to supply him with any important speeches made during his nap, and then went to sleep. When he awoke, Finnerty gravely informed him that during his nap there had been an important speech delivered by Mr. Wilberforce on the virtues of the Irish potato. Morgan, never pausing to think that the subject had a suggestion of the ludicrous, would not be pacified until the speech had been dictated to him by Finnerty. The speech, entirely Finnerty's concoction, made Wilberforce say: "Had it been my lot to be born and reared in Ireland, where my food would have principally consisted of the potato—the most nutritious and salubrious root—instead of being the poor, infirm, stunted creature you, sir, and honorable gentlemen, now behold me, I should have been a tall, stout, athletic man; and able to carry an enormous weight. I hold that root to be invaluable, and the man who first cultivated it in Ireland I regard as a benefactor of the first magnitude to his country." Morgan took all this in, and so delighted was he with the speech that he gave it to his colleagues, with the result that next morning every paper of note (except Finnerty's paper, the Morning Chronicle) had this amazing report of Wilberforce's great speech on the potato.

A Great Glass.

A distinguished assemblage of mathematicians and scientists gathered enthusiastically around a plain packing-box in Cambridge, Mass., a few days ago to look at a piece of glass. It was ten feet in circumference and some three inches thick, but as it lay in its bed of excelsior its value exceeded $60,000, and the spectators regarded it with the greatest affection.

The place was the office of Alvan Clark, the noted telescope maker, and the glass was the lens for the new telescope to be erected on Wilson Peak, in the Sierra Madre Mountains, near Los Angeles, 6,000 feet above the sea, for the University of Southern California. It will be the largest telescope in the world, the object glass being 3 feet 4 inches in diameter, or five inches more than the famous Lick telescope. The tube will be sixty-five feet long, and the moon will be brought by it within one hundred miles of the earth. The whole is the gift of E. F. Spence, President of the First National Bank of Los Angeles. The glass was cast in Paris, after no less than 110 attempts, and is insured for its full value in two Boston companies.

It will take fully two years yet to grind and polish it to the required focus, and, when to all appearances complete, the human fingers will be called into play to finish its surface. It is ground down with red oxide of iron and polished with beeswax.

When in position the telescope is expected to perform wonders. It will have a photographic outfit which will be three times larger than any now in existence. It will cost $3,000 to transport the glass to Los Angeles.

Hints to Folks Who Give Big Dinners.

I have a hint for you people who give big dinners, and I get it straight from the other side of the ocean, says a New York correspondent of the Boston Herald. This winter the candelabra with wax tapers and tiny paper shades will not be so modish, and the reason is that they prevent the use of flowers. The dictum now is: No dinner without flowers in the wildest profusion. This is official. What may be served is a secondary consideration. The flowers now are the proof of the pudding.

Well, as to the promised hint. You secure five very large and very elegant lamps, and these you place, one at the center of the table and one at each corner, and between the center lamp and the corner ones you swing silken hammocks in æsthetic tints. These you fill to overflowing with natural flowers, tumbled in and tumbling out in artistic disorder. But, mark you, a profusion of them, for without this you're lost. The effect is said to be indiscribably beautiful, for the huge lamps, too, are intertwined with them, and you seem to be in a land of bloom and fragrance, in a bower of enchantment. Yes, it is rather expensive. That's the only objection. But folly is always high priced, and yet people seem to think it pays. Another objection to so many flowers is that the stifling odor takes away all desire to eat. Eat? Why, bless your simple mind, you must eat before you leave the house. Business always before pleasure.

What a Cow Picked Up.

Thomas Addison, of Fairfax County, Virginia, took from the hoof of an old family cow the other day, it is related, a handsome gold finger ring, with a large green stone setting. On the seal was engraved a Mexican coat of arms, and on the inside was the name of D. J. Hoyt and a Mexican cipher, and dates showing the ring to have been in the Mexican war. How it got on his farm and in the hoof of his cow, Mr. Addison does not know.

WHEN you hear that a man has passed in his checks, it is not always safe to infer that he is dead; he may only have overdrawn his bank account.

SOME men are so far-seeing that they stumble over their insight and knock all the brains out of their knee pans.

CANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles,

EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!
LUNEAS! NEVADA!
IMPERIAL PINK!
ROUSSEL ROSE
EDEN BOUQUET!
LILY OF THE VALLEY!
All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a cobweb,
Lasting as the hills."

☞ If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.
46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND.

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?
1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.
2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.
3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.
CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.
GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.
MASTERS CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.
BUY AT DRUGGISTS.
HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

THE SKELETON.

BY AUGUST GRAY.

'Mid gilded walls and stately halls
  I pass the time away;
I have great wealth, enjoy good health,
  And many servants pay.
I have a wife to share my life,
  Whom servants wait upon,
And by my side doth ever hide
  An unseen skeleton.

My wife's fair face doth match the grace
  And beauty of her form;
With pleasant smiles, through many miles
  We've passed, of calm and storm.
Each well-aimed stroke some barrier broke,
  Each gem more friends have won,
And each success hath come to bless
  Me and my skeleton.

Sometimes I cry "O God, draw nigh
  And drive this fiend from me!"
He never leaves, but closer cleaves
  And laughs exultingly.
Oh, aching heart! 'tis but your part
  To bear till life is done;
Will I be free, when they bury me,
  From this grim skeleton?
The poor pass by, and gaze and sigh,
  And wish they might exchange.
Toil on! Thank God you have to plod,
  Nor wish for guest so strange.
Canst thou find he who lived to see
  A youth's and manhood's sun,
Who hath not sighed, looked back, and tried
  To hide a skeleton?

These words hath pain burned in my brain:
  "Hold on! hold fast! hold out!"
I'll struggle on till life is gone,
  Or give the victor's shout.
Oh, God! Abide close by my side,
  As thou hast ever done.
Though rich, how poor! behind gold doors
  I dwell with a skeleton.
LINDEN, Wis.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER XI.

A SINGULAR REQUEST.

"Has she come?" asked Sir Reginald Glendenning of Lady Constance, as he distinctly heard a carriage stop before the door, and his own coachman's voice speaking to the horses.

"She has; shall she be brought directly to your presence?"

"Yes; and see to it that no one enters this room until they are summoned, as I wish to see this girl alone. Do you hear? Alone! entirely alone!" replied the Baronet.

"You will be obeyed. No one shall disturb you. Shall I order Matthew to put up the horses?"

"No; tell him to wait for further notice!"

Lady Constance withdrew, and very soon reopened the door, to usher in and present to her sick husband Ethel Nevergail, his sister's adopted niece, then instantly retired, closing the door behind her.

Very beautiful looked the young girl as she stood by the side of the bed, her heavy crape veil thrown back, revealing her sad, sweet face and large, pitying eyes.

"Oh! sir," said she, after an eager, yet half-haughty greeting, "I grieve to see you so helpless! Have you just been injudre?"

"Yes; this morning I was thrown from my horse, and am to lie here helpless for months. I sent for you, then, in answer to a letter received a few moments before the accident from my sister, written before her death. In that she asks me to give you a home for four months in return for any service I may wish rendered. I sent, because I need assistance immediately of a very peculiar nature. Are you willing to undertake it, at a fair salary?"

"Probably I can tell better when I hear what the duties will be."

"Before I tell you that I wish you to hand me the small Bible you see upon that table."

With wondering eyes Ethel reached him the book.

"The duties to be performed are of a purely confidential nature. No human being must know what I tell you, whether you accept the charge or not. Wife, nephew, niece, man servant nor maid servant must ever know that you do more than read to and amuse me, write my letters, and attend to my daily business affairs. The true duties will be performed in half an hour each evening alone. Will you swear on this book to keep my secret?"

"I will swear if you will assure me that these duties can be done with a pure conscience, and that they are perfectly proper for me to do."

"I assure you you can do them with perfect propriety. Will you take the oath?"

"I will," came from the lips of the trembling girl, reluctantly, it must be confessed, but still it came, because of the promise given to her dying aunt that she would not refuse his offer.

"Then kiss that book and repeat after me these words: 'I, Ethel Nevergail, swear I will tell no person the nature of my nightly duties, and that I will perform them to the best of my ability.'"

Again Ethel shuddered, yet did as he required; and, after kissing the book, repeated the words.

"Sit down, now, and come very close, so you can hear, while I whisper the secret, for 'even walls have ears' has sometimes been said.

"Now," he continued, "listen to me intently. I have in my possession a very rare animal, one entirely unknown. It is the property of a friend, and I am secretly taking care of it for him. He is absent now abroad searching for more wonders to add to a collection. On his return he is going to exhibit all, and expects to realize a fortune by doing so, which I am to share. Now, although wealthy, I love money, and always have; therefore I take every care of this creature in order to obtain more gold. No human being, save myself and its owner, is aware of its existence. It is hidden in a ruined part of this house—in fact, in a concealed room, the existence of which no one knows but myself, and in close connection with, but not in, a place we call 'The Haunted Tower.'

"This tower is not haunted, really, but I pretend that it is, in a way I shall tell you of some other time, in order to keep prying eyes from off my treasure.

"Now, what I wish you to do is this: I myself have always fed this ape, or ourang-outang, for it possesses some of their nature, and if he is not attended to he will starve. About ten every evening you are to do this for me.

"A basket is always standing in a certain place in the ruined part. A person I pay well comes every evening, under a promise of secrecy, and puts food in it. You must get this basket, go through a long covered corridor that connects this tower to the main building, and opens directly into a small hall or passageway near your room, and the door from your room is hidden by a wardrobe.

"Open it and pass through, taking a knife of a peculiar shape that you will find in a bookcase drawer in your room, together with plenty of candles and matches for your use, also there; and to this drawer I will give you the key.

"You will find several of these knives put there, for fear one might accidentally get broken. Take one, with a lighted candle, I say, go down the passage to the tower, then count on the wall from the door that leads up the tower stairs, backward, three panels; into a seeming crack that you will see there insert the knife-point, and then turn it around three times, when the panels will fly apart, revealing a small opening, where a set of revolving iron shelves will be seen.

On these place the food. Water is in the room, where the creature can help himself as he wishes it. Keep and restore the basket to its place; also be sure and keep the knife. Push then the shelves and they will turn slowly around and come back to you with the plate empty.

"After this, replace the panel, and return to your room silently. That will be all for about two or three weeks, when I shall add a small service, such as placing a light of a certain nature in the tower, and winding up a little machinery. Will you do all this?" asked he, eagerly.

"Yes," half moaned the poor girl, whose soul shrank in horror from the task, "if you assure me I will not be harmed by the beast."

"You never will; he is chained to a heavy iron bolt; besides, this room he is in has no windows or doors (being lighted from the ceiling), and there is no mode of reaching him, save by those shelves. I could not; you can never even see him or be seen by him. When my friend returns, and wants him, we will unscrew the iron shelves, and so take him hence.

"Will you stay now, as he must be seen to this very night?" asked Sir Reginald, after a pause. "You can send for your trunks when you wish. I will pay you twenty ponnds a month."

"I will stay."

"Then, please ring the bell you see yonder, as I must inform my wife."

The bell brought a footman, who took the desired message, and Lady Constance soon appeared.

"Miss Nevergail is to remain. She is to be my amanuensis, reader, and assist you and the nurse, generally, in my care. I wish the room next this prepared for her immediate use."

"Why that one? It will not be wise to put her there."

"Wise or not, there she goes, so have it in readiness. Also, tell Matthew to put up the horses, as they will be needed no more to-day.

CHAPTER XII.

ETHEL AND HER NEW DUTIES.

In about an hour a servant maid entered, to say that the room was in readiness, and she would lead Miss Nevergail to it, if she wished.

Taking up her bonnet and wraps, the young girl passed through the front hall into the room adjoining, which she found exceedingly beautiful. It had evidently always been exclusively a guest chamber, and so richly was it furnished that she guessed at once why Lady Constance had objected to its daily use.

As soon as the maid had withdrawn, Ethel commenced an examination of the implements Sir Reginald had mentioned.

The bookcase he had spoken of she knew had been carried thither from the library for her use since her arrival. The drawer to which he had given her a key of a peculiar shape was a secret one, found, as he had whispered, behind the books, and remembering his directions, she proceeded to open it, after carefully locking her door.

There lay the three singularly shaped, large knives, with long, sharp-pointed blades; there, also, was a china candlestick with three or four dozen wax candles. Matches were in a large tin box, ready for constant and instant use.

Refastening the drawer and replacing the books, the young girl proceeded to the wardrobe on the opposite side of the room, and unlocking it, she saw at the back a door, bolted on her side, which gave her an immediate feeling of security.

Softly drawing the bolt, she looked out into a small passage that led merely from her own room to a similar door inside a wardrobe she had seen in the baronet's.

These two rooms communicated with this little passageway from the inhabited part of the house, and these alone. Directly opposite her door was a smaller one, which she at once knew must lead to the Haunted Tower and deserted rooms belonging to this singular old mansion.

She did not open this, but retreating to her own apartment through the wardrobe, bathed her face and hands, smoothed her hair, and once more turned toward the room of the invalid.

At the threshold, however, she met old Mrs. Fredon, the nurse, who had been in the family for years, who whispered that the baronet had fallen asleep, therefore, she might walk around the grounds if she chose.

Feeling that the fresh air would revive her poor shrinking spirit, Ethel tripped down the broad staircase and stepped upon the piazza.

As she did so, she almost ran against a gentleman just entering.

Raising her eyes to apologize, she found herself face to face with Dr. Elfenstein, the kind friend that she had parted with a few weeks before.

He was as much astounded as herself, it seemed, at her unexpected appearance.

"Is it possible that this can be Miss Nevergail?"

"It is, indeed; but I can scarcely believe this my friend, Dr. Elfenstein. How is it we meet in this unexpected place and manner?"

"I was about calling on my patient, Sir Reginald Glendenning, when, instead of being received by a servant, Miss Nevergail comes flying toward me. How is it you are here? I see by your black dress that your aunt must have passed away! But come out upon the piazza, as you were about to do, and tell me of yourself."

Passing from the door to the shadow of the trained vines, followed by the physician, the young girl related the occurrences of the last few weeks.

"Did I understand that you were to remain here some time?"

"Yes. I am to be Sir Reginald's secretary, amanuensis, and reader. For this, and helping to amuse him, I am to receive a good salary, and will have a home for the summer."

"I am very glad to hear it," exclaimed Earle, kindly, "It seems like a pleasant spot, and I think this pure, fresh air will benefit your health and spirits. I also have settled here, having bought a practice."

"Shall we go to Sir Reginald now?" returned she, at the end of their animated conversation. "I presume he is awake by this time."

"Yes, at once, and I hope I shall find him more easy than he was this morning."

"Sleep indicates some degree of ease. Do you think he will be helpless long?"

"I am sorry to say it will be months before he can leave his bed. Even then, I fear he will be a cripple for years."

"Poor man! This has been a sad accident for him," replied Ethel, in tones full of sympathy.

Dr. Elfenstein made quite a long call, as he had much to do to make the baronet comfortable for the night, and as Ethel saw him handle the injured man so gently, and soothe him with kind, encouraging words, she felt that he must possess a heart of almost womanly feeling, and her interest and admiration deepened, even before his visit was concluded.

After Earle Elfenstein withdrew a late dinner was announced, and in the dining-room Lady Constance presented to Ethel her nephew, Robert Glendenning, and niece, Belle, his sister, the former greeting her with rather an insolent look of admiration, the latter with a bow expressive of haughty contempt

From that moment Ethel saw that neither of these young people would promote her happiness while she remained under this roof.

Mr. Glendenning did converse with her, but it was with such an evident air of condescension that her replies were brief and cold, while his sister remained silent during the whole meal, with the exception of answering one or two questions asked by Lady Constance, which answers were given in a cold, mechanical way that told of a mind preoccupied and absent.

The truth was this young lady was surprised and not at all pleased with the introduction of such a rarely beautiful girl into the home over which she held sway.

She was intensely proud and selfish, and felt that there might be an influence exerted upon her few admirers that might interfere with her prospects.

The prospects particularly in view at present were the winning of the heart and hand of the new physician lately settled in the place.

She had been introduced to him at the home of a friend, and had admired his elegant bearing, handsome face and quiet manners, and instantly had resolved to lay siege to his heart.

With how much success this siege was to be carried on time alone could determine.

After leaving the table the ladies repaired to the piazza, followed by Mr. Glendenning.

As Belle paused to pluck from one of the vines a few flowers for her belt, Lady Constance turned to Ethel and remarked:

"I suppose you have no friends in this vicinity, having just arrived."

Ethel hesitated, while a faint blush suffused brow and cheek as she replied:

"I have found one here very unexpectedly."

"Ah! whom may that be?" asked her ladyship.

"Dr. Elfenstein. We crossed the Atlantic on the same vessel, and as my aunt was taken very ill during the voyage he attended her, and, consequently, we became well acquainted."

Instantly Belle's attention was riveted by these remarks, and with a sneer she exclaimed:

"I presume, then, you waylaid him this afternoon in order to renew the acquaintance."

"Pardon me!" replied Ethel, with dignity. "I waylay no one. We met casually on this piazza as he was about entering to see Sir Reginald, and conversed for a few moments."

"It seems to me for the future, when my uncle's physician visits him, it would be well for you to remember that you now occupy the position of a subordinate, and therefore should not put on the airs of an equal to attract his attention!" was the rude and unladylike reply.

"Belle," interposed Lady Constance, who, with all her faults, was naturally kind-hearted and just, "you forget that Miss Nevergail in coming to us does not cease to be a gentlewoman."

"Or, a gentlewoman's poor relation!" was the cutting answer.

"A remarkably beautiful one, however," said the brother. "Say, Belle," he added, teasingly, "you must take care or she will carry off some of your beaux."

The indignant girl gave him a glance of withering scorn, but merely said, with an angry toss of her head;

"Let her beware how she interferes with me in any way. A word to the wise is sufficient."

Ethel could scarcely control her indignant feelings, as she listened to these insulting remarks issuing from the lovely lips of the girlish speaker, but after an effort she did control them, and without a word turned away, and again sought the side of the invalid.

But she found him irritable and hard to please, and the moments passed in his room became intolerably long, and she sighed for the time to come when she could retire to her own apartment, even though she knew a strange and annoying duty would follow her there.

Finally the baronet told her if she was weary to go, adding harshly: "I, am tired already of gazing at your pale face," then more kindly, as he saw she was startled by his rough way of speaking:

"I hope I shall feel better in the morning; if so, I should like to have you read to me, or, as you understand music, will listen to a song."

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Short Sermons.

No man can ever reach his best who does not follow Jesus Christ.

The only way man can move without help from God is downward.

If you don't live your religion nobody will want to hear you talk much about it.

The only thing man really needs is the very thing God is most anxious to give him.

Don't have much to say about yourself, if you want to keep clear of hypocrisy.

Grand preaching is all well enough in its way, but it is the grand living that does the most for God.

Example is more contagious than small-pox, and there is no way of vaccinating against it.

Make your mistakes teach you something. Moses never lost his temper in the wilderness but once.

When the devil has a chance to go into a family of boys and takes his pick he always takes the best one.

Bishop Taylor sleeps with a stone under his head. He has a softer pillow than the man who goes to bed with a guilty conscience.

The best thoughts we have are those that get into our hands and feet, and lead us to do something for others that God is pleased with.

One reason why we have so many churches, is because they are crowded with people who are trying to serve God and feed swine for the devil at the same time.—Evangelist Brown, in the Ram's Horn.

THAT the commercial practicability of solidifying petroleum, upon which doubt was cast some time ago, is established, is proved by the exhibition of Prof. Millefleurs, before a meeting of Parisian scientists, of several bricks of petroleum, which he has produced by an original process. The bricks were hard enough to be handled without inconvenience, yet soft enough to be cut with a stout knife. They burned slowly when touched with a lighted match. Prof. Millefleurs claims that they are non-explosive and inexpensive.

THE star which gives the greatest parallax of any, and which in consequence is believed to be the nearest to the earth, is Alpha Centauri, a star never visible in this latitude. But even this star's parallax is only 93-100ths of a second, which corresponds to a distance of 221,000 times the sun's distance from our earth, or over 20,000,000,000,000 miles.

EVERY man should have an aim in life, but he shouldn't spend too much time aiming. The quick shot gets the pigeon when the trap is sprung.

HUMOR.

The Rev. Flink Plunk on Restitution.

"Dear breddern, las' Sunday I made some remarks about a man wot substracted four pennies from de plate after drappin' in a bad nickel. I am happy to ernounce dat de pennies wuz returned. Dere wuz jes' fifty pussons hyar on las' Sunday, and dere was jes' 200 pennies in de basket. De congregashun describes a vote ob thanks for dere unanimosity in dis matter."

Met His Match.

A fellow thinking to appear smart, entered a notion store and said to one of the salesladies, "Ever have any call for husbands here?"

"Oh, yes, occasionally. Are you looking for a market?"

"Yes," said Smarty.

"All right. Step right up on the 10 cent counter."

Telling Its Age.

"The government envelope factory at Hartford uses two tons of gum per week," read Mrs. Squildig in the newspaper.

"From that statement," commented her husband, "we can determine the age of the establishment."

"I don't see how."

"Don't you? Does not the use of so much gum point indubitably to the mucil-age?"

Understood the Case.

Mrs. Seebeach—I wish to get a divorce from my husband for outrageous cruelty, inhumanity, brutality, non-support—

Lawyer—I must have $50 retaining fee first, madam.

Mrs. Seebeach—But I haven't got it. I spent the last $50 my husband gave me for this bonnet this very morning.

Lawyer—Won't he give you any more?

Mrs. Seebeach—Not for several days, anyhow.

Lawyer—Well, perhaps the gentleman you wish to marry will lend it to you.

Tommy Knew What He Wanted.

Clarence (courting Miss Alice, observes that her little toddler of a brother has been staring at him from the parlor doorway full five minutes)—Why are you looking at me so, Tommy?

Tommy—Waitin' for you to propose to Alice.

Alice—Oh, Tommy, how came you to say such a thing?

Tommy—'Cause ma said if he proposed you'd fling yourself right at him, an' I want ter see you.

Two of 'Em in Circulation.

Servant Girl (to master of the house)—Go away and quit hugging me. I heard you tell your wife last night that she was all the world to you.

Master of the House—So she is, Katie; but you know there are two worlds—the old world and the new world.

Kansas Philosophy.

A woman does her best when threatened; a man, when coaxed.

Loyal hearts under provocation usually prove the most rebellious.

There never was a person, probably, that it was not easy to dislike.

Poor man. While he is worrying about how to get enough to eat, his wife is worrying about what to get, and how to eat it.

There is one talent that is never hid under a bushel, and that is the talent of getting credit for talents that are not possessed.

Fraud is the little wolf that looks so cunning in sheep's clothing we are induced to accept it for its plausible and pleasing appearance.

So many more babies than grown folks go to heaven that we imagine a great part of the singing done up there must be in getting them to sleep.—Atchison Globe.

Manners of Men.

A man who repents easily usually errs without much effort.

So many men confound a curiosity to know about their neighbors with a thirst for knowledge.

The boy who grows up to be 20 without ever in his life robbing a bird's nest, stealing a watermelon, stoning a cat, playing hookey, teasing his sister, or licking the boy next door: the boy who never does all this—well, he never grows up to be 20.

The first day that a man receives word that a friend in the country has sent him in some fish, quails, or venison, he invites every one he meets to come up and partake with him. The second day he invites no one, and the day that the present arrives, he carries it home through the alleys for fear that those he has invited will know it has come, and be over to get their share.—Atchison Globe.

The Stupid Teacher.

Perhaps the most difficult school teacher to deal with is the stupid one, who knows nothing outside of text books. A boy, attending one of our public schools, came home the other day, humming a school song. The tune attracted his father's attention, and he asked the boy to sing the song. He did so. It was a rollicking sailor song, and in the chorus the boy sang, "We'll fill our bowls and eat the toast." At this point the father stopped him and asked where he had learned the song. The boy replied that he had learned it at school. "I once knew that song," said the father. "but I never knew it ran 'We'll fill our bowls and eat the toast.'" "It isn't printed that way," said the boy, "but the teacher said she never heard of anybody's drinking toast, so she made us scratch out 'drink,' and sing it 'eat.'"

You Are Not to Suppose

That a shoe-black would make a first-rate teacher of etiquette, because he adds a certain polish to all who patronize him.

Or that, when you receive a postal order, it is absolutely necessary to obey it.

Or that it is quite right of a fledgeling artilleryman to boast that he has been "accepted by the R. A."

Or that you could blow a powerful and effective blast on an ink-horn or a shoe-horn.

Or that a man whose stature is 5 feet 9 inches can possibly reach a height of 6 feet by becoming long-headed in business.

RENEWED attention has been directed to some curious experiments made twenty-five years ago by M. Nicholas Wagner. It was then demonstrated that fixed electric currents exist in the wings of butterflies, and that the color of the wings is determined by these currents. Artificial currents changed the reds into orange, and blacks into red, and a constant battery produced spots varying in shape with the strength of the current. By means of electricity, it was also possible to produce a kind of atrophy, and to change the shape of the wings.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE
HELPMATE
SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the "COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO. offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off. Call for the "Colchester" "ADHESIVE COUNTERS" and you can walk, run or jump in them.

AN ACCURATE WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by THE COLUMBUS Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO.
COLUMBUS, OHIO

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM Florence Mfg. Co., Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

$15. ONLY

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK. Manifolds 14 Copies. METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have 250. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

NUMBER 2.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 2, 1891.

or Hoar enjoyed his New Years' er less even than his Christmas
if it were possible. Senator spoiled his Christmas dinner by h against the Force bill and his for his dinner yesterday was a grand triple attack upon his me for getting even with the Senators Wolcott, Teller and
The first named senator fired after broadside into the Force unanswerable arguement; the ork of his logic being opposition ng a law for the purpose of plac acknowledged ignorant and in it majority over an intelligent
He stated plainly that if there ajority of ignorant negro voters ate of Colorado, solidly opposed ited intelligent white votes, that way and by some method the ote would govern. That he is a uage man the following words
s speech fully demonstrate:
quarter of a century, out from and despair, the South has been forth in efforts to plant its foot lid rock of material prosperity;
iew of the marvellous growth sformation now taking place in thern States, I believe it would e and unpatriotic for us to in the conduct of its internal af-

FT. WAYNE BRANCH

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp's.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne ......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola	1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont	1 36	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading	2 04	7 04	2 25
Bankers	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp's	Mail.
Jackson	6 43 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 22
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 26
Hillsdale	....	12 30	7 35
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola	12 01	1 55	8 49
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit	1 45	2 16	9 06
Waterloo	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

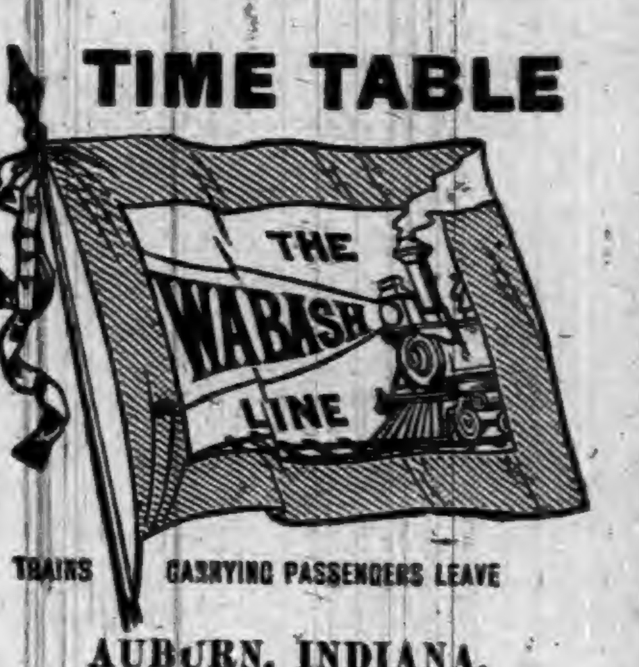
TIME TABLE



AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express.....................2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express.......................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.........................2:30 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim........................8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express.......................1:32 am. Daily
Logansport Accom..................7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express.......................12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim..........5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis................................7:33 pm—Daily
No. 58 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT.
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager,
F. CHANDLER.
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

VOLUME XXI.

GOING TO

WARM GO

Felt Boots and Overs at $2
Ladies' Felt Shoes at 75c and
Alaskas at 75c and up,
Arctics at $1.00 and up.

Headqua

-O-TEE,

IAN DOCTOR)

RONIC DISEASES.

e and judge for Yourself.

Placed him under your treatment, and he is now well and hearty, and has had no attack for over one year. The fits are entirely cured. I consider that your treatment is positively reliable in these cases, and that you have saved my boy years of suffering from this most terrible of maladies. Yours truly,

JAMES E KINZIE.

WABASH, Ind., July 5, 1890.

DR. MAN O-TEE:

If I could induce all ladies who are suffering from disease peculiar to their sex, to visit you, I would be glad to do so, for the benefit I have obtained from your treatment is a great comfort to me, and I gladly add my testimony to that of many others who have been cured.

WARSAW, Ind., Nov. 21st, 1890.

DR. MAN O-TEE:

Your treatment cured me of Rheumatism of over 20 years' standing. During the last five years was scarcely able to walk. Am now a well and hearty man.

Yours truly,
E. B. LEEDY.

WARSAW, Ind., Oct. 1st, 1890.

DR. MAN-O TEE:

Your treatment has cured me of the worst case of Catarrh I ever saw or heard of. Many say that catarrh can not be cured, but you have demonstrated that such is not the case, for you have cured me and many others here.

MRS. LOU BECKWITH.

VANDALIA, Mich., Aug. 6, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

I have been afflicted with Bleeding Piles for ten years; was so bad with them could not work half of the time; suffered severe pain day day and night, and was rapidly losing flesh and strength. Used your treatment four months, and am perfectly cured. Can work hard, have no pain and am in as good health as I ever was in my life. I recommend you to any who may be suffering.

Respectfully,
JNO. N. BONINE

ROANOKE, Ind., June 30, 1890.

To Whom it may Concern:

I have been treated during the last four months by Dr. Man-O-Tee, the Indian Doctor, for Catarrh, Headache and Nervous Debility. When I went to him, was scarcely able to be up and around. He helped me from the start, and I am now in better health than I have been for years. I consider Dr. Man O-Tee a skilful physician and recommend him to all who may require medical treatment.

Respectfully,
MRS. ANNA WARNER.

HAS SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

GOSHEN, Ind., June 19, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

During the past three months I have used your medicine for headache, cough, bronchitis and general debility, and can not speak too highly of you. No person ever suffered more from neuralgia and headache than I have, and I cannot thank you enough for the relief you have given me.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. ELIZABETH MCDOWELL.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many of you who are sick can be cured if given proper remedies. The above facts prove this. Twelve years extensive Hospital and private practice — 3 years INDIAN MEDICINE MAN. I use Roots, Barks and Herbs — Nature's remedies. Next visit to Auburn, Swineford House, Friday, January 16th, 1891. Consultation Free.

DR. MAN-O-TEE,
Warsaw, Indiana.

TAX RATES FOR 1890.

To The Taxpayers of DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

In compliance with the laws of the state of Indiana, I Reuben Sawvel, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year A D. 1890, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each one hundred dollars valuation, and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated villages in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year.

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State	State School	State University	County	Township	Tuition	Special School	Road	Special Road	Addit'n'l Spec'l School	Bond Sinking Fund	Corporation	Street Lighting	Refunded School Debt	Special Dog	Total	First Installment	Second Installment
Butler Tp	12	16	⅕	90½	5	25	5	20	5							179	102	77
Poll	50	50				25										125
Jackson Tp.	12	16	⅕	90½	10	20	25	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Concord Tp.	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Newville Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	25	30	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Stafford Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	15	10	15	10							179	102	77
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Wilm'g'n Tp	12	16	⅕	90½	10	10	5	15	10							169	97	72
Poll	50	50														100
Union Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	10		15	5							159	89½	69½
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Richland Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	20	25	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Fairfield Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	20	15	15	5							184	102	82
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Smithf'ld Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	25	20	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50					25									125
Franklin Tp	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50														100
Troy Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	25	15	5	10							189	102	87
Poll	50	50				10	15									125
Keyser Tp	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	20	5							209	117	92
Poll	50	50														100
Grant Tp	12	16	⅕	90½	10	25	20	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Auburn T	12	16	½	90½	10	25	50	25			50	20	50		F $2	349	187	162
Poll	50	50					50								M $1	150
Waterloo T	12	16	½	90½	10	25	50									204	102	102
Poll	50	50				25	75									200
Butler T	12	16	⅕	90½	10		50	25							F $2	204	114½	89½
Poll	50	50					100								M $1	200
Garrett T	12	16	½	90½	15	30	50	30	10	35		50	30	25		394	229½	164½
Poll	50	50				25	100			100						325

Also $1 for one dog, $2 for each female dog, and $2 for each additional dog.

The Road and Special Road Tax are included in the first installment. The poll and Dog Tax are divided equally between the two installments.

Taxes of 1890 are due the first day of January, 1891, and may be paid in full or in two installments. The first installment must be paid on or before the third Monday in April, 1891, the second installment on or before the first Monday in November, 1891. If the first installment is not paid when due both installments become delinquent. Ten per cent will be added, and I shall at once proceed, as the law requires, to collect the same, together with the cost that may accrue, by distress and sale of personal property.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for the penalty and charges on delinquent taxes resulting from any omission of the person paying, to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Persons owing delinquent taxes should pay them at once. The law is of such a character that there is no option left the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of the delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same by sale of property.

"The owner of property on the first day of April in each year, shall be liable for the taxes of that year. The purchaser of property on the first day of April shall be considered the owner on that day".

Examine your receipts before leaving the office and see that all your property is included.

No County Order will be paid to any person owing delinquent taxes.

The annual sale of Lands and Lots for delinquent taxes, will occur on the second Monday in February, 1891.

Come early and avoid the rush of the last few days. We have 6,000 receipts to make, and all cannot be made the last few days. And those who have their taxes complicated, such as undivided estates, the executors and administrators, are especially requested to call when we are at leisure, as it requires considerable time to make the division and make separate receipts.

The books will positively be closed on the evening of the third Monday in April, and no one will be allowed to pay after that date without penalty.

Parties sending by others, or by letter, to pay tax, should not fail to send description of their Lands and Lots.

No receipts will be made out for any party until they are ready to pay.

REUBEN SAWVEL, Treas.

It's STRANGE that anybody will chew poor plug tobacco when they can get the genuine

OLD HONESTY

PLUG TOBACCO at any store. It has NO superior, and NO equal at the price. It is worth YOUR while to try it. There's profit and pleasure for YOU in OLD HONESTY Tobacco.

John Finzer & Bros, Louisville, Ky.

How to Take Care of a Piano.

With proper care and attention a good piano should last a family a lifetime, says Charles H. Steinway, the piano manufacturer, in the January Ladies Home Journal. If this is not given it the piano will in time become harsh and, "tin-panny," and afford little satisfaction or delight to its owner. Ordinary practice, whether by a child or a grown-up person, will not injure a piano in any way. It is not necessary to be a professional piano player, and to know exactly with what force to strike the keys in order to keep the instrument in good condition. Of course, it will not be improved by thumping the case, or by striking the keys with any hard substance. Neither does this remark apply to schools or institutions where playing is taught and the instrument is used continuously for ten or twelve hours every day. In the latter case the felt portions will wear out sooner than if it was used in a private family. The matter of tuning should not be neglected, and should never be intrusted to any other than an experienced person. Incapable tuners very often work irreparable injury to the most perfect and costly instruments. During the first year a new piano should be tuned every three or four months at least. After that it will only be necessary to have it tuned at longer intervals. Dampness is the most dangerous enemy the piano has to contend against, and for this reason the climate must be considered. If the instrument is placed in a damp room, or left open in a draft of air, the result will be that the strings, tuning-pins, and the various metal parts will become coated with rust, and the cloth used in the construction of the keys and action, becomes swollen. It is positively painful to play on such a piano.

THE PALACE
LIVERY
SALE AND
[illegible]

West of Swineford House,
Cor. Ninth and Jackson Sts.,
AUBURN, IND.
J.C. Henry & Geo. Swineford, Pro's.

Good, New Carriages and Fine Horses to let on Reasonable terms. Board for Horses by the Week or Day.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Elihu McInturf, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, or claim, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 23d day of December, 1890.

WM. M. MCINTURF. Adm'r.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1841.

The clearing effected at this time was upon some over a dozen lots in various localities. The trees had been cut from about an acre north of Rant's, for the use of the sawmill, which, built by David Ogden and Wesley Park was this year bought by David Weaver and run by him. Samuel Haines jr. and father came in and soon after their arrival Haines was hired by the superintendents for building court house to clear the public square. He chopped the trees, logged and burnt them, but did not complete the work, as later annals speak of this work as but partially done.

Mr. Haines had a large family and the employment was timely and proved a great help to him.

Messrs Ingman and Sherlock were cabinetmakers, the former living on a lot now owned by Dr. Swarts.

Of resident carpenters, there were Mr. Cosper and Lyman Chidsey, who was employed by the former and who had a farm southeast of the village. Riley Jacobs lived in a cabin standing on a lot now the property of Mr. Boland and is remembered as one of the county agents for the disposal of town lots. His wife died and was buried Feb. 16, and Mrs. Alvord died about a month later, making the third of the pioneer women who had come here to find a western grave after a few months of struggle with hardship and disease.

The village now suffered from sickness involving almost the entire population. The sick were obliged to wait upon themselves, the worst off were assisted by those less so. This may truthfully be termed "the sickly time." Mr. Cosper who took the census of the town in October found seventy-two inhabitant all told and Mr. Ingman and A. Z. Cosper now wife of Wm. H. McIntosh were the only ones out of the whole number but what then were or had been sick. Cosper had brought from Ohio a barrel of meat, a bag of coffee and a ten-gallon wooden churn filled with dried peaches. The provisions all came handy, but nothing more so than the dried fruit which was a rare delicacy and were a valued addition to the fare of the invalid.

This was a picnic for the three doctors, Ross, the first comer and R. B. Cooper and Eli. Pritchard who arrived in the fall. Their prescriptions were calomel and quinine, and the disease being no respecter of persons, laid hold of the physicians themselves. Roots and herbs had their advocates and as the cause was continuous, any medicine served as a remedy, whisky among the rest.

Mr. Coburn resigned his official positions Nov. 9, '41, and removed to what is now known as Coburn's Corners. Samuel Sprott was appointed clerk of the court and auditor of the county. On December 4, he was authorized to build an office on the public square for his use as clerk and also as recorder, the limit of cost not to exceed $200. A table, desk and bookcase with pigeon holes were ordered made for the use of the public offices and the cabinet makers got an official job payable in county orders.

It is noticed that partial payments were then made on the orders and at intervals all outstanding were called in and new ones issued instead. They were issued in small sums and passed from hand to hand as a species of currency.

A board of equalization met at the December session, Daniel Strong and Warner Spooner being present and Daniel Moody absent. Wm. P. Means was given the job to make plats of all the townships and villages in the county. Jonathan Puffenberger was in Auburn this season and late in the fall of '40 or the next spring, built a hewed log house on lot No. 96. Two or three years afterwards, from means derived from settlement of his father's estate, he put up a store building on the site of the National Bank, he living in the back part and occupying the front for goods. Puffenberger was sheriff after Freeman died, about 50 or 51, when his widow sold out the remaining stock of goods and occupied the house as a home till along in '76, when the bank officials bought the property and sold the old frame which was moved to the far south end of town. Mrs. Puffenberger bought the property on VanBuren street now occupied by Mr. Hoisington and there died.

Many remember her son Samuel who went to Texas and afterwards to the west where he died.

Alvord moved from Auburn shortly after the death of his wife. Riley Jacobs went about '48 and of the score of men who constituted the voting population in 1841. Sherlock, Weaver and Wagoner alone remain to-day.

"So the multitude goes, like the flowers or the weed
That withers away to let others succeed;
So the multitude comes, even those we behold,
To repeat every tale that has often been told."

1842.

In 1842 quite a number of persons intending to settle in the county arrived in Auburn and speedily as possible prepared accommodations for their families and then moved into the woods and set to work bravely to clear up future farms. How well they succeeded, it is only essential to glance at the county as it now appears, well populated and advanced, and yet advancing in cultivation and improvement.

The log cabin with mud and stick chimney in the midsts of girdled trees with cleared patches in corn is a memory now, and we find farm contiguous to farm, commodious frame and brick buildings, fine large barns, flourishing orchards, numerous roads and several railroads, supplying connection with all parts of the county and affording speedy transit to market of great quantities of produce.

The wilderness has become the pleasant homes of wealthy, prosperous and contented farmers.

(To be continued next week.)

Indigestion

IS not only a distressing complaint, of itself, but, by causing the blood to become depraved and the system enfeebled, is the parent of innumerable maladies. That Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best cure for Indigestion, even when complicated with Liver Complaint, is proved by the following testimony from Mrs. Joseph Lake, of Brockway Centre, Mich.:—

"Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony, was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an improvement in my condition. My appetite began to return and with it came the ability to digest all the food taken, my strength improved each day, and after a few months of faithful attention to your directions, I found myself a well woman, able to attend to all household duties. The medicine has given me a new lease of life."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Organization of the Farmer's Union of DeKalb Co.

At the Farmer's Institute held at Auburn Dec. 4, 1890, a committee was appointed for the purpose of forming a County Association for the holding of farmer's institutes at different times and places in this county. The committee met Waterloo on Saturday, Dec. 20. S. H. Hine was appointed chairman and Geo. H. Dunn secretary. After spending an hour in discussion is was decided to adopt as a name for the organization, the DeKalb County Farmer's Union.

1. The object of this Union, shall be to promote the financial, social and intellectual welfare of the farmers in DeKalb county.

2. Any person engaged in farming or in farm labor may become a member of this Union, and its meetings shall be open to everyone that feels an interest in the work, and they are cordially invited to take a part.

3. This society shall meet at any place in the county, selected by a majority of the members present at a previous meeting. The dates for the meetings after the first shall be held, to be selected by an executive committee to be selected by the board of directors at the first regular meeting. The date of the first annual meeting for the selection of officers to be held on the 3d Saturday in December, 1891.

4. The officers of this society shall be a president, vice-president, secretary, corresponding secretary, treasurer and a board of thirty-six directors, composed of one member from each election precinct of the county; these officers shall hold for one year, and shall continue to hold until their successors are elected.

5. The exercises of these meetings shall be arranged for by the executive committee announced at a previous meeting.

6. This constitution may be amended at any regular meeting by a vote of two-thirds majority of the members present at such meeting; to ascertain the exact membership a roll shall be kept, and all who desire can have their names placed on said roll, which will entitle them to a vote on any question brought before the meeting.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, Amos Walsworth, Auburn; vice-president, Emory Johnson, Fairfield Center; secretary, Geo. H. Dunn, Auburn; corresponding secretary, S. H. Hine, Waterloo; treasurer, Lewis Henning, Waterloo; board of directors, Butler township, Wm. Merica; Jackson tp. John S. Boots, Alex Provinee, and Martin Sheets; Concord tp., John Christ John, Henderson and Joseph Koch; Newville, C. C. Walter; Stafford, Jacob Christoffel; Wilmington, Ed. Craft, Samuel Morr, William Bovle, William Haines and A. D. Moore; Union, Ed. Wise, Cal Husselman, D. D. Metcalf and H. Shull; Grant, Will Francis, Perry Lower, and M. S. Kutzner; Richland, C. H. Bangs and J. B. Scott; Keyser, Harvey Clark, Geo. Rakestraw, Mr. Hoag, and John Yard; Fairfield, Fin Childs and W. H. McGiffin; Smithfield, James W. Clark and Samuel Mortorff; Franklin, James Hodges and Marion Haverstock; Troy, Geo. Sounders. The first meeting to be held at Waterloo on Saturday, Feb. 7, 1891, and the committee to meet at Waterloo on January 15, 1891 to arrange a program.

They Met on Christmas.

Christmas day was a pleasant one, but was nothing in comparison with the pleasant time spent at John B. Feagler's one mile southeast of Auburn by a number of invited guests. At about nine o'clock the guests began to arrive and at ten o'clock there were about thirty five of his esteemed friends gathered in his cosy parlor. We were entertained by Frank Shugers and wife, and others on the violins and organ. At one o'clock dinner was announced. Following are the names of the witnesses that appeared before Mr. and Mrs. Feagler to testify that there was plenty of oysters, chicken, cake and other things in abundance to make one among the best of dinners: Ephraim Berry and wife, Frank Shugers and wife, Frank Stoops and wife, John Able wife, son and daughters, William Feagler wife and daughter, Henry Long wife and daughter, Tim McDowel wife and son, Mathias Cupp and wife, David Essig and wife, Silas McCosh, wife, son and daughter, of Waterloo, Daniel Long, of Carrolton, Mo., Dessie Fleiner, of Kosciusko county, Pearl Long, Ethie Cupp, George Able. All join in giving thanks to the host and hostess and agree we had a pleasant time.

The total eclipse
Doth vanish from sight,
When SANTA CLAUS SOAP
Appears in its might.
The enormous sales of
SANTA CLAUS SOAP
are due to its SUPERIOR QUALITY and UNIFORM EXCELLENCE,
Guaranteed by the MANUFACTURERS
N.K. FAIRBANK & CO.
CHICAGO.

"Thrift is a good revenue."

Great Saving

results from cleanliness and SAPOLIO: It is a solid cake of scouring soap. Try it in your next house-cleaning and be happy.

Looking out over the many homes of this country, we see thousands of women wearing away their lives in household drudgery that might be materially lessened by the use of a few cakes of SAPOLIO. If an hour is saved each time a cake is used, if one less wrinkle gathers upon the face because the toil is lightened, she must be a foolish woman who would hesitate to make the experiment, and he a churlish husband who would grudge the few cents which it costs.

100 PAGES

WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Peronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming Illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistable little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial:
"Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs. Gen John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humperey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Sainte Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, BY E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three Sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home. Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891 Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR:

HARPER'S BAZAR	4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE	4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	$4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding will be sent by mail, post paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume,) for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be "Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Monroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophia Swett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Nelsetter Brynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel, adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms; Postage Prepaid, $2.00.

Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Single Numbers, Five cents Each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
New York.

PATENTS

[illegible] business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker's mansion in Washington contains pictures valued at $100,000.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

THE LADIES FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO, ILL.
28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
ATLANTA, GA.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
DALLAS, TEX.
FOR SALE BY

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,
Auburn, Ind

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Travelling. Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 8, 1891. NUMBER 2.

GOING TO MOVE!

WARM GOODS.

Felt Boots and Overs at $2.00 and upward,
Ladies' Felt Shoes at 75c and up,
Alaskas at 75c and up,
Arctics at $1.00 and up.

Headquarters

for Rubber and Leather Boots. Fine Shoes for Ladies and Gents, School Shoes, etc.
We move to Old Post Office stand Feb. 1st.
Call and see us.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

Auburn and Waterloo.

POSTS

NOTED FOR

LOW

PRICES!

ON STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

BANK BLOCK, AUBURN.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1842.

Among permanent settlers in the village of Auburn, was O. C Houghton and family from New York. He bought the lots now owned by his widow and built a log house upon the rear part of them, calculating that with time would come the means to erect a better habitation nearer the street, and the present structure shows how he realized his purpose. He was a carpenter and besides other work, built Payne's and Puffenbarger's stores. A company was formed in 1857 and built the steam mill in the south end of town. The company failed and disposed of the property to Wesley Park and others who in turn sold to Houghton, who was successful, accumulated quite a sum for those times and sold to Sheets brothers by whom the mill was run for some years at fair profit.

With his money, Mr. Houghton bought one hundred acres of good land of a Weaver, one mile west of town, lived there till his death when the family came to town.

Aaron Hague, a farmer in Concord township, having been elected Auditor in the fall of 1842, sold his farm to David Cosper, came to town and bought out J. O. P. Sherlock. It is noteworthy that his son Isaac Hague was elected to the same office thirty and odd years later. Abel Forshay and Asa Chappell engaged in making brick on what is now known as the Peter Shafer farm and burnt their first kiln in '41. This kiln was the cause of Chappell's death. They had fired for a day or two but the work was defective and the heat did not get through so that they concluded to take it down and rebuild. The brick was steaming, and inhaling this steam affected their lungs. Forshay not well, moved to town, set up a shoe shop, was unsuccessful, sold his farm to John U. Ashleman, went to Kendallville and died there. Chappell died and Cosper married his widow. Old Mr. Hart and son David Hart made their appearance and started a whisky shop in a building which stood on the Long property. The old man soon died. David remained in the town several years. He was a professed "coon-hunter," claimed to have studied medicine with an Indian and prescribed Indian remedies for prevailing diseases and disorders. His prescriptions were gratis and given in friendship.

There was much faith in the medicinal properties of plants used by the Indians. Ignorant of scientific skill, these people were led by necessity to learn from nature. By long observation and experience, they gained valuable knowledge of the qualities of herbs and plants. Each new and curious plant was regarded with scrutiny. Color, taste and smell were noted as signs of properties and there is no doubt but that the Indians had medical knowledge but their discoveries and observations have perished with themselves and the modern Indian doctors trade upon forgotten lore.

The clearings became too numerous and the game too scarce for "Dr." Hart and he moved on westward.

Old Mr. Robbins came in '41 or '42, but was soon carried off by bilious fever which seemed fatal especially to the aged, and his widow later became the wife of Hugh Watt.

David S. Shoemaker came in April of '41. He was a carpenter and worked on Park's house and on Parson's ashery east of the sawmill. December following the Hicksville mills, grist and saw, were burnt and A. P. Edgerton, agent of the two Hicks brothers who were residents of New York and who owned several townships of land in Defiance and Williams counties, advertised for carpenters to rebuild. Some twenty five responded to the call. Among these were Cosper and Shoemaker. They all found employment, most were single men in search of home and some of them took their pay in lands which later became their homestead farms. Byron Bunnell of whom mention has been made in connection with the county agency, went there and boarded the hands.

The mill frame was of very heavy timber and of large dimensions and the boiler for the engine had previously done service upon a steamboat. The time occupied in building the Hicksville mills was from January '41 to March '42. Shoemaker whose wife had died in Auburn, and Cosper, coming and going at intervals, till the close of the work, built a barn for Abbott, took a yoke of oxen in payment, and, thus prepared for work, moved upon his farm.

Jonathan Poffenbarger lived upon the lot where John Henry now resides. For a time, he occupied a hewed log house, and, two or three years afterward, having, from settlement of his father's estate, received some money, he put up a store and dwelling combined upon the site of the national bank block. Upon his death, the widow disposed gradually of the remaining stock and occupied the house as her home until 1875 when she sold out to advantage and removed to property now owned by H. H. Hoisington, where she died, advanced in years and much respected.

Charles Stimely was a bachelor and had a small frame which he used as a gunsmith shop on the lot where S. U. Tarney lives, and after his marriage, he erected the building later owned by Hugh Watt, and later the home of Eli Corder, our ex-Town Clerk, now replaced by the handsome modern residence of Dr. Nusbaum.

(To be continued next week.)

6

Per Cent.

MONEY

=

We have a limited amount of money to loan in sums of one thousand dollars and over, on farms in DeKalb county, at six per cent. per annum, interest payable at the end of the year.

Those who want to make a loan should make their application at once.

Call and see us and we will explain fully our plans of loaning.

After January first interest rate will advance. So do not delay, but call at once.

RICKEL & SPROTT,

REAL ESTATE,

AND

LOAN,

AGENTS,

Under Farmers' Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.
Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Scott received £269 6s as his share of profits of the "Lay," and then he sold the copyright for £500. As many as 44 000 copies were disposed of before 1830, when the edition of his works with biographical introduction was prepared.

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach, and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary, in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at F. E Davenport's, who guarantees and recommends Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulders, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His restorative nervine cures headache, fits, etc. 5

* * *

The form of oath binding on the Mohammedan conscience is to make the Koran rest on the head while the oath is administered. But if the Koran is skillfully held just above the head the form is not valid and the oath not binding.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nervine, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits, and hysteria. Trial bottles and fine book of testimonials free at F. E. Davenport. 5

* * *

A party of expert oil drillers has just sailed from New York for India, where they are wanted to search for oil.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia, and install Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by Robbins and McCord, Druggists. 4

* * *

The State of Panama demands Chinese exclusion, an influx of coolies having crowded the natives.

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. HELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Apparently mid-winter was the time when the medieval British wolves asserted themselves most savagely; so at least we may judge from the fact that our Anglo-Saxon ancestors bestowed on January the name of "Wolfmonth."

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 59 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

* * *

There are nearly fifty thousand colored people in New York City. Some of them have built up fortunes in real estate speculation. One of them accumulated an estate worth $100,000 in the catering business. A number are worth $200,000 each.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

* * *

In the vast majority of luminous animals with which we are acquainted, the phosphorescent light is useful only in guiding one sex in its search for the other, and this is probably the case with deep-sea fish as well as with terrestrial creatures.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's drugstore, regular size, 50c. and $1. 4

* * *

Indian wars are very expensive to the government and very profitable to individuals. Therefore we are likely to have such wars long after the Indians have become extinct.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga. for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 2, 1891.

Senator Hoar enjoyed his New Years' day dinner less even than his Christmas dinner, if it were possible. Senator Stewart spoiled his Christmas dinner by his speech against the Force bill and his appetite for his dinner yesterday was killed by a grand triple attack upon his pet scheme for getting even with the south by Senators Wolcott, Teller and Hale. The first named senator fired broadside after broadside into the Force bill of unanswerable arguement; the groundwork of his logic being opposition to enacting a law for the purpose of placing an acknowledged ignorant and incompetent majority over an intelligent minority. He stated plainly that if there were a majority of ignorant negro voters in the state of Colorado, solidly opposed to the united intelligent white votes, that in some way and by some method the white vote would govern. That he is a broad guage man the following words from his speech fully demonstrate: "For a quarter of a century, out from poverty and despair, the South has been reaching forth in efforts to plant its foot on the solid rock of material prosperity; and in view of the marvellous growth and transformation now taking place in the Southern States, I believe it would be unwise and unpatriotic for us to interfere in the conduct of its internal affairs."

Senator Teller's speech was a ringing demand for the shelving of the Force bill and the enactment of the financial legislation demanded by the people of the country, which he described as being on the very verge of a financial panic.

Senator Hale's remarks, which probably hurt the would-be-leader from Massachusetts, more than all the rest, was an attack upon Mr. Hoar, charging him with being responsible for the month's time which has been wasted in consideration of the Force bill, and demanding the speedy disposal of that measure in order that other and more necessary legislation might have a chance. Mr. Hale also took occasion to give the cloture, or gag rule now pending, which he says is altogether needless, a few hard raps. Take them all in all they were three of the most remarkable speeches ever made in Congress outside of a secret caucus against a party measure by members of the same party.

And yet, there is a well grounded fear on the part of democratic Senators that by the vigorous use of the party whip and the administration patronage the bill may be passed, if it ever reaches a vote, which it will not do if the democrats by any means can prevent it. In order to defeat it upon a vote, assuming that every senator will be in his seat or paired, it is necessary that eight republicans should vote against it, and only three have yet openly announced their intention of so voting, although there are a dozen or more who have privately expressed themselves as being opposed to it.

One thing is evident it will have to be passed or laid aside within the next ten days; other legislation, particularly financial, is crowding it, and Senator Hoar is reported to have said to-day that if it was not passed next week it would never pass. The administration has all the detectives of the postoffice department working on the recent killing of the postmaster at Carrollton, Mississippi, in order to try to make capital to help push the bill through, notwithstanding letters in the possession of Senator George from the leading citizens of the town, including its most influential ministers, stating that politics had nothing whatever to do with the killing.

Treasury department officials are now preparing the annual deficiency bill. It will be the largest in the history of the country, aggregating about $75,000,000, nearly half of which is for pensions. These deficiencies were deliberately made by the republicans in congress at the last session for the purpose of blinding the voters of the country to the amount of money that was being spent by that party.

Senator Hearst is somewhat better than he has been for several weeks, though still a very sick man.

The civil service commission has jumped on Mr. Wanamaker to the extent of several newspaper columns because of his criticism of its methods in his annual report. This is regarded by many as an attack upon Mr. Harrison, who approved the report of the postmaster general or it would not have been made public, and some people think that there may be vacancies in the commission before long. The country could get along if the whole business was abolished.

Democrats are by no means anxious for an extra session of congress, but if, as looks almost certain, one will be made necessary by the failure of the republicans to pass the regular appropriation bills they will not complain. They are ready to do their duty, but they wish the responsibility for an extra session to be placed where it rightfully belongs—on the republicans.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Elihu McInturf, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 15th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my Final Settlement Accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship, or claim, and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this [illegible] day of December, 1890.

Wm. M. [illegible], Adm'r.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

HOSTILE INDIANS ATTACK A WAGON TRAIN,

But Were Driven Off with Serious Loss—A Hoosier Riot—Town Nearly Wiped Out—Think It Was a Gas Disturbance—Heavy Failure—Desperado Kuhns Taken to Ohio—Hungarians Blown Up.

REDS ROUTED.

Hostile Indians Attack a Wagon Train but Were Driven Off with Serious Loss.

A special from camp near Wounded Knee Creek, S. D., gives the particulars of another engagement which took place at that point. A detachment of thirty men had been sent out from the camp to meet a wagon train with supplies for camp, and when ten miles out the wagons were found besieged by a band of 100 Indians. On seeing the troops approaching the redskins scattered in all directions, but immediately returned to the attack on finding the small number of men in the detachment. A courier was sent back to the camp for reinforcements, but in the meantime an incessant fire was kept up on both sides, resulting in the wounding of one soldier and of several Indians, the exact number of which could not be ascertained as the reds carried their dying and wounded away. About three hours after the courier's departure, troops were seen coming at full gallop to the rescue. As the troops rode up the Indians scattered in all directions, and troop F pursued them, but abandoned the chase on account of darkness. The wagon train was escorted to camp in safety.

A special from Pine Ridge Agency says: There are not near enough troops here. A battle is expected every day with the Indians and it will be one of the hardest in the annals of Indian warfare. The troops have the Indians surrounded on the east, west, and north, and an attack will drive them into the Agency where the main battle must be fought. The enemy number over 4,000 men, women and children, with half of that many to attack us in the rear.

Think It Was a Gas Disturbance.

The residents of Elwood, Ind., and those for many miles around are much exercised over the slight earthquake which was in that section. The shock was felt nearly all over the county. As Elwood is in the natural gas region it is very generally believed that the disturbance came from natural gas. Many people believe that the tremble is the premonition of a great upheaval of the natural gas territory. Residents of the natural gas territory have not rested entirely easy since the great natural gas upheaval in Shelby County a few months ago.

Hungarians Blown Up.

A terrible explosion of dynamite took place at the stone quarries at Tyrone Forge, near Altoona, Pa., in which two Hungarians were badly injured. It seems that a drill hole had been filled in Monday with dynamite, and for some reason failed to explode, and this morning the men were engaged in clearing out the charge when an explosion followed, injuring the Hungarians in a frightful manner, their heads, faces, and bodies being a mass of sores and bruises and their escape from instant death was a miracle.

A Hoosier Riot.

During a religious meeting at West Fork, Crawford County, Ind., a roit started among the members of three large families—the Lowes, Wisemans and Baggerlys. Pistols, knives, stones, cudgels, and fists were used with a vengeance. Five men are lying at the point of death as a result of the conflict, and others are less seriously injured. The worst injured are Wm. Lowe, Wm. Wiseman, Robert Baggerly, and Ed. Jones.

Killed Two Men.

A west-bound Pan Handle passenger train, about one mile east of Coshocton, Ohio, ran into two hand cars containing twenty-two of their workmen. Two men, John Curran and Robert Davis, of Steubenville, were instantly killed and Capt. Burgess, of Allegheny received injuries from which he cannot possibly recover. The other men saved their lives by jumping.

Col. Forsythe's Case.

The relief of Col. Forsythe from the command of the Seventh Cavalry, in consequence of the occurrences at Wounded Knee Creek, was a topic of discussion at the Cabinet meeting. Secretary Proctor has made public the telegrams between the department and Gen. Miles on the subject.

Sent to Ireland.

Hon. P. A. Collins and T. R. Fitz, trustees of the tenants defense fund in this country cabled $6,600 through the Mavorick National Bank to Messrs. Webb and Kenny, the treasurers in Ireland.

Nearly Wiped Out.

The little town of Bolivar, Texas, was nearly destroyed by fire. All the business buildings, together with the post-office, were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $25,000, half covered by insurance. The fire was of incendiary origin.

Heavy Failure at Michigan City.

L. W. Wilson & Co., lumber dealers of Michigan City, Ind., made an assignment. The liabilities are estimated at $150,000; assets, $50,000. The home creditors are secured; the outsider finds very little in sight.

Boy Thieves Arrested.

A gang of boy burglars has been run down at Kent, Ohio. They range in age from 9 to 12 and have been carrying on a systematic course of thievery for the past three months. They possessed duplicate keys of business houses in town and an old glass works, now deserted, served as a hiding place for them and their spoils.

Money Made to Order.

The United States mint at Philadelphia coined during the past year $2,144,902 in gold, $17,820,186 in silver, $1,384,793 in nickel and copper, making a total of $21,348,981.

Terrible Explosion.

Portsmouth special: The tow boat Annie Roberts, of Pittsburg, exploded a cylinder head, instantly killing five men and terribly wounding many more; tearing open the boiler deck of the boat and hurling the mangled bodies of five men, and about ten or twelve wounded, into the river. The boat was bound for Pittsburg, and was moving slowly up the river, but with a full pressure of steam. Most of the men killed and injured were sleeping in their bunks at the time of the accident. All were horribly burned, scalded and some mangled by pieces of iron. The following is a list of the dead; Frank Perry, deck hand; Ben Lawson, fireman; James Swall, J. B. Shaw and James Green. deck hands. The damage to the vessel is very slight. It is owned by a Pittsburg firm, and most of the crew lived there.

THE INDIAN TROUBLE.

Friendlies Joining the Hostiles in Droves.

A special from Fort Yates, N. D., dated the 4th inst., says: A large number of young warriors of the Standing Rock Agency have gone south to join the hostiles in the Bad Lands. The discovery was made on issuing rations that many did not come to the Agency, and one of the friendlies stated that they had armed themselves and gone to join the bands in revolt. How many have gone is only conjecture, but the indications point to at least 1,000 desertions.

The Grand River Sioux have been fomenting trouble ever since the killing of Sitting Bull on December 15, and they have not been slow in manifesting their intense anger to Agent McLaughlin. Most of them regard the taking off of the old medicine man as murder outright, and it has been common talk for three weeks that the reds would accept the first opportunity offered to massacre the whites. The dispatches sent out from this point that the Indians were glad that Bull was removed were gross exaggerations concocted here for the purpose of allaying feeling in the East.

The detachment of the Eigth Cavalry under Capt. Fountain will move rapidly southward, and Company H of the Twenty-second Infantry, now near New England City, will come to this point and move thence southward to aid in squelching the uprising. Troops are also in readiness to take the field from Fort Lincoln, and the detachment of the Twenty-fifth Infantry at Fort Keogh is expected to march in a south-easterly direction to-morrow. Every hour increases the number of the hostiles, and General Miles proposes putting men enough in the field to crush the recalcitrant savages in a week or ten days.

SAUCY SAVAGES.

Surrounded and Hemmed in on all Sides.

Gen. Schofield has received a telegram from Gen. Miles dated at Pine Ridge agency, Jan. 2, saying that 3,000 Indians, men, women and children, and including about 600 bucks, are now encamped in a section of the Bad Lands about fifteen miles from the Pine Ridge agency, and there is almost a cordon of troops around them. Gen. Miles announces that he hoped to be able to induce the hostiles to surrender without a struggle. The spot where they are encamped he describes as somewhat like the lava beds of California, where the Modocs made their final fight. It is in excellent posision from an Indian standpoint, but there are now no avenues of escape, all having been closed by the troops. General Miles says the Indians have gathered some cattle and provisions and appear to be determined to make their fight for supremacy at this point.

General Miles, he added, has charge of the campaign, and as it has progressed he has stationed himself at the most convenient points for general communication with his forces.

"It is very difficult," he said, "to estimate just how many troops there are now on the scene of action. Gen. Miles has twelve regiments of infantry, five of cavalry and some artillery forces, about half a regiment. This gives him seventeen and a half regiments, but that would not 'ndicate the number of men, for it is impossible to say how full a complement each regiment has in the field. When troops move in the winter in such a hurry, there is always a large proportion of the men left behind from sickness, etc., and I would not like to guess how many soldiers there are in the circle around the Indians.

BIG BATTLE.

Tremendous Slaughter of the Indians.

Rushville (Neb.) special: A dispatch has just been received here from the Pine Ridge agency announcing that a great battle is in progress there between the troops and the hostile Indians. The information is that Gen. Miles' cavalry encountered the Indians at an early hour in the morning a short distance from the agency. A desperate battle ensued and hundreds of the savages were killed, while the loss to the soldiers was also very heavy.

Gen. Miles himself is reported to have been killed early in the fight. The soldiers were driven into the agency, which was then surrounded by the Indians. Troops have been sent to the rescue, and the result is awaited with the most intense anxiety. The greatest excitement prevails and it is feared that another Custer massacre will go on record.

The apprehensions concerning the fate of the soldiers increases as time passes without further information concerning the battle, it being feared that all sources of communication are cut off and that the Indians are in possession of the agency.

The Indians are reported to have fought like demons, murdering and scalping all the wounded soldiers whom they encountered. It is supposed that the cavalry were inveigled into an ambush and that the Indians obtained an advantage in this way.

A $500,000 Fire in New York.

Fire started on the stage of the Fifth Avenue Theater, New York, and burned with great rapidity. Three alarms were sent out in quick succession but the inflammable material upon which the flames fed rendered the efforts of the firemen to save them a hopeless task. All the scenery usell in Fanny Davenport's rendition of "Cleopatra" was destroyed. The fire spread to Hermann's Theater and the entire block was consumed. The sporting goods establishment of J. J. Crooks caught fire and six distinct explosions of powder held there was heard from the interior.

A flaming brand, borne by the strong northwest wind, fell on the roof of the Sturtevant House, across Broadway from the Fifth Avenue Theater, setting fire to the hotel. The guests were hustled out amid great excitement and conveyed to other hotels. The firemen now devoted their best efforts to saving the hotel.

The total loss is estimated at about $500,000. Fanny Davenport loses about $50,000 by the destruction of scenery and costumes.

Six citizens and one fireman are reported killed in the Fifth Avenue Theater.

Negroes Routed.

At the Blue Creek mines, near Birmingham, Ala., a pitched battle was fought between the wives of striking miners and a crowd of negro miners and their families. The company had moved the negro miners into the houses from which the white miners were recently evicted. The wives of the strikers, armed with flat irons, frying pans and sticks attacked the colored women and children and soon drove them to the woods. The negro men attempted to interfere and were at once set upon by the angry women and completely routed. The wives of the strikers say they will never let the negroes take the places of their husbands.

Failed to Connect.

Kittie Herbert, a trapeze performer, doing the Mexican ladder act at a theater in Columbus, met with a horrible accident. While balancing herself on a ladder, she attempted to spring forward into the arms of her assistant, Ed Carr. She missed her hold and fell to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, striking on her hands and feet. Both wrists were broken badly and she received other painful injuries.

DOWN TO DEATH.

Twelve Men Crushed to Pieces in a Moment.

News has reached San Francisco of a terrible mining accident in Calaveras County. The disaster occurred in the well-known Utica mine, at Angels camp. The workmen in the mine had been at lunch, and a load of men were being lowered into the shaft to the five hundred foot level. As the skip reached a point about one hundred feet from the surface, the rope broke and twelve men were precipitated to the bottom of the shaft 450 feet below. Not one escaped death.

The greatest excitement prevails about the mouth of the shaft, the wives and children crowding around nearly frantic with grief. Some trouble is being experienced in getting a new rope ready, and until that is done, the bodies cannot be brought to the surface. The scene of the accident is forty miles from the nearest telegraph station and details of the disaster are difficult to obtain. At the Lane mine in the same locality an accident occurred a year ago, by which sixteen miners were buried alive. The last of the bodies were recovered only about a month ago. The mines are among the oldest in California.

MANY DROWNED.

The River Danube the Scene of a Startling Tragedy.

The ice covered surface of the river Danube between Buda and Pesth, was the scene of a startling tragedy. A crowd of merry makers were holding high carnival on the ice when after a series of loud and sharp reports, the ice broke in a number of places, and great fisures, through which ran the clear water of the river appeared confronting the skaters and cutting them off from the shores. Panic immediately seized upon the isolated groups and in the awful rush for safety which followed, a number of the terrified skaters either dashed into, were crowded or drawn into the swift running water which rapidly sucked them under the ice and swept them away. Everything possible was done by those who escaped, and by those who were observing the recently happy and cheerful scene from the shores, to rescue the unfortunate victims. Many were saved at the moment when death seemed inevitable. It is, however, known that a number of persons who were on the river at the time of the catastrophe, are missing, and it is feared that they were drowned.

Murder Fastened on a Beautiful, But Wayward Girl.

The inquest over the remains of Al. Trout, the boy murdered in front of the disreputable house of Madame Landis at Columbia City, Ind., was concluded and the coroner finally traced the fatal shot to Elenore Sterling, an inmate of the house. Seeing the evidence fast closing around her, she confessed that she fired the shot which ended Trout's life, and claimed she did it in self-defense because she feared rough treatment if the boys got in, as they were very drunk. She was bound over without bail and all the other men prisoners released. She is a very handsome girl of 19 and is the daughter of respectable parents living in the northern part of Whitley County, but she has been a wayward child since she was 15 years old.

A Lake Shore Accident.

As a big Mogul engine was backing down the Lake Shore track near Thirtieth street, Toledo, Ohio, it ran into a train of flats. The tank of the engine was lifted up and pushed against the boiler head, pinning three men who were standing in the cab. Joseph Sawyer and Lawrence Kilby, helpers, were almost instantly killed; Michael Kirschner, pony conductor, severely crushed. The engineer and fireman were on seats of the cab, and escaped serious injury. A blinding snow storm prevented Engineer John Corbett from seeing the flats until it was too late to avert the accident. Kirschner will recover.

Ramrod Through the Head.

Eddie, 13-year-old son of Charles Sigler, of Gallipolis, Ohio, was trying to unload a gun, and had the ramrod in it, when it went off, carrying the ramrod through the boy's head, burying it six inches in the wall of the house, setting it on fire. His mother started for a neighbor's with the terrible news, fainted by the way, and lay for a long time unconscious before being discovered. The boy, of course, was instantly killed.

A Panther Attacks a Man.

Wilkesbarre (Pa.) special: Robert Clark and James Ellis went hunting on the mountain and were overcome in a snow storm. Clark became exhausted. Ellis carried him awhile and then started for help. When the party returned they found a panther attacking Clark, who lay in the snow. The man is badly lacerated and cannot live.

Thirty-Nine Killed.

A mine explosion occurred at Wilezeck, Silesia. Fifteen men have been taken out dead and twenty-four are still missing.

Frozen to Death.

Otis Wall, a prominent citizen of Wyoming County, Pennsylvania, was frozen to death. In returning home he lost his way.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Common to Prime....	$3.25	@	5.50
Hogs—Shipping Grades	3.00	@	4.00
Sheep	3.00	@	5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.91	@	.91½
Corn—No. 2	.48	@	.48½
Oats—No. 2	.40	@	.40½
Rye—No. 2	.64	@	.66
Butter—Choice Creamery	.25	@	.28
Cheese—Full Cream, flats	.09½	@	.10½
Eggs—Fresh	.21	@	.22
Potatoes—Western, per bu	.85	@	.90
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping	3.50	@	4.75
Hogs—Choice Light	3.00	@	3.75
Sheep—Common to Prime	3.00	@	4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.93	@	.94
Corn—No. 1 White	.49	@	.49½
Oats—No. 2 White	.44	@	.44½
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle	4.00	@	5.00
Hogs	3.00	@	3.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.92	@	.93
Corn—No. 2	.43	@	.46
Oats—No. 2	.41	@	.42
Barley—Minnesota	.69	@	.71
CINCINNATI.
Cattle	3.00	@	4.25
Hogs	3.00	@	3.75
Sheep	3.00	@	5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.95	@	.96
Corn—No. 2	.51	@	.51½
Oats—No. 2 Mixed	.42	@	.42½
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring	.85	@	.86
Corn—No. 3	.46½	@	.47½
Oats—No. 2 White	.42	@	.42½
Rye—No. 1	.66	@	.67
Barley—No. 2	.65	@	.67
DETROIT.
Cattle	3.00	@	5.00
Hogs	3.00	@	3.50
Sheep	3.00	@	4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red	.98	@	.99
Corn—No. 2 Yellow	.52	@	.53
Oats—No. 2 White	.45½	@	.46
TOLEDO.
Wheat	.94	@	.95
Corn—Cash	.50	@	.50½
Oats—No. 2 White	.46	@	.47
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime	4.00	@	5.00
Hogs—Medium and Heavy	3.50	@	3.75
Wheat—No. 1 Hard	1.08	@	1.08½
Corn—No. 2	.57½	@	.58½
EAST LIBERTY.
Cattle—Common to Prime	3.50	@	5.00
Hogs—Light	3.25	@	4.00
Sheep—Medium to Good	4.00	@	5.50
Lambs	4.00	@	6.00
NEW YORK.
Cattle	3.50	@	5.50
Hogs	3.25	@	3.75
Sheep	4.00	@	5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red	1.04	@	1.06
Corn—No. 2	.58	@	.60
Oats—Mixed Western	.46	@	.50

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS

IN THE EVERYDAY LIFE OF THE INDIANANS.

Slashed With a Razor—Shot His Eye Out. Robbed by a Footpad—Brutally Pounded—Suicides—Fort Wayne Raising a Purse for Brave Officers.

—Crawfordsville's 'live with tramps.

—Peru is now routing out her gamblers.

—Scarlet fever is epidemic at Willow Branch.

—There's a genuine case of smallpox in Lodi.

—Covington has many severe cases of la grippe.

—Adeline Guthrie, aged 80 years, died at Lebanon.

—There are two cases of spotted fever in Washington.

—Jeffersonville is being tortured with la grippe again.

—Counterfeit two-dollar bills are circulating in Franklin.

—Emanuel Kinsey, of Claypool, was fatally hurt by a fall.

—Miners' State Convention will be held in Terre Haute, March 3.

—Terre Haute's new electric street-car system is in operation.

—Brazil has a fighting chance of seizing the Indianapolis car works.

—Michigan City is going to have a German paper, the Freie Lanze.

—A young Shelbyvillian claims to have smoked 7,000 cigarettes last year.

—Hoopston canning factory put up 216,720 cans of pumpkins this year.

—Five hundred thousand pike have been placed in a pond at Rome City.

—A new and unusually powerful gas well has just been drilled at Muncie.

—Fort Wayne mail carriers have organized a mutual protective association.

—Shelbyville's new natural-gas company will get its supply near Fountaintown.

—John Anderson, a tramp, was found in a badly frozen condition at Martinsville.

—Tell City will give a square and $20,000 if they'll let it be the county seat of Perry.

—During the past year the city of Crawfordsville paid $5,810 to salaried officers.

—Benjamin Alvis, miner, was fatally hurt by a fall of slate in the mine near Newburg.

—The 8-year-old son of Thomas Anderson, of Owen County, is said to weigh 200 pounds.

—Harry Robins, a 6-year-old Shelbyville boy, was blinded while playing with fire-crackers.

—The steamer Gen. Pike met with a disaster at Madison and sank in twenty feet of water.

—Little Harry Robins, playing with fire-crackers in Shelbyville, shot out both of his eyes.

—T. R. Johnson, of South Bend, is dead at the age of 77. He settled in South Bend in 1843.

—James Wales, a Union County farmer, has failed, with liabilities of $12,000 and assets of $7,000.

—Nine hundred volumes of standard works have been added to the library of the prison south.

—Samuel Little, Pike County, has brought suit to eject the striking miners from the houses near his mine.

—Fire in H. D. Pixley & Co.'s establishment in Terre Haute destroyed about $15,000 worth of property.

—Lewis Summers, of Providence, was accidently shot by a companion while hunting. His wounds are fatal.

—It is a positive fact that gold has been discovered in paying quantities in Blount Township, near Danville.

—L. Barber, a brakeman on the C. & E. Railroad, lost his right hand while making a car coupling at Decatur.

—Miss Lizzie Snowberg, who was so badly injured while crossing the railway track near Camden, has since died.

—John Fitzgerald, sr., a wholesale grocer of Logansport, well-known in the northern part of the State, died suddenly.

—Mrs. John W. Mullen slipped and fell on the icy sidewalk at Madison, suffering a double fracture of bones of her leg.

—Henry Underwood, near Groveland, lost his fine barn, with many horses and cattle by fire. Partially insured. Incendiary.

—Noah Hoffman slipped off a load of hay, near Lebanon. A shotgun he was carrying was discharged, tearing off his left arm.

—A fox-drive near Loogootee resulted in the capture of five foxes and about two hundred rabbits, nothing but clubs being used.

—The German National Bank, of Evansville, has been reorganized under the State laws, and increased its capital stock $150,000.

—Mrs. Harvey Moore, Greencastle, attempted to eat one quail a day for 30 days. She ate 29, but could not manage the thirtieth.

—B. L. Schroit's 11-year-old son was drowned while skating near Emma. His companions were too badly frightened to try to save him.

—A mineral, gas and oil-well company was incorporated at Greenwood, with a capital of $10,000. Boring will commence immediately.

—Lexington jokers put a rope around the neck of Charles Madden, who was intoxicated, and suspended him from a coat-hook. He was nearly lifeless before the jokers realized the gravity of their prank and cut him down.

—Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Ely, returning to their homes in the country after shopping in Wabash, were overtaken on the way by a footpad, who deliberately reached in the back of their buggy and took their packages of dry goods, and escaped.

—Gen. Lew Wallace, of Crawfordsville, has the following recipe for the cure of rheumatism, that is said to be effectual as well as simple: "Apply a full-strength mustard poultice, containing a little garlic, to the hollows of both feet and then cover up in bed. Place sufficient bedding under you to take up the perspiration. Remain still from three to four hours, then remove the mustard and wet bedding, but do not remove any clothing from the body for fear of taking cold; let it dry on you. The mustard will not blister the feet, but will drive the disease from the system."

—A movement is on foot in Fort Wayne among the citizens to raise $1,500 for Officers Kennelly and Wilkinson, who captured Kuhns.

—John Buchannan and Fittie Bender, of New Market, were found nearly dead in their room at a Jefferson hotel. They had blown out the gas.

—Frank Carr and Robert Miessle, Noblesville children, furnished with powder for New Year's fun, are now laid up with faces burned beyond recognition.

—It is proposed to erect a monument to the memory of the late W. D. Robinson, of Washington, founder of the Brotherhood of Engineers.

—The Midland Railroad promises to remove its shops from Lebanon to Brazil if Clay county will vote a $23,000 subsidy to its proposed extension.

—Charles Parker, mulatto, in trouble with Lawrence Wagner, slashed him with his razor in Fort Wayne. Jailed on charge of assault with intent to kill.

—William Law and Benjamin Law, each in State's prison serving twelve-year sentences, make application in the Franklin courts for divorces from their wives.

—Maria B. Woodworth, the faith-cure evangelist, has filed in the Delaware Circuit Court a petition for divorce from Philip H. Woodworth, alleging cruelty and unfaithfulness.

—A Green County farmer deeded all of his valuable property to his twelve stalwart sons, with the understanding that they would in future support him. He is now engaged in hauling rails.

—Capitalists from Detroit and Muncie have leased twenty acres of James Frazer, near Hillsboro, for the purpose of using the sand there for the manufacture of glass. The intention is to locate a factory there.

—H. M. Bercaw and George W. Myers, stock buyers, living in Boone County, were called to Frankfort to answer to six indictments charging them with placing a thin piece of lead under the weight on their scales, therefore making 100 pounds difference every time the beam was balanced. They were fined $350 and severely censured.

—The trestle of Sam's Lick, on the French Lick branch of the Monon, gave way while a passenger train was crossing. The engineer put on a full head of steam and got the train over, but it went down the enbankment. The engineer, Andy Erwin, was severely bruised and Mrs. J. A. Ritter, of West Baden, and the baggage-master, William Price, were slightly injured.

—George Ellis, of New Albany, while hunting ducks in the Louisville and Portland Canal, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun. He had laid the gun in the bottom of his boat, and, in picking it up, the hammer caught against an oar. The contents of both barrels struck him under the chin and almost literally blew off his head.

—While workmen were engaged in rebuilding the O. & M. Railway bridge over White River at Shoals, a girder was let fall, which knocked a stationary derrick down on the workmen. It crushed Theodore Wiseman, aged 45, of North Vernon, to death, and seriously hurt three other workmen, Lewis Long, P. W. Jackson and Isaac Little. No blame is attached to the railroad company.

—Marion Potts, a section-hand on the C., C., C. & St. L. Railroad, was killed by the west-bound passenger train, about three miles west of Wilkinson, while working on the road. He was struck by the engine and thrown the length of four rails, and his body struck the handle of the hand-car and broke it off. His death was instantaneous. He was a married man and left a family.

—The celebrated case of the State vs. A. T. Howard was settled by compromise for $6,000 in the Floyd Circuit Court. Howard was Warden of the Prison South, and at the expiration of his term of office it is claimed that he was short in his accounts between $15,000 and $20,000. Suit was at once instituted, and the matter has been in the courts for years. A year ago judgment was rendered for the State for $2,500 in Clark County, and the payment of this judgment is included in the compromise.

—William Reed, Arthur Hubbard, Orville Wood, Charles Heffner, and Henry Hunch, of Fairland, were in Muncie spending New Year's. At night they boarded a freight train to ride home. When a mile from Fairland, Reed fell from the top of a box-car and had his head cut off. His body was found alongside the track by the section men. His companions had not missed him. He was a sober, industrious young man, aged 25. His father was killed at Anderson a year ago by falling on a circular saw.

—Robert H. Mitchell, of St. Louis, Mo., recently advertised for a wife, and Miss Alice V. Cammer, of Pennsylvania, a guest of relatives at Clay City, answered. He lost no time in reaching Clay City and making investigations. He found Miss Cammer young, handsome, and of excellent social standing. He had brought with him satisfactory reference. License was procured and the two were married at once. They left for their new home in St. Joseph, followed by a hundred or more Clay City people, who wished them well. Mr. Mitchell is a school-teacher. The marriage, though on sight, appears to be a happy one.

—Six unknown men inveigled William Vorhies out of his house in Peru, and beat him over the head with clubs. Mrs. Vorheis found him unconscious and helped him home. No explanation can be made of the outrage.

—A package containing 10,000 postage stamps, valued at $200, was found in the vault of the Howard National bank, of Kokomo, the other day. The stamps were the property of ex-Postmaster Somers, and they had been laying in the vault forgotten for five years.

—The family of Joseph Fein, of New Albany, consisting of six persons, ate what were called canned French peas, and immediately became very ill. All are now out of danger except Mr. Fein, whose condition is precarious.

—Beckey Ortman, who has a Government license to sell beer near Crawfordsville, has adopted a scheme to evade the law, which does not permit the liquor to be drank upon the premises where sold. She has erected a small shanty on an adjoining lot and placed a store thereon, where her customers go to drink the liquor.

BURNED A WHOLE BLOCK

TWO MAMMOTH THEATERS RUINED BY FLAMES.

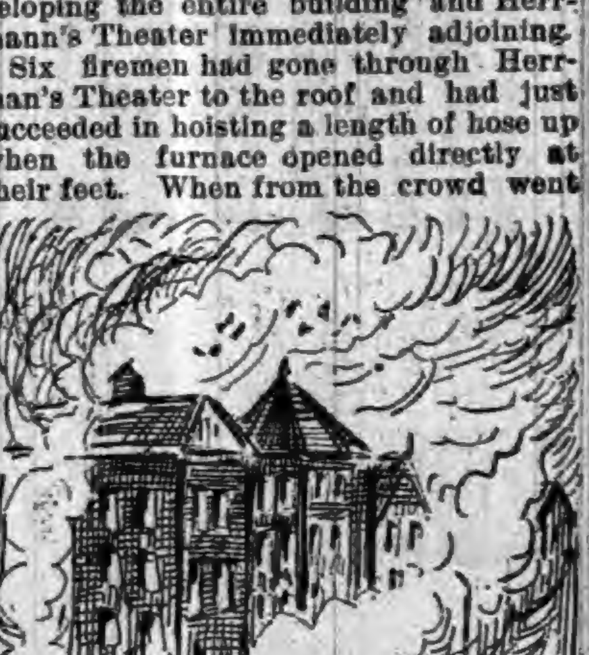
The Fifth Avenue and Herrmann's Destroyed—Half a Dozen Firemen Miraculously Escape Death—Twenty-three Companies on the Scene—Large Property Loss.

[New York dispatch.]

Fire which it was feared would result in the loss of the lives of at least half a dozen brave firemen broke out in the Fifth Avenue Theater shortly after midnight this morning.

Within an hour that famous playhouse was practically destroyed. Herrmann's Theater was in flames, and the entire block in grave peril. The fire broke out under the stage of the Fifth Avenue Theater. At half past 12 o'clock an explosion was heard in the building, and a moment later the upper part of the city was illuminated by a huge sheet of flame which rose to the roof of the theater, enveloping the entire building and Herrmann's Theater immediately adjoining.

Six firemen had gone through Herrmann's Theater to the roof and had just succeeded in hoisting a length of hose up when the furnace opened directly at their feet. When from the crowd went up a great shout for the scaling-ladders they were quickly run up and a vain effort made to reach the imperiled men.



A deadly silence that lasted for a full minute resulted, and then a moan of agony arose from the crowd. Firemen were seen to bend their heads and wipe away the tears that they could not prevent from flowing. It was thought that the men had certainly been hurled into the raging furnace beneath, and they were given up as lost. But from the crowd on the Twenty-eighth street side a few moments later went up a cheer. It announced the rescue of the firemen by means which seemed miraculous.

At this time the whole block, from Twenty-eighth street to Twenty-ninth street, was in flames. Guests of the Brower House were early turned into the street. The Sturtevant House, opposite the Broadway entrance to the burning theater, was in serious danger.

For miles around the flames could be seen shooting high into the heavens, and an enormous crowd gathered and crowded the neighboring streets.

At 1 o'clock the scene was one of magnificence, the entire block on Broadway and 150 feet on both Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets was like a seething furnace.

From the roof of the Fifth Avenue Theater the flames ran along the cornices of Prof. Herrmann's new theater, which had recently been completed and was one of the prettiest and most expensive playhouses in the city. In an instant the entire roof was ablaze. A high wind sprang up and carried the fire with a rapidity defying the twenty-three fire companies which were there to fight it.

A low block of stores adjoins Herrmann's Theater, and to these the flames quickly spread. Within an hour of the sounding of the first alarm the row was in flames and the firemen in despair. Then the wind veered from north to east, and the top story of the Sturtevant House caught fire from embers from across Broadway, and a good part of the roof of the Sturtevant was destroyed.

The estimated loss on the Fifth Avenue Theater was $100,000 by H. C. Miner and $500,000 by the Gilsey estate.

Miss Fanny Davenport loses $50,000, exclusive of her costumes, and Prof. Herrmann's loss is placed at $50,000.

DECREASE OF THE PUBLIC DEBT

It Has Gone Down $11,005,398 During the Last Month.

The following is the public debt statement for December:

INTEREST-BEARING DEBT.
Bonds at 4½ per cent..............$	53,177,350
Bonds at 4 per cent.	559,742,700
Refunding certificates at 4 per cent.	990,490
Aggregate of interest-bearing debt exclusive of U. S. bonds issued to Pacific railroads....	$619,019,740
Debt on which interest has ceased since maturity	1,669,505
DEBT BEARING NO INTEREST.
Legal-tender notes	$346,681,016
Old demand notes	56,053
National bank notes—
Redemption account (deposited in Treasury under act of July 14, 1890)	51,323,080
Fractional currency, less $8,375,934 estimated as lost or destroyed	6,910,626
Aggregate of debt bearing no interest, including national bank fund deposited in the Treasury under act of July 14, 1890	$404,970,704
Certificates issued on deposits of gold and silver coin and legal-tender notes:
Gold certificates	175,431,969
Silver certificates	309,855,778
Currency certificates	6,820,000
Treasury notes of 1890	24,090,500
Aggregate of certificates offset by cash in the Treasury	$516,198,247
Aggregate of debt, including certificates, Dec. 31, 1890	$1,541,871,198
Decrease of bonded debt during the month	7,424,928
CASH IN TREASURY.
Reserved for redemption of United States notes, acts of Jan. 14, 1875, and July 12, 1882	$100,000,000
For redemption of gold certificates issued	175,431,969
For redemption of silver certificates issued	309,855,778
For redemption of currency certificates issued	6,820,000
For redemption of Treasury notes, act July 14, 1890	24,090,500
For matured debt, accrued interest, and interest due and unpaid	5,670,597
Total cash reserved for above purposes	$621,868,844
AVAILABLE FOR OTHER PURPOSES.
Fractional silver, fractional currency, and minor coin not full legal tender	$19,153,006
Net cash balance, including $54,207,975, national bank fund deposited in the Treasury under act of July 14, 1890	38,418,806
Total	$679,440,656
Debt, less cash in the Treasury Dec. 31, 1890	862,430,541
Debt, less cash in the Treasury, Nov. 30, 1890	873,435,939
Net increase of debt during the month	$11,005,398

May Be Funny, May Be Not.

THERE will be both a Ketcham and a Cheatham in the next Congress, just as there are in this one.—Boston Herald.

Two of the hardest things to keep in this life are a new diary and a sharp lead-pencil.—Norristown Herald.

IT is not wise to say everything you know, but how can some people help it if they say anything at all?—Somerville Journal.

If You Had a Friend

About to visit some section of country where malarial disease, either in the form of chills and fever or bilious remittent was particularly rife, what would be about the best advice you could give him? We will tell you—to carry along, or procure on arriving, that potent medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, known throughout malaria-plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of disarming the miasmatic scourge, and robbing it of its fell destructive influence. Not only does it fortify the system by increasing its stamina, but overcomes irregularity of digestion, the liver and the bowels, and counteracts the unfavorable effects of over-exertion, bodily and mental exposure in rough weather, or occupation too sedentary or laborious, loss of appetite, and excessive nervousness. The functions of alimentation, bilious secretion, and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary.

Case of Mind-Cure.

"Faugh! That's a nasty pipe, Cholly. Throw the beastly thing to the dawgs!"

"Pipes, Fweddy, are [puff] getting to be all the go [puff] in England."

(In an altered tone)—"Is that an English pipe, Cholly?"

"Of course it is, old chappie!"

"Blaw the smoke this way again. [Sniff.] Baw Jove, Cholly, a fellah could get used to that vewy quick, don't ch' know? [Sniff, sniff.] Baw Jove, ole boy, it's delicious."

WE quoted a current item about the experience of Dr. Alanus with a vegetarian diet, and his attributing disease of the blood vessels to his use of that diet. We expressed doubt of any relation of cause and effect between such diet and softening arteries. Now Dr. Holbrook writes that probably it is a "fake" item, since the German vegetarians never heard of Dr. Alanus, and no such name appears in their medical directories.—Dr. Foote's Health Monthly.

Fair Warning.

Lady (who has determined to rid her pet dog of fleas)—Have you anything that will kill fleas?

Druggist's New Boy—Yes'm, but it'll make y'r skin smart.—Street and Smith's Good News.

A COLORED child without arms or legs is one of the living monstrosities of West Chester, Pa.

ST. JACOBS OIL
THE BEST.

Rheumatism.
N. Ogden, Mich., May 17, 1890.
"A half bottle of your invaluable medicine, St. Jacobs Oil, cured me of rheumatism and rheumatic swelling of the knee. It is the best in the universe."
J. M. L. PORTER.

Neuralgia.
Hagerstown, Md., April 21, 1890.
"I, and others of my family, have used St. Jacobs Oil for neuralgia and found it a speedy, effective cure."
MRS. AGNES KELLEY.

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
DOES CURE
CONSUMPTION
In its First Stages.
Be sure you get the genuine.

SHILOH'S
CONSUMPTION
CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

IF YOU HAVE
Malaria or Piles, Sick Headache, Costive Bowels, Dumb Ague, Sour Stomach and Belching; if your food does not assimilate and you have no appetite, will cure these troubles. Price, 25 cents.
Tutt's Pills

DETECTIVES
Wanted in every County to act in the Secret Service under instructions from Capt. Grannan, ex-Chief of Detectives of Cincinnati. Experience not necessary. Particulars free. Address Grannan Detective Bureau Co. 44 Arcade, Cincinnati, O.

FAT FOLKS
Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address, DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

PATENTS
Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent, sent free.
PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washington, D.C.

WANTED
We want reliable men in all parts of the country who are already traveling salesmen to carry our lubricating oil samples as a side line; name territory and references. MANUFACTURERS OIL CO., Cleveland, O.

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles,

EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!

LUNEAS! NEVADA!

IMPERIAL PINK!

ROUSSEL ROSE

EDEN BOUQUET!

LILY OF THE VALLEY!

All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a cobweb,
Lasting as the hills."

☞ If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.

46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?

1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.

2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.

3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.

CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.

MASTERS CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

BUY AT DRUGGISTS.

HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

A REVERIE.

BY EDWARD G. ALLANSON.

I am drifting away in a beautiful bark
Far out on a boundless sea,
And the sweep of the waves o'er the sounding deep
Has a mystical charm for me.

But the heart that is sheltered with purple and gold
Is cold in its splendor and pride,
And the waves in their revelry mock as they pass,
And bitterness sweeps with the tide.

There are beautiful isles and bowers of love,
And glist'ning fountains of tears,
And pitiful wrecks of sorrow and shame
That pass with the fleeting years.

There are treacherous depths where the waters whirl,
Where hate and sorrow stay,
Where the shattered wrecks on the breakers of fate
Are silently drifting away.

They are drifting away to rest with the years
Where the sunlight has faded and gone,
To wake in the morn at the judgment bar
In the light of eternity's dawn.

Oh, voices of love, that falter and break,
And speak of the past ever more,
Your echoes lead on 'neath the day-star of hope
Till they break on eternity's shore.

ANITA, Iowa.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER XIII.

THE EVENING TASK.

As an elegant clock, with old cathedral chimes, struck the hour of ten, Ethel, with a pale face, and trembling hand, lighted a candle, possessed herself of the strange-looking knife, then opening the wardrobe, and drawing back the bolt, stepped into the passage and from thence through the small door in the opposite wall.

As this opened, she looked timidly around for the entrance to the ruined rooms in which she was to find the basket of food.

She found herself as soon as the small passage was left, in a long, straight, dark gallery or corridor, that led directly to what Sir Reginald assured her was the Haunted Tower. At the end where she stood, however, on the left-hand side, was a door, fastened with an old-fashioned iron hook. This led to ruin, and with a beating heart she opened it.

Close by the door she found a small covered basket that she knew must contain what she sought.

Grasping it quickly she again fastened the door, as Sir Reginald had instructed her to do, and passed down the corridor.

There she found the entrance to the tower, and resolving to take some bright, sunshiny day to visit this spot, she turned, as she had been directed, to count out the number of panels on the left-hand wall, and immediately discovered the faint crack that she knew must be what she sought. Inserting the point of the knife, she turned three times, when the panels parted and there lay the shelves.

Opening then the basket, she found food in small pieces, consisting of broken biscuits, bits of chicken, potatoes, and quite a quantity of meat cut in mouthfuls. This she placed on the shelves upon the wooden plate upon which it was heaped. Then gently shoving the shelves, they slowly whirled around, and when the same side returned to her the plate stood upon it empty, ready to be placed again in the basket.

"That ape must have been trained," she thought, "to empty the plate and return it!"

Then she inwardly smiled at his intelligence.

She listened for a moment, but all was still. Shoving to the panels, she found that they relocked themselves, so taking up candlestick, knife and basket, she placed the latter against the outside door, fastened it securely, and reached her own room in safety.

Once bolted in, the poor girl gave a sigh of relief, and dropped into a chair to calm herself before she could proceed to return the candle and knife to their places.

The task required of her had been a singularly unpleasant one. She was a brave young girl, and had endured but few feelings of fear, but she had trembled, because the thing required so much secrecy.

She disliked mysteries of all kinds, and her honest, open nature revolted from the whole work.

Had she not solemnly promised her aunt to assist the baronet in any service he might require, in order thus to secure a safe home and just guardianship, she would never have consented to the task she had now formed.

"However," she reflected, "there is certainly nothing wrong in a man's keeping secret his possession of a valuable animal as long as he could attend to his wants himself." But when he could not, she thought his best mode would have been to send for its owner.

But where was the owner?

Probably so far off that the creature would die unless cared for, therefore there really seemed no other way.

All this did not distress her so much as the words Sir Reginald had said about the Haunted Tower. This duty was easy and simple, and, as far as she could see, silly, but not wicked; but pretending a place haunted, and using strange lights and machinery to keep up the evil appearance therein, she felt was deceitful and wrong, and she shuddered as she thought of his words, that after awhile he should require this assistance at her hands.

She did not fancy, as has been said, any part of her evening tasks, but that was almost more than she could undertake.

But how could she avoid it now, when her word had been pledged? how refuse at the time, when urged by a nervous, suffering, and unstrung human being just terribly wounded, whose life almost depended on being kept perfectly quiet?

In view of his fearful situation, she felt that she could do no less than undertake to relieve him of his intense anxieties on the subject, and could see no way of shirking the obligations laid upon her.

One thing, however, she decided to do, she should take some morning hour to explore the ruins, and that Haunted Tower, so that she might become accustomed to all the dangers and peculiarities of the place before other offices were required at her hands.

With this resolution still in her mind, she restored the candle and knife to the secret drawer, and then sought the luxurious bed that awaited awaited her, and there fell at once into a pleasant sleep, from which she never aroused until the bright rays of another morning sun stole into her room.

Springing up, she dressed as soon as possible, and opening her door found, by questioning a maid, that the family did not rise until late, as their breakfast hour was from ten to eleven.

All being quiet in the room of the invalid, she returned to her own apartment, and fastening the door securely, resolved at once to start upon her exploring expedition, as she felt that she would be for at least an hour and a half unobserved and mistress of her own time and motions.

It was now half after eight.

With a little of the trembling nervousness of the night before the brave girl opened the intervening doors and stepped into the corridor.

All was folded in the same solemn stillness that made the place oppressive on the previous night.

She resolved to explore the ruined parts before she sought the tower, therefore unhooked the door and stepped out. As she did so she noticed that the covered basket was still there.

The door opened directly into a small rickety hall that led into several large rooms, all dusty, moldy, and more or less dilapidated. Broken windows, torn wall papers, bare rafters, seen through immense places where ceilings had fallen, were every where visible. Some rooms were filled with broken furniture, pieces of old china, and fragments of time-worn, cast-off clothing.

All, even the floors, were in an advanced state of decay.

Ethel looked at these dilapidated objects and found herself wondering why Sir Reginald had not had the whole pulled down and removed? Its destruction certainly would heighten the value of property, while its presence only spoke of neglect and untidiness.

One thing she observed in her ramble there was an easy mode of egress and ingress to this part into the hall, and marks of recent footsteps on the floor told that this formed the entrance place to the person who prepared and bought the food she was nightly to place on the iron shelves.

Another thing struck her; in all the premises there was not the slightest appearance of the concealed room, in which she knew the treasure was secreted.

Only a bare, blank wall appeared upon the side where she knew it must be.

Retracing her steps after all had been examined, she unfastened the door, and then sought the Haunted Tower.

The door leading to this was closed, but not bolted, so she opened it, and crossing quite a large square place, she began ascending a long flight of stairs.

The steps were steep, and not at all easy, and she became very tired before she reached the top, but pressing on, she did reach it, but not before she paused to rest upon a broad, flat landing; paused, too, with horror, at an unexpected sight that there presented itself.

It was the stuffed image of a man, fixed upon wires, that worked upon the same principle as the jumping-jacks often bought to amuse children.

This, however, was nearly as large as life; its head was hollow, with red glass in place where the eyes would be, so that a lighted glass lamp, placed within, would give a flaming appearance to those eyes.

From each side horns projected, and she could easily imagine what the whole terrific effect must be to an outside beholder. This figure, she saw, could be elevated and put in motion by winding up a crank to which it was attached.

Arrangements for different colored lights were also on every hand.

After carefully examining all the machinery until she perfectly understood its workings and the whole wicked plan to give supernatural appearance to the tower, Ethel passed upward until she could gaze without hindrance upon the tall windows of this lofty place.

Then exclamations of delight escaped her, for there she could catch an unobstructed view of the grand panorama that stretched for miles and miles away on every side.

But she did not linger, fearing she would be seen by some of the villagers, and her presence reported to Sir Reginald.

This visit she knew would be displeasing to him, if he wished it to be a place that should fill every heart with fear, in order to keep visitors from it by day as well as by night.

After, then, one more glance around on the glorious scene that lay before her, she descended, glad that she had been there, had seen the true inwardness of the place, for now it certainly could never have a feeling of terror with which to inspire her heart.

Let any person ever speak to her of the fearful sights seen in that lonely Haunted Tower, she could turn away unawed, knowing the whole thing to be a deception, a heartless imposition, a wicked fraud.

CHAPTER XIV.

DAILY PROGRESS.

Day after day passed, during which Ethel became quite accustomed to her routine of work, and quietly persevered in her duties.

Nothing difficult to accomplish was required at her hands; nothing beyond spending a couple of hours each morning in her own room, writing letters, of which an abstract was taken from Sir Reginald's own lips; then an hour or two, just as he felt inclined, reading the daily papers for his amusement.

Very often would he find a chance to whisper the question:

"Do you perform your evening tasks regularly and well? Does all go on as safely as I could wish?"

Then when the answer came, "All goes well," he would seem so satisfied and relieved that she felt almost happy in giving the information.

About a month after her arrival at Glendenning Hall, she had been reading one afternoon a work in which he was particularly interested, when she was interrupted by the entrance of Dr. Elfenstein.

As the baronet motioned to her to remain where she was during the interview, the regular nurse being absent, and as the Doctor might need some things from her hand, she became interested in the conversation which ensued.

Now, Dr. Elfenstein was rather a small talker, and this natural reserve tended to make his professional interviews at the Hall brief, and usually confined closely to his medical work.

But this morning he seemed to linger and converse quite freely upon many of the topics of the day. Finally he commenced giving an account of the severe storm that had swept over the country the night before the baronet's accident and ended by relating his own adventures and what he had seen in the tower.

"Sir Reginald, I thought I would tell you this and ask if you can explain the meaning of the spectacle then manifested?"

"I cannot," was the reply Ethel watched for with anxiety. "I am told by people far and near of strange appearances in that tower, but I have never seen anything of the kind there myself, therefore put no faith in the story."

"But you may believe me, sir, when I assure you such things are really to be seen there. Now, in order to satisfy my mind and perhaps enable me to explain the mystery to the frightened inhabitants, I crave your kind permission to visit the premises. Have I that permission?"

"It is impossible for me to grant it. When these things were first whispered about twenty-five years ago, we, as a family, were exceedingly annoyed by constant visitors to the spot, and the thing became so much of a nuisance that it was closed forever from all inspection. No, you must not ask this, Doctor, as I cannot consent to the place being entered after being so long sealed. As it is, take my word for it and be satisfied. It is merely a vagary of the brain, an optical delusion, something better to be forgotten.

Dr. Elfenstein said no more, but inwardly resolved to pay a surreptitious visit there, if not a permitted one, as this mystery he determined should be unraveled.

As he rose to leave, he happened to glance toward the young girl opposite to him, and saw her head bent low over the book she held, while a sad and pained expression had floated over her speaking face.

Bidding them good-morning, he rode away, wondering "why Miss Nevergail should have seemed so deeply moved?"

After the reading had concluded, the baronet said he would excuse her further attendance upon him, therefore she started out for a ramble over the grounds.

She had not gone far before she regretted having done so, as she was joined a short distance from the house by Robert Glendenning, a man she instinctively disliked.

This afternoon he seemed particularly disagreeable, as he fell into his usual patronizing way, only embellishing it by gross and fulsome flattery.

The truth was this young man was a great admirer of a pretty face, and from the first look into Ethel's speaking eyes, and upon her rare beauty, he had acknowledged that he had never seen a person that so exactly met the standard of the beautiful he had raised in his soul. But her proud bearing in his presence, her shrinking from his approach, gave such evidence of her dislike that he felt irritated, and consequently determined to annoy her in every way possible during her stay at the Hall, through a spirit of teasing.

This flattery, he saw at once, was utterly distasteful, therefore persevered in its use.

"O my dear Miss Nevergail, the fates certainly have befriended me, this time! To think that I should have met thus your beautiful self, just as you start on a ramble, is too fortunate for belief! Which direction shall be go, for I at once constitute myself your devoted attendant?"

"Mr. Glendenning, you will excuse me, if I decline your services. I came out for a quiet walk by myself, and therefore shall not certainly trespass upon your time."

"Pardon me, my angel, my time is of no consequence at all. I must insist upon accompanying you, as I could never allow so lovely a lady to stroll around without a protector."

"Sir," said Ethel, now really losing patience, "there is no danger certainly to be met with in your uncle's grounds. But since you aver otherwise, I shall instantly return."

So saying, the young girl wheeled about, and began rapidly to retrace her steps.

"You will do no such thing," was the insolent reply, as Robert sprang to her side, seized her hand, and drawing it firmly under his arm, held it tight, and thus drew her back to the walk. "When I propose walking with a charming girl, I usually do it."

"Whether your presence prove agreeable or no?"

"Whether my presence prove agreeable or no."

"Sir, release my hand. I have no desire to go further. I shall merely add that your presence is disagreeable, and your words of flattery almost insulting."

"Notwithstanding that, my dearest girl——"

"I am neither your 'dearest girl' nor your 'angel,' and you have no right to address me in that style. I am your uncle's secretary and amanuensis, and am here merely to carry out his wishes, and work, not to be attended by you in any way whatever," returned the indignant Ethel, once more disengaging her hand, and retreating toward the house.

"Miss Nevergail, go, since you are so determined, but remember, although you decline my frienship, nothing you may do will provoke my enmity, and before many days you will spend hours in my company voluntarily."

Ethel made no answer, and the next moment re-entered the hall, leaving the chagrined youth to his bitter reflections.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Female Doctors.

A wonderful change in respect to female labor has rapidly developed within the last century. A vast number of common schools have passed into the hands of women, with a manifest gain to the cause of education, as well as to that of the sex. Women fill clerkships in almost every department of industry. At least as many women as men stand behind counters. They have largely taken possession of the lighter forms of labor introduced by the utilizing of electricity.

The foundation of colleges for women and the opening to them of the older colleges have prepared the way for their introduction into the various professions. We already have successful female lawyers, ministers, artists, and especially doctors.

Some of our female doctors stand on an equality with their medical brethren in culture, reputation and success, and the tendency toward this profession on the part of young women now graduating at our higher literary institutions is one to be encouraged.

The natural instincts of women are in this direction. It is this that makes them so much at home in the sick-room, and such angels of mercy in military hospitals. The field for them is broad and remunerative. They need to accompany the foreign missionary everywhere. They are best suited to minister to their own sex and children generally.

But they must prepare themselves most thoroughly for the work, adding to the discipline of the college the fullest mastery of medicine that can be furnished by first-class medical schools. They cannot rely upon any feeling of gallantry here. It must be seen that they are the equals of their brothers.

Further, we are sorry to say that it is not infrequently the case that members of the medical profession are at present unequal to their responsibilities. It has been too easy to get medical diplomas. School has competed against school, to the injury of the profession and the peril of the sick. Our best medical schools recognize and deplore this condition of things, and are doing what they can to improve it.

We say, therefore, to young ladies, that the field is open to them, with the pioneer work already done. But let none enter it who are not suited to the work by native tact, self-reliance, and what may be called physical and moral hardihood.—Youth's Companion.

An Amateur Detective Agency.

Sweet Girl—"Pa, the house next door was robbed last night."

Pa—"Mercy! Next door?"

Sweet Girl—"Yes, and the burglars have been in two or three houses on this block within a week."

Pa—"I know it, I know it. It's terrible! But what can we do?"

Sweet Girl—"I was thinking it might be a good plan for Mr. Nicefellow and me to sit up a few nights and watch for them."—New York Weekly.

HUMOR.

Highly Colored Testimony.

"You say you heard both shots fired?" asked a Texas lawyer who was cross-examining a witness in a murder case.

"Yes, sah, I heard bofe shots. Dey was fired simultaneously, sah."

"Are you sure of it?"

"Yes, sah; bofe ob 'em was fired simultaneously. I wasn't more than forty feet off at the time."

"But on the direct examination you swore the shots were fired one after the other, and now you say they were fired simultaneously."

"So dey was, sah; one after annudder, simultaneous like.

An Injured Man.

"I came near marrying an heiress once through a matrimonial bureau."

"You did?"

"Fact. We exchanged portraits and things were going on swimmingly when I was nominated for office and the local paper published my portrait. She saw it and I was dished."

"Why, she ought to have been proud of you."

"She wasn't. She demanded the return of her letters; called me a scoundrel for palming off another person's portrait on her, and expressed her wonder that such a desperate-looking villain as I appeared in the paper could write such pleasant letters. Too bad, wasn't it?"

Couldn't See Her Dress.

Mrs. Biddle—What kind of a dress did Mrs. Fastleigh have on at the ball last night, John?

Mr. Biddle—I really don't know, my dear. I only saw her when she was sitting down to supper!

In a Hurry.

Foreign Agitator—My friend, how many hours a day do you work?

American Mechanic—Oh, sometimes six, sometimes eight, sometimes ten, twelve, or fourteen—depends on how much I can get to do.

"Slave! Slave! You are only a slave. My mission to this country is to form an organization to——"

"I can't stop to talk now. I must get around with my deposit before the bank closes."

Positive Proof.

Little Miss—Mamma, that new neighbor's little girl is awfully vulgar. I met her in the street to-day and after we passed she turned her head and stared back at me.

Mamma—Are you sure?"

Little Miss—Yes, indeed; I saw her with my own eyes.

Durable Stuff.

Little Girl—My shoes is always gettin' worn out. I dess the leather isn't dood leather.

Mamma—I'm afraid it is not as good as it might be.

Little Girl—Nex' time we'll ask the man to give me shoes of the same stuff as those teeny weeny ones you got for my dollie. Dollie has worn hers a year.

A Wise Dog.

Tramp—Hem! Good-mornin', mum. Nice dog you have mum. What d'ye call him?

Housekeeper—He'll go to you without calling, quick as I loose this chain.

A Very Ill Boy.

Anxious Mother—I am afraid Johnny is sick.

Father—My goodness! What does he complain of?

Anxious Mother—He hasn't began to complain yet; but I forgot to lock the jam closet to day, and there isn't a bit missing.

An Appreciative Husband.

Wife—Did you read in the paper yesterday about that unfortunate man who lost so many wives?

Husband—No; what was it?

"Inside of six years he lost four wives. The first was burnt to death, the second was drowned, the third became insane, and the fourth ran away with an actor."

"What a run of luck that fool had."

Austin Society Item.

There was a little social gathering at the residence of Judge Peterby, and Col. Yerger, who was present, observed the ladies, who were all together in the parlor, were not very talkative, so he said to Judge Peterby:

"How little those ladies have to say to each other!"

"Just wait till one of them goes away, and then listen to what the rest have to say about her. You don't understand the fair sex, Col. Yerger."

Measuring the Flow of Tides.

A young scientist connected with the United States steamer Fish Hawk, which is used in experimenting on the Sound, has invented an ingenious instrument for measuring the flow of the tides. It is made of sheet copper in the shape somewhat of a fish, and is about four feet long. It is, when in use, suspended from the end of a 20-foot spar rigged to the side of the steamer, and extending at right angles with her, to make the action of the machine entirely independent of currents that might be caused by the steamer. The head of this mechanical fish consists of a delicately made revolving screw or wheel, not unlike in construction and shape the propelling screw of a steamer.

When the fish is lowered into the water it turns its head toward the current and is held in that position by the tail, which serves the purpose of a rudder. Within the body of the fish is placed delicate machinery which registers the revolutions made by the revolving screw, and the rapidity of the revolutions is transmitted to the laboratory on the steamer by an ingeniously constructed electrical apparatus, thus recording the rapidity of the current.—New York Telegram.

A Great Pity.

How it was that the village church caught fire no one ever knew, though there were many theories as to the origin of the disaster. Suffice it to say that the sacred edifice was gutted. In spite of the gallant efforts of the firemen nothing but the bare walls remained, and general regret was expressed that the fine organ—presented by the ladies only a few months previously—had been destroyed.

"It's a great pity losing the organ so soon after getting it," remarked an elder who was discussing the untoward event.

"Yes, it is," replied one of his friends: "but it was almost an impossibility to save it; you see the engines couldn't play on it." And then the speaker wisely went away.

WHEN men are as good as ther obituaries and women are as good as the men think they are the recording angel in heaven can take his long-needed vacation.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

AN ACCURATE WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by

THE COLUMBUS

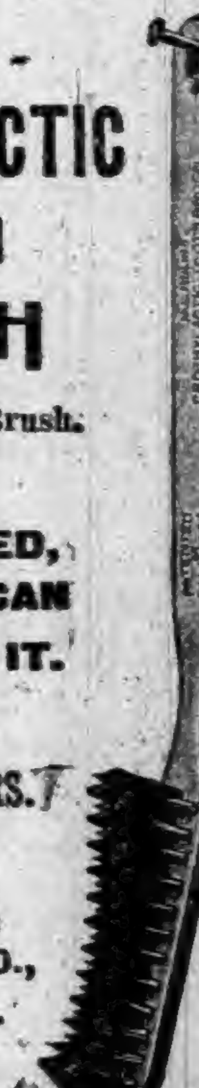
Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

122061
COLUMBUS WATCH CO.
COLUMBUS, OHIO

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO.,

COLUMBUS, OHIO.



THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM

Florence Mfg. Co.,

Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK.

Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have 300. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 16, 1890.

WEST-BOUND.

Stations—
		pm	am	am
Sandusky......lv	......	......	7 30	......	......
Wheeling.........	am *6 50	9 45	......	10 35	pm 12 25
Zanesville.......	9 52	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 17
Newark...........	pm 12 30	1 50	......	3 05	8 30
Columbus.....ar	1 25	2 50	......	4 05	9 30
Columbus.....lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm ‡6 50
Mansfield........	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 28
Deshler..........	3 12	5 52	10 50	10 24	am 1 47
Defiance.........	3 50	6 30	11 47	11 20	2 33
Auburn jc.......	4 46	7 28	pm 1 07	am 12 48	3 20
Avilla............	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25

EAST-BOUND.

Stations—	am	pm	am	pm	pm
Chicago.......lv	*11 10	*2 55	†7 10	*10 40	*3 05
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla............	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc.......	......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 06	9 43
Defiance.........	pm 3 00	8 00	2 22	4 27	10 49
Mansfield........	6 14	11 20	......	9 45	am 12 44
Columbus........	*9 30	am 2 50	......	pm 1 25	3 30
Newark...........	9 07	1 00	......	12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	9 42	1 44	......	1 30	5 53
Wheeling.....ar	11 50	4 40	......	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	......	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 50	pm 4 45	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 20	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 25	8 15	......	11 13	......
New York.....ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains.

For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Cincinnati, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent,
Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't.,
L. S. ALLEN, Assist. Gen. P. A. Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne........dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era...............	12 20 pm	5 16	7 22
Auburn Junc..........	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn.................	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo..............	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit................	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake........	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola.................	1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont...............	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading...............	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers...............	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale..............	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville.............	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson...............	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss.	Mail.
Jackson...............	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville.............	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale..............	....	12 30	7 35
Bankers...............	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading...............	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont...............	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola.................	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake........	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit................	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo..............	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn.................	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc..........	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era...............	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne...........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express....................	2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express......................	5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom.......................	2:30 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim........................	8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express......................	1:32 am. Daily
Logansport Accom..................	7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express......................	12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim...........	5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis...............................	7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT.
Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER.
Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.......JANUARY 8, 1891

THE Force bill is probably dead.

EMMA ABBOTT, America's great singer died at Salt Lake, Monday.

HARVESTER agents, in Iowa, are being asked to resign. The great Harvester Trust will do all the business.

NEW YORK CITY was enveloped last Friday in a fog so dense that travel was difficult. Even street cars could hardly make their trips.

THE famous Fifth Avenue theater in New York City burned last Friday evening after the audience had left. Loss over half a million.

GOV. RUSSEL, the newly elected chief magistrate of Massachusetts happened to buy a piece of real estate worth about $6,000 just before election.

THE two story brick house built by Matthew Cradock at Guilford, Conn, in 1634, is now proved to be the oldest in the United States. It is in good condition. Cradock was later governor of the colony.

NATURAL gas is piped from Canada over into the city of Buffalo, N. Y. Now the government says it must pay a tariff duty of 10 per cent. Will the Press explain how this will make the gas cheaper?

LIMA, Ohio, reports last year as a regular boomer. During 1890 they put down 2,000 wells at a cost of four millions, and these produced fourteen million barrels of oil worth five million dollars.

FRANCIS E. SPINNER, so many years treasurer of the United States, died in Florida last Wednesday. It was he who had the unreadable signature on the greenbacks. He was born in Herkimer Co. N. Y., in 1802.

THE Farmers' Alliance of Miami county, are in favor of a law that will render void any mortgage that is not given in to the assessor to be listed for taxation. The heads of that crowd are exceedingly level.

THE Ft. Wayne Gazette, the leading republican paper in this part of the state, has been asking other republican papers in Indiana, so as to their choice for president. Sixteen editors want Harrison, ten for Blaine, and one each for Sherman, Reed and Gresham. Ten were for "the nominee."

CARNEGIE's great iron works, at Braddock, near Pittsburg has turned off over 500 hands. His industry is highly protected. And he testified before the tariff committee that his profits were one and a half millions a year. Now. will the high tax editors show how wages are raised, or labor benefited by high tariff?

AGAIN, we ask the Waterloo Press, and similarly muddled republican papers, to explain how, if the tariff makes a thing cheaper, that it at the same time "protects" the laborer, or his employers The very essence of protection is that it enables the manufacturer to get a higher price so he can pay his men better wages. How will they explain this.

A Book on "Americans of Royal Descent" will soon be in print. It shows that James Gordon Bennett, the founder of the New York Herald is descended from Edward the First, of England. It is well known that Washington's ancestry is traced back to Malcolm, King of Scots, who figures in Shakespeare's Macbeth. This book will cost $12, but an exchange considers this cheap, "for you may happen to find yourself descended from a king, a queen, or perhaps, a knave."

Election of U. S. Senator.

So many of our exchanges seem to think the legislature meets on Monday and goes right to work to elect a U. S. senator, that we think the people should be set right. The legislature of Indiana meets on the first Thursday after the first Monday in January, which is to-day, the 8th in this year of '91. They do not act on the senator business till the second Tuesday after they meet. Next Tuesday, the 13th, is the first Tuesday, and one week later, the 20th is the second. On January 20, of this year, then, a vote will be taken in each house, the senate and the house of representatives, separately, and recorded. Then, the next day, at noon, both houses meet in one room, and the result is read. If the same man has received a majority in each house, he is declared elected But if one man had a majority in one house, and some one else had a majority in the other, then the two houses must take a vote together as one body, or jointly, and the man who gets a majority of all in the joint vote, is elected. If no one gets a majority, a second vote may be taken. And so the two bodies must meet each day and take at least, one vote till a senator is chosen.

Next Saturday Night

After six o'clock, or any day or night this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough. This medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough or cold and all lung or throat troubles. For bronchial diseases it has no superior and many cases of bronchitis have been entirely cured by its use. Do not hesitate to try this great, meritorious remedy and be convinced of its curative powers. You can buy this medicine for 25c to give it a trial, of F. F. Davenport.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

JUDGE McCLELLAN'S BILL.

Ex-Senator Joseph McDonald Speaks Highly of it and Our Congressman.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)

Ex-Senator McDonald, or "Old Saddle Bags," as he is familiarly called in Indiana, was found last night by your correspondent in the pleasant parlors at the Riggs, occupied by himself and his cultured and distinguished wife, and from both received the earnest and cordial Hoosier welcome. The senator, proof against the storms of more than seventy winters, is as active and vigorous, both in body and in mind, as those of our best thinkers in middle life. Perhaps no citizen of this republic keeps himself better informed or more abreast of the times than does Senator McDonald, and he readily replied to inquiries as follows:

"What, in your opinion, will be the result of the present session of congress?"

"The second session of the Fifty-first congress is likely to pass away without any beneficial results to the country. The election force bill, which at least three fourths of the people of this whole country do not want, still blocks the way to useful legislation in the senate, while the financial distress, under which all the material interests of the country are suffering, is left without remedy or even a serious attempt to provide any. This last result grows out of the fact that the republican party is hopelessly divided upon the best means of relieving the country from its present embarrassments. The popular measure of the hour is the unlimited free coinage of silver. This would, undoubtedly, give immediate relief, whatever might be the final result of such a measure. But to this measure the administration and a majority of the republican senators are opposed, and to avoid the unpopularity of such opposition, are willing to go almost any lengths in the direction of purchasing silver bullion at what is called 'current market price' as a means of getting out more greenbacks in paying for bullion. This absurd scheme has already had the effect of piling up silver bullion in the treasury at a price that it could not be sold for to-day, and is simply a measure in the interest of the silver stock jobber. A much more feasable plan of relief is embodied in a bill introduced in the last session by the Hon. C. A. O. McClellan, our congressman from the Twelfth district, which at the time of its introduction did not attract much attention, but latterly its main features have been embodied in a bill introduced into the senate at the present session by Senator Ingalls and are likely to be a good deal discussed before the session closes. Mr. McClellan's bill reads as follows:

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, that from and after the passage of this act no national banking association now organized, or hereafter organized, shall issue any circulating notes, and within one year from the passage of this act every national banking association shall deposit with the treasurer of the United States lawful money of the United States sufficient to redeem all its outstanding circulation, and upon such deposit shall receive back the bonds deposited to secure payment of its notes and thereafter be discharged from all liabilities upon its circulating notes, which notes shall be redeemed at the treasury of the United States.

And if any such bank shall fail to make the deposits and take up its bonds within one year the comptroller of the currency shall have the power to sell the bonds pledged for the circulation of such bank, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the office of the assistant treasurer of the United States in the city of New York, after giving the bank owning said stock thirty days' notice in writing of the time of such sale, and, after providing for the redemption and cancellation of said circulating notes and the necessary expenses of the sale, shall pay over any balance remaining to such banks

Sec 2 That for the purpose of the redemption of the interest bearing public debt and the retirement and redemption of the circulating notes of the national bank associations outstanding at the date of the passage of this act, the secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized and required, immediately upon the passage of this act, to cause to be prepared and issued United States legal tender notes in amount equal to 90 per centum of the paid-up capital stock of all the national banks at that time organized in denominations corresponding to the denominations of such outstanding national bank notes, and the said United States legal-tender notes, shall be in the same form and words and under the protection of and subject to all the laws touching the present United States notes known as greenbacks or legal-tender notes, and as fast as said national banks notes shall be received at the treasury of the United States, or any assistant treasury, or any designated depository of the United States, they shall be retired and canceled, and the legal-tender notes issued under the provisions of this act shall be applied to and used in the redemption and payment of interest bearing public debt of the United States, under the same rules and regulations as are now provided by law.

"The chief point of the proposed measure is to authorize the secretary of the treasury to issue legal-tender treasury notes for the purpose of purchasing outstanding bonds on the same terms that bonds are now purchased by applying the surplus in the treasury. This would change an interest bearing obligation into a non-interest bearing promise to pay which would circulate as money, and it would make a substantial addition to the currency in circulation without increasing in any sensible degree the public debt as the additional treasury notes issued to pay the premium upon the bonds would be represented by the interest saved. Since the final conclusion reached by the supreme court in regard to the power of congress to declare such treasury notes 'lawful money and a legal tender' is not likely to be disturbed, however erroneous that conclusion may be on principle, all strong objection to such issue has been removed and the adoption of this plan would give immediate relief to the country and is far better than the purchase of silver bullion or the purchase of any other commodity as a means of increasing the circulation. It is better for the government to buy its own bonds if it paid both principal and interest to maturity than to buy silver bullion that is constantly fluctuating and is always highest when the government is in the market."

"What is likely to be the outcome of the attempt to pass the election force bill?"

"I think if the republican senators were thoroughly united and determined to pass it, that it would pass the Senate inside of the next two weeks without a change of rules, but with the exception of Senators Hoar and Spooner, and a few others, there is no real desire on the republican side of the chamber that it should pass. There are more than Senator Stewart who believes it would not accomplish the purpose claimed for it by its designers, and that it would result in unmixed evil to both races in the south, and there are others like Senator Cullom who give it a lukewarm support, and would only vote for it under the force of party pressure, so that taking in the whole field I do not believe it will pass In truth, the more sagacious and less fanatical part of the republican leaders much prefer that it should not pass They prefer the political capital they can make out of the sectional issues to any supposed strength they might derive from the doubtful operations of such a law. They care little for a solid south so long as they can wield practically a solid north against it. They prefer to hold Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin rather than to take the chances of gaining congressional representation in the southern states in which there is a majority of negro voters, and they well know that the settlement of the race question in the south, if it were possible for this bill to effect that object, would take from them much of the political capital which they heretofore used in controlling the states named. The virus engendered by the war lingers longer in the rural districts than in any other part of the country, and has enabled the republican party to maintain its power in these great agricultural states notwithstanding the policy of that party has been detrimental to their best interests, and anything that enables the leaders of the party to appeal to the sectional passions and prejudices stirs anew the old war feeling. This the republican leaders well know, and therefore, the politicians of that party do not want to do any act that will impair that power. No, the bloody shirt has been too useful to the republican party for its leaders to gently fold it up and lay it away."

A Correction.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26, 1890.

EDITOR COURIER, Auburn, Ind.

MY DEAR SIR:—My attention has been called to an article in your paper in regard to something alleged to have been said by me, concerning Thanksgiving The fact is, I said nothing of the kind.

The article was first published in "Kate Field's Washington," and was printed as though it had been signed by myself. This was an error, and Miss Field has publicly admitted that I wrote no such article. The fact is, that Miss Field had a conversation with me, and then published an article as though I had written it—the article being really what she remembered of the conversation, or interview. What I said was substantially as follows:

"That a diversity of industries increases the intelligence of a nation; that if we all followed one trade, or one profession, we would become stupid—but by following many industries, we become intelligent. I did not say, "Stop at the farmer and you stop at stupidity." I said nothing of the kind. But I did say, "That if we were all farmers, and sold raw material, we would become ignorant and poor. So, I did say, that if we all followed any one trade, we would become narrow and ignorant."

No man in the world has more respect for farmers than I have, and no man has said more in their favor.

I hope that you will do me the kindness to publish this letter.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT G. INGERSOLL.

Married in December.

The following is a list of the marriage licenses issued during the month of December: Frank Mountz and Lydia Hathaway, Christian Sider and Anna M. Dick, Walter E. Freer and Minnie D. Wright, Augustus Benner and Hattie Hovey, Charles F. Kinsey and Dora E. Furguson, Perry O. DeLong and Ettie E. Mathews, Samuel G Haverstock and Maud M. Walter, Henry Keller and Sarah Parks, Elmer E. Miller and Melissa S. Apple, Marvin S. DeLong and Tillie E. Wittig, Abraham Mason and Sobina Elmina Mitchell, Samuel E. Krum and Della E. Shultz, William H. Grabe and Addie A. Sheets, William M. Ballentine and Elnora Smith, Josep W. Furguson and Cora Kosht, Clyde E Pattee and Lillie M. Christoffle, Mary E. Pence and Arpha Rogers, Isaac A. Steckly and Amanda E. Strouse, John M. Demott and Myrtle Garber, John C. Jennings and Mattie Brown, John J. Method and Ella V. Greenwood, Fred. A. Jones and Lucinda Lowe, Joseph N. Miller and Mary Greenwald, Wright Armstrong and Nellie Crew, James Harter and Hattie Engle, Sherman D. Keller and Ida E. Martin, Amos S. Osbun and Eliza Ann Marble, John F. Dougler and Elverta Rhodes, Edwin Cross and Susan Patee, William Lewis and Alta B. Kepler, John W. Morr and Amanda Koch, William Hollinger and Florence Eldora Fales.

To the Pacific Coast.

Go to California via the through lines of the Burlington Route, from Chicago or St. Louis to Denver, and thence over the new broad gauge, through car lines of the Denver and Rio Grande or Colorado Midland Railways, via Leadville, Glenwood Springs and Salt Lake through interesting cities and unsurpassed scenery. Dining cars all the way. 51-3

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Monday Dr. Yeagy went to Ft. Wayne on business.

Dr. Bevier is slowly improving, after his severe illness.

Monday Mrs. W. A. Fisher went Ft. Wayne to visit friends.

Frank Blair and family, of Laporte, were here over Sunday.

Tony Lehman has been home from Chicago for the holidays.

Miss Flora Speer will return to Otterbein University next Saturday.

Miss Daisy McBride, of Elkhart, is in Waterloo for a few days visiting friends.

David Shoemaker and old Mr. Ax are both lingering apparently near death's door.

Logenby Bros', of California, Mich., have opened an insurance office in Waterloo.

Mrs. Hattie Nolton, and her remaining child are here, with her father, S. J. Locke.

Sam Gfellers, of Uniontown, is rejoicing in a bran new pair of twin boys. Congratulations.

The Steuben Poultry Association's dates in Waterloo are Jan. farm 13th to 17th They will meet at the opera house.

Rev. Mygrant is holding a series of meetings at the Evangelical church on the corners of Maple and Center streets.

John Less and his son H. K. Less, were over at Auburn Tuesday, also R. G. Daniels. All had some business matters.

Mrs Birdie Brown, of Toledo, was in town over the holidays visiting her people, the families of J. M. Kimsey and Dr. Broughton.

J. F. Shuman, has returned from the Pacific coast, and is sick. We fear those big stories he wrote to the Press were too much for even a lawyer.

Miss Rose Blair was over at Newville Monday, visiting the family of her uncle, B. F. Blair. Her cousin, Belle Blair, came back with her for a visit here.

Mr. R W Hills, of Michigan, the father of Mrs Dr Carpenter was in Waterloo Monday, for a brief visit, on his way to Sheffield, Alabama, to spend the winter.

Messrs Locke, Fisher and Shuman have returned home from their Western trip, Judging from the two letters published last week in the Press, and written by John Shuman they have had a splendid time.

We learn that one of our saloonkeepers is likely to face a damage suit in court for several thousand dollars for selling liquors to minors. With five saloons in town they must all have business if they do have to sell to minors and habitual drunkards to do it.

Most of those persons who went away to spend the holidays have returned to Waterloo. Of those who attend school Master Alpha Carpenter returned Saturday after a fine visit in Michigan. Miss Ollie Lehman returned from Ft. Wayne the same day, after having been absent ten or twelve days.

The seceders commenced an injunction suit against the trustees of the U. B. church in this place on last Saturday, to try to obtain possession of that church. There are three suits now entered in the circuit court at Auburn to determine the title of U. B church property, the first to be tried January 26.

The agricultural society directors met here Saturday to choose an executive committee. They selected three at the first ballot, but it took eleven more ballots to get the fourth man. The new directors are J. C. Boyer, H. D. Boozer, Henry Hood and W. H. Less—a good committe.

Two questions. Every one admits the times are hard. 1. How is it that some persons are industrious, attend closely to their business, work all the time, and have more to do, than they have time for, while others find little or nothing to do? 2. How is it that many persons who are busy at work all the time, aside from their sleeping hours, yet see the necessity of curtailing expenses in order to make both ends meet, or to keep ahead, while others, having no ostensible means, do nothing or but little, yet live, have fires, food and clothing?

SUMMIT.

Donny Shiffly visited his sister in Garrett.

Jacob Mortorff is still under the doctor's care.

Bert Penick has been on the sick list the last few days.

Miss Lily Green, of Butler, was in our town last Saturday.

H. C. Smith, of Hudson, was on our streets last Saturday.

Albert Shaffstall, of Hudson, was in town Friday on business.

Miss Theresa Shipply visited her sister Mrs. Henry Dapp over Sunday.

Rev. Clayton and wife, of Hudson, was in our town last Wednesday.

Miss Arie Bish, of Hudson, visited friends in this place last Saturday.

Levi Shaffer, from west of Hudson, was in our town on business last Wednesday.

Horace Mader and Ida Coyl, of Auburn, visited Edward Huffman and wife a few days last week.

Miss Margaret Mortorff and Mrs. Emaline Smith went to Lagrange last Thursday to visit friends.

Wes. McDougle and wife, of Pleasant Lake, took dinner with Henry Lawson and wife last Wednesday.

Mrs. Henry Forney's neice of Butler, who has been visiting her the past week returned home last Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Updegraph, of Mich., who has been visiting with her parents the past week started home last Saturday.

David S. Kelley came to town last Friday as happy as a lark, when asked what he got for a New Years present, he said, a boy.

Mr. Joseph Penick, Mrs. Frick, of Waterloo, and Mrs. John Penick were the guests of Joseph Penick and family last Monday.

Warren Boyer and wife, Rev. Rhetts, of Waterloo, and Rev. Spitts, of Orland, took dinner with Henry Snowberger and wife New Years day.

CONCORD.

Della Baker is reported better.

Eva May came home from Auburn last Saturday.

Sherm Keller and wife are visiting under the parental roof,

Will Sheldon and wife have finished visiting relative and have returned to their home in Garrett.

John Morr, of Jackson township, and Amanda Koch, of Fairview, were married New Years day. If the old adage should prove true, the wedding day rules the bride's life, she will have a sorrowful time. But we sincerely hope to the contrary, as both are quite young. We send congratulations.

The Sabbath school made a flourishing appearance last Sabbath under the management of the new officers. They are: F. Buchanan; superintendent; J. B. Draggoo, assistant; Ollie Morr, secretary; Alice Draggoo, treasurer; Mattie Buchanan, organist; Mrs. F. Buchanan, chorister; Hattie Draggoo, Librarian. The corps of teachers are: F. Buchanan, G. M. Morr, H. Milton, J. B. Draggoo, Mollie Buchanan, Lavina Johnson and Alice Draggoo.

A sensational occurrence happened at the home of Tell Elson a few days ago, about killing a beef. It appears she was of a vicious nature and Elson, Baker and Johnson tied the bay rope around her horns and led her out of the stable and tied her to an apple tree in the yard. In rearing and plunging to extricate herself, she dehorned her head making her escape to the railroad, going up the track about three quarters of a mile, then going back they succeeded in shooting her.

BUTLER.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell is visiting her friends about Angola.

Ben Steifel has returned from Philadelphia with his family.

Jacob Helwig and Boon Madden failed to make their trip to eastern Ohio.

John Smith is erecting a new barn on the Smith property on West North St.

Mrs Ann Helwig has just returned from a visit to her daughter at Detroit.

The Wabash is doing an immense business this winter, and their employes are making big pay.

Our P. I. store has settled down to quiet business considering the heavy competition it has to meet.

Lewis Imhoff has returned from a trip to Nebraska, where he went to look after some land that he recently bought.

The rain and snow of the past week was a much needed blessing Wells and cisterns were becoming exhausted and the want would soon have been felt.

Jay Norford's youngest child has been seriously ill with something akin to diphtheria. Fears are felt for its recovery.

Our school opened last Monday after a vacation of two weeks Every teacher seems to be making a successful record

Miss Mary Mountz spent her vacation at her home in Salem. She has returned to take up her duties in our school.

Uncle Peter Helwig is again grandfather. This time it is Theodosia, one of his daughters, that has added one to the number, total number now being five.

Our M. E. friends under the leadership of Rev. Stone have commenced a revival effort that if measured by last winter's effort, will be a decided success.

We have often wondered if the dozens of boys and men that are found nightly lounging about our stores, sitting on counters, filling the air with fumes of foul tobacco, and idle talk, ever thought there was a better place for them than in this school of idleness, profanity and obscenity.

(From Another Correspondent.)

The grippe prevails to some extent in town.

Lots of vacant houses in town, what is the matter with Butler.

Wm. Moody, of Kendallville, visited his brother last Friday.

Mrs. Andy Plum has returned from her visit with relatives in Illinois.

Mike Long is fast laying by his supply of ice when the weather permits.

John Barnhart and wife, of Fremont, spent New Years with Mrs. B's. brother. Curt Davis.

Several of the churches have commenced protracted meetings, we wish them success.

We are happy to greet the many readers of the COURIER the beginning of the new year and wish them one and all joy, and prosperity.

George Chilcoate, of Edgerton, has rented the Knisely & Boots building and is fitting it up for a drugstore. We wish him prosperity.

Butler is booming with P of I's They have a fine store here, and the merchants are selling goods low, and Butler is the place to get good bargains.

The new billiard hall is in full blast and will no doubt get into trouble, as a good many boys are in there playing that are minors. So Butler has another pit of iniquity for the good people to fight.

The last state case was tried last week before 'Squire McNabb, with Pinchin as prosecutor and lawyer Quince Fusselman for defendent; lawyer Quince conducted the case with great skill and cunningness and came out victorious and left Pinchin without even a sack of flour.

Talleyrand's Memoirs in the Century Magazine.

[Talleyrand tells very briefly his expulsion from England, and at the moment of setting out for America gives a pitiful glimpse of a certain well known American.]

Fortunately the danger we were running was noticed on the shore, and induced some Falmouth lightermen to brave the fury of the sea and come to our assistance. With their help, we managed to reach the harbor. Whilst our ship—all the rigging of which was much deranged—was being repaired, a rather striking incident added an impression of a special kind to the many I was to experience in the course of this voyage. The innkeeper at whose place I had my meals, informed me that one of his lodgers was an American general. Thereupon I expressed the desire of seeing that gentlemen, and, shortly after, I was introduced. After the mutual exchange of greetings, I put to him several questions concerning the country, but from the first, it seemed to me that my questions annoyed him. Having several times vainly endeavored to renew the conversation which he always allowed to drop, I ventured to request from him some letters of introduction to his friends in America. "No," he replied, and, after a few moments of silence, noticing my surprise, he added, "I am perhaps the only American who cannot give you letters for his own country—all the relations I had there are now broken—I must never return to the States." He dared not tell me his name. It was General Arnold! I must confess that he excited my pity, for which political puritans will perhaps blame me; but I do not reproach myself, for I was a witness of his agony.

SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

SYMPTOMS OF LIVER DISEASE: Loss of appetite; bad breath; bad taste in the mouth; tongue coated; pain under the shoulder-blade; in the back or side—often mistaken for rheumatism; sour stomach with flatulency and water-brash; indigestion; bowels lax and costive by turns; headache, with dull, heavy sensation; restlessness, with sensation of having left something undone which ought to have been done; fullness after eating; bad temper; blues; tired feeling; yellow appearance of skin and eyes; dizziness, etc. Not all, but always some of these indicate want of action of the Liver. For

A Safe, Reliable Remedy that can do no harm and has never been known to fail to do good

Take Simmons Liver Regulator

—AN EFFECTUAL SPECIFIC FOR—

Malaria, Bowel Complaints, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Kidney Affections, Jaundice, Mental Depression, Colic.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectually move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."
L. M. HINTON, M.D., Washington, Ark.

ONLY GENUINE

Has our Z Stamp in red on front of wrapper.

J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Railroad News.

Will there be two lines built on one right of way? That may well be asked in view of the many rumors as to the Canada Southern and the Wabash.

The Toledo Commercial of the 22d of December says: "The Lake Shore company is making arrangements to construct its proposed line between Fayette and Goshen, Ind., during the coming summer. The Lake Shore people see the possibility of some other company building an independent line between Toledo and Chicago in the near future and with this extension constructed, the chances of building a new line are not as great. The efforts of the Toledo & Western company last year caused the Lake Shore people considerable annoyance and in order to guard against a repetition of such a movement in the future it is more than probable that the Lake Shore company will construct the proposed extension. The new branch would be a dividend earner from the first day it is put in operation."

And about the same time, the Montpelier, O., Enterprise says: "Mr. Ellis, civil engineer of the Wabash, was in town last week looking up matters appertaining to the extension. Just as soon as the bonds can be floated the work of grading will begin."

As both claim to run on the same line, it begins to look as if "between two stools, both will fall to the ground." And Lagrange is also certain the expected road from Fayette through that town is sure to be constructed this next year.

Kendallville News: The Napanee News has this to say about the much talked of Wabash extension, and the probability that they will find an entry into Chicago, without going to the expense of building it, for some time to come: "The proposed Wabash extension that is thought will run via Wakarusa may be built next summer, but the indications are that it will not. The News just now believes that the Wabash extension, so called will remain on paper for some indefinite time. And it wouldn't surprise the natives over this way to see the Wabash people get into Chicago over the B. & O. again, like they did several years ago, and that as soon as the B. & O. doubletracks. From the present outlook of increase in traffic over the latter's road, together with their natural advantages from east to west, there is every indication that they have their weather eye on a project that will make things rustle. Why not possible that they accommodate the Wabash again? Stick a pin there until the Wabash extension is built.

Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for election of Directors, and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 5th day of February, 1891, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, at Jackson, Michigan. The Transfer Books will close on January 17, and remain closed until Feb. 5.
R. G. ROLSTON, Sec'y.

NOTICE! NOTICE! NOTICE!

All people indebted to us by Book account or Note, we kindly request to call and settle within 30 days from Jan. 1st, 1891, or else will find their accounts or notes turned over to the JUSTICE of PEACE for collection. Please pay attention to this notice, as it means business.

Yours truly,
J. LOEWENSTEIN & CO.,
Waterloo, Ind.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

J. A. CAMPBELL.
BUTLER, IND.,
INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Harper's Bazar.
ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home, Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891, Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR:

HARPER'S BAZAR	4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE	4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY	$4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE	2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding will be sent by mail, post-paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume,) for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS,
NEW YORK.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

CURES ALL DISEASES AND IRREGULARITIES PECULIAR TO WOMAN.

PAID 31 DOLLARS DOCTORS' BILL.

paid 31 dollars doctor's bill for my wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine she had taken before.
JAMES T. GOTT, Carmi, Ill.

Have suffered periodically for years—been treated by the best physicians without relief—Bradfield's Female Regulator did me more good than all the other remedies.
Mrs. ELIZA DAVIS, Charlotte, N. C.

Have used Bradfield's Female Regulator and can recommend it to all my friends.
Miss C. S. WIEMEYER, Denver, Col.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.
Sold by all Druggists. Price, $1.00 per bottle.
F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

Harper's Young People.
AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Monroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophia Swett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Nelsetter Brynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel, adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms; Postage Prepaid. $2.00.

Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Single Numbers, Five cents Each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS.
NEW YORK.

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y

PATENTS.

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.
Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.
44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

LOW PRICES!

FOR THE

NEXT 30 DAYS

ON ALL KINDS OF

WINTER GOODS!

As our large Stock must be reduced before taking our annual inventory. YOU WILL SAVE MONEY by Trading with

HARTER,

EAST OF COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

LOCAL NEWS.

A stitch in time. Take Simmons Liver Regulator and prevent sickness.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

If you want to enjoy your meals strengthen your digestion with Simmons Liver Regulator.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

POULTRY WANTED: The highest market price paid for all kinds of poultry. Call at J. A. Clifton's meat market, Auburn, Ind.

Young people remember the Reading Room. Daily, weekly and monthly papers, of the best. And a good lunch room besides.

The American Eagle must be a gay old bird—he is bald. If you don't want to be bald, use Hall's Hair Renewer, and you won't be. Try it

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

The Press says that tin will be cheaper, because as soon as the Welsh tin miners heard of the McKinley bill, they put down prices at once. That may do to tell ignorant people, but fortunately the folks in DeKalb county know better. We have been waiting to see if the Press would tell the farmers that the tariff made their land cheaper. But it don't seem to have thought of that.

We call the attention of our readers to the strong indorsements presented by Dr. Man-O-Tee in another column of this paper. These patients were cured after trying repeatedly in other directions. The facts here given clearly, prove the Doctor's claims; That nature has provided remedies for all diseases, and if those remedies are properly given that hundreds of sick people can be made well.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator. One dose is worth 100 dollars.

A. E. Foltz and L. J. Gengler of Garrett, were here on business Monday.

MARRIED: At the residence of and by Rev. W. H. Keyes, December 31, 1890, Mr. William Lewis, of Hamilton, and Alta B. Kepler, of Franklin township.

Whooping cough, croup, sore throat, sudden colds, and the lung troubles peculiar administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy is safe to take, certain in its action, and adapted to all constitutions.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protrupiles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Maple sugar makers should be on the lookout for that two-cent bounty. Every man who produces 500 pounds or over, gets 2 cents a pound from the government. And of course all their neighbors help to pay it.

All who have business with D. Z. Hoffman, and all who have real estate to sell, or parties wanting abstracts, deeds or mortgages made, call at my office over Farmers Bank, first door at the right, on the second floor. D. Z. Hoffman.

Chas. E. Reesch a former Auburn boy was home for the holidays. He is now in charge of Mr. Nickey's farm at Hoover Station near Logansport. Like most of the DeKalb boys he takes the COURIER so as to get the home news.

When the blood is impure, thick, and sluggish, or thin and impoverished, there can be no health. With these conditions all the functions of the body are impaired, and the result is a variety of dangerous complications. The best remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

Mrs Wm Casey and little son, of Butler, were in town Monday, the guest of L. J. Miller and family and Frank Borst. She is a daughter of our friend Daniel McNabb of that place. They expect to move to Huntington soon, where her husband has a position on the railroad.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E Davenport's.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Miss Metta Heist visited friends near Hicksville, last week.

For horse-colic Simmons Liver Regulator is known to be the best remedy.

George Shaffer east of the creek is able to be out once more after a long sickness.

Among those who spent New Years here, was Rev F. N. Hart, of Huntington, Ind.

Kidney affections of years standing cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.—J. W. Poynts.

A brother of George Shaffer, has been here visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. for a few days. His home is at Wolcottville.

The big flouring mill at Rochester, near Ligonier burned down the night before New Years. Believed to have been set on fire.

Sol. Barney, of St. Joe, was in town Tuesday, attending to some business matters. He is as lively as ever and is always welcome in Auburn.

The ladies' nickel social of the Presbyterian church will be held at the home of Mrs. Dr. Johnston, Friday afternoon from 2 to 5. All are invited.

Thomas Hallam has had a brother and his wife visiting him. They reside in Pennsylvania, and have been on a visit through Michigan and Illinois.

Our readers will note with interest that we are giving them an unusual amount of reading matter just now. The COURIER aims to give the most and the best.

Joseph Ashley was in town this week, to meet the new year at his old home He still resides at Avilla, though he is not keeping house, his family being so much scattered.

We have made a number of changes in our subscription list and if any errors have been made, we hope our subscribers will notify us prompty so we can make corrections.

The last man to come in and settle up preparatory to the close of the year, was Mr. Rice, the photographer, and the first in the New Year, to enter his name on our books was A. M. Richards.

One of our new year subscribers is R. H. Van Wagoner, a new resident of this county, he having moved in from Fremont, Steuben county, last spring. Industrious citizens are always welcome.

The barn of Simon P. Kuhns, of Green township, in Noble county, was burned recently. It is thought some enemy of the son of Mr. K. the notorious Marvin, set fire to it in revenge for some wrong.

Mrs. James Campbell was called to Walkerton Saturday, by a telegram announcing the dangerous condition of a nephew who has been sick for some time. She started for that place the same evening over the B & O.

J. D. McAnally, of Waterloo, was in town last week, and paid his regards to the editor. Mr. M. is one of the original greenbackers and a staunch democrat. He has no patience with the long continued financial blundering of the republican party.

Hon. Freeman Kelley went through here on the south bound train Saturday afternoon going to Indianapolis to be ready for work when the session opens Thursday. He gets no pay till Thursday and pays his expenses besides. We call attention to this good example.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Miss Ober. Program, Outline History of England, Mrs. Moody; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs. Dills; The English Constitution, Mrs. Caruth; What shall we do with our children, Mrs. Gibson; Select Reading, Miss Ober.

The people of this county have been told that Judge McBride was sworn in quietly here in Auburn. This is probably a mistake, as the Indianapolis Sun says he was sworn in "Saturday, Dec 27, by a lady notary, Miss Daisy McBride, of Elkhart." This would mean the Judge's daughter.

W. S. Purdy had a bad fall about three weeks since. He fell from a load of straw striking his shoulder on the rough frozen ground injuring the shoulder and the adjacent parts severely. The bone of the arm was also cracked, above the elbow. He is about the strets, but still not able to work.

NEW MUSIC.—It pleases us to call the attention of our musical friends to a reverie for piano entitled "Lost in Sorrow," by Ecker, and assert that it compares with the very best of the better class of music published of recent date. Price only 40c. in postage stamps. Ign. Fischer, Publisher, Toledo, Ohio.

Rev. J. W. Stringfellow, pastor of the Church of God here, is putting forth efforts toward the erection of a church edifice of that denomination at Garrett. The ground has been secured, and it is expected that work will soon begin on it, as the Church of God people there are greatly in need of a church building.

The Waterloo Press is once more trying to explain how a tariff tax makes things cheaper. In other words he says that a quantity of tin that used to cost $25 will cost less than $25 if we put a tax of $2.50 on it. Yet we know a dealer who had to pay the above named sums right after the McKinley bill went into effect, and it took 27.50 to foot the bill.

Our old soldier friends should not overlook the article we publish to-day from the pen of our old typographical tourist and veteran-soldier friend, John Gantt. He has been taking the grand rounds of the homes for veterans as well as visiting the newspaper offices. Though verging on three-score and ten, he can't remain idle or stay long in one place. The old roving spirit keeps him moving on.

S. J. Brandon narrowly escaped a serious accident last week. He wanted to get across the railway track at the Wabash station, but a freight train was in the way. He climbed up between the cars and then jumped from the bumpers to the ground beyond. But in doing this he did not alight as he expected, and the result was a severe sprain, which will make him walk lame for some time. But it might have been worse.

M. W. Johnston returned Monday to Indianapolis where he will again resume his studies in the Indiana College of Dentistry He is taking a very thorough course, and when he finishes, which will be in about two months, he will be one of the best equipped dentists in the country. The course there is very full and thorough, including every sort of knowledge useful in the business. It may surprise many to learn that the students must go through so large a part of the same work that must be done by those who are to become physicians. But the facts are they are compelled to do a large amount of dissecting and not only on the parts belonging to their profession but on the entire body. When Mr. Johnston returns in the spring, he will become a full partner with his father, Dr. S. B. Johnston, whose able and careful assistant he has been so long. We believe he will prove a thorough success.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

G. H. Yesbera was in Waterloo Tuesday.

J. A. Potter has returned from his visit to Ohio

Mrs. Emerick, of Kendallville, was here Tuesday.

Obe. Cool made a business trip to Waterloo Tuesday.

Mrs. Borst who has been very sick, is now improving.

Dr. Adams has a daughter-in-law from Illinois, visiting them.

Graham Earle and his company are playing in the neighboring towns.

DeKalb shows up 25,281 under the new census. We had 20,225 in 1880.

Mrs. Ernest Sheets had a sister and cousin to spend New Years with her.

We are under obligations to J. D. Myers of this place for substantial favors.

A brother of Kuhns is now in Albion jail on charge of burning his father's barn.

Miss Minnie Finch, of Corunna, is in town stopping with the family of Frank Borst.

W. H. Dills went up to Saginaw, Mich. yesterday on some legal business, to be gone a few days.

Si Plunkard is being played at Indianapolis this week, by the same company that presented it here.

The nickel social of the M. E church will meet with Frank Zimmerman's Friday afternoon. All are invited

Mrs. Bell, of Detroit, who was called here to see her daughter, Mrs G. H. Yesbera, who was ill, is herself suffering from a severe attack of neuralgia.

W. H Leas, of Waterloo, was put on the text book committee by the recent school trustee meeting at Indianapolis. The DeKalb boy is never overlooked.

David Houser an old respected citizen of Garrett, died at his home there Sunday afternoon at 4:30 after a long illness. A full obituary will appear next week.

J. C. Henry and wife are up at Hudson a great part of the time now helping to care for his mother, who is quite low and not expected to recover. She is about eighty.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

Charley Hoff kept his Christmas tree and used it for New Years. A few of the family friends gathered in that evening and had a pleasant time socially, including vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc.

Mrs. Sophie Beard climbed our long stairs Tuesday to pay her subscription up to '92. She was one of the first teachers we met on coming to this county, and we always take pleasure in talking over the old times.

Rev. Mr. Healy will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sunday, both morning and evening. The evening sermon will be especially for the young people. All are cordially invited to come and hear him.

"Mr. and Mrs. John Leasure, a boy," is the brief announcement of what is to them, a most important event. Date, Tuesday, Jan. 6, 1891. And there is rejoicing in that family and congratulations from all sides.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. M. B. Willis. At their meeting last Saturday new officers were elected. They are: Mrs Barns, president; Mrs. Husselman, vice president; Alza Ralston, secretary; Mrs. Houser, treasurer; Mrs. Lewis, critic.

W S. Sewell is agent for the People's Building & Loan Association, of Geneva, N. Y. and for the Michigan Medical Life Insurance Company. In fire companies, he has the American, the Queen of Liverpool and the Western of Toronto, all good companies.

John W. Pepple, of Taylor, Texas, surprised us by a visit Tuesday. He has been here two weeks, however, with his people, and they expect Sam home shortly. They are both experienced railroad engineers and doing well. They are always welcomed in the COURIER sanctum.

Among the multitude of marriages, births, etc, that have characterized this season, we utterly missed one of the most important, the birth of a boy to gladden the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Etna Kuhlman. This was over a week or so ago, but will still be gladly read by the COURIER's thousands of patrons.

MARRIED: at the residence of the officiating clergyman, W. L. Meese, in Auburn, Jan., 1, 1891, Mr. Wm. O. Stamets to Miss Laura A. Anderson. The groom is a son of Jacob Stamets of this city, and the bride a resident of Auburn Junction. The COURIER extends its best wishes for their future happiness.

Auditor Coffinberry and wife had a runaway here Tuesday. They were at the south Kiblinger factory talking with Coop Ralston and others, Mrs. C. being on the sidewalk and her husband in the buggy. Some one just then crossed on the overhead bridge, and the horse ran. As the bit happened to be out of its mouth, it could not be controlled, and got away. It was stopped just as it was trying to get into Jim. Potter's shoe store. No one was hurt.

Drop into the Reading Room and let us show you what we can do for your comfort and entertainment in our cosy, well-warmed, well-lighted, well-furnished little room. Speak a good word for us, if this pleases you, bring your friends in to see us, loan or donate us your spare books, buy a membership card for $1, or take one or more shares of stock. It is opening out with flattering prospects, but its measure of success will be according to the moral and financial support given by our people. We can ask no heartier support and encouragement than that so far given, continue the good work and we will strive to give you satisfaction and pleasure in the enterprise. All stockholders are entitled to membership tickets, those not having received them, please call on the secretary or at the Reading Room of librarian,

Robert McDougall, Secy.

Our readers will peruse with interest the communication from Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, which we publish to day. It will be seen that he alludes to the article in the COURIER of Dec 18, and which he now explains. We had thought at the time, that the expression attributed him, was a strange one, but finding it was credited by our republican exchanges we copied it. We have no desire to misquote Col. Ingersoll, or anyone else, and so we accept his explanation, though we cannot still agree with a part of his conclusions. It may be that if "we all followed one trade or profession we would become stupid," but the supposition is such an unlikely—in fact, an impossible, one—that its use by so eminent a man as Mr. Ingersoll is somewhat surprising. But it is no more far fetched and surprising than many other things used by protectionists to defend their indefensible doctrines.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Calling and Receiving.

The social features of New Years calling and receiving reminded the participants of Shakespeare's remarks about charity. "It is twice blessed. It blesseth him that gives, and him that receives." The enjoyment here was plainly mutual. Both callers and receivers seemed to enter into the spirit of the festivities, with a disposition to make them enjoyable and have them enjoyed. The day had been one of constant rain, and this delayed somewhat, the starting of the several groups of gentlemen who had "jined in" to make the rounds together. But once started, the bad weather and slushy roads, were utterly forgotten. They found the ladies who had arranged to receive, everywhere ready to welcome them graciously to the bright homes they had decorated, and in which the ladies themselves were the chief ornament and attraction. A lady might possibly, describe the tasty decorations of these homes, and the becoming attire of the ladies who welcomed them, but a gentleman could not do justice to either All were nice and in the best taste, for there were flowers and flowers, wreaths and festoons and draped smilax, and New Year bells, and mistletoe, till the mind wanders in a labyrinth of the beauties of nature's decoration. And in each home visited, lovely dames and bright eyed damsels gave the itinerant guests a right hearty welcome. A bewildering abundance of "table comforts" was found everywhere, tempting the thoughtless caller to indulge so freely that he would have "no room left" for the next and equally tempting display that was to be encountered a few minutes later. So the hours sped on till the allotted time had closed. A good word should be said for the gentlemen, for they were all that, and they took their best Sunday manners with them. The most of them left beautiful New Year cards, to the delight of their charming entertainers. A few added to the enjoyments of the occasion, by coming out in fanciful costumes, such as white hats, eyeglasses and linen dusters. They created a good deal of merriment, especially as all were good singers. The "gentlemen who called" will hold in pleasant memory the homes of Frank Zimmerman, Van B. Perrine, Dr. Nusbaum and S. D. Hanna, and the ladies who presided therein. These were, Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Zent, Miss Jessie Weaver, Miss Mabel Hartman, Miss Edna Davis, Miss Mamie Trentman, Mrs. Dr. Nusbaum, Miss Lettie Meese, Miss Lillian Nusbaum, Miss Ettie Heist, Miss Della Shugers, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, Mrs. George Weamer, Mrs. H. J. Shafer, Mrs. Dr. Buchtel, Mrs. H. Stevens, Miss Callie Altenberg, Mrs. Van B. Perrine, Mrs. Don Garwood, Mrs. Anice Leas, Mrs. Chas. Schaab and Miss Alza Ralston. As we said at first, it was an evening of mutual enjoyment and will be a pleasant memory for many a year to come.

Marvin Kuhns.

This much advertised desperado was in Auburn Tuesday. He was brought here by parties from Fostoria, Ohio, who had a requisition for him. They could not get this allowed at Ft. Wayne, so they said, because one Judge was absent, and the other sick. So he was sneaked out, and in charge of officers was brought across the country, arriving here about 3 p. m. It looks like a hard trip for a man with five bullets in him. His lawyers came up on the evening train, and he was brought before Judge Powers about seven o'clock. Both sides argued for some time. His attorneys wanted to keep him in this state, as only horse stealing was charged against him, while the Fostoria case is murder. Fostoria won, and he was taken to Ohio. Sheriff Plum is glad to get rid of such a guest Card of Thanks.

We wish to express in this way, to those who assembled at our residence, Dec. 30, 1890, our sincere and heartfelt thanks for the beautiful and useful rocker, presented to us with the compliments of the company. May your lives be happy and prosperous while here on earth, and should we never be permitted to meet again in this manner, may we all be prepared to meet in that place that Christ has prepared for all—heaven.

MR. and MRS. D. D. METCALF.

Dressmaking.

I desire to announce to the public that I am depending entirely upon my own resources and have thrown my home into a dressmaking establishment. I earnestly solicit a share of the patronage from the Auburn ladies, and will spare no pains to try to give satisfaction. Please give me an early call.

Most cordially,
MRS. CHARLEY JONES.
Opposite the Kiblinger Carriage Works.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, Ind., for the week ending Jan. 6, 1891. Mrs. Margaret Baughman, James George, Jake Knisely, Henry Lysher, Dan Lysher, Sam Lysher, Wm. Mitchell, James Ryan, David W. Smith.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

Poultry.

10,000 pounds of poultry wanted at once at the Palace meat market. I am now prepared to buy all kinds of poultry for which I will pay the highest market price during the season.

B O. ZEIGLER,
Auburn, Ind. 40tf

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.
Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.
Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

PLENTY OF GOODS

AT THE

Usual Low Prices

AT

F. J. YESBERA'S

Jewelry Store.

QUICK SALES

SMALL PROFITS,

OUR MOTTO.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. J. YESBERA, The Jeweler,

AUBUR , IND.

CLOSING OUT!

Our entire Stock of Clothing must be sold out at once for less than manufacturers' prices.
Come early and avoid the rush.
Overcoats are sold for almost less than one-half their value and everything else in proportion. Don't wait too long, for the Best Bargains will soon be sold.

CLOSING OUT!

O. J. SCHWARZ.

Notice.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

There will be elected, at the next quarterly conference of the church of the United Brethren in Christ, of Newville Circuit of the North Ohio Conference to be held in Milford township, Defiance county, Ohio, Jan. 17 and 18; one board of trustees for the parsonage property of said church, located at Newville, in Newville township, DeKalb county, Indiana; also one board of trustees for church property, located at same place. One board of trustees for the church property, located about 4 miles east of Auburn, on the State road, and known as Union Chapel, in Union township; also one board of trustees for the church property, at Mooresville, in Wilmington township. All of said property being situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

J. W. STOY, Pastor in charge of said circuit.

AGENTS WANTED [illegible]

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair will be held in Ensley's hall in Auburn, on Thursday, January 15th, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m. officers will be elected for the ensuing year, as follows, viz.,

One President.
One Vice-President.
One Secretary.
One Treasurer.

Twenty Directors and an Executive Committee composed of five persons. A full attendance is desired, as business of vital importance will be brought before the meeting. By order of the President.

CAL HUSSELMAN, Secretary
JNO. L. DAVIS President.

Horses for Sale.

Eight good horses for sale at the Lockwood stables east of the public square. Call on Joe Pfefferl at the stables for information, terms, etc. tf

THE FUTURE OF REFORM

VIEWS OF CONGRESSMAN WM. M. SPRINGER.

The Democrats Will Keep Tariff Reform to the Front—It Will Be the Winning Issue in '92—The Hopeless Situation of the Republicans—They Cannot Shift the Issue, and Can Neither Go Forward Nor Backward.

Congressman Wm. M. Springer will be a prominent figure in the new Democratic House. He is already a candidate for Speaker, with a show of being elected; but whether he is elected or not, his long and conspicuous service in the Democratic party lends great interest to his views of the outlook for tariff reform at this time. He talked recently to a member of the New York Reform Club as follows:

"The Republican politicians of Washington are now trying to divert public attention from the principal issue upon which they were repudiated at the November election. They seem to be of the opinion that there is but one way open through which success is possible in 1892. Upon the tariff question they have been thoroughly repudiated. They now hope by reviving sectional issues, through and by means of the force bill and appeals to sectional prejudice, to re-form political issues upon other lines than tariff and taxation. In this they will be as much disappointed as they were overwhelmed by the result of the recent election. The people of the country have pronounced against taxation of the many for the benefit of the few. They will not give up this issue until it has eventuated in practical legislation in accordance with their demands. If we were now living under the form of government which prevails in monarchial England, the new Congress would at once be convened, and the McKinley bill would be immediately repudiated; but under our more conservative methods we must abide the constitutional forms required for securing results.

"On the tariff question the Republicans can neither go forward nor backward with any prospect of bettering their condition. To stand still is conceded defeat; to move in the other direction offers scarcely less advantage. If they go forward they must rely upon the fulfillment of pledges made before the election, and pending the passage of the McKinley bill, to the effect that while prices of articles affected by the tariff might be temporarily advanced, yet, ultimately and in the near future, by means of competition, such prices could be greatly reduced and articles would be sold cheaper than before the passage of the bill—thus placing their reliance in the future for a reversal of the popular judgment in November upon a claim that competition is to come to their relief, and that by the time of the next Presidential election the people will be in the full enjoyment of cheap necessaries of life secured through competition. This hope is a flattering one; it can never be realized.

"Competition has already done its perfect work in this country in the matter of reducing prices. So perfectly has competition been carried on that combination for the purpose of arresting competition has been resorted to all along the line. There is scarcely a manufacturing industry in the United States that is not more or less controlled by some kind of combination for the purpose of limiting the output and regulating the prices. In some cases this combination has taken the form of trusts or organized monopolies. These trusts have secured the concentration of nearly all the capital engaged in a given industry, and by this combination a complete control of the output and prices has been secured. In other cases a more mild type of combination has been resorted to. In some cases the combination has been secured by means of correspondence between the various interests and tacit agreement reached as to output and prices, year after year. But, through one form or another, scarcely an industry can be mentioned in which further competition is not prevented or made impossible by the mutual concurrence of those engaged in the business.

"Those, therefore, who look to competition for a reduction of prices will be deceived. Prices of manufactured articles can only be reduced, while the McKinley bill is in force, by the reduction of wages or by the adoption of improved processes. The latter will come without the tariff; it is entirely independent of it. In most lines of industry it would seem that the processes of manufacture were almost perfect at this time; but still we may hope for continued improvement in this direction, although such improvement will scarcely be perceptible in the brief space of two years. Lower prices secured by reduction of wages would be attended with greater disaster than if present prices should be maintained and wages increased; so that, wherever cheapness is secured by reduction of wages, the remedy will be worse than the disease—speaking in a political sense, as it will affect the interests of the Republican party. Hence, it seems conclusive that the Republican party cannot improve its position on the tariff or on taxation by adhering to the McKinley bill.

"If, however, the leaders of the party should determine to reverse their position, overturn the leadership of Harrison, McKinley, and Reed, and put Mr. Blaine forward with the implied promise of the repeal of the McKinley bill, the enlargement of trade, through reciprocity and the bettering of their condition by repudiating all that the Republican party has done since it came into power, it will find this latter condition more hopeless than the former.

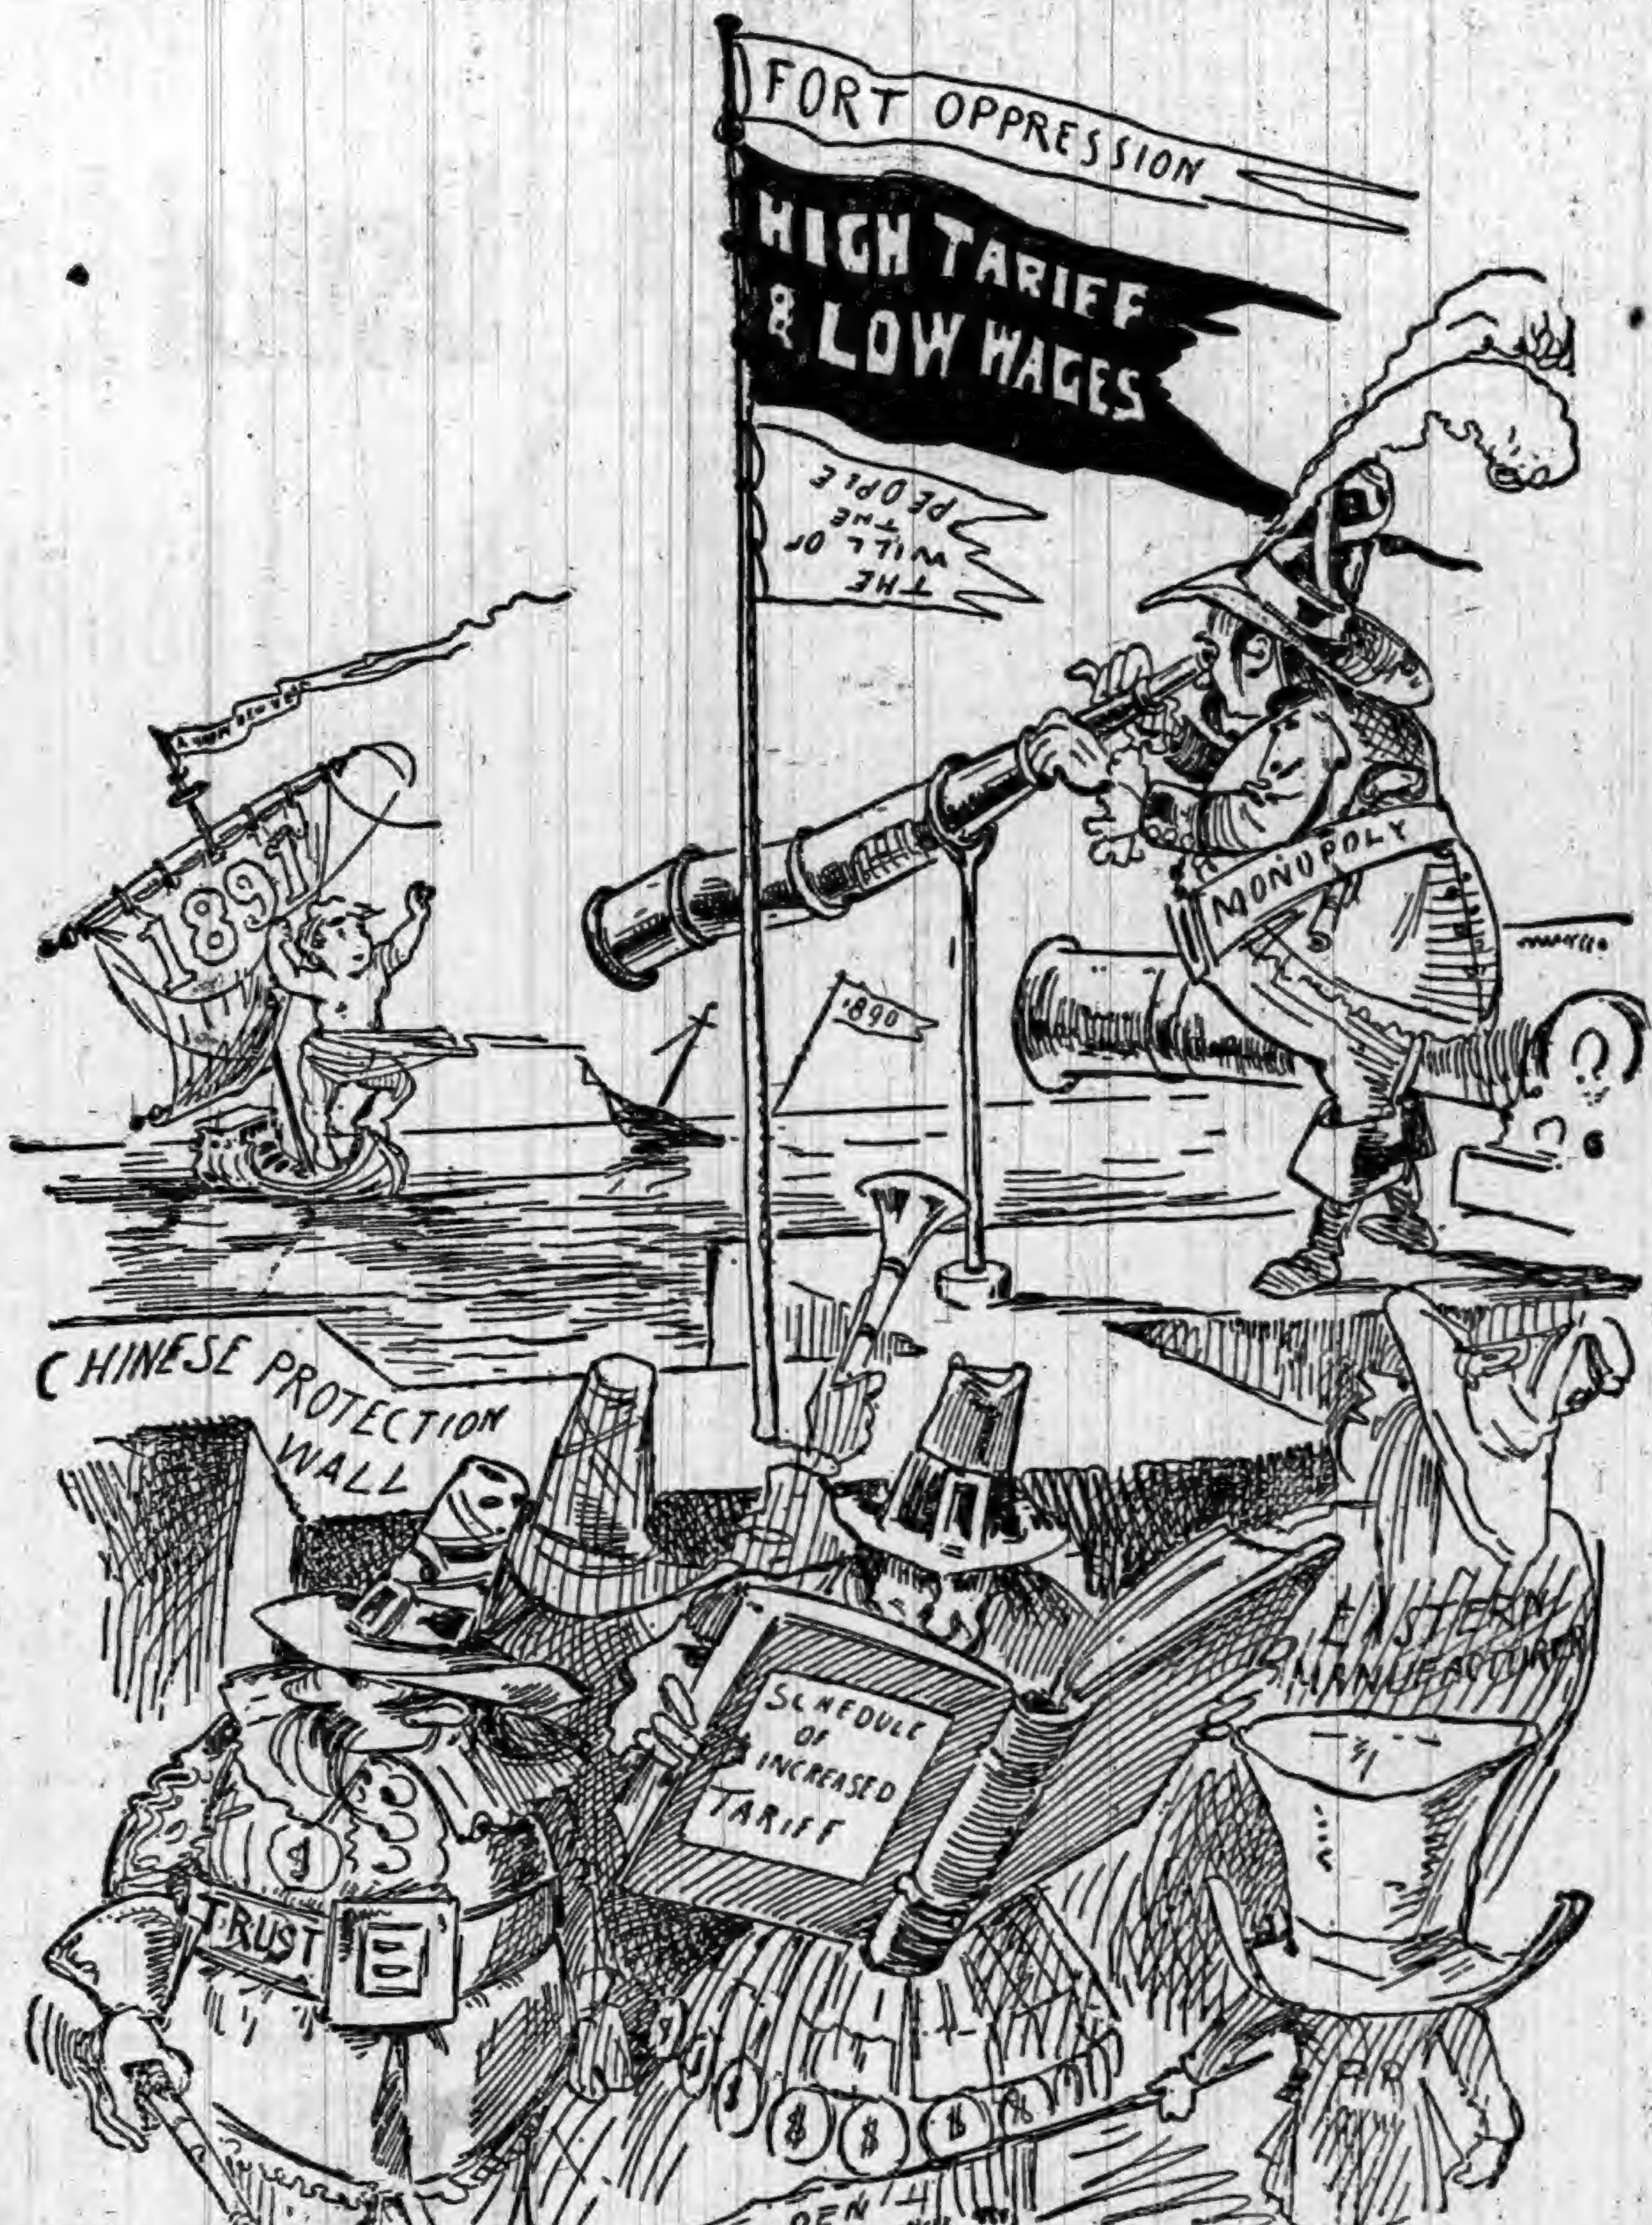
"President Harrison, in his message to Congress 'pointed with pride' to the fact that there had been, recently, an increase in the prices of agricultural products, such as corn, wheat, etc.; and he endeavored to convey the impression that such increased price of agricultural products was the result of the McKinley bill. Nothing could be further from the truth. If he had taken pains to examine the reports on the condition of crops, which issued from the Agricultural Department almost simultaneously with his message, he would have found that in Kansas the average yield of corn per acre was only eleven bushels, whereas it ought to have been thirty. The very fact that there is almost a total failure of the the corn crop in Kansas was one of the reasons which produced the political revolution in that State. The failure or shortness of the corn crop in the great corn belt of the country caused scarcity of this product, and scarcity resulted in higher prices for corn. But the trouble with the farmers was that they had little or no corn to sell, and many of them who had stock to feed became buyer at the higher rates which scarcity had produced. The prices of agricultural products are determined entirely by the extent of production, and this is governed by natural causes, not by legislation.

"A failure of crops in this country is regarded by the farmers as the greatest calamity that can befall them. But such failure inevitably results in higher prices of farm products, and therefore the President has cited as an evidence of prosperity that which the farmers themselves regard as a calamity, namely, higher prices resulting from crop failure. There can be no combination among farmers to reduce the output of agricultural products; such combinations are not even desirable. Farmers universally strive for bountiful harvests, the pious ones among them praying as well as laboring for them. They regard a bountiful harvest as essential to their prosperity, notwithstanding the fact that the greater the crop the less will be the price of the products. They are political economists who believe—who realize, in fact—that abundance is wealth, and that scarcity can never tend in that direction. If the next season should be favorable, and large crops of wheat, corn, oats and other products of the farm should be realized, there will be a corresponding depression of prices, and the larger the crop the lower the prices. If such should be the result a year from this time the President in his annual message would—following the lines of his late one—deplore the unfortunate condition of the country brought about by the low prices for farm products caused by abundant harvests.

"The Republican leaders cannot hope to divert the attention of the country from the tariff question whatever they may do, whether they go forward or go backward. The Democratic party has a plain, unmistakable duty to perform; that duty consists in moving steadily onward and pressing the advantage which it has already obtained. It will keep this question before the public until the fruits of victory have been realized, until the McKinley bill has been repealed, and until materials which make profitable manufacture impossible have been relieved from unnecessary burdens, and so cheapened as to not only aid manufacturing but increase profitable production. It will demand larger markets for American products; not only reciprocity with Cuba, South America, and Canada, but freer trade with all the world.

"The late election was only the expression of popular desire; that popular desire has not been accomplished. It may not be fully realized until after the next Presidential election, at which the final and complete victory will be achieved—namely, the election of a President and both branches of Congress, who will carry into effect the popular verdict of last November. During the Fifty-second Congress the large Democratic majority will keep this question continually in view. It will not be turned to the right nor to the left; it will not permit side issues of any kind to interfere with this all-absorbing and all-important question. With the advantages already obtained it would be little less than criminal to permit anything to occur which would make impossible ultimate and complete tariff reform."

A NEW VICTIM FOR THE HIGH TARIFF ROBBERS.



Chief Robber—Hey! you, recording secretary! here's a newcomer; it's a New Year. See if New Years are on the Free List. No? Well, tax him 149 per cent. ad valorem and let him remain for twelve months.—Chicago Herald.

Warm Clothing in Winter.

The comfort and health of the people in winter depend upon having sufficient warm woolen clothing. While it cannot justly be expected that the government should help the people to get such clothing, still it is clearly the duty of the government to enact no law which increases the price of clothing and thus makes it more difficult for the masses to get.

What the McKinley law has done in this line may be seen from the following table of prices for woolen underwear:

	Former price.	"McKinley price."
Undershirts, winter quality:
32 inches	$2.45	$3.00
34 "	2.55	3.15
36 "	2.65	3.30
40 "	2.85	3.65
50 "	3.75	4.75
Drawers, winter quality, A:
28 inches in waist	2.60	3.00
30 " "	2.65	3.15
32 " "	2.75	3.30
40 " "	3.20	4.10
50 " "	4.25	5.00

If McKinley's notion is true that "cheap and nasty go together," and that "where merchandise is cheapest men are poorest," then people ought to be thankful to him for these higher prices. But the large class who cannot afford to pay higher prices must console themselves with Jay Gould's remark that those who cannot afford two suits of clothes in a year will put up with only one.

Foreign-Born American Calves.

One of the amusing absurdities of the tariff has just been made public through a decision of Assistant Secretary Spaulding of the Treasury Department.

The Collector of Customs at Nogales, Ari., wrote to the department to say that it was his custom to allow American cattle, which had strayed across the Mexican border, to be brought back into Arizona free of duty. Being in doubt whether this was legal he asked the customs authorities at Washington for a decision on the question. The answer of the Assistant Secretary bears date of Nov. 14, but it has only recently been published. The decision is that the Collector is right in collecting no duty on cattle in cases where ownership is clearly proved; but if any of the returning cattle had so far forgotten their American citizenship as to bring forth their young on Mexican soil, such calves must pay the duty of $2 each. These calves, being produced on Mexican soil, must be treated as "pauper" calves with which we cannot compete. The ridiculous side of the matter is that this duty is a part of McKinley's "protection for farmers."

TARIFF LETTERS TO FARMER BROWN.

NO. 12.

Does a Tariff Restrict Foreign Trade?

DEAR FARMER BROWN: The question which I put at the head of this letter may seem to be an entirely needless one; since most intelligent men, whether protectionists or tariff reformers, are agreed that protection does restrict importation, and most of those accepting this conclusion agree also that the restriction of importation must necessarily, in the long run, restrict exportation. I say the question may seem a needless one, but when I take up the protectionist journals and see what they are trying to teach the people, and when I read the utterances of their leading men, I cannot regard the question propounded as being unworty of treatment in these letters.

Alas, what confusion there is in the camp of the protectionists! Some of their leaders blow hot while others blew cold, and still others blow both hot and cold at the same time. Protection raises prices and lowers prices; is given to the farmer under the pretense that it will enable him to sell his products more profitably, but when given to the manufacturer the farmer is told that protection lowers prices. Some tell us that imports are hindered and may be prevented; others tell us that protection does nothing of the kind.

Two such eminent protectionists as President Harrison and Maj. McKinley are not agreed as to the simple question whether a tariff diminishes imports. In his speech in the House of Representatives on the 7th of last May, McKinley combated the opinion of the Democratic minority of the Ways and Means Committee that the proposed tariff bill would not reduce the revenue, saying: "The very instant that you have increased the duties to a fair protective point, putting them above the highest revenue point, that very instant you diminish importations, and to that extent diminish the revenue." This is a very clear and true proposition. Upon it McKinley proceeded to reduce the revenue by increasing taxation, and thus in so far to prevent the people from buying the things which they want.

On the other hand, when President Harrison came to write his message to Congress he found that the imports at the port of New York for the first three weeks of November were actually greater than for the corresponding periods in 1889 and in 1888; and he called attention to this singular fact with evident satisfaction as showing that "the prohibitory effect upon importations imputed to the act is not justified." But the President was too hasty in his conclusion that the McKinley law is not reducing importation. Taking as an example the dry goods schedules, in which the increase of duty was relatively much greater than in other parts of the tariff, we find that for the two weeks ending December 24, the imports at New York were only $3,959,338 worth, against $5,376,641 for the corresponding two weeks in 1889, or a difference of $1,417,303. When the President wrote many manufactured goods were still coming in from orders sent off before the new tariff law went into operation, with the expectation that the goods would be landed before the expiration of the old law. The goods did not get in in time to avoid the extra McKinley tax, and there was thus no longer any motive to hurry them in.

If, however, it should turn out at the end of the fiscal year that our imports have gone on increasing, will this fact prove that the McKinley law has not restricted imports? Our population continued to grow during the four years of the war; can any sane man claim, therefore, that the war did not diminish the population? The thousands who fell on the battlefields were not so many as the children that were born at the same time. Yet we know that the war caused a loss of population, and this loss was revealed in the census of 1870 in the relatively lower rate of increase for the previous decade than in the earlier decades.

You are not a horse-racer, but you know what a handicap is. When one horse is lighter or swifter than its competitor it is sometimes agreed to handicap the former. A certain quantity of lead is fastened to the saddle in order to diminish the speed and give the other horse a chance to win. Now if the handicapped horse wins the race, notwitstanding that it is weighted with lead, who but a fool would claim that the handicap had not lessened its speed? Yet it is such a monstrous claim as this that the protectionist sets up who claims that the tariff does not diminish imports.

Such a claim was made in the latest number of the American Economist, the organ of the Protective Tariff League, in an article entitled, "Does Protective Tariff Curtail Foreign Trade?" Its answer to this question is, "Never was a greater fallacy promulgated." Yet in another column this organ of protectionist heresies prints as an article of its own an extract from a speech of Senator Jones, of Nevada, in the United States Senate on Sept. 10, in which that Senator attempts to show that foreign trade is in itself bad, and is, therefore, not to be desired.

"Foreign trade," he says, "spoils the equilibrium of a nation's industry; it leaves them one-sided and disjointed, and postpones indefinitely the period of their natural co-ordination." The Senator views with satisfaction "our geographical situation, separated as we are by the fiat of nature from the older forms, the stagnant conditions, and the imbruting civilizations of other continents." This was said in defense of a bill which had for its object the diminution of foreign trade, and the words of the Senator were consistent, at least, with that object. And yet what a piece of inconsistency is it for the Economist to print such sentiments as its own, and then attempt to show elsewhere that protection does not curtail foreign trade.

In disposing of the whole matter I need not trouble you with a long array of figures. I will only call your attention to the familiar fact, which you have often observed in your own buying, that as the price of goods rises the fewer will be the sales of them. When sugar, for example, is dearest our housekeepers are most economical in the use of it. Fewer pies, cakes, preserves, etc., are made by the great majority of poor and moderately well-to-do people; and when clothing is dear they wear their old coats longer to escape buying a new one.

Now, when these simple economies of poor people are added together they make a very large stream of loss to the trade of the country. What the people do not buy the retail merchant will not order, and what the retail merchants do not order the wholesale dealers, importers and agents of manufacturers will not supply. The rise of prices narrows the circle of buyers; and anything which adds to the cost of goods will raise the price to the consumers. A tariff duty on imported goods clearly raises the cost of them, and must therefore increase the price at the same time that it diminishes the buyers of them. The duty on imported goods is added to the price to the consumer—not only the whole duty, but an extra gain on the duty itself. As those buyers of imported goods are driven away by higher prices, the importation of such goods must necessarily decline. There can be no two opinions about this; it must be so with absolute certainty.

RICHARD KNOX.

SOME very aristocratic noses are trimmed with strawberry red.

THE NATIONAL SOLONS.

SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Our National Lawmakers and What They Are Doing for the Good of the Country—Various Measures Proposed, Discussed, and Acted Upon.

IN the Senate on the 30th the election bill was taken up, and Senator Wolcott, of Colorado (Rep.), made an animated speech against it, attracting the closest attention from its first sentence to its last. It was, he said, a source of great regret to him to be called upon to differ from any considerable number of his party, and to decline to take the path which the older leaders pointed out. It was proper that the reasons which impelled that difference be fairly stated. The present was not an opportune time for the bill. Nearly one-third of the session was through and daylight was not yet visible. There were before the Senate measures of vast importance that would fail, for another year at least, unless they were now acted upon. Among the measures awaiting action Mr. Wolcott mentioned the silver bill, the apportionment bill, the pure-food bill, the copyright bill, and the private land court bill. We stand, he said, in the shadow of a great financial disaster. The people turn to Congress for relief. They want the assurance either that there will be no legislation on the financial subject (so that they can set their houses in order) or that they will receive an adequate medium of circulation for the transaction of their business. But it was not only, he said, because those measures were clamoring for recognition that he felt compelled to oppose the passage of the election bill. If the session were to last indefinitely, and if none of these vital measures were pending, he would still vote against it. It was a travesty on duty that the Senate should sit, day after day, discussing changes in the election law that had stood without amendment for twenty years.

THE day after New Year's the Speaker laid before the House the resignation of H. H. Markham as a member of the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. On motion of Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, the House then adjourned until Monday, Jan. 5. Although it was understood when the Senate adjourned Dec. 31 that the session on Jan. 2d was to be merely formal there were forty Senators present when the journal was read, including Mr. Allison, who had been absent from the city for ten days past. The Senator-elect from Idaho, Mr. McConnell, who has not yet been sworn in, was also present and was introduced to a good many of the Senators, as was also Mr. Dubois, of Idaho, who has been elected for the term to begin March 4 next. No business whatever was transacted and the Senate, on motion of Mr. Spooner, adjourned till Jan. 5 at noon. Thus far five Republicans have agreed to vote against the election bill on a direct vote and there are two others who say they would vote for a motion to lay it aside and take up finance. This is not enough. A Republican Senator who is earnestly opposed to the election bill said to a reporter that in time it would pass the Senate, but it could by no possibility be passed by the House in its amended form. By the time it got to the House, he said, it would be too late for the attendance of a quorum to be secured in that body. The bill, he said, could never become a law.

THE ILLUSIONS OF GREAT MEN.

GOETHE states that he one day saw the exact counterpart of himself coming toward him.

POPE saw an arm apparently come through the wall, and made inquiries after its owner.

BYRON often received visits from a specter, but he knew it to be a creation of the imagination.

DR. JOHNSON heard his mother call his name in a clear voice, though she was at the time in another city.

BARON EMMANUEL SWEDENBORG believed that he had the privilege of interviewing persons in the spirit world.

DESCARTES was followed by an invisible person whose voice he heard urging him to continue his researches after truth.

LOYOLA, lying wounded during the siege of Pampeluna, saw the Virgin, who encouraged him to prosecute his mission.

SIR JOSHUA REYNOLDS, leaving his house, thought the lamps were trees, and the men and women bushes agitated by the breeze.

RAVAILLAC, while chanting the "Miserere" and "De Profundis," fondly believed that the sounds he emitted were of the nature and had the full effect of a trumpet.

OLIVER CROMWELL, lying sleepless on his couch, saw the curtains open and a gigantic woman appear, who told him that he would become the greatest man in England.

BEN JONSON spent the watches of the night an interested spectator of a crowd of Tartars, Turks, and Roman Catholics, who rose up and fought round his arm-chair till sunrise.

BOSTOK, the physiologist, saw figures and faces and there was one human face constantly before him for twenty-four hours, the features and headgear as distinct as those of a living person.

BENVENUTO CELLINI, imprisoned at Rome, resolved to free himself by self-destruction, but was deterred by the apparition of a young woman of wondrous beauty, whose reproaches turned him from his purpose.

NAPOLEON once called attention to a bright star he believed he saw shining in his room and said: "It has never deserted me. I see it on every great occurrence urging me onward; it is an unfailing omen of success."

ALL SORTS.

ONE-HALF the lead used in the United States is mined in Missouri.

THE penitentiaries of Texas have contributed $71,000 to the State treasury the past year.

A MISER at Lima, O., left no heirs to his fortune, which is estimated to be at least $50,000.

IN Jefferson county, Kansas, a brother and sister ran against each other for school commissioner.

THE falls of Niagara carry down 10,000,000 cubic feet of water per minute, equal to about three million horse-power.

THE population of Quebec is about 1,500,000, of whom 1,200,000 at least are French in blood, language, sentiment and instinct.

A CENSUS-TAKER recently stumbled over the name of a man living near New York which turned out to be Schmeckenheckerstein.

A FRENCH scientist has just discovered that a 20-pound cheese when 3 years old contains 1,574,856,231 living germs of adult microbes.

THE organs of smell in the turkey vulture and carrion crow are so delicate that they can scent their food for a distance of forty miles.

THE papers give a somewhat fishy story of a tree in Georgia to which its owner deeded the land on which it stood as well as itself, in order that it should not be cut down.

SEVERAL Japanese editors have been sentenced to four years' imprisonment with hard labor for speaking disrespectfully of the Emperor Jimmu, who, if he ever existed, lived about 600 years ago.

MANY natives in India still believe that the land is governed by one Jan Kumpani Bahadur, or "Big Chief Johnny Company," who is supposed to be the husband of her Majesty the Queen-Empress.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '89.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. B. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

OUR LITTLE ONES.

A COLUMN DEVOTED TO YOUNG FOLKS' READING.

Complete Instructions for Making the Dancing Marionettes—Some Funny Sayings from the Little Ones—Neat and Pretty Gifts that Children Can Make.

Home from School.

The western sun comes softly in
Through hall door open wide;
Young Rover lies with low-stretched chin
Upon the steps outside;
The great hall clock ticks sleepily;
A hint of clucking hen
Comes from the yard uncertainly;
Then all is still again.

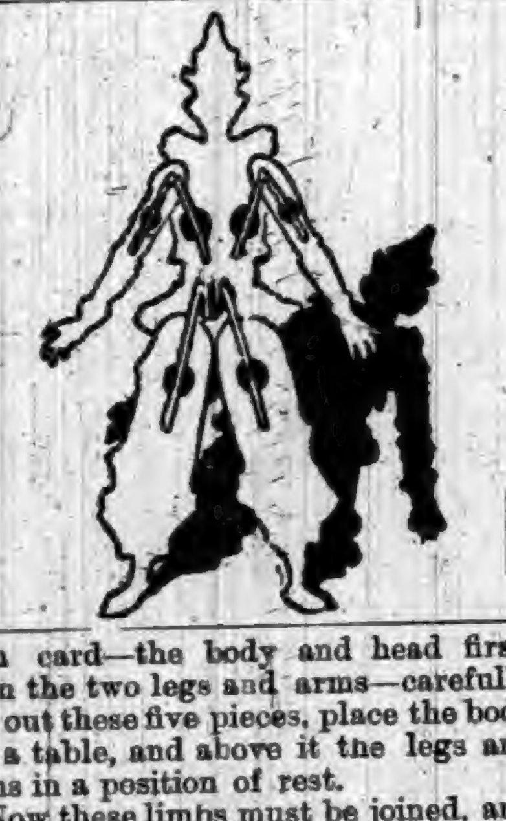
But hark! A banging of the gate!
A clatter up the walk!
A tangle of blithe sounds elate
In song and laugh and talk!
Loud strikes the clock! The chickens flee!
Rover's a frantic fool!
The very sunshine laughs to see
The children home from school!

Dancing Marionettes.

Marionettes, says a sanguine inventor, must have an inherent life of their own. The clown, the Columbine, and all the figures representing animals will now caper about on their own hook.

Worn out visiting cards, matchsticks, these are the very simple materials with which people who are fond of a little nonsense now and then can fashion all the figures represented by these designs, which can at any time be set in motion like mechanical toys.

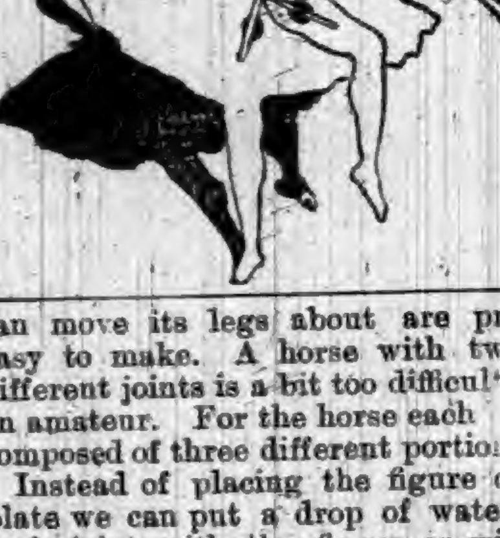
Take, for instance, a clown. First draw and paint the figure on the back of a card—the body and head first, then the two legs and arms—carefully cut out these five pieces, place the body on a table, and above it the legs and arms in a position of rest.



Now these limbs must be joined, and this is how it is to be done. Take, for instance, an arm, mark with a pencil, at the shoulder end of the arm, the exact spot, forming the axis of rotation, pierce a hole with a pin at this point and put it through the shoulder in the body. Bend a matchstick at the center as much as possible without breaking, and drop a little melted sealing-wax, joining the two ligaments to the arm and body respectively, making the part forming the joint be in contact with the pin. Do the same for the other limbs, remove the four pins, and the figure is complete. Now we have to give it life.

All that has to be done for this is to place the side of the figure on which are the matches in a plate containing a thin layer, so to say, of water. The bent fibers of wood which have not been broken will swell by means of the moisture absorbed and will try to regain their rectilineal position. The figure will then make a series of abrupt movements, which are very amusing. The legs and arms will move apart as those do which are moved by a string. Be careful to use only large, common matchsticks. The Swedish ones are impregnated with paraffine and would not move as required.

Each one can perfect the mode of fashioning these figures as he likes best. A ballet girl who can lift her foot to her forehead, a rooster which can move its legs about are pretty easy to make. A horse with twelve different joints is a bit too difficult for an amateur. For the horse each composed of three different portions.



Instead of placing the figure on a plate we can put a drop of water on each joint with the finger or with a paint brush, and the effect will be the same.

The winter evenings are present which cause young and old to assemble round the family table. The time seems favorable to recommend to our readers those new dancing marionettes.

Gifts that Children Can Make.

Pen-wipers and book-marks are very pretty, and can be made by children. For a pen-wiper take three or four small oval pieces of chamois skin. "Extracts from the pen of——" can be marked on the top layer with a colored pencil. Put a bow of ribbon where the layers are fastened together, and through this bow put a quill cut in the shape of a pen. When finished it is odd put pretty.

Sand rolls are very useful to lay across a book to keep it open when laid on the table, also on a piano to keep a book open while one is playing from it. A small roll can be made of plush, silk or woolen, with some design painted or embroidered on it. If you use plush, take a piece nine inches long and four and one-half inches wide. Stitch it up lengthwise, gather up one end, make a bag filled with sand, slip inside the plush, gather up the end and finish with a ball tassel at both ends.

Sayings of Small Ones.

One day Ray and Ernest were playing together, and as they occasionally quarreled their mother said:

"If you are naughty again I will separate you."

In a little while Ernest called:

"Mamma, please come and separate Ray, he's naughty."

"Mamma, what's twins?" asked the smallest child.

"I know," replied an older one before the mother could answer. "Twins is two babies just the same age; three babies are triplets; four are quadrupeds, and five are centipedes."

One day Tommie, aged three years and nine months, said to Jack, aged two years:

"Jack, do you know what knowledge is?"

"No, indeed," said Jack.

"I don't, either," was the reply.

Then after a few minutes:

"Jack, you will never amount to anything if you don't know what knowledge is."

The other day a little five-year old girl called at a toy store and asked if they had any little dolls for a cent. A pretty little earthenware doll was handed out, and the little girl took it in her tiny hands, gazed into the doll's face as if admiring its beauty, and then raised it to her lips and gave it a fervent kiss.

"I just wanted to kiss little dolly—dat's all I wanted."

Then she handed the little image back to the astonished salesman and tripped lightly out upon the street with a beaming smile of satisfaction.

Mind Reading in Chicago.

P. Alexander Johnstone, the wonderful young mind-reader, gave an exhibition of his powers on an Indiana avenue horse-car that resulted in the complete demoralization of a prominent South Side business man, and furnished infinite amusement to several of his friends. The business man is very fond of his wife, whom he affectionately calls Jennie, and is exceptionally proud of his three interesting children, the eldest of whom is an auburn-haired miss of 15. When he seated himself beside Johnstone, facing his friends, he ventured a remark that led up to an animated conversation. Mind-reading was finally broached, when Johnstone, concealing his identity, said he could duplicate the mind-reader's work. The business man's incredulity was expressed in his ejaculation, "Rats."

"Take one of those letters you hold in your hand," said Johnstone, "and think intently of the signature." The man complied, and in an instant Johnstone repeated the name at the bottom of the epistle. The man looked a little surprised, but presently, glancing at the envelope, saw the signer's card on the upper left corner. "That's only a trick," he said, "now tell me the signature to this," holding out a dainty missive.

Johnstone took the man's wrist, closed his eyes, and, after thinking a moment, asked if he really wanted the full signature mentioned. "Why, yes," said the man, doubtfully, and betokening a certain apprehension.

"Your loving little sweetheart, Edith," Johnstone replied.

The business man looked at Johnstone in wild-eyed amazement, and then hastily left the car, followed by the uproarious laughter of his friends. "It's a good thing for Ned that Jennie isn't here," commented one of the friends.—Chicago Evening Journal.

A Rather Expensive Bird.

Two darkies in the country made, in partnership, a splendid cotton crop and shipped it to New Orleans. One of the partners came down with it to sell it, and to buy the provisions for the next year. After the sale of the cotton he was walking down the street looking for something to buy as a present for his partner. In passing a bird store on Charles street his eye was caught by a parrot, and he went in and priced it. He was told $25. "Huh!" said he, $25 for that bird?" "Yes," said the dealer, "that bird can talk." "Lemme hear him," said the darky. And the parrot was put through his paces. The darky bought him, and, as he had to stay over and buy the provisions for next year, he shipped him up on the boat leaving next afternoon, directed to his partner. The next week he went up, and as he stepped off the boat was met by his partner when, after the usual salutations, the following conversation took place:

"Well, Tom, how did you like dat bird I sent you?"

"He wuz a mighty putty bird, but he were pow'ful tuff."

"Tuff? Tuff? You doan' mean ter tell me dat you dun eat dat bird?"

"Eat dat bird? In course I dun eat dat bird."

"My Gawd, nigger, dat bird cos' twenty-five dollars, an' he cud talk like er lawyer."

"Well, ef dat bird cud talk, when I had him by de neck and wuz a gwine ter wring his head off. why de debbil didn't he say so?"—New Orleans Delta.

Electrical Terms.

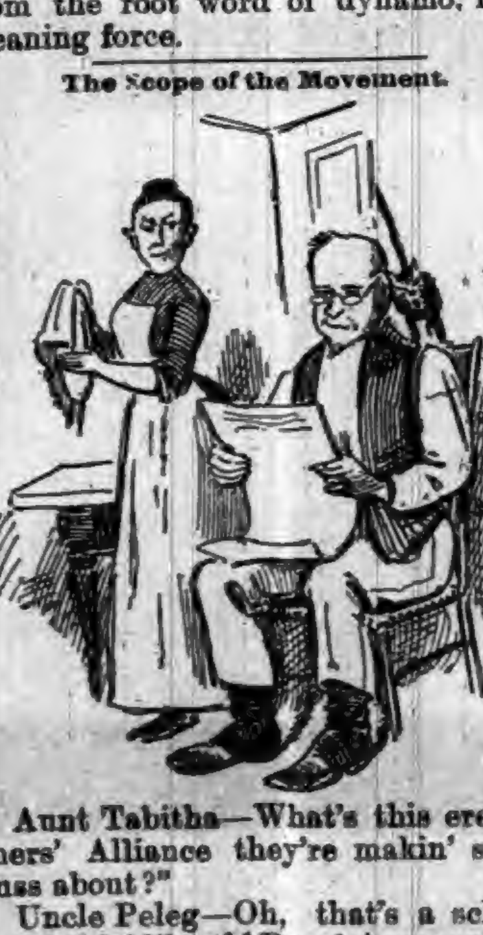
Every trade or profession has a language of its own, which few outsiders can understand. Electricians are peculiarly prone to the use of odd terms, all of which have a meaning, however.

Thus we hear them speak of "farad," "ohms," "joules," "amperes," "watts," etc. The unit of capacity is one farad; unit of resistance, one ohm; the unit of work, one joule; the unit of activity, one watt; the unit of quantity, one coulomb; the unit of current, one ampere; the unit of magnetic field, one gauss; the unit of pressure, one volt; and the unit of force, one dyne.

Odd as these names may sound to the ear, there is really nothing wonderful in connection with their origin, they all having been derived from the name of some man famous in his special field of electrical study.

Thus Michael Faraday, George S. Ohm, and James P. Joule, famous English and German discoverers, give their names to the first three units mentioned above; James Watt and Andre M. Ampere, English and French inventors, to the two units following; Charles A. Coulomb and Carl F. Gauss, the former a Frenchman and the latter a German, give their names to the units of quantity and magnetic field. The volt is named for the Italian discoverer, Volta; the dyne is derived from the root word of dynamo, itself meaning force.

The Scope of the Movement.



Aunt Tabitha—What's this ere Farmers' Alliance they're makin' sech a fuss about?

Uncle Peleg—Oh, that's a scheme sumpthin' like th' Royal Arcanyum, to pertect us fellers from gittin buncoed all th' time.—Judge.

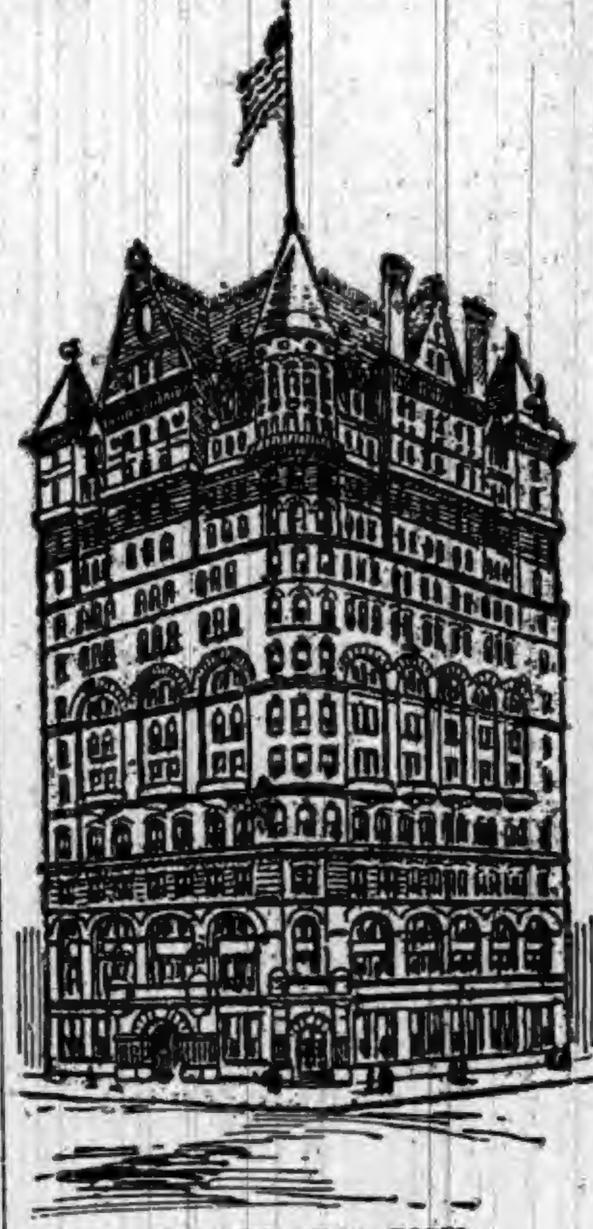
EARTH'S HIGHEST HOTEL.

Millionaire Astor Is Building It in New York.

A work of colossal magnitude has begun at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, New York. At present only the preparatory excavations have been made, but these are of such depth and so much in keeping with the projected structure that all who have seen them are astonished. And well they might be. The depth of the excavations ranges from twenty-two to forty feet. This has been necessary so as to have a rock basis whereon to raise this mighty edifice. The rock will have to be blasted to render it even.

On this foundation will rise William Waldorf Astor's new hotel, which is to be the loftiest in the world. It is to have seventeen stories and will be 225 feet high. The site is 100 feet front on Fifth avenue by 125 feet deep on Fifty-ninth street.

The first four stories will be of rough-hewn brown stone, with Roman arched entrances on the side and front. Next will come seven stories of yellow brick, with terra cotta and Belleville stone trimmings. The twelfth story will be of brown stone, with a massive projecting brown-stone cornice. This will have the effect of breaking the somewhat towering appearance of the building. The remaining stories will be of yellow brick, with brown-stone markings. The topmost story will be lighted only by skylights in the roof, and will be devoted to the laundry work of the hotel.



THE NEW ASTOR HOTEL.

The building will cost about $1,000,000, and it will take two years to construct it. The work will not be begun until next spring, and so the hotel will not be ready for business until the spring of 1893.

HIS HEAD GOT IN THE WAY.

An old negro was on trial in a Southern court charged with murder. Several witness had been examined and the case looked as if the old man would be convicted. After a whispered consultation with his lawyer, the latter announced that he would like to have the accused testify in his own behalf.

The old negro took the stand. After the usual preliminary questions his lawyer said: "Now, tell the jury all you know about this case."

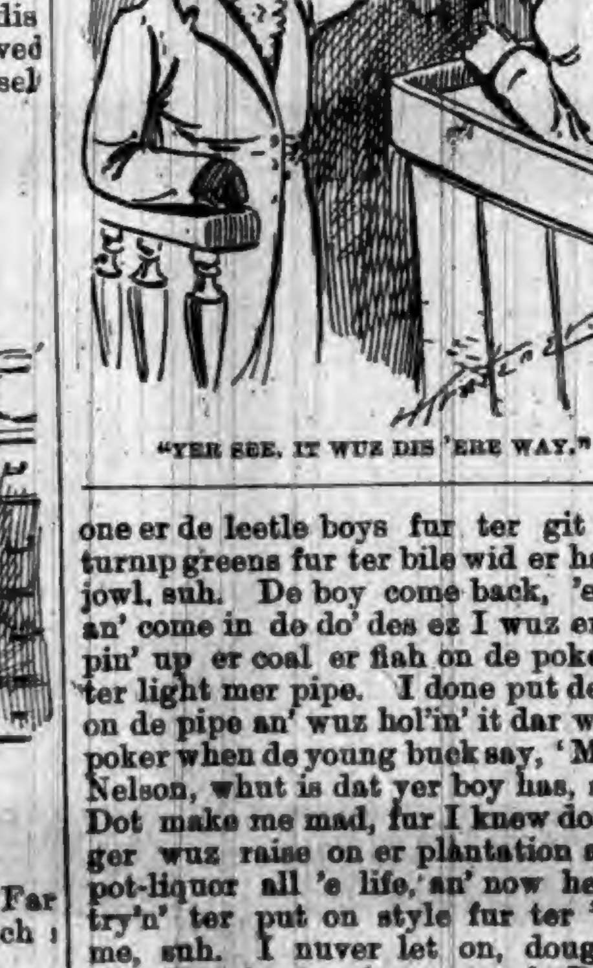
"Dat I will, boss. I'll tell 'em des how it all happen, suh. Yer see, it wuz dis 'ere way. I live out on de black-lan' erbout fo' miles fum town, an' I be'n er livin' dar side de road an' er makin' craps in de bottom sence er yeer er two yeers arter de s'render. Dat's er laung time, suh. I know de jedge up dar in de pulpit when 'e useter go bar'foot an' stump 'e toes——"

"Never mind about me. Tell the jury about the facts in this case," said the Judge.

"Dat I will, suh. I des happen ter 'member de time yo' paw whupped yer fur er stealin' watermillions outen mer patch, suh, an' it made me disremember whut I 'uz er doin', suh."

"All we want you to remember is what took place at your house the day this boy over here got his head broke," replied the Judge with a smile.

"Ye-es, suh. I'll tell 'em. I lives dar on de road, des like I say, suh, me an' mer fambley, suh. I got en ol' 'oman, suh, th'ee gals mos' grown an' two likely leetle boys. De gals dey ginter look at de boys, suh, an' one Sunday when dey come f'um de church dey fotch home dat saddle-color'd, maul-headed buck dat dey 'cuse me er try'n' ter kill. Dey interjuce 'im ter me an' I ax 'im fur ter come inter de house an' teck er cheer. He sot down by de cornder er de fiah-place an' 'ginter talk. Den I fin' out who dat nigger is. He 'uz fix up so fancy an' wored er watch an' er walkin' stick. He des 'tend like he nuver know nuthin' 'tall 'bout de country. De ol' 'oman wuz er gittin' dinner, suh. She sont one er de leetle boys fur ter git some turnip greens fur ter bile wid er hawg's jowl, suh. De boy come back, 'e did, an' come in de do' des ez I wuz er dippin' up er coal er fiah on de poker fur ter light mer pipe. I done put de coal on de pipe an' wuz hol'in' it dar wid de poker when de young buck say, 'Misteh Nelson, whut is dat yer boy has, suh?' Dot make me mad, fur I knew dot nigger wuz raise on er plantation an' e't pot-liquor all 'e life, an' now he wuz try'n' ter put on style fur ter 'press me, suh. I nuver let on, dough. I say 'Dey is turnip greens.' Den he ax 'Whut is dey fur?' an' I say, short and quick, 'Fur ter eat, suh.' Den he raise boaf han's an' say 'Oh, law! does folks eat 'em?' Den, boss, I start fur ter lay de poker down an' I dunno, suh, how it happen, but, boss, dat nigger git he head onder dat poker. I wuz mad, des like I tell yer, an' I had de poker up ter mer pipe an' I put it down hard, boss, aimin' fur ter put it in de cornder er de h'a'th. I dunno how dat nigger's head git dar, but it wuz in de way. De poker hit it an' it pop like er green watermillion dat yer hit wid er stick. Den he fall over an' mos' die, suh. Dey say I wanted ter kill 'im. I nuver. He des got in de way er de poker an' it knock 'im down. Dat's all, suh."



"YER SEE, IT WUZ DIS 'ERE WAY."

The jury evidently believed the old man, for it acquitted him promptly.

HUGH BLAKE WILLIAMS.

Tale of an Ocean Tramp.

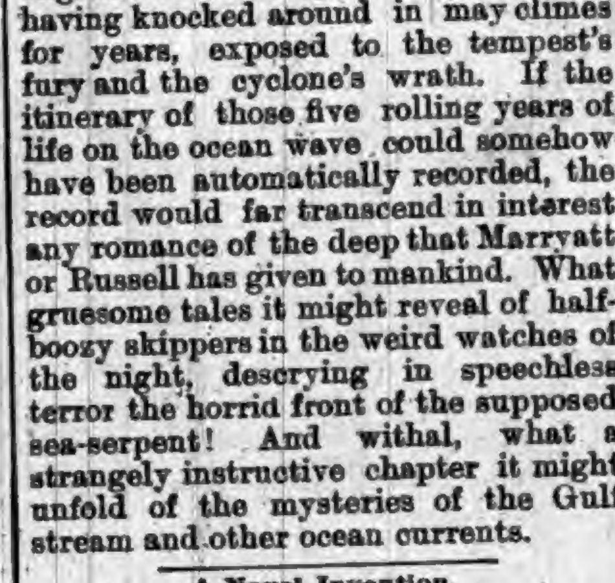
A strange story of the ramblings of an ocean wanderer, extending over a period of four years, is told in the last issue of the Atlantic pilot chart. In November, 1886, the Port Royal buoy went adrift and floated off into the Gulf stream, where it was next seen on Christmas eve of 1886, having gradually worked its way northward by a series of tacks. Three months later it was sighted on the eastern edge of the stream, about 200 miles north of the Bermudas.

Then it headed southwardly and was not heard from again until June 9, 1888, when it was seen 600 miles northwest of the Bermudas. For two years it remained constant to that site, never straying more than 100 miles from its rendezvous. Then it set out upon another southern tour, and on Sept. 15, 1889, it had again gone below the latitude of the Bermudas, but keeping 500 or 600 miles to the eastward of the islands.

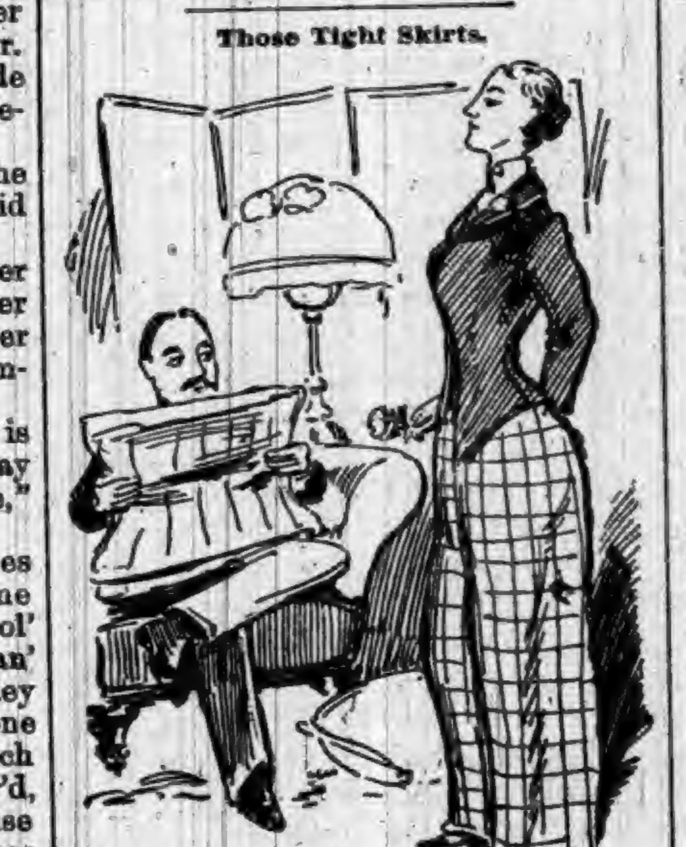
When last encountered the ocean vagrant was looking none the worse for having knocked around in may climes for years, exposed to the tempest's fury and the cyclone's wrath. If the itinerary of those five rolling years of life on the ocean wave could somehow have been automatically recorded, the record would far transcend in interest any romance of the deep that Marryatt or Russell has given to mankind. What gruesome tales it might reveal of half-boozy skippers in the weird watches of the night, descrying in speechless terror the horrid front of the supposed sea-serpent! And withal, what a strangely instructive chapter it might unfold of the mysteries of the Gulf stream and other ocean currents.

A Novel Invention.

A novel method of removing magnetism from watches, says the Electrical World, is due to P. D. Richards, of West Medford, Mass. The apparatus consists of a compound horseshoe magnet placed erect with its poles upward and a suitable support placed at some distance, perhaps two or three feet, above it. From this support is suspended by a twisted thread a cardboard tray, in which is the watch to be demagnetized. When in position the supporting thread is allowed to untwist and the watch is gradually removed from the magnetic field. Of course, the same results could be obtained by the use of an electro-magnet energized from a battery, or other sources of current, as well as by employing permanent horseshoe magnets.



Those Tight Skirts.



Mr. Mannish—Why don't you sit down, Louise?

Mrs. Mannish—Madame Modeman, my dress-maker, absolutely forbade me to, with this gown on, if I wish to keep it from bagging at the knees.—Puck.

The Worst Month.

"To me," remarked a man of appreciative discernment, "February is the most disagreeable month of the entire year."

"Why?" some one asked.

"Oh, well, you know it has a fewer number of days than the other months."

"What difference does that make?"

"My friend, I see that you don't get down closely to the business affairs of life. The sooner one month ends, the sooner the first of the next one comes around. I am a quiet man and do not like callers, and it makes me nervous and ill at ease when, the first of the month, men who have really no cause to enjoy my society come around and discuss practical subjects. I make no complaint of a leap year February, but the February that falls on the lot of ordinary occasions is distressing."—Arkansaw Traveler.

In the days of your boyhood, when your paternal parent laid you prone across the bed, and spanked you with his belt, you swore to yourself that when you grew up to be a paterfamilias, you would have mercy on your erring offspring. But, now that the time has come, it is to be observed that several of your sons are unable to take their seats at table, which shows that human nature is uncommon changeable.

Sumbo—Brown is using a fish diet to benefit his brain. Brown—Well, judging from the present condition of his intellect it must be weak-fish he is living on.

Remarkable Echoes.

There are several very remarkable echoes in the world—at Woodstock and at the Sicilian cathrdral of Gargenti, where the confessions poured forth near the door to priestly ears were heard by a man concealed behind the high altar at the opposite end. It is curious that such a spot should have been accidentally chosen for the confessional. The whispering gallery in St. Paul's is another instance of the echo.

Echoes are produced by the reflection of sound waves from a plane or even surface. A wall, or even a cloud, will produce echoes. The thunder is echoed from the clouds. The hills of Killarney contain an echo, and the bugle sounds are beautifully repeated. In cases of ordinary echo, when the speaker waits for the answer, he must place himself opposite the rock. If he stand at the side the echo will reply to another person in a corresponding place on the farther side, for the voice then strikes the rock at an angle, and the angle of reflection is the same, as in the case of light.

But if it should happen there are a number of reflecting surfaces the echo will be repeated over and over again, as at the lakes of Killarney. The Woodstock echo, already referred to, and mentioned by several writers, repeats seventeen syllables by day and twenty by night. In Shipley there is even a greater repetition. Whispering galleries carry sound by means of the curved surface. Sir John Herschel mentions an echo in the Menai suspension bridge. The blow of a hammer on one of the main piers will produce the sound from each of the crossbeams supporting the roadway and from the opposite pier, 576 feet distant, as well as many other repetitions.

Lillian Russell's New Pet.

Lillian Russell is now the owner of the most perfect Japanese dog ever seen in this country, says Truth. It is a little three-months old, and Miss Russell paid Mrs. Eugene Clark one of those fabulous amounts for the dog that only princes and prima donnas can afford. Koko, for that is the name that Miss Russell has given her expensive pet, is so very small, and yet so very bright and intelligent, that even at this remarkably youthful age it has made a budding reputation that promises to compete with that of its beautiful mistress. It is said quietly that Miss Russell flew to Koko for consolation after her boisterous Thanksgiving night reception at the Casino.

The Autumnal Boy.

When you see a boy with the pockets of his pantaloons bulging out until he looks like a great bumble bee laden for the hive; while he walks along trying to look as thin as a split lath, and wearing a profound expression of supernatural innocence, you know without referring to this code of signals that boy has been lingering in somebody's orchard and doesn't care to have undue publicity given to facts that only concern him personally.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, }
LUCAS COUNTY. } ss.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

{SEAL.} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

☞Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Bound to Catch the Thief.

Some of Miles Standish's old chums organized a horse thief detecting society in Rhode Island, the first society of the kind in the country. The ninety-fourth annual supper of the organization was recently given. The children and grandchildren of the original officers are running the society to-day. In its career of ninety-four years it has lost but one horse, and for the detection of the thief who stole this animal two years ago over $2,000 has been expended. The hunt is still going on, as the old farmers who comprise the society would rather divide and squander all they have than admit they are beaten.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

A Multi-Millionaire's First Money.

George M. Pullman, the palace-car multi-millionaire, made his first money in Chicago by lifting old horses with jack screws. He would take contracts for this sort of work and was not above handling the bars himself. Alexander Lloyd, a friend of Pullman at that time, and also a mechanic, afterwards became mayor of Chicago, but died in destitution.

MEDIOCRITY always copies superiority. Dobbins' Electric Soap has been imitated more than any soap. Ask your grocer for Dobbins' Electric Soap; all other Electrics, Electricity, Magnetics, etc., are imitations.

A Western "Limited."

Disgruntled Passenger—I thought this was the limited express.

Conductor (Oklahoma R. R.)—That's what it's called, sir.

Passenger—Huh! What is there limited about it?

Conductor (after reflection)—The time for meals.—New York Weekly.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should not be neglected. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES are a simple remedy, and give prompt relief. 25 cts. a box.

On Shares.

Wilkins—How about that bill you undertook to collect on shares?

Lawyer—You said I could have half of it, didn't you.

"Certainly."

"Well, I've collected my half. Can't get yours."—New York Weekly.

IT is cruel to neglect symptoms of worms in a child. Many cases of epileptic fits can be traced to this source. You do your duty when you give it Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. It will save the child.

TEXAS Siftings believes Shapira, the Deuteronomy man, to be the real, long-lost author of the Morey letter.

A LEADING actress remarked to a reporter, "The last time I was here, I was worn out, but Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has since made a new woman of me."

THE barrel, although not generally known as a musical instrument, is nearly all staves and shimes.

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

In the Editor's Room.

"I am a Holocaust!" shrieked a hideous fiery-tongued Object in the city editor's ears.

"And I am a Dull Thud," growled an Object of gloom.

The city editor made two grabs at the reporter's copy and hurried to the elevator shaft.

"What was that?" inquired the managing editor.

"I dropped a Holocaust down the elevator shaft with a Dull Thud," responded the city editor, and a silence which might have been Quay fell upon the editor's desk without making a sound.

THOSE of you who are weary and heavy ladened with sickness and care, weighed down with the infirmities that beset the human system, can find the one thing necessary to restore you to bright, buoyant health in Sherman's Prickly Ash Bitters. It invigorates and strengthens the debilitated organs, aids digestion, and dispels the clouds arising from a diseased liver.

Her Mistake.

"How do you tell when there is any gold in this funny-looking stone?" asked the dear girl who was being shown around the mint by an official.

"Why, we smelt it," he replied.

Holding it to her pretty little nose, she remarked very innocently: "Why, I smelt it, too, but I don't see anything about it to—— Why, what are you laughing at?"—Boston Traveler.

An Extraordinary Opportunity.

Send your address on a postal card and receive, free of charge, sample copies of the NEW YORK MERCURY, in its fifty-third year, together with an unprecedented premium list, comprising a thousand articles which are given to new subscribers. Address, NEW YORK MERCURY, 8 Park row, New York city.

Wasn't She a Wise Child.

Visitor—I suppose your daughter is busily preparing for her wedding?

Mother—Yes; she is up in her room now, destroying all her old letters.—Household Monthly.

"WHEN slovens get tidy they polish the bottoms of the pans." When servants are given SAPOLIO they are never tired of cleaning up!

FIRST Student (entering companion's room)—"Ah, I see you have been burning midnight oil." Second Student—"No; that's a couple of old shoes I threw into the stove."

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

THE locks on the door are worn perfectly plain. It is the door that is banged.

BEECHAM'S PILLS act like magic on a WEAK STOMACH.

DURING the deluge Noah was in the habit of calling his wife an ark angel.

Rheumatism

Is of two kinds, acute and chronic. The former is accompanied by high fever, and in the swollen joints there is intense pain, which often suddenly changes from one part of the body to another. Chronic rheumatism is without fever and not so severe, but more continuous, and liable to come on at every storm or after slight exposure. Rheumatism is known to be a disease of the blood and Hood's Sarsaparilla has had great success in curing it. This medicine possesses qualities which neutralize acidity, and purify, enrich, and vitalize the blood.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY,
BEECHAM'S PILLS
For Bilious and Nervous Disorders.
"Worth a Guinea a Box" but sold for 25 Cents,
BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY MEMORY

Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave., New York.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co. CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts., at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and illustrated pamphlet for a dime. THE PEDINE CO., WORLD BUILDING, NEW YORK.

You've tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have you and you're disappointed. The results are not immediate.

And did you expect the disease of years to disappear in a week? Put a pinch of time in every dose. You would not call the milk poor because the cream doesn't rise in an hour? If there's no water in it the cream is sure to rise. If there's a possible cure, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sure to effect it, if given a fair trial.

You get your one dollar it costs back again if it don't benefit or cure you.

We wish we could give you the makers' confidence. They show it by giving the money back again, in all cases not benefited, and it'd surprise you to know how few dollars are needed to keep up the refund.

Mild, gentle, soothing and healing is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Cures the worst cases permanently. No experimenting. It's "Old Reliable." Twenty-five years of success. Of druggists.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co. 24 State St., N. Y.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, LONDON, ENGLAND.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER purchase one of the celebrated SMITH & WESSON arms. The finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. Manufactured in calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Constructed entirely of best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock, they are unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable cast-iron imitations which are often sold for the genuine article and are not only unreliable, but dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON Revolvers are all stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents and are guaranteed perfect in every detail. Insist upon having the genuine article, and if your dealer cannot supply you an order sent to address below will receive prompt and careful attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices furnished upon application.

SMITH & WESSON,
☞Mention this paper. Springfield, Mass.

YOUR BOY WANTS Our Illustrated CATALOGUE of Scroll Saws, Designs, Magic Lanterns, Skates, Boxing Gloves, etc. ☞Send stamp for our No. 200 Catalogue. THE JOHN WILKINSON CO., 269 & 271 State St., Chicago, Ill.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

TACOMA $100 to $1,000 Carefully Invested here bring ANNUALLY from TWENTY to 100% Test'ns. TACOMA INVESTMENT CO., TACOMA, WASH.

Ely's Cream Balm Cures COLD IN HEAD RELIEVES INSTANTLY. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts. THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAYFEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c.

EVERY WATERPROOF COLLAR OR CUFF THAT CAN BE RELIED ON
Not to Split!
Not to Discolor!
BEARS THIS MARK.
BE UP TO THE MARK
TRADE CELLULOID MARK.
NEEDS NO LAUNDERING. CAN BE WIPED CLEAN IN A MOMENT.
THE ONLY LINEN-LINED WATERPROOF COLLAR IN THE MARKET.

PISO'S CURE FOR
Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND PENNYROYAL PILLS. THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are a dangerous counterfeit. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA. Sold by all Local Druggists.

HOMES WANTED. We want to secure permanent homes for a number of Orphan Babes and Children. Responsible parties who want to adopt a bright, healthy and well-grown child are invited to correspond with us. CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY, 204 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

RIDGE'S FOOD. IT IS USED by CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. By Druggists. WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

PENSIONS! The Disability Bill is a law. Soldiers disabled since the war are entitled. Dependent widows and parents now dependent whose sons died from effects of army service are included. If you wish your claim speedily and successfully prosecuted, address JAMES TANNER, Late Commissioner of Pensions, WASHINGTON, D. C.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. ☞Send for circular.

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

MAN-O-TEE,

(INDIAN DOCTOR)

CURES CHRONIC DISEASES.

Read the Evidence and judge for Yourself.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., June 30, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

Two months ago I began to use your medicine; at that time I had had headaches, poor appetite, was weak and unable to do any work, felt tired and nervous and was troubled with severe neuralgic pains in different parts of the body; am now entirely free from pain, can eat well, sleep well and work without tiring. I can gladly recommend you to any who may be sick.

Yours truly,
GEO. HELSER.

NEBO, Ind., July 4, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

I have been troubled with Dispepsia for years. My symptoms were severe pains in the stomach after eating, bloating, poor appetite, constipation, palpitation of the heart, dull headache, dizzy spells, tired feeling, no strength, restless dreamy sleep, and being extremely nervous. This was my condition when I put my case in your care four months ago. I am a well and hearty man to day, and this result has been brought about by the use of your treatment during that time, for which I am truly thankful.

Respectfully,
F. M. JONES.

EPILEPSY CAN BE CURED.

PINE, Ind., Aug. 13, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

My son, Cyrus, has had Epilepsy for many years; would have as many as ten distinct fits in twelve hours, and they were growing worse on him day by day. I tried several doctors with no permanent benefit. Placed him under your treatment, and he is now well and hearty, and has had no attack for over one year. The fits are entirely cured. I consider that your treatment is positively reliable in these cases, and that you have saved my boy years of suffering from this most terrible of maladies.

Yours truly,
JAMES E. KINZIE.

WABASH, Ind., July 5, 1890.

DR. MAN O-TEE:

If I could induce all ladies who are suffering from disease peculiar to their sex, to visit you, I would be glad to do so, for the benefit I have obtained from your treatment is a great comfort to me, and I gladly add my testimony to that of many others who have been cured.

WARSAW, Ind., Nov. 21st, 1890.

DR. MAN O-TEE:

Your treatment cured me of Rheumatism of over 20 years' standing. During the last five years was scarcely able to walk. Am now a well and hearty man.

Yours truly,
E. B. LEEDY.

WARSAW, Ind., Oct. 1st, 1890.

DR. MAN-O TEE:

Your treatment has cured me of the worst case of Catarrh I ever saw or heard of. Many say that catarrh can not be cured, but you have demonstrated that such is not the case, for you have cured me and many others here.

MRS. LOU BECKWITH.

VANDALIA, Mich., Aug. 6, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

I have been afflicted with Bleeding Piles for ten years; was so bad with them could not work half of the time; suffered severe pain day day and night, and was rapidly losing flesh and strength. Used your treatment four months, and am perfectly cured. Can work hard, have no pain and am in as good health as I ever was in my life. I recommend you to any who may be suffering.

Respectfully,
JNO. N. BOMINE

ROANOKE, Ind., June 30, 1890.

To Whom it may Concern:

I have been treated during the last four months by Dr. Man-O-Tee, the Indian Doctor, for Catarrh, Headache and Nervous Debility. When I went to him, was scarcely able to be up and around. He helped me from the start, and I am now in better health than I have been for years. I consider Dr. Man O-Tee a skilful physician and recommend him to all who may require medical treatment.

Respectfully,
MRS. ANNA WARNER.

HAS SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

GOSHEN, Ind., June 19, 1890.

DR. MAN-O-TEE:

During the past three months I have used your medicine for headache, cough, bronchitis and general debility, and can not speak too highly of you. No person ever suffered more from neuralgia and headache than I have, and I cannot thank you enough for the relief you have given me.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. ELIZABETH McDOWELL.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many of you who are sick can be cured if given proper remedies. The above facts prove this. Twelve years extensive Hospital and private practice — 3 years INDIAN MEDICINE MAN. I use Roots, Barks and Herbs — Nature's remedies. Next visit to Auburn, Swineford House, Friday, January 16th, 1891. Consultation Free.

DR. MAN-O-TEE,
Warsaw, Indiana.

TAX RATES FOR 1890.

To The Taxpayers of DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

In compliance with the laws of the state of Indiana, I Reuben Sawvel, Treasurer of said county, hereby notify the Tax Payers thereof that the rates of taxation for the year A D. 1890, are correctly stated in the following table, showing the amount of taxes in cents levied upon each one hundred dollars valuation, and on each poll, in the several townships and incorporated villages in said county, as the same appears on the Tax Duplicate of DeKalb county for said year.

TOWNSHIPS AND TOWNS.	State	State School	State University	County	Township	Tuition	Special School	Road	Special Road	Addit'n'l Spec'l School	Bond Sinking Fund	Corporation	Street Lighting	Refunded School Debt	Special Dog	Total	First Installment	Second Installment
[illegible]	12	16	½	90½	5	25	5	20	5							179	102	77
Poll	50	50				25										125
Jackson Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	20	25	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Concord Tp.	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Newville Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	25	30	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Stafford Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	15	10	15	10							179	102	77
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Wilm'g'n Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	10	5	15	10							169	97	72
Poll	50	50														100
Union Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	10		15	5							159	89½	69½
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Richland Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	20	25	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Fairfield Tp.	12	16	½	90½	10	20	15	15	5							184	102	82
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Smithf'ld Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	25	20	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50					25									125
Franklin Tp	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	10	10							204	112	92
Poll	50	50														100
Troy Tp	12	16	½	90½	15	25	15	5	10							189	102	87
Poll	50	50				10	15									125
Keyser Tp	12	16	½	90½	15	25	25	20	5							209	117	92
Poll	50	50														100
Grant Tp	12	16	½	90½	10	25	20	15	5							194	107	87
Poll	50	50				25	25									150
Auburn T	12	16	½	90½	10	25	50	25		50	20	50			F$2 M$1	349	187	162
Poll	50	50					50									150
Waterloo T	12	16	½	90½	10	25	50									204	102	102
Poll	50	50				25	75									200
Butler T	12	16	½	90½	10		50	25							F$2 M$1	204	114½	89½
Poll	50	50					100									200
Garrett T	12	16	½	90½	15	30	50	30	10	35		50	30	25		394	229½	164½
Poll	50	50				25	100			100						325

Also $1 for one dog, $2 for each female dog, and $2 for each additional dog.

The Road and Special Road Tax are included in the first installment. The poll and Dog Tax are divided equally between the two installments.

Taxes of 1890 are due the first day of January, 1891, and may be paid in full or in two installments. The first installment must be paid on or before the third Monday in April, 1891, the second installment on or before the first Monday in November, 1891. If the first installment is not paid when due both installments become delinquent. Ten per cent will be added, and I shall at once proceed, as the law requires, to collect the same, together with the cost that may accrue, by distress and sale of personal property.

The Treasurer will not be responsible for the penalty and charges on delinquent taxes resulting from any omission of the person paying, to state definitely on what property, in whose name, and in what township or corporation it was assessed.

Persons owing delinquent taxes should pay them at once. The law is of such a character that there is no option left the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of the delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same by sale of property.

"The owner of property on the first day of April in each year, shall be liable for the taxes of that year. The purchaser of property on the first day of April shall be considered the owner on that day".

Examine your receipts before leaving the office and see that all your property is included.

No County Order will be paid to any person owing delinquent taxes.

The annual sale of Lands and Lots for delinquent taxes, will occur on the second Monday in February, 1891.

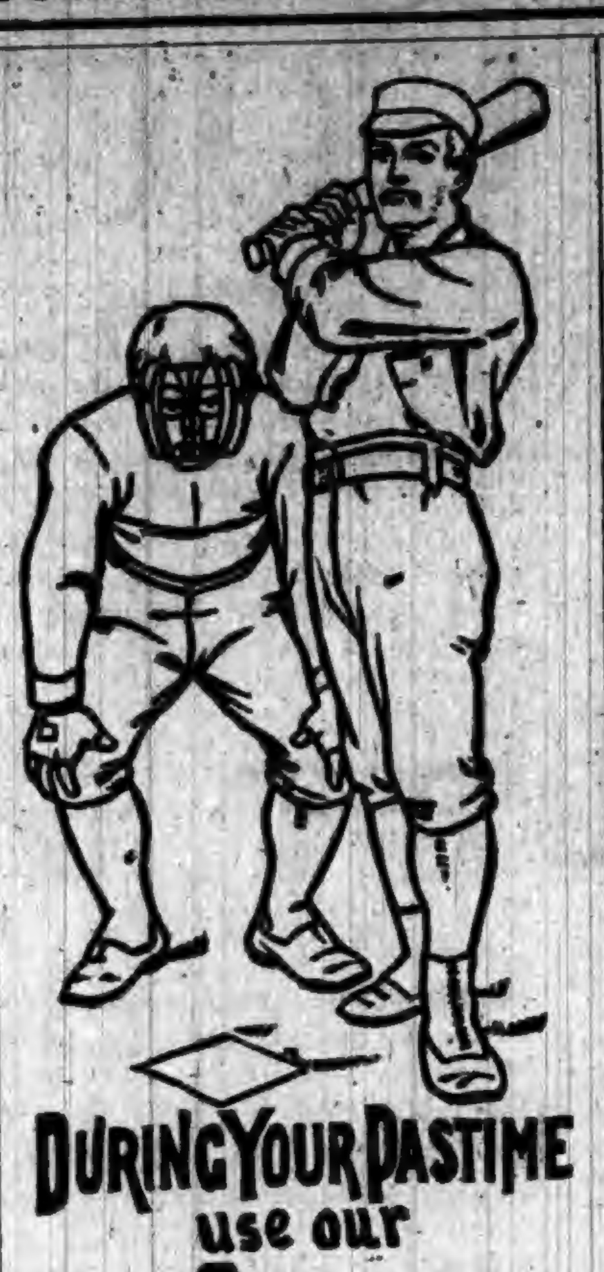
Come early and avoid the rush of the last few days. We have 6,000 receipts to make, and all cannot be made the last few days. And those who have their taxes complicated, such as undivided estates, the executors and administrators, are especially requested to call when we are at leisure, as it requires considerable time to make the division and make separate receipts.

The books will positively be closed on the evening of the third Monday in April, and no one will be allowed to pay after that date without penalty.

Parties sending by others, or by letter, to pay tax, should not fail to send description of their Lands and Lots.

No receipts will be made out for any party until they are ready to pay.

REUBEN SAWVEL, Treas.



DURING YOUR PASTIME use our Old Honesty PLUG CHEWING TOBACCO and then your PASTIME WILL BRING YOU MORE PLEASURE.

OLD HONESTY is the very best plug, and is put up in the very best manner.

DONT FAIL TO TRY IT

John Finzer & Bros.
Louisville, Ky

And Has it Come to This?

[Religious Telescope]

MR. EDITOR: It has been a long time since anything has appeared in the Telescope from my pen. You may know the reason very well, so I need not speak of it now, only to say that we, yes we radicals have been denied our rights. Now, for one, I do not complain much about that; and to be candid in the matter, I have thought that we should not have found so much fault with the editors of the Telescope anyhow; for I noticed all along that such men as Dr. Davis, of precious memory, Bishop Wright, Bishop Floyd, and others of our leaders—men who were capable of writing up and defending our side—did have access to your paper, and ofttimes poured out strong arguments through its columns, to our utmost satisfaction.

And then again, it seemed to me a little unreasonable, after all, that we, having a paper of our own through which to speak, should ask so much. But, to be fair in the matter, we thought that we should be entitled to as much respect and even more than some others, so far as being heard through the church organ was concerned. Well as I never was much of a hand to contend, I just dropped out, and quit writing, as you know. Now, for one I propose to just make a clean breast of the matter, let others do and say what they will. I know how hard it is for some to acknowledge that they are wrong. They seem to think that it is not manly to do so; but for my part I feel that it is much more Christlike to get right than to keep on contending when in the wrong. I am now thoroughly convinced that our cause is not right. I believe it should be clearly understood just how so many of us got so far. Being United Brethren of the old stamp, and being told by such men as Brothers Floyd and Wright, of White River Conference, Bro. Barnaby of Michigan, and Brothers Miller and Dillon of Anglaize that all others were wrong, and that the General Conference had revolutionized, and proposed by unlawful and even unholy means to carry the church over to the unholy and Christless secret institutions, and sell us out to the devil, we could not consent to it. Then again, Brother Dillon told us all along from the very beginning that we were the church and entitled to all the church property, and that all we had to do was to stand firm, work up the Conservator interests, sign all papers sent out by our Constitutional Association, and pay in our money for the good cause, and he would assure us every dollar of the church property. Of course we believed all this, and thought that our brethren who were leading in our cause knew just how the matter would be in the outcome. Some of us, quite awhile ago, to confess the truth, began to get a little suspicious that all was not so certain as we were assured by the Conservator. When the courts began to render judgment, and about everything—indeed, everything—went against us our suspicions were confirmed. Now, at last, we have the decision from our Richmond case, and that is against us; and we are quite sure that everything was done that was in the power of our brethren and our attorneys to do to win the suit. I will not disguise it—it is folly to attempt it—we had staked everything—on this case, and calculated to proceed at once with the Telescope case at Dayton, Ohio, if we gained this one. But we have lost again, and we have lost all hope; at least we in the laity have; and, to tell the truth candidly, we believe that we have been duped by our leaders. We put great confidence in them; we believed that Brother Dillon was more than a match for anything in the church, and that he understood the law in the church and of the state perfectly well. At least he alway so represented himself, and we believed it. We do not wish to unjustly reflect upon any one. It is enough that we feel that we have been grossly deceived and gulled by our leaders, unless they themselves have been ignorant of what they claimed. We do not think them ignorant, however, we believe that they knew better all along. We are beginning to get our eyes open to the truth now, that there is nothing in our cause whatever to justify the courts in rendering judgment in our favor; and the very fact that our brethren refused to go into trial at Dayton, Ohio, and allowed judgment to be rendered against us there again, is all the evidence we want to convince us that they do not believe what they have all along claimed. Now, we are disgraced in the eyes of thinking people, and by no wish or will of our own. We have been urged into it, and many of us have sacrificed time and means in support of what we were made to believe was a just and honorable cause. Now, all is lost, and we begin to feel that we have been abducted. We are away from the home we always loved; our love for the church of our choice has been alienated; instead of being at peace with our brethren, we are at enmity. We have believed that the courts would award us the property because we were told so and we have said repeatedly that we would abide the decisions of the courts and stand with the side that won.

And now we propose to do so; at least the writer does. It is the height of folly for our leaders to now try to make us believe that the supreme court will set aside all the decisions rendered by the lower courts. Now, Mr. Editor, if you will allow this a place in the Telescope I will be thankful, because I wish it to go abroad so that others may know that there is at least one radical whose eyes are opened to the truth, and who is honest enough to confess it. We have enough now, and pray that others soon will have.

O. A. RADICAL.

ON THE ROAD.

National and State Soldiers' Home.

Special Correspondence.

MARION, IND., Dec. 24, 1890.

The National Soldiers' Home, three miles south of Marion, Ind., which was opened for inmates last summer, is under the command of Gen. A. F. Devereux. It is not completed, but accommodates 600 men, there being only six barracks finished, which are the best brick ones for comfort and convenience built by the national government. Each barrack has four large rooms, with twenty-five iron spring bottom bedsteads, mattress, sheet, pillow, two blankets and spread in each room. The buildings are two stories high, with attic. In the second story on the west, is the sergeant's room, and one for a library or other purposes, while directly opposite is the bath room, water closet and wash room. The buildings are lighted with natural gas, of which the home has a gusher of a gas well. Gas is utilized for fuel and cooking, hot and cold water, and the barracks are kept as clean as a new pin. Verandas run half way round each of the buildings. Each government ward is provided with a chair which stands at the side of his bed. At five o'clock, a. m., bugle call for the men to get up, make their beds and sweep up the floor, 6, breakfast, 7½ for men who labor to go to work, 9 doctor—quinine, 12 dinner, 1½ go to work, 5 quit work, 6 supper, 9 go to bed, and 9½ taps, lights out—the bugler is kept busy blowing the different calls. Governor Devereux takes great pains to make the old heroes as comfortable as possible. The government is now building a large brick dining room and kitchen, hospital, and other buildings necessary for the home. At the present time, the hospital is located in barrack 3, while the cook house is temporarily located in a frame building run up for that purpose. The national government owns 250 acres of land, which is partly farmed. Street cars run to the home from Marion, fare five cents. Will next summer when the home is completed give you sketch of it.

The Pennsylvania Soldiers' Home at Erie I visited while in that city. The home is situated a short distance from the town, the building standing back about three hundred yards from the main entrance. The lawn laid out in front of the house is kept in good order, and shade trees give the old veterans a rare opportunity while seated under the trees enjoying the pure air of the summer months. The building was formerly occupied by the state as an orphans' home. It accommodates about 500 men and is run under strict military rules, but the old boys are well taken care of. Major Tyson, is commandant. He is a soldier, every inch of him. The building lacks many comforts that the "National Soldiers' Homes" afford. The state, by an act of the legislature has deprived the inmates the privilege of voting at Erie, which is decidedly wrong, and the people of the state should see that the legislature repeals the obnoxious law.

At Madison, Ohio, a small town on the Western Reserve, a "National Women's Relief Corps Home" has been established by the W. R. C.'s of the Western Reserve of the state. The ladies raised the money necessary, bought a fine old mansion and had such alterations and additions made suitable for a home for soldiers' widows, army nurses, etc. Miss Coolridge, of Boston, Mass., is matron of the home. The home is beautifully situated in one of the most delightful spots in that portion of the state, and is fast filling up with inmates. It is the intention of the board of directors to ask congress for a small appropriation each year to help them out with their worthy undertaking.

The Pennsylvania Memorial Home is fast filling up. Old soldiers and their wives and orphan soldiers' children are admitted. This home has been much needed. How the rich stay-at-homes expect an old soldier with a family to subsist on the pittance allowed in the shape of a pension is astonishing.

The State Soldiers' Home at New Hampshire has been completed. The W. R. C. of that state agreed to furnish it, which they have done, and the home is fast filling up with old, worn out, disabled veterans.

Last year the legislature of Ohio passed an act depriving the inmates of the state soldiers' home at Sandusky the privilege of voting at that city, but there is no doubt, next winter, the law will be repealed, as it should be.

At the Michigan State Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids, last summer, the inmates went through a thorough examination by the medical examiner of the institution, and one hundred of them who were receiving pensions were furnished transportation and sent home. The home accommodates 500 men.

JOHN GEORGE GANTT,
Late of 26 and 192 P. V. I.

A Smart Girl.

There are a great many different classes of young ladies in this great and good country, and each fair maid has a separate disposition. Some are intelligent, sensible and lady-like, while others are ignorant, unrefined and rude. These contrasts in nature tend toward the sympathy, or admiration of mankind. But the most noticeable girl, is the smart girl. Not exactly the smart girl, but the girl, who in her narrow-minded, selfish and ignorant way thinks she is smart. She is generally known by the littleness of her acts, which at times are little short of disgusting and repulsive. The attention of the writer was called to the silly freaks of one of that class of young ladies, who allow the spirit of "imaginary cuteness" to over balance their store of common sense, a few evenings since. On an occasion, after listening to a highly interesting and instructive sermon, at one of the churches in this place, a rarely beautiful young lady, whose home is in a town this side of Chicago, was accosted by a young man of good character, who wished the pleasure of seeing the lady safely home. He was granted the privilege, and at once assumed the position of an escort in a gentlemanly manner. The couple glided down the street very genteely, when the fair damsel suddenly conceived the idea that it would be "real cute" to come it "chippy style". No sooner was the thought presented, than the peerless formulation feminity, rudely tore herself away from her escort and in an unmannerly attitude, retreated a few paces, where she imposed her avoirdupois on the arm of another gentleman. This act, only exposed a very deplorable condition of mind and heart. The fact is, she was trying to play her senseless pranks on a true gentleman, who is proof against all such foolishness, and has been received and entertained by ladies, who would not permit this same smart girl to enter the precincts of their kitchen as dish washer. Such action on the part of young ladies, is no less odious in their nature, than if they were performed by young men. As a warning to young women, I would say, that a young woman, who consents to a young man serving as her escort should be honorable enough to keep her word. Young ladies, who would be respected by young men, must first respect themselves by cultivating propriety and honesty of purposes.

* * *

Installed.

The officers elected and appointed, of Samuel Ford Camp No 114, S. of V., at this place, were qualified for the work of their respective positions, by installation, Thursday evening, Jan. 1, 1891. Past Captain A. A. Rowland, was commissioned by Col. Newton, as installing officer. A. L. Kuhlman was qualified for his position as captain. After all the elective officers were installed, the newly elected captain assumed command of Camp, and qualified his appointed subordinates. The ease and natural grace with which he enters upon the duties of this highly important position are little short of remarkable. He has chosen his staff of subordinate officers with the greatest care and forethought, and with satisfaction to the entire Camp. Every man apparently has been given the position, that was in the Captain's judgment, best suited to his ability. The prospects for another year of successful existence of this Camp under the guidance and direction of Mr. Kuhlman, are very promising, and it is believed that his "generalship" will result in an enviable record for the Camp, as he is the right man in the right place, without any doubt.

CONSUMPTION,

IN its first stages, can be successfully checked by the prompt use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Even in the later periods of that disease, the cough is wonderfully relieved by this medicine.

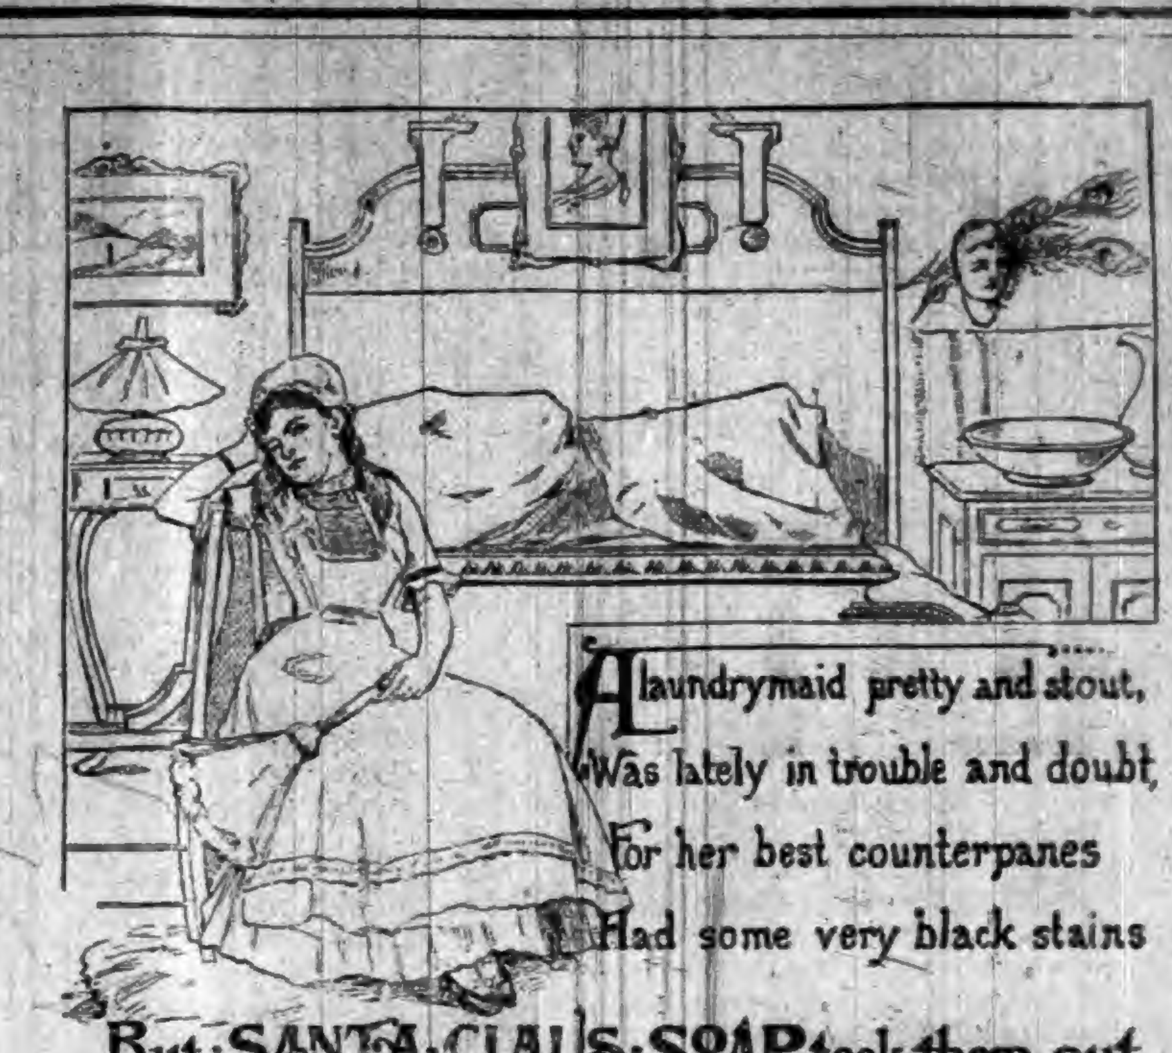
"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful preparation once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pectoral cured me."—A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middleton, Tennessee.

"Several years ago I was severely ill. The doctors said I was in consumption, and that they could do nothing for me, but advised me, as a last resort, to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking this medicine two or three months I was cured, and my health remains good to the present day."—James Birchard, Darien, Conn.

"Several years ago, on a passage home from California, by water, I contracted so severe a cold that for some days I was confined to my state-room, and a physician on board considered my life in danger. Happening to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I used it freely, and my lungs were soon restored to a healthy condition. Since then I have invariably recommended this preparation."—J. B. Chandler, Junction, Va.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.



A laundrymaid pretty and stout,
Was lately in trouble and doubt,
For her best counterpanes
Had some very black stains
But SANTA CLAUS SOAP took them out.

SANTA CLAUS SOAP—made only by N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., Chicago.

DIRT BREEDS VERMIN

Of a good house-wife, who uses SAPOLIO, it is well said:—The mouse is muzzled in her house. Try it and keep your house clean. All grocers keep it.

Cleanliness and neatness about a house are necessary to insure comfort. Man likes comfort, and if he can't find it at home, he will seek elsewhere for it. Good housewives know that SAPOLIO makes a house clean and keeps it bright. Happiness always dwells in a comfortable home. Do you want cleanliness, comfort and happiness? Try SAPOLIO and you will be surprised at your success.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

100 PAGES WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Peronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming Illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistible little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs Gen John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humphrey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Seinie Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, By E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three Sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER
TRADE MARK
IT CURES CANCERS, SCROFULA

Female Weakness Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. Price $1 per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT
AUBURN, IND.

Honest Work! $30 to $40 a week made by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in town and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 949, Cincinnati, O.

The mineral fields of Idaho are among the largest in the world, and since their discovery have produced $157,830,68. The yield last year was as follows: gold $2,204,500; silver, $7,657,500; lead, $6,490,000; copper, $85,000.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California.

J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:30 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

While crime is increasing here, there has been an extraordinary decrease in Great Britian, the number of convicts serving sentence of penal servitude having decreased from 10,500 in 1883 to 6,400 in 1889, a decrease of 46 per cent in six years.

In a Short Time.

A prominent man of Clarinda, Iowa, says: Through the recommendation of J. P. Burrows, of our city, I gave your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup a trial in a case of severe cough, after using it a short time my cough was cured. Which fact gives me such great confidence in it's merits that upon every occasion I recommend it to my neighbors.

Yours,
AMOS CLARK.

Notice To Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 4, 1891, at 10 o'clock p. m., for the election of thirteen Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting.

J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Henning, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL SWIHART, Administrator.
December 29, 1890.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James M. Goetchius deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL Z. HOFFMAN, Administrator.
November 29th, 1890.

Notice of Stockholders meeting.

Notice is hereby given that by resolution of the directors of the First National Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, held Jan 6, 1891 a meeting of the stockholders of said bank will be held at their banking house at Auburn, Indiana, on February 16, 1891, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before them.

W. H. McINTYRE, Cashier.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the will of William Brand deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 14th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why the FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 2nd day of January 1891.

HIRAM BRAND, Executor.
By J. W. BAXTER, Att'y.

WE PAY SALARY and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work ready year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

This firm is perfectly responsible.

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling. Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.

In the photograph of the heavens, in course of preparation in the Paris Observatory, it is calculated that 64,000,000 of stars will be represented. In the nebulae of the Lyre, M. Baillaud took a photograph 4¼ inches, which revealed to the naked eye 4,800 stars.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1891. NUMBER 3.

FOR

BARGAINS

IN

FARM OR TOWN

PROPERTY

CALL ON

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real-Estate-Agents

AUBURN, IND.

☞ Also, Several Desirable Houses to Rent.

POSTS

NOTED FOR

LOW

PRICES!

ON STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

BANK BLOCK, AUBURN.

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

Monday, W. H. Leas was over to Auburn.

Mrs. Keep at this writing is some better.

Rev. Loudy has closed his meetings at Corunna.

Rev. Mygrantz continues to hold meetings nightly at the Evangelical church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willis are home from an extended visit with relatives in Ohio.

David A. Shoemaker died last week Wednesday. He was one of the first settlers in Waterloo.

J. R. Duncan is visiting a number of towns near by in the interests of his carriage manufacture.

Dr. Yeagy is still buying horses to supply the loss caused by the burning of the Ft. Wayne car barns.

Miss Julia Lœwenstein was home from her school to spend the holiday season. She returned last Tuesday.

Misses Lou and Jennie Patterson went this week to visit their brothers at Galesburg, Ill. Their father accompanied them.

The Methodist ladies of the Missionary Society gave an interesting entertainment Sunday evening at the M. E. church.

A few days ago Rev. L. A. Rhetts was kicked by a horse, but not seriously. He still continues the meetings at Barker's Chapel.

The installation of officers of the G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V. was held last Wednesday evening. A banquet was partaken of afterwards.

Mrs. A. B. Richards and Mrs. H. M. Lamport drove up here from Auburn, Tuesday. Rather a cold ride, but they found many warm friends here.

Mr. Axe, who has been ill for some time, died last Thursday. Drs. Chamberlain, Broughton, Darby, Carpenter and Watson, of Auburn, held an autopsy the same afternoon.

Rob. Patterson has quit the road, and is again at his old post with Boyer & Leas, as clerk in their store. Everybody knows Rob, and he will continue to add to the popularity of his employers.

The United Brethren (the liberal wing) are holding a series of meetings at their church in this place. One who attended there spoke of the sermon preached by Rev. Klotz Sunday morning as being very fine.

Mrs. Emma Keep, president of the L. M. C., was unable to be with the class last week Tuesday, on account of illness. Since that time, Prof. Keep has been compelled to be absent from the schools, on account of Mrs. Keep's condition.

Last Wednesday morning, a man was found lying insensible by the railroad track west of town a mile or so. He was badly hurt and was taken to Locke's hotel, where Dr. Chamberlain was sent for and he and his son Harry dressed the man's wounds. From papers found on his person, it appears he was a cattle dealer of Miles City, Montana, named C. D. Graham. His partner was telegraphed for and reached here Saturday night. As far as can be guessed, he fell off the fast train going west and was thrown against the hard ground or a stone. At latest reports, he is still improving, but not yet able to give a very clear account of how it all happened.

BUTLER.

Orla Campbell is now on the Chicago Wabash run and is making more than full time.

Joseph Champion, wife and children, of Kendallville, were visiting with their Butler friends last week.

David Jennings, living near Orland was on our streets last week. He came here partly to attend the James Gaff sale.

Mrs. Jacob Funk, an old resident of our place died last week. Mrs. Funk has been sick for a long time and her death was not unexpected.

Jay Norford's little son was buried last week. The sickness was something akin to diphtheria. Another child is sick with the same complaint in his family.

Leroy Gregg, has moved to Auburn, where he will take charge of Weamer's wholesale cigar house. We wish him and his excellent family abundant success in their new home.

A large force of men were engaged last week to put up ice from the Wabash reservoir. They had the misfortune to drown a valuable horse. The horse broke through the ice, and in its struggles floated under the ice and perished. The parties were strangers here and we did not learn the name of the owner.

A family living near Butler recently took a tramp into their house, gave him food, shelter, work and clothing. The charitable act has resulted very disastrously. The wife, a young and very attractive woman, has her head completely turned by the good appearance of the transformed tramp, and bids fair to desert home and friends and follow the fortunes of the drunken tramp. Truly the ways of some women are past finding out.

(From Another Correspondent.)

Frank Stewart is the new express agent.

Mrs. Eugene Pinchin visited friends in Waterloo, last week.

The missionary society of the U. B. church met with Mrs. Jacob Rowe last Thursday.

Dr. Hull, of Newville, was in town last Saturday, looking hale and hearty for one his age.

The funeral of Mrs Funk was held at the Church of God last Sabbath at ten o'clock, Rev. Dempsey officiating.

John Stafford, of Newville, was in town one day last week. He looks quite lonesome since his best girl done gone and got married.

During service at the M. E. church, a young man used his singing book a little too quick about the head of Moses Capp for which he had to pay the small sum of $9.80.

SUMMIT.

John Clark, of Ft. Wayne, was on our streets last Monday.

A. G. Parnell, of Hudson, was in our town on business last Monday.

Mr. Knepp and family, of Waterloo, moved to our town last Thursday.

Mrs. Ensley, of Auburn, called on friends in this place last Monday.

H. D. Snowberger and wife were the guests of M. P. Barker and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Roots, of Cass Co., Mich., visited the family of George Craig over Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Deetz, of South Milford, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Sweigart at this writing.

Rev. L. A. Rhetts is still holding meeting at Barker's Chapel. He is having good success.

Mrs. Wm. Bennet and Mrs. Mary Sawval were the guests of Geo. Craig and wife last Saturday.

Edward Chapman fell one day last well and got his elbow put out of place. He is getting along nicely.

Wm. Kynette and daughter, of Battle Creek, Michigan, was here visiting his father, Jacob Mortorff over Sunday.

The little baby of Orlando Elliot's, died last Saturday evening. The funeral was preached at Barker's church Monday forenoon.

Mrs. Emeline Smith and Miss Mortorff returned home from their visit in Lagrange last Saturday. The latter likes it very much and thinks she will make it her home some day.

SPENCERVILLE.

Wm. Shutt is seriously ill.

The Rev. J. J. Fred and family returned home Friday.

Seperintendant Merica visisted the school last Friday.

The portly frame of Sherm Holister, was on our streets Friday.

Israel Horn moved on his farm, just northwest of town Thursday.

Protracted meeting commences on this Thursday evening, in the M. E. church.

The concert Friday evening was well attended and a good program presented.

John Fairfield will occupy in a few days the Wise property on North Water street.

The woman's missionary society was entertained by Mrs. O. W. Rummell Saturday afternoon.

The funeral sermon of Mrs. Elizabeth Means, another pioneer settler of this county, was preached in the M. E. church Tuesday morning.

It was somewhat amusing a few evenings since, to see the interest manifested by some of our old married men, in a supposed woman, accompanying a band of serenaders. After running them about the streets to their hearts content, the boys gratified their curiosity by showing one of their number with blackened face and arrayed in female attire.

DEKALB.

School at this place is running smooth.

Mother Hall seems to be some better at present.

One week passed without a dance at this villiage.

The oyster supper at G. W. Wilcox was very well attended.

George Wygandt buried his little child Sunday at Cedar Chapel.

Crist. Grim had a wreck one might last week with his buggy, no one hurt.

Good roads for hauling, which is being realized by farmers hauling wood to Garrett, for which they find a ready sale.

E. A. Knott made his appearance Saturday evening. He has been working on the Erie & Wheeling R. R., near Norwalk, Ohio.

A list of advertised letters in DeKalb postoffice, Jan. 1, 1891: Mrs. Jane M. Collisis, Frank Horly, Mrs. Mary Loomis, Mr. Jesse Mounts, A. D. Moore, Rev. Eli. Widger, James F. Hamilton. Those calling for the same say advertised.

Jared F. Housel, P. M.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

For January, 1891, has an elegant cover in colors and gold, while its contents, literary as well as artistic, are notably rich and varied. "The Census," in its most significant and picturesque phases, is analyzed, with the accompaniment of many pictures, by Frederick S. Daniel. "The Amatuer Photographer and his Camera," by S. M. Gibson, is an illustrated paper full of information and entertainment. D. E. Hervey contributes an article on "American Music and Composers," with which are given portraits of twenty eminent living composers," belonging to our time and country. Other illustrated articles are: "Edinburgh Revisited," by N. Macdonald; "The Avocado, or Alligator Pear," by Anna M. Paris; "Snakes and Snake-charmers in Ceylon," by F. Fitz Roy Dixon; Shark's-teeth Weapons," by J. Carter Beard; "The Feast of Jul-Afton," by Wilf. P. Pond; and "Theatrical Masks and Make-up," by Alice Beard. There are short stories by W. O. Stoddard, Lucy H. Hooper, David Ker, John Macmullen, and others; and poems by Joaquin Miller, Madison Cawein and and Cosmo Monkhouse.

Notice.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

There will be elected, at the next quarterly conference of the church of the United Brethren in Christ, of Newville Circuit of the North Ohio Conference to be held in Milford township, Defiance county, Ohio, Jan. 17 and 18; one board of trustees for the parsonage property of said church, located at Newville, in Newville township, DeKalb county, Indiana; also one board of trustees for church property, located at same place. One board of trustees for the church property, located about 4 miles east of Auburn, on the State road, and known as Union Chapel, in Union township; also one board of trustees for the church property, at Mooresville, in Wilmington township. All of said property being situated in DeKalb county, State of Indiana.

J. W. STOY, Pastor in charge of said circuit.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Senator Joseph M. Carey of the new State of Wyoming, who has just taken his seat in the Upper House, is physically the largest man in the senate.

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any throat, lung or chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at Robbins & McCord's 5

The Imperial Tribune of Leipzig has decided that henceforth a refusal to rise and participate in a toast to the health of the Kaiser shall constitute high treason.

Electric Bitters.

This remedy is becoming so well known and so popular as to need no special mention. All who have used Electric Bitters sing the same song of praise.—A purer medicine does not exist and it is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. Electric Bitters will cure all diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, will remove Pimples, Boils, Salt Rheum and other affections caused by impure blood.—Will drive Malaria from the system and prevent as well as cure all Malarial fevers.—For cure of Headache, Constipation and Indigestion try Electric Bitters—Entire satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.—Price 50cts. and $1.00 per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 5

Speaker Reed's hearing has greatly improved since the November election. He can now hear a pin drop on the democratic side. His sight has also improved.

Startling Facts.

The American people are rapidly becoming a race of nervous wrecks, and the following suggests the best remedy: Alphonso Hempfling, of Butler, Pa., swears that when his son was speechless from St. Vitus dance Dr. Miles' great Restorative Nervine cured him. Mrs. J. R. Miller, of Valparaiso, and J. D. Taylor, of Logansport, Ind., each gained 20 pounds from taking it. Mrs. H. A. Gardner, of Vistula, Ind., was cured of 40 to 50 convulsions a day, and much headache, dizziness, backache and nervous prostration by one bottle. Trial bottles, and fine book of marvelous cures, free at F. E. Davenport's who recommends and guarantees this unequaled remedy. 6

Perhaps the oldest living Seminole, residing in Indian Territory, who has just entered his one hundred and ninth year.

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation, and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. HELLUMS, Water Valley, Miss. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

Miss Davenport, the Irish governess of Spain's juvenile King, gets $3,500 a year salary, and will soon be entitled to a life pension of $2,500 a year.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

A remarkable surgical operation was recently performed in the Mount Sinai Hospital, in New York, according to the Herald. The entire left arm, shoulder blade and collar bone, with the muscles attached, of a man fifty-four years old, were removed.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

John Beasley, of Elkhart County, Georgia, is seventy-five years of age. He does his own plowing, has been keeping house fifty five years and never bought but eight bushels of corn in his life.

Sudden Deaths.

Heart disease is by far the most frequent cause of sudden death, which in three out of four cases is unsuspected. The symptoms are not generally understood. These are: a habit of lying on the right side, short breath, pain or distress in side, back or shoulder, irregular pulse, asthma, weak and hungry spells, wind in stomach, swelling of ankles or dropsy, oppression, dry cough and smothering. Dr. Miles' illustrated book on heart disease, free at F. E. Davenport's who sells and guarantees Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, and his Restorative Nervine, which cures nervousness, headache, sleeplessness, effects of drinking, etc. It contains no opiates. 6

Ladies were not always excluded from parliament. In reign of Henry III. and Edward I. four abbesses were summoned to parliament, and in the reign of Edward III. a great many countesses were represented in parliament by their proxies.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it, but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggist.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 9, 1891.

Mr. Harrison now fully realizes the ancient adage "There's many a slip," etc. It would be hard to find a more disgruntled man. Just as he thought the pins were all set up for the passage of the Force bill, by which he expects to obtain another term in the White House, presto, change, and his hobby goes glimmering and is replaced by a financial measures which will probably, I might safely say certainly include what Mr. Harrison is as strongly opposed to as he can be to anything—the free and unlimited coinage of silver. To say that the radical republican Senators were dazed by the side tracking of the Force bill but mildly expresses the situation; they were completely demoralized, and are still in that condition, in spite of constant consultations with Mr. Harrison and Speaker Reed.

The charge the result was brought about by a bargain between the democrats and the silver republicans was too silly to need the denials which prominent gentlemen on both sides have given to it. The democrats entered the fight against the Force bill determined to take advantage of any opportunity that might offer to defer it, and they were fortunate enough not only to succeed in having the most obnoxious measure ever before Congress laid aside, it is to be hoped permanently, but in getting up a bill, which, when amended, will afford the country a much needed financial relief.

It is hoped that the financial bill may be disposed of in the Senate in a few days, and it will be, unless the republicans can succeed in whipping enough of their Senators into agreeing to take up the Force bill again, or the anti-silver republicans, who are now hatching up some mischief, unless all signs fail, shall resort to fillibustering to prevent a vote. If it passes the Senate Speaker Reed and Mr. Harrison will have a hard time to stop it in the House, and it is extremely doubtful whether Mr. Harrison, in view of his candidacy for a renomination, will dare to veto it, as he would otherwise like to do. Democrats are feeling very jubilant over their victory, as they have a right to do; it was fairly earned by vigilance and constant attendance upon the sessions of the Senate, no matter what the inconvenience might be to individual Senators.

How the mighty have fallen! Ex Senator Mahone, who once posed as the Czar of the United States Senate, is now dividing his time between poker playing and lobbying. He has a piece of "made" ground, which he bought for a song, that he wants to sell to the Government at an exhorbitant price as a site for the new Government Printing office, and he is lobbying to carry out his design. He also has another scheme that has "millions in it," provided the Force bill ever becomes a law, in the shape of a patent ballot box, ostensibly owned by his son, which he calculates to sell to the government, to be used at every voting precinct in the United States. He will have to work fast, as after the fourth of next March the name of Mahone will be all that will be needed to kill any measure that gets before the democratic House.

The administration seems to be making as big a mess of Indian matters as it has of everything else it has touched. A resolution offered by Representative McAdoo, has been adopted by the House, providing for an investigation of the killing of Sitting Bull, and it is believed that the investigation will expose a shameful state of affairs.

The House is still hammering away on the shipping bill, and its friends claim that its passage is assured, but this is not conceded by its opponents, who are numerous and energetic.

At last the correspondence in the Behring Sea matter, which was asked for months ago at the last session, has been laid before Congress. I cannot give a better idea of what is thought of it than by quoting Representative McCreary, who was chairman of House committee on Foreign affairs in the last House. He says: "The time has arrived for Mr. Blaine to apply his 'vigorous policy.' The matter must be settled between now and spring. He must adopt a more vigorous policy or back down altogether."

The democratic members of the Senate census committee have made a minority report on the Apportionment bill, favoring an amendment giving Arkansas, Minnesota and New York one member each additional, because of the large fraction each of those states has after dividing the population by the number required per representative. This, if adopted, would make the total membership of the House 359.

The two new senators from Idaho, who cast their maiden votes to lay aside the Force bill, have according to custom drawn lots to decide upon their respective terms. Mr. Shoup got the long term which expires March 4, 1895, and Mr. McConnell the short term, which ends with the present congress.

It never looked more like an extra session of the Fifty-second congress than it does now.

To the Pacific Coast.

Go to California via the through lines of the Burlington Route, from Chicago or St. Louis to Denver, and thence over the new broad gauge, through car lines of the Denver and Rio Grande or Colorado Midland Railways, via Leadville, Glenwood Springs and Salt Lake through interesting cities and unsurpassed scenery. Dining cars all the way. 51-3

GOV. HOVEY'S MESSAGE

TRANSMITTED TO THE INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

The Election Law—Fees and Salaries—Township Trustees—Common Schools—Apportionment—Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument—The World's Columbian Exposition.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

As directed by the Constitution, it is my duty to give you such information as I may deem necessary in regard to the condition of the State, and to recommend such measures of legislation as I may judge expedient.

THE ELECTION LAW.

The act concerning elections, passed at the last session, in my opinion, contains some valuable provisions, and some that are very objectionable. In approving that law I used the following language:

"Approved because it may tend to purify our elections, but I am afraid it will be found in practice, intricate, obscure and expensive. Without the enactment of a registration law, as demanded by our Constitution, our elections will remain open to corruption and fraud."

I did not, at that time, consider the question as to the constitutionality of any of its provisions.

It has been seriously doubted by the Governors of New York and New Jersey whether confining the elector to the "public ballot," and to nominations made by political parties, before the election, is constitutional. The right to vote for any man for any office in this State, whether the person voted for was nominated or not, has never been controverted from the organization of the State in 1816 until the passage of the present election law, which makes the right to vote subservient to a prior selection or election by conventions that nominate all the candidates. The conventions must first elect or nominate the candidate, and then the elector may be permitted to vote, if he votes at all, for such candidates as have been nominated and no one else. This robs the elector of his constitutional right, and is neither Democratic nor Republican in principal, and might lead to very grave consequences. Whether the objection to the "public ballot" is well taken or not, it will not be difficult to obviate it by amending the law and making the ballot free, as it always has been.

If possible, our elections should be made less expensive. The cost of the last is enormous, not falling short of $300,000.

The assessment of candidates for office by political committees, which has prevailed in many States for the last twenty years, is infamous, and it is generally believed that a large portion of the money contributed is not used for legitimate purposes. Where such practices are resorted to, few, except the wealthy, have any chance of nominations to office, as those who are unwilling or unable to pay, would seldom be selected by those who attend conventions. You can not lay your hand too heavily on such offenders, and I recommend that such practices be made criminal. The crime of bribery, and of ballot corruption, became so great in the State of New York, that on the 4th of April, 1890, the General Assembly of that State passed a law making bribery an infamous crime, and also provided that "every candidate who is voted for at any public election held within this State, shall, within ten days after such election, file an itemized statement, showing in detail, all the money contributed or expended by him, directly or indirectly, by himself or through any other person, in aid of his election. Such statement shall give the names of the various persons who received such moneys, the specific nature of each item, and the purpose for which it was expended or contributed."

Such statement must be sworn to and the affidavit must show "that the statement thus made is in all respects true, and that the same is a full and detailed statement of all moneys so contributed or expended by him, directly or indirectly, by himself or through any other person, in aid of his election." A failure to file such statement subjects the offender to punishment of fine, imprisonment, disfranchisement for five years, and a forfeiture of office.

In our last election a great many hundreds of tickets were thrown out, and not counted, on account of imperfect stamping by the electors. In Connecticut, the tickets are not stamped, but enclosed in a stamped envelope, with the election clerk's initials marked upon them. It is submitted, whether this would not be an improvement on our system, and whether the cost of our elections under the present law can not be greatly decreased.

FEES AND SALARIES.

There is a great dissatisfaction by all parties and all classes in the State in regard to our laws relating to fees and salaries. Some of our county officers are paid too much, and some of our superior officers are paid too little. It looks strange to see some of our clerks, sheriffs, auditors, and prosecuting attorneys, receiving from five to twenty thousand dollars a year, and the judges of our circuit courts, two thousand five hundred, and the judges of the Supreme Court only four thousand per annum. If all salaries now paid to the several State officers could be added to the legal fees collected by the State and county officers, the amount would make a fund that would liberally pay every officer in the State, and in my opinion, leave at least $100,000 to be paid into the Treasury of the State. With salaries attached to all our offices, and the fees paid into the treasury, there would be no inducement to collect "constructive fees," or more plainly speaking, there would be no inducement to carry out the wholesale extortion now practiced in some counties in the State. I earnestly recommend that all fee bills of officers, and all accounts against decedent's estates shall be required to be itemized and sworn to before they are allowed by the courts.

This reform is needed now. To allow the present office-holders to exact the exorbitant fees until their successors are elected is but to continue this unjust burden upon the people. The law is plain. All officers take their offices with their burdens, subject to be changed by the Legislature, except those whose salaries cannot be changed during their terms, as provided in our Constitution. Any other view of the fee and salary law is a deception and a sham. It will never be changed if we depend upon a sliding scale to meet the future, two and four years hence.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES.

The almost unlimited power of Township Trustees, under section 6006, R. S. 1881, in making contracts should be curtailed.

This section gives the Trustees 'the right to make contracts to the amount of all cash on hand, and to anticipate all taxes assessed against his township, for the year in which the debt is contracted. I recommend that said section be amended, so that all contracts, whose aggregate amount shall be in excess of one hundred dollars, shall not be made by a Trustee until he procures an order from the Board of Commissioners of the county in which such township is situated, authorizing him to make such contract.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

The cost of common school books has been greatly reduced, in consequence of the contract made by the State, under the act of March 2, 1889.

Our common schools are now open to all classes, and only need that the text-books used should be made free to all pupils, as recommended in my message to the last General Assembly.

I recommend that an act be passed, to place in the hands of every pupil, rich or poor, free of all costs, the text-books necessary for use in our common schools.

It is a mockery to say that our schools are free, as long as our pupils are compelled to pay for any part of a common school education.

APPORTIONMENT.

In compliance with the acts of Congress, Indiana will be entitled to elect thirteen members to the House of Representatives of the United States, and districts will have to be established, in which such representatives are to be elected. The State should also be districted, and the counties designated, in which elections will be holden, to elect State Senators and representatives.

Our Government was established upon the fundamental principle that a majority should rule, and I trust such an apportionment may be made, that this great constitutional right may be fully and fairly sustained.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

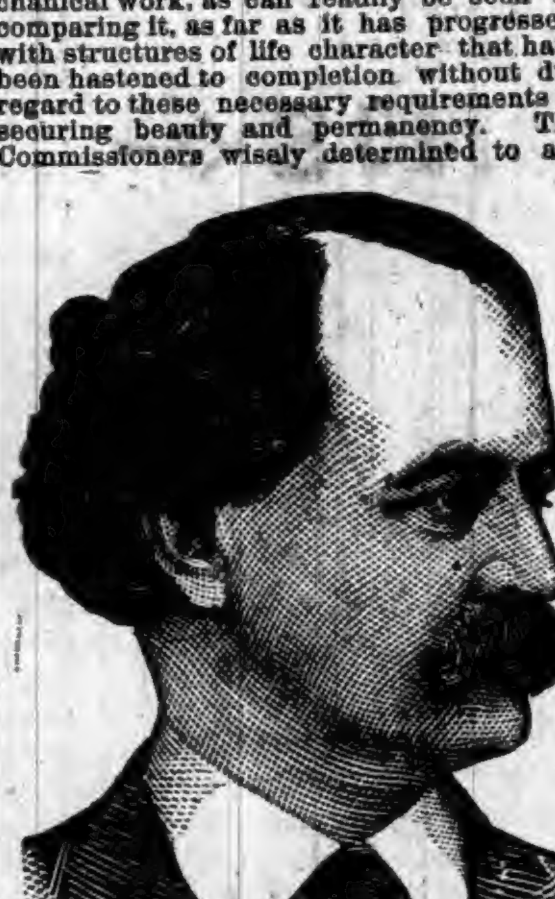
There is a great necessity for the enactment of the law providing for the establishment of a board of railroad commissioners for the State, who may have the general supervision of all railroads operated in the State, with power to inquire into all questions of neglect or violation of the law by said roads, with reference to business and public safety. Such commissioners should also be authorized to make all necessary investigations, to ascertain the amount of business done by said roads, and their value for taxation. Many of the States of the Union have enacted laws on this subject, with most beneficial results, and I commend the same to your careful consideration.

ROADS AND HIGHWAYS.

There is nothing more imperatively needed in this State than good, passable roads and highways. For months, in many counties, our roads are absolutely impassable with loaded teams. This not only affects the farmer, but every town and city in this State. It depreciates the value of lands, and causes the farmer, his hands and his teams to remain idle for many weeks in the year, and oftentimes deprives him of the best markets for his produce. Our legislators have been fully aware of the importance of this subject, and have made many efforts to remedy the evil, but so far with no great success. The labor which may be called out annually, and the amount of money paid for road taxes by the several counties, would keep our highways in a far better condition, if that labor and tax were intelligently used and expended. That the labor is not called out as it should be, and that our roads are worked by men who do not understand such labor, cannot be denied.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT.

Owing to reasons which are fully explained by the contractor for the superstructure of the State Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, in the annual report of the Board of Commissioners, he has been unable to complete his work upon that structure the past year, and announces that it will probably require until the first day of next August to do so. Nothing is lost, however, from this cause, as the decorations for this great work of art require time for their conception and treatment, if they are expected to possess that merit which will give fame to Indiana as possessing the finest monument in America. It also insures greater perfection in the materials and mechanical work, as can readily be seen by comparing it, as far as it has progressed, with structures of life character that have been hastened to completion without due regard to these necessary requirements in securing beauty and permanency. The Commissioners wisely determined to adhere to the dimensions of the original design, thus insuring a monument of such impressive grandeur that it will become a great attraction, and aid in bringing the most enlightened and cultured people of other lands to our State, either as tourists or for residence; and, from the first, they have diligently sought for the best materials and workmanship rather than attempting to complete the structure with the fund originally placed in their hands, by the employment of that which is inferior, because of its seeming cheapness. In doing this they have relied upon the intelligence, patriotism and liberality of the people to sustain them in making the monument really great, and they ought not to be disappointed. The artistic and inventive world has had its attention drawn to this work in an unusual degree, and if it is completed according to the plans of the Commissioners and with the artistic excellence which they design, it will mark a new era in the development of our State, and be a source of pride to every citizen. The present appropriation will complete the shaft and the terrace at the base, and in that condition it will surpass all other monuments in this country; but the fountains and cascades, the great groups of "War" and "Peace," and other statuary below ought to be added now, and I trust there will be no hesitancy in furnishing the necessary money. It would be an unwise economy to withhold it. A further sum is also required for a new pedestal on which to fittingly place the statue of the late Governor O. P. Morton, and I urge that this be appropriated without delay.



THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION.

The World's Columbian Exposition, or World's Fair, the buildings for which will be dedicated at Chicago, Illinois, in October, 1892, will probably excel any exhibition of similar character to be found in the pages of history.

Great preparations are being made by the several States of the Union and foreign nations, to exhibit their products and live stock to the best advantage.

To make a respectable representation of the wealth and resources of our State will require an outlay of a considerable amount of money. The legislatures of several States are proposing to appropriate from one hundred thousand dollars to one half million dollars for the erection of buildings and collection of exhibits. Indiana, in her great wealth in mines, minerals, manufactories, agriculture and live stock, should not lag behind her sister States in presenting her wonderful resources.

I shall recommend no particular amount that you should appropriate, but leave that to your better judgments, knowing that your great interest in the honor, pride and advancement of our State will guide you to the proper conclusion.

THE GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD ASSOCIATION.

All the loyal States, whose troops were engaged in the battle of Gettysburg, have erected monuments to mark the position of their troops in the battle, and have, with the exception of Indiana, purchased the grounds upon which they are erected. The monuments for the soldiers of Indiana are placed upon grounds purchased by other States. The Gettysburg Battlefield Association, through Col. John M. Vandersliee, requests an appropriation of $4,000 or $5,000 to pay for the ground upon which said monuments are erected, where many of our heroic soldiers fought and fell in defense of the Union. Money would not be spent in vain if every field of battle, where our armies were victorious, could be set apart with monuments as object lessons of loyalty for future generations.

STATE PRISON NORTH.

The Directors' report of the Northern Prison, for the year ending October 31, 1890, shows a daily average of seven hundred and fifty-one prisoners, and the total receipts and earnings for the year, $118,315.12.

The Warden's report shows there was a balance of cash in his hands November, 1889, of $22,667.52; and on the 31st of October, 1890, of $17,916.53.

By what authority could the Warden hold cash balances in his hands which should have been promptly paid at the end of each quarter to the Treasurer of State?

The reports of the Directors and Warden clearly show that they have been wholly disregarding the law in the management of the financial affairs of the prison. On the 13th of July, 1889, I called the attention of the Warden by letter and requested that his accounts should comply with the law. I have been more particular on this point from the fact that the State has been in litigation with a former Warden of the Southern Prison on a large alleged defalcation, which took place in 1887. He kept his accounts in the same way that the accounts have been kept by the Northern Prison.

Under Section 6141, not one dollar of the earnings of the prison should be spent by the Warden. Every cent collected by him on the labor of the prison should be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of State. The expenses of the prison should be paid out of the moneys appropriated by the Legislature, and from no other source. The Warden has no legal right to look to, or use any other fund, and should confine himself within that limit.

In the report of the Board of State Charities, the Committee on Prisons and Reformatory Institutions, page 39, say:

"The most serious criticism on the management of the Northern Prison arises out of what is known as the slop contract. For many years past, long before the present Warden was appointed, it has been the custom to increase the Warden's compensation (which was justly considered to be insufficient) by giving to him, or selling to him at a nominal price, the slop or waste food. What the value of this may be is unknown; probably the popular estimate, which places it at several thousand dollars annually, is much exaggerated. The Warden, who has been asked by this Board to estimate its value, declares himself unable to do so. But whether the value be much little, the plan of giving any officer a perquisite is a very injudicious one, and this particular perquisite is especially so." * * * "The prisoners are well aware of the slop contract. They greatly over-estimate its value, and that their diet is chosen by the Warden so as to increase his profits, by giving them food which will be largely wasted. That is to say, they believe they are being defrauded in that which comes closer to them than anything else for the benefit of the Warden. This effect on the minds of the prisoners is the chief evil of the slop contract, an evil compared with which the trifling money loss to the State is not to be compared. This Board would recommend, as has been said in a previous part of this report, that the salaries of the principal officers of our prisons be increased, and that perquisites of any kind and every kind be absolutely forbidden."

It will be seen that besides the impolicy of making such a contract with the Warden, it is emphatically forbidden by our statutes which, by Sec. 6141, R. S. 1881, provide that "No contract shall be made wherein any of the Directors or officers of the Institution are interested."

I take pleasure in saying that the Board of State Charities were greatly plersed with the management of the prison and its inmates, and I have no doubt, in that regard, the officers are deserving of the highest commendation for the manner in which it is conducted.

This, however, should not give them a license to overlook and disregard the law, and take upon themseves the full management of the institution as though it really belonged to them. In view of the facts, and the history of State prisons in this State, I recommend that an act be passed making it a misdemeanor, with penalties, for the officers of any of our State institutions to make contracts with each other relating to the property or business of such institutions, and also making it a misdeanor for any officer who has the financial control or management of any institution to fail in making out his accounts according to law. Some provisions of this kind are imperatively demanded, as there are no penalties prescribed by the statue, and as no legal proceedings could reach such evils without great delay and expense to the State.

PRISON SOUTH.

I wrote to the Warden of the State Prison South, at the same time I wrote to the Warden of the State Prison North. Capt. Patten, the Warden of the Prison South, since that time, has fully complied with the law in regard to the earnings of that prison, paid the same to the Treasurer of State, and has drawn all payments by warrants of the Auditor from the funds appropriated by law for that institution. There is no financial safety in transacting the business of the prisons in any other manner. About one thousand two hundred dollars per annum have been saved by the present Warden from the slops of the Prison South.

The salaries of the Wardens are not commensurate with their duties, responsibilities and labors, and they should receive at least $2,500 per annum.

SUPREME COURT.

My views have not changed in regard to the Judiciary since my message in 1889. I then said:

"Our Constitution provides that 'justice shall be administered freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; speedily and without delay.' Under existing laws, this high-sounding provision is an empty boast. Many cases are now pending in the Supreme Court which were filed more than five years ago, and it is to be feared that some have been appealed to that court for the sole purpose of delay. This delay arises from no fault of the Judges of the Court, but from their inability to fully investigate the numerous cases which are brought before them. I do not believe that the multiplication of Judges in the Supreme Court would tend to the furtherance of justice. No case should be passed upon without the full consideration of every judge upon the bench. This would be impossible if the number of Judges should be greatly increased." While the increase of the members would increase the number of written opinions by the Court, the consultation by many justices would delay final judgments, and probably result in fewer decisions. Besides, dissenting opinions, which always tend to weaken the authority of a decided case, would be far more frequent. My opinion still is, that the establishment of intermediate Appellate courts, with exclusive jurisdiction, within certain limits, with five justices, one for each of the five supreme judicial districts, would so lessen the docket of the Supreme Court, that it could keep up with all the cases that might be appealed. These justices might itinerate, and meet at stated periods, in the respective districts.

I do not believe that twenty judges, in one court, could perform the same labor, and leave satisfactory results.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

Our Benevolent, Reformatory, and Charitable institutions, and Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home will expect the usual appropriations for their support and maintenance.

Some of them are also requesting additional specific appropriations for various causes and desired improvements, and are asking that a sufficient provision be made to cover their respective deficits of the past year. The deficits seem to me to be just, and I recommend that appropriations be made to pay them as soon as practicable. The reports of the several institutions will be laid before you, and will more fully enable you to consider the propriety of granting their requests.

The unfortunate affair that resulted in the death of Henry Blount, in the Insane Asylum at Richmond last October, will demand at your hands a careful investigation of the management of that institution, and such action as may be deemed just and right under the facts that may be developed.

The habit of Governors visiting the various institutions of the State has always been a mere formality. It is not possible in a short visit of a few hours, which can only be spared by the Governor, that he can investigate and understand the workings of any large institution. The act establishing a board of State charities, enables that board and secretary to obtain much useful information, which is published in their reports. When more specific information is required, it might be advisable to send non-partisan committees to make thorough investigation.

In my opinion it would be far better for the State, and to the benefit of each institution, if all the boards of officers who have the control of the same were non-partisan. In the appointments made by me I have rigidly adhered to that rule.

WHITE CAPS.

As the Governor has neither the means nor the authority to interfere in the arrest or trial of that class of criminals known as "White Caps," until the law is openly and forcibly defied, I recommend that the Board of County Commissioners be authorized to pay from the dog tax fund, in their respective counties, such sums of money as may be necessary to apprehend and bring to justice all such criminals as may be found within their respective counties.

The Governor then called attention to the finances of the State, and said:

Since 1877, a sufficient revenue has not been raised to pay the expenses of the State, and every year has added to our indebtedness, until to-day the State debt has reached the enormous sum of $8,540,615.12, with a still increasing indebtedness, unless some relief can be obtained by legislation. With the same system that has heretofore prevailed, we will still have to borrow money to sustain our institutions and expenses of the State, with an annual deficiet of about $500,000.00. Surely the day of borrowing for such purposes should cease. We have no right to mortgage our future revenue, to be paid by those who may come after us. There are various modes of raising revenue in the States, but the most simple mode has been generally adopted in this State, that of capitation, or poll tax, tax on value on lands, and personalty, whilst in other States, different systems have prevailed. In New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, and other States, scarcely any part of the tax for State purposes, is collected on lands. The farmer is left almost untouched, and the principal State revenue is collected from corporations and railroads. In these States corporations and railroads alone will nearly average the full amount of our entire State revenue.

For many years the State has only levied, for State purposes, one dollar and twenty cents on the appraised value of one thousand dollars, whilst the counties, cities, towns, and townships have reached in some instances as high as twenty dollars on the thousand, in addition to the State tax, making over three and one-half per cent. per annum on the value of the property assessed and taxed.

It would not be difficult to select objects of luxury and pleasure upon which a sufficient license as tax could be easily levied to pay all the expenses of our charitable and benevolent institutions, without resorting to the hard-earned savings of our land owners and laborers. In England and several of our States, a tax on "collateral inheritances," yields very large revenues. In Pennsylvania, in 1888, the income from that source amounted to $1,378,433.71, and the tax from notaries public amounted to $9,825.

In our present financial condition, you will be compelled to raise our taxes to at least twenty-five cents to one hundred dollars, or adopt the system of other States by raising a sufficient revenue from corporations and licenses; and as we are now paying $273,825 interest on our State debt annually, a sinking fund should be provided to liquidate our present great indebtedness.

In default of these recommendations it will be necessary to pass an act, authorizing the officers of State to borrow more money for future expenses.

Gentlemen, the problem is in your hands, and I trust you may find a way to solve it by just legislation.

ALVIN P. HOVEY,
Governor.

Dance of the Devil.

A fantastic orgy was witnessed at the town of Loongi, the capital of Bullom, west coast of Africa, by a party of officers from the West India regiment quartered at Sierra Leone. The people of Loongi are Mohamedans, but the dancing devil himself is a relic of not long departed paganism, and so also probably is the dance itself. It takes place in the court yard of the chief's premises, which is entered through a circular hut. The scene which presents itself to any one coming suddenly out of the darkness into the noise and glare is decidedly uncanny.

In the center of a circle which fills the court yard the devil, with an orthodox tail, a great crocodile's head, and long grass, looking like hair, depending from his body and legs, and swaying as he moves, leaps, beating time with his feet to the beat of the drums, while the old women, two deep, wail a chant and strike their palms together in slow, rhythmical measure, those in the front row bowing down between each beat.

The young men, in long robes and cape, wail with the women. Both are under vows, the dance being one of their rites. They look dazed to begin with, but gradually work themselves into a frenzy, and the black faces, the monotonous, wailing cry, the thrumming of the drums, the rattle of the clackers and the beat of the devil's feet as he springs up, crouches down and swings about, make a scene to shock the quiet moon and stars and gladden Gehenna.

North of Sierra Leone, Africa, is Mohamedan, South Pagan and the people have this devil. When Peace is declared between two native tribes the peace devil, who is fetish, comes leaping into the town, but if he stumbles or falls it is considered a bad omen and he is put to death for his pains. His dress is sacred, but his person is of no consequence.

The Library Thief.

Of all the contemptible characters mentioned in the annals of crime, about the meanest is the individual known to the police of almost every city in the world as the library thief. If you have ever visited any of the big circulating libraries of this city you have probably noticed that here and there through many books entire pages have been either torn or cut out, entirely defacing and spoiling the volume. If the work is an illustrated one it is the engravings in nine cases out of ten that are missing. That is the handiwork of the thief in question, and every big library in this city has suffered from the depredations of this class of criminals. I visited several of the big libraries in this city recently to learn something of the methods of the vandals, and what, if any, precautions are taken to secure the books against their depredations.

While waiting for the librarian of the Cooper Institute Library my attention was attracted by a file of old newspapers, and in turning over the pages I came across many instances of the handiwork of the thieves. When I called the attention of the official to the mutilation and stated my object in calling he said: "Yes, that is the work of the library thieves, and a meaner and more contemptible class I have never heard of. Every library in the city has suffered in the same way, and I am sorry to say that there is absolutely no way of putting an end to the vandalism except by watching every man and woman who take out books, and that, of course, is impossible. Sometimes we catch them, but very seldom, and as the work is done very quickly and generally when no one is watching them." The clerks at several other libraries corroborated the story above. They also said that a few of the thieves are ever caught.—New York Telegram.

Dutch Windmills.

You scarcely can stand anywhere in Holland without seeing from one to twenty windmills. Many of them are built in the form of a two story tower, the second story being smaller than the first, with a balcony at its base from which it tapers upward until the cap-like top is reached. High up, near the roof, the great axis juts from the wall; and to this are fastened two prodigious arms, formed somewhat like ladders, bearing great sheets of canvas, whose business is to catch the mischief maker and set him at work. These mills stand like huge giants guarding the country. Their bodies are generally of a dark red; and their heads, or roofs, are made to turn this way and that, according to the direction of the wind. Their round eye-window is always staring. Altogether they seem to be keeping a vigilant watch in every direction. Sometimes they stand clustered together; sometimes alone, like silent sentinels; sometimes in long rows like ranks of soldiers. You see them rising from the midst of factory buildings, by the cottages, on the polders (the polders are lakes pumped dry and turned into farms); on the wharves; by the rivers; along the canal; in the cities—everywhere! Holland wouldn't be Holland without its windmills, any more than it could be Holland without its Dykes and its Dutchmen.—St. Nicholas.

Silk Has Fallen From Favor.

Silk is rapidly declining in fashion, and for the past year there has been a great overproduction of goods, two causes which have had a depressing effect on the trade. There have been several failures recently. Paterson, N. J., is the Lyons of America, and thousands of people depend for their daily bread on its silk mills. It is calculated that there are over 150 establishments in the place devoted to the silk trade and its many branches.

For over a year the popularity of silk for dress goods has been steadily decreasing. Women have found that fine woolen cloth will last twice as long, costs half as much, and is just as pretty as silk, and consequently the demand for the article has declined.

"I've been doing some fine work," as the prisoner discharged from the house of correction said.

DOINGS OF CONGRESS.

MEASURES CONSIDERED AND ACTED UPON.

At the Nation's Capital—What Is Being Done by the Senate and House—Old Matters Disposed Of and New Ones Considered.

In the Senate, on the 6th, Senator Teller, of Colorado (Rep.), made a speech on the financial bill. Referring to the condition of American farmers, and showing it to be less prosperous than that of the farmers of France, Mr. Teller said that the farmers of America had made themselves heard last November—to his regret and the regret of Senators on his side of the chamber. They had been found voting, almost unanimously, with the Democratic party. Why? They were not Democrats to-day. They had not changed their politics. But they had been dissatisfied with the Republican management of financial affairs. And for one he did not wonder at it. He would give heed to what they said. He had tried last year to have the Senate listen to their voice. He knew that they wanted free coinage of silver, and that they were not afraid of the advent of one, two, or three hundred millions of silver any more than he was. Proceeding to discuss the section of the bill providing for the purchase of 12,000,000 ounces of silver, Mr. Teller said that he washed his hands of any responsibility for that. He had no interest or sympathy with the men who speculate in silver. It had been said in the public press and in another place (meaning the House of Representatives) that when the silver bill of last session passed a large number of Senators were holders of silver bullion. If that were so he had never heard of it. The House refused to take up the Butterworth anti-option bill, but the refusal was no indication of the strength or weakness of the measure. The majority refused to give it preference over the subsidy bill. Mr. Funston, of Kansas, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, says the bill has got to pass and will pass some time this session. He is certain that many Republicans voted against it who will support it when it comes before the House in the regular way.

The financial bill was taken up in the Senate on the 7th, and Mr. Daniel spoke in favor of the absolute free and unlimited coinage of silver. Mr. Plumb followed Mr. Daniel. He credited the silver act of last session with having had the effect of preventing a universal financial panic. It had facilitated the purchase of $100,000,000 of American securities that had been sent back from Europe, and thus the Bank of England and the other financial institutions of Europe had been able to tide over the difficulties of the Barings, arising out of South American financial trouble. Whatever might be said about the silver bill of last session, and about its shortcomings, its effect on the immediate situation had been of a most beneficial character. The House went into committee of the whole for the further consideration of the shipping bill. Mr. Dingley of Maine, reviewing the decadence of American shipping interests, said that in such a condition as the country now found itself, with only 12½ per cent. of the foreign carrying trade, with Great Britain intrenched on every ocean route, it was obvious that it was utterly out of the power of private individuals, without assistance in some direction, to dislodge the shipping of Great Britain. Within five years from the establishment of a subsidy system the steam tonnage of France was doubled. With the widest extent of coast known to any nation the United States could reap a benefit from subsidies far greater than any other nation. Italy adopted a subsidy policy in 1885, and in four years its steam marine had increased 46 per cent. The maximum expense of the bill the first year would be $2,000,000, of which all but about $300,000 or $400,000 would come from postage and tonnage dues.

Mr. McConnell introduced bills in the Senate, on the 8th inst., for the erection of public buildings at Lewiston and Boise City, Idaho. Referred. On motion of Mr. Edmonds a resolution was adopted calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury for information as to what books and documents are in possession of his department relating to the late so-called Confederate States and as to whether there is any legal objection to their being placed among the archives of the War Department. Mr. Platt gave notice that he would at the earliest possible moment call up the copyright bill for consideration. Mr. Allison gave notice that if the Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture (who was necessarily absent) did not at an early day ask for the consideration of the Conger lard bill he (Mr. Allison) would himself do so. In the House a bill was passed authorizing the issuance of certificates of service to telegraph operators who were with the Union army during the war. Then Mr. Farquhar, of New York, moved to go into committee of the whole on the shipping bill, and suggested that some arrangement should be arrived at as to the conclusion of general debate. Failing to secure any agreement Mr. Farquhar moved that general debate close at 5 o'clock. After wrangling over this point for two hours the House adjourned.

In the Senate on the 9th Mr. Plumb gave notice of an amendment to the finance bill limiting to $1,000 the compulsory requirement of deposit of United States bonds for every national bank. [This not to apply to the deposit of bonds to secure public moneys in the national banks.] The bill was, on motion of Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, laid aside informally and the House bill to provide for an additional Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona was taken from the calendar and passed, with an amendment. Conference reports on bills for public buildings at Youngstown, Ohio, and Fort Dodge, Iowa, were presented and agreed to. Mr. Dolph moved to take up another bill, but Mr. Edmunds insisted on the regular order, and remarked that it was due to those who wanted to discuss the finance bill that they should have the opportunity to do so. The finance bill was therefore taken up again, and Mr. Blackburn addressed the Senate in advocacy of Mr. Stewart's amendment for the free coinage of silver. Mr. Harvey of Oklahoma called up in the House the bill authorizing Oklahoma City to issue bonds to provide a right of way to the Choctaw Coal and Railroad Company through the city. The bill was passed. The House then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Allen of Michigan in the chair) on the private calendar.

The Vice President laid before the Senate on the 10th inst. the protest of twenty-eight members of the Idaho Legislature against allowing Mr. Dubois to take his seat, and it was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections; also resolutions of the Grand Army of the Republic recommending certain legislation in regard to civil employments for honorably discharged soldiers and tendering thanks for the liberal pension laws, etc.; referred to the Pension Committee. In the House after Mr. Butterworth of Ohio, from the Committee on Appropriations, had reported the legislative appropriation bill, and it had been placed on the calendar the House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Dingley of Maine in the chair, on the army appropriation bill. Mr. Cutcheon, of Michigan, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, explained that the bill was purely an appropriation measure and contained no general legislation whatever. The amount carried was $400,000 more than the appropriation for the current year.

For Personal and Home Adornment

Jeweled fringes are used to ornament sashes.

The collection of spoons is a recognized taste of the day.

Orchid jewelry is causing the light of the moonstone to wane.

Cut-glass tableware is becoming a prominent rival to silverware.

Nobody thinks of buying anything but a brass or an iron bedstead nowadays.

New saltcellars, whether of silver or crystal, assume the most original shapes.

Table silver to be fashionable must be modeled after the designs of the middle ages.

Ponjore screens are quite new and less expensive than those of silk embroidery.

Salad-bowls of Imari with plates to match are in vogue, particularly for luncheon parties.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
—AND—
Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhea,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887.
CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887.
CHAS. W. WRIGHT,
Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors.

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen.

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

A COMING BILLIONAIRE

WHO WILL BE THE FIRST MAN TO OWN $1,000,000,000?

Thomas G. Shearman Shows How Our Present System of Taxation Tends to Produce the Billionaire—It Robs the Poor and Makes the Rich still Richer—A Startling Exposure of the Tariff Robbery.

More than a year ago Thomas G. Shearman had an article in The Forum with the title, "Who Owns the United States?" which was very widely discussed at the time. He has now returned to the same subject in its relations to taxation, contributing a very striking paper to the January number of the same periodical on "The Coming Billionaire." The present article is concerned mainly with showing how our present system of indirect taxation tends to increase the wealth of rich men, while laying greater and disproportionate burdens upon the poor. Mr. Shearman's figures are not overdrawn, and his tendency to understate facts makes the results reached all the more startling.

In the article a year ago Mr. Shearman gave figures showing approximately how the wealth of the country is divided. In the present paper he recalls those figures. They are as follows:

Class.	Families.	Wealth.
Rich	182,000	$43,367,000,000
Middle	1,200,000	7,500,000,000
Working	11,620,000	11,215,000,000
Totals	13,002,000	$62,082,000,000

These estimates were made according to certain rules which cannot be explained within the limits of this article, but which certainly do not err on the side of exaggeration.

Using the same rules, Mr. Shearman proceeds here to show how the wealth produced in 1890 is distributed. This wealth he estimates at $13,000,000,000, and after allowing four per cent. for repairs and replacement he finds that the net incomes are distributed as follows:

Families.	Average income.	Total income.
180,000	$25,000	$4,500,000,000
1,200,000	1,250	1,500,000,000
11,620,000	560	6,500,000,000
13,000,000	$963	$12,500,000,000

In treating the above figures from the standpoint of taxation Mr. Shearman reaches results which are most amazing. Without any tax at all the 180,000 rich, he finds, can save on an average two-thirds of their incomes, while the rest of the people could scarcely save one-fifth of theirs. A system of taxation, therefore, like our tariff system, which is levied upon the expenses of the people, rather than upon what they own, bears far more heavily upon the poorer people, who must spend nearly all they make, than upon the rich, who need to spend only one-third of theirs. Estimating this tax burden upon expenses at 15 per cent., the poorer classes would pay $960,000,000 a year, while the rich would pay only $225,000,000.

But a part of the total thus paid by rich and poor goes, not to the Government, but to a small section of the richer class itself. This part Mr. Shearman estimates at one-third, which is certainly a very low estimate. In other words, about $400,000,000 is annually restored to the richest class. The results of this taxation may be thus displayed:

ANNUAL SAVINGS OF THE RICH.

Natural savings		$3,000,000,000
Deduct taxes, etc	$225,000,000
Add profits from tax system	400,000,000
		175,000,000
Total		$3,175,000,000

ANNUAL SAVINGS OF OTHER CLASSES.

Natural savings	$1,600,000,000
Deduct taxes, etc	960,000,000
Net	$640,000,000

In this way it will be seen that indirect taxation causes the rich to gain on other classes at the rate of more than $2,000,000,000 each year.

But if some fair system of direct taxation according to wealth were in use, a far different distribution of the burdens of taxation and of the accumulations of wealth would be reached. Mr. Shearman makes a rough estimate that a direct tax of one and one-fifth per cent. on all property at its full value would thus be required. Then the burden of taxation would be thus divided: 180,000 rich would pay $520,000,000, 12,820,000 others would pay $225,000,000. If a system of direct taxation were introduced it would result in a saving to the middle and working classes of about $750,000,000 a year forever.

To illustrate the force of these figures, Mr. Shearman takes an individual case. The owner of $10,000,000 need not now pay more than $15,000 a year in indirect taxes; and if he is a protected owner of mines or factories, this very indirect taxation often brings him in $100,000 a year. On the other hand, under direct taxation he would pay $120,000 a year in taxes, and he would get back nothing out of the pockets of other people. Mr. Shearman estimates that if the extra profits made out of indirect taxation even by a $10,000,000 capitalist were put at compound interest at 5 per cent., it would reach in thirty-five years an amount equal to his original capital.

As there is, however, already some direct local taxation, the estimates above given must be reduced by about one-eighth, the probable proportion of such taxation to the whole volume of taxes.

In review of these remarkable figures, Mr. Shearman asks whether the billionaire will come. His conclusion is that if the existing system of indirect taxation continues, the billionaire is a certainty. If things continue as at present, at least one billionaire can be produced in forty years by merely putting money at 4 per cent. compound interest, and in sixty years several can be produced.

But Mr. Shearman thinks that the billionaire will not come, for the very good reason that our protective tariff system is doomed. The passage of the McKinley bill has set forces to work which will surely undermine it. The repeal of the sugar tax, which was intended to save the protective system will inevitably work its ruin by teaching the people by one great object lesson, the effects of protection. With the enormous permanent expenses which the Republicans have saddled upon the country, and a deficit of $50,000,000 in the near future, no system of tariff taxation can be devised which will produce enough revenue without a tax upon sugar.

But, once sugar is cheapened by the abolition of the tariff tax on it, no party will ever venture to reimpose the tax. The party that would do it would be voted out of existence at the very next election.

The Republicans, therefore, have themselves made some form of indirect tax, perhaps the income tax, inevitable. The last election has doomed the wool tax, and the wool growers have threatened that the tax on woolen goods shall follow the tax on wool. Blaine's reciprocity, too, is going to take the wind out of the protection sails. Altogether the outlook for the protective tariff system is extremely gloomy, and as the reign of the extortioner is fast drawing to a close the billionaire will not come.

"Confounded by Market Reports."

The President took pains to defend the McKinley law in his message to Congress. He triumphantly claimed that "the misinformation as to the terms of the act which has been so widely disseminated at home and abroad will be corrected by experience, and the evil auguries as to its results confounded by the market reports, the savings banks, international trade balances, and the general prosperity of our people. Already we begin to hear from abroad and from our custom houses that the prohibitory effect upon importations imputed to the act is not justified."

Then he pointed with pride to the fact, in proof of this, that "the imports at the port of New York for the first three weeks of November were nearly 8 per cent. greater than for the same time in 1889 and 29 per cent. greater than in the same period of 1888." In other words, the President praised the McKinley law for failing to do the very thing it was intended to accomplish, that is, to restrict importations.

But while the President expresses his gratification that the "evil auguries" were being "confounded by the market reports," the Republican organs are searching diligently for evidence that those "auguries" will be justified. A late number of the New York Press, Robert P. Porter's paper, remarks in its "Tariff Pictures," which are printed in heavy black type at the head of its editorial columns, the British iron and steel exports to the United States in November, 1889, amounted to 47,211 tons; but that in November, 1890, "the McKinley bill went into effect in the meantime," and these figures fell to 40,362 tons.

TARIFF LETTERS TO FARMER BROWN.

NO. 13.

Does a Protective Tariff Restrict Exportation?

DEAR FARMER BROWN: In discussing in my last letter the question whether the tariff restricts foreign trade, I confined myself entirely to one side of this trade, that of importation. According to promise, I now take up the other side, that of exportation—Does the tariff hinder us from selling our products abroad?

Many protectionists profess to believe that we have no need for a foreign market, and contemptuously ask, with ex-Gov. Foraker of Ohio, "What have we to do with abroad?" Some seeker for protection said before McKinley's committee last year that we ought to eat all our beef at home, instead of selling our surplus beef in Europe. The American Economist, the organ of the Protective Tariff League, prints an article to show what we are losing by selling the greater part of our cotton in Europe instead of manufacturing it ourselves. This paper scouts the idea that we need a foreign market at all; it ridicules the idea that we can compete in the world's markets, pretends that those markets are comparatively worthless anyway, and yet faces about and tries to show that our tariff does not in any measure prevent us from selling our products abroad.

Contempt for the foreign market, however, is rapidly passing away, even among stanch protectionists, as is shown by the popularity of Blaine's tame reciprocity scheme. The great farming masses of the land are fully awake to the importance of a foreign market for "another bushel of wheat and another barrel of pork."

But to the main question—how does protection cut us off from the foreign market for our products? It does this in various ways.

In the first place, if a tariff wall was put up so high that no foreign goods at all could come into the country, all of our exports would have to be paid for in money. But it would be impossible for foreign countries to stand the drain upon their currency which this would cause. Our total sales in foreign countries for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1890, amounted to $789,000,000. If foreign nations should have to pay us this vast sum of money every year their money would soon be exhausted, and trade with us would cease. But what is still worse for us, if this enormous volume of money were added every year to our currency, our money would soon become so plentiful as to lose its present value; in other words, the price of everything we have to buy would go up enormously.

On this ground mainly the revenue reformers lay down their proposition, that we must buy from foreign nations if we wish to sell to them.

This proposition does not mean necessarily that our purchases from any one country must balance our sales to it; for it is a current custom in foreign trade that the merchants of one country exchange bills with those of a second country to wipe out debts with those of a third country. In this way our large purchases of coffee and rubber in Brazil are largely paid for by sending our farm products to England, the English merchants, in turn, settling with the Brazilians by shipping them manufactured goods of various kinds.

Again, if we could realize the protectionists' ideal of selling as much as possible to foreigners without buying anything from them, another serious difficulty would arise. If ships had to come empty across the ocean for our products, those products would have to pay double freights to get into European markets. On the contrary, when we buy largely in foreign nations many ships come to our shores laden with goods, and these ships are anxious to get cargoes to take back. This was well illustrated during the first week of last October, the last week of the old tariff law. An extraordinary number of ships were entered at the port of New York, and the exports of American products were enormous. So many ships were competing for return cargoes that the charge for freight from New York to European ports reached a very low figure, there being some cases, indeed, where grain was taken free as ballast.

Now it is clear that the cheaper ocean freights are the cheaper will our products be put down in foreign markets, the greater will be their sales, and the more successful will be their competition with the products of rival nations. But grain which has to pay two freights is necessarily sold at a higher price, and the consumers of grain will buy elsewhere if possible.

Considerations of this kind have already found expression in England, which takes by far the largest part of our exported products, particularly farm products. When the McKinley bill was passed the London Economist commented upon that unwise measure by saying: "Many of the staple commodities we now import from the United States we can buy elsewhere, and if the cost of production in the States is enhanced, as it must be under the new tariff, these other markets will become the cheapest for us to buy in."

Even before the McKinley bill was passed the English had begun to turn their attention to other sources of grain supply. The London correspondent of the New York Times, in a cable dispatch to that paper early in September last year, said of the McKinley bill:

"For one thing, it has already made it certain that Europe will take no interest in the Chicago exhibition, and will practically be unrepresented there. Even more important is the impulse it has given here to consolidate capital in an energetic effort to immediately push railways throughout the Indian and Russian wheat belts, and thus render the European market independent of American grain supplies."

In this way a natural retaliation will be the result which we shall reap from our McKinleyism. But our foreign trade is not to be restricted by natural forces alone. Direct retaliation will be tried by legislation in some countries. Mexico, indeed, has already imposed retaliatory duties upon some of our products. France is even now busied with a plan to increase its tariff duties. The men having this measure in charge referred to the example set by the United States as an excuse for the high duties they are trying to enact into law. Many of those duties bear heavily upon our farm products. In Spain there is also an agitation for a higher tariff, and again the McKinley law of the United States is offered as an excuse. While the McKinley bill was still under discussion Spain laid a duty upon our flour which practically excludes it from Cuba, where we had a growing trade.

But there is another important respect in which the tariff hinders exportation. The tax upon the raw materials of manufactures adds so greatly to the cost of the finished product as to exclude it from the foreign market. The tax on wool increases the cost of making cloth, and we can export no woolen cloth or clothing to other countries. A great exporting merchant of New York has pointed out that in those manufactured articles in which the labor cost is greatest he can offer successful competition in foreign markets, while those in which the cost of the raw material is greatest he cannot successfully sell abroad in the face of foreign competition. In proportion, then, as the tariff increases the cost of production, in like proportion do we shut ourselves out from successful competition in the world's market. Yours truly,

RICHARD KNOX.

RAILROAD LABOR.

Wages Differ Greatly on Our Railroads—The Bearings of This Fact on Protection to Labor.

The protectionists claim that it is our tariff which causes higher wages in the United States than in Europe, and that if the tariff were wiped out wages with us would at once sink to the European level. But if there is any warrant for such a claim the protectionists ought to be able to explain why it is that wages differ so widely in different parts of our own country.

The fifth annual report of the United States Labor Commissioner, Mr. Carroll D. Wright, is devoted entirely to railroad labor, and this document gives some facts as to wages which ought to prove very puzzling to protectionists. The following table displays the difference in wages paid to railroad employes:

AVERAGE DAILY RATE OF WAGES.

	New England.	New York.	Georgia.	Ohio.
Brakemen	$1.80	$1.73	$1.26	$1.86½
Conductors	2.82	2.54	2.58½	2.61½
Engineers	3.33½	3.15	2.91	3.07½
Firemen	1.89	1.72	1.29½	1.79½
Laborers	1.51	1.23½	.88	1.21½
Tel. operators	1.42½	1.34½	1.50½	1.47
Switchmen	1.78	1.27	1.11	1.53½

	Texas.	Northwest States.	Pacific States.	Average.
Brakemen	$1.95	$1.75½	$1.96	$1.78
Conductors	2.92½	2.85½	3.00	2.63
Engineers	3.55	2.79½	....	3.22½
Firemen	2.04	1.90½	....	1.79½
Laborers	1.21	1.30	1.87½	1.26
Tel. operators	1.67½	1.38½	2.00½	1.43½
Switchmen	2.50½	2.15½	2.20	1.50½

These figures are collected with absolute impartiality, and can be implicitly relied upon. They show that wages for precisely the same labor have by no means sunk to the same level even in our own country. Firemen, for example, earn $1.29½ a day in Georgia, $1.90½ in the Northwestern States, and $2.04 in Texas. In the Northwestern States engineers earn $2.79½, but in New England they get $3.33½, and in Texas $3.55. Ohio pays its brakemen 6½ cents a day more than New England does, but New England pays its switchmen 29½ cents more than Ohio. Engineers in New York get 35½ cents a day more than in the Northwestern States, but switchmen are paid 88½ cents more in the Northwest than in New York. Throughout the table similar differences and cross differences are found, and nowhere is there unformity.

Railroad employes have better facilities than any other class of laborers to inform themselves of the condition, wages, etc., of their fellow workmen in other parts of the country; they have fewer local ties to bind them to any one place, and can easily begin life in another part of the land, yet the firemen earning only $1.29½ in Georgia do not rush off to Texas to earn $2.04. Common railroad laborers do not desert Texas, where they get $1.21 a day, to compete with the same class of laborers in the Pacific States, who earn $1.87½.

There must be something wrong in the protectionists' wages theory.

Hard on Manufacturers.

In discussing the mower and reaper trust, the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, the leading high-tariff organ of Ohio, displays a very poor opinion of our business men. It says: "If business men would be less savagely ambitious, less grasping, less malevolent toward their neighbors, and would be satisfied with the fair and decent earnings of their endeavors," etc.

This is a rather harsh opinion, but it is no more harsh than that expressed by Senator Plumb in his attack upon the McKinley bill. The Kansas Senator said: "Merchants go down; farmers fail everywhere. They do not expect to be exempt from chances of this kind. The manufacturer is the one person who insists that he is never to fail so long as laws can be written and passed putting duties enough upon the articles which he manufactures to enable him to make a profit."

The Senator, in the same speech, quoted approvingly a business friend of his from Chicago, who assured him that "the American manufacturer does not manufacture anything he cannot make a certain and great profit on, and that he stands out of the way of the foreign manufacturer as to other articles on which he cannot make satisfactory profits."

Yet when Democratic opponents of our high-tariff system say things like these, they are denounced as "enemies of American industry" and as "serving European interests."

Alarmed About the Reaper Trust.

Uncle Jerry Rusk, the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, at Washington, is greatly alarmed at the organization of the "Mower and Reaper Trust." His alarm is not lest the farmers may have to pay higher prices for their machinery, but lest they should see that this is a tariff trust and should go and vote against the Republican party. He says:

"The first thing the farmer will do when he is acquainted with these facts about the mower and reaper trust will be to make a howl against trusts and protection that does not protect. Whether justly or not, he will charge it to the Republican party. I am as certain as I can be of anything that this mower and reaper trust will cost the Republican party hundreds of thousands of votes at the next Presidential election unless it takes a firm stand against it and trusts in general."

PLAYING foot-ball he liked very much,
So he said, till he met the strong clutch
Of the enemy's tackle;
Then he heard his bones crackle,
And now he goes round on a crutch.

MOST fellows who go from this world leave nothing but a "void" behind them, the most eloquent thing, by-the-way, to recall them to those who take any interest in vacuums.

Who has not felt how sadly sweet
The dream of home, the dream of home,
Steals o'er the heart, too soon to fleet,
When far o'er sea and land we roam?

How They Keep Warm in Montreal.

In Montreal one may buy clothing not to be had in the United States; woolens thick as boards, hosiery that wards off the cold as armor resists missiles, gloves as heavy as shoes, yet soft as kid, fur caps and coats at prices and in a variety that interest poor and rich alike, blanket suits that are more picturesque than any other masculine garment worn north of the city of Mexico, tuques, and moccasins, and, indeed, so many sorts of clothing we Yankees know very little of (though many of us need them) that at a glance we say the Montrealers are foreigners. Montreal is the gayest city on this continent, and I have often thought that the clothing there is largely responsible for that condition.

A New Yorker disembarking in Montreal in midwinter finds the place inhospitably cold, and wonders how, as well as why, any one lives there. I well remember standing years ago beside a toboggan slide, with my teeth chattering and my very marrow slowly concealing, when my attention was called to the fact that a dozen ruddy-cheeked, bright-eyed, laughing girls were grouped in snow that reached their knees. I asked a Canadian lady how that could be possible, and she answered with a list of the principal garments those girls were wearing. They had two pairs of stockings under their shoes, and a pair of stockings over their shoes, with moccasins over them. They had so many woolen skirts that an American girl would not believe me if I gave the number. They wore heavy dresses and buckskin jackets and blanket suits over all this. They had mittens over their gloves, and fur caps over their knitted hoods. It no longer seemed wonderful that they should not heed the cold; indeed it occurred to me that their bravery amid the terrors of tobogganing was no bravery at all, since a girl buried deep in the heart of such a mass of woolens could scarcely expect damage if she fell from a steeple. When next I appeared out-of-doors I too was swathed in flannel, like a jewel in a box of plush, and from that time out Montreal seemed, what it really is, the merriest of American capitals.—Julian Ralph, in Harper's Magazine.

The Oldest Game of Ball.

Court tennis is the oldest game of ball that we have—that is to say, it goes back farther in its present form than any other.

Games of ball of some kind go back so far that there is no trace of their beginning. In their simplest form the ball was thrown from one man to another. If we carry the process one step farther and imagine the ball, or whatever stood in its place, to be hit back with the hand, instead of being caught and thrown, we have at once hand-ball, the original of all games like tennis, rackets, etc. Indeed, the French name for tennis remains paume to this day, because the ball was struck with the palm of the hand.—Scribner.

Catarrh Can't Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by druggists, price 75c.

In Stock.

Stranger (at great music box and orchestrion emporium)—I am a dentist, and it has occurred to me that a music-box or orchestra would be a pleasant addition to my parlors, to amuse my patients, you know, and——

Dealer—I see. You want something to keep the waiting patients interested and sort o'-help—er—drown any noise in the operating room.

Stranger—That's the idea.

Dealer—Step right this way, sir, to the steam calliope department.—Street & Smith's Good News.

The Only One.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid vestibuled, electric-lighted and steam-heated trains between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid vestibuled, electric-lighted and steam-heated trains between Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha and Sioux City.

The berth reading lamp feature in the Pullman sleeping cars run on these lines is patented, and cannot be used by any other railway company. It is the great improvement of the age. Try it and be convinced.

For further particulars apply at any ticket office of the road, or write to Assistant General Passenger Agent, 207 and 209 Clark street, Chicago, Ill.

More Than Welcome.

Mrs. Downton—Who is that horrible looking creature at the door? Send her away.

Maid—She says she heard y'r husband was in want of a typewriter, and she'd like the place.

Mrs. Downton—Ask her in.—Street & Smith's Good News.

THOSE of you who are weary and heavy ladened with sickness and care, weighed down with the infirmities that beset the human system, can find the one thing necessary to restore you to bright, buoyant health in Sherman's Prickly Ash Bitters. It invigorates and strengthens the debilitated organs, aids digestion, and dispels the clouds arising from a diseased liver.

A Brother's Eye.

Pretty Girl—I wish I knew what costume to get for the fancy ball.

Little Brother—I'll tell you what, sis. Wear y'r spotted vail and go as a small-pox patient.—Street & Smith's Good News.

LADIES employed in fashionable stores, whose duties keep them standing all day, should send two 2c. stamps to Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for "Guide to Health and Etiquette."

Phenomenal Success.

Skribler—I've made a pretty good record this year. Eight of my poems have been accepted by the magazines.

Skrawler—I have done better than that. One of mine has been published.

THEY say truly, "The more servants the less service." Save wages and gain service by using SAPOLIO. It is a solid cake of Scouring Soap. Try it.

NEVER salute a man six feet six inches by saying, "How are you getting 'long?"

Prevention

Is better than cure, and people who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. This suggests the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, unquestionably the best blood purifier, and which has been used with great success for this very purpose by many people.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has also cured innumerable cases of rheumatism of the severest sort by its powerful effect in neutralizing acidity of the blood, and in enabling the kidneys and liver to properly remove the waste of the system. Try it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The American Olive.

The growth of the olive is to be, it seems to me, one of the leading and most permanent industries of Southern California, says Harper's Magazine. It will give us, what it is nearly impossible to buy now, pure olive oil, in place of the cotten-seed and lard mixture in general use. It is a most wholesome and palatable article of food. Those whose chief experience of the olive is the large, coarse and not agreeable Spanish variety, used only as an appetizer, know little of the value of the best varities as food, nuturitious as meat and alwas delicious. Good bread and a dish of pickled olives make an excellent meal. The sort known as the Mission olive, planted by the Franciscans a century ago, is generally grown now, and the best fruit is from the older trees.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.
From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address F. CHANDLER, Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo.

Too Much for Endurance.

American Citizen (indignantly)—See here, madam, I want you to see that that boy of yours sits down once in a while and reads the papers. I won't have such an ignoramus about the house. The idea of a boy of his age asking such idiotic questions.

Citizeness—Why, my dear, what has he been asking?

Citizen—The young numskull wanted to know if the "Hon." before a Congressman's name meant honest.—New York Weekly.

START the new year right by subscribing to the Youth's Companion. Nearly half a million families take it now. The first number of the volume for 1891 is a double New Year's number of twenty pages, with colored cover. It contains a new serial for boys, entitled "Kent Hampden," by Rebecca Harding Davis, and Capt. C. A. Curtis has begun a serial story of adventure on the plains. There are also five complete stories, besides anecdotes and humorous and instructive articles for every one of the household. It comes every week, is finely illustrated, and costs but $1.75 a year. Send for sample copy. Address,
THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

THE transposition of quotation marks in a recent catalogue caused the following astounding announcement: "She Heaved a Sigh in E flat for 35 cents."

IF you have ever used Dobbins' Electric during the 24 years it has been sold, you know that it is the best and purest family soap made. If you haven't tried it, ask your grocer for it now. Don't take imitation.

THE creosote in toothache drops administered to a New York boy cured the pain but killed the boy.

THE only true and safe intestinal worm killer is Dr. Bull's Vegetable Worm Destroyers. It has brightened the lives of many children and gladdened many a parent's heart.

AN old adage says the hardest operation of war is to stop it. The same is also true of a dog fight.—Chicago Ledger.

FOR A DISORDERED LIVER try BEECHAM'S PILLS.

THE world always weighs a man in the balance. The balance is at his banker's.

BRONCHITIS is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

A MASSACHUSETTS man has patented an adding machine for bookkeepers. No subtracting machine has been invented. Not necessary.

Worth Hundreds of Dollars.

My wife used only two bottles of "Mother's Friend" before her third confinement. Says she would not be without it for hundreds of dollars. Had not half as much trouble as before. DOCK MILLS, Lincoln Parish, La. Write The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

EVERYTHING is adulterated nowadays. A San Francisco man bought a cork leg, and afterward ascertained that it was made of paper.

FOR COUGHS AND THROAT DISORDERS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. "Have never changed my mind respecting them, except I think better of that which I began thinking well of."—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Sold only in boxes.

THE head and mouth of a river are at its extreme ends. Queer fact, isn't it?

St. Jacobs Oil cures Back Aches, Headache, Toothache, and all ACHES PROMPTLY

SYRUP OF FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

To cure costiveness the medicine must be more than a purgative; it must contain tonic, alterative and cathartic properties.

Tutt's Pills

possess these qualities, and speedily restore to the bowels their natural peristaltic motion, so essential to regularity.

PATENTS Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent, sent free.
PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washingt'n, D.C.

From Father to Son.

Scrofula is a blood poison which descends from parent to child. It is a taint which must be eradicated from the system before a cure can be made. Swift's Specific, S. S. S., drives out the virus through the pores of the skin and thus relieves the blood of the poison.

AFFLICTED FROM CHILDHOOD.

Mrs. N. Ritchey, of Mackey, Ind., says: "Justice compels me to say that S. S. S. has worked little short of a miracle in my case, in curing me of aggravated Scrofula, which afflicted me from childhood. It attacked my throat and nose, and threatened my lungs. My throat was so sore that I was compelled to subsist on liquid food. When I began S. S. S. I was in a wretched condition but commenced to improve at once, and am now entirely well."

BOOKS ON BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES FREE.
THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Ely's Cream Balm For CATARRH THE POSITIVE CURE.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

This Picture, Panel size, mailed for 4 cents.
J. F. SMITH & CO.,
Makers of "Bile Beans,"
255 & 257 Greenwich St., N. Y. City.
CURE Billiousness, Sick Headache, Malaria.
BILE BEANS.

"When slovens get tidy they polish the bottoms of the pans."—When SERVANTS are given SAPOLIO they are never tired of cleaning up.

Two servants in two neighboring houses dwelt,
But differently their daily labor felt;
Jaded and weary of her life was one,
Always at work, and yet 'twas never done.
The other walked out nightly with her beau,
But then she cleaned house with SAPOLIO.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail.
Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND PENNYROYAL PILLS
THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA. Sold by all Local Druggists.

A SAVIOR OF HER SEX.

When pain becomes a constant companion; when there is no repose for the sufferer, by day or night; when life itself seems to be a calamity; and when all this is reversed by a woman, whose only ambition is to do good to others, has she not won the above title?

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound cures all those peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women, all organic diseases of the Uterus or Womb, and Ovarian Troubles, Bearing-down Sensations, Weak Back, Debility, Nervous Prostration, etc. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
W. BAKER & CO.'S Breakfast Cocoa from which the excess of oil has been removed, Is absolutely pure and it is soluble.
No Chemicals are used in its preparation. It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is therefore far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, strengthening, EASILY DIGESTED, and admirably adapted for invalids as well as for persons in health.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.
Chesebrough Mfg. Co., 24 State St., N. Y.

ISLAND HOME Stock Farm. H. C. Farnum, Importer and Breeder of Percheron & French Coach Horses. I offer a very large stud of horses to select from. I guarantee my stock, make prices reasonable and sell on easy terms. Visitors always welcome. Large catalogue free. Address H. C. FARNUM, Grosse Isle, Wayne Co., Mich.

HOMES WANTED.
We want to secure permanent homes for a number of Orphan Babes and Children. Responsible parties who want to adopt a bright, healthy and well-grown child are invited to correspond with us.
CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY,
204 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

ASTHMA. Popham's Asthma Specific Gives immediate relief. It is believed to be the Best ASTHMA Remedy known to humanity. Send for Trial Package, FREE. Sold by Druggists. Sent by mail, postpaid, for $1 per Box. Address THOS. POPHAM, 2001 Ridge Avenue, Philada.

The Oldest Medicine in the World is probably DR. ISAAC THOMPSON'S CELEBRATED EYE-WATER. This article is a carefully prepared physician's prescription, and has been in constant use for nearly a century. There are few diseases to which mankind are subject more distressing than sore eyes, and none, perhaps, for which more remedies have been tried without success. For all external inflammation of the eyes it is an infallible remedy. If the directions are followed it will never fail. We particularly invite the attention of physicians to its merits. For sale by all druggists. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. Y. Established 1797.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

THE DEAF HEAR. WHEN THE DEAFNESS IS CAUSED BY SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &c., BY THE USE OF THE INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal. H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

Prettiest BOOK Ever Printed. FREE SEED cheap as dirt by oz. & lb. One cent a pkg. Up if rare. Cheap, pure, best. 1,000,000 extras. Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue free. R. H. Shumway, Rockford, Ill.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave, New York.

RIDGE'S FOOD IT IS USED by CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. By Druggists. WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts. at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and illustrated pamphlet for a dime. THE PEDINE CO., World Building, New York.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co. CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

FAT FOLKS Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address, DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CATARRH CURED. Write for sample. LAUDERBACH COMPANY, Newark, New Jersey. FREE

TACOMA [illegible] TACOMA INVESTMENT CO., TACOMA, WASH.

N. U., N. W. No. 3—91.
When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.......JANUARY 15, 1891.

EUROPE is having a very cold winter.

STANFORD has been re-elected senator for California.

VOORHEES will be elected senator again next week.

BEHRING Sea trouble has been appealed by the Canadians, to our supreme court.

CANADIAN Indians are on the warpath, and want to join the Sioux on our side of the line.

LITTLE or no change in the situation among the Indians in Dakota, but it is hoped the worst is over.

REVOLUTION going on in Chili. Can't say how serious as yet. It is a quarrel between their president and congress.

WAGES reduced 10 per cent in the steel works at Steelton, Pa., last week. Tariff on steel, don't make wages of the men higher.

McHUGH, state senator from Tippecanoe has been seated, the contest showing he had two votes more than Osborne, his republican competitor.

MANY legislatures are in session, and on account of close majorities, several are in quarrels or deadlocks. A good majority like that in Indiana, is a good thing.

THE great harvester trust has failed, for their lawyers told them it would not be safe to go on, as the laws of the states in which they would operate most, made such a combine illegal.

UNITED STATES may conclude to guarantee bonds for the Nicaragua canal to the extent of a hundred millions if Nicaragua will give us complete control of the canal and a strip of land along it.

NEBRAKSA has been having three governors. Boyd, democrat, was elected, but the old governor held on to the office, claiming that Boyd was never naturalized. Then the alliance had their candidate sworn in.

WM. T. BRUSH, a republican from Crawfordsville, insists that his party has always carried Indiana by boodle, as the democrats have always had a majority. This was said at their state meeting at Indianapolis last week.

TARIFF is a failure, as far as protecting workmen, and securing better wages It is a grand success, far as putting bigger profits into the pockets of manufacturers and mill owners, who are already wealthy. The protective tariff is a swindle.

JANUARY 8, "St. Jackson's day," was celebrated in various parts of the state. Cleveland made an able speech at a reform meeting in Philadelphia. Of course there was a big meeting in New Orleans. It also happened that on this day, the legislature of Indiana met and organized.

DR. HALL, editor of the "Microcosm," a medical paper published in New York, shows by a full extract, that he explained in full, the theory now advocated by Dr. Koch, the now famous consumption cure man, as early as 1882, nearly eight years before Koch brought out his theory or invented his remedy, the "lymph" with which he claims he will inoculate consumptives and cure them.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel has sent out numerous letters to persons in the gas belt, asking if the gas is diminishing in quantity. While a few think it is growing less, most of the answers claim it is as good as ever, and some give good reasons why it will last a hundred years. Still, they admit much of it is being wasted. All over the gas belt, one may see torches burning day and night, with no apparent purpose.

TUESDAY of last week, the republicans had a state committee meeting at Indianapolis and put in a new chief man in place of Michener, who has formed a partnership with Blocks-of-five Dudley, at Washington. They consulted to see what way could be taken to beat the democrats next time. Among the speeches was one by Wm. T. Brush, of Crawfordsville, who told them plainly, as they had always carried Indiana by money, if at all, they must fix up some plan by which money could again be used. He says Indiana has always been democratic in the real number of votes.

The Teachers' Association.

We attended the meeting of the De Kalb county Teachers' Associatiation at Waterloo Saturday and of course met quite a number of old acquaintances. Still we find more than half of those now in active work, have come into the harness lately. But they seem to be bright young people, who will no doubt prove as successful as their predecessors. The attendance was good, and all seemed interested. We could hear only one paper read as our time was limited. It was that read by Prof. McIntosh "Progress of Education in DeKalb County," which will appear in the COURIER in full. It was an able article, and was received with generous applause. We hope every teacher will read it. County Superintendent C. M. Merica was also in attendance as was also Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Houser of this place. Among the familiar faces, we recall George Pugsley, T. P. French, Mary Eberly, and her sister Mrs. Rebecca Myers, W. H. Bachtel, J. H. Kroutz, U. S. Smith, and the two Urey brothers of Fairfield, Hattie Smith, Miss Walker, Miss Merrill and others whose names have escaped us.

Legislature Organizes.

It may be of interest to the COURIER'S readers to know the details of organizing our state legislature. As we were present last week to witness it, we give a brief statement. As the Assembly was to meet Thursday at 10 a. m. there was a caucus the evening before, held by each party, to decide as to a candidate for speaker. At the republican caucus, Mr. Hess, of Wayne county, was selected. The democrats at theirs settled on the one who was speaker two years ago, Mason J. Niblack. At the first ballot he got 37 votes, Mr. Hench, of Ft. Wayne, 8 and Curtis, of Marion, 28. Hench withdrew and at the next ballot Niblack got 45 and Curtis 28. Candidates for clerk and assistant clerk and for doorkeeper were also chosen. This settled that matter, and on Thursday, at 10 a. m. the members gathered into the great hall where they hold their meetings. The secretary of state, Mr. Griffin, took the speaker's stand, with Judge Olds, of the supreme bench, at his side. The assistant secretary of state acted as clerk. At 10:15 Mr. Griffin rapped for order, and being obeyed, added: "I declare the House of Representives of the Fifty Seventh General Assembly of the State of Indiana, now in session." He then called on Rev. Dr. Cleveland, who offered prayer, the members standing. The assistant secretary of state then called the roll; ninety-nine were present, only Mr. Gent, member from Bartholomew county, being absent. Again the members were asked to rise, and Judge Olds administered the oath to them. Nominations for officers came next. Mr. Callop, of Knox, nominated Mr. Niblack for the democratic candidate for speaker, and Mr. Lindemuth, of Wayne, named Mr. Hess for the republicans. On this vote the roll was called, each member naming his candidate aloud when his name was called. Niblack voted for Hess when his name was called and Hess voted for Niblack. The result was, Niblack got 74; Hess 25; and Niblack was declared by Mr. Griffin to be elected. Mr. Hess his opponent, and Mr. Curtis, his democratec opponent for the nomination were chosen to escort him to the speaker's desk. They went to his seat and the three returned together. Mr. Niblack mounted the stand, and the secretary of state introduced him to the House, handed him the gavel and said, "Mr. Niblack, it affords me great pleasure to present to you for the second time the emblem of authority as Speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives. Gentlemen, your presiding officer." Mr. Niblack then read a brief address, thanking the members, after which the House again stood up while Judge Olds swore in the speaker. By the same vote and in the same way, T. J. Newkirk, of Rush, was elected clerk, and Chas. Crawley, of Sullivan, assistant. Then Frank Haimbaugh, of Miami, was made chief doorkeeper by the same vote. Then a member moved that the rules of the last House be in force till new ones could be prepared, and a committee of three was appointed to prepare new rules, and another committee to confer with the Senate as to joint rules. A committee was appointed to inform the Senate that the House was ready for business, and another to wait on the governor to inform him. Then the organization was completed. In the Senate, the lieutenant-governor presided, but the other officers were all selected, as in the House, by vote, and similar committees appointed. But the lieutenant governor swore in the new members This was an error, and later on, chief justice Elliott was called in, and he swore them in again.

At The Capital.

While attending the editorial meeting at Indianapolis last week we met Pension Agent Ensley and all the members of his family, at the governor's reception, except Mrs. E. who was in Auburn. We also called at headquarters and found them all at work in their various duties. The office rooms are being overhauled and repaired, and thanks to Mr. Ensley's persistent endeavors it will be done at the expense of the owner and not of Uncle Sam. We also met Hon. Wallace Robbins of Miami county, who will be remembered here. He is looking more robust than usual and is evidently in good health. We found there our own members Mr. Kelley and Mr. Teal. Both have good seats, Mr. Kelley having used a little strategy got back his old seat from another member who had captured it. Our senator, Mr. Jackson, was also on hand, and all are working in the interest of retrenchment and reform. We also came across Cal. Husselman and J. L Davis, who were attending the annual meeting of the state board of Agricu ture as delegates from the Auburn fair society. They were behaving themselves very nicely, and Mr. Davis was in charge of Dr. Depuy, of Wabash, a radical democrat so we think he was safe. We also met J. W. Nusbaum, of Elkhart, who was there to look after the interest of some friend, and Herman Freygang of Angola, and Capt. John Smith of Kendallville. The two named last were probably looking for some position, but they failed, as a man from the north never has a show at the capital. We have a write up of the legislature in another column.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Peters, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 2nd day of March, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT A COUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of January, 1891. AUGUSTUS BARTELS, Administrator

E. D. HARTMAN, Att'y. 2t

Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for election of Directors, and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 5th day of February, 1891, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, at Jackson, Michigan. The Transfer books will close on January 17, and remain closed until Feb. 5.

R. G. ROLSTON, Sec'y.

Editorial Paragraphs.

The republican party leaders know how to symathize with the Parnell branch of the Irish members of the English parliament.

⁂

The revolution epidemic is again raging among our pan-American neighbors. It seldom disappears entirely, but is at times—this is one of the times—more violent.

⁂

Democrats in congress have nothing to fear from an extra session of the fifty-second congress; all they have to do is to conscientiously perform their duties and let the future take care of itself. If the republicans persist in devoting the time which should rightfully be given to a consideration of the annual appropriation bills and other necessary legislation to obnoxious political measures, that party will have to shoulder the responsibility of bringing about an entirely unnecessary extra session, with its attendant expense. Looking at the matter from a party standpoint, an extra session would, we believe, for numerous reasons, be an advantage to the democratic party, but we have no idea that such being the case will have the slightest influence with the democratic leaders of the present congress, who, we are satisfied, are convinced of the folly of following the republican congressional example of regarding nothing else but party advantage in the shaping of legislation. The people expect something higher, better and more patriotic from the democratic party, and they ought not to be disappointed, and we haven't the slightest idea that they will be.

⁂

"Jingoism" is a dangerous amusement when one has an opponent as powerful as Great Britain to contend with. This is a truth that Mr. Blaine has probably recognized, now that he has placed this country in position where we must fight, and every one knows we haven't the navy to do that or else humiliate ourselves before the entire world by backing down from our claims of exclusive jurisdiction in Behring sea.

⁂

The republican leaders in the Senate seem bent upon the destruction of their party. All right, let 'em go ahead. Not only can the country stand the death of the republican party, but it can afford, in view of the general benefit thereby conferred, to give the corpse a grand funeral, and it will proceed to do it in the early days of November 1892.

⁂

Great are the benefits to the workingman of the McKinley tariff law. Even the dullest of them must be able to comprehend, now that reductions in wages and furloughs are becoming such common occurrences among the large manufacturers of the country. The hard winter will make this fact very plain to lots of people, and yet republican papers will continue to print slush about the "protection" of the American workingmen, while hundreds of the men and their families suffer for the barest necessities of life.

⁂

The republican method of putting off financial legislation in the hope that the money market will right itself is a good deal like buying a lottery ticket. It's very risky; you may draw a prize, but the chances are all against you.

⁂

The charge of Russian persecution of the Hebrews has been fully proven, notwithstanding the frantic efforts of that eminent republican editor, Charles Emory Smith, who by the grace of Benjamin Harrison and the friendship of James G. Blaine, happens to be United States minister to Russia, to stand by the Czar in his denial. Now the Czar has owned up, but Charles Emory Smith has not been heard from. No wonder the Hebrews in the United States are asking for Smith's recall.

The Legislature.

They are at work in good shape. The first bill offered was for a committee to see what expenses can be reduced. Assistant clerks, doorkeepers and pages have been limited in price and number so as to save $11,000 over the expense of two years ago. Mr. Kelley has offered a bill to provide for the taxing of foreign corporations and one to abolish the grand jury, one for reducing salaries and one to prevent appeal from justices of any case for $20 or less. Committees not known as we close up, but he will likely have a good place on committee on drainage and ditches.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

Catarrh

IS a blood disease. Until the poison is expelled from the system, there can be no cure for this loathsome and dangerous malady. Therefore, the only effective treatment is a thorough course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood purifiers. The sooner you begin the better; delay is dangerous.

"I was troubled with catarrh for over two years. I tried various remedies, and was treated by a number of physicians, but received no benefit until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A few bottles of this medicine cured me of this troublesome complaint and completely restored my health."—Jesse M. Boggs, Holman's Mills, N. C.

"When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarrh, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no faith that anything would cure me. I became emaciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarrh. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Patents Granted

to inventors in the state of Indiana during the past week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co., patent attorneys and agents for procuring patents, opposite U. S. patent office, Washington, D. C.

D. C. Beruff, Bedford, type writing machine; L. Denny, Advance, hoe; G. A. Hendrick, Bloomington, car-coupling; N. A. Hull, Peru, drawer for sewing machine attachments; J. F. Judy, Huntington, umbrella or parasol; D. D. Nayfield, Sullivan, gate; C. D. Shellaberger, Indianapolis, fence; D. Barckdall, Indianapolis, washing machine; A. L. Vernardin, Evansville, bottle disk; S. F. Bowser, Fort Wayne, portable siphon; J. D. Gibbs, Jeffersonville, ticket machine; B. O. Haugh, Indianapolis, tension governor for wire fences; M. C. Henley, Richmond, oscillating meter, S. H. Holmes, Goshen, type cleaning device for type writing machines; D. J. Howe, Indianapolis, fire extinguishinger; F. V. Hunt, Richmond, bicycle; J. F. Mains, Indianapolis, fuel gas burner; U. V. Mitchell, Martinsville, toe weight, C. C. Polk, Richmond, piano attachment; L. D. Raitsback, Indianapolis, machine for making ice, ice cream, &c. J. Weathers, Indianapolis, sash holder.

Fees and Salaries.

As noted elsewhere, the legislature is busy trying to contrive a plan by which the fees and salaries of county and state officers may be put on a more satisfactory basis. We believe everybody agrees with the COURIER that a readjustment, and in some offices, a great reduction is necessary. The only difference of opinion is as to how this can be done and not make it more expensive to the county itself than now. Nearly every member has a bill in his pocket which he believes will do this. But as he comes to consult his fellow members, and note the nature of the bills they have, they see there are difficulties they had not thought of. But after all have compared notes, we believe a good fair and satisfactory adjustment will be made by bringing out a new bill, which shall contain the good points of all the others. The members are in earnest and we have faith in their integrity and ability. Both parties are working for the reform. But it cannot be done in a day. It is a matter of extreme difficulty, and time enough should be taken to secure a good law, one that will be a real reform. The most of the members at present favor salaries and no fees, or rather to make all fees payable to the county. But here they find a difficulty, as to how much of these fees will be collected, and what about the large share that never are collected, because the parties can't be forced to pay. This is but one of the difficulties. So our people must be patient and not look for a well arranged salary law for some weeks. But we have reason to believe it will surely come, and be a good one.

The Ladies' Home Journal.

Sister Rose Gertrude, the young woman about whose work among the lepers of Molokai so much has been written, has been induced to reply to the charges made against her for renouncing her work. Her article, the first from her pen, is to be published in The Ladies Home Journal for February, and will contain a full explanation of what she has accomplished among the lepers, and why she was obliged to forsake her work.

WOMEN IN THE YEAR 2000.

As a sort of supplementary chapter to his "Looking Backward," Mr. Edward Bellamy has written an article for the February issue of The Ladies' Home Journal, under the title of "Woman in the Year 2000," in which the famous Nationalist will sketch woman, marriage, courtship, etc., as they will be regarded in the year 2000.

HINTS BY GREAT SINGERS.

Emma C. Thursby, Clara Louise Kellogg, Madame Albani, Campanini and Maud Powell will each have an article, giving some vocal helps and musical hints to girls and women with musical aspirations, in the February number of The Ladies' Home Journal.

Next Saturday Night

After six o'clock, or any day or night this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough. This medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough or cold and all lung or throat troubles. For bronchial diseases it has no superior and many cases of bronchitis have been entirely cured by its use. Do not hesitate to try this great, meritorious remedy and be convinced of its curative powers. You can buy this medicine for 25c to give it a trial, of F. F. Davenport.

REVOLUTION! REVOLUTION!! REVOLUTION!!!

SOMETHING NEW!

Wonderful as the Telephone!

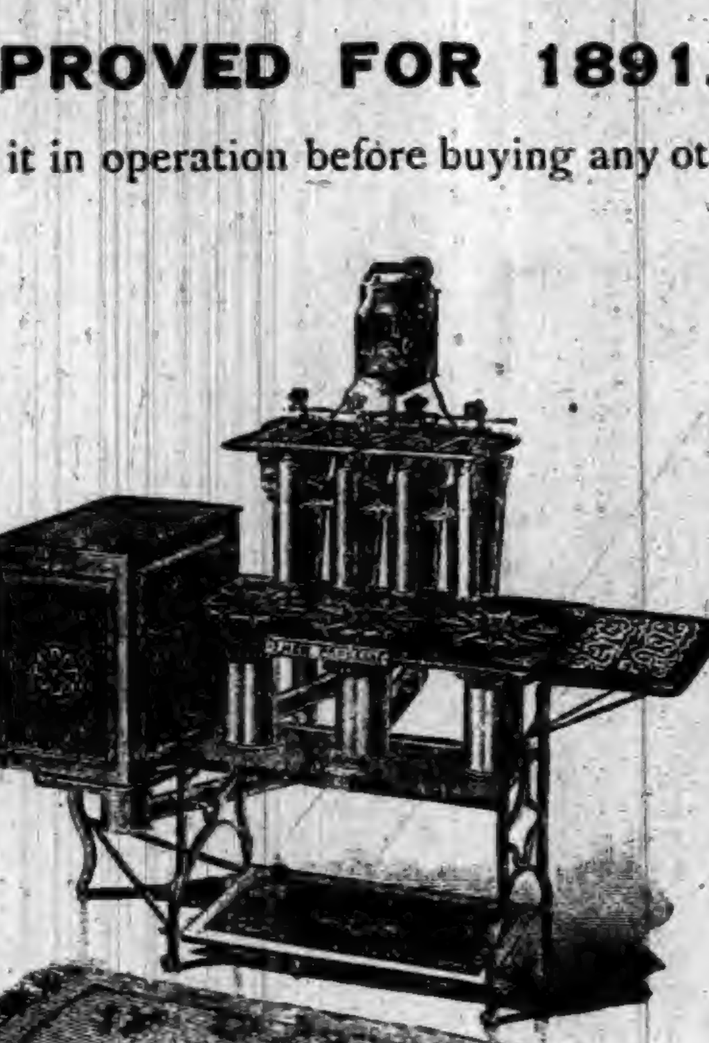
THE

NEW PROCESS VAPOR STOVE!

IMPROVED FOR 1891.

Call and see it in operation before buying any other kind.

It has no Generator Burner, Stand Pipe, Packing, Needle Valves, Drip Cup, Pneumatic Pressure or anything to get out of order.



It is Simply Wonderful and it will pay you to investigate. Any Child can operate it. On Exhibition during Business Hours.

A Full line of PLAIN AND RANGE STOVES in two and three burners always on hand. MURILLO the new Wall Finish, a specialty.

FOR SALE BY

J. BEURET,

Auburn, - - Indiana.

Court.

Julius O. Bauer plead guilty to charge of assault and battery and was fined $2 and costs. This was the case Mrs. Hall brought against him. John Potter was fined the same for assault and battery. The case of Lockwood and Davis for division of the lots west of Davis' store came up again and the Judge let the matter stand just as the division had been made before by the men appointed. Case of N. Sebring vs B. & O. road, damages, sent to Steuben. W. H. Topper was divorced from M. E. Topper. Geo. Culbertson vs B. & O. road, for damages, goes to Steuben county. J. A. Slaybaugh was divorced from his wife, and James McDowell was divorced from Mollie McDowell. The case against Recorder Crane for neglect of business on account of drinking has been sent to Steuben county. The Emerick estate case is now on trial.

It would be just as well for the eastern philanthropists to let up on their Indian gush for awhile, and give the soldiers a chance.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Drop into the Reading Room and let us show you what we can do for your comfort and entertainment in our cosy, well-warmed, well-lighted, well-furnished little room. Speak a good word for us, if this pleases you, bring your friends in to see us, loan or donate us your spare books, buy a membership card for $1, or take one or more shares of stock. It is opening out with flattering prospects, but its measure of success will be according to the moral and financial support given by our people. We can ask no heartier support and encouragement than that so far given, continue the good work and we will strive to give you satisfaction and pleasure in the enterprise. All stockholders are entitled to membership tickets, those not having received them, please call on the secretary or at the Reading Room of librarian.

Robert McDougall, Secy.

LOOSE'S EXTRACT RED CLOVER BLOSSOM

PURE AND EFFICACIOUS

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. TRADE MARK. "IT CURES CANCERS, SCROFULA."

Female Weakness Sores, Ulcers, Tumors, Abscesses, Blood Poisoning, Salt Rheum, Catarrh, Erysipelas, Rheumatism and all Blood and Skin Diseases. PRICE $1. per Pint Bottle, or 6 Bottles for $5. 1 lb can Solid Extract $2.50. J. M. LOOSE RED CLOVER CO., DETROIT, MICH. Sold by all druggists.

SOLD BY F. E. DAVENPORT

AUBURN, IND.

THE LADIES FAVORITE
THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
THE FINEST WOODWORK
THE BEST ATTACHMENTS
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co ORANGE MASS.
CHICAGO, ILL. 28 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
ATLANTA, GA.
ST. LOUIS, MO. FOR SALE BY DALLAS, TEX.

F. J. YESBERA, Agent,

Auburn, Ind

NOTICE! NOTICE! NOTICE!

All people indebted to us by Book account or Note, we kindly request to call and settle within 30 days from Jan. 1st, 1891, or else will find their accounts or notes turned over to the JUSTICE of PEACE for collection. Please pay attention to this notice, as it means business.

Yours truly,

J. LOEWENSTEIN & CO.,

Waterloo, Ind.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

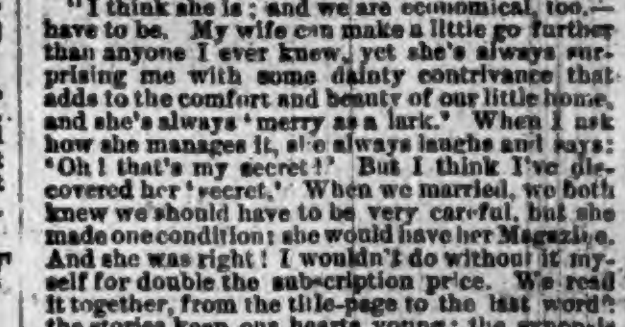
J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.



"Hello! Tom. Glad to see you, old fellow! It's almost ten years since we were married. Sit down: let's have an experience meeting. How's the wife?"

"Oh! she's so-so, same as usual,—always wanting something I can't afford."

"Well, we all want something more than we've got. Don't you?"

"Yes: but I guess 'want will be my master.' I started to keep down expenses; and now Lil says I'm 'mean,' and she's tired of saving and never having anything to show for it. I saw your wife down street, and she looked as happy as a queen!"

"I think she is; and we are economical, too,—have to be. My wife can make a little go further than anyone I ever knew, yet she's always surprising me with some dainty contrivance that adds to the comfort and beauty of our little home, and she's always 'merry as a lark.' When I ask how she manages it, she always laughs and says: 'Oh! that's my secret!' But I think I've discovered her 'secret.' When we married, we both knew we should have to be very careful, but she made one condition: she would have her Magazine. And she was right! I wouldn't do without it myself for double the subscription price. We read it together, from the title-page to the last word: the stories keep our hearts young; the synopsis of important events and scientific matters keeps me posted so that I can talk understandingly of what is going on; my wife is always trying some new idea from the household department; she makes all her dresses and those for the children, and she gets all her patterns for nothing, with the Magazine; and we saved Joe when he was so sick with the croup, by doing just as directed in the Sanitarian Department. But I can't tell you half!"

"What wonderful Magazine is it?"

"Demorest's Family Magazine, and—"

"What! Why that's what Lil wanted so bad, and I told her it was an extravagance."

"Well, my friend, that's where you made a grand mistake, and one you'd better rectify as soon as you can. I'll take your 'sub.' right here, on my wife's account: she's bound to have a china tea-set in time for our tin wedding next month. My gold watch was the premium I got for getting up a club. Here's a copy, with the new Premium List for clubs,—the biggest thing out! If you don't see in it what you want, you've only to write to the publisher and tell him what you want, whether it is a tack-hammer or a new carriage, and he will make special terms for you, either for a club, or for part cash. Better subscribe right off and surprise Mrs. Tom. Only $2.00 a year—will save fifty times that in six months. Or send 10 cents direct to the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York, for a specimen copy containing the Premium List."

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is a Journal for the home, Giving the latest information with regard to the Fashions, its numerous illustrations, fashion-plates, and pattern-sheet supplements are indispensable alike to the home dress-maker and the professional modiste. No expense is spared in making its artistic attractiveness of the highest order. Its clever short stories, parlor plays, and thoughtful essays satisfy all tastes, and its last page is famous as a budget of wit and humor. In its weekly issues everything is included which is of interest to women. During 1891 Agnes B. Ormsbee will write a series of articles on "The House Comfortable," Juliet Corson will treat of "Sanitary Living," and an interesting succession of papers on "Woman in Art and History," superbly illustrated, will be furnished by Theodore Child. The serial stories will be by Walter Besant and Thomas Hardy.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR:

HARPER'S BAZAR.............. 4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.......... 4 00
HARPER'S WEEKLY............$4 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.... 2 00

Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

The Volumes of the Bazar begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the Number current at the time of receipt of order.

Bound Volumes of Harper's Bazar for three years back, in neat cloth binding will be sent by mail, post paid, or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume,) for $7 per volume.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1 each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper and Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, NEW YORK.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR CURES ALL DISEASES AND IRREGULARITIES PECULIAR TO WOMAN.

PAID 31 DOLLARS DOCTORS' BILL.

paid 31 dollars doctor's bill for my wife in one year, and one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator did her more good than all the medicine she had taken before.

JAMES T. GOTT, Carmi, Ill.

Have suffered periodically for years—been treated by the best physicians without relief—Bradfield's Female Regulator did me more good than all the other remedies.

Mrs. ELIZA DAVIS, Charlotte, N. C.

Have used Bradfield's Female Regulator and can recommend it to all my friends.

Miss C. S. WIEMEYER, Denver, Col.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga. Sold by all Druggists. Price, $1.00 per bottle.

F. E. DAVENPORT, Auburn, Ind.

Harper's Young People.

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Twelfth Volume of HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE begins on Nov. 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be "Campmates: A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Munroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophia Swett; "The Moon Prince," R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts, by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Nelsetter Brynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry, and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—New York Observer.

Terms; Postage Prepaid, $2.00.

Vol. XII begins November 4, 1890.

Volumes VIII, X, and XI, of Harper's Young People bound in cloth will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $3.50 each. The other volumes are out of print.

Specimen copy sent on receipt of a two-cent stamp.

Single Numbers, Five cents Each.

Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order or draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address: HARPER & BROTHERS, NEW YORK.

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees. Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured. A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.

44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

CLEARING SALE

OF ALL

WINTER GOODS!

Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, Dress Flannels, Habit Cloths, Underwear, Knit Goods, Factory Flannels, Blankets Horse Blankets Comforts, Infants' Hoods, Millinery etc, at a BIG REDUCTION

Special—One lot of Ladies' New Markets, and Children's Cloaks, We mark One Dollar; Former price from two and a half to six dollars.

HARTER,

EAST OF COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

LOCAL NEWS.

S. L. R., means Simmons Liver Regulator sure.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Brain-workers keep your heads clear and bowels open. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

"Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me great relief in bronchitis. Within a month I have sent some of this preparation to a friend suffering from bronchitis and asthma. It has done him so much good that he writes for more."—Charles F. Dampterville, Plymouth, England.

NEW MUSIC.—It pleases us to call the attention of our musical friends to a reverie for piano entitled "Lost in Sorrow," by Ecker, and assert that it compares with the very best of the better class of music published of recent date. Price only 40c. in postage stamps. Ign. Fischer, Publisher, Toledo, Ohio.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

An old adage says: "Remembrance is the only tie which binders when all others die'" A direct application to this truthful saying has made us persistent in our efforts to bring Loose's extract of Red Clover to your notice. We are daily coming in contact with people who say to us: "You remember what I was, how I looked and how I suffered before I was induced to try Red Clover." Ask anyone who has taken Red Clover for any form of blood disorder and skin eruptions, for indigestion and rheumatism. Ask them, we say, what their recollection of Red Clover is, what did it do for them, and they will convince you of the truth of all our statements. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Book-keepers and others of sedentary habits cure constipation with Simmons Liver Regulator.

Take good care of your beard and keep it clear of gray hairs so as to retain your young looks by using Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

A spring medicine is needed by every-one. Winter food, largely consisting of salt meat and animal fats, causes the liver to become disordered and the blood impure, hence necessity of a cleansing medicine. The best is Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

MARRIED: At the residence of the bride's father, Adam Morr, at Auburn Junction, January 8th, by Rev. W. L Meese, Jacob Shull to Elizabeth Morr. Both are well known young people of this vicinity and deserve congratulations of all who know them.

O. J. Powell now publishing the Herald at Lexington, Mo., sent out a neat Carrier's Address Jan 1. It is an illustrated poem, and in the interest of "George Burris, Carrier for the Herald." It shows that Bro. Powell and his paper are in a lively condition, which fact we are pleased to learn.

"LOST IN SORROW," Reverie for Piano, by Ecker. This is without question one of the most beautiful pieces of this class of music that has ever come to our notice It is simply elegant and will no doubt be as much a favorite as "Wiegand's morning Prayer Meditation." Price of of above new piece is but 40 cts. Ign. Fischer, Publisher, Toledo, O.

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E Davenport's.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Many years practice have given C. A. Snow & Co., solicitors of patents at Washington, D C, unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of invention. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column, will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturers, and all who have to do with patents.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

An excellent supper at the Presbyterian church Friday evening for 15 cents.

Miss Edith Treutman returned to Ft. Wayne Friday, where she is going to school.

Peter Shull says he has not grown fatter for two weeks, having sworn off New Years day.

Chris. Clov attended to matters at the school house, during Mr. Kelling's recent illness.

Take! Take!! Take Simmons Liver Regulator for dyspepsia, constipation and heartburn.

Mrs. Fannie Smith has returned from her visit in Ohio and is looking well for a person of her years.

In the contested election case at Columbia City, the republican candidate for clerk got the office by two votes.

Mrs. D. S. Ober is back again after a visit with friends in the Buckeye state. She says they had good sleighing out there.

Chills and fever of three years standing cured by Simmons Liver Regulator. —E. Watkins, Watkins House, Uptonville, Ky.

South Bend is now the largest city in the state north of Indianapolis excepting only Ft. Wayne.

The friends of D. W. Slaybaugh, now of South Bend will read with interest an item from the South Bend Times of Jan. 2, in to-day's COURIER.

Mrs. Joseph Newell, of Garrett, and Mrs. Blum, of this place, made the COURIER office a pleasant call Thursday afternoon. Call again ladies.

A letter from Levi Seiler in Kansas, leaves him well, and getting along all right. He thinks some of becoming a traveling man in the near future.

See the notice of the Orange Festival at the Presbyterian church Friday evening. It will be a nice one, an Orange Festival with a big O. All cOme.

Dr. Ford and his daughter, Mrs. Spooner, are getting ready to go to California and spend the rest of the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Cochran at Ontario.

Mrs. Clock, now at Bryan, sent in her subscription last week. Ladies' are generally prompt in paying their bills. We are glad they are prospering over there,

John Neff, an enterprising farmer living south of town, made the COURIER office a pleasant call Friday. He is a genial sort of a fellow, and we enjoyed the interview very much.

Mrs. Henry Probst and her two little children called up to see the COURIER folks last week She has during the past season, put up a good residence on her farm this side of St. John.

Mrs. Nicholas Ensley was up here last week, for a few days and met a good many of the old friends. We believe some matters connected with her father's estate brought her home mainly.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs McCord. Lesson from 27th to 37th page. Leader, Mrs. Emanuel; Paper, Great Engineering Feats of the 19th Century, Mrs. Ralston; Recitation, Mabel Hartman.

Will Bitner, we are told, is now at work in Chicago, where his brother, Jerry, has been for some time. Boys educated in the COURIER office, can get a job anywhere, if they do not fall into habits of dissipation.

G. A. Maurer, the young man who cut his foot so seriously a few weeks ago, is improving. The wound is healing very nicely and causes him but very little pain, and it is expected that he will be able to walk on the injured member in a few weeks.

By a recent letter from Theo. Reed, at Spokane Falls, we see he is in business there on his own account, as financial agent and broker, a line of business that we presume must be good in such a thriving place. He sends regards to all the folks here, where he and Mrs. Reed have many friends.

Notice came this week that Frank McDonald, died at the home of his father Col. I. B. McDonald, in Columbia City, January 12, at 9:40 p m. He had been sick for some time, with little hope of his recovery He was a young man of much promise, and his death will be generally mourned.

John Lochner, an enterprising young man, who has been in the employ of the sawmill for about a year, called up to see us Monday evening. He is a genial young fellow, and posesses at least one very good feature, that of keeping in mind the necessity of having his accounts square with the COURIER.

John Leasure, the jolly chief clerk of Kiblinger's hardware establishment, very good naturedly dealt out a liberal amount of cigars to the boys, as a sort of check upon his ecstasy over the advent of a young son at his house. It's a cold day when John fails to materialize, or loses sight of the standard of his reputation as a humorist.

Among those who called up to see the editor last week, were, John Bohler, of Waterloo, Hon. S S. Shutt, of Spencerville and E Ashley at this place. All are agreeable gentlemen, and left a reasonable amount of the "dust" that makes both ends meet with the printer, in our possession. Come again gentlemen, we are glad to see you and appreciate the substantial nature of such visits.

We have received a copy of the Ontario, Cal., Record sent by J. P. Ensley, containing a statement as to the great sugar beet factory soon to be established at Chino, a point in that section. It is to cost half a million, and will use 550 tons of beets daily, requiring 4,000 acres to supply them for a year. We presume the venture will be successful, as it is known that state, and indeed many parts of the Union will produce beets of the right quality. The only trouble there has ever been, is in the cost of production, and we presume improved methods have settled that.

We can give no reason why the Dispatch should take every opportunity to misrepresent, or at least to belittle an officer merely because he is a democrat, for a man's politics can never furnish a good reason for a wrong. Last week, in speaking of the trouble between Mrs. Hall and J. Bauer, it says: "He (Hall) swore out a warrant for Bauer's arrest and had it placed in the hands of Sheriff Plum. The warrant was not served for some reason, though we were informed Bauer was on the streets Monday evening and again Tuesday morning. He should have been heavily fined." The facts are that the warrant was properly served, Bauer plead guilty and was fined, paid his fine and costs, and all this the Dispatch could have learned easily had it wished to do so. The mote in the eye of our neighbor is always plain But if the Dispatch had an honest desire to see the county officers doing their duty and behaving themselves, it could call attention to a republican county recorder, trying to drink the saloons dry, and whipping his wife for diversion, and who is now under indictment to be tried at Angola for these offenses. The COURIER is willing to compare democratic with republican officers at any time.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Court continues three weeks yet.

Good supper for 15 cents Friday evening.

Squirrels cannot be killed now till till next June Good ider.

The COURIER gets in the earliest news from the legislature as usual.

Conny Little is married, so we learn, and has settled down in Chicago.

Mrs. Frank Rush and children went Tuesday to visit friends at Orland, Ind.

Old Mr. Kelling, who has been janitor at the school house so many years died yesterday.

Mrs. John Leasure has been critically ill since our last issue, but is now much better.

A few who have not squared up their taxes, will find an article of some interest in the COURIER this week.

H. J. Trentman let a hub fall on his foot too suddenly last week, and now has a serious difficulty in walking.

John Baird and Alma Livergood were married Sunday evening. The COURIER wishes them all possible happiness.

The Y. L. M. C. will meet next Friday afternoon and evening in the lecture room of the M. E. church. Tea at 6:30.

Mrs Bell returned Monday morning to her home at Detroit, after a stay of several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Yesbera.

The protracted efforts at the Church of God, began Sunday evening. It is hoped much good may be done ere the meetings close.

M. V. B. Spence, of Ft. Wayne, was in attendance at court yesterday. We believe he is attorney in the Emerick case now on trial.

Marshal Pfefferl went careering through our streets on a sled Tuesday. There was about an inch of snow. No sleighing so far this winter.

Mrs. J. M Hook returned Saturday from a prolonged stay at Battle Creek, Mich., where she has been for treatment. Her health is greatly improved.

Two of the COURIER's readers and friends, Mrs. Jacob Lutz and her neice, Miss Alice Wolf called in to renew their subscription this week. Both paid to '92.

Mr. Hineman, a horse buyer will be at Trout's livery barn for a week or two buying all the good horses he can get. All who wish to sell should call and see him.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

'Squire McGowan returned yesterday from Springfield, Ohio, bringing with him a fine blooded Jersey heifer. He also reports Will Hoagland and family well.

The Columbia City Times has been sold out to the republicans. Now it will be run to hurt the Commercial, instead of the Post, and so fill another "long felt want."

Mrs. Cannon, a former resident of this place, was buried here Sunday. Her home was in Chicago. She was the mother of J. F. Cannon and Mrs. Rebecca Cowhick.

Sheriff Plum has been quite sick with his old trouble, something like neuralgia of the stomach. He is out again now. Deputy Blum ran their end of the court all right in the meantime.

Roy Gregg, of Butler, will hereafter be a citizen of Auburn. He takes charge of the cigar factory which Geo. Weamer is going to start on West Eighth street. We give Mr. G. and family a cordial welcome.

Protracted meetings are in progress at the Baptist church. Services are held every evening. Our people should take an interest in these meetings. This is, we believe, the first protracted effort of the season.

Mike Douglas has a letter from his daughter, Mrs. Zollars, now at Nashville, Tenn. She and her husband are well, and getting along all right. They moved from their former place at Shelbyville a month or so ago.

Mrs. Phil Plum went up to Montpelier last week to visit the family of Capt. Scott who are relatives. He is T. P. Scott's father. She brings word that the Montpelier people have given up all hope of seeing the Wabash road built from that point.

See Beuret's advertisement this week. The New Process Vapor stove of which he is sole agent for this section, has no equal. Always ready to light. No need to wait while the burners are getting heated. Just strike a match and light four burners at once. Call in and see them work.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Penfield. Program, Outline History of England, Miss Keeran; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs Dills; The Religious History of England, Mrs. Henry; The English Powers, Mrs. Moss; Recitation, Mrs. Penfield; Music, Miss Weaver.

D. D Moody was able to get up town Tuesday, and is now considered all right. Mrs. Moody at the date of our last issue was dangerously ill, the result of her injuries in the runaway of Christmas and there were strong indication of concussion of the brain Dr. Watson now considers her as measurably out of danger.

J. N. Grover, one of our enterprising young men, left Tuesday noon over the Lake Shore for Jackson, Mich., where he expects to look out a location for business. He is a good fellow, and we hope success will crown his efforts. He has been a reader of the COURIER for some time, and when once settled will continue to peruse its pages for the news from old DeKalb.

A falsehood will travel faster and farther than a truth. We still hear from one or two in the north part of the county who believe the Press' statement about Mr Sawvel's supposed deputy, though the Press took it all back two week ago. Mr. Sawvel never engaged young Miser to help in the office. The young man has made a distinct statement to this effect.

Rev. Mr. Healy preached two good sermons to full houses at the Presbyterian church Sunday. He is making friends rapidly, and is very popular as a preacher We are told that our people will try to secure him as permanent pastor of the church. We feel sure they could not do better. He will preach again next Sundey morning and evening. All who like a good sermon should attend.

Hon. John H. Baker, well known here, has written a letter to Mr. Kinney at Angola, saying that the Lake Shore road, of which he is attorney stands ready to build a line from Fayette, Ohio, the present end of the old Canada Southern, west through Angola and Lagrange to Goshen, if the people will contribute money to get the right of way and put up depots and the first line of fence. He says the work will be done this year if the people will agree to this.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Fred. Yesbera and wife spent Sunday, in West Unity.

Remember the social at the Presbyterian church Friday evening.

Rev. D. F. Kain's son returned to his studies at Springfield, Ohio, last week.

John Frantz, was in town yesterday, and stuffed the COURIER cash box for another year.

Milo J. Thomas, of Corunna, was in town Tuesday. He reports the hardware business very fair at his place.

George Schnell, who worked at the Eckhart factory for some time, was married last week to Inis Green of this place.

Harry Henry came home Saturday from South Whitley, to spend a few days with his people, as he was in poor health.

Ft. Wayne Press: "Ex-Surveyor Van Auken and Ex Clerk Husselman, of DeKalb county, were in the city yesterday."

Mrs. A. B. Park, of Kendallville, was here over Sunday, visiting the family of T. C. Ford. She is a sister of the late Mrs. Dr. Ford.

James Clifton, the butcher, has finished putting up ice. Several other parties have laid in a fair supply. It is seven to eight inches thick.

Mrs. Phil Morel and her daughter-in-law Mrs. Geo. Morel, of Waterloo, were here, yesterday, visiting Mr. Nill's family, who are relatives.

Mrs. J. C. Veley is now in Bangor, South Dakota, with her daughter who married Will Hoffman, son of Lieutenant-governor J. H. Hoffman. They are close enough to the Indian trouble to make it rather interesting.

The Hicksville News, following the popular idea of the COURIER, is publishing letters as to the early history of that vicinity. The articles are written by Byron Work, now a resident of Angola, and they are very interesting.

A son of T. P. Keator claims he rode a bicycle from Waukesha, Wis., to Chicago, with the small hind wheel left off, in other words, he rode on the large wheel only. It looks now, as if this youth had inherited his father's ability to tell a dazzling fish story.

S. D. Hanna and Walter Hartman sang in the Presbyterian choir Sunday, in place of T. P. Scott and Fred Yesbera, who were absent. Both are good singers, as is also Mabel Hartman, who took the place of Mrs. Yesbera. We see no reason why these may not be added to the choir.

Fin Gibson, the popular South Main St., grocer and baker, had a poor oyster deal this week. He left a pail of oysters standing outside of his front door Monday evening, when they suddenly disappeared. The thieves kindly left the tin dipper for him. Fin. feels pretty certain he knows who had an oyster stew that evening.

Read the governor's message which we publish in full,—the earliest as usual. It contains a few good points. But his attack on the election law betrays the cloven foot. If the law is to be changed the way he proposes, it would be no better than the old law. It would give boodlers a better chance than ever. But a democratic legislature will see that no such change is made.

Recent daily papers from Cameron, Mo., all speak of the active church work being done there by Rev. H. A. Sawyers, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church here. He is president of the "Pastors' Association" there, and began a series of revival services this week at the church of which he is in charge. Our people will be pleased to hear that he is succeeding well in his work there.

Wm. Schnell, of this place, is now probably the youngest subscriber to the COURIER. Every live young man should take it, for it will always be found up to the times, and full of the best news, with all undesirable matter carefully excluded. It will moreover be of value to the young, to have reading matter not made up of slushy and slangy, and ungrammatical expressions. It is just as easy to read and acquire a taste for good English, as for bad.

O, Orange Festival.

Old Government Java
Old Hyson
Oleomargarine
Orangated Beefo
Old Boston Comforts
Our Staff
Orange Puddine
Orange a la Salade
Orange Cake
Old Pickles
Onions Sliced.

Oh, cOme tO enjOy a gOOd supper at the Presbyterian parlOrs On Friday afternOOn frOm five tO seven O'clOck.

Married.

January 1, 1891, at the residence of Joseph Koch, of Concord township, by Rev. S. S. Stanton, John W. Morr, of Jackson township, to Amanda Koch.

January 4, 1891, at the M. P. parsonage of St. Joe, by Rev. S. S. Stanton, Henry Hamm of Garrett, and Angelia A. White of Concord township.

January 11, 1891, at the residence of William Krise, of Concord township, by Rev. S. S. Stanton, William C. Koeht of Auburn, to Laura I. Krise, of Concord township.

Paid in December.

Though we are rather late with this list we are no less under obligations to those named as follows:

F. P. Engle, Wesley Jackman, J. Wm. Wagner, John W. Tarney, C. A. Washler, F. Beuchat, Milo Ruffner, G. Wes. St. Clair, T. J. Saxton, Alex Culbertson, D. Swihart, U. S. Weaver, Norris Friend, Mrs. E. Snyder, M. Hamilton, Isaac Farver, Joseph Truitt, Tell Elson, Wm. Wise, Abram Sherck, Geo. C. Cox, Wm. Knepper, David H Dove, R. B. Showers, A. B. Richards, Geo. Probst, F. W. Stoops, Mary E. Cool, W. G. Boren, J. H. Pile, B. F Fretz, S. J. Brandon, G. L. Esselburn, Miles Waterman, J. C. St. Clair, Geo. Foster, J. W. Osbun, Cyrus Brandaberry, John Beerer, E. E. Ensley, I. H. Groh, Clara McClellan, J. L. Ferguson, John Weinholt, A. E. Ashley, W. H. Palmer, James McClellan, Noah Lung, C. F. Bartles, A. J. Price. Wm. Sherwood, Christ. Bauer, James Barten, A. M. Baughman, Henry Emme, Wm. A. Goodrich, J. M. Friend, F. J. Trowbridge, John Witt, N. Friend, J. W. Cool, Wm. Treesh, G. I. Patterson, Levi T. Rice.

Poultry.

10.000 pounds of poultry wanted at once at the Palace meat market. I am now prepared to buy all kinds of poultry fe which I will pay the highest markert price during the season.

B. C. ZEIGLER,
Auburn, Ind. 40tf

PLENTY OF GOODS

AT THE

Usual Low Prices

AT

F. J. YESRERA'S

Jewelry Store.

QUICK SALES

SMALL PROFITS,

OUR MOTTO.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. J. YESBERA, The Jeweler,

AUBUR IND.

CLOSING OUT!

Our entire Stock of Clothing must be sold out at once for less than manufacturers' prices.

Come early and avoid the rush.

Overcoats are sold for almost less than one-half their value and everything else in proportion. Don't wait too long, for the Best Bargains will soon be sold.

CLOSING OUT!

O. J. SCHWARZ.

Dressmaking.

I desire to announce to the public that I am depending entirely upon my own resources and have thrown my home into a dressmaking establishment. I earnestly solicit a share of the patronage from the Auburn ladies, and will spare no pains to try to give satisfaction. Please give me an early call.

Most cordially,
MRS. CHARLEY JONES,
Opposite the Kiblinger Carriage Works.

A Lady at Portland, Ind.,

writes under date of Jan. 7, 1861 after using two weeks of POSITIVE PAINLESS PILE CURE: "S. U. Tarney, Dear sir: I am almost well. I shall take pleasure in telling others that are afflicted as I was. Yours Truly,
3-5 MRS. NETTIE GEIGER.

Horses for Sale.

Eight good horses for sale at the Lockwood stables east of the public square. Call on Joe Pfefferl at the stables for information, terms, etc. tf

Murillo.

What is Murillo? It is a kind of finishing for walls and ceilings. Better than kalsomine, better than paint, better than any other wall finishes, for it is easier to mix, easier to apply, adheres perfectly, never molds or spoils, and may be kept a long time till needed for use. Dampness, heat or cold do not affect it. Any number of coats may be used, and anyone can put it on. Get any color you want. Call on J. Beuret at his store on North Main street, Auburn. He is sole agent, and will show you all about it.

Farmers.—Your Timber.

We want some of your timber suitable for our hub and handle factory. Such things as these:

Elm butts, 4 to 14 inches in diameter.

Hickory and ash butts, 5 inches and upward.

Timber for handles, etc. For particulars call at the Hub and Handle factory, south of Wabash station, foot of Main street, Auburn, Indiana. tf

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, PUBLISHER.

ANOTHER WEEK'S NEWS.

PARNELL'S FRIENDS THREATEN ASSASSINATION.

Anxious to Swap Wives—Corrupt Juror Punished—Nine Drowned—A Bride Murdered at the Alter—Babies Starved for Insurance.

Want to Swap Wives.

A sensational report comes from Williamsburg, Ind., relative to Mr. Frank Helms, of that place, and Daniel Smith, of Carlos City, Randolph County, agreeing to swap wives. The report is that the Helms were disconsolate because they had no children and the Smiths because they were being favored with too many. By the swap Smith's wife, four children and small farm were to go to Helms, and Helms' wife and small town property to Smith. But Justice Rush, of Carlos City, on whom they depended to satisfy the law while they were satisfying themselves, could not "find it in the books" where the authority for divorce and remarriage under such circumstances has ever been given. Hence he got from under the responsibility they sought to impose on him, and the swap hangs fire.

Gubernatorial War in Nebraska.

The Supreme Court of Nebraska allowed ex-Gov. Thayer to file a quo warranto citing Gov. Boyd to show cause why he should not vacate his office. "However," said the court, "we recognize James E. Boyd as the legal Governor of Nebraska, and all the State departments do likewise. We would advise the ex-Governor to quietly and peacefully submit to the Governor, as it will do him no good to further resist." In spite of this Thayer refuses to vacate his office. The Board ot Public Lands and Buildings has again designated the quarters occupied by Thayer as the Governor's office, and will remove Thayer from the room, peaceably if possible, forcibly if necessary.

Parnell's Adherents Threaten Assassination.

The Sheffield Telegraph says that it has been informed from a secret source that in case Parnell is thrust from the leadership of the Irish party the extremists will immediately proceed to avenge him. It is said that they will form an assassination club to strike down his enemies, and that Gladstone, Tim Healy and others have been marked for vengeance; that Parnell is aware of this and clings to the leadership to avert it; and that O'Brien has also been informed of it, and that is the reason he is so anxious for an amicable settlement.

Babies Being Starved for Insurance.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of London, has been investigating baby farming, and has brought to light many startling circumstances. The illegitimate child of a governess and a general in the British army was found in the care of the baby farmer being slowly starved to death, although £50 had been paid for its care. The woman in charge had insured the infant's life for £20 more, and was waiting to realize when visited by the society's officers. Several prosecutions have been instituted.

A Bride Murdered.

George Estes and Fannie Hogan were married at a country church in Marion County, Alabama, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. Just as the ceremony was concluded a shot was fired through the window and the bride fell dead with a load of buckshot in her body. A discarded lover, who once told Miss Hogan she should never marry any one else, is suspected of the murder, but has not been arrested. When the persons who witnessed the tragedy reached the spot where the assassin stood no trace of him could be found.

Three Killed, Many Wounded.

Victoria, (B. C.) special: In an accident at Ocean dock, at an entrance to the harbor, three men were killed. The men, with others, were employed in discharging salmon from the steamer Danube and had piled up about 5,000 cases on a large shed. Suddenly the floor gave way, and the men and 1,000 cases of salmon were plunged into the water below. Three men were killed outright, and one fatally injured. Several others were seriously injured.

Corrupt Juror.

Judge McConnell, of Chicago, sent Thomas McEligott, a juryman, to jail to there remain until the end of the week. McEligott was a juror in the case of the State vs. Simon, a small condemnation proceeding. The jury went out to view the property. McEligott was intoxicated, it is said, and offered to sell his verdict to the Simons. When Judge McConnell heard of this matter he took prompt action.

Nine Drowned.

Paris special: Notwithstanding the contrary orders of the authorities and the efforts of police to enforce them, a number of men and boys attempted to cross the Seine on the ice. In the foolhardy attempt nine persons lost their lives.

Four Killed in a Sleigh.

At Clyde, Ohio, a Lake Shore passenger train ran into a sleigh which was crossing the track, entirely demolishing it and killing the horses. Milton Gilmore, Charles Ream, Grant Fleming and R. H. Babcock were killed.

Secured Their Advance.

After nearly a year's fight, the striking molders at Hoeffingshoff & Lanes foundry, Cincinnati, have secured an advance in wages of 5 per cent.

Senatorial Election.

Leland Stanford was re-elected United States Senator by the California Legislature.

Padlewski Identified.

There is no longer any doubt that the man arrested at Olot, Spain, as the assassin of Gen. Seliverskoff in Paris is Padlewski. He was fully identified by means of photographs forwarded to the police from Russia and Paris. He will be held to await the French authorities.

Sentenced to Prison.

George M. Bartholemew, ex-President of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., who fled to Canada about two years ago, surrendered himself, and was sentenced to one year in the State Prison.

A Son Assaults His Father.

Colonel John W. Moore, the millionaire coal and coke operator, of Greensburg, Pa., was almost fatally stabbed with a butcher knife in the hands of his son, Bert. The two were in the sitting room of Mr. Moore's house, when Bert suddenly attacked his father with a knife, cutting a deep gash in his left side. A neighbor who was passing heard the noise, and, running in, caught Bert and held him until the police came, when he was taken to jail. A physician was sent for, who dressed Col. Moore's wounds, which, though bleeding profusely, the doctor thinks will not prove fatal. The cause of Bert's act is not known. He has been leading rather a wild life of late and was intoxicated at the time.

AGED COUPLE'S PERIL.

Assaulted and Almost Killed by Desperate Robbers.

Shelbyville, Ind., special: Two robbers made a bold attempt to rob Charles Shafer, a wealthy farmer living five miles south of this city, and in trying to make the old man and his wife tell where their money was beat them nigh to death. Giving up the scheme they started to run, when the old man recovered his senses and started after them. They ordered him to stop and opened fire upon him, but failed to hit him. Neighbors heard the firing and came quickly to the scene, where they found the old people in a critical condition. Leaving some to take care of them, a large mob started in pursuit of the villains, who were coming afoot toward the city. A telephone message was sent to the officers here, and Marshal Mann and Constable Johnson started south in a buggy to meet them.

When they got a mile from town they met two men walking, who, discovering that they were officers, jumped over the fence and started on the run. Marshal Mann called to them to stop, but they paid no attention. Mann then drew his revolver and fired. The robbers returned the fire. Johnson, after hitching the horse, rushed to the scene and opened fire. Twelve shots were exchanged in quick succession, but the bandits were fast getting away. The officers came to town and gave the alarm. The mob from the scene of the attempted robbery came also. A hundred men armed with guns and pistols started on their trail, which is plain in the snow which fell at dusk.

Charles Walton was arrested at the house of his cousin, five miles east of here, and brought to the city where he was identified as one of the robbers and lodged in jail. Walton was in bed when found, his clothes were wet to the waist, caused by wading Blue River, and his revolver was in his overcoat with one chamber empty. The other robber was trailed to the city, but has not been apprehended. Walton refuses to talk.

THE WAR IS OVER.

The Entire Body of Indians Encamped Near the Agency.

A special from Pine Ridge, S. D., dated the 13th inst., says: It looks as though the Indian troubles would be ended tomorrow, and that without further bloodshed. The hostiles, with many warlike demonstrations and firing of rifles, have advanced to within about a mile of the agency, and Gen. Miles, confidently expects that by to-morrow night peace will reign supreme at the agency. Scout Gourard reports that the savages are wild and growing more uneasy as they approach the agency. They fear they are going to be swept off the face of the earth for the deviltry they have committed. The crisis will be reached when the savages go into camp here. Then it will only take a spark to set off the whole magazine. Artillery men were galloping through the camp to-day placing their heavy guns in more commanding positions. Everything is now so arranged that any hostile demonstrations on the part of the savages will be met by a fire which will instantly crush them.

This evening Gen. Miles sent the following communication to Buffalo Bill, who is in command of the Buffalo State troops:

"I am glad to inform you that the entire body of Indians are now camped near here, within a mile and a half. They show every disposition to comply with the orders of the authorities. Nothing but an accident can prevent peace being established, and it will be our ambition to make it of a permanent character. I feel that the State troops can now be withdrawn with safety, and desire through you to express to them my thanks for the confidence they have given your people in their isolated homes."

A BATTLE LOOKED FOR.

Indians Hemmed In By the Government Troops.

A special from Rushville, Neb., dated the 12th inst., says: The crisis has been reached, and a general battle is looked for to-morrow, and the circumstances are forcing a conclusion to the hostiles, and parleying will not be longer continued by either side. The Indians said yesterday that Gen. Miles must prepare to fight or get off the reservation. Gen. Miles, it is said, has given them until tonight to surrender, and if they do not come by that time he will close in upon them. This is made necessary by the condition of his men. Those on the north have been pretty well worn out with camp life in this bleak climate and the cold marches from one position to another. They can not stand it much longer, and unless matters are brought to an end at once the Indians will have no one to oppose them but worn-out and frozen-out soldiers, who are unfit for duty. The conduct of the men has been exceptional, and they have borne their hardships without a murmur.

Buffalo Bill is reported to have made the statement to-day that the ball will open to-morrow.

Fearful Famine.

Berlin special: The heartrending accounts of famine in Silesia continue to horrify everybody. Peter Klein telegraphs that the misery in the country about Clatz is indescribable. The cold is increasing, and there is no work nor no money to be had. In Pastor Klein's parish seventeen children have died for want of nourishment since Christmas. The price of breadstuffs and meat is 20 per cent. higher in Clatz than in the neighboring Austrian provinces. Whole families of weavers, father, mother, children, can hardy earn one mark per day.

Mania for Arson.

George Booth, aged 14 years, has confessed that he set fire on December 11, to the Big Four Company's grain elevator at Sandusky, Ohio, causing a loss to the Big Four Company of $40,000 and to the Sandusky Lumber and Box Company of $60,000. He also set the company's offices on fire December 13. He said he had no other motive than to see the fire-engines and hose carts come tearing down to the fire. He will be sent to the Reform Farm.

Gen. Miles to Force the Fighting.

A special from Pine Ridge Agency dated the 11th inst., says: A crisis is approaching. A cordon of soldiers under Gen. Brooke and Gen. Carr surrounding the hostiles were marching last night, and to-day they will be very close to the hostile camp. This move has been discovered by the Indians, and they have a big force of pickets in every direction. A strong line of them is not far from this camp. Gen. Miles is determined to force the issue from now on. He holds the opinion that a big battle is imminent and that it will take place very close to this camp. He favors this point, believing that he can defeat any number of them.

Who Wrote the Letter?

Representative Turner, of Kansas, gave to the Washington Post an explanation of the much talked of letter alleged to have been written by him to Frank McGrath, President of the Kansas Farmer's Alliance, concerning the Kansas Senatorship. The "letter was written," he said, "by a young man about twenty-six years of age who came to Washington from my district about two months ago. He was a lawyer and wanted an office. Finally, when it became apparent that he could not get an appointment, he became angry and in revenge wrote that letter. I do not care to make known his name, because I believe that he has gone to Kansas, in which event I will be able to have him arrested and punished."

Quay's Election Bill Substitute.

Senator Quay introduced a bill entitled, "An act to prevent force and fraud in federal elections, and to insure the lawful and peaceful conduct thereof."

The principal point of difference between the bill and the Hoar bill is in the last section, which is as follows: "When it shall appear to the satisfaction of the President of the United States that in any locality the provisions of this law cannot otherwise be executed, it shall be his duty, and he is hereby empowered to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and to employ the armed forces of the United States, naval and military, for its enforcement, and for the protection of the officers whose duties are hereby provided for."

Death in the Snow.

News has arrived at Vienna, of a serious disaster which has occurred at Livinoe, in Bohemia. An avalanche crashed down from the mountains near that place, destroying a number of houses, some of which were buried out of sight beneath the snow. As soon as rescuing parties could get to work the removal of the immense weight of snow which had rushed down upon the town was begun. The calamity is believed to have been an extremely fatal one, as already seventeen dead bodies have been removed from the ruins. In addition to the dead a number of persons severely injured have been extricated from the debris.

Another Man Birchalled.

Sir Charles Tupper cabled from London, England, to the Governor-General of Canada, asking for a description of Wadsworth, the English gentleman whose mysterious disappearance from Wallaceburg, Ont., last week, has aroused the fears of relatives in England. The fate of Belwell makes it reasonable that Wadsworth may have been done away with, from the fact that he had over £3,000 in his possession. Mr. Stanley cabled a reply, in which the missing man is described.

Big Shortage.

Two experts have been at work for some time upon the books of State Treasurer Major Woodruff, of Arkansas, and one of the bondsmen is reported as saying that they have already discovered a shortage of $94,000, and are not yet through with the work. It is said that Major Woodruff has been expecting assistance from the banks of Little Rock, but as the shortage is largely increasing and may be over $100,000, they refuse to help him.

Nebraska's Two Governors.

Lincoln special: The Gubernatorial situation remains unchanged. Governor Boyd is recognized by all the State officers, while Governor Thayer insists that he is still at the head of the State government. It is evident that Governor Boyd's warrants will be honored by the Auditor and Treasurer, while Governor Thayer will not be able to have supplies for his militiamen, pending the settlement to the controversy by the Supreme Court.

Panic in a Boston Hotel.

A fire which broke out in the office of the Crawford House, Boston, Mass., created considerable of a panic among the 125 guests, but all escaped safely except Arthur Meek, of Denver, who leaped from the second story window and was severely injured, both ankles being sprained. It is feared he suffered internal injuries. The loss is about $18,000.

Murdered His Mother-in-Law.

At Greenville, Ohio, Chris. Oelschlager went to the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Charlotte Eeese, and upon her refusal to sign a deed, he began plunging a dirk into her body. He stabbed the woman twenty-six times—three times through the heart. She died immediately. Oelschlager was arrested, and may be lynched.

O'Brien Will Adhere to Parnell.

The Dublin Evening Telegraph says that Mr. Hooper, who has attended the conference at Boulogne, has telegraphed to the Cork Herald to the effect that it is freely stated that Mr. O'Brien will absolutely adhere to Parnell, and that the McCarthyites will have to fight O'Brien.

Sitting Bull's Scheme.

A sensational story is published at Denver which endeavors to show that Sitting Bull had concluded a scheme whereby a united uprising of all the Indian tribes was to take place. The prompt action of the Government, however, nipped the scheme in the bud.

Big Ore Discovery.

A wonderfully rich mine has been discovered at Grand Rapids, Mich. The find is extremely rich and surpasses the highest grade ore taken from the Gogebic Mine, on the south shore of Lake Michigan.

Explosion—Many Killed.

A nitro-glycerine factory at Bradner, Ohio, was blown up. Buildings a mile away were wrecked. It is reported that several people were killed. The shock was felt for three miles.

Woman Crazy from Cigarette Smoking.

Martha Fry, a pretty woman of 22 years, San Francisco, was committed to the insane asylum. She had become insane from the excessive use of cigarettes

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime....	$3.25 @ 5.75
HOGS—Shipping Grades....	3.00 @ 4.00
SHEEP....	3.00 @ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	.92 @ .93
CORN—No. 2....	.49 @ .49½
OATS—No. 2....	.43 @ .44
RYE—No. 2....	.69 @ .71
BUTTER—Choice Creamery....	.24 @ .27
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats....	.09½@ .10½
EGGS—Fresh....	.22 @ .23
POTATOES—Western, per bu....	.92 @ .97
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping....	3.50 @ 4.75
HOGS—Choice Light....	3.00 @ 4.00
SHEEP—Common to Prime....	3.00 @ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	.95½@ .96½
CORN—No. 1 White....	.49½@ .50½
OATS—No. 2 White....	.45½@ .46
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE....	4.00 @ 5.25
HOGS....	3.00 @ 3.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	.94½@ .95½
CORN—No. 2....	.48½@ .49½
OATS—No. 2....	.44½@ .45½
BARLEY—Minnesota....	.73 @ .74
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE....	3.00 @ 4.50
HOGS....	3.00 @ 3.75
SHEEP....	3.00 @ 5.50
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	.97½@ .98½
CORN—No. 2....	.53½@ .54½
OATS—No. 2 Mixed....	.46 @ .47
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring....	.87 @ .88
CORN—No. 3....	.50 @ .50½
OATS—No. 2 White....	.46½@ .47½
RYE—No. 1....	.69 @ .71
BARLEY—No. 2....	.67 @ .69
DETROIT.
CATTLE....	3.00@ 4.50
HOGS....	3.00@ 3.75
SHEEP....	3.00 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	.94 @ .94½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow....	.51½@ .52
OATS—No. 2 White....	.45½@ .46
TOLEDO.
WHEAT....	.96 @ .96½
CORN—Cash....	.52 @ .52½
OATS—No. 2 White....	.43½@ .44½
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime....	4.00 @ 5.00
HOGS—Medium and Heavy....	3.50 @ 4.25
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard....	1.08 @ 1.08½
CORN—No. 2....	.57½@ .58½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime....	3.50 @ 5.00
HOGS—Light....	3.25 @ 4.00
SHEEP—Medium to Good....	4.00 @ 5.50
LAMBS....	5.00 @ 6.50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE....	3.50 @ 5.25
HOGS....	3.25 @ 4.25
SHEEP....	4.00 @ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red....	1.05 @ 1.06
CORN—No. 2....	.60 @ .61
OATS—Mixed Western....	.49 @ .52

PARAGRAPHS OF LIFE.

IN THE GREAT AND GLORIOUS STATE OF INDIANA.

Hunters Ignoring the Law—Impaled on a Pitchfork—Burned to Death—Suicides—Deaths.

Indiana Legislature.

The Legislature of Indiana convened at the State Capitol, January 8. The House was called together by Secretary of State Griffin. The following officers were thereupon selected:

Speaker, M. J. Biblack, of Knox; Clerk, Thomas Newkirk, of Rush; Door-keeper, Frank D. Haimbaugh, of Miami; Assistant Clerk, Charles Crawley, of Sullivan. For Speaker the Republicans voted for Mr. Hess, of Wabash, and for W. F. Severson, of Tippecanoe; B. A. Nay, of Jefferson, and John Childs of, Delaware, for Clerk, Assistant Clerk and Door-keeper respectively.

The Senate was called to order by Lieut. Gov. Chase, and the following officers were elected: D. H. Fenton, of Lake, Secretary; Geo. F. Pleasants, of Switzerland, Assistant Secretary; O. T. Wells, of Marion, door-keeper, and W. Mannix, of Allen, Postmaster.

The Governor's message was read January 9. In the Senate a resolution was presented looking to a redistricting of the State for judicial purposes.

Minor State Items.

—The name of New Providence, Clark County, has been changed to Barden.

—A movement is on foot to start a bank at Darlington, Montgomery County.

—John S. Donham, near Brazil, has in his possession a flax-hackle, bearing date 1761.

—John R. Moore has been employed as a compositor on the Wabash Journal twenty-one years.

—Fred C. Dahne was arrested in Laporte, Wednesday, charged with scattering "green goods."

—John Hitz, Madison fruit-grower, says his raspberries net him a yearly profit of $50 per acre.

—Bud Whitesides was kicked in the head by a mule at Jeffersonville and has gone violently insane.

—Michigan City is counting on getting the shops for the manufacture of the Hoffman ice machines.

—Edwin Terrell, minister to Belgium, cabled to his home in Richmond the announcement of his wife's death.

—Natural gas, with a strong flow, was struck at Princeton at a depth of 630 feet. The town went wild with enthusiasm.

—A stationary engine at the O'Brien wagon-works, at Lafayette, "ran away," demolishing itself and everything within reach.

—Mrs. Daniel Forrester, of Liberty, a young widow, was shot twice by Mrs. Harry Griffin. A love affair was the cause.

—Mrs. John Hartun was instantly killed near Clay City by the discharge of a revolver lying in a trunk she was moving.

—Horace McPherson, near Akron, was terribly disfigured by the accidental discharge of his shotgun in his face. He may die.

—Mrs. Edward Poindexter, colored, Marion, was found dead lying by a gas fire, badly burned. Believed to have been murdered.

—The daughter of L. N. Redman was fatally injured by being thrown against a desk while romping in a school-house near Millersburg.

—A farm-hand named Newby, near Cartersburg, upon entering the barn at the Davis farm, was shot and seriously wounded by tramps.

—Henry Baker, a Chicago and Indiana coal road brakeman, was struck on the head by a detached car, at Coxville, and will die of his injuries.

—Citizens' natural gas company, Shelbyville, in opposition to the one now furnishing the city with gas, will sink wells near Fountaintown.

—Joseph Plew, serving a life sentence in the prison north, from Warsaw, for murder, died recently. He confessed his gutlt on his death bed.

—Mrs. Edna Fearley, of Shelbyville, got $2,000 damages from Samuel Hamilton, of Madison, for injuries received by falling into his open cistern.

—Dr. Edward Viets, of Plymouth, has been held in $2,500 bonds, charged with assaulting Mary, the 14-year-old daughter of Bradley C. Southworth.

—John Creamur, of Jeffersonville, who was injured by the fall of a derrick at the Union Cement Company's works, has been paid $4,000 in settlement of his claim.

—Mrs. Jacob Carl, Jonesboro, kept count of the pies she baked in 1890, and says the total is 696. Says nothing about the number of dyspeptics in her family.

—The Business Men's Association at Crawfordsville, are determined to get the New Market hub and spoke factory, which can be secured for $5,000 and five acres of land.

—Muncie Herald tells about a man named John Edwards, living there, who is so inhuman mean to his wife that the "White Caps" ought to lash him three times a day.

—William Park, teacher at Tiflinger's school, Clark County, refused to give the usual holiday treat, got into a fight with some of the larger pupils, and was roughly handled.

—Dr. Solomon Davis, an old soldier and prominent citizen of Lexington, died of heart disease. The old man had been confined to his room for several years from the effects of a fall. He was found sitting in his invalid chair, dead.

—Elder Wm. Green, living near Dugger, married and the father of three children, was arrested, charged with being unduly fond of Miss Lou Cade, a member of his flock. They waltzed him out of the pulpit so quick "his head swimmed."

—At Lincoln, Edward Criswell was found dead within a hundred yards of his home, with his gun lying near. He was returning from hunting, and is supposed to have met his death by accidents. His bird dog went home and brought the family to his body.

—Mr. Michael Gormerly, an old man residing in Shoals, went about three miles in the country for a wagon-load of hay. While loading his wagon he made a misstep, and, with a pitchfork in his hand, fell, and one tine of the fork passed directly through his heart, killing him instantly. He leaves no family.

—The Montgomery County grand jury has returned an indictment against a young lady for stealing chickens.

—Farmers in the southern part of the State are killing all the quail they want, just utterly ignoring the quail law.

—At the house of James H. Davis, near Hagan, his little daughter, aged 3 years, was horribly burned by her clothing igniting while alone in the house, and died within two hours.

—Mrs. James Stinson, near Danville, poured coal oil all over herself, and then applied a match. Her husband was badly burned trying to save her, and both are in for repairs.

—Thomas B. Foster, living near White Hall, one of the best known citizens of Monroe County, died from paralysis. He was 71 years old, and a member of the Christian church.

—A Midland train and a freight on the C., C., C. & St. L. collided at a crossing at New Ross. The Midland engine was destroyed and the engineer severely injured. The property loss was $8,000.

—Ruth Hollingsworth, a young lady 24 years old, living near Dana, was fatally burned by her dress catching fire from an open fireplace. Her clothing was consumed and her body burned to a crisp.

—J. B. Foster, of the Fort Wayne Sentinel composing-room, has invented a contriviance for printers' use while distributing type, called the "compositor's bracelet wrist protector." Said to be just the thing.

—Among the members of the Seventh Cavalry killed in the battle of Wounded Knee were James Coffy, of Richland Township, and James Campbell and W. F. McClintock, or Benton Township, Monre County.

—Albert Cochran, while walking on Main street, Brazil, accidentally slipped and a gun he was carrying discharged itself into his body, tearing one leg off and inflicting a dangerous and perhaps fatal wound.

—Robert Holloway, of Crawfordsville, has received notice from the Canadian Queen, at Toronto, that he had won one of the first prizes in the word contest, which will either be a free pass to Europe with expenses, or $750.

—Jefferson Vest, a resident of Greenwood, met with a severe accident the other day. He was working with a revolving emery-wheel when it burst, striking him in the face, breaking both jaw-bones and knocking out his teeth. At the time his injuries were considered fatal, but now he has good prospects of recovery.

—Miss Martha Miller, daughter of Judge Miller, of Greensburg, visiting at the residence of Mr. Joseph I. Irwin, Columbus, went out riding with Mr. Wm. G. Irwin. When the two returned to the residence the horse took fright and ran away, throwing Mr. Irwin to the ground and cutting a gash on the top of his head, from which he bled profusely. The buggy was turned over and Miss Miller was thrown out. She suffered a slight wound on the head.

—William S. Pope has filed a suit in the Circuit Court at New Castle, against his mother-in-law, Martha Kendall, a wealthy farmer's wife, for alienating the affections of his wife, and asking for $5,000 damages. He alleges that shortly after his marriage to the defendant's daughter, the latter was coaxed and persuaded to leave him, and that by reason of her desertion of him he has suffered great mental anguish, and had his life rendered a barren waste.

—It is seldom that three weddings occur in one family on the same day, but such a transaction took place at the Funderburg residence in Rock Creek Township, Huntington County. The first couple united were Madison McIlwain and Mrs. Mary Funderburg. Next came Edward Funderburg, son of the former named bride, and Nellie McIlwain, daughter of the first named groom. Then James Gray and Lillie Funderburg, the latter also Mary's daughter, took the binding obligation.

—The result, with the average percentage of the examinations, for the appointment to West Point for the Eighth district, is as follows: W. S. McBroom, Montgomery County, 94.2; L. G. Cavins, Sullivan, 85.1; Herbert L. Jones, Vigo, 83; Howard Griest, Montgomery, 82.8; Hardy Conver, Fountain, 75.8; Wallace Wheat, Parke, 75.2; Robert F. Darby, Vermillion, 73.4; H. R. Rosencranse, Parke, 63.7; Wm. Plumb, Brazil, 55.6.

—A big fall of slate in the Diamond Mine at Coal Bluff crushed Henry and Joe McCahan, father and son, and slightly injuring William Lawhorn and B. Morgan. The former is in a critical condition and may die. In the same mine, Dan Piper caught his hand under a bolt on an ascending cage and was hoisted to the top, nearly a hundred feet. The cage had to be lowered again for his release.

—The enterprising farmers of Greenwood have undertaken the cultivation of tobacco. Parties from Louisville will erect a large tobacco warehouse, furnishing them a home market for their products. Several acres were cultivated last year with marked success and large profit, and this year about one hundred acres will be planted. The tobacco shipped from this place last year was graded first-class and commanded the highest price. This fact promises to make this a great tobacco region.

—A South Bend poultry buyer had to pay $5 for bringing a load of ducks to town with their legs tied. South Bend has a vigilant humane society.

—Mack and Woody Underwood, colored, aged 11 and 13 years, at Terre Haute, confessed to the robbery of their grandfather and father of $139, and that to cover the theft from the father they burned the house. This was about a year ago and so cunningly did the youngsters plan the crime it was only recently that they were suspected.

—While Walter Bairiy, of Monticello, was sawing strips at the bending factory, his left hand got caught in the saw at the wrist, and was cut entirely off, leaving only a part of the thumb, which had to be amputated.

—A carefully itemized statement of the amount of building done in Bloomington during the year 1890, foots up a total of $116,430, which does not include street improving, machinery plants or work of that nature. It is claimed that for a city of five thousand inhabitants this showing cannot be made outside of the gas belt.

HER VOICE IS SILENT.

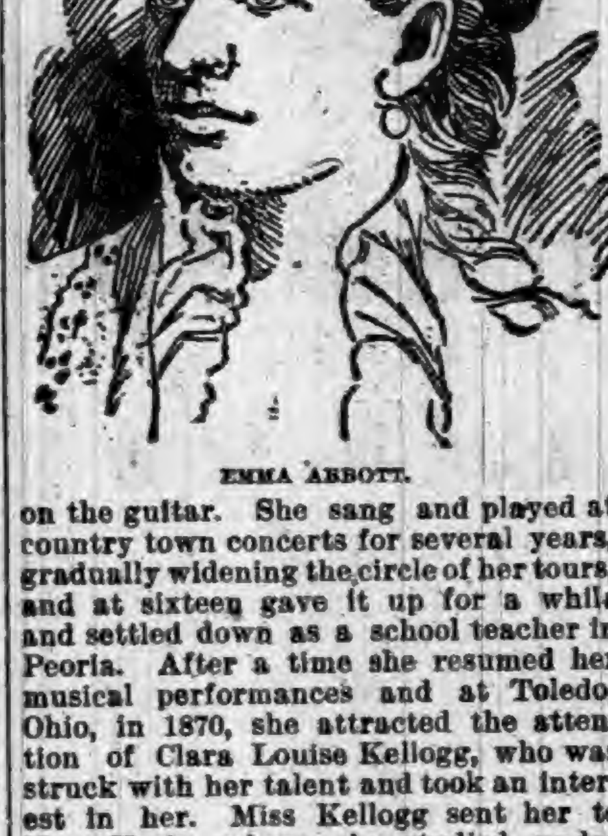
EMMA ABBOTT, THE VOCALIST, IS DEAD.

She Said Her Next Song Would Be Sung in Heaven, and the Silent Messenger Soon After Sent His Summons—Brief Biography of the Great Singer.

Emma Abbott (Mrs. Eugene Wethersill), the gifted and well-known opera singer, died of pneumonia in Salt Lake City, Utah, after an illness of but two days' duration.

Miss Abbott's career had been a remarkable one. She was born in Chicago in 1850 and went with her parents to Peoria, Ill., when four years of age. Here her early life was spent.

Her taste for music was hereditary, her father having been a music teacher. He was not very successful financially, however, but before she was ten years old Emma was able to give him considerable aid in keeping the family by singing at concerts, accompanying herself on the guitar. She sang and played at country town concerts for several years, gradually widening the circle of her tours, and at sixteen gave it up for a while and settled down as a school teacher in Peoria. After a time she resumed her musical performances and at Toledo, Ohio, in 1870, she attracted the attention of Clara Louise Kellogg, who was struck with her talent and took an interest in her. Miss Kellogg sent her to New York, where she studied under Errani, and after a time was engaged as soprano at the Church of the Divine Paternity, of which Rev. Dr. E. H. Chapin was pastor. There she attracted the attention of many prominent people, among whom were Horace Greeley, C. D. Huntington, George G. Lake and others. Mrs. Lake took her to her house, and an organized effort was made to give her a thorough training. She was sent to Italy in 1872, where she studied for some months under Giovanni at Milan, and then by the advice of Christine Nilsson, whose attention she had attracted, she went to Paris. There she took lessons in vocalization from Wartel and at the same time took lessons in French, Italian, dancing, fencing and acting at the Conservatoire and Opera Comique.



EMMA ABBOTT.

Miss Abbott made her debut at Florence and was enthusiastically encored. She then went to England and made her first appearance at the Royal Italian Opera, Convent Garden, and was received with great warmth. Then she went to the Crystal Palace, where her singing brought her to the favorable notice of Col. Mapleson, who engaged her for three years. She sang in all the principal towns in England, Ireland, and Scotland, and became a great favorite. She had already achieved a reputation abroad before her own country had an opportunity of hearing her after her voice and taste had been thoroughly trained.

She returned to the United States in 1880, and made her first appearance in New York, turning over the proceeds to a charity connected with the church through which she had been enabled to go to Italy. From that time on she became a general favorite all over the United States. She married Eugene Wetherell, her business manager, and organized a company of her own, which soon became very successful. Miss Abbott always selected her own assistants, tried their voices and assigned to them their parts. Her company was run on business principles. Mr. Wetherell died in Kansas City about a year ago while his wife was in Denver, and she retired for a time from the stage. She contemplated a permanent retirement, but was induced to give up the idea. Miss Abbott was very wealthy, her fortune being estimated at over $1,000,000.

The Nose for News.

Frank Ottarson was night editor one night. About 11 o'clock Mr. Greeley said to him: "Ottarson, there will be such and such a paper from this State by the mail to-night, and there will be a nomination in it, and I want you to get it in the Tribune." The expected nomination was from a Congressional district to which there was a great deal of interest attached. The paper came, and "Ot" looked over it but could not find the nomination, so the Tribune went to press without it. Next morning Greeley asked for Ottarson. Mr. Rooker sent for him and said: "Greeley wants to see you. There's something wrong."

"Oh, I know what it is," said "Ot." "He wanted me to get a nomination out of a paper that came, and it was not in."

"Well, let's see what it is," said Mr. Rooker. They went to Mr. Greeley, who hailed the night editor with: "Why didn't you get that nomination up?"

"It didn't come."

"You lie. Here it is in the Times. I know it came."

"Well," said poor old "Ot," "I don't know where they got it. I looked all through and couldn't find it."

"Show me the paper," said Mr. Greeley.

The paper was hunted up, and Mr. Greeley looked at it and immediately said:

"There it is."

"Well, I didn't see it," said Ottarson.

"See it!" was the reply. "You ought to smell it. You ought to smell news."

Gossip About Women.

THE question of higher schools for girls in London has recently been attracting much attention.

THERE are now women students at the universities of St. Petersburg, Moscow, Kiew, Charkow and Odessa.

THE Queen of the Belgians is an excellent linguist and has just accomplished the task of learning the Walloon language.

PRINCESS BEATRICE is engaged upon a birthday book, which will soon be published, but it is only to be privately circulated.

SOME fond mothers are holding off the christening until they hear the full returns, after which some baby boy will bear the name of the winner.

MISS GRACE HARRIMAN, an English woman who has started a scheme for employing women as market gardeners, has subscribed all the capital for starting the work.

THE Silver Cross Circle of King's Daughters proposes soon to open a house where apartments of one, two or three rooms will be rented at the lowest possible rate to widows with children to support.

Disorders Which Affect the Kidneys Are among the most formidable known. Diabetes, Bright's disease, gravel, and other complaints of the urinary organs are not ordinarily cured in severe cases, but they may be averted by timely medication. A useful stimulant of the urinary glands has ever been found in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine which not only affords the requisite stimulus when they become inactive but increases their vigor and secretive power. By increasing the activity of the kidneys and bladder, this medicine has the additional effect of expelling from the blood impurities which it is the peculiar office of those organs to eliminate and pass off. The Bitters is also a purifier and strengthener of the bowels, an invigorant of the stomach, and a matchless remedy for biliousness and fever and ague. It counteracts a tendency to premature decay, and sustains and comforts the aged and infirm.

Why the Price Rose.

Customer—What are these beans worth?

Grocer—Five cents a pound, madam.

"Good Gracious! That's an awful price for beans. What makes them so dear?"

"Three Boston drummers were in town yesterday, aud ate one-half the bean crop of this country."—Arcola Record.

"I WANT an honest dollar!" exclaimed the politician. "Go to work, then," cried one of his hearers.—New Haven News.

COPYRIGHT 1890

In reading over the literary items of the week, I found not much to interest me, until my eye caught sight of an article headed "Jenks' Dream." Imagine my surprise to find it ended up with a recommendation to use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Nevertheless, being a great sufferer from sick headache, I determined to try them, and, to my great joy, I found prompt relief, and by their protracted use, a complete mmunity from such attacks. Pierce's Pellets often cure sick headache in an hour. They are gently laxative or actively cathartic, according to size of dose. As a pleasant laxative, take one each night on retiring. For adults, four act as an active, yet painless, cathartic. Cause no griping or sickness. Best Liver Pill ever made. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. For Constipation, Indigestion and Bilious Attacks, they have no equal.

Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of the WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

"German Syrup"

Here is something from Mr. Frank A. Hale, proprietor of the De Witt House, Lewiston, and the Tontine Hotel, Brunswick, Me. Hotel men meet the world as it comes and goes, and are not slow in sizing people and things up for what they are worth. He says that he has lost a father and several brothers and sisters from Pulmonary Consumption, and is himself frequently troubled with colds, and he often coughs enough to make him sick at his stomach. Whenever he has taken a cold of this kind he uses Boschee's German Syrup, and it cures him every time. Here is a man who knows the full danger of lung troubles, and would therefore be most particular as to the medicine he used. What is his opinion? Listen! "I use nothing but Boschee's German Syrup, and have advised, I presume, more than a hundred different persons to take it. They agree with me that it is the best cough syrup in the market." ①

Hereditary Consumption

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

CANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles.

EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!
LUNEAS! NEVADA!
IMPERIAL PINK!
ROUSSEL ROSE
EDEN BOUQUET!
LILY OF THE VALLEY!
All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a flower, Lasting as the hills."

If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.
46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?

1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.

2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.

3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.
CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.
GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.
Masters Croup and Whooping Cough.
BUY AT DRUGGISTS.
HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR for LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; STRENGTH General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; [illegible] BUFFALO, N. Y.

BRIGHTER THAN STARS OF NIGHT.

BY MRS. NAPOLEON B. MORANGE.

What need to ask was her heart my own,
The very breeze in its undertone
Whispered; she loves but you;
My glance caught her eyes of melting brown,
The lashes drooped demurely down;
The whisper then was true.

The world embraced by a summer night
Lay half asleep in the tender light,
As together we walked alone;
The whole world seemed replete with love!
What need to question the stars above
And ask was her love my own?

What were the million stars of night!
Could they make my future pathway bright
With their pale and far endeavors?
We homeward turned, silent, alone;
No need to ask was her heart my own;
We were plighted, happy lovers.

NEW YORK CITY.

WITH EYES IMMORTAL.

BY M. J. ADAMS.

'Tis said
The dead
Beyond this life
See all our strife;
Our struggles long and vain;
For worldly fame and gain,
With eyes immortal; note the days
Devoted to ungodly ways—
The wanderings astray, foolhardy, blind—
Look down and pity loved ones left behind,
Yet feel no grief nor know regret,
Nor pains the hours of life beget;
For peace is all they know,
Greater than bliss below,
For eternity
Poor mortals, we,
Should sigh
To die!

RAVENNA, Ohio.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER XIV.—Continued.

Sir Reginald was a very unpleasant sick person.

Of a fiery disposition, he would rate soundly any person who did not instantly acquiesce to his opinions.

This failing, together with his rough and ungentlemanly words, often brought tears into the eyes of Ethel, who was entirely unused to such harshness.

Often she would question her own heart, whether it was her duty to remain and bear the many petty trials that daily arose to meet her.

Then she would remember the promise given her aunt, and would try to banish each unpleasant scene from her mind, by striving to think of some way in which to lead his thoughts into a purer and better channel.

"I must have been sent here for some especial purpose in the providence of God, and it may be that it was to be instrumental in saving the soul of this poor man. But how can I obtain the least influence over him, when he is so eccentric and unapproachable. The only way that seems at all feasible will be to introduce some religious reading, and perhaps now and then drop some thoughtful and holy sentiment. But he is so rank an unbeliever, and so utterly profane, I fear every effort in his behalf will prove a failure."

That afternoon she found an opportunity to put in force one of her good resolutions.

Sir Reginald had asked her to read the daily newspaper.

This she had done, and after a tedious hour spent in that manner, she took a Bible from the table near by and without a word commenced reading the fourteenth chapter of St. John:

"Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me.

"In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.

"And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."

Thus far had she progressed in her conscientious effort to bring something holy to bear upon the sufferer's mind, when suddenly the book was snatched from her hand, and hurled across the room, while in a tone of thunder, and with wicked oaths, he bade her—

"Stop that canting, hypocritical work, and never dare read from that old book of fables again in my presence. It is bad enough to lie here suffering, without having religion thrust in my way at every turn."

"But, Sir Reginald," pleaded the shocked girl with a trembling voice, "a few words from God's own book, has often proved a source of great comfort to Christians, upon a bed of pain——"

"Oh, yes! I know all you wish to say, but I tell you, once for all, it won't comfort me, for I am no Christian. I do not believe in that folly, and I won't have it around."

With a sigh of weary resignation, Ethel crossed the room, and picking up the volume she loved so well from the floor, she tenderly smoothed its rumpled leaves, and restored it to its place on the table.

"Stop!" he roared, as it left her hand. "I said I would not have it around! I warn you it shall not even remain in this room. Carry it instantly away, and never let me hear a word regarding it, or its contents, from you again."

Reluctantly obeying the bold, impious command, Ethel carried the sacred book to her own apartment, and again resumed her task of reading long political articles and descriptions of races and events that had occurred in the fashionable world, while her soul was yearning to give to the wicked master of this strange old Hall the true bread of life.

In one of Dr. Elfenstein's visits, he had been presented with a quantity of exceedingly choice flowers, by a grateful patient, and suddenly remembering the dismal life Ethel Nevergail was leading, he resolved to divide them with her.

Driving then, first to his own home before seeking the Hall, he selected the most beautiful, and forming them into a graceful bouquet, drove into the ramble with them in his hand.

Belle was in the drawing-room, and saw him leap from the gig, with his floral prize, so stepped quickly from the window that reached to the floor, in order to attract his attention, supposing, in her extreme vanity, that he would instantly present them to herself.

But, to her deep chagrin, he merely made a few passing observations, and walked on, carrying the coveted flowers with him.

Biting her lips in keen vexation, she muttered as she retreated to the room she had left:

"I will stay here and watch for his return. Something seems to tell me that those flowers are for that odious Ethel Nevergail. If they are——"

She did not finish her sentence audibly, but the ominous look in her eyes told of bitter feelings that would seek some petty revenge.

Ethel was passing through the upper hall to her room, when Dr. Elfenstein ran lightly up, and as he pronounced her name to detain her she tarried until he reached her side.

"Miss Nevergail, I do not know whether you are as fond of flowers as I am, but I have brought you a few, hoping they may cheer you in your lonely duties."

"Oh, thank you, Doctor! They will, indeed, as I love them dearly. These are perfect beauties and I shall prize them highly."

"That rose, I think, will adorn your hair to perfection. Allow to fasten it there. May I?"

With a pleased blush the young girl bent her head, and with skillful fingers Earle placed it just above her small, white ear, where it nestled lovingly, adding a new charm to her bright young face.

Just as he was finishing, a step approached, and Belle, who could not restrain her curiosity another moment, as she had heard him pause on the floor above, and then make some remark in a low tone, came upon the scene.

Just in time to see his hand leave the rose, and to see Ethel turn toward her own room, and disappear with the bouquet in her hand and a gratified smile hovering around her lips.

Waiting until she had seen the Doctor leave the premises, and Ethel again repair to Sir Reginald's side, the malicious girl proceeded directly to that room where she found the flowers carefully bestowed in a fancy vase upon the dressing-case.

Seizing them without a moment's hesitation, she turned directly to the baronet's room.

Ethel sat by the bed, and at his request was striving to cool his heated brow by gently moving a fan. Raising her eyes, to her astonishment she recognized her flowers, but before she could claim them Belle's angry voice arrested her attention.

"Sir Reginald," she exclaimed, "I think it my duty to inform you that Miss Nevergail seems to have forgotten her position as your assistant nurse and paid dependent, and seizes every opportunity that offers to carry on sly flirtations with gentlemen. I just surprised Dr. Elfenstein placing that rose in her hair outside your door, while at the same time he gave her these flowers. Do you approve of such behavior?"

"Approve? No; of course not!" he returned, flying into a passion at once, as she well knew he was sure to do. "Miss Nevergail, what business have you to conduct yourself in that style? Did I bring you here to form intrigues with gentlemen?"

"You certainly did not," was the calm reply, "nor have I done so. Dr. Elfenstein is an old friend, and as such he presented me with the flowers Miss Glendenning has taken from my room. Being my own property now, I will thank her for their restoration." So saying, she reached forth her hand for them.

But Belle drew back and scornfully replied:

"You shall never have them again, I assure you, as I shall instantly see that every stem, leave and bud is destroyed. If you do not know your place better in this house than to put yourself on an equality with its visitors, you must be taught. Do you not think so, Sir Reginald?" she added, appealing to him.

"Certainly. Just take the trash away and see that it is destroyed. I shall myself inform Dr. Elfenstein."

"You will not do that, surely, uncle. He would then be vexed with me," Belle hastily exclaimed. "I will destroy them, since you wish it also, but not until you promise to say nothing to him about it."

"Well, have it your own way; but if I do not, perhaps Miss Nevergail will."

"She dare not! she knows it would seem unmaidenly to mourn over the loss of a few flowers that were his gift, in his presence. I am not at all afraid of her doing so."

So saying, regardless of Ethel's beseeching words and looks, the spiteful girl left the room with her ill-gotten treasures, and Ethel saw them no more.

Sir Reginald remained excited, cross and nervous, for some time after this scene, and poor Ethel found it almost impossible to please him in anything she attempted.

The sight of the flower she still wore seemed to aggravate him, although he made no further comments upon the subject, but Ethel felt that without a direct command she was not required to remove it.

Therefore it remained, and when Dr. Elfenstein returned in the afternoon for his usual second visit to the sick man, he smiled as his eyes rested upon it, but never was told the fate of the rest of his offering nor heard of the hard words she had endured on account of his friendly gift.

CHAPTER XV.

ANOTHER STARTLING ADVENTURE.

After Robert Glendenning had been so justly repulsed by Ethel in the grounds of the hall, he felt exceedingly ill-used, and the more he pondered over the coldness of this beautiful girl toward himself the more he felt inclined to punish her want of appreciation of his merits as a handsome, wealthy, and popular young man.

Her decided repulse of every overture that he had made served but to enforce the desire he felt to subdue her pride and turn her feelings into fawning admiration.

Robert Glendenning was not, as Ethel had supposed, a dissipated and depraved man, but owing to the strange influences of his childhood he was a vain, reckless and utterly selfish one, having a strong will of his own, together with a teasing, mischievous temperament. Under proper government while young he might have made a noble man, but neglect and indulgence, together with the baneful examples of both his uncle by marriage and his spoiled sister, he had allowed his nature to become perverted, and drifted into the weak character we now find him.

Immediately after his last adventure with Ethel, while yet chafed and sore on account of it, his sister gave him a graphic account of the presentation of the flowers by Dr. Elfenstein, and her own bold destruction of them, then concluded by saying:

"She's a proud, stuck-up thing, and I do delight in humiliating her lofty feelings. I intend to do all I can to bring her from the high pedestal on which she has perched, and if I can only incense Sir Reginald against her, so that he will send her away, I shall be delighted. Bob, I wish you would help me."

"I will do all I can to reduce her abominable pride, I assure you, though I do not care to have her sent away. She shall, however, repent snubbing me as she did yesterday."

"Snubbing you! What do you mean? Did she really dare to do that?"

"She did, indeed."

Robert then related his experience with the object of their discussion.

"The idiot! She does not deserve your further notice! However, if I see a chance to lower her in Sir Reginald's esteem, I shall do it. If needful, I shall call on you for assistance."

That afternoon the wished-for opportunity arrived.

Belle happened to be in her uncle's room a few moments, when she heard the following conversation take place, which gave her a plan upon which to work.

Sir Reginald had received a note from a neighbor in reference to some very important private business, which he found necessary to attend to immediately. Wishing some intelligent person to see and converse with Mr. Perkins in regard to the matter, he had explained his views to Ethel before Belle had entered, and was just saying:

"Do you think you could find Mr. Perkins for me and attend to this important work, Miss Nevergail?"

"I do. I understand your wishes perfectly now; so if you can direct me there, I will go at once."

"You had better not go around the road, as the walk would be full a mile and a half, but go from the rear of the Hall and take a short cut through the fields. There will only be a couple of bars to lower, and the path is direct and plain."

"Then I will start at once."

"It will only take you until about 5 o'clock to go and return. Please be as quick as possible in getting back, as I shall need you by that time. You understand, I wish you to hurry. I never like a person to loiter when I send them upon an errand."

"I will certainly return as quickly as possible," returned Ethel, as she left the room to prepare for her walk.

This, as I said, was Belle's opportunity.

Seeking Robert at once, therefore, she informed him of the errand Ethel had to transact for Sir Reginald, and his strict injunction that she should hasten back to his side.

"He told her the whole work could be accomplished by five o'clock. Now, Robert, I think it would provoke him greatly if she were detained until seven. Can you not intercept her on her return, and manage to keep her away?"

"Yes, indeed. It will be splendid fun. I will do it. If I cannot keep her in any other way I will force her into a phaeton and take her off upon a ride."

"Do; then I will inform his lordship that she was seen riding with some strange young man."

"Ha, ha! good; and if she says it was this chap, I will deny it in full."

"And I will come in to prove an alibi. Where will you meet her?"

"Just the other side of the Perkins wood. I will have a horse and phaeton waiting on this side. There is a woodman's road there that leads to the main road; we can take that, and have a jolly long ride. But I shall have a fuss to get her into the vehicle, I expect; however, I shall manage it some way, never fear."

Laughing gayly over the fun in prospect, the two separated to put in force the mischief they had brewed.

Poor Ethel left the house without a suspicion of what awaited her; glad, in fact, that she could thus enjoy a stroll after the confinement of that close, hard day.

The way was perfectly direct, but she saw at once that it was lonely, though very beautiful.

Crossing several fields, she at length entered quite a dense wood, but a small path had been cut directly through, and the whole way was wild and full of interest.

The atmosphere was made delicious with a woody, spicy fragrance from mints and woodland treasures of all varieties, and the whole combination was so new to her experience that she really enjoyed every step of the long walk.

Arrived at the place she sought she found Mr. Perkins at home, and soon explained the cause of her visit, and transacted the business with which she had been intrusted.

This completed, she turned her face homeward.

All went well with her until she approached the woods.

At the entrance she found, on consulting her watch, that it was quarter past four.

"I shall reach the Hall just about five," she thought, "and so please Sir Reginald. I would not have liked being late, after what he said."

Suddenly she was startled by a sound at her side, then, to her surprise and chagrin, Robert Glendenning stepped directly in her path.

"My dear Miss Nevergail, this is a delightful meeting in a delightful place. Where may your curiosity have taken you to?"

"My curiosity, Mr. Glendenning, took me nowhere. I have merely been to transact a matter of business for Sir Reginald, and am now on my way home. Being in a hurry, I would be glad to pass on."

"Not so fast, not so fast, my pretty girl (don't shudder so—you know you are pretty); surely you will linger awhile in this romantic place, now that you have some one to enjoy the beauties of the wood with you?"

"No, Mr. Glendenning," was the dignified reply; "I cannot linger a moment. Sir Reginald desired my immediate return, and I cannot keep him waiting."

"Nevertheless, my sweet creature, he will wait; for you cannot return just now, as I intend for once to fully enjoy your society."

So saying, the bold young man attempted to take her hand, to draw it under his arm.

Snatching it instantly away, Ethel fixed on him a stern look, and ordered him to stand aside.

Not heeding her in the least, he impudently slipped his arm around her waist, exclaiming:

"Perhaps you would like this way of walking better. It makes no difference to me."

Shaking off his arm, Ethel pushed him aside indignantly, then with rapid steps pressed onward.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Self-Made Cranks.

One cannot help believing that there is a variety of this gentry who are self-made cranks—cranks because they want to be. They seek some social disproportion whereupon they can posture with effect. The pleasure of conformity is piquant and startling. Such a man is not a crank from abundance of virtue, as he would have you believe, but rather because he feels his feebleness in the world of practical affairs and is soured thereby. If he pose as an advanced philanthropist, we suspect that his love of mankind has some side glances at personal profit. If facts be against him, he does not hesitate to invent them, and visits with arrogant abuse those who expose his falsities. He is especially angry with those halting disciples who accept his scheme as something ultimately possible, and then humbly inquire what they are to do provisionally as a practical approximation to the distant good. If he be a rhetorician, he has no scruple in administering the electric shock of paradox, and seeks the levity of assent that may be caught by the sudden spring of a false analogy. No doubt this reckless shooter occasionally hits the mark. Pope describes the talking bird who berates the passers-by with epithets which well-conducted periodicals have ceased to print. But the poet confesses that, though sometimes struck with the extreme felicity of these characterizations, he had never been able to extend his admiration to the speaker whose entire stock in trade consisted of this very limited and abusive vocabulary.—J. P. Quincy, in Atlantic.

No Help Wanted.

Visitor—"I say, old boy, you are the most absurdly infatuated husband I ever saw in my life, considering how long you've been married. You praise every dish your wife makes and yet her cooking is abominable."

Host—"Sh! Don't speak so loud. I know her cooking is bad; but if I say a word, she gets discouraged and sends for her mother."—New York Weekly.

NO CHANGE IN FASHIONS.

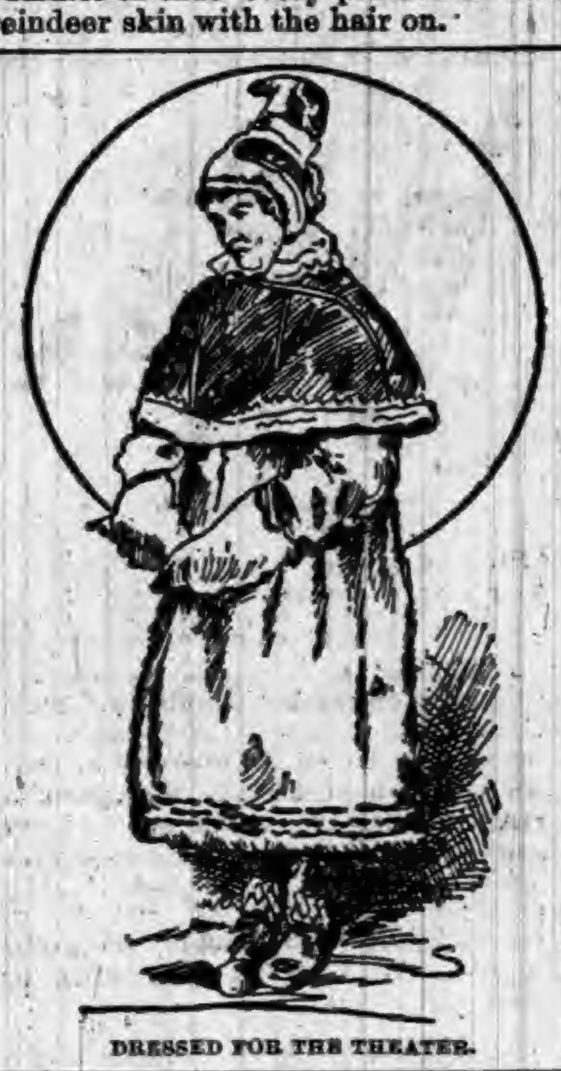
Men and Women in Lapland Have Dresses the Same for a Thousand Years.

The costume of the Lapps has not altered very much for the last thousand years, says Demorest's Magazine. Their summer garment is usually of coarse woolen goods, and has something the cut of a shirt with a high collar. Among the sea Lapps it is for the most part undyed; among the other Lapps usually blue, sometimes green or brown, and even black smock-frocks have been seen.

Around the wristbands, along the seam in the back, and on the edges this smock is ornamented with strips of red and yellow cloth. Under this garment is a similar one, either plainer or older, worn next the body, for the Lapp never wears linen underclothing.

The trousers, or drawers, are of white woolen goods, rather narrow and reaching to the ankles, where they are tied inside the shoes with long, slender shoestrings. Over these drawers are usually worn leggins of thin, tanned skins, reaching from the ankles to the knees.

Stockings the Lapp never wears. He fills the upward-curving tip of his shoes with a sort of grass, which is gathered in summer and beaten to make it soft and pliable. The winter costume only differs from that worn in summer in that every piece is made of reindeer skin with the hair on.



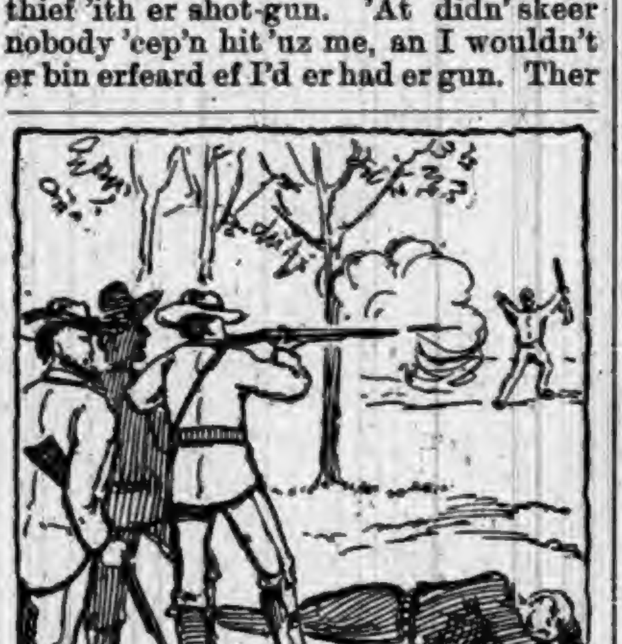
DRESSED FOR THE THEATER.

The dress of the women differs very slightly from that worn by the men. The smock is somewhat longer and is made without the big, standing collar, instead of which a kerchief or cape is worn about the neck.

To the woven and often silver ornamented girdle hang a knife, scissors, key, and needle and thread. The head-covering is not only different in the two sexes but also differs according to the locality.

A PRETTY SHOT.

"Did you ever see a man shot?" was asked of the countryman, who was sitting on the rail fence entertaining the crowd with stories. He straightened slightly and replied: "Yes; onst. Hit wuz when I wuz er livin' on ther river. I wuz er plowin' an' ther she'iff er ther county rid up 'ith fo' yether fellers, an' 'e says, s's'e, 'Hello, Thompson.' I lef' mer hoss an' plow an' went ter ther fence an' tol' 'em howdy, an' ast 'em whut they wuz atter. They wuz a huntin' uv er hossthief 'at wuz er hidin' at ol' Nath Simpson's. None uv 'em knowed ther road an' they wanted me to show hit ter 'em. Co'se I did. I tuck mer hoss outen ther plow an' got on 'im bar'-back. Simpson's cabin sot in er cle'rin' 'bout fifty yards f'om ther fence. We hitched our hosses 'bout two hund'ed yards erway. Ez we clum' erorost ther fence, ther do' er ther cabin opened an' out steps mister hoss-thief 'ith er shot-gun. 'At didn' skeer nobody 'cep'n hit 'uz me, an I wouldn't er bin erfeard ef I'd er had er gun. Ther



"AT THER LAST SHOT THER FELLER DRAPS.

She'iff's brother Jim wuz clostest to 'm an hollered halt. Ther feller jist raised 'is gun easy like an' shoot at 'im an' down 'e goes. He jist ketched 'is foot onder er root an' fell, tharby er savin' uv 'is life. Ther She'iff bust out er cryin' when he seed Jim fall an' 'e says, s's'e, 'Shoot 'im! He's killed Jim.' Ev'ybody 'gin ter shoot then 'cep'in' hit wuz Aleck Weldon. He jist sot ther butt uv 'is Winchester on er stump an' stood thar. Ther She'iff seed 'im an' s's'e, 'Why don't yer shoot?' Aleck says, s's'e, 'D—n hit, wait twell he gits fur ernough erway ter make er good shot.' When 'e gits erbout er hund'ed an' fifty yards off, Aleck ups with 'is gun an' shoots three times jist like he wuz er shootin' at er mark. At ther las' shot ther feller draps. Time we got ter 'im 'e wuz dead. They wusn' but three bullets hit 'im, an' them wuz all Aleck's. He jist put 'em in er row erbout fo' eenches erpart right side ev 'is back bone. 'At's ther on'y time I ever seed er man shot, an' nobody hain't ever seed one shot purttier an' 'at un wuz.

HUGH BLAKE WILLIAMS.

A Lucky Man.

Patrick—Be jabers, Oi wuz boorn lucky. Jist afther lavin' th' house this mornin' Oi wor knocked down boi a cab; wan block beyant that Oi were caught in a pavement explosion; a block beyant agin Oi were mistook fur a thafe an' cloobed boi a polacemon; an' phin Oi got to worruk, a big sthone from th' buildin' fell an' cracked me shoulder.

Bystander—Where does the luck come in?

Patrick—Faith! Ain't Oi aloive yit?—New York Weekly.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

AN ACCURATE WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by

THE COLUMBUS

Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

122081
COLUMBUS WATCH CO.
COLUMBUS, OHIO

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO.,
COLUMBUS, OHIO.

THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

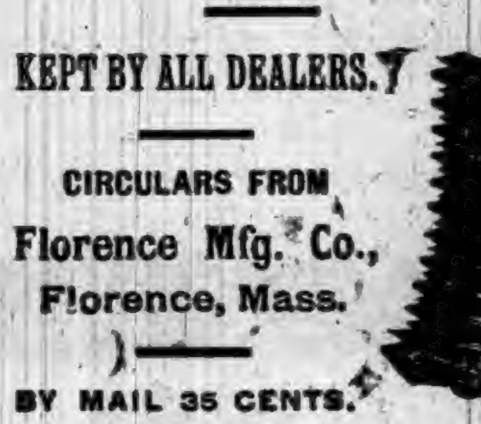
ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM
Florence Mfg. Co.,
Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER



IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK.

Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have 820. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 16, 1890.

Stations— WEST-BOUND.
Sandusky	lv	......	pm	am 7 30	am	......
Wheeling		am *6 50	9 45	......	10 35	pm †8 35
Zanesville		9 58	am 12 58	......	pm 1 50	7 17
Newark		pm 12 30	1 50	......	3 05	8 30
Columbus	ar	1 25	2 50	......	4 05	9 30
Columbus	lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm †5 50
Mansfield		pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 19	10 28
Deshler		3 12	5 52	10 50	10 24	am 1 47
Defiance		3 50	6 30	11 47	11 20	2 33
Auburn jc		4 44	7 28	pm 1 07	am 12 48	3 29
Avilla		......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc		......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro		......	......	......	......	......
Chicago	ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25

Stations— EAST-BOUND.
Chicago	lv	am *10 10	pm *2 55	am †7 10	pm *10 40	pm *5 05
Wellsboro		......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc		......	......	......	......	......
Avilla		......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc		......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 06	9 42
Defiance		pm 3 00	8 00	2 12	4 27	10 48
Mansfield		6 14	11 20	......	9 45	am 12 44
Columbus		*9 30	am 2 50	......	pm 1 25	8 30
Newark		8 07	1 00	......	12 40	5 00
Zanesville		8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 53
Wheeling	ar	11 55	4 40	......	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh	ar	......	7 25	......	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington	ar	am 11 50	pm 4 45	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore	ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia	ar	3 25	8 15	......	11 13	......
New York	ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Cincinnati, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't.,
L. S. ALLEN, Assist. Gen. P. A. Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—		Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne	dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era		12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc		12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn		12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo		12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit		1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake		1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola		1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont		1 35	6 34	1 25 pm
Reading		2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers		2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale		2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc		2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville		2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson		3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Fort Wayne Junc	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale	....	12 30	7 35
Bankers	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express........2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express..........5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom...........7:45 am—Ex Sun
New York Lim............8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..........1:32 am—Daily
Logansport Accom.......7:35 am—Daily
Mail & Express..........4:35 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago Lim.............5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis...............7:23 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to J. M. BENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

T. H. SPROUT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Manager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS, A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES.

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1889, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1890.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Freeman W S	in s w qr	14	33	12		20	6	61
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	83	46
Holbrook Sanford	s hf n w qr	32	33	12	80	00	73	61
Work Wesley	off e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	104	73
do	und 2-3ds off w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	25	97
do	und 2-3ds pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	38	46	75	75
do	und 2-3ds n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	15	84
do	und 2 3ds w hf n e qr	32	33	12	53	33	128	41
Work Mary E	und 1-3d pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	36	57
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Cool John	s e 1-4th s w qr	8	33	13	40	00	15	88
Dancer John F	e hf s e qr	20	33	13	80	00	70	79
Elson Thomas	n pt w hf s e qr	16	33	13	50	00	24	27
Kryder David	in s side s w 1-4th n w qr	6	33	13	1	63	1	44
McNamara James	in n w cor n hf n e qr	34	33	13	6	00	5	39
Powell Levi B	Auburn Junction D. add lot 6						4	38
Frederick Samuel	Auburn Stamet's add lot 16						2	48
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Abel J C F	in s w 1-4th s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	10	67
Hart J E	und 1-3d in s w qr	15	33	14	00	10		70
Mosier Cyrus F	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	1	47
Monroe Julia L	in s end e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25		84
Wearley Wm L	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	16	27
Hinsdale Sophronia	Orange lot 129						1	07
Baltz Emma	O P Spencerville lot 30 pt of						6	70
do	O P Spencerville lot 31							69
Myers Eliza	Fales' add Spencerville lot 21						1	03
Rhodes William	O P Spencerville 25x30 ft of lt 30 e pt						3	70
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Fusselman Quince	in s e pt n hf s w qr	6	35	15	1	00	5	78
Jeffords David	in n w qr	6	35	15	0	80	1	02
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	35	15	1	28	5	35
Millman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	19	35	15	2	00	11	10
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	6	35	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s e qr	6	35	15	7	48	24	20
Rhodes J M and C A	in s w qr n w qr	6	35	15	00	50	2	98
Catlett David	Vienna lot 24						9	14
do	do lot 25							80
Fusselman Mary H	do s e hf of lot 48							50
do	do s e hf of lot 37							51
Like Julia	do lot 2						2	79
Larned State Bank	do lot 1							81
Moody Wert L	do lot 49 s pt
do	do lot 49 s e pt						1	46
McDonald Rebecca	do lot 10 n hf						1	48
do	do lot 15 n hf							42
Pressler Ella & Jacob	do lot 11 pt of						3	66
do	do lot 44 pt of							63
Rex George N	do lot 81
do	do lot 88						12	00
Salmon Matilda J	do lot 44 30 ft off n end							59
do	do lot 37 18x28 ft in n e cor						4	51
do	do lot 41 30 ft n end							59
Smith Philander	do lot 71							61
Tarney John W	do lot 8 n pt							39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Funk Mary	pt n hf n hf s e qr	18	34	15	39	25	25	04
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w hf n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	76	24
Brown Malinda	und 2-15ths pt w hf n w qr	31	34	14	10	12	8	98
Clark George	do	31	34	14	10	12	14	80
Heller S M	s pt e 1-3d e hf n w qr	11	34	14	10	00	7	72
Huntsman A E & R F	s e qr n w qr	28	34	14	40	00	15	63
Jenkins John	in n w cor s e qr n w qr	16	34	14	6	00	8	82
do	n e qr n e qr	17	34	14	40	00	20	01
Lockwood Lyman	s 3-4ths s e qr n e qr	19	34	14	30	00	83	34
Maxwell Jos & Sarah	in n e cor w hf n e qr	34	34	14	12	00	11	02
Palmerton George N	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	17	52
Haskins Esther M	e 3-4ths s w qr s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	138	31
do	w qr s e qr s w qr	21	34	14	10	00	46	24
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Abel G H & J E	s end w hf s e qr	32	34	13	16	80	11	93
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Hanna James T	n w qr s e qr	33	34	12	40	00	49	67
Meyers & Hersler	und 2-3ds w pt w hf n w qr	2	33	12	00	67	6	06
Thompson John	pt w hf e hf n e qr	10	33	12	30	00	17	05
Cowan Washington	Garrett M. & H. add lot 64							83
Myers Samuel E	do 63							83
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Dearborn B B	J add Lawrence lot 98						5	57
Rohm Susannah	do 5						2	70
do	do 6							61
Weirick Jacob	O P Lawrence lot 63							91
Gilpier John	McM 1st add Corunna lot 9							88
do	do 10							60
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Camp Andrew	in n e cor n hf n w qr	22	35	12	00	50	2	46
Hanna James T	s w qr s w qr	3	35	12	40	00	4	14
Row Magdalene	in e part n w qr	22	35	12	00	31	2	46
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e qr s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	29	63
do	pt w pt n hf n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	5	00	2	99
Markley Nancy	in n w cor n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	2	00	1	27
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Enzor Catharine	s hf s e qr s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	16	25
Frederick Joseph	s w qr s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	19	09
Garrison Kenton	in n w cor n e qr	2	35	14
do	in mid pt n w qr	2	35	14	33	11	64	53
Porter Clark & Jane	s e qr n e qr	26	35	14	40	00	20	60
Rhinehart Christian	e end n pt w hf n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	6	63
Willard Henry	in n w qr	2	35	14	00	25	1	17
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Dinius Theodore & L	und 5-9ths w end n hf n w qr	16	35	15	25	60	14	06
Fry Charles	n e qr n w fr qr	9	35	15	40	00	15	88
Myers Laura A	in s w cor n e qr	20	35	15	5	00	6	51
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	25	13	79
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Falk & Lamley	L 2d add lot 29						4	77
Miller Hiram G	O P lot 155 s pt						3	62
Stroh Peter B	in 3 e qr	3	34	13	1	00	23	20
Booth George	C add Uniontown lot 5						9	28
	BUTLER TOWN.
Ackley E C	D's add lot 35						17	57
Beggs David	E's 3d add lot 236						5	97
Doxsee Christian	O P lot 161						11	07
Garber Isaac	Eg's add lot 204						1	11
do	do lot 221						20	13
Moltz Charles	do lot 136 e hf						1	81
do	do lot 137						29	24
do	do lot 138						3	43
Mason W A	M's add lot 16						4	36
Mason Albert J	D's add lot 38						18	74
do	O P lot 290						3	81
Renner Robert	do 289						3	19
Riker B C & E	Eg's 3d add lot 208							88
do	do 209							88
do	do 210							88
do	do 216						12	69
do	do 217						1	59
Stough William	D's add lot 22							65
do	do 4 und hf n 23 ft						8	31
Searight Samuel G	E's add lot 146 w pt						14	98
do	D's add lot 61						34	23
Town Earl	Eg's 2d add lot 142						9	63
Wile Lewis	O P lot 97						10	31
	GARRETT TOWN.
Basse John & Mary	Oz 3d add lot 1 blk 1						7	81
Balt Land Imp Co	O P lot 24 blk 21						5	08
do	C's 1st add lot 2 blk 36						1	86
Hopper Charles	Thomas's add lot 10 blk 6						21	93
Munn Elizabeth	Oz 3d add lot 10 blk 2						10	49
Reneman C F & L V	O P lot 19 blk 33						4	31
Shisley James & Anna	Cowan's 1st add lot 3 blk 53						1	03
do	Cowan's 1st add s hf of lot 2 blk 53							61
	AUBURN TOWN.
Biller Emma J	K's add n hf lot 6						9	82
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141						13	84
do	do 142						7	67
Newton George	Ashley's add lot 14 except 39 ft e side						1	66
Russel Anna & Albert	Ensley's 2d add lot 35						5	36

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1889, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1890, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1891, (the same being the 9th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 14, 1891.

Honest Work! $20 to $40 a week made by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in town and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 840, Cincinnati, O.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California. J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:00 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

WE PAY SALARY and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

Notice To Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 4, 1891, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the election of thirteen Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting.

J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Henning, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL SWIHART, Administrator

December 29, 1890. 4

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the will of William Brand deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 24th day of January, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares

Witness my name this 2nd day of January 1891. HIRAM BRAND, Executor.

By J. W. BAXTER, Att'y.

In portions of the unsurveyed territory at the foot of Mount Baker and Mount Tacoma there are hundreds of trees that measure 650 feet in height. Some of their trunks measure thirty feet in circumference.

Consumption Surely Cured. To THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

never wants to learn, but the WISE MAN reads that OLD HONESTY CHEWING TOBACCO is the best that is made, and at ONCE tries it, and saves money and secures more satisfaction than ever before. AVOID imitations. Insist on having the genuine. If your dealer hasn't it ask him to get it for you.

JNO. FINZER & BROS., Louisville, Ky.

Obituary.

David Houser was born in Rush township, Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, July 7, 1814. He grew up to manhood in his native township, and at the age of twenty-two years, he married Rebecca Turner of the same county. To this union were born five boys and six girls, three of the boys and two of the girls having preceded their father to the spirit home. His wife, Rebecca, died February 20, 1864 He afterwards married Mrs Diana Merica, of Champaign county, Ohio, who lives to mourn her loss. When only sixteen years of age Mr. Houser began work on the "Little Schuylkill Railroad," then only about twenty miles in length, but the beginning of the great Pennsylvania and Reading system of railroads. In this work, by industry and prompt attendance to his business he at once gained the confidence of his employers and was soon promoted to the position of Roadmaster, being the second man who held this position on the road. He held this responsible position until the year 1842, when he voluntarily resigned, and with his family moved to Millerstown, Champaign county, Ohio. Here, he first embarked in the mercantile business and afterward kept hotel. In the year 1851, he traded for a piece of land in Richland township (now Keyser township) this county, about three and one half miles northwest of Garrett. He immediately moved onto this land, cleared off the timber, and resided there until the year 1882, when he moved to Garrett, where he lived until his death.

Religiously, Mr. Houser was brought up in the Presbyterian faith, but there being no church of that denomination in his community, he and his wife, Diana, united with the German Reformed church in the year 1867, a member of which church he remained the rest of his life.

In April, 1888, he was taken down with sickness from which he never fully recovered, and has not, for the past two years, at any time been able to leave the room without assistance. His disease was some form of paralysis, and from the day he was stricken down, he grew weaker and weaker until death relieved him at 4:30 o'clock Sunday evening, Jan. 4, 1891, at the age of 76 years, 5 months and 24 days. The last year of his life he was as helpless as a babe, being blind, paralyzed, and most of the time unable to speak distinctly enough to be understood, but he bore it all patiently and almost without a murmur, and his dutiful wife, although in her seventy-fourth year, both day and night, with almost incredible endurance and with such a loving kindness and patient resignation to her duty as only a faithful wife could have, was constantly at his bed side and did all that human aid could do to satisfy his wants and relieve his suffering. Mr. Houser was an obliging neighbor, an indulgent father, and a kind and affectionate husband, and his death will be mourned by all who knew him.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev, Wones, of the M. E. church at Garrett, and were held at the Union church north of Garrett, Tuesday Jan. 6, 1891.

In a Short Time.

A prominent man of Clarinda, Iowa, says: Through the recommendation of J. P. Burrows, of our city, I gave your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup a trial in a case of severe cough, after using it a short time my cough was cured. Which fact gives me such great confidence in it's merits that upon every occasion I recommend it to my neighbors.

Yours,

AMOS CLARK.

AGENTS WANTED by an old reliable firm; large profits, quick sales, SAMPLE FREE. A rare opportunity. Geo. A. Scott, [illegible] Broadway, N. Y.

County Alliance.

The Alliance had a county meeting here Saturday. They evidently are in earnest. The only wonder is, that they did not get in earnest twenty years ago. Of course, we do not know all about this new order, not being a member of it. In fact all we know of it, is their published statement of principles and of the things they are asking in the way of reform legislation. Of course in the many requests they will make, some will not be right or desirable, some may be unimportant or unwise; but in the main, they are right. They ask for a proper equalization of burdens. What is wrong about that. They ask that salaries of public officers be re-adjusted and put on a more moderate basis. What is wrong there? We believe that the officers interested will themselves admit that at least some change can be reasonably made. The Alliance also asks that extreme partisan legislation, such as is embodied in the Force bill, should cease for the reason that it will benefit no one, and that no one except politicians with an ax to grind desires to see such laws enacted. But the most important things the farmers seem to be discussing are the financial questions. These are, the silver bill and the free coinage of that metal; the tariff bill, and a re-adjustment of the tariff on a basis that shall not place an undue share of the burdens on farmers; the fairness and necessity of an income tax; the changing of our paper money into greenbacks and the making of some other needed financial changes—these are being discussed and favored by the Alliance and the Patrons, and as we said at the first, they should have been discussed years ago. Republican farmers, have been especially slow to open their eyes to these needed reforms. For twenty five years they have shut their eyes to the traps into which they were being led, and even if they realized the advantage that was being taken of them, they seemed to welcome it, and to say to their leaders, "Pile it on, we are willing." Now, they begin to see how they were led on to their destruction, and are very sensibly seeking relief. Now, at this late day, some of the reforms they might once have had, have been put out of their reach. But enough still remains, and it is not too late to save a part of the wreck. We believe they will succeed, and that in almost every point, they ought to succeed. Let them stand by reasonable reforms, and such only. Let them use good judgment, care moderation and firmness, and they will succeed, for a just cause, properly advocated, seldom fails.

A New Party.

(From Harper's Weekly.)

A farmer in Illinois writes that he is a member of the Farmers' Alliance, but neither a socialist nor a quixotic currency man. Indeed, he says that the financial schemes sometimes associated with the Alliance is not at all united upon the financial question. He says "The farmers feel that they have been robbed when the government grants subsidies to the railroad and steam-ship interest, and also when they are taxed that manufacturers may get rich." This is undoubtedly one of the feelings from which the Alliance springs, while the financial and other schemes are added to the platform in order to catch votes. The natural tendency of every such movement, when the impelling reason does not seem to be strong enough to secure an adequate party organization, is to pool several issues which are not related, but each of which seems very important to certain persons, with the view of pooling votes as well as issues.

That the agricultural interest should be impatient under a system which levies taxes on its supplies, but which in the nature of the case cannot really "protect" its productions, is not surprising. But the relief which is sought lies in tariff reform, and as this is a professed purpose of the Alliance, and is also the present platform of a great party, what is the reason, so far as this question is concerned, for the Alliance? Why could not a farmer like our correspondent, who seeks relief from an unjust tariff, support a party which proposes that very relief which he holds to be the most important of questions? What does he gain by entering into a new organization which, in order to secure support, professes doctrines and schemes which he does not approve? Ragbag parties are not successful, because they do not cohere. When the abolition movement began, Mr. Garrison's associates used to complain that he mixed up with it nonresistence and woman's rights and total abstinence and other subjects, which, however good in themselves, did not concern the abolition of slavery, but did alienate many good friends of that cause. Mr. Garrison defended his course by saying that he held those views not as an abolitionist, but as a man. But none the less they were unquestionably associated injuriously with the cause in the public mind.

A Morning Runaway.

South Bend Times, Jan. 2.

On South Lafayette street, Wednesday about 8:30 o'clock a. m., a son of D. W. Slaybaugh, of Greene township, was driving a single horse attached to a buggy. The horse became frightened at the electric car and ran away, throwing the youth out of the buggy and thus inflicting severe but not dangerous injuries. The animal was soon loose from the buggy and the next place that he attracted more than his share of attention was when in running down the alley back of the Wyman store, he collided with a dray and caromed over against a rear window of Munroe & Keltner's hardware store, and this he smashed. The horse then tried to run into Nickel's grocery, and not succeeding in that, stopped and complacently munched away at a basket of sweet potatoes until he was captured. The buggy and harness were both badly damaged, but young Slaybaugh luckily escaped a broken arm, which it was first supposed he had suffered.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1842.

A building was put up by order of Park on the site of Davis' hardware store for a family which failed to come and take it off his hand. It was not finished and was variously used for school, church and public meetings.

People came in slowly; here and there a cabin went up but there was little to encourage settlers to remain or more to come.

In the summer or fall of 1842, a hurricane or as it would be termed now, a cyclone swept through a part of the county doing much damage and leaving marks even yet discernible. While each year, we hear of the terrible destruction wrought by these wind storms we are fortunately exempt and it will be of interest to relate the story of that early hurricane as found in pioneer sketches, especially as many mentioned still live and vividly remember that time of peril.

"A dark cloud arose seeming to threaten a heavy shower, but soon the rapid motion and wild confusion of the clouds betokened the approach of a windstorm It struck the forest near the west line of the farm of Joseph Woolsey and, with scarcely any exception leveled the timber from thence."

West of Mr Cosper's and about eighty rods from the house of Henry Brown, a party of men were working on the road. Among them, were the Georges, William and Matthew, Henry Brown and Nelson Griffith. The men seeing the storm coming and the air darkened by clouds and with the limbs of trees which the wind was carrying towards them, and hearing the continued roar of falling timbers, ran with all their speed to the house of Mr. Brown, where his children and a daughter of William Monroe were, and rushing in, they seized the children and scarce had they carried them into an opened field before the storm was upon them. The force of the wind was such that they had to hold by stumps to keep from being blown away. In the hurry of the moment, a child and the young woman had been left in the house and by some means they fell through the floor. The wind lifted the door from the hinges; the logs of the house came tumbling in; the house was leveled even to the foundation and yet the woman and child were uninjured.

Mr. Cosper had raised a cabin but had not moved in. This cabin was demolished and the weight poles were blown a distance of forty rods or farther. Those in the field did not escape harm. A knee from the roof struck Leander Brown, son of Henry Brown, and severely injured his head. The effects were felt for years.

The storm swept on scattering fences like feathers over Brown's improvement, shivering the heavy forest in its course and striking the dwellings of the Georges, bore away the roofs and upper parts and totally destroyed their fences.

Like an enraged demon, it again struck the forest and bore down every tree in its course until it reached land in Concord township, later owned by James Draggoo and there rising high or partially exhausted, it ceased its work of terrific destruction. Articles of bed clothing from Brown's home were picked up more than two miles away.

The width of the hurricane as shown by its path of destruction was about a half mile and its length three miles.

After the storm had abated, the wife of Wm. George started to go to Brown's. The latter was distant, a half mile westward and the road had been plain, but she soon became so bewildered by the wild confusion of fallen timber, that she lost her way, and after exerting herself to the utmost of her strength, doubled by her great excitement, finally came to George Moore's one mile south of her starting point, and no sooner had she found herself safe than her strength failed and she swooned away.

Much of this fallen timber was generally cleaned up on the farms of Messrs. Woolsey, Brown, Cosper, the Georges, Culbertson and others and much of it rolled or was burnt where the land had not been cleared and a new growth of timber has arisen to hide the desolation, but the pathway of this great storm is quite familiar to many and was plainly visible on the road from Auburn to Spencerville for many years.

AUBURN, 1843.

There has been severe weather experienced during some of our late winters and the mercury fell far below zero time and again in that of; 84 and 5, but none will compare in rigor and duration with that of '42 and '43.

Rev. S. B. Ward wrote of that season as follows:

"The fall had been fine; about the first of November, a light snow fell, but mostly went off soon after. On the 17th. of the month, it set in cold, with high winds and some snow.

The snow continued to increase from time to time, until it was nearly two feet deep on the level, with occasional showers and hard freezes, so that it was almost impossible to get about.

It snowed a little every day, but one, through February. March came in with almost the severity of a polar winter.

The settlers had raised but little to live on during the previous season and by this time most of the hay and grain had been consumed and hogs and cattle were daily dying, all over the country from starvation.

Some settlers lost all their hogs, and most of their cattle before feed came in the spring, very many had to depend on the browse off of the tree tops as feed for their cattle, for the last two months of cold weather. For the last few days of March, however, even this provision of nature was cut off.

When all were anxiously looking for the opening of spring, heartsick in view of the sufferings of their poor dumb animals, the sleeper, in his lone cabin in the midst of the forest, was awakened, on the night of March 27, by the continual crashing of the tree-tops which did not cease until day dawned, when to the dispirited emigrant, was revealed the cause of all the commotion of the night.

(To be continued next week.)

GOING TO MOVE!

WARM GOODS.

Felt Boots and Overs at $2.00 and upward,
Ladies' Felt Shoes at 75c and up,
Alaskas at 75c and up,
Arctics at $1.00 and up.

Headquarters for Rubber and Leather Boots. Fine Shoes for Ladies and Gents, School Shoes, etc.

We move to Old Post Office stand Feb. 1st.

Call and see us.

J. N. WILSON & SON,
Auburn and Waterloo.

A woman can bake and a woman can sew;
And woman with trouble can cope,
But she cant wash her clothes
to perfection she knows,
Without Fairbank's Santa Claus Soap.
N.K.FAIRBANK & CO. — CHICAGO.

100 PAGES WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Peronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming Illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistable little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs Gen John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humphrey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Sainte Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, BY E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three Sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

WHAT IS SAPOLIO?

It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it...

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. THERE IS BUT ONE SAPOLIO.

ENOCH MORGAN'S SONS CO., NEW YORK.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 22, 1891. NUMBER 4.

THIS NEW LIST

Comprises some of our very best bargains, and it will pay you well to examine it carefully. The most of the

FARMS

mentioned are

SACRIFICE BARGAINS

and MUST BE SOLD, and the

TOWN PROPERTIES

can be classed under the same head. Remember this when you get ready to buy property, we will show you our list to choose from and if you find anything in it that you would like to see we will take pleasure in showing it to you at no expense to you, whether you buy or not.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. This a splendid farm and is well adapted for two families.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, will sell on easy terms and long time. Installment plan if preferred.

No. 156. Eighty acre farm. 1½ miles from Jackson Center. 55 acres under cultivation. 25 acres timber. The whole farm thoroughly under-drained. Soil sandy loam. One-story frame dwelling, good cellar, barn 28x53, good wire and picket fences, good orchard of 55 bearing trees, 56 grapevines of different varieties, 6 varieties of cherries and plenty of small fruit. Will sell for cash at a price fair to purchaser or will exchange for Small farm in this county or Western land.

No 157. Forty acres good land 4 miles north of Butler, Ind. 20 acres cleared, balance timber. Soil black sandy loam, good log house and barn, well and fences. Three-fourths mile from school. Price $1,000. ½ cash, balance long time.

Four vacant lots in south end of town. Will sell on the installment plan.

No 209 160 acres of fine farm land in Kingman county Kan. Will exchange for farm in DeKalb county and pay cash difference.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings. 2 good wells sugar camp fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences.

No. 224. Large 2-story frame dwelling, on North Vanburen St. Elegant residence property, nearly an acre of ground.

No. 231. Seventy-five acres 2½ miles south of Spencerville, 65 acres under cultivation, balance good timber, good house bank barn 36x50 feet, well, wind pump, orchard, and all fences in good repair. Price $3,500.

No. 259. Elegant residence property on South Jackson Street. Price $1,000.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, right handy by to factories, for sale on easy terms.

No. 307. 220 acres good farming land in Wilmington township. This farm is well adapted for stock raising. Will sell for small cash payment and long time, or will exchange for a smaller farm.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O.

No. 309. 78 acres of elegant farm land, every foot tillable and of the best quality of soil. Large two story brick dwelling house, cellar, well, cistern, splendid orchard of 100 trees, all bearing, fences in good repair. This is only a short distance from a railroad town in the St. Joe valley.

No. 310. Fine residence property on West Third St. 2-story frame dwelling, 6 rooms, good cellar, wood house, well and cistern, fruit and shade trees.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana. Trade well established. This property can be bought cheap.

No. 312. A 60-acre farm in Wilmington township, good frame dwelling, barn, all necessary out-buildings, well and cistern.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street. There is plenty of fruit of almost all kinds, excellent walks around entire property and of the durable kind.

Vacant lots right handy by to factories in South Auburn, on long time and easy payments.

No. 315. Eighty acres splendid land in Jackson township, 2 story brick dwelling house, frame barn 32x64 feet orchard of 80 bearing apple trees and plenty of small fruit of different varieties, 65 acres cleared and under cultivation, balance timber.

No. 317. 40 acres good land within 5 miles of Auburn. Good frame dwelling and barn, 23 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

No. 321. 80 acres good all around farm land in Smithfield township. Good dwelling house, barn 34x44, good orchard of 70 bearing apple trees, grapes cherries and other small fruits, 10 acres good timber land, balance under cultivation and well under-drained.

No. 322. Two vacant lots in the original plat of Auburn.

No. 322 Elegant residence property on south Main St.

No. 324. 81 acres of land in Newville township, good five-room frame dwelling house, two good frame barns, splendid orchard, 50 acres under cultivation, balance timber land, no waste land, splendid sugar camp on this farm. This farm will be sold on long time and payments to suit purchaser.

No. 287. An elegant farm of 160 acres part broken ready for cropping, stone house on the place, in Graham Co., Kansas. Will trade for live stock, stock of merchandise or town property.

No. 326. Fifty-six acres of as fine land as there is in the county. Four miles from Butler and 8 miles from Auburn, in Wilmington township. Good frame dwelling, frame barn, 30x50, wagon shed, corn crib and granary, two good wells, cistern, splendid cellar, 100 apple trees and other fruits. Seven acres timber, balance under cultivation. Entire farm well under drained. Will be sold cheap.

Five vacant lots well located near factories in the south end of town, on easy terms with but a small cash payment down.

No. 327. A nice 40-acre tract in Keyser Tp, good frame house and barn, orchard of 75 trees, good fences, 8 acres good timber, balance farming land, only 2½ miles from Garrett, Ind.

No. 333 An elegant new flouring mill doing a good business and located in a good farming district and in large territory. This mill is for sale at a bargain. It is located near a good town in Northeastern Indiana.

No. 332. Eighty-six acres land in Fairfield township, sixty acres cleared, frame house and barn, cellar, well, cistern, good spring near center of the eighty, and running water through northeast part of farm. All kinds of fruit on the farm. This is a farm that it is worth your time to look at before you buy if you intend buying a farm.

No. 335. Brick house with 5 vacant lots in South Auburn. Long time and easy payments.

No. 336 30 acres of as fine timber land as there is any in the county. Located within 2 miles of a railroad station. Here is a bargain for any one wanting to buy a small farm on which there is enough timber to pay for the land. The soil is a black sandy loam and will make a farm to be proud of.

No. 305. 160 acres land near live town in Nebraska, will sell or exchange for town or farm property in DeKalb county.

No. 337. 127 acres fine land in Allen county. Good buildings and fences, no waste land, 32 acres timber land, and 13 acres grass land, balance under cultivation. Small cash payment and balance on long time, or will exchange for town or farm property.

No. 338. 40 acres excellent land in Wilmington township. Log house and barn good apple orchard, well and fences, 31 acres under cultivation, balance timber. Will exchange for property in Auburn.

No. 340. Elegant residence property on North Jackson street. Fine frame buildings, well, cistern and fruits. Price $1,500.

No. 339. Fine residence property in Garrett, located near the business center of the town.

No. 341. 110 acres land in Richland township, frame dwelling 24x24, and barn 35x40. 70 acres under plow, 30 acres timber and 10 acres grass land.

Vacant lots in the south part of town on long time and easy terms.

No. 342. 170 acres of fine land 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler and 4 miles north of St. Joe. Fine frame dwelling house—main 22x24, wings 14x28 and 14x31 feet; 11 rooms, cellar under whole house, wood house, 3 good barns, one 36x50, one 30x66 and one 22x28 feet; 2 good wells, windmill and elevated tank, 2 good orchards of from 125 to 150 bearing trees, 150 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Two good farms of 160 acres each; one in Kansas and the other in Nebraska to exchange for land or town property in Northern Indiana.

Railroad and Steamship Tickets

Sold to any point North, South, East or West at lowest rates, and by the best routes. Call on or address,

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts.

Under Farmers Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

MOTHERS' FRIEND
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
ATTENDING IT.
TO LIFE
DIMINISHES DANGER OF
MOTHER AND CHILD.

WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

"Mothers' Friend," is worth its weight in gold. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other children than she did altogether with her last, after having used four bottles of "Mothers' Friend." It is a blessing to expectant mothers, says a customer. HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill

Having used two bottles my sixth child was born with no pain comparatively.
Mrs. L. O. Vaughan, Sheridan Lake. Col.

Wonderful—relieves much suffering.
Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by express on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Book to mothers mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

F. E. DAVENPORT,
Auburn, Ind.

The soluton of the Indian problem is embraced within the talismanic words, "Root, hog, or die!"

CORRESPONDENCE.

WATERLOO.

C. Jones, of Garrett, was in town Monday.

J. S. Jackman is moving into his new house.

Mrs. Mary Dickinson is visiting friends in Auburn.

Miss Dora Anthony is adding a barn to her town property.

Mrs. Miles Waterman has been quite ill, but is better now.

Frank McEnterfer has moved into his new house on Center street.

Mrs. Ada Gardner, of Tolodo, Ohio. returned to her home on Monday.

Miss Belle Blair, who was visiting in Waterloo has returned to her home.

Miss Lottie Zwilling who is teaching in Smithfield was home over Sunday.

If you want a fine picture, free, call on Dr. Y. J. Carpenter, and see the plan.

Mrs. Maxwell of this place has been sick and is not fully recovered at this date.

Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Angola, is holding a series of meetings at the Disciple church.

George Young, of Angola, stopped in town, Monday, while on his way to Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. C. S. Harper was called to Orland, to attend the bedside of a sick relative,

Gen, Blair and daughter Ida attended the funeral of Hon. Wm. H. Dills, at Auburn on Sunday.

Mrs. George Young, of Angola, is in attendance at the bedside of Mrs. Keep, who is still very low.

Prof. Davis presided at the organ in the Presbyterian choir Sunday in the absence of Mrs. Harper.

Mr and Mrs. Cramer, of Hicksville, O., are visiting a few days with Mrs. C's brother. J. A. Dennison.

I-saac Speer attended the funeral of his cousin, John McBride, of Wilmington, on Wednesday of this week.

Tuesday evening, Miss Edith Farrington entertained some of her young friends in a very pleasant manner.

George Morel is taking care of Clint Graham, at Locke's hotel. Dr. Chamberlain is the attending physician.

John Shuman is able to be out on the streets once more, after the run of sickness he brought back from the west.

A wreck occurred on the Lake Shore, at Melbourne, O., last Saturday. Considerable damage done, but no lives lost.

Mrs. Homer Henning and daughter Estella and Mrs. Updegraph started Monday for Dallas, Texas, to spend the winter.

Mrs. Barns, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Plum drove over to Waterloo last week Friday and spent the day with Mrs. Phil. Morrell.

Dell Locke, who came back from the west, sick with what is called "Mountain fever," now seems to be suffering with one of the worst forms of typhoid.

Natural gas destroyed a hotel at Findlay, Ohio, Sunday. Some one stepped on a match. The building was owned by one of the Marvins, well known to people here.

The L. M. C. will meet Jan. 27, with Mrs. Sarah S. Winslow. Leader of English history, Miss Rose Blair; English literature, Mrs. Mattie Beidler; Astronomy, Mrs. Olive Jackman.

Wes. Zimmerman is having stone hauled in order to put a foundation under his building on the northeast corner of south railroad and Franklin streets. He intends to fit it up for a residence.

Rev. S. P. Klotz is having a good meeting in the U. B. church, and is having large and attentive audiences. Six persons united with the church on last Sunday. The interest is still growing deeper.

Last week, Misses Jenny and Emma Patterson, escorted by their father, left for a visit with the families of their brothers, John and Ezra, in Marion, Iowa, and Galesburg, Ill. They expect to be gone some weeks.

The ladies of the L. M. C., have been postponing the meeting with Mrs. Boozer, until moonlight nights Tuesday evening was the time appointed. The moonlight was all right, but the walking was bad after leaving the sidewalk.

Clint Graham, of Miles City, the man who was thrown from the train and so badly injured, is still lying at Locke's Hotel, in a critical condition, and it is difficult to say how the matter will end. His partner is still with him, giving all the attention he can.

Last Thursday about noon, a man in passing over the bridge at the cemetery, heard a noise beneath and went down to learn the cause of it. He found Annie Rhinehart, oldest daughter of Jacob Rhinehart, trying to drown herself. With some difficulty he lifted her from the water, and with the aid of a farmer, who came by in a buggy, took her took her to Mr Scattergood's, near by. She was almost dead, but was cared for at once, and has been under the care of a physician ever since. She was taken to her home Friday, and is now improving with prospects of recovery. This is another poor, disheartened creature, whose unhappy and discouraged state of existence led her to do as many others have done, "Seek relief to woe in the silent depths of the nearest stream."

FEAGLER'S CORNERS.

Farmers are wishing for more snow.

Pete Neckyoke is working for Talbert & Co.

Mrs. Betsy Grim is visiting relatives in Noble county.

Mrs. Joseph Gardner had a stroke of paralysis Saturday.

Rev. D. B. Herrold gave an illustrated lecture at Sedan Monday evening.

B. C. Reeder is drawing wood to the school house at Feagler's Corners.

C. M. Merica and Melvin Reynolds visited the school at this place Monday.

Rev. T. A. Pattee held a series of meetings at Sedan, but closed with no success.

The Radicals commenced a series of meetings at Shower's corners Sunday evening.

GARRETT.

Mr. Fred C. Davis seems to like it in town.

John D. Paul went to Ohio Monday, to purchase a pacer.

John Wesley is quite ill with the first stage of pleuro-pneumonia.

Geo. P. Chew cannot get over relating his walk from Auburn Junction, one night last week.

A fire in Mrs. Hess' house Tuesday morning called out the fire laddies. Not much damage was done.

Miss Anna Smith, after a two weeks' visit with the family of E. E. Clark, returned to her home in Chicago Wednesday morning.

A grand reception was given Monday evening at the depot by Mr. Ora Shrock, in honor of his sister. The dining room was used as a hall, and quite a large number of young tripped the light fantastic to the dulcet strains of Prof. Moore's orchestra until a late hour, when all departed to their homes, feeling that they had been royally entertained.

BUTLER.

Chilcoats have opened their drugstore in the Johns block, and indications are that they will do a successful business.

Quite an excitement was created on our streets one day last week by Ed. Stoner killing a big worthless dog that offended him in some way. He was arrested and fined in a small amount just to help a little to pay for sheep killed by dogs.

Cecil Rhodes, a former resident of Newville, but now a resident of Missouri, was on our streets last week. Through his efforts Mr. Metcalf, of the Waverly Hotel, has traded his hotel furniture for Missouri property and has retired from the hotel which is at present without a regular tenant.

Quite a number of citizens from Hamilton were in attendance at the open installation of officers at the Odd Fellows Hall last Wednesday evening. The occasion was a pleasant one and participated in by about 200 Odd Fellows, their wives and relatives. The ladies of the order were highly complimented on their lunch prepared for the occasion.

Justice McNabb had a novel experience a few days ago. A couple from Michigan after having passed the storms of twenty five years of the ups and downs of married life and after becoming father, mother and grandfather and grandmother discovered some defect in the legality of their long ago marriage, came to Butler and remained a sufficient length of time to entitle the woman to the rites of marriage. They procured a license and were once more led over the old race course, but with what different feelings and emotion than those that filled their hearts when long ago in the bright morning of life they joined their fortunes for weal or woe. They then returned to their home in Michigan, happier than before.

NEWVILLE.

Ona talks of changing her name for Smith. Oh! how sweet.

Among the beauties of nature is our lovely winter. So calm and warm.

Old long lengthy California Sambo, has quieted down as gentle as a lambo.

Hendryx & Miller have been hustling out plenty of nine-inch ice. How is that for ice?

Lon. G must keep Jane in wood or he will get the bounce. Attend to your business Scotchy.

The Newville correspondent has come home once more. Look out boys for fun from now till spring.

Grandma Rex is improving slowly, but it is rumored that she can never walk again without crutches.

Dave got his pension and left Jane, and went down to old Putuam, from thence to Leipsic, Gilboy, on the base line.

Tom Rudd's big duffer got on a high lonesome and got the bounce, and he is stopping with his son-in-law, Jake.

It is whispered around that the old comrade wagon maker was married and is playing truant up to Kendallville.

Anyone that has any ditching to do, give Jake the job, he is digging a nine-foot on top for 10cts. a rod and gets the slope on the bottom.

Adam Chubb, of Orangeville, has built a new building. He bought the Dan Bear stock of Newville, and added a new supply with the old. He is prospering and Orangeville is booming.

SUMMIT.

Mrs. J. C. Henry, of Auburn, was in town last Friday.

Mrs. Wash Betts' sister from Hamilton visited her last Sunday.

Mrs. Katie Fetter, of Angola, visited her parents over Sunday.

Edward Huffman and wife went to Auburn on business Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Hilt visited her father, Jacob Mortorff last Saturday.

Henry Lawson and wife visited Mrs. L's. parents in Hudson last Sunday.

Warren Boyer and wife were the guests of G. McEntaffer and wife last Sunday.

Wm. Snowberger, of Defiance, Ohio, is out here on a visit. He will take his daughter Eva back with him.

Jacob Mortorff, who has been confined to the house for some time, is improving and will soon be able to be on the streets again.

John Hornberger and family visited friends in this place a few days last week. They expect to move to Jennings, Mich., this week.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees. Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

Schliemann was 34 years old before he knew a word of Greek, and it was not until he was 41 that he began the study of archæology, in which he was destined to achieve so much distinction.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 6

Frankton has just anchored its fourth gas well, pronounced the strongest in the state. Frankton is a booming little burg not be sneezed at.

The Greates Strike.

Among the great strikes that of Dr. Miles in discovering his New Heart Cure has proven itself to be one of the most important. The demand for it has become astonishing. Already the treatment of heart disease is being revolutionized, and many unexpected cures effected. It soon relieves short breath, fluttering, pains in side, arm, shoulder, weak and hungry spells, oppression, swelling of ankles, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' book on Heart and Nervous Diseases free. The unequaled New Heart Cure is sold and guaranteed by F. E. Davenport, also his Restorative Nervine for headache, fits, sprees, hot flashes, nervous chills, opium habit, etc 1

A 12 year-old son of Wm. Hale, Marion, has just been restored to his parents, having been stolen by a band of gypsies several years ago.

Bradfield's Female Regulator

Should be used by the young woman, she who suffers from any disorder peculiar to her sex, and at change of life is a powerful tonic; benefits all who use it. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta. Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

An Englishman has bought a part of Mount Olympus in order to prevent its desecration by an enterprising firm which proposed to erect a hotel upon it

A Lady in South Carolina Writes:

My labor was shorter and less painful than on two former occasions; physicians astonished; I thank you for "Mother's Friend." It is worth its weight in gold. Address the Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Peters, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 2nd day of March, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of January, 1891. AUGUSTUS BARTELS, Administrator

E. D. HARTMAN, Att'y. 3t

The physicians of Berlin assert that their practice has fallen off 25 per cent. since Koch's operations began, and consequently they demand from the government free lymph.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

Robt. Dalzell, insurance agent, missing from Kokomo, is found to have committed forgeries there covering more than $1,000.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

Jay county farmers oppose an appropriation being made by this state to the world's fair. Won't benefit farmers, they say.

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talking about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time, or money refunded. Trial Bottles Free at Robbins & McCord's Drugstore. 16

When the world is not jeering at large faults in small men it is scolding at small faults in big men.

Will Be Given Away.

Our enterprising druggist F. E. Davenport who carries the finest stock of drugs, perfumeries, toilet articles, brushes, sponges, etc., is giving away a large number of trial bottles of Dr. Miles' celebrated Restorative Nervine. They guarantee it to cure headache, dizziness, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, the ill effects of spirits, tobacco, coffee, etc. Druggists say it is the greatest seller they ever knew, and is universally satisfactory. They also guarantee Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure in all cases of nervous or organic heart disease, palpitation, pain in side, smothering, etc. Fine book on "Nervous and Heart Diseases" free. 1

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 16, 1891.

The merry jingle of silver is the music which the Senate has provided for the people to dance too, by the adoption of the free coinage substitute for the financial bill, which went through in spite of the determined and extraordinary opposition of the administration and the republican leaders in the Senate.

The democratic party has been committed to free coinage, as far as the votes of all the senators of the party (with one exception, Wilson, of Md.,) can do so, while the republicans are committed against it. On this question of finance, the most important in every country, the republicans of the west and northwest, if the votes of their senators represent their views, and the presumption is that they do, seem to be in accord with the democrats and the Farmers' Alliance, which is a much more powerful factor in this matter than most people believe.

The most sensational feature of the debate which preceded the adoption of the free coinage amendment, was the speech of Senator Ingalls in favor of free coinage. It was more than that; it was a most speciously made plea to the Farmers' Alliance legislature of Kansas to re-elect him to the Senate. It was in many respects the best and most brilliant oration ever delivered by Mr. Ingalls, and had he not have allowed his hatred of the south to inveigle him into a defense of the force bill, which by the way, again has the right of way in the Senate, at its opening, it would undoubtedly have made him many friends in that section, where, as he probably knows, he now has none. As it is, although it was carefully listened to and all of its strong points, and there were many of them, against the monopoly and greed of the growing money power, were applauded to the echo, in spite of the efforts of the Senate officials to prevent it, it is regarded as the artificial plea of an office-seeker to obtain the support of members of an organization pledged to oppose his re-election to the Senate, and not as representing his real sentiments. Nevertheless he told his republican colleagues and the republican president, who stand ready, it is believed, to veto free coinage, should the bill get through the House over the unscrupulous opposition of Speaker Reed, some mighty truths about what the people will do in the future, should their wishes be thwarted in this matter. But it was casting pearls to swine. The republican party has never paid any attention to the wishes of the people, unless they happened to coincide with those of the bosses of the party.

John Bull must be trying to give the dying republican party a boom. At least one would suppose from his foolish action in attempting to get the aid of the United States supreme court in his controversy with the administration over the Behring Sea seal fisheries. Mr. Blaine would not have asked for anything better than the latest move of the British government. It has given him what he has never had before—the united support of the American people. England should have learned from experience that American dignity cannot be trifled with without danger. Already a democrat, Representative Enloe, of Tennessee, has introduced a resolution in the House resenting this action and declaring it to be in derogation of the dignity of the United states, and providing that a copy of the resolution be sent to the British government. Uncle Sam hasn't much of navy, but he has lots of dignity, and not even the "Queen of the Sea" must dare to rub him the wrong way.

A rumor very pleasant to democrats is circulating here this week, to the effect that Ex-Representative Perry Belmont may be elected to the Senate as Mr. Evarts' successor. Mr. Belmont's aggressiveness while chairman of the House committee on Foreign affairs several years ago proved that he has the capacity of making just the kind of a senator that the democratic party would like to see sent from the great state of New York.

One republican—Mr. Dawes—joined Senators Berry and Blodgett in a minority report on the apportionment bill favoring an additional representative for Arkansas, Minnesota, Missouri and New York.

Senator Hearst is said to be dying at his residence in this city from a cancer in his stomach. His physicians have given up all hope.

Senator Quay's new Force bill providing for the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and the use of the army and navy at the discretion of the president, is regarded as too absurd for serious discussion, and some of his friends say that he introduced it for the purpose of disgusting the country with the whole subject. It may not have been introduced for that purpose, but that will be the effect.

Next Saturday Night

After six o'clock, or any day or night this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough. This medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough or cold and all lung or throat troubles. For bronchial diseases it has no superior and many cases of bronchitis have been entirely cured by its use. Do not hesitate to try this great, meritorious remedy and be convinced of its curative powers. You can buy this medicine for 25c to give it a trial, of F. F. Davenport.

TRUSTEE'S BUSINESS NOTICE.

I will be at my office at my home in Jackson township for the transaction of township business on Thursday of each week till further notice.

44-47 J. J. WALTER, Township Trustee.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

CHOCK FULL OF NEWS.

SPICY ITEMS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Senatorial Elections—Death of King Kalakaua—Strike on the Chicago and Erie—Burned to Death—Killed by a Cow.

Fined $500 for Kissing a Hoosier Girl.

Louis Haase a jeweler of Indianapolis, was fined $200 and costs by Judge Cox for forcing Miss Helen L. Patrick to submit to kisses and embraces on a dark street against her will. He caught up with her going home from work in the evening, and after catching her about the waist, refused to release her until she would make an engagement to meet him next day at his office. Under the advice of the Chief of Police she kept the engagement, and Haase was soon arrested by Chief of Detectives Splann. The sentence is considered deserved, and a warning to mashers. Haase is married, and prominent in Jewish circles.

Indiana Base Ball League.

A new State base-ball league was organized at a meeting of the directors of the old organization held at Peru. C. K. McCullough was elected President, William Meyer, Jr., Vice President, and Louis Schroeder, Secretary and Treasurer. The directors appointed are Louis Heilbroner, Fort Wayne; L. Wachel, Muncie; Thomas Grady, Lafayette; J. Klein, Richmond; Nate Landaur, Peru; C. Halderman, Marion; J. Hennings, Kokomo; R. Cokefair, Anderson. The cities included are: Peru, Fort Wayne, Anderson, Muncie, Marion, Kokomo, and Richmond.

Badly Bursted.

The wife and brother of ex-Assemblyman Job Southwick, of Buffalo, N. Y., made an application for writ of attachment against "Job." He left home January 15 promising to return in the evening. The following day the wife received a letter from him saying she never would see him again. He is administrator of a large estate. His brother is on the bond, and it is believed all moneys entrusted to him together with his wife's fortune and borrowed money from friends and relatives has been squandered in trying to break the oil market.

A Runaway Engine.

A special from Atons, Pa., says one man was killed and several others injured by a collision which was caused by a runaway engine. An engineer of an engine on the Geneva and Sayre Railroad was thrown accidentally from his engine after he had reversed the lever, and the engine, freed from control, crashed into a coal train running north. Breston Sherwood, a brakeman, was killed, and Engineer Burrough, and Fireman Repp, of Pittson, were badly injured.

King Kalakaua Dead.

King Kalakaua, of the Hawaian Islands, died at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, from Bright's disease and uraemia. For forty-eight hours he was unable to take solid food and was nourished with milk and brandy. He was attended by Fleet Surgeon Wood, of the United States man-of-war Charleston, and Dr. Sawyer. The physicians held several consultations with prominent physicians of San Francisco.

A Rascally Reverend.

Rev. Ulysses Grant Glick, who is said to have victimized a large number of persons in different parts of the country, is under arrest at Washington. Glick has been wanted by the authorities in various cities, but has evaded arrest for over a year. Last spring he obtained a considerable sum of money from residents of New Orleans and St. Louis, and it is believed he has been very successful.

A Mail Carrier Robbed and Murdered.

A dispatch from Catletburg, Ky., says that news has been received of the murder and robbery of a mail carrier between Whitesburg, Ky., and Big Stone Gap, Va. The carrier has been missing since the recent heavy snow, and was not found until the other day. He had been shot twice and the mail pouch robbed. There is no clue to his murder.

Senatorial Elections.

State Legislatures have elected United States Senators as follows:

New Hampshire, Jacob H. Gallinger.
Oregon, J. H. Mitchell.
Arkansas, James K. Jones.
Colorado, H. M. Teller.
Missouri, G. H. Vest.
Pennsylvania, J. Donald Cameron.
North Carolina, Z. B. Vance.

A Strike on the Chicago and Erie.

The Chicago and Erie Railroad has a serious strike on its hands. The strikers are the conductors and dispatchers. The strike was planned to extend all along the road from Chicago to Salamanca, N. Y.

Chicago's New Postoffice.

Chicago capitalists announce their willingness to put up a new postoffice building in that city without pay and give the government free use of three stories in return for a ninety-nine years' lease of the grounds.

Four Children Burned to Death.

While Richard Ladd and wife, of Boston, Ga., were at church, their house was burned, and their four children perished in the flames. They had been locked in by their parents.

Powder Explosion.

A stick of powder exploded in the mines of the Shenandoah City, Pa., colliery, seriously injuring Samuel Williams and Wm. Daddow and slightly hurting George Taylor.

Governor Pattison.

Gov. Pattison was inaugurated at Harrisburg, Pa., with imposing exercises.

Tossed by a Cow.

While a large number of children were playing in a school ground at Nantwich, England, an infuriated cow charged upon them, tossing some in the air and trampling others under her hoofs. Forty-nine children received more or less serious injuries.

Out on Parole.

An American named Moore has been arrested at Mozambuque, charged with inciting the native chiefs of Zambo to rebel against the Portugese. Moore has been liberated on parole.

Affairs at Pine Ridge Agency.

A special from Pine Ridge Agency, S. D., dated the 18th says: This morning it was reported on good authority that Gen. Miles ordered the civilians to keep out of the hostile camp because he intended to disarm the Indians if he had to shell their camp to accomplish his purpose. The General could not be seen to substantiate the statement. Adj't. Gen. Corbin asked if Gen. Miles had issued such an order, but he would neither admit nor deny that such a course had been decided upon. So long, he said, as arms were being surrendered by the Indians there was no necessity to use force to compel more speed in the surrender of weapons. Gen. Miles is disposed to be patient so long as the Indians seemed disposed to comply with his demands. Thus far fifty-one guns have been turned over out of at least 1,400 which the hostiles are believed to possess.

GIVE IT UP.

A Constant Stream of Hostile Indians Pouring Into the Pine Ridge Agency.

A special from Pine Ridge, S. D., dated the 16th inst., says: The Indians have at last come, or rather are coming, in at this writing (noon). They string along the west bank of White Clay Creek for a distance of two miles. They are mounted, walking, riding in wagons, dragged in travelers, and in fact are advancing in every manner known to the Indians. They are driving and herding immenes herds of ponies. Some of them are entering the friendlies' camp; others pitching their tepees on the west bank of White Clay. These are the Ogallallas. The Brules, however, are camping in the bottom around Red Cloud's house, and half a mile from the agency buildings. It is not at all likely that all the tepees will be pitched before evening. Frank Grourard, the scout, estimates the number of lodges at 742, though he can not estimate the number of Indians. The latter cannot, however, be less than 3,500. The Indian camp two miles from the agency has been broken up. Gen. Brooke has been ordered to march with his command from below the mission to this point, and will reach here to-day. A part of his command will camp on the west bank of White Clay, extending north of the Indians, while another will flank them on the west and south.

The advance guard of the hostiles scarcely reached the agency when Big Road sent word that he had collected the arms of his followers and wanted to surrender them to the agency. When the weapons came in they were found to consist of simply two short guns, a heavy rifle and a broken carbine, two Sharp rifles and one Winchester—nine guns in all. This surrender is an evidence that the Indians do not propose to give up all their guns, and that they have hidden their best weapons on the hills. On this basis, the entire hostile band would be expected to give up in the neighborhood of 100 guns, when it is known that every buck is the owner of a weapon. American Horse, Standing Bear, White Bird, and Spotted Horse, friendly chiefs, are now asking protection from the hostiles who have camped among them.

Another big talk between Gen. Miles and the hostile chiefs is expected this afternoon. It is not likely that Gen. Miles will be satisfied with the disarming of the Indians on the basis of Big Road's surrender. If he should not be, some people here consider that the difficulty is far from being settled.

NERVOUSNESS.

The Indians at Pine Ridge Agency Fearful of Being Il’y Treated by the Soldiers.

News from Pine Ridge Agency, S. D., via Rushville, Neb., dated Jan. 21, says: There is increasing nervousness noticeable among the Indians this morning occasioned by the difficulty the Indians experienced in agreeing upon the question of turning over their arms, submitting to the degradation of the several tribes and the manner in which they are to be treated by the government. The Rosebud Indians fear to leave this Agency lest they be set upon and killed by the soldiers. About thirty, however, will go to Rosebud to-day. In the council yesterday the Rosebuds boldly charge that the Ogallallas have committed as many crimes as they had themselves. Bad feeling was also engendered by the statement of one chief that he intended to turn over all the Indians to the soldiers as a consequence of these actions. The collection of arms has been very unsatisfactory only 104 having been given up.

The news of the murder of Few Tails and four of his band and the wounding of his wife has also tended to inflame the Indians. It was discussed in yesterday's council and denounced by all factions. The Indians have rounded up their ponies and herded them near their village, while the Indians themselves hang around the tepees discussing the question of the day and silently watching the agency. Gen. Miles is greatly annoyed, and has put off indefinitely the date of his departure from this place.

The commanders of the several camps, Gen. Brooke, Gen. Carr, Col. Henry, Col. Shaffer, Col. Offley, Col. Wheaton, Major Wells, Major Whiteside, and Capt. Capron have just gone into council with Gen. Miles, having been specially summoned for the purpose.

BARRING THEM OUT.

Mr. Owen's Bill to Regulate Immigration.

Mr. Owen, of Indiana, Chairman of the Committee on Immigration, reported to the House, with a recommendation that it pass, a substitute for the bill introduced by himself, providing for the regulation of immigration. The bill is reported as agreed upon by the committee after a careful consideration of the testimony taken by it on the subject.

It provides that the following classes of aliens shall be excluded from admission into the United States in accordance with the existing laws regulating immigration other than those respecting Chinese. All idiots, insane persons, paupers, or persons likely to become a public charge; persons suffering from a dangerous or contagious disease; persons who have been convicted of felony or other crimes involving moral turpitude; polygamists and all other persons whose tickets or passage is paid for with the money of another, or who is assisted by others to come, unless it is affirmatively and satisfactorily shown on special inquiry that such persons do not belong to one of the foregoing classes.

The bill amends the contract labor law so as to apply to persons coming to the United States, in response to advertisements in foreign papers, and also to persons induced to come by immigration agents. Ministers and men in recognized professions are specially exempted. The bill requires steamship companies to keep immigrants on board until landed at the barge office for inspection and examination on penalty of not being given clearance papers, and also compels them to care for and return rejected immigrants. There is no provision for railway inspection.

Naming Senators.

The Democratic members of the Indiana Legislature in caucus nominated Daniel W. Voorhees by acclamation to succeed himself.

The Republicans nominated Gov. Alvin P. Hovey, and passed a resolution endorsing the administration of President Harrison. Governor Hovey's strongest competitor was Charles W. Fairbanks.

The New York Democratic caucus nominated Governor Hill by acclamation for United States Senator.

The Republican caucus nominated William M. Evarts.

The Pennsylvania Democratic caucus named Chauncey F. Black for United States Senator.

The Republican caucus nominated Mr. Moody as the Republican candidate for the United States Senatorship from South Dakota.

Duel to Death.

Eight miles from Morgantown, N. C., a bloody duel to death occurred. For some time Joseph Harris has suspected John Aiken was too fond of Mrs. Harris, a comely young woman. Harris warned Aiken to discontinue his visits but this was not heeded. The two men met on a public road and hot words passed. Harris drew a long-bladed pocket knife and made a lunge at Aiken. In the meantime Aiken drew a pocket knife and both cut and slashed each other until Harris fell dead with Aiken's blade fast in his flesh.

Indiana Union Printers.

Delegates from all the Typographical Unions in Indiana met at Lafayette and formed a State organization. Some of the objects of the organization are to secure the membership of every printer in the State and to establish a friendly relation between the employe and employer. The following officers were elected:

President—William P. Duffy, Fort Wayne.

Vice President—William Sherman, South Bend.

Secretary and Treasurer—Dan Comingore.

State Organizer—John P. Hannegan.

Addresses were made by E. T. Plank, President of the International Typographical Union; V. C. Williams, District Organizer, of Chicago, and others. It was decided before the adjournment to hold the next meeting at Crawfordsville the second week in January.

The Strike Is On.

Chicago special: The strike of telegraph operators and station agents on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad has begun. Of course only a fraction of the men are employed in this city, but Grand Chief Thurston of the Order of Railway Telegraphers said that he had already received reports to indicate that the strike was in full progress and that at least 350 men have failed to return to their positions. At the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul offices there was an assumption of blissful ignorance that any strike was in progress. "If there is," said one of the officials, "we have not observed any effect from it as yet."

Tragedy at Chattanooga.

A horrible tragedy occurred at Chattanooga, Tenn, S. M. Fugette, cashier of the South Chattanooga Savings Bank, was shot and killed by his father-in-law, Judge J. A. Warder, who is city attorney of Chattanooga. Judge Warder is shot in two places, one ball penetrating his breast at the right nipple, and the other took off the index finger of the left hand. Mrs. Fugette is the only child of Judge Warder and she is shot in the right thigh, a very dangerous wound.

Tried to Steal a Passenger Train.

A desperate but unorganized attempt was made at Deadwood, S. D., by 160 railroad grade strikers to take possession of the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley passenger train as it was about to depart for the East. The men had quit work on the grade, claiming that the company was not keeping its contract with them, both as to the amount to be paid for work, and the cost of board. The train started, every platform filled with deputy sheriffs.

Fatally Shot at a Christening.

At a Hungarian christening at Gallitzen, Pa., John Orlekusky shot Mrs. Dufski, who will probably die from the effects of her wound, the bullet settling in the neighborhood of her heart. Beer and whisky was plentiful and all hands were more or less intoxicated. Orlekusky claims he did not know the revolver was loaded.

Strike Fizzled Out.

Appearances indicate that the strike of the Milwaukee and St. Paul road's operators will shortly end in a victory for the railway company. General Manager Earling's chief clerk said that all but sixty-four of the men had gone back, and that those still out were attempting to gain their old positions.

Poisoned the King and Stole His Sixteen Wives.

News from the South Seas state that King Muli, of the Solomon Islands, has been poisoned, and that Chief Gorai, of the Shortland island, Muli's enemy, made a raid on the settlement and stole sixteen wives of the deceased king and carried them away in his boots.

Town Wiped Out.

Dispatches received at Denver, say that the city of Alamosa, was almost wiped out by fire. Most of the buildings in the town are of wood, and when the fire started a high wind was blowing. The flames spread rapidly and swept the main street from end to end. The loss is very heavy.

Killed by Earthquake.

Further details of the destruction wrought by the severe earthquake in Algeria, reported on the 15th inst., have been received. The towns of Couraya and Ville Bourg were practically destroyed by the shocks and forty persons were killed by the falling of walls. The amount of damage done to property is $20,000.

Notorious Character Killed.

John Gibbs, a notorious character of Logansport, Ind., was killed by Barney Klif, a saloon keeper, of that place. Gibbs entered Klif's saloon and abused Klif, who seized a piece of rubber hose loaded with led, and striking Gibbs back of the ear felled him to the floor. Klif is now in jail.

The Two Rescued Women.

The Brazilian mail steamship Seguranea, which arrived at New York from Rio and intermediate ports, brought an English lady, Miss Haste, and her maid, Miss Howard, who were taken from the wrecked ship Torense.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
CATTLE—Common to Prime....	$3.25 @ 5.25
HOGS—Shipping Grades..........	3.00 @ 4.00
SHEEP..................................	3.00 @ 5.25
WHEAT—No. 2 Red................	.91 @ .92
CORN—No. 2.........................	.48 @ .48½
OATS—No. 2..........................	.42 @ .42½
RYE—No. 2............................	.70 @ .71
BUTTER—Choice Creamery......	.22 @ .27
CHEESE—Full Cream, flats......	.09½ @ .10½
EGGS—Fresh..........................	.21 @ .22
POTATOES—Western, per bu.....	.92 @ .95
INDIANAPOLIS.
CATTLE—Shipping...................	3.50 @ 5.00
HOGS—Choice Light................	3.00 @ 3.75
SHEEP—Common to Prime......	3.00 @ 4.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red..................	.95 @ .96
CORN—No. 1 White................	.50 @ .50½
OATS—No. 2 White.................	.47 @ .47½
ST. LOUIS.
CATTLE..................................	4.00 @ 5.25
HOGS.....................................	3.00 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red..................	.94 @ .95
CORN—No. 2..........................	.47 @ .48
OATS—No. 2...........................	.44½ @ .45½
BARLEY—Minnesota................	.70 @ .72
CINCINNATI.
CATTLE..................................	3.00 @ 4.50
HOGS.....................................	3.00 @ 3.75
SHEEP....................................	3.00 @ 5.75
WHEAT—No. 2 Red..................	.98 @ .99
CORN—No. 2..........................	.53 @ .54
OATS—No. 2 Mixed..................	.47 @ .48
MILWAUKEE.
WHEAT—No. 2 Spring..............	.87 @ .89
CORN—No. 3..........................	.48½ @ .49½
OATS—No. 2 White.................	.45 @ .46
RYE—No. 1.............................	.72 @ .73
BARLEY—No. 2........................	.67 @ .68
DETROIT.
CATTLE..................................	3.00 @ 4.60
HOGS.....................................	3.00 @ 3.50
SHEEP....................................	3.00 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red..................	.95½ @ .96½
CORN—No. 2 Yellow...............	.52½ @ .53½
OATS—No. 2 White.................	.47½ @ .48
TOLEDO.
WHEAT..................................	.95 @ .95½
CORN—Cash............................	.51 @ .52
OATS—No. 2 White.................	.47 @ .48
BUFFALO.
CATTLE—Good to Prime..........	4.00 @ 5.00
HOGS—Medium and Heavy.......	3.50 @ 4.00
WHEAT—No. 1 Hard................	1.08 @ 1.08½
CORN—No. 2..........................	.57½ @ .58½
EAST LIBERTY.
CATTLE—Common to Prime.....	3.50 @ 5.00
HOGS—Light...........................	3.25 @ 4.00
SHEEP—Medium to Good........	4.00 @ 5.00
LAMBS....................................	5.00 @ 6.50
NEW YORK.
CATTLE..................................	3.50 @ 5.00
HOGS.....................................	3.60 @ 4.00
SHEEP....................................	4.00 @ 6.00
WHEAT—No. 2 Red..................	1.06 @ 1.08
CORN—No. 2..........................	.60 @ .61
OATS—Mixed Western............	.49 @ .52

STATE OF INDIANA.

A BIG CRIST OF LATEST STATE NEWS.

A Pretty Romance in Real Life—Monon Railway Sued for $5,000—Escapade of a Barber—Suicides, Deaths, Accidents, Etc.

Pretty Romance in Real Life.

Two or three months ago a 12-year-old boy made his appearance at the home of Henry Weikel, a farmer near Elkhart, and stated that he had just escaped from a band of gypsies, who had stolen him from his home and had had possession of him six years. Mr. Weikel gave the boy a home, finding him perfectly trustworthy, and notified Marshal Coleman of the affair. The boy said he thought his father lived at Marion, Ind., and that his name was Hale, whereupon the officer wrote a letter which he requested the Marion postmaster to hand to somebody named Hale. This was done, and after the letter had made an extensive round, the officer received a reply from the boy's father, who expressed great joy over the recovery of his son, and sent a ticket for his immediate return. The letter contained no particulars of the stealing of the boy.

Minor State Items.

—Greensburg is pestered to death with tramps.

—Evansville promises itself rapid transit before '92.

—Mrs. J. Robertson was found dead in bed at Kokomo.

—Indiana is the greatest boat-building State in the enterior.

—Martinsville spent $100,000 in building improvements in 1890.

—Railroad property in Indiana is said to be valued at $250,000,000.

—John Byers, Jr., Shelbyville, shot his foot full of bird shot while out hunting.

—The J. & L. Bridge Company did not accept Jeffersonville's $75,000 to locate there.

—A laundry and machine shop is being built at Argos, citizens having donated $400 towards it.

—Gamblers have got to "get right out" of Washington. Police are after them night and day.

—Mrs. Willard Ray, residing in the southern part of Monroe County, has given birth to triplets.

—William De Sana, who disappeared from Noblesville some time ago, has turned up in that city.

—Joseph Eberle, aged 14, was accidentally shot by his brother John, while hunting near Lafayette.

—Frank Huntsman's large saw mil burned down at Rolling Prairie. Loss, $10,000; no insurance.

—Joseph Lockridge fell dead at the dinner-table at Manville, after making a hearty meal of oysters.

—The boiler in Coopride's saw-mill, at Middlebury, exploded, wrecking the engine. Nobody was hurt.

—Marion is wild with excitement over the discovery of a supposed rich oil field four miles south of the city.

—Mrs. Carrie Kuehlman fell from a second story window in Seymour, and will die from injuries received.

—George Turner, an undertaker of Nashville, attempted twice to poison himself, but failed both times.

—Wheatland has quarantined Joseph Roll's family, recently moved there, and all just recovering from small-pox.

—Red Key is real vexed about the report circulating around that their natural gas is failing. It's no such thing!

—A kindly Muncie farmer has a large natural gas jet burning in an open field around which his cattle hover and keep warm.

—William B. Russell has sued his father-in-law, Benjamin Oliver, a wealthy farmer of Wabash County, for libel, asking $5,000 damages.

—It has been ascertained that the clay on the Coleman farm, near Crawfordsville, will make the finest quality of paint, as well as pottery.

—Sheriff Wm. C. Smith, Bartholomew County, offers $4,000 for a wife. He is given to spreeing, and says nothing will ever save him but a good wife.

—Of the twenty children taken to Crawfordsville, from the Boston Orphans' Home, seven have been returned and the others have found good homes.

—Daniel Wilkinson, aged 60, a leading citizen of Peru, pioneer manufacturer and inventor of the double cylinder high pressure engine, died of cancer of the stomach.

—While Tom Bowers, of Waynetown, was changing his revolver from one pocket to another, it was discharged, the bullet going through the arm of Andrew Maltsbarger above the elbow.

—Mrs. Russell Blair, of Elkhart, has been driven insane by the prediction of one "Dr." Baker, a fortune-teller of Mishakawa, who told her her husband would be killed in a railway accident.

—Wood Grimes, mail carrier between Smartsburg and Crawfordsville, was seriously injured by attempting to get off a Monon train, at Lafayette Junction, while the train was in motion.

—Grant Johnson and his cousin, Mrs. Rose Parks, of Bloomington, both injured in the Monon collision at Smithfield, have compromised their $50,000 suit against the Monon for $4,500.

—James Daugherty, of the vicinity of Roachdale, Putnam County, dropped dead while sitting in his chair. His age was 90 years.

—It is definitely settled that Peru will be in the Indiana trotting circuit for 1891, and the dates for the races will be July 7 to 11.

—Bard Ship, M. D., Mormon elder from Salt Lake City, is visiting in Columbus. His five wives and thirty-five children are keeping house during his absence.

—Charles Ballenger, a 12-year-old boy at Upland, was accidentally shot and killed while rabbit hunting. He had been dead several hours before the body was discovered.

—Crawfordsville vocalists are rebelling against doing so much "dead-head singing at funerals in which they have no interest," as they express it. A nice lot they must be.

—Judge Miers, of Monroe County, has decided that a published legal notice dates from the day the newspaper containing it is distributed, regardless of the date the paper bears.

—A big gray wolf is depredating among the Putnam County sheep.

—Just as the fun was about to begin at a Crawfordsville prize fight, the mother of one of the fighters appeared on the scene with the marshal and deliberately waltzed her son home.

—Benjamin Dilger is the John L. Sullivan of Jeffersonville. The other night three footpads collided with him, much to their sorrow. One was knocked down and the other two escaped by virtue of their abilities as sprinters.

—A child was born to Lewis and Delilah Bailey, who reside in the northwest part of Morgan County, which has but one hand. Where the other hand should be, appears a perfect mole's head and one forepaw. The child is in healthy condition, and otherwise well formed.

—Some interest is being manifested in different parts of Pery County over the proposed scheme of removing the county-seat from Cannelton to Tell City. The Tell City Business Men's Association held a meeting, a few nights ago, and they decided to open the fight right away.

—A State Typographical Union was organized at Lafayette, and the following officers elected: President W. P. Duffy, Fort Wayne; Vice President, William Sherman, South Bend; Secretary and Treasurer, Daniel Cominger, Lafayette; State Organizer, John P. Hannegan, Lafayette.

—Ted Connors, a policeman at Crawfordsville, has brought suit for $5,000 against the Monon Railway. He alleges that, while standing on the depot platfrom a mail clerk threw from the train a heavy mail-sack, which struck his foot, causing permanent injury. This is a novel case, as it will be attempted to show that the railroad company is responsible for the action of the mail clerks, who are employed by the Government.

—Carthage has secured the Leonard Raper Box-board Co.'s plant. The plant and building will cost $80,000. Will work from seventy-five to one hundred hands. The building is to be put up at once. It has also secured a large butter and cheese factory. Work has begun on the building, and it will be running by April 1. A large number of dwelling houses will be built at once. The town is on a big boom and will soon be a hustling little city.

—The wife and infant son of the Rev. J. M. Bolton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Covington, were alone and the child attempted to obtain a box of matches from a small table on which were two lamps, both lighted. He overturned the table, breaking one of the lamps. The oil ignited, and the room was soon filled with flames and suffocating smoke. Fortunately the mother and child escaped from the room before the flames reached their garments.

—When the gold fever of 1849 struck Indiana Andrew Paul, a farmer of Dearborn County, went to California, and after a few more years was lost trace of. His wife remained faithful for twenty years, when she heard he was still living and procured a divorce. Since then she had fallen heir to a fortune and has had two other husbands, both of whom are dead. Recently when very ill, she telegraphed for Paul and he returned, gray-haired and bent with years. A reconciliation occurred and they will remarry.

—A barber named Whitsel came to Elwood a few days ago with a wife and two children, and they bought a shop and also commenced housekeeping. The other morning a nice-looking old man named Peters, came to the city and stated that Whitsel had run away with the woman who was his (the old man's) daughter, and that she was the wife of another man. Whitsel ran away as soon as he learned the old man was in town, and the latter took his daughter, barber outfit and all to his home at New Brittain, Ohio.

—Mrs Frances F. Calkins and Frank Hendryx have been arrested for the murder of the woman's husband at Elkhart last April, and she has made a confession. The story of the frightful crime is as follows: On the 3d of last April, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Calkins, who had been married but three days, together with a former friend of the latter, Frank Hendryx, went boat riding on the St. Joseph River. In the evening Hendryx and Mrs. Calkins returned wet to the skin, and said that the boat had upset and that Mr. Calkins had gone to the bottom. A search was at once made for the body, but it was not found for three days. In the mean time serious suspicions of foul play had been aroused.

—An explosion occurred at the building which protects the gas regulation at Russiaville. Mr. Wishart, of Lafayette, superintendent of the R. and W. M. Natural-gas Company, was there to have a "burn-out" repaired, and went to the building to ascertain if all was right before retiring for the night. He had just opened the door, when the explosion, with terrible force, blew him thirty feet across the street. The flame ignited his clothing and burned his right hand and his entire face and neck in a frightful manner. The brave-hearted man, after such a painful experience, fought the fire at the building until he got it under control. He was then carried to his room and his wounds dressed. The building was not totally destroyed, but considerably damaged.

—Mrs. Lucena Kuhlman, aged 28 years, and the mother of a family, fell from an upper story window of the Lynn House, at Seymour, alighting on her head on the stone pavement. Her injuries are fatal.

—An organization of seventy-five leading citizens of Peru has been effected to wage an unrelenting war on the innumerable gambling dens infesting that city. Immediate notice to remove from the city within twenty-four hours was served.

—Martin Hall, aged 75, was found in his barn, suffering from what is supposed to be a fatal stroke of paralysis.

—F. E. Putnam has been librarian of the Muncie Presbyterian Sunday-school thirty-eight years, uninterruptedly.

—Charlie Thomas, aged 16 years, son of Geo. W. Thomas, of Plymouth, shot an American eagle as it was flying over their farm. The bird measured seven and one-half feet from tip to tip, weighed twelve pounds, and its talons were seven inches long. It was sold to a South Bend gentleman, and is now in the hands of a taxidermist.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

Both branches of the Indiana Legislature reassembled Jan. 12, but little business, however, was transacted. In the Senate, Senator Boyd offered a resolution to amend the Constitution of the State so as to increase the number of Supreme Court judges from five to eleven. Senator Thompson introduced a bill fixing the salaries of county officers based on population and ranging from $1,250 to $1,500 with fees. Clerks, auditors, treasurers, and sheriffs in counties of 10,000 or less to receive the lowest salary named above. In counties of 30,000 to 35,000, $2,500; 35,000 to 40,000, $2,750; 40,000 to 45,000, $3,000; 45,000 to 50,000, $3,250, and so on. Counties of 70,000 or more to pay salaries of $4,500. In the House, Mr. Thienes offered a resolution instructing the Indiana representatives in Congress to favor a bill providing for the appointment of an additional Cabinet officer, to be known as the Commissioner of Labor, and this was also adopted. Mr. Kelly introduced a joint resolution providing for a joint committee of nine, five from the House, and four from the Senate, to consider the matter of taxation of corporations and inheritances, and report a bill on the subject, which was adopted. A large number of bills were introduced.

In the House, Jan. 13, bills were introduced providing for local option, appropriating $200,000 for the World's Fair exhibit, and providing for a levy of $1,000,000 to pipe gas to Indianapolis. The resolution to investigate the killing of Blount, at the Richmond Insane Hospital was laid on the table. In the Senate the Democrats gave McHugh the seat for Tippecanoe, to which Osborn, (Rep.) was elected.

A Bill was introduced in the House, January 14, to appoint a committee to cooperate with committees of seven other agricultural States to find out how much foreign capital is loaned in said States and provide for its taxation. Representative Fippen, author of the bill, says $400,000,000 of foreign capital is now loaned to Indiana citizens. Other important House bills were to regulate the sale of artificial dairy product and to inspect meats. A resolution in the Senate called on Congress to pay a pension of $2 for each day of imprisonment in rebel prisons suffered by Union soldiers. After a long debate it was adopted. A concurrent resolution was introduced, asking an amendment to the National constitution pending for the election of United States Senators by popular vote. A memorial read in the Senate and signed by 4,000 miners condemned the State mine inspector, Thomas Tislow, and petitioned for a law which will assure a competent inspector. A joint committee was appointed to prepare a bill for taxing corporations so that they will be compelled to pay a fair share in the support of the government.

A resolution passed both Houses Jan. 15, calling on Congress to amend the constitution so as to provide for the election of United States Senators by pouplar ballot. They passed a resolution favoring the corporation of the States of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania in an inquiry as to how much foreign capital is loaned in these States, with a view to taxing same. A bill was introduced in the House providing that illegitimate children shall bear the father's name. The speaker announced the Standing Committees. The following are a few of the principal ones:

Ways and Means—Messrs. Oppenheim, Curtis, Harrell, Beasley, Nolan, Work, Hess, Claypool, and Haggard.

Judiciary—Messrs. Beasley, Oppenheim, Ader, Harrell, Voight, Fippen, Adams, Glessner, Morris of Henry, Hess, and Haggard.

Printing—Messrs. Pickhardt, Short, Kern, Bowman, Gill, Smith of Owen, Parker of Hendricks, Morris of Henry, and McDowell.

Labor—Messrs. Kelley, Ebert, Carroll, Robbins, Inman, Thienes, McDowell, Latta, and Haggard.

Elections—Messrs. Fippen, Kern, Mack, Kyle, Kilgore, Johnson of Dearborn, Aikman, Doll, and Bryant.

Military Affairs—Messrs. Robbins, Curtis, Higgins, Teal, Leyden; Calvert, Officer, Stone, and Doll.

Fees and Salaries—Messrs. Harrall, Kester, Ader, Moon, Moss, Pickhardt, Morris of Henry, Claypool, and Wilson.

Apportionment—Messrs. Curtis, Seventh District; Nolan, First District; Pickhardt, Second District; Callicutt, Third District; Johnson, of Dearborn, Fourth District; Short, Fifth District; Guthrie, Sixth District; Morris of Parke, Eighth District; Sleeper, Ninth District; Parker of Newton and Jasper, Tenth District; Branstetter, Eleventh District; Adams, Twelfth District; Fowler, Thirteenth District.

In the Senate, a number of bills were introduced, and a resolution passed asking the Indiana delegation in Congress to endeavor to secure in the next river and harbor bill an appropriation for the extension of the improvements in the Grand Calumet River. A communication from the Governor charging Warden Murdock of the Northern Prison with converting to his own use the revenue derived from the sale of slops was referred to the Committee on Prisons after lengthy discussion.

In the House there was a prolonged discussion over charges made by the Governor against Warden Murdock of the Prison North; $105,000 appropriated to defray expenses of the legislature.

Monster Balls.

New York is distinguished every season for its monster masquerades and fancy balls. In spite of gas, music, flowers and gay costumes, these gatherings, if we are to believe the reports of many who "assist" at them, are at once dreary and disgusting. The multitudes of mock Kings, Knights, Duchesses, Scaramouches, Pickwicks, Cardinals, Indians, Clowns, Columbines, Pantaloons, Hidalgos, Sailors, Punchinellos, Flower-Girls, and what not, who meet upon a common level upon these occasions, are nothing more than promenading and gyrating dummies. The world may be a stage, but these ladies and gentlemen show very clearly that all the men and women are not players—not one in 500 of them having the slightest idea of personating the character whose outer husk he or she assumes.

These monster balls are said to be principally remarkable for three impossibilities, viz: the impossibility of dancing, on account of the crowd; the impossibility of getting any refreshments without fighting for them; and the impossibility of obtaining access to the dressing-room except by force of arms. Fifteen dollars for a ticket and a hundred dollars for a costume may not be too much to pay for six hours of discomfort; but by riding in the city railroad or elevated cars for the same length of time, you can get shoved, jammed and hustled about almost as thoroughly for much less money, and you needn't pay anything extra for costume, either.

Her Tact Did the Business.

"Engaged? And you have only visited her twice?"

"Yes. Couldn't do anything else; such a fine, lovely girl. The first evening I went to see her it kept me nervous watching the clock on the mantel and and when 10 came I took my hat and left."

"Well?"

"Well, last night when I called I noticed the clock had been removed from the room."—Philadelphia Times.

Prayer Among the Mongols.

On the tops of all the houses were little prayer wheels turned by the force of the wind, a simple arrangement like an anemometer placed on them catching the air and so keeping them in motion. In the hands of most of the old men and women were bronze or brass prayer wheels, which they kept continually turning, while not satisfied with this mechanical way of acquiring merit, they mumbled the popular formula "Om mani peme hum," the well-known invocation to Avalokiteshwarai, the would-be savior of the world.—Century.

A peculiar fact with reference to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is, that, unlike sarsaparillas and other blood medicines, which are said to be good for the blood in March, April and May, the "Discovery" works equally well all the year round, and in all cases of blood-taints or humors, no matter what their name or nature.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier sold through druggists.

Why? Because it's sold on a peculiar plan, and you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

"Golden Medical Discovery" is a concentrated vegetable extract, put up in large bottles; contains no alcohol to inebriate, no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; is pleasant to the taste, and equally good for adults or children.

The "Discovery" cures all Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, as Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Fever-sores, White Swellings, Hip-joint disease and kindred ailments.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

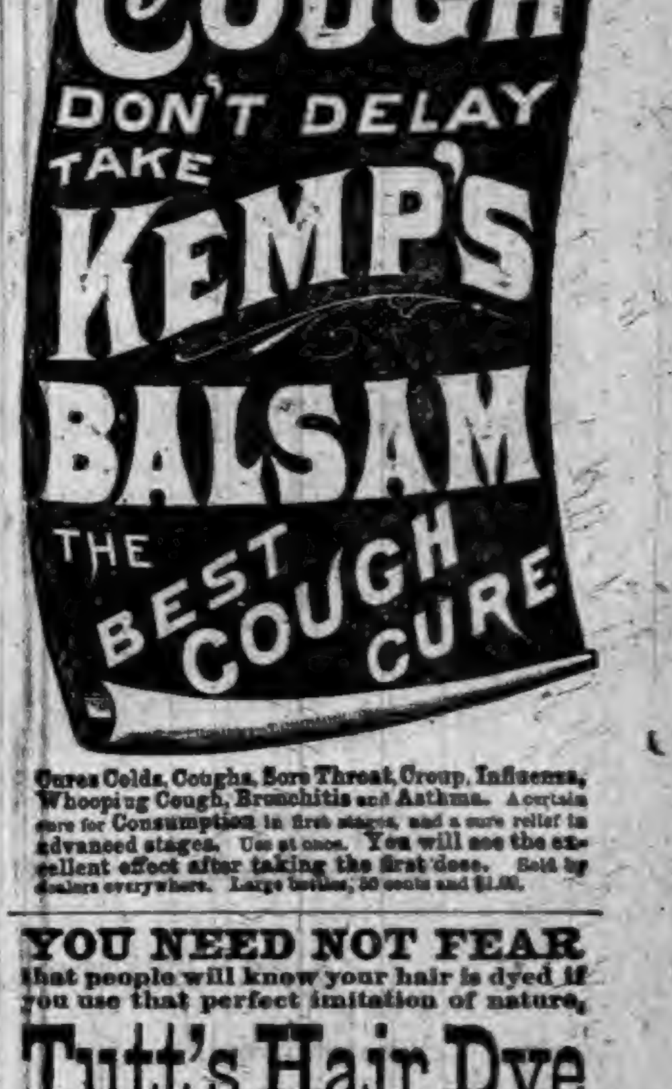
Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO.,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.



Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00.

YOU NEED NOT FEAR that people will know your hair is dyed if you use that perfect imitation of nature,
Tutt's Hair Dye
No one can detect it. It imparts a glossy color and fresh life to the hair. Easily applied. Price, $1. Office, 39 Park Place, N. Y.

MARVELLOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY
Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. Testimonials from all parts of the globe. Prospectus POST FREE, sent on application to Prof. A. Loisette, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring
Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts. at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and illustrated pamphlet for a dime.
THE PEDINE CO., WORLD BUILDING, NEW YORK.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co.
CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

FAT FOLKS Reduced 15 to 25 pounds per month by harmless herbal remedies. No starving, no inconvenience. Confidential. Send 6c. for circulars and testimonials. Address, DR. O. W. F. SNYDER, 243 State St., Chicago, Ill. Name this paper when you write.

PATENTS Inventors' Guide, or How to Obtain a Patent, sent free.
PATRICK O'FARRELL, Att'y at Law, Washington, D.C.

ASTHMA DR. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE never fails; send us your address, we will mail trial BOTTLE FREE
CURED
THE DR. TAFT BROS. M. CO., ROCHESTER, N.Y.

TACOMA $100 to $1,000 Carefully invested here brings ANNUALLY from TWENTY to 100%
Tacoma Investment Co., Tacoma, Wash.

G ANTE
MAGIC —CHICKE
Cholera Cu

Thousands of dollars chickens are destroyed by every year. It is more fata than all other diseases co
But the discovery of a liqui that positively destroys the M has been made. Half of the chickens are killed by M before they are fryers. A bottle is enough for 100 c
It is guaranteed: If, aft
two-thirds of a bottle you satisfied with it as a cure f era, return it to the druggi whom you purchased it, and refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles indent to a bilious state of the system, such Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress afte eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their mos remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.
SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES
—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—
LAND OF FLOWERS!
DOUSSAN'S
Sweet South
In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles.
EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:
LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST!
LUNEAS! NEVADA!
IMPERIAL PINK!
ROUSSEL ROSE
EDEN BOUQUET!
LILY OF THE VALLEY!
All 50 cents per bottle. PICCIOLA!

The most delicate and most lasting odors made.
Our trade-mark patented on every label.
"Delicate as a cobweb,
Lasting as the hills."
☞ If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.
DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.
46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!
HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND.
WILL CURE YOU.
BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE

WHAT IS IT?
1—A Cough Medicine that is fective and won't nauseate. No agreeable effects after taking.
2—As pleasant as maple sy and as effective as it is pleasa
3—The largest bottle f
money on the market.
Almost everybody is using it and selling beyond all anticipation
CHECKS DISEASE.
CURES ANY COUGH OR CO
GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.
MASTERS CROUP AND WHOOPING COU
BUY AT DRUGGISTS.
HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND

FOR MEN ON VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING M
General and NERVOUS D
Weakness of Body and Min
of Errors or Excesses in Old
Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to e
Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS
Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits
Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Wr Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (
Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO

---

te
th tre
you liter pany
"No
"Yes,
mean it with me once to sist you
you bac
Go on;
obey m
These the co
her fo
Now form it, bu
he in ply
H pa sa s t

TS

FOR

W

ES!

TAPLE

GOODS.

OCK, AUBURN.

TRUTH,

Specialist in Chronic Diseases, and diseases of the patients, has decided to visit

. FEBRUARY 2, 1891.

dential in his parlors at the SWINEFORD HOUSE

Consultation and Examination

FREE.

FRUTH,

CAL DISPENSARY,
K CITY,

ans and surgeons, treats with unparalleled success all ature upon the latest scientific principles. He particlly treated or pronounced incurable. Patients who are d not call on us, as our province is to treat those who sponsible parties to commence treatment.

edicine. It is well known by all intelligent observers ghly endowed by nature or acquirements, to become ence of medicine. Nearly all who have obtained dist their life work, being fitted therefor by natural adap-
The doctor having devoted several years to the special ctice, and having the most recent and improved instru-ns of the body, he proposes to devote the whole of his o the large hospitals, and is not and never has been the he symptoms of the patient, ascertains the condition of d Throat by the most recent and approved instruments gister for future reference. In this way he ascertains the disease, he knows the changes it produces in the specific remedies, and places his patient on the high ly tells them whether he can cure or help them, or d physical science, as he will convince the most he nature and extent of disease, amount of danger ce is truth and "truth is mighty and will prevail"

h positive certainty, he invites the afflicted to call xperience as the treatment and cure of chronic disormed by him is due to a thorough knowledge of cure of diseases by natural remedies. Let those y treated the following diseases since his arrival ronic Inflammation of the Womb, Chronic Inflamer Sores and Ulcers, Incontinence of Urine, Tape es, Club Foot, Hip Joint Disease, White Swell-ss and General Debility, Impotency, Diseases of imples, Skin Diseases, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Gleet, Gonorrhoea, Hydrocele, Heart Disease,

ic Dysentery, Enlarged Tonsils, Fistula in Ano, Uteri, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Scrofula, rhoea, Rheumatism, etc. All surgical operarivate Diseases.—Blood Poison, Syphorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele, Varico-of Sexual Power and all diseases of the gen-

y organs speedily and permanently cured.
incurred. Consultation free and strictly tial. Medicine sent free from observation to of the United States.

ddle Aged Men, who find their d vitality weakened by the traces of old ts and their bodies racked with pain at a en they should spend their declining years and comfort, should consult Dr. Fruth at find the sympathy and re[illegible] u positively
His cures are thorough and permanent.

eases of Women,—We shall con-eretofore, to treat with our best considerakill the diseases peculiar to women. Our for Fistula, Ruptured Cervix Uteri, Ruprineum, and for Stricture of the Cervical condition resulting in Sterility, have been atifying both to ourselves and our patients.

on applying for medical treatment should chemical and microscopical examination.
ave been neglected or unskillfully treated.
where possible personal consultation pre-
ers Address, DR. FRUTH,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

scientiously recommend Dr. Fruth as a genault, considerate in price and enthusiastic in vail themselves of his superior skill:—Gran-
y, N. Y.; T. Meredith Maxwell, A. M., M.
N. Y.; W. E. White, M. D., Toronto, Canada
er's Bank, Fostoria, Ohio.

CLEARING SALE

OF ALL

WINTER GOODS!

Ladies' and Children's Cloaks,
Dress Flannels, Habit Cloths,
Underwear, Knit Goods, Factory Flannels,
Blankets Horse Blankets Comforts,
Infants' Hoods, Millinery etc, at a BIG REDUCTION
Special—One lot of Ladies' New Markets, and Children's Cloaks,
We mark One Dollar,
Former price from two and a half to six dollars.

HARTER,

EAST OF COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

LOCAL NEWS.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Baldness is catching says a scientist. It's catching flies in summer time. Use Hall's Hair Renewer and cover the bald place with healthy hair and flies won't trouble.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

NOTICE TO MUSIC TEACHERS—We are authorized to state that music teachers can obtain one sample copy of the new music, "Lost in Sorrow," reverie, by J. E. Ecker, at 10 cents. Regular price is 40 cents. Ign. Fischer, Publisher, Toledo, Ohio.

"Blood tells." We may not be able to to infuse royal and noble blood into a man's veins; but we can do better; we can expel from them, all impure and poisonous humors by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Pure blood is the best kind of royal blood.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn. Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immdiately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

McElree's Wine of Cardui

and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in Auburn by Robbins & McCord.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Spring-time stirs up the bile. Simmons Liver Regulator removes it.

Health demands a healthy liver. Take Simmons Liver Regulator for dyspepsia and indigestion.

Simmons Liver Regulator is a most excellent appetizing tonic. Saml. S. Pentz, Chap. to Bishop of North California.

Dr. Ford started for California Tuesday accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Spooner, and by Miss Nettie Kelley, who goes out there for her health.

A poor family was in town Tuesday going about asking help to get to their friends in Michigan. Our people generally chipped in a little to assist them.

LOST: On Fifth street near Jackson, about Jan. 13, a pair of spectacles. Finder will confer a favor by leaving them at the office of Drs. D. J. and Vesta M. Swarts.

Mrs. Woodwort, the trance evangelist is in Indianapolis, drawing good crowds at a Baptist church. She is trying to get a divorce from her husband. He says her religion is a humbug.

Summer-time brings colic and stomach ache. Simmons Liver Regulator cures it. Autumn produces chills and fever and malaria. Simmons Liver Regulator prevents them.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E. Davenport's.

Many years practice have given C. A. Snow & Co., solicitors of patents at Washington, D. C., unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of invention. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column, will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturers, and all who have to do with patents.

FINDLAY, Ohio, May. 1, 1790.

J. M. Loose Red Clover Co., Detroit:

Gentlemen: I have been using your Fluid Extract of Red Clover for constipation, and find it a truly wonderful medicine, in fact does more than you claim for it. I cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering from that or kindred complaints.

Yours respectfully,
Frederick Luden.

The above is but one of many such letters we are receiving every day. If you are ailing try Loose's Extract Red Clover. If it does you half as much good as Mr. Luden, you will be well repaid. If it does you no good after faithful trial return the bottle to druggist you purchased of and he will return the bottle to druggist you purchased of and he will return your money, as such is our intentions. Only try it is all we ask. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Beuret for hardware.

Latest make of gasolene stoves at Beuret's.

Murillo, the new wall finish at Beuret's hardware store.

Dr. Fruth's next visit to Auburn will be Monday, Feb. 2. See his "ad."

Rev. H. M. Lamport was called to Osceola, Tuesday, by the illness of his mother.

Old Mr. McBride, in the country east of here, who has been sick so long died Monday evening.

General hardware, nails and everything in that line at Beuret's, North Main street, Auburn.

The nickel social of the W. R. C. will be entertained by Mrs. Cowen on Tuesday, Jan 27, from 2 to 5. All are invited. Bring your thimbles.

J. A. Potter once more rejoices as a grandpa, owing to the birth of a fine boy to his daughter, Mrs. Winnie Chapman, on Monday. We congratulate them.

Tinning done at short notice, by Beuret, Auburn. All kinds of work in his line, all repairing etc., done promptly and in good style at reasonable rates. Call on him.

Farmers' Institute for Allen county will be held in the circuit court room at Ft. Wayne, Jan. 30 and 31. Farmers of DeKalb are asked to attend. Should buy tickets of central traffic agents so as to get low rates.

No medicine has had greater success checking consumption, in its early stages, than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops coughing, soothes the throat and lungs, and induces much-needed repose. Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtues of this preparation.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mabel Hartman. Lesson from page 37 to 48. Reading, Mrs. Ford; Chip Basket, by the club. This excellent society had two new and valuable members added to their muster roll last week, Mrs. Cook Ford and Mrs. S. D. Hanna.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Penfield. Program, Outline History of England, Miss Keeran; From Chaucer to Tennyson, Mrs. Dills; England after the Norman Conquest, Miss Davis; A Norman Lady, Miss Weaver; Studies in Astronomy, Mrs. Clifton.

The auditor's office has been remodeled and changed somewhat. An additional row of closed cupboards, as one may call them has been put in over the door and from there eastward. More room for documents was needed. Sam Buss and Ora Brandon did the work, and did a neat job.

We acknowledge a pleasant call from Alva Carter, Monday afternoon. We learned through him, that our old friend J. C. Day and wife, are now located at St. Joe Station, where he enjoys the luxuries of a prosperous business. We are glad to hear of this, and cordially invite Mr. Carter to call again.

Mrs. Hodson, who resides in the north part of town will give a social and supper on Friday evening of this week, the proceeds to go to her own benefit as she is in poor circumstances and thinks best to take this way to assist herself. The mite will be 25 cents and we hope all who can will attend and help in a good cause.

Among the many who came from a distance to attend the funeral of Mr. Dills, were his brothers Dr. Dills of Ft. Wayne, and J. W. Dills, wife and daughter of St. Joe, J. W. Clark, of Smithfield, W. H. Leas, C. M. Philips, L. J. Blair, of Waterloo, James Rose, of Butler, Hon. S. S. Shutt, of Spencerville, and C. M. Dawson, of Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Crane of Butler, and her son Henry Dills were also present.

John H. Hornberger, who has been at Butler for some time past, goes this week, to Jennings, Missaukee Co. Mich., where he joins S. B. Mottinger and take instructions in the art of saw filing which is a valuable accomplishment in the lumber regions. We wish them both unbounded success. Like a good business man, Mr H. sent in his subscription so the COURIER will be sure to follow him.

The Presbyterian church folks have secured the services of Rev. Mr. Healy as permanent pastor, and he will begin his work here a week from next Sunday, preaching every Sunday after that date. They are all well pleased with him, and the church is once more showing signs of renewed life. We are told the arrangements for salary are about completed, at least so the officers feel safe in closing up the matter.

The Arion Quartet of this place have closed an engagement with Dr. J. G. L. Myers, of Bloomingdale, Ind., to begin Feb. 16, and continue during that month and March. They will be working in connection with Van. Bennett, of Kansas, known as the "Kansas Cyclone." They will travel over the state, Mr. B. lecturing and the Arions furnishing the music. As singers they stand in the first rank, and the people who fail to hear them at the various points where these lectures are held will miss a rare treat. It will be a good lecturer, who will entertain the crowd better, or do the cause of temperance more good than the Arions, the champion singers of Hoosierdom.

Those who have business at the Recorder's office will be interested to learn that everything has been put into good shape there, and business will be promptly and carefully attended to. D. Z. Hoffman has been put in full charge by Mr. Crane, and will do the work. Every body knows that Mr. Hoffman is correct and reliable, and that the work will be properly done. There was much work that had accumulated and careful hands are at work getting this in shape, and in a few days this back work will be all caught up. Those assisting are W. H. McIntosh and Mr. Tanberg, both experts, and they have been assisted a few days by W. S. McIntosh, also, a good hand. Altogether the office is getting back into proper shape.

Our friends over at Butler will remember the old printer, Edmund Calkins, who was a hand in the Review office several years ago. Last April, he and a young wife he had married about a week before, and a mutual friend named Hendryx, went out on the St. Joe river at Elkhart to take a boat ride, and consume some red liquor. Calkins was drowned, and his widow admits she and Hendryx did it on purpose. She liked Hendryx, and also a $5,000 accident policy Calkins had taken out. She had married Calkins on the strength of his claim that he had money in the banks at Auburn, and a mortgage on a printing office at Butler. Harry Weamer, now of the Bristol Banner, says he had not a cent and that he had to borrow a coat in which to be married. As Calkins was a tramp printer, and like most such a drinking man, it is not likely he was a Jay Gould. The widow never got the insurance money, though she and Hendryx may get a life sentence, both being now behind the bars. Calkins' sad end should be a warning to all tramp printers, not to show their bank accounts to fascinating widows.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

Mr. Moody is about the streets now, but his wife has been quite sick.

Little Edith Trout spent Sunday at Ft. Wayne with Miss Elva Campbell.

The farmers of the county are intending to hold anal institute at Waterloo. See program.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Harkey, of Butler township, visited the family of Ed. Beaty over Sunday.

Remember the date of the farmers' institute at Waterloo, Feb. 7. All get ready and attend.

Dr. Newton of Ligonier, under whom Dr. Buchtel studied, was here to visit the latter this week.

The nickel social of the M. E. church will meet with Mrs. M. Boland next Friday afternoon at 2:30.

Al. Weyer now of Chicago was in town Tuesday. He is looking well and says he is getting along nicely.

The new bell on the new M. E. church rang out its sweet notes last evening for the first time. It is a fine one.

Mrs. Charley Jones is getting better. Her sister from Lagro, came Tuesday, and will remain with her for a time.

Last week we reported Conny Little married. This week his friends deny. We shall now wait to hear from Conny.

Mr. Hineman, a horse buyer will be at Trout's livery barn for a week or two buying all the good horses he can get. All who wish to sell should call and see him.

G. W. Weamer and Mr. Gregg have started their cigar factory opposite Ed. Baker's and will soon have it in full operation. They will make it a first-class establishment.

Veterans who wish to obtain pensions, bounty etc., or who wish information concerning claims already filed, should write to Chas. McClellan Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

The ladies nickel social of the Presbyterian church will be held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Davis on Friday afternoon Jan. 23. A full attendance is desired as very important business is to be discussed.

W. H. McIntyre had a singular ailment strike him Sunday. He was taking a bath and at its finish, noticed a strange feeling in his foot. An examination showed it to be rapidly swelling, becoming discolored, and uncomfortable. He had Dr. Matheny come in to see to it. The doctor put on a compress, which gradually relieved him. It was caused by the rupture of a blood vessel. That evening he had an attack of rheumatism, that kept him at home a day or two, but is now out again.

The Waterloo Press made the usual number of wild assertions last week. It says the McKinley bill has not gone into effect yet. But if he reads that precious boon to high taxers, he will see that as an entirety it went into effect "on and after Oct. 6, 1890." Then it says if we can find a case where one has had an advance of prices on account of the McKinley bill, he will give them an advertisement free. Well, we can name several. There is John Harris, Auburn Junction, DeKalb county, State of Indiana, S. S. who had always got his tin cans for packing oysters at $25 per 1000. But the first lot he got after Oct. 6, 1890, came billed at $27.50 per 1000, and he had to pay it, for the dealer told him the McKinley bill compelled them to raise the price. The Press can now proceed to give Mr. Harris a good ad say ¼ column, double, top of column next to pure reading matter, if he can find that sort of matter in the Press. We have half a dozen other business men right here in Auburn, we can cite the Press to, when we see he makes good his promise to advertise the oyster business for Mr. Harris.

It is rather strange why some bright, intelligent and promising young men whose prospects are apparently as brilliant as the colors of the rainbow, do so far forget themselves or the relation they bear to the laws of common sense and propriety, as to shape their daily walk to the rule of ignorance, impudence, vulgarity and rudeness. Yet this is an odious principle that seems to characterize the existence of an astonishingly great number of our supposedly respectable young men in the town of Auburn. This is a bad practice, and its influence is of that character, which has no tendency toward the elevation of the community's morals, and leaves a horribly disfigured pattern for the younger boys to copy. We have spoken of this deplorable state of affairs before, and were resting under the impression that our young men would take warning before they got themselves into trouble. It seems, however, that our former advice has been forgotten or ignored. We are not discourged, and will kindly suggest to those young fellows, who are at present making it a special part of their business to visit the various churches, where protracted meetings are in progress and there talk, laugh and cut "monkey shines", regardless of the house they are in or the disturbance it makes for those who worship, that it will be safe to change the order of things. Boys, if you have lost all respect for yourselves, and have no regard for those who are in their weak way trying to worship God, do, at least, have common sense and manhood enough about you to behave while in the Lord's house. If you are not inclined to do right willingly, there is a process of law that will compel you to do it, and it is likely that such a course would not be so pleasant as the fun you are now having. Bear this in mind and save trouble.

Another Horse Borrowed.

Sunday evening, Mrs. G. H. Oberholzer, of the Junction, drove a nice rig up to town to attend the Lutheran church. She hitched the horse carefully, and went in and enjoyed the services, as all do, who listen to a sermon by Mr. Kain. On coming out at the close, she went to unhitch her horse to go home, and no horse was there. There were the marks in the snow where it had been turned around and driven off. Of course she was excited and alarmed. She went home on foot, and then Mr. Oberholtzer took another rig and came up to get Sheriff Plum to help him. The sheriff was sick, but Deputy Blum and Will Moore started at once for Garrett, while Mr. Oberholtzer and a friend went to Waterloo. Both parties got back about midnight without any traces of the lost rig. But as Mr. O. was putting his horse into his stable, he heard a horse coming down Ensley Avenue, and ran out to see, when along came the lost rig. The horse was heated and showed signs of hard driving. The lines were carefully tied up, so as to be safe. Evidently, as in the case of Dr. Buchtel's horse, some one had taken a fine ride, and when they had enough had turned the tired horse homeward. If caught, they will be shown no mercy, but will get the full extent of the law.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Plenty of ice being stored now. It is about eight inches.

Willis, the lumber dealer, has been confined to his home, by an attack of rheumatism.

Great loads of hub timber are being hauled to town now. The Baird boys east of town bring a great deal of it.

Harmon Ketel, one of the COURIER'S solid friends was in town Tuesday. He not only takes the paper himself but sends it to a friend, Walter Kirk, now in Illinois.

R. D. Tefft has moved his law office from the Recorder's office in the court room to the rooms in the building north of the Swineford House, and next west of E. D. Hartman's office.

Ed. Freygang, the harness maker, south of the public square is getting a nice trade. He has excellent goods, and does his work in a neat, strong and workmanlike style. No one can fail to be suited. Those needing new harness or the old one repaired should call on him.

George Quince came near falling off the new church Tuesday. He slipped off from the main roof falling so as to alight on one of the lower roofs and stopped by catching hold of a spout. He was not much hurt, though he don't care to try it over, as there was still over twenty feet to go.

Wasn't Initiated.

Geo. Mullen, a citizen of Grant township, had never joined the now popular P. I. folks, but his heart had long turned toward the order with a longing that only an experimental knowledge could assuage. He wanted to see what they did and hear what they said, but had a dread of the mythical goat, of which all the uninitiated have heard so much. So George concluded that though he had not sworn allegiance to the mystic what-d'ye call it, he was as "good as any on 'em," and he would go in with the rest. He proposed to be a "Put In," though not a Patron of Industry, and anyone could see the initials were the same. So, when the next meeting came, which was about a week ago, George mustered up his courage, put on a fierce look and walked in with the rest of the members. Now, if there is one thing a P. I. objects to more than a high tariff, it is to having outsiders inside. So they politely, yet firmly asked George if he couldn't feel just as contented out in the road or on the fence, or anywhere in the cold and beggarly elements of the world. George answered them in his blandest accents, that he couldn't. Much as he would like to accommodate his P. I. friends, he preferred the inside, every time. The P. I's insisted and G. M. resisted. Finally, the goat was called in, George was made to face toward the door, and the goat's attention directed to his rear elevation, as builders call it. There was a snapping of the goat's eyes, a stamping of his angered foot, then a flash of something flying through the air, a dull, sickening thud, and George was occupying a part of the road, out under the twinkling winter stars. He felt hurt, of course. Who wouldn't? But the P. I's were in earnest, and failing to satisfy their anger by what was already done, they brought him up before his honor, Judge Powers, on a charge of disturbing a meeting, and failing to fix up with the powers that be, he now languishes in the county bastile

Notice to Stockholders.

Notice is hereby given to the stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair that the meeting of Jan. 15, 1891, adjourned to meet in Ensley's Hall on Thursday, Jan. 29, 1891, at 10 a. m. for the transaction of unfinished business. A full attendance is desired. It is deemed prudent to make some changes in the constitution and bylaws and a constitutional majority will be necessary to make such change. Therefore all stock should be represented either in person or by proxy.

JNO. DAVIS, Pres.
CAL. HUSSELMAN, Secy.

Poultry.

10 000 pounds of poultry wanted at once at the Palace meat market. I am now prepared to buy all kinds of poultry fo which I will pay the highest markert price during the season.

B C. ZEIGLER,
Auburn, Ind. 40tf

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of William H. Dills, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JULIA MAY DILLS, Administratrix.
JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y for Estate.
January 21, 1891.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Joseph Ax, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

her
MARGARET A. X AX, Administrix.
mark
W. H. LEAS, Att'y for Estate.
January 21, 1891.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned, having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease, CONSUMPTION, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it he will cheerfully send, free of charge, a copy of the prescription used, which they will find a sure cure for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, and all Throat and Lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing, will please address, REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York. 1y

MEN WANTED; LOCAL and Traveling Positions permanent or part time. Salary from start. Experience unnecessary. BROWN BROS., Nurserymen CHICAGO ILL.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Resolutions of Respect.

The stockholders of the DeKalb County Fair at their meeting last Thursday, passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS: It has pleased God in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst by death Hon. W. H. Dills, a distinguished pioneer citizen of the county, an honorable member of the bar, and one of the prime movers in the organization of the DeKalb County Fair Association and its first Secretary therefore, be it,

RESOLVED: That the members of the DeKalb County Fair Association feel deeply the loss of an active, useful and valuable member of their society and one who has long been identified with the progressive history of the county.

RESOLVED: That the society extend to the bereaved members of his family their sincere sympathy in this, their great sorrow, and that a copy of these resolutions be presented to them.

RESOLVED: That a page of the Association's records be set apart and these resolutions engrossed thereon, and

RESOLVED: That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the several newspapers of the county for publication.

W. B. CAMPBELL, Com.
J. J. VANAUKEN, Com.
S. KUTZNER, Com.

BY THE TOWN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS: Wm. H. Dills the attorney and legal adviser of the board of trustees of the town of Auburn, Ind., died suddenly of heart disease at the residence in said town on the 15th day of January, 1891, Therefore,

RESOLVED: That we the members of said board hereby express our deep regret and sorrow for the loss of one so intimately connected with us in our official duties and in token of the service and his memory we direct the clerk to spread these resolutions and preamble on the record book of said board on a page to be set apart for that purpose exclusively.

RESOLVED: Further, that we extend to the family of the deceased our sincere sympathy in their bereavement, and direct the clerk to furnish a copy hereof to the widow of the deceased, and cause the same to be published in the papers of said town.

Trustees,
S. R. HEBERLING, Pres.
T. G. MATHENY,
G. L. LANNING,
WM. SHEFFER,
W. P. HARTER.

Farmers' Institute.

Program for Farmers' Institute to be held at Waterloo, Feb. 7, 1891.

FORENOON SESSION.

Song.
Prayer, by Rev. Mygrantz.
Song.
Opening address by R. M. Lockhart.
Recitation, Mrs. J. C. Hodges.
Corn Culture, Emory Johnston.
Discussion.
Song.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Song.
Ensilage and Silos in connection with Winter Dairying, J. C. Hodges.
Discussion led by W. Fulton.
Song.
The Most Profitable Stock for the Farmer, Cal Husselman.
Discussion led by J. W. Clark.
Song.
Recitation.
Best Rotation for Field Crops, Joseph Koch.
Discussion led by J. Y. W. McClellan.
Song.
Question Box.

A. B. WALSWORTH, Pres.
S. H. HINE, Sec.

New Store.

About March 1, a new clothing store will be opened out in the now unoccupied room of the Nicky & Gandy block north of the public square. This is the room between Sheffer's harness shop and the reading room, and will be a nice place and convenient location. The proprietor of the store is Mr. Leo Ehrlich late of Maine, where he has been in this business for twelve years. He has had abundant experience in this business and those who know him speak in high terms of him as an honorable, business man. He is well known in business and social circles in Ft. Wayne as that is his wife's native place. We believe he will succeed in his venture in Auburn.

They Wanted Groceries.

Between five and six o'clock Sunday evening some sneak thieves broke into Ralston's grocery, presumably to stock up for the winter. They got in by breaking in the glass at the back window and then opening the door. They rummaged about some and took a few pennies from a till, but got nothing else as far as is now known. George Ralston and Hovey Hanna came in about six o'clock to build a fire, and found the back door open. It may be their coming scared the thieves off.

The New Process Vapor Stove.

Nothing like it. It has no generator stand pipe, drip cup, valves, etc., to get out of order. Always ready to light. It is the wonder of the age and the very latest improvement for the kitchen. Call at Beuret's store in Auburn and see it operated. Any child can operate it with safety. You ought to see it, whether you want to buy a new gasolene stove or not. Call in at any time.

New Mill at Collingwood.

Wm. Muhn has started a new feed mill and exchange at Collingwood, and asks farmers and others to give him a call. He will exchange the best brands of Ft. Wayne flour, for wheat, and will make them good rates. Chop feed will be a specialty, and he proposes to make things hum in that line. Always do your work at short notice. Call on him.

Good Farm for Sale.

The Samuel Goodwin farm one mile west of Waterloo containing 115 acres, in good condition, good house and barn, and other conveniences. Will be sold on reasonable terms. For information call at the farm or write to J. W. Goodwin, Pleasant Lake, Indiana. tf

W. H. DILLS.

Death has again entered our community, and has taken one of our most prominent and most widely known citizens. Hon. W. H. Dills died suddenly, and with little or no warning, at about ten a. m. last Thursday, at his residence on North Jackson street, this city. About two years ago, he had found he was not in good health and an examination by Dr. Nusbaum, revealed the startling fact that he had what is known to physicians as "organic lesion of the heart." He was advised to exercise great care and avoid anything that should tend to bring on an attack, as it might at any time result fatally. This advice was followed, as far as known, but he had at times more or less heart trouble. At the time of his recent trip to St. Louis, to confer as to the proposed Wabash extension, he had an attack, and on reaching here, had some difficulty in getting to his residence. On Jan. 7, he went to Saginaw, Mich., on some legal business, remaining there some days. On the 14th, he returned, coming on the south-bound Jackson train in the forenoon. He did not feel well on arriving, and so took the bus and came to the court house to attend to some business waiting him there, before going to his home. This finished, he went home. But about one o'clock, as he felt worse, Dr. Nusbaum was called. He found Mr. D., suffering about as usual, when he had these attacks, and prescribed for him. He was called again at about ten that evening, and when he left, it was with the promise to call next morning. At eight next morning, he found the patient in bed, but he soon arose and dressed. He was still suffering somewhat, and after doing what could be done for him, the Doctor left. At about ten, a messenger came in a hurry asking him to come, as Mr. Dills was dying. He hurried up there and found him dead. The change had come suddenly. He was standing, but probably feeling weak, called to Mr. J. A. Sawyers, a neighbor, who had come in to assist in caring for him, and he asked the latter to help him, and as Mr. S., caught him, he fell over against him, and finally sank to the floor, breathing but once or twice. Mrs. Dills, Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer, were the only ones present, and they did all that was possible to revive him, but in vain. The sad news spread rapidly over town, and was a surprise as well as a shock, as not many knew of his real condition. The funeral was held at the residence, at two o'clock, Sunday, Jan. 18, and a vast concourse of friends and relatives gathered to pay their last respects to one who had been prominent among us for a generation. A simple but feeling and appropriate sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Healy, of the Presbyterian church, and then he was laid to rest, by the side of his children in the Evergreen cemetery east side of town. In the procession that followed him to his last resting place, were the members of the bar, all the county officers and ex-county officers present, the members of the town council and Judge Powers, of the circuit court. A special train was to run from Butler, but at the last moment failed, and those from there could not come. The floral offerings were elaborate and beautiful, especially those sent by the Hebel Circle, and by the Chautauqua Circle, of which Mrs. Dills was a member. Mr. Dills was a man of decided character and as such had impressed himself on the people he had lived among so long. He had been a useful man to the community and always a helpful friend of his town, for which he always did everything possible, as those will remember, who have been associated with him in the Wabash railway extension matter, and the Auburn fair. At the time of his death, he was attorney for the county, and held the same place on the city council. To both bodies, his counsel has proved valuable. Besides a wife, two children, and other immediate relatives, the bar and the community at large will find in his loss, a gap not easily filled. His age was 56 years and ten months. We append the biography found in the county history, which is full and correct.

WILLIAM H DILLS, attorney at law, Auburn, Ind., was born in Dearborn County, Ind., March 15, 1834, a son of Jacob and Tena (Dawson) Dills. In 1844 his parents moved to DeKalb County and settled in Spencerville, where he grew to manhood. He was educated in the public schools and a select school in Ft. Wayne. When nineteen years of age he was employed as civil engineer by the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railroad, working in this capacity about a year when, in 1854, he began the study of law under the preceptorship of his uncle, Judge R. J. Dawson, of Spencerville, and in 1855 and 1856 attended the law school at Greencastle, Ind., and after his graduation was admitted to the bar. In October, 1856, he was elected Prosecutor of the Common Pleas District composed of DeKalb and Steuben counties, and the same year located in Auburn where he has pursued his practice. During his residence in Auburn he has held various official positions, among others Town Clerk, and attorney for the town and in the movements to secure the various railroads through Auburn, and at all times has been connected with the local press, editorially and otherwise. He has long been identified with the democratic party, and, as speaker and writer, in both county and state. In 1882 he was candidate for Circuit Judge, but was defeated by a small majority. In 1884 he was on the national democratic ticket as elector for this congressional district and of course cast his vote for Cleveland. He has been secretary of the DeKalb County Pioneer Association since its organization in 1876. He has been twice married. His first wife was Miss Emily A. Ralston, of Auburn, by whom he has two children—Frank and Kitty. May 20, 1879, he married his second wife, Mrs. Julia May (Miner) Brandon.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Choice Selection of Interesting Items.

A TON of gold is worth $60,2799,20.

INTO the streets of Denver $25,000,000 in gold and silver coin are shoveled from the mountains every year.

THERE are 12,000,000 children in the public schools of the United States, 347,299 teachers are employed, and the schools cost annually about $113,000,000.

HOW GREAT the provocation and how little the punishment to the man before he commits his crime. How little the provocation and how great the punishment after the crime is committed.

J. J. MCFARLANE, president of the defunct American Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, and who suddenly disappeared from that city, is reported to be living in luxury at Rio Janeiro.

REVIVALISTS at St. Louis have secured funds for the construction of a huge flatboat for mission work along the Mississippi. It is their purpose to start at St. Paul and float leisurely to New Orleans, preaching to the inhabitants of the valley.

THERE are already indications that the people in whose characters flabby sentiment is a stronger element than good sense will try to make out that the late Sitting Bull was a hero and a much-abused man. They will hardly succeed in the attempt.

A FIRM of German chemists have analyzed vanillin, the substance which gives to vanilla its pleasant taste, and by numerous experiments have found that this substance can be obtained cheaply from coneferin, which is found in great purity in the juice of the pine and fir trees.

GEN. BOOTH, of the Salvation Army, has a big contract on hand. He has accepted in trust 1,000,000 acres of land, and has already received $300,000 of the large fund which he requires for his colonization scheme. He is sole trustee of the funds placed in his hands, which is good proof of his reputation and integrity.

HOW MANY good reasons a man can advance to show why he is not popular! He will say that men do not understand him; that they are prejudiced against him; that he is reserved, and somewhat conservative. He will sometimes go so far as to say that in point of intellect he is a trifle the superior of most men who dislike him, and that, therefore, they cannot appreciate him.

A FLOWER has been discovered in South America which is only visible when the wind blows. The shrub belongs to the cactus family, and is about three feet high. The stem is covered with dead, warty looking lumps in calm weather; these lumps, however, need but a slight breeze to make them unfold large flowers of a creamy white, which close and appear as dead as soon as the wind subsides.

SEVERAL interesting stories as to how Sitting Bull came to get his name are on the rounds. The most plausible account relates that while but a boy the chieftain killed a half-grown buffalo and dragged the carcass many miles to his father's tepee. There he sank down exausted, the head and fore legs of his prey hanging over his shoulders. The Indians, as is their custom, named him on the spur of the moment and the title clung to him throughout life.

IN order to expose an impostor, who claims to be his brother, Mr. Richard Mansfield, the actor, recently sent a note to a Cleveland lawyer, saying: "I have no relatives in this country. My father, whose name was Maurice Mansfield, is dead, as is my mother, whose maiden name was Emma Rudersdorff. The family comprises now only my two brothers, my sister and myself. My brother Felix, the eldest, resides with his family in Clifton, near Bristol, England. My sister, Margaret, is married, and lives in France. My younger brother is also married and lives in Milan, Italy."

TWO FRENCHMEN, M. Besancon and M. Hermite, will attack the north pole by balloon in 1892. At Spitzbergen they will fill their balloon with 45,000 feet of gas, and start when the wind blows the right way. They will go no higher above the ground than is needed to clear obstacles or to get the benefit of favorable air currents, and will often keep an anchor dragging. In their car will be, besides a month's provisions, which is all they expect to need, eight dogs, a sledge, a canoe, and their scientific instruments; and they will carry as large a reserve as possible of hydrogen gas in bags.

O'GORMAN MAHON, who introduced Parnell to Mrs. O'Shea, and who, but for the strenuous opposition of his doctor, would have challenged the Irish leader to a duel for his baseness, is eighty-seven years old, and in a feeble state of health corresponding to his extreme old age. He presents an example of virtue and gallantry not often seen in these degenerate days, and if he had lived in earlier classic times he would have adorned the age of chivalry when gallant knights scoured the country for the discovery and rescue of unfortunate ladies from the base designs of wicked and licenticus lords and barons.

FRANCE already has a funded national debt of $4,250,000,000, the greatest by far in the world, but all the same it is constantly piling up fresh obligations, and the floating debt having become inconveniently large, the Chamber of Deputies have just authorized the creation of a new loan to the amount of $176,500,000. The elasticity of French finance is one of the marvels of the world. Every loan which the government issues is eagerly taken up, and although the new bonds or rentes are only to bear interest at three per cent. no one doubts that this new issue wil be promptly subscribed for.

THE New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Bulletin says there is no need of going West or South to find a rough neighborhood. All one has to do is to travel on the horse cars as far as they will carry one up in the northern portion of Hudson County, New Jersey. Then let him or her take a walk straight out in any direction. The chances are that, if the pedestrian is a woman, she will be in danger of assault, particularly if it is after nightfall. If it be a man who is so venturesome as to stroll upon this Hounslow Heath, he will be robbed. The races attract thither a mob of the hardest characters that ever struck an outlying fringe of a great city. Some of the residents are socialists and anarchists, and there are many Poles, Italians and Hungarians, with whom regard for human life is very slight.

THE Illinois State Farmers' Alliance has resolved "to petition for the passage of such a law as will make it the duty of the Supreme Court to pass upon every new law and define its meaning with such clearness as to make it plain to the average scholar." There is a great deal of good common sense in that resolution. The way it is now, the Supreme Court will not pass upon a single phase of a law except as it comes up in an actual controversy. If the Supreme Court would place a common sense interpretation upon a law it would do away with the great waste of time and money expended in making what is called a test case. Test cases are mines of wealth for lawyers, but they are drains upon the rest of the people. Laws are generally so poorly constructed that the average man finds it hard to interpret them or be governed by their provision. The Farmers' Alliance suggestion about the Supreme Court and the laws is worthy of attention.

IN Europe, wealth consists largely of entailed estates which may be managed by stewards and agents. In America, eternal vigilance is the price of success. There, every avenue of money-getting is so blocked by competitors that numbers of men well born and thoroughly educated must do nothing or be content to accept positions merely nominal; and, since the scale of expenditure is not nearly so great as in this country, society is largly recruited from these ranks. Here, even if a man has or is to inherit wealth, it usually come to him in such shape as demands his constant attention, while the great majority must look entirely to their own efforts for fame and fortune. The servant question cannot be so easily disposed of, but it is pretty safe to say that, unless our young women realize that society is or should be made for man and not man for society, they will be more and more thrown with just that class least worthy of their friendship—the men who, unwilling or unable to succeed in any legitimate business, are pleased to pose as society leaders in the hope of marrying some one who can support them in idleness.

A BILL is pending in Congress to send a thoroughly equipped exploring party to Alaska to make a complete and final exploration of that part of our domain. It seems strange to think that any part of the United States should be at this late day so little known as to call for a systematic exploration by the government, yet such is the fact. Every addition to our knowledge of Alaska has been a new revelation of its value. In 1867, when we purchased it of Russia for $7,200,000, thus adding about one-fifth to the territorial domain, it was an unknown land to Americans. Even its name was hardly known outside of the schools, and of its extent and resources almost nothing was known. The geographies taught that the natives sold furs, and that there was a large river there. Even yet, we know very little of the interior, but the coast has been surveyed, the course of two large rivers defined, and indications have been discovered of valuable mineral deposits and extensive forests. One of the rivers whose course has been defined from its source to the sea, the Yukon, proves to be the third largest on the continent, and the valley it traverses possesses agricultural possibilities of considerable magnitude. The interior is almost entirely unknown, but it is more than likely that in so vast an area there are some inviting spots and resources worth developing. It is not to be supposed that Alaska can ever compete with Florida as the land of oranges and flowers, but its ice-bound coasts and gigantic mountain ranges may embrace other things equally potent to attract immigration and support a permanent population. At all events, Uncle Sam ought to know what he has in Alaska, and as the Territory has more than paid for itself it is entitled to thorough exploration.

Stanley's Ring.

At the time the Anglo-American expedition started for Africa Mr. Stanley was presented with a ring, on which was engraved his name, together with that of the expedition and the date. Mr. Stanley wore this ring while exploring the lakes in Central Africa on his first march across the dark continent. The ring was, however, missed, being either stolen or lost. After eight years it came into the possession of a Welsh missionary to the Congo, who bought it of a native and forwarded it to Mr. Stanley as a wedding memento. Mr. Stanley, in acknowledging the recipt of the ring, expressed great surprise and delight that it should have followed him from the darkest regions of Africa.

Fifteenth Century Eggs.

In the fifteenth century it was popularly believed that cocks were intimately associated with witches, and they were somewhat credited with the power of laying accursed eggs, from which sprung winged serpents. In 1474, at Basle, a cock was publicly accused of having laid one of these dreadful eggs. He was tried, sentenced to death, and, together with the egg, was burned by the executioner in the market place amid a great concourse of people.

STILL ONE MORE TRUST.

IS COMBINING TO REAP THE M'KINLEY SPOILS.

The Makers of Table Glassware Make a Combination—They Mean to Have Uniform Prices—How Labor Will Be Protected.

One of our latest McKinley trusts is that of the glass tableware manufacturers. Nineteen manufacturers of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia have just entered into a combination "to bring about uniform prices." Their plea for keeping up prices is as follows: "If at any time business should be dull at one of the factories, that plant will close down and its orders be transferred to other factories. Should general dullness ensue, the trust will operate only as many factories as are necessary."

This is the account of the trust as printed in the Philadelphia Ledger, a leading protection journal.

In protecting itself the glassware industry makes no provision for protecting labor; yet when representatives of the industry went before Maj. McKinley a year ago to get higher protection they put their plea upon the usual humbug pretense of protection to labor. Not only has the higher protection not been followed by higher wages, but a trust is at once formed whose plan is to throw a part of its labor out of employment at the first approach of "dullness."

When the glassware men were before McKinley last winter one of their number, a Mr. Gillinder, of Philadelphia, had much to say about the low wages paid glassmakers in Germany. Besides being a manufacturer of pressed glassware he makes lamp chimneys, shades, etc. Showing the committee nine specimen of these latter, he said:

"The wages paid where these goods are made are very low, not more than one-third of what is paid in this country. The result is that they can import large quantities of these goods at such prices that it is impossible for us to compete with them. We do not think for this class of goods our men are overpaid, we do not think they average over nine months' work in the year; we therefore ask that, in addition to the present rate of duty, you put a specific duty on all these articles in addition to the ad valorem duty, not asking so much as the difference in wages, but as per inclosed paragraphs, which we think would enable us to make them in this country to a much larger extent than we now do, and would give more employment to the workmen engaged in that branch of the trade."

Mr. Gillinder was apparently under the delusion that a high tariff makes high wages, and he did "not want to see our well-paid labor put on the same footing with those who are said to get meat only once a week." Yet he had to admit that the wages of glass workers were not as high in protected Germany as in free-trade England. This is a part of his testimony:

Mr. Flower—Some statement has been made as to the efficiency of the German labor?

Mr. Gillinder—I have not been in Germany myself, but my brother visited there and was very much astonished by the skill and quickness displayed by the German glass blowers.

Mr. McMillin—Does not your competition come more from Germany, where they have a protective tariff, than from England, where they have not?

Mr. Gillinder—I think that is true. The reason for that is that labor in England is as two to one in Germany. Where a workman gets $12 in England he gets $6 in Germany.

Mr. McMillin—And yet Germany is protected and England is not?

Notwithstanding this manufacturer's knowledge that protection did not raise the wages of labor in Germany, he was willing to try the experiment here. Well, he got higher protection. The old duty was 40 per cent.; the McKinley duty is 60 per cent. But nobody has yet heard of higher wages to the workers in glassware factories. The only news on the subject is this dispatch, which means that some of the workers are going to lose their employment.

There was absolutely no excuse for the McKinley increase of duties in this case. Even under the old tariff the domestic industry was prosperous and developing rapidly. It has recently been stated by a reputable trade journal that the number of pots at work in the glassware industry has been increased by 75 per cent. within two years. The same journal states that the demand for glassware has increased so greatly of late that manufacturers are not afraid to hold their goods for an advance in prices, which is looked for at an early day. The trust will doubtless see to it that this expectation shall not be disappointed.

Cheap Iron in the South.

A leading member of the British Iron and Steel Institute, who is an expert of the highest standing, has written a report on an iron ore property in the South in which he says that pig-iron can be made from the ore in question at $7 a ton. This is cheaper than at any place in Europe, as reported in the late "Preliminary Report on the Cost of Production," issued by Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor. The lowest European cost given in his report is $7.67 per ton, and the average cost is $9.91. In his report seven Southern furnaces are given in which the cost of production is lower than this European average. In most of the Southern establishments the cost is a little greater than in Europe.

In the Commissioner's report "no European establishment is given where the cost is so low as $7 a ton. Notwithstanding this fact our high tariff legislators put a duty of $6.72 a ton on pig-iron to protect our producers from European competition. Our ironmakers went before McKinley a year ago to fight for the existing duty and got it retained. They had tables to show the low wages paid iron miners in Spain. Even from the South, where labor is cheapest and where iron is produced at lowest cost, interested capitalists were before McKinley's committee to plead for protection to labor. It is true that no laborers came from the South to ask for such duties to protect themselves; it was the men who employ labor and employ it at the lowest market price. Only another example of the insincerity fostered by protection.

Trying to "Let Go."

The Republicans of Massachusetts are becoming alarmed over the fact that so many young men in their party are going over to the Democrats. To counteract this movement they have held a conference and resolved to organize a young men's Republican club. The declaration of principles, issued in connection with the call for delegates to organize the club, contains an utterance on the tariff which is highly significant, coming as it does just after the election in which the Massachusetts Republicans were squarely beaten on the tariff issue. One plank in this declaration of principles is as follows:

"We believe in a protective tariff that shall impose duties where they are needed, and only where needed, to equalize the labor cost of production and to develop American resources and American commerce, but not to relieve favored corporations or individuals from foreign competition."

The Massachusetts Republicans are evidently finding the tariff issue as made up by the McKinleyites a burden too heavy to carry, and they are now trying to find a way to "let go."

AND AN OATMEAL TRUST.

The Oatmeal Duty a Specimen Humbug in McKinley's "Farmer's Tariff"—No Farmer Asked for an Oatmeal Duty, Yet McKinley Doubled It.

In the McKinley tariff law there is a schedule called "agricultural products and provisions." Although most of the articles in this schedule were taxed under the old tariff law, McKinley made a new schedule, raised the duty on the farmer's products, and placed them in his "farmer's tariff" to fool him into thinking that he, too, is to have some of the benefits of protection at last. In his speech in introducing his bill, McKinley said on this part of the measure:

"It has been asserted in the views of the minority that the duty put upon wheat and other agricultural products would be of no value to the agriculturists of the United States. The committee, believing differently, have advanced the duty upon these products."

In McKinley's schedule of agricultural products and provisions one item is: "Oatmeal, 1 cent per pound." The duty under the old law was one-half of a cent.

A great number of farmers appeared before McKinley's committee to ask for duties. Some wanted higher duties on beans, on potatoes, on barley; others on wheat, turnips, hops, etc. The farmers of Lancaster, Pa., sent resolutions asking, among other things, even for a higher duty on oats; but no farmer thought it worth while to mention oatmeal. In all the lists of duties drawn up and handed to McKinley by farmers, oatmeal was not once mentioned. But all the same McKinley doubled the duty on oatmeal, and wrote it down in his "farmers' tariff" at 1 cent per pound. Why it should be just there is not clear, for oatmeal is a manufactured product and the duty on it does not in any way protect our farmers. On the contrary, many farmers are buyers of oatmeal, and if McKinley's double duty affects them at all, it simply increases the price of their oatmeal.

How little reason there was to double the oatmeal duty may be seen from the figures of our exports and imports for the past three fiscal years. Those figures are as follows:

Year.	Exports, lbs.	Imports, lbs.
1888	4,329,393	1,007,620
1889	10,210,413	1,965,433
1890	25,460,122	2,363,330
Total	39,999,928	5,336,380

It is thus seen that our exports of oatmeal are increasing by leaps and bounds, while our imports are insignificant.

McKinley's double duty on oatmeal went into effect on the 6th of last October, and what is the first result? The oatmeal manufacturers have taken steps to form a trust. It is reported that each mill is to lose its identity in a big concern with a capital of several million dollars, and some of the smaller mills are to be closed down. That means labor thrown out of employment, a reduced output, and higher prices to the consumer.

In this beatiful scheme the farmer, of course, will not get one penny more for his oats, but if he has oatmeal for his breakfast he will pay more for it. In which case let him not forget that the oatmeal duty is a part of the McKinley "farmers' tariff."

There are thousands of people in our cities and towns, many of them poor people, who use oatmeal extensively. Most of these can ill afford to have the price of this staple breakfast dish increased. But McKinley must do something to fool the farmers.

An Enormous Duty.

Secretary Windom has recently decided that according to the McKinley tariff law common goat hair must pay a duty of 12 cents a pound. As the price of the hair is only 4 to 6 cents a pound the duty thus imposed will be equal to from 200 to 300 per cent. ad valorem. This goat hair is used almost exclusively in making the cheaper kinds of carpets; and it is said by Bradstreet's that the domestic supply of it is not 5 per cent. of the quantity demanded. The larger part of it is consumed in Philadelphia; and the high tariff carpet manufacturers of that city have been to Washington to try to get the decision reversed.

Referring to their visit the New York Dry Goods Economist, which is itself a protection paper, says: "The recent classification of goat's hair as wools of the second-class has excited the indignation of such extreme protectionists as Thomas Dolan, Mr. Donnau, of Donnau Bros.; Mr. Bromley and Mr. McClure, of Philadelphia; and others. They therefore appeared before Secretary Windom on Tuesday and requested of him a different interpretation of the new tariff. Section 377 classifies wool, etc., of the second class so clearly that we must express surprise at the desire of the above-named gentlemen to have goat's hair admitted free, in flat antagonism to the McKinley tariff on raw materials. We must applaud their efforts, however, for if they are successful they will have a numerous following for a like classification of other textile materials, and especially clothing and carpet wools."

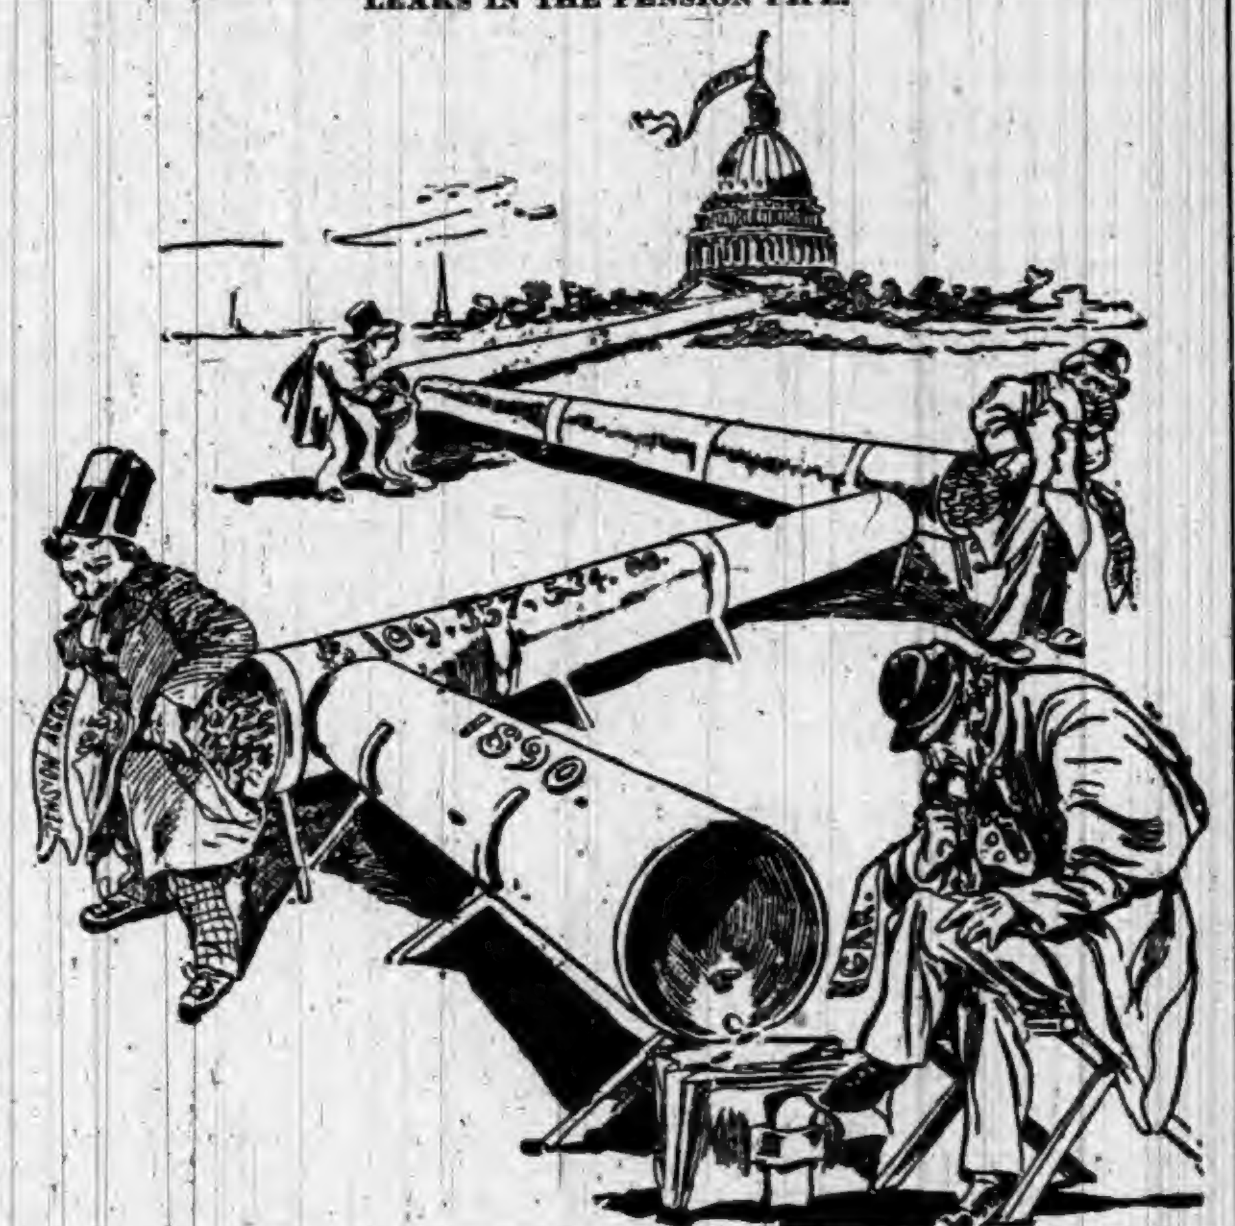
The unreasonable duty will stop all importations; and it is said that shipments now on the water will be returned by the dealers without even having the hair entered at the custom house. Our imports amount to about 3,000,000 pounds, nearly all of which goes into the carpets of the poorer people.

The beauties of McKinleyism are gradually coming to light; and as the people get a better sight of them the less they like them.

The Tariff in the Next Congress.

Representative W. P. C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, has no idea that the Democrats of the Fifty-second Congress are going to let the tariff issue drop out of the public mind. In a recent address before the Harvard Free Trade Club at Cambridge, Mass., he said the Democrats "will tender the Republican Senate a well-considered tariff bill, and when they reject it, they will go the people on that issue in the fall of 1892, and will leave all other questions among them to look out for themselves till this taxation question is settled. The people do not want sensationalism, or jingoism, or a war with England, but they want the taxes removed from the necessities of live and a fair ballot. This is a small beginning, but it means much for the future." The Kentucky Congressman hopes an extra session of Congress may be called in the spring, in order that the Democrats may have the earliest possible opportunity to begin action on the tariff.

LEAKS IN THE PENSION PIPE.



Veteran—Over a hundred millions a year for Pensions! Where does it go? I get precious little of the stuff.—Chicago Times.

GREAT TARIFF REFORM.

SENATOR CARLISLE'S SERVICES IN THE PEOPLE'S CAUSE.

He Is a Friend of the Consumer and a Foe of Protection—A Political Philosopher with Accurate Practical Knowledge Hostile to a Moneyed Oligarchy.

Among all the tariff reformers in Congress none is more able or more conspicuous for intimate and correct knowledge of the tariff question than Senator John G. Carlisle of Kentucky. In a late number of the New York Standard Mr. Henry Loomis Nelson, formerly Senator Carlisle's private secretary and now one of the editors of the New York World, gives an estimate of the character and the achievements of the eminent Kentucky statesman.

Mr. Nelson devotes a part of his article to Mr. Carlisle's work as a tariff reformer:

"Mr. Carlisle is best known," Mr. Nelson says, "for his efforts in behalf of tariff reform. This is because the enormities of the present system have framed the issue of his time. But Mr. Carlisle is an opponent of the excess of protection because he is a Democrat, and holds that government has no right to enact unequal laws, to enable the few at the expense of the many, to levy taxes for any but the general welfare. The protectionists have been building up a moneyed oligarchy, and, as a Democrat, Mr. Carlisle opposed their system. That system involved a preference by the Government for one set of citizens over all their fellow-citizens, and, therefore, it is hostile to the theory that government is by the people and for the people, and that all are equal before the law.

"That Mr. Carlisle has become an export exponent of tariff laws is due to the fact that not only is he a sound political philosopher but also a practical legislator. The tariff was the instrument which he found the enemies of Democracy employing against the liberties and rights of the people. In this age and country parliamentary victories are not won on general principles. Nothing can be gained by demonstrating that a proposed measure or an existing statute is contrary to the fundamental principles of the Government. It must be shown that, in practice, the measure or the law must work injustice, must be an oppressive burden upon the people.

"Mr. Carlisle, therefore, became familiar with the operations of the tariff law in all its details. He studied it in all its ramifications. He mastered as many trade secrets as may be discovered by those who are not actually engaged in business, who are not the makers of the secrets themselves. His knowledge of details of manufacture on both sides of the water, of the business of importation, of the effect of the tariff upon business, and, above all, upon the people who are the consumers, has often excited the wonder and admiration of experts in various arts and trades, and whose experience taught them that a Congressman has usually to be instructed in the elementary facts of any practical question which he professes to discuss.

"Mr. Carlisle was the friend and champion of the consumers, who are the people, and whose fundamental political rights were invaded by the law that taxes them for the benefit of other private citizens. But Mr. Carlisle has not rested his case on a general principle, the distortion of which would undoubtedly work a terrible disaster in time, too remote, however, to be patiently waited for, and too serious not to be anticipated and averted if possible. He has therefore made a scientific analysis of the tariff. He has demonstrated the seriousness of their burdens, their injustice, and their ineffectiveness. In all the history of tariff-tax discussion in this country no one has taken broader ground than Mr. Carlisle, and no one has been so minutely informed."

THE window-glass men are reported to have dropped for the present their scheme to form a trust. It is said that the combination is not likely to be completed this year at least. The consumer must not flatter himself, however, that there is to be no window-glass trust to reap the tariff spoils. The scheme was only dropped at this time because of the money market. When that tightness passes away look out for the trust.

LITTLE Canada has a tariff wall, too, and it also has its trusts. One of the most important of these is the Canada Cotton-Mill Syndicate, which was organized in December, with a capital of $5,000,000. It is also reported that arrangements are about completed by an English syndicate to swallow up all the principal flour mills of Canada. A trust with $3,000,000 capital will be the result.

THE failures among manufacturers during 1890 were much heavier among woolen manufacturers than in any other class. During a part of the year as many as 60 per cent. of all our woolen mills were said to be idle. Let them have free wool.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.
Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor [illegible] neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana, Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE
FOR THE COURIER.

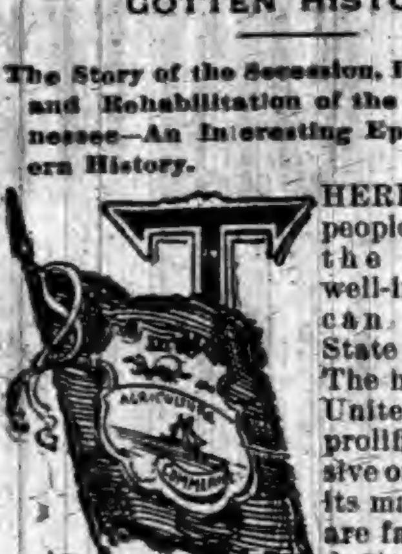
THE STATE OF FRANKLIN

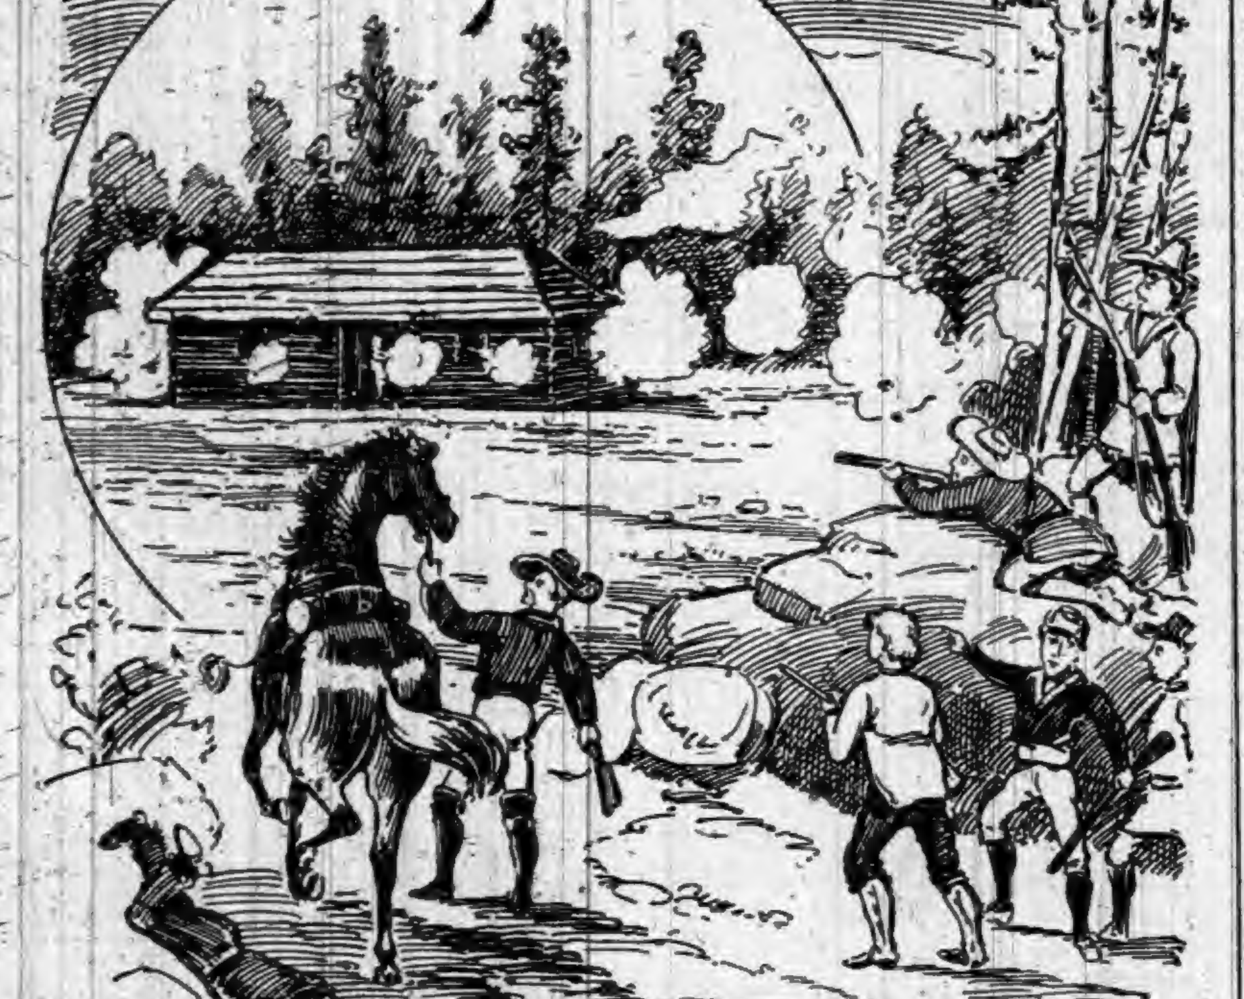
A CHAPTER OF ALMOST FORGOTTEN HISTORY.

The Story of the Secession, Independence, and Rehabilitation of the State of Tennessee—An Interesting Epoch in Southern History.



THERE are few people, even among the moderately well-informed, who can locate the State of Franklin. The history of the United States is a prolific and extensive one, and, while its material points are familiar to students and general readers, episodes of State history are forgotten or passed over as unimportant. The organization of the State of Franklin marked a most interesting epoch in Southern history, and a brief description of the same will be instructive and edifying. By the State of Franklin is meant Tennessee, for that was its original name.

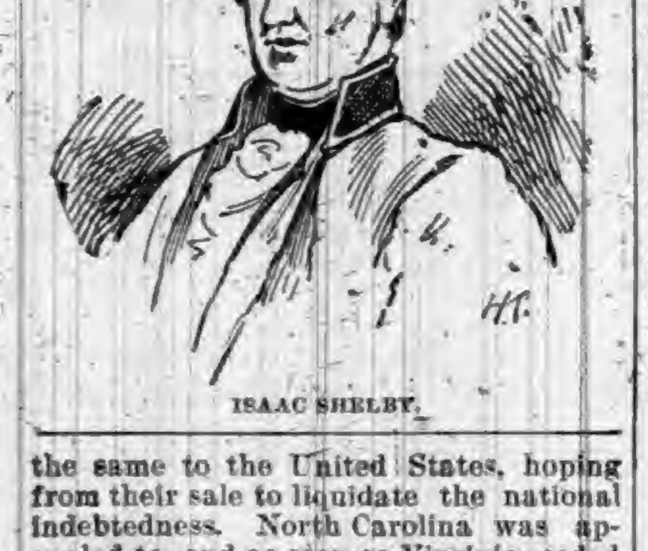
The annals of Tennessee in early days comprise a pioneer experience as wide in range and adventure as that of any district of the country. Its history is closely connected with that of Virginia, Kentucky, and the Carolinas, and its residents took notable part in the wars of the eighteenth century, being especially prominent in Indian warfare. Up to 1776 it was a wild extent of territory under no definite rule, but in that year, John Sevier, John Carter, and John Haile petitioned its neighbor, North Carolina, for annexation under the name of the Washington district, the principal community being then at Watauga. The petition was accepted, and three delegates were elected. Later the Legislature changed the name to Washington County, assigning as its boundaries the limits of the present State of Tennessee. Land was fixed in value at forty shillings per 100 acre.



BESIEGING TIPTON'S HOUSE.

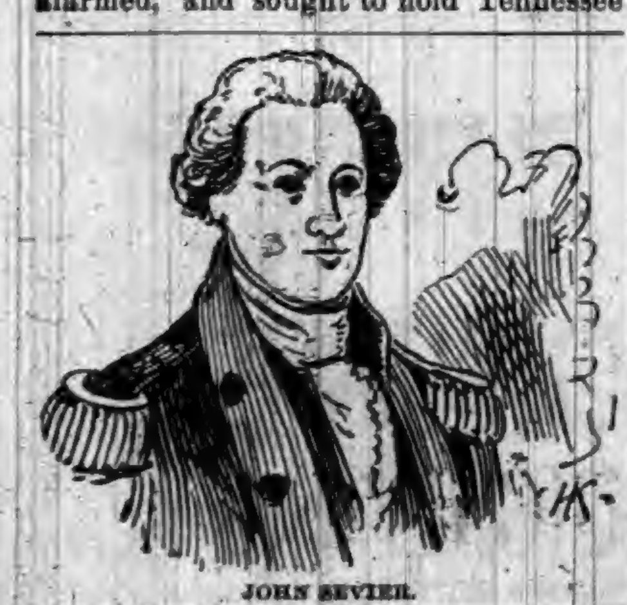
The most prominent man at that time was General Evan Shelby. He had been a great military leader, and, like Daniel Boone, had fought the Indians for many years. He was a Representative in the Legislature, and, like John Sevier, was popular among the people. The annexed district had prospered greatly, and active immigration and exploration were the order of the day. The district of Salisbury was finally divided, forming Sullivan and Washington Counties.

After the war of independence, in 1783, a period of depression succeeded to the joy of victory, and the Government found its immense debt contracted to carry on the war a source of great difficulty. Congress finally issued a call to all States that held vacant lands to cede the same to the United States, hoping from their sale to liquidate the national indebtedness. North Carolina was appealed to, and as soon as Virginia ceded its lands, the former State, in 1784, did likewise.



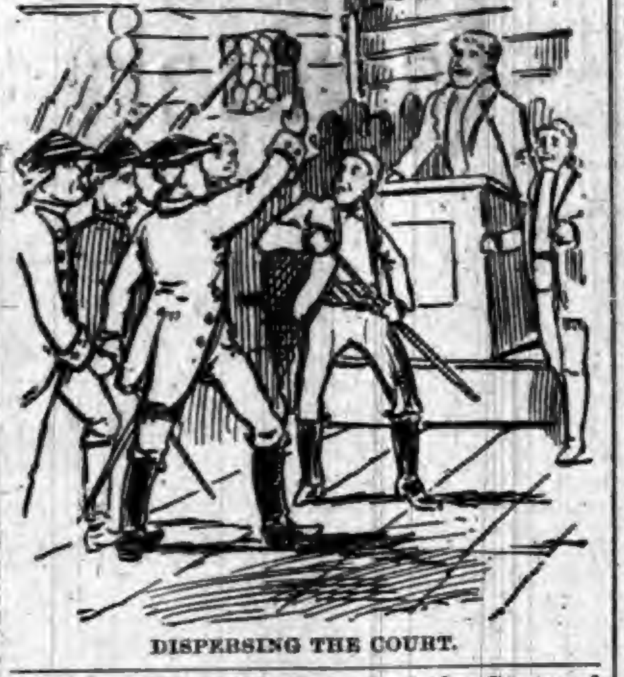
ISAAC SHELBY.

It was this action that began the agitation that ended in the foundation of the State of Franklin. The western pioneers in Tennessee had won their homesteads through a vigilant warfare and hardship unknown to seaboard citizens. They were resolved not to see themselves robbed of protection and property without an adequate return of security and power, and a convention was called at Jonesborough, on Aug. 23, 1784. It proved to be a notable and important convention. John Sevier was chosen President, and Langdon Carter Clerk. A resolution was at once adopted, forming themselves into a State distinct and separate from North Carolina. This independent action was followed by the vesting of the government in the hands of commissioners.



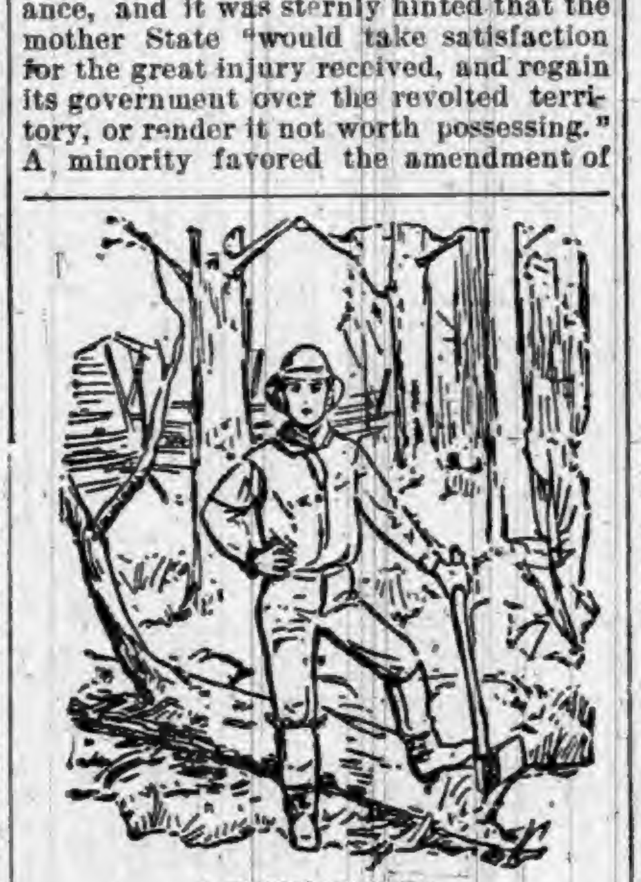
JOHN SEVIER.

As soon as the Legislature of North Carolina learned of this, it became alarmed, and sought to hold Tennessee to its former allegiance by retracting its cession of lands to the United States, and by providing more liberal civil and military government for the malcontents. Further, the western counties were to be allowed to form a judicial district, a general court, and a separate militia, with Sevier as Brigadier General. The November convention could not decide on action; but, Dec. 14, it was resolved to secede from North Carolina, and a constitution was adopted. The question of independence was to be put to vote, and delegates convened Nov. 14, 1785, at Greenville, appointed by the people to ratify or reject the constitution. By general voice, the act of secession was made a law, and the State of Franklin became a reality.



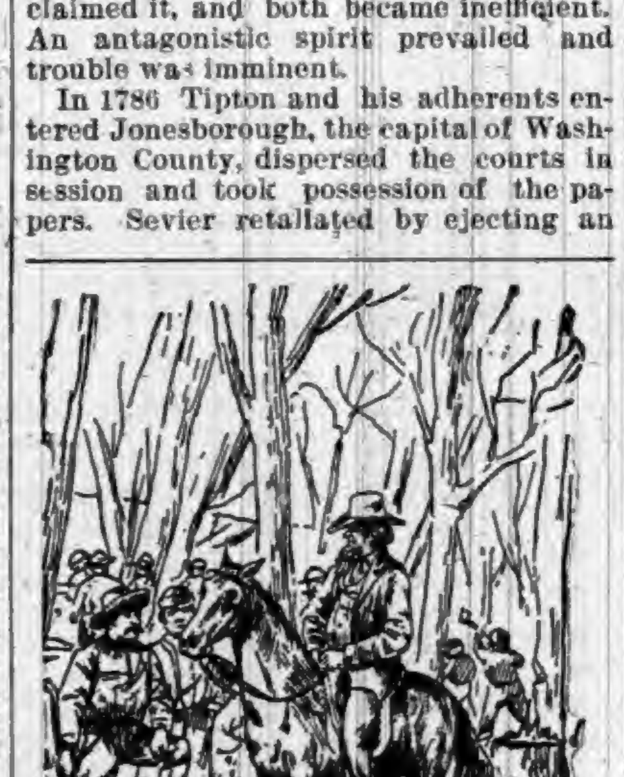
DISPERSING THE COURT.

The members formed a Legislature, and elected John Sevier as Governor of the new sovereignty. A "Declaration of Independence" was issued. Governor Martin, of North Carolina, at once summoned his council, and the 25th day of April the revolt was denominated as "a rank usurpation." The Franklinites were invited to return to their allegiance, and it was sternly hinted that the mother State "would take satisfaction for the great injury received, and regain its government over the revolted territory, or render it not worth possessing." A minority favored the amendment of the act of independence, and considerable discussion and intriguing ensued, but Sevier's adherents were stanch and earnest. There was a general opposition of two political parties, and Col. Tipton was delegated by North Carolina to incite the minority to rebellion. Disorders sprang up and degenerated into lawlessness. Both governments sought jurisdiction, both claimed it, and both became inefficient. An antagonistic spirit prevailed and trouble was imminent.



A YOUNG PIONEER.

In 1786 Tipton and his adherents entered Jonesborough, the capital of Washington County, dispersed the courts in session and took possession of the papers. Sevier retaliated by ejecting an officer appointed by North Carolina. Bitter political warfare followed. The principals, meeting at Greensboro, engaged in a personal conflict, and inglorious quarrels between the adherents of Tipton and Sevier were of daily occurrence.



PIONEERS FELLING THE FOREST TREES.

A temporary distraction was caused by a Cherokee invasion, and Sevier won much ground by his masterly warfare against the intruders. Internecine dissensions supervened, however, and the people refused to pay taxes either to the local government or North Carolina until the question of legal supremacy was established. Sevier earnestly appealed to North Carolina, to Benjamin Franklin himself, and to the Governors of Georgia and Virginia, respectively, for a ratification of the independence of the State of Franklin, and for counsel and assistance. Disappointment rewarded the appeal. Bloodshed threatened. The people were dissatisfied, and in 1787 the last Legislature held its session at Greenville. North Carolina had offered liberal terms of compromise. There was a general desire for the restoration of peace and order, and the revolting counties at the election selected a majority of delegates favorable to a reunion with the parent State. The public indorsed an act authorizing a new election for Representatives to the North Carolina Legislature as of old, and the organization of the State of Franklin was practically annulled.

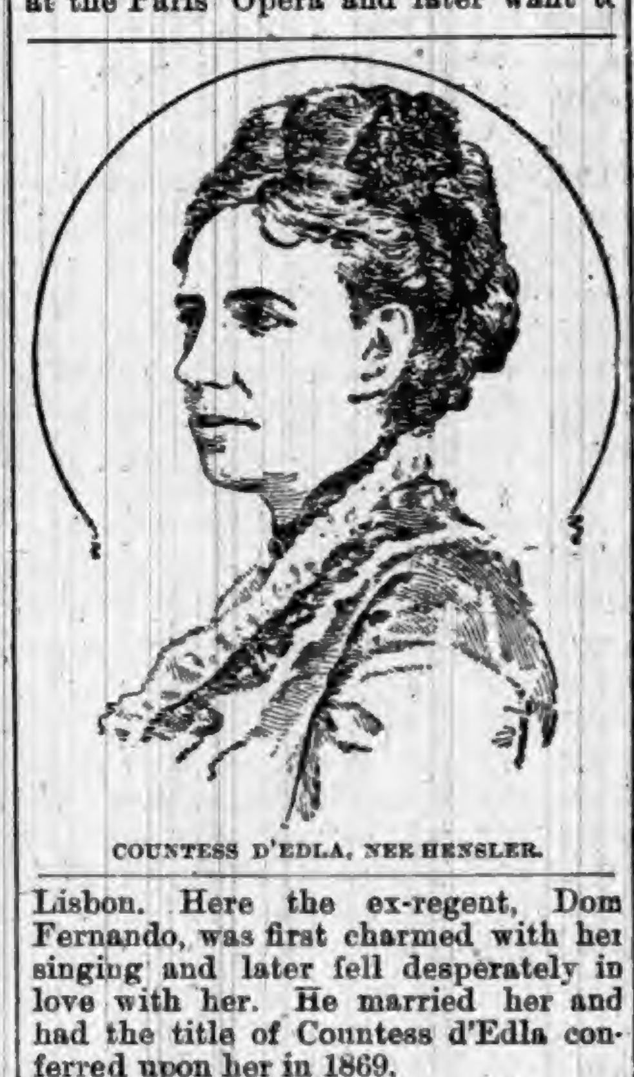
Sevier refused to accept the issue, but his partisans gradually deserted him. In February, 1788, the State of Franklin ceased to exist. After the trouble was over, an execution was issued on some personal case against Sevier, which revived all his old-time animosity for Tipton. The Sheriff levied on some negroes on Sevier's estate, and removed them for safekeeping to the home of Tipton. As alleged Governor of Franklin, Sevier resisted the authority of the Sheriff, claiming that the jurisdiction of North Carolina was not yet acknowledged as legal. He got together 150 men, and, hastening to Tipton's house, demanded the surrender of the negro slaves. It was refused, shots were exchanged, and a man was killed. Tipton's house was besieged for two days, and two persons were wounded. Troops from Sullivan County re-enforced Tipton. Sevier's force was attacked and routed; the Sheriff of Washington County was killed, Sevier's two sons were captured and nearly lynched, Sevier himself was arrested for high treason and put in jail, whence he escaped. Later he was chosen to represent Green County in the North Carolina Senate, and his courage and patriotism caused the act disqualifying him from citizenship to be repealed. In 1789 the State of Franklin was merged into the Territory of Tennessee, which in 1796 became a State.

WELDON J. COBB.

SHE WANTED TO BE A QUEEN.

A Boston Tailor's Daughter Who Married a Prince and Played for a Throne.

The Countess d'Edla is the widow of Dom Fernando, the late ex-king regent of Portugal, who was a prince of Saxe-Coburg before he married the heir to the Portuguese throne. She is a woman with a remarkable history, which has a peculiar interest for Americans. The Countess was once a Miss Elise Hensler, of Boston, whose father, a Swiss tailor, kept a humble little shop on Washington street. The girl came to this country in her fifth year with her parents and early developed considerable musical talent. Prominent Boston people whose attention she attracted by singing at local concerts combined to send her to Milan, Italy, to obtain a thorough musical training, and she had the great honor of securing an engagement at the famous La Scala Opera House after making her debut. She then returned to the United States and sang to crowded houses in the principal American cities. Returning to Europe she was engaged at the Paris Opera and later want to Lisbon. Here the ex-regent, Dom Fernando, was first charmed with her singing and later fell desperately in love with her. He married her and had the title of Countess d'Edla conferred upon her in 1869.



COUNTESS D'EDLA, NEE HENSLER.

A few months after her marriage an event occurred which left in her hands the decision of the question of peace or war, between two great nations, although she did not know that such would be the result. The Spanish General Prim, then dicator of Spain, went to Lisbon to offer the crown of that country, recently and forcibly taken from the brow of Queen Isabella, to Dom Fernando. The newly created countess wanted to be a queen, but the proud Spaniard, would only make her a duchess and, as her husband stood by her, he threw away his chance and the throne of Spain was offered to Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern, a nephew of King William of Prussia. Napoleon III. objected to this and the Franco-German war was the result.

Dom Fernando died a few years ago and the Countess now resides on his estate in Portugal in a castle fitted up in the old feudal style.

Cast-Iron Tunnels.

Two tunnels of cast iron for an electric railway have been built in London and put in operation for rapid transit. They are three miles in length and lie between forty and sixty feet below the surface of London streets. The tunnels for the up and down lines are formed of cast iron from beginning to end, save where the stations are built, and their diameter is 10 and 10½ feet. The tubes are formed of rings 1 foot 7 inches long, made in sections and bolted together. The tunnels were driven by means of a short cylinder, a trifle larger in its inner dimensions than the exterior diameter of the cast iron tunnel lining. This cylinder has a cutting edge, and is forced forward by hydraulic jacks, cutting a circular way into which the lining plates are fitted. The narrow space between the lining and the soil was filled with lime cement forced in under high pressure. In their course the tunnels pass beneath the bed of the Thames and through the bed of an old water course, where loose, wet gravel offered some trying obstacles for the engineers to overcome. The entire cost of the line fully equipped was less than $3,750,000.

Anarchy Brewing.

First Anarchist—Ah, we will be avenged on the police at last.

Second Anarchist—What have you done, Jacobini?

First Anarchist—I have trailed them for hours. I have worked a dynamite bomb into the tail pocket of every man.

Second Anarchist—They wont go off, fool!

First Anarchist—Ah, but I've strewn the pavement with banana peel!—New York Sun.

He Put In a Good Feed.

The last meal of Succi before his fast in New York, consisted of anchovies, boiled trout, olives, celery, the Italian dishes cressini and insorts, cauliflower, kidney stew, roast chicken, roast patridge, roast quail, grapes, pears, and a bottle of chianti.

HUMOR.

The New Neighbor.

Mrs. De Gadd—That new neighbor of yours don't go to any particular church as I can see. He's an atheist, isn't he?

Mrs. De Gabb—Not so bad as that, I assure you. He is what is called a Liberal Christian.

Mrs. De Gadd—Well, I'm glad to hear that, and I'll call on him this very day. Our church is awfully in need of a new organ and a new bell, and we ain't got half enough collected to pay the preacher yet. Liberal Christians is what we're sighin' for in this town.

Gifted.

"So your son won't work," said one Congressman to another.

"No," was the reply. "I've tried to persuade him to employ himself at something, but he won't do it."

"Maybe he is what they call 'gifted.'"

"I should say he was. I've given him everything he has, and more, too."

Mistaken His Calling.

"Yo' parson am bleeged ter 'nounce," said Parson Limberlip, breaking short off in his sermon, and looking over his yawning congregation, "dat de nazual 'companimen's dat he years e'bny Sunday endurin' disco'se, am pruffs dat he his mistook his perfesion. Ef his vice have de soovin qualities indercated by de orkerpants er dese pews, it am 'parient ter him dat be am design by proberdence as a rivual fer Mrs. Winsler's Syr'p, an' de bes' ting, darfo', dat he kin do, am ter loan 'imself out ter sing lullaboys in oner dese yere faun'lin 'sylums."

She Thought So Anyway.

Small Girl (on seeing a Chinese washee man)—What's that, mamma?

Mother—That's a Chinaman, dear.

Small Girl—Do all the folks in China dress like that Mother—Yes, dear.

Small Girl—Gracious! how they must laugh when they see each other.

A Common Case.

Wickwire—There never were so many chances as now to get a good income out of a small fortune.

Yabsley—What I'd like is to get a good fortune out of a small income.

The Golden Rule.

Sunday-school Teacher—What is the golden rule, Johnny Billings?

Johnny (son of a jeweler) — To sell ten karat for fourteen karat.

Too Cheap to Be Decent.

Mr. De Fashion (ready for the opera)—Where are your opera glasses?

Mrs. De Fashion—I am not going to take them. You must get me a new pair.

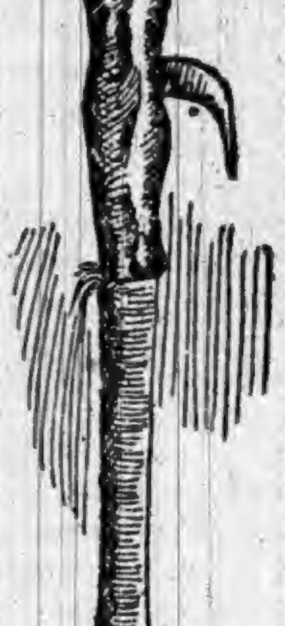
Mr. De F.—What is the matter with the old ones?

Mrs. De F.—They are of aluminium, and I saw by the paper to-day that the price of aluminium has dropped from twenty dollars a pound to eighty-five cents.

"BULL'S" WAR-CLUB.

It Went Through All Battles with the Dead Chief.

The killing of Sitting Bull, the famous Indian chief, recalls the fact that Mr. Max E. Dickerson, of Shelby, Ohio, is the proud possessor of this great chief's private war-club. Mr. Dickerson secured the club from Elroy Post, a scenic artist in the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, who received it as a present from Sitting Bull himself several months ago. Mr. Post was doing some work for the railroad company at the time in and around Sitting Bull's headquarters, and the chief took a great liking to him, but would have nothing to do with the rest of the men, although there were six in the party. He took Mr. Post all through his camp, introduced them to different Indians, and made things as pleasant for him as possible. In return for his kindness, Mr. Post painted for Sitting Bull two large pictures of his two favorite ponies, Dry Camp and Never Fret, which so pleased the old chief that he said he would like to present him with something in return for the compliment. Noticing a large war club hanging up in the chief's tepee, Mr. Post said he would like to have it. Sitting Bull mentioned the fact that the club was an old relic, had been in service over forty years, passed through numerous battles, and because of its curiosity he would give it to him.



Upon Mr. Post's return to Aberdeen, Dak., he shipped the great relic to Mr. Dickerson, who now has it on exhibition.

The club is a vicious-looking weapon, two and a half feet long, with a buffalo horn firmly secured in the club or heavy end, and bears the signs of having seen a large amount of service. Mr. Dickerson has the necessary credentials to prove conclusively that the club was the only one ever used by Sitting Bull, and that it is the one used by this chief during his career. Mr. Dickerson recently received two different communications from the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., relative to the purchase of the relic, but has not yet disposed of it. To better illustrate what an ugly weapon this war club looks like, the above cut, taken from a photograph, will give a clearer idea of it.

A Mineral Curiosity.

In his peregrinations after specimens for the exposition Dr. Elmer has run across an actual mineral curiosity. It is a piece of white quartz, having on one side a small crystallized cavity, out of which there protrudes what has every appearance of a tuft of fine hair. It is, undoubtedly, mineral in substance, and the only explanation for this unusual formation appears to be the one given by the Doctor himself: That at the point of cooling, or immediately before congelation, there was an explosion of confined gas through a narrow aperture, forming, as it were, a mineral wool similar to glass wool. It came from the workings of the First Thought mine, in the 200-foot level. There have been several pieces of it taken out this week. Superintendent Fisher says he has never met with anything like it in all his mining experience.—Okanogan (Wash.) Outlook.

AN ugly thing is ugly, and you can't make it pretty by liking it.

No Wreck Ashore

Was ever more hopelessly stranded than a wrecked constitution, whether its disaster be the product of some formidable malady or that slow, premature decay that seems to fasten upon some constitutions without apparent adequate cause. An excellent means of checking this gradual drain of the sources of vitality is the beneficent tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which promotes digestion, enriches the blood and gives substance as well as stamina to an enfeebled frame. Constipation, feebleness of the kidneys and bladder, fever and ague, and rheumatism, are among the bodily ailments which it remedies promptly and thoroughly. Persistence in its use is well merited by it.

It Still Pursued Him.

For two months before election he had been seeing nothing in the papers but appeals to citizens to register. Every page seemed to hold it in all sorts of places and all sorts of type.

It was too much for him and he felt his head beginning to swim. At last he grabbed his grip and went for Canada.

Entering the hotel he said: "Give me a room for the rest of my natural life."

"But won't you please register?" asked the clerk.

"What! Here, too!" gasped the unfortunate man, and from that moment he became a raving maniac.—Philadelphia Times.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last fifteen years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

He Knew Them.

Magazine Editor—I'm going to run the last chapters of your story next month.

Author—The last chapters! Why, the story has only been running a couple of months and isn't fairly begun.

Magazine Editor—I know it, but the women don't seem to get interested in it, because they don't know how it's going to turn out, so I shall run the last chapters and just suit them.—Boston Traveler.

Still Rolling.

It has recently been demonstrated that some articles of merchandise, which have been before the public of England for the last half century, are nine times more used there than all other principal patent medicines put together. We refer to Beecham's Pills, which in order to meet the wishes and requirements expressed by Americans, many of whom already know their value, are now introduced in such a thorough manner that no home need be without them in America. We believe this shrewd and discerning people will soon join in the universal testimony that they "are worth a guinea a box," although they can be purchased of druggists for but twenty-five cents. These pills are round, and will therefore roll. They have already rolled into every English-speaking country in the world, and they are still rolling. All sufferers from indigestion, flatulency, constipation, and all other forms of stomach and liver troubles, have now this famous and inexpensive remedy within their reach; but should they find, upon inquiry, that their druggist does not keep Beecham's Pills they can send twenty-five cents to the General Agents for the United States, B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal street, New York City, who will promptly mail them to any address.

She Knew How It Was Herself.

Bessie—I had a close call last evening.

Jessie—So Jack has been up again, eh?—Binghamton Republican.

The Only One.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid vestibuled, electric-lighted and steam-heated trains between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway is the only line running solid vestibuled, electric-lighted and steam-heated trains between Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha and Sioux City.

The berth reading lamp feature in the Pullman sleeping cars run on these lines is patented, and cannot be used by any other railway company. It is the great improvement of the age. Try it and be convinced.

For further particulars apply at any ticket office of the road, or write to Assistant General Passenger Agent, 207 and 209 Clark street, Chicago, Ill.

Trying to Be Impartial.

Master.—James, upon my word, you are wearing my new trousers!

Valet.—Yes, sir; but I wore the coat and vest yesterday.—Texas Siftings.

THOSE of you who are weary and heavy ladened with sickness and care, weighed down with the infirmities that beset the human system, can find the one thing necessary to restore you to bright, buoyant health in Sherman's Prickly Ash Bitters. It invigorates and strengthens the debilitated organs, aids digestion, and dispels the clouds arising from a diseased liver.

A NEW YORK policeman just died from the small-pox. The small-pox can be caught during sleep.—Texas Siftings.

YOU wear out clothes on a washboard ten times as much as on the body. How foolish. Buy Dobbins' Electric Soap and save this useless wear. Made ever since 1854. Don't take imitation. There are lots of them.

MANY people in this world are so ignorant that they gain fame as newspaper writers.—Maverick.

MANY modest women suffer rather than apply to a physician; Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved thousands of such from lives of misery and early graves.

A YOUNG lady calls her beau "honeysuckle," because he is always hanging over the front railings.

FOR THROAT DISEASES AND COUGHS use BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Like all really good things, they are imitated. The genuine are sold only in boxes.

"NO MORE reflections, please," said the looking-glass after it had tumbled down stairs.

A CHEERFUL home is where cheerful children play. They cannot be cheerful or have good health unless they are occasionally given Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers.

JOHN MILTON, by writing "Paradise Lost," proved himself the original "fall" poet.

"THE world generally gives 'honor to whom honor is due.'" Public approval has given, SAPOLIO the first place in its line. Try a cake.

"IT is a mere matter of form," said the lady as she adjusted her corset.

THE best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

"GOOD-BY" in the telephone reminds one of autumn; it's the yell o' leave.

IF afflicted with Sore Eyes, use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c.

MARRY in haste and repent at—your father-in-law's.

Cause of Rheumatism

An acid which exists in sour milk and cider, called lactic acid, is believed by physicians to be the cause of rheumatism. Accumulating in the blood, it attacks the fibrous tissues in the joints, and causes agonizing pains. What is needed is a remedy to neutralize the acid, and to so invigorate the kidneys and liver that all waste will be carried off. We can honestly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for these purposes. It has cured others of rheumatism and it will cure you.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Tourists,

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it acts most pleasantly and effectually on the kidneys, liver, and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches, and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists.

Innocent Womankind.

Mrs. Magnus Scott—Are you going into the optical business, Mr. Snively?

Snively—Such an idea has never crossed my mind.

Mrs. M. Scott—My husband was saying this morning that you were buying out a store at the rate of 10 cents a glass. As he didn't specify the class of business, I inferred it was an optical store.—Jewelers' Circular.

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and
W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal
L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.
From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, running free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Council Bluffs. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana, and California. For rates, routes, maps, etc., apply to any ticket agent or address

F. CHANDLER,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

A BAR-TENDER can malt-treat a man as often as he pleases, without objections being raised.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Billious and Nervous Ills.

WHEN a hen retires for the night, it is quite proper to speak of her as a rooster.

THE POINT.

"A 1" From a Catholic Archbishop down to the Poorest of the Poor all testify, not only to the virtues of ST. JACOBS OIL, The Great Remedy For Pain, but to its superiority over all other remedies, expressed thus:

It Cures Promptly, Permanently; which means strictly, that the pain-stricken seek a prompt relief with no return of the pain, and this, they say, St. Jacobs Oil will give. This is its excellence.

Children always Enjoy It.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda is almost as palatable as milk. Children enjoy it rather than otherwise. A MARVELLOUS FLESH PRODUCER it is indeed, and the little lads and lassies who take cold easily, may be fortified against a cough that might prove serious, by taking Scott's Emulsion after their meals during the winter season.

Beware of substitutions and imitations.

"August Flower"

The Hon. J. W. Fennimore is the Sheriff of Kent Co., Del., and lives at Dover, the County Seat and Capital of the State. The sheriff is a gentleman fifty-nine years of age, and this is what he says: "I have "used your August Flower for several years in my family and for my "own use, and found it does me "more good than any other remedy. "I have been troubled with what I "call Sick Headache. A pain comes "in the back part of my head first, "and then soon a general headache "until I become sick and vomit. "At times, too, I have a fullness "after eating, a pressure after eating "at the pit of the stomach, and "sourness, when food seemed to rise "up in my throat and mouth. When "I feel this coming on if I take a "little August Flower it relieves "me, and is the best remedy I have "ever taken for it. For this reason "I take it and recommend it to "others as a great remedy for Dyspepsia, &c."

G. G. GREEN, Sole Manufacturer,
Woodbury, New Jersey, U. S. A.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists,
LONDON, ENGLAND.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co. 24 State St., N. Y.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

Positively Cured with Vegetable Remedies

Have cured many thousand cases. Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best physicians. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. Send for free book of testimonials of miraculous cures. Ten days treatment furnished free by mail. If you order trial, send 10 cents in stamps to pay postage.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Atlanta, Ga.

$2.50 PER DAY

Can be made easy by any energetic person selling "CHAMPION PASTE STOVE POLISH." No brush required. No hard labor. No dust or dirt. Always ready for use. An article every housekeeper will buy. 216,000 packages sold in Philadelphia. Exclusive agency for one or more counties given competent persons. Write to-day enclosing stamp for particulars. You will never regret it. Address CHAMPION CO., 44 N. Fourth St., Philadelphia, Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

PAINLESS. EFFECTUAL.

WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For BILIOUS & NERVOUS DISORDERS SUCH AS Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Disordered Liver, etc., ACTING LIKE MAGIC on the vital organs, strengthening the muscular system, and arousing with the rosebud of health The Whole Physical Energy of the Human Frame.

Beecham's Pills, taken as directed, will quickly RESTORE FEMALES to complete health.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Price, 25 cents per Box.

Prepared only by THOS. BEECHAM, St. Helens, Lancashire, England.

B. F. ALLEN CO., Sole Agents for United States, 365 & 367 Canal St., New York, who (if your druggist does not keep them) will mail Beecham's Pills on receipt of price—but inquire first. (Mention this paper.)

Ely's Cream Balm Cures COLD IN HEAD

RELIEVES INSTANTLY.

THE CURE FOR CATARRH COLD IN HEAD HAYFEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE ELY'S CREAM BALM 50c

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

EVERY WATERPROOF COLLAR OR CUFF THAT CAN BE RELIED ON

BE UP TO THE MARK

Not to Split! Not to Discolor!

BEARS THIS MARK.

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

NEEDS NO LAUNDERING. CAN BE WIPED CLEAN IN A MOMENT.

THE ONLY LINEN-LINED WATERPROOF COLLAR IN THE MARKET.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

25 CTS

Best Cough Medicine. Recommended by Physicians. Cures where all else fails. Pleasant and agreeable to the taste. Children take it without objection. By druggists.

25 CTS

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND

PENNYROYAL PILLS

THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. Sold by all Local Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

RIDGE'S FOOD

IT IS USED by CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. By Druggists. WOOLRICH & Co., Palmer, Mass.

PATENTS F. A. LEHMANN, Washington, D. C. Send for circular.

R. U. F. W. .... No. 4—91.

WHEN Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1889, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1890.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Freeman W S	in s w qr	14	33	12		20	6 61
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	83 46
Holbrook Sanford	s hf n w qr	33	33	12	80	00	73 61
Work Wesley	off e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	104 73
do	und 2-3ds off w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	25 97
do	und 2-3ds pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	38	46	75 75
do	und 2-3ds n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	15 84
do	und 2 3ds w hf n e qr	32	33	12	53	33	128 41
Work Mary E	und 1-3d pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	36 57
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Cool John	s e 1-4th s w qr	8	33	13	40	00	15 88
Dancer John F	e hf s e qr	20	33	13	80	00	70 79
Elson Thomas	n pt w hf s e qr	16	33	13	50	00	24 27
Kryder David	in s side s w 1-4th n w qr	6	33	13	1	63	1 44
McNamara James	in n w cor n hf n e qr	34	33	13	6	00	5 39
Powell Levi B	Auburn Junction D. add lot 6						4 38
Frederick Samuel	Auburn Stamet's add lot 10						2 48
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Abel J C F	in s w 1-4th s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	10 67
Hart J E	und 1-3d in s w qr	15	33	14	00	10	70
Mosier Cyrus F	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	1 47
Monroe Julia L	in s end e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25	84
Wearley Wm E	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	16 27
Hinsdale Sophronia	Orange lot 129						1 07
Baltz Emma	O P Spencerville lot 30 pt of						6 70
do	O P Spencerville lot 31						69
Myers Eliza	Files' add Spencerville lot 21						1 03
Rhodes William	O P Spencerville 25x30 ft of lt 30 e pt						3 70
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Fusselman Quince	in s e pt n hf s w qr	6	35	15	1	00	5 78
Jeffords David	in n w qr	6	35	15	0	80	1 02
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	35	15	1	28	5 35
Milliman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	19	35	15	2	00	11 10
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	6	35	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s e qr	6	35	15	7	48	24 20
Rhodes J M and C A	in s w qr n w qr	6	35	15	00	50	2 98
Catlett David	Vienna lot 24						9 14
do	do lot 25						60
Fusselman Mary H	do s e hf of lot 48						50
do	do s e hf of lot 37						51
Like Julia	do lot 2						2 79
Larned State Bank	do lot 1						81
Moody Wert L	do lot 49 s pt
do	do lot 49 s e pt						1 46
McDonald Rebecca	do lot 10 n hf						1 48
do	do lot 15 n hf						42
Pressler Ella & Jacob	do lot 11 pt of						3 66
do	do lot 44 pt of						63
Rex George N	do lot 81
do	do lot 88						12 00
Salmon Matilda J	do lot 44 30 ft off n end						59
do	do lot 37 18x23 ft in n e cor						4 51
do	do lot 41 30 ft n end						59
Smith Philander	do lot 71						61
Tarney John W	do lot 3 n pt						39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Funk Mary	pt n hf n hf s e qr	18	34	15	30	25	25 04
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w hf n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	66 24
Brown Malinda	und 2-15ths pt w hf n w qr	31	34	14	10	12	8 98
Clark George	do.	31	34	14	10	12	14 80
Heller S M	s pt e 1-3d e hf n w qr	11	34	14	10	00	7 72
Huntsman A E & R F	s e qr n w qr	28	34	14	40	00	15 63
Jenkins John	in n w cor s e qr n w qr	16	34	14	6	00	8 82
do	n e qr n e qr	17	34	14	40	00	20 01
Lockwood Lyman	s 3-4ths s e qr n e qr	19	34	14	30	00	83 34
Maxwell Jos & Sarah	in n e cor w hf n e qr	34	34	14	12	00	11 02
Palmerton George N	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	17 52
Haskins Esther M	e 3-4ths s w qr s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	138 31
do	w qr s e qr s w qr	21	34	14	10	00	46 24
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Abel G H & J E	s end w hf s e qr	32	34	13	16	80	11 93
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Hanna James T	n w qr s e qr	33	34	12	40	00	49 67
Meyers & Hersler	und 2-3ds w pt w hf n w qr	2	33	12	00	67	6 06
Thompson John	pt w hf e hf n e qr	10	33	12	39	00	17 05
Cowan Washington	Garrett M. & H. add lot 64						83
Myers Samuel E	do 63						88
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Dearborn B B	J add Lawrence lot 98						5 87
Rohm Susannah	do 5						2 70
do	do 6						61
Weirick Jacob	O P Lawrence lot 63						91
Gilpier John	McM 1st add Corunna lot 9						68
do	do 10						60
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Camp Andrew	in n e cor n hf n w qr	22	35	12	00	50	2 46
Hanna James T	s w qr s w qr	3	35	12	40	00	4 12
Row Magdalene	in e part n w qr	22	35	12	00	33	2 46
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e qr s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	29 63
do	pt w pt n hf n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	5	00	2 99
Markley Nancy	in n w cor n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	2	00	1 27
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Enzor Catharine	s hf s e qr s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	16 25
Frederick Joseph	s w qr s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	19 00
Garrison Kenton	in n w cor n e qr	2	35	14
do	in mid pt n w qr	2	35	14	33	11	64 53
Porter Clark & Jane	s e qr n e qr	26	35	14	40	00	20 60
Rhinehart Christian	e end n pt w hf n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	6 63
Willard Henry	in n w qr	2	35	14	00	25	1 17
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Dinius Theodore & L	und 5-9ths w end n hf n w qr	16	35	15	25	60	14 06
Fry Charles	n e qr n w fr qr	9	35	15	40	00	15 88
Myers Laura A	in s w cor n e qr	20	35	15	5	00	6 51
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	25	13 79
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Falk & Lamley	L 2d add lot 29						4 77
Miller Hiram G	O P lot 155 s pt						3 62
Stroh Peter B	in s e qr	3	34	13	1	00	23 20
Booth George	C add Uniontown lot 5						9 28
	BUTLER TOWN.
Ackley E C	D's add lot 35						17 57
Beggs David	E's 3d add lot 236						5 97
Doxsee Christian	O P lot 161						11 07
Garber Isaac	Eg's add lot 204						1 11
do	do lot 221						20 13
Moltz Charles	do lot 136 e hf						1 82
do	do lot 137						20 24
do	do lot 138						3 43
Mason W A	M's add lot 16						4 36
Mason Albert J	D's add lot 38						18 74
do	O P lot 290						3 81
Renner Robert	do 289						3 19
Riker B C & E	Eg's 3d add lot 208						88
do	do 209						88
do	do 210						88
do	do 216						12 69
do	do 217						1 39
Stough William	D's add lot 22						65
do	do 4 und hf n 23 ft						8 31
Searight Samuel G	E's add lot 146 w pt						14 98
do	D's add lot 65						34 23
Town Earl	Eg's 2d add lot 142						9 63
Wile Lewis	O P lot 97						10 31
	GARRETT TOWN.
Basse John & Mary	Oz 3d add lot 1 blk 1						7 81
Balt Land Imp Co	O P lot 24 blk 21						5 08
do	C's 1st add lot 2 blk 36						1 86
Hopper Charles	Thomas's add lot 10 blk 6						21 93
Munn Elizabeth	Oz 3d add lot 10 blk 2						10 49
Reneman C F & L V	O P lot 19 blk 33						4 31
Shisley James & Anna	Cowan's 1st add lot 3 blk 53						1 03
do	Cowan's 1st add s hf of lot 2 blk 53						61
	AUBURN TOWN.
Biller Emma J	K's add n hf lot 6						9 82
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141						13 84
do	do 142						7 67
Newton George	Ashley's add lot 14 except 39 ft e side						1 66
Russel Anna & Albert	Ensley's 2d add lot 35						5 36

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1889, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1890, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A D. 1891, (the same being the 9th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 14, 1891.

Honest Work! $20 to $40 a week made by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in town and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 449, Cincinnati, O.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California.

J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:00 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Henning, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL SWIHART, Administrator

December 29, 1890. 4

Notice To Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 4 1891, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the election of thirteen Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting.

J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary.

WE PAY SALARY and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

In a Short Time.

A prominent man of Clarinda, Iowa, says: Through the recommendation of J. P. Burrows, of our city, I gave your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup a trial in a case of severe cough, after using it a short time my cough was cured. Which fact gives me such great confidence in it's merits that upon every occasion I recommend it to my neighbors.

Yours,

AMOS CLARK.

Over $300,000 worth of French bon bons are exported to Constantinople yearly for the ladies of the Turkish harems.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

OLD HONESTY
plug chewing tobacco,
they will NOT be humbugged, but will get the BEST and MOST that can be given for the money.
Ask your dealer for it. Insist on having it
Made by
John Finzer & Bros. Louisville, Ky.

IT IS TRUE that if tobacco chewers will insist upon trying the Obituary.

Mr. Henry Kelling was born in Mecklenburg, Germany, Nov. 12, 1813. He married in 1854, and set out for this country, in the same year. He first settled near Corunna, DeKalb county, Indiana, but soon after moved to Waterloo. He then purchased a small farm, east of that place, where he resided till he sold the farm, when he removed to Auburn. This has been his place of residence for about twenty-eight years.

He died at his home, at No. 31 South Jackson St., Wednesday afternoon, January 14, 1891, after a short illness of three days. He had been a most faithful janitor of the Auburn schools for about twelve years. His kind and pleasing way, as well as his most careful and attentive services won for him the highest regards from the many teachers, whom he has known in many years of service. The pupils of the various departments of the school, had long since learned to regard him with the greatest respect.

Tokens of esteem were eagerly offered in contributions of choice flowers. Seldom has a funeral seen more beutiful flowers, than those secured for this occasion, by the teachers, and the pupils of the public school, all of whom hold him in grateful memory—the teachers for his faithfulness to duty, and the pupils for many little acts of kindness such as they above all others, could best appreciate. The flowers were borne to the grave from the church by four young ladies of the High school: Helen Ralston, Nettie Willis, Gertie Wilson and Nellie Barns. He leaves a wife and two grown daughters to mourn their loss, while he has gone to join five of his children on the other shore. The funeral was Friday afternoon from the Presbyterian church, a large concourse of people coming out to honor a worthy though humble citizen.

In judging the success of human life, there are many things that are commonly taken into consideration, which, when life is done, seem to sink into anything but a mark of success in the life of the actor. Wealth, pompous ceremony, honored positions, loud expressions as a proof of inward goodness, are among the many things that seem often to satisfy the required standards of assurance that the life has been most effective and useful. But we often forget that the most effective and lasting monuments of virtue, morality and religion, are found in the lives of those who live apart from any of the above named conditions. In fact some of the very best influences thrown forth by the most powerful and expressive agency, namely, EXAMPLE, are found in the lives of those who LIVE rather than PROFESS, who seek to honor the positions they are required to fill, rather than live to be honored by the positions they seek to occupy. Indeed how much more honorable it is to be an honor to the lower stations in life than to disgrace the honor of a higher place. The life of our friend and citizen, Mr. Kelling, has been one full of worthy example, such, indeed, as even one of professedly greater accomplishment may well seek to imitate.

A Radical From Principle.

MR EDITOR:—If you will please allow me space in your paper, I will just say to Brother O. A. Radical, as he called himself in your paper of last week's issue, please do not build castles in the air. "But lay up for yourself treasures in heaven, where moth nor rust doth not corrupt, and thieves do not break through and steal." My reason for writing this article is, that I am not in a state of mind to believe you ever was a radical, or you would not have signed your name in full as a means of having people know that one radical, at least, had been enlightened. I feel sorry that you have been so wonderfully deceived by the radical leaders of the conservative church. It astounds me that such men of God, should deceive. There is a principle in this question. If you will read E. J. Wyatt's views in the Conservative, of December 4, 1890, on the Philomath college case, I think you will understand the principle engendered in his views. When you have acquainted yourself with the article referred to, you will know my sentiments to the letter. I am a radical, not because Brother Dillon wanted me to be, nor because some one of the brethren said we were sure of the church property. No, not at all. But I am a radical by virtue of my adherence to the old constitution of 1841, from principle, and I will affix my name in full, as one, who fears God and loves mercy. Respectfully,

SIMON H. MAURER,
Spencerville, Ind.

Birthday Party.

It was an occasion to be remembered by all who were present. This delightful meeting was at the residence of Emanuel Stafford and occurred Jan. 14. He had been lured from home by a neat device. Mr. Keller came along and asked him to go to Waterloo, as he wanted to sell a horse and wished Mr. S., to go along. While in town, Mr. K., managed to lay in needed supplies of oysters, etc., without exciting a word of suspicion, and when they got back to Mr. Stafford's home about one o'clock—there they all were—a house full. All enjoyed a splendid dinner and spent a pleasant afternoon. Those present were: Sam Moor and wife, Adam Stroh and wife, Henry Stroh and wife, James Furgeson and wife, Henry Fulk and wife, Charles Fulk and wife, Mrs. Phillip Squires and son, Dave Keller, wife, son and daughter, Ettie Balward, May Balward, Wm. Carr, Nora Carr, James Stafford and Mrs Al. St. Clair. He recieved many nice and useful presents. All speak in glowing terms of the good time they had.

Committees for Our Members.

Mr. Kelly has been made chairman of the committee on labor, stands second on public buildings, and is on manufactures and commerce. Dr. Teal is chairman of the committee of State Medicine, Health and Vital Statistics, he is third on education, and third on military affairs and third on county and township business. Others that will interest our people are: Rosco, of Noble, is on drains and dykes, on swamp lands and on sinking fund; Brown, of Steuben, (a former teacher of the Waterloo school is on courts, on rights and privileges of the people of the state, on corporations and on state library. Latta of Lagrange) is on drains and dykes, on federal relations, on agriculture, on manufactures and commerce, and on labor. Wallace Robbins a former Auburn man, is chair man on military affairs, is on labor, and reformatory institutions. Oppenheim of Ft. Wayne is chairman of Ways and Means, a very important committee; Bench is chairman on courts, and both have other important committees. Adams of Whitley county, is on for this the 12th district, on apportionment and is chairman of privileges of the inhabitants of the state, and has other good places. Senator Jackson of this district, has good places on six committees: on organization of courts, on corporations, on roads, on swamp lands, on phraseology and arrangement, and on rules.

Fair Meeting.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the DeKalb county fair the following officers were unanimously elected: President, Jno. L Davis; Vice-president, John Carper; Secretary, Cal Husselman; Treasurer, H. R. Culbertson; F. J. Yesbera declined a re-election. The following persons were elected directors for the ensuing year. L. W. Treesh, John Sheffer, Geo. H. Dunn, H. P. Stroh, S. S. Kutzner, John Wilson, A. B. Walsworth, Ed. S. Wise, James Provines, John S. Boots, J. Y. W. McClellan, W. H. Fair, Frank M. Kircher, Chas. Rugman, Jas. McClellan, Willis B. Brown, Dr. T. J. Matheny, Dr. D. A. Sebring, Thomas Sommers, S R. Heberling, S. S. Kutzner. J. Y. W. McClellan and S R. Hebberling were appointed a committee to audit the books and accounts of the secretary and treasurer. Several important changes in the constitution were presented to the meeting but failed for want of a constitutional majority. The meeting adjourned to meet in Ensley Hall on Thursday Jan. 29, 1891.

CAL. HUSSELMAN.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure." —Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

"Hello! Tom. Glad to see you, old fellow! It's almost ten years since we were married. Sit down: let's have an experience meeting. How's the wife?"

"Oh! she's so-so, same as usual,—always wanting something I can't afford."

"Well, we all want something more than we've got. Don't you?"

"Yes: but I guess 'want will be my master.' I started to keep down expenses; and now Lil says I'm 'mean,' and she's tired of saving and never having anything to show for it. I saw your wife down street, and she looked as happy as a queen!"

"I think she is; and we are economical, too,—have to be. My wife can make a little go further than anyone I ever knew, yet she's always surprising me with some dainty contrivance that adds to the comfort and beauty of our little home, and she's always 'merry as a lark.' When I ask how she manages it, she always laughs and says: 'Oh! that's my secret!' But I think I've discovered her 'secret.' When we married, we both knew we should have to be very careful, but she made one condition: she would have her Magazine. And she was right! I wouldn't do without it myself for double the subscription price. We read it together, from the title-page to the last word: the stories keep our hearts young; the synopsis of important events and scientific matters keeps me posted so that I can talk understandingly of what is going on; my wife is always trying some new idea from the household department; she makes all her dresses and those for the children, and she gets all her patterns for nothing, with the Magazine; and we saved Joe when he was so sick with the croup, by doing just as directed in the Sanitarian Department. But I can't tell you half!"

"What wonderful Magazine is it?"

"Demorest's Family Magazine, and—"

"What! Why that's what Lil wanted so bad, and I told her it was an extravagance."

"Well, my friend, that's where you made a grand mistake, and one you'd better rectify as soon as you can. I'll take your 'sub.' right here, on my wife's account: she's bound to have a china tea-set in time for our tin wedding next month. My gold watch was the premium I got for getting up a club. Here's a copy, with the new Premium List for clubs,—the biggest thing out! If you don't see in it what you want, you've only to write to the publisher and tell him what you want, whether it is a tack-hammer or a new carriage, and he will make special terms for you, either for a club, or for part cash. Better subscribe right off and surprise Mrs. Tom. Only $2.00 a year—will save fifty times that in six months. Or send 10 cents direct to the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York, for a specimen copy containing the Premium List."

Plutocracy.

[Camp Fire Companion.]

The word placed as the head of this article is a terrible word. Of its significance and portent but few have any clear comprehensions, although countless millions have endured the woes that it has brought upon them. It is a peculiar kind or power of human government; and the reason why its name is to so great an extent unknown, and its workings so little understood is because its purposes are always hidden under false pretenses and its real character concealed under better names, to which it has no right.

If we search for the origin of this word, so peculiarly significant, we find that one of the celebrated myths of antiquity was a god whose name was Pluto, and that the most conspicuous elment of his greatness was unbounded wealth. He was recognized by all the deities and adored by all his votaries as the mighty god of the infernal regions. It would appear that a conjugal relation must have existed between this god and a goddess who wielded a golden scepter that gave her marvelous power for controlling the affairs of human government, which no other god or goddess had attained, and that plutocracy was an offspring from this alliance. In this, we clearly see the derivation of the word, and the thinking mind will find in it much forcible illustration of the generation and insidious growth of such a formidable money power as we now see, with ax uplifted, striking at the deepest roots of our tree of liberty.

If it were possible to record a tithe of all the woes that have been entailed on man, through the workings of this tremendous power, no history could be more appalling. And now a momentous problem that remains for the American people to solve and demonstrate is the question whether we, by our blind, selfish greed and astounding, short-sighted folly, shall add another awful chapter to that appalling history. If there are any who, as yet, see no danger nor any appearance of an enemy approaching, their vision must be badly defective.

As far as we can learn from authentic history, there never has been a nation or people that ever was blessed with an era of prosperity, upon whom that blighting curse did not eventually fall. Egypt, now scarcely more than another name for the lowest condition of moral darkness and degradation, was once the cradle of science and the arts; and through the industries of her people, guided by the light of their intelligence and learning, vast hoards of wealth were accumulated. But the rising tide of her prosperity reached a limit. It rose to fall again, but unlike the tides of ocean, it fell below the level from which it rose—it fell to rise no more.

Plutocracy had done its work. With purposes concealed under deceitful, friendly guise, its approach had been, like that of the venomous serpent, stealthy and gradual, until the vampires had possession of all that had been created by their industry and toil, and death by starvation was the fate to which multitudes were doomed. The light of science was extinguished, and the night of barbarian darkness which succeeded and which has reigned through all the long centuries to the present time, has been so dark and starless that the phrase, "dark as Egypt" has long been and is yet proverbial.

Patriots, friends of your country and your race, go back through the pages of history and trace the footsteps of plutocratic power from the days of Pharaoh down to our own day. If thoughtfully studied, the lesson may be worth more to you and your children and to generations yet unborn than all the gold that mother Earth has concealed in her capacious bosom.

A Lady at Portland, Ind.,

writes under date of Jan. 7, 1861 after using two weeks of POSITIVE PAINLESS PILE CURE: "S. U. Tarney, Dear sir: I am a most well. I shall take pleasure in telling others that are afflicted as I was.

Yours Truly,

MRS. NETTIE GEIGER.

3-5

Horses for Sale.

Eight good horses for sale at the Lockwood stables east of the public square. Call on Joe Pfefferl at the stables for information, terms, etc. tf

GOING TO MOVE!

WARM GOODS.

Felt Boots and Overs at $2.00 and upward,
Ladies' Felt Shoes at 75c and up,
Alaskas at 75c and up,
Arctics at $1.00 and up.

Headquarters

for Rubber and Leather Boots. Fine Shoes for Ladies and Gents, School Shoes, etc.

We move to Old Post Office stand Feb. 1st.

Call and see us.

J. N. WILSON & SON,

Auburn and Waterloo.

"Making glad, waist places"
EVERYBODY LIKES IT

FAIRBANK'S SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
Indispensable in every well regulated family for all Household and Laundry purposes.
Made only by N. K. FAIRBANK & CO. CHICAGO.

100 PAGES WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Peronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming Illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistable little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs Gen John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humperey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "Some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Seinte Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, BY E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three Sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

"WELL BRED SOON WED."
SAPOLIO
COPYRIGHT

Girls who use SAPOLIO are QUICKLY MARRIED.

SAPOLIO is one of the best known city luxuries and each time a cake is used an hour is saved. On floors, tables and painted work it acts like a charm. For scouring pots, pans and metals it has no equal. If your store-keeper does not keep it you should insist upon his doing so, as it always gives satisfaction and its immense sale all over the United States makes it an almost necessary article to any well supplied store. Everything shines after its use, and even the children delight in using it in their attempts to help around the house.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1891. NUMBER 5.

THIS NEW LIST

Comprises some of our very best bargains, and it will pay you well to examine it carefully. The most of the

FARMS

mentioned are

SACRIFICE BARGAINS

and MUST BE SOLD, and the

TOWN PROPERTIES

can be classed under the same head. Remember this when you get ready to buy property, we will show you our list to choose from and if you find anything in it that you would like to see we will take pleasure in showing it to you at no expense to you, whether you buy or not.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of a good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. This a splendid farm and is well adapted for two families.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, will sell on easy terms and long time. Installment plan if preferred.

No. 156. Eighty acre farm. 1½ miles from Jackson Center. 55 acres under cultivation. 25 acres timber. The whole farm thoroughly under-drained. Soil sandy loam. One-story frame dwelling, good cellar, barn 28x53, good wire and picket fences, good orchard of 55 bearing trees, 58 grapevines of different varieties, 6 varieties of cherries and plenty of small fruit Will sell for cash at a price fair to purchaser or will exchange for Small farm in this county or Western land.

No 157. Forty acres good land 4 miles north of Butler, Ind. 20 acres cleared, balance timber. Soil black sandy loam, good log house and barn, well and fences. Three-fourths mile from school. Price $1,000. ½ cash, balance long time.

Four vacant lots in south end of town. Will sell on the installment plan.

No 209 160 acres of fine farm land in Kingman county Kan. Will exchange for farm in DeKalb county and pay cash difference.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings, 2 good wells sugar camp fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared.

No. 251. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 47 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences.

No. 224. Large 2-story frame dwelling, on North Vanburen St. Elegant residence property, nearly an acre of ground.

No. 231. Seventy-five acres 2½ miles south of Spencerville, 65 acres under cultivation, balance good timber, good house, bank barn 36x50 feet, well, wind pump, orchard, and all fences in good repair. Price $3,500,

No. 259. Elegant residence property on South Jackson Street. Price $1,000.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, right handy by to factories, for sale on easy terms.

No. 307. 230 acres good farming land in Wilmington township. This farm is well adapted for stock raising. Will sell for small cash payment and long time, or will exchange for a smaller farm.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O,

No. 309. 78 acres of elegant farm land, every foot tillable and of the best quality of soil. Large two story brick dwelling house, cellar, well, cistern, splendid orchard of 100 trees, all bearing, fences in good repair. This is only a short distance from a railroad town in the St. Joe valley.

No 310. Fine residence property on West Third St.—2-story frame dwelling, 6 rooms, good cellar, wood house, well and cistern, fruit and shade trees.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. This property can be bought cheap.

No. 312. A 60-acre farm in Wilmington township, good frame dwelling, barn, all necessary out-buildings, well and cistern.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street There is plenty of fruit of almost all kinds, excellent walks around entire property and of the durable kind.

Vacant lots right handy by to factories in South Auburn, on long time and easy payments.

No. 315. Eighty acres splendid land in Jackson township, 2 story brick dwelling house, frame barn 32x64 feet orchard of 80 bearing apple trees and plenty of small fruit of different varieties, 65 acres cleared and under cultivation, balance timber.

No. 317. 40 acres good land within 5 miles of Auburn. Good frame dwelling and barn, 23 acres under cultivation, balance timber,

No. 321. 80 acres good all around farm land in Smithfield township. Good dwelling house, barn 34x44, good orchard of 70 bearing apple trees, grapes cherries and other small fruits, 10 acres good timber land, balance under cultivation and well under-drained.

No. 322. Two vacant lots in the original plat of Auburn.

No. 322 Elegant residence property on south Main St.

No. 324. 81 acres of land in Newville township. good five-room frame dwelling house, two good frame barns, splendid orchard, 50 acres under cultivation, balance timber land, no waste land, splendid sugar camp on this farm. This farm will be sold on long time and payments to suit purchaser.

No. 287. An elegant farm of 160 acres part broken ready for cropping, stone house on the place, in Graham Co., Kansas. Will trade for live stock, stock of merchandise or town property.

No. 326. Fifty-six acres of as fine land as there is in the county. Four miles from Butler and 8 miles from Auburn, in Wilmington township. Good frame dwelling, frame barn, 30x50, wagon shed, corn crib and granary, two good wells, cistern, splendid cellar, 100 apple trees and other fruits. Seven acres timber, balance under cultivation. Entire farm well under drained. Will be sold cheap.

Five vacant lots well located near factories in the south end of town, on easy terms with but a small cash payment down.

No. 327. A nice 40-acre tract in Keyser Tp., good frame house and barn, orchard of 76 trees, good fences, 8 acres good timber, balance farming land, only 2½ miles from Garrett, Ind.

No. 333 An elegant new flouring mill doing a good business and located in a good farming district and in large territory. This mill is for sale at a bargain. It is located near a good town in Northeastern Indiana.

No. 332. Eighty-six acres land in Fairfield township, sixty acres cleared. frame house and barn, cellar, well, cistern, good spring near center of the eighty, and running water through northeast part of farm. All kinds of fruit on the farm. This is a farm that it is worth your time to look at before you buy if you intend buying a farm.

No. 335. Brick house with 5 vacant lots in South Auburn. Long time and easy payments.

NO. 336 30 acres of as fine timber land as there is any in the county. Located within 2 miles of a railroad station. Here is a bargain for any one wanting to buy a small farm on which there is enough timber to pay for the land. The soil is a black sandy loam and will make a farm to be proud of.

No. 305. 160 acres land near live town in Nebraska, will sell or exchange for town or farm property in DeKalb county.

No. 337. 127 acres fine land in Allen county. Good buildings and fences, no waste land, 32 acres timber land, and 13 acres grass land, balance under cultivation. Small cash payment and balance on long time, or will exchange for town or farm property.

No. 338. 40 acres excellent land in Wilmington township. Log house and barn good apple orchard, well and fences, 34 acres under cultivation, balance timber. Will exchange for property in Auburn.

No. 340. Elegant residence property on North Jackson street. Fine frame buildings, well, cistern and fruits. Price $1,500.

No. 339. Fine residence property in Garrett, located near the business center of the town.

No. 341. 110 acres land in Richland township, frame dwelling 24x24, and barn 35x40 70 acres under plow, 30 acres timber and 10 acres grass land.

Vacant lots in the south part of town on long time and easy terms.

No. 342. 170 acres of fine land 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler and 4 miles north of St. Joe. Fine frame dwelling house—main 22x24, wings 14x28 and 14x31 feet; 11 rooms, cellar under whole house, wood house, 3 good barns, one 36x50, one 30x66 and one 22x28 feet; 2 good wells, windmill and elevated tank, 2 good orchards of from 125 to 150 bearing trees, 150 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

Two good farms of 160 acres each; one in Kansas and the other in Nebraska to exchange for land or town property in Northern Indiana.

Railroad and Steamship Tickets

Sold to any point North, South, East or West at lowest rates, and by the best routes. Call on or address,

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts.

Under Farmers Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

MOTHERS' FRIEND
SHORTENS LABOR
LESSENS PAIN
ATTENDING IT.
TO LIFE
DIMINISHES DANGER
OF
MOTHER AND CHILD.

WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

"Mothers' Friend," is worth its weight in gold. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other children than she did altogether with her last, after having used four bottles of "Mothers' Friend." It is a blessing to expectant mothers, says a customer. HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill

Having used two bottles my sixth child was born with no pain comparatively.

Mrs. L. O. Vaughan, Sheridan Lake, Col.

Wonderful—relieves much suffering.

Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by express on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Book to mothers mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

F. E. DAVENPORT,

Auburn, Ind.

Northern Pacific railroad claim odd sections in the Puyallup Indian reservation, Washington.

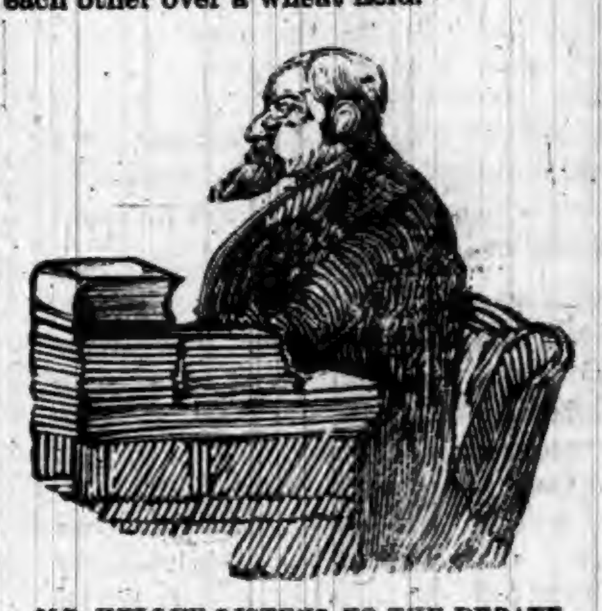
KELLEY HAS HIS SAY.

DeKalb County's Member is Enough For the Best of 'Em.

(From the Indianapolis Sun, Jan. 21.)

A short time after the last edition of the Sun went to press, Tuesday afternoon the most notable event of the present session of the legislature occurred. The Hon. Fog Horn Kelley made a speech.

The members were debating the bill to abolish the grand jury system. The proceedings had become wearisome. A small caliber statesman would hop up and in a spread-eagle-tone start out with the words: "I am proud to say that I represent a farming community. I am a humble member of the legal profession but I am not here to speak for the lawyers but for the farmers." Then he would wander on and on, turn loose a flood of words without at all helping his fearful drought of ideas, and taffy the farmer with the evident purpose that his dear constituents would read his speech and find out what great things he was doing up here for them. One could see that at heart he would much rather represent a constituency of bankers than farmers. One wisp of a statesman introduced an amendment and then shouted his love for the horny-handed farmer so long and loud that his voice suddenly gave out. Fog Horn Kelley sat patiently at his desk with now and then a look of disgust or pity passing over his face like shadows chasing each other over a wheat field.

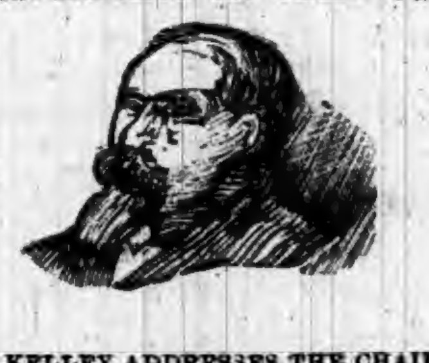


MR. KELLEY LISTENS TO THE DEBATE.

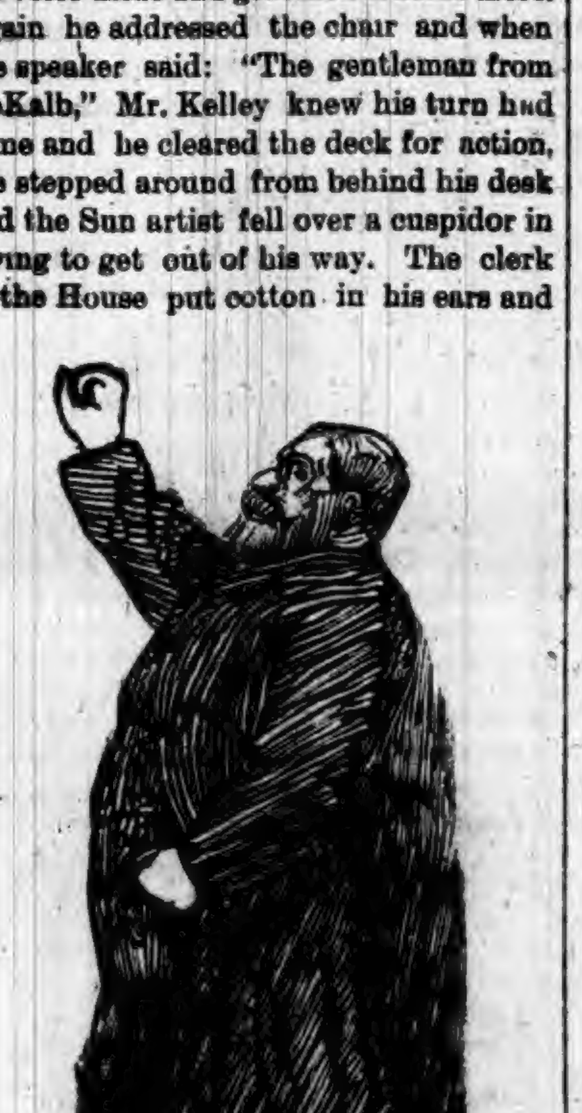
One statesman, after carefully announcing that he spoke for the dear farmer, made a weak speech, in which his breadth of mind and vast ability cropped out when he alluded to the fact that once, while he was justice of the peace, he had to summon a jury who were kept two days and his wife fed them and charged them 25 cents a meal.

At this juncture Mr. Kelley called one of the pages, with whom he is a favorite, and sent out and got a tumbler of water. He looked as if he had determind to pour it on the picayune, 25-cents-a-meal-statesmen and drown him; but he wanted the water for another purpose. He was grooming his voice.

McCullough, of Marion, made a sensible speech whose rounded periods and rich tone even Booth never surpassed and Representative Hench did not indulge in the too prevalent farmer talk buncomb that so many were emitting in a patronizing manner. Mr. Kelley is a farmer himself and he took all that gush about the agricultural classes for what it was worth. Suddenly he sprang to his feet and addressed the chair. Gabriel will have to be in good voice to even make himself more generally heard by the community at large than Mr. Kelley was. The speaker dodged and recognized somebody else. But Mr. Kelley didn't walk to California in the 50's and fail to learn the value of perseverance. He went up to the throne, saw the speaker and arranged to be recognized. Then he took his voice aside and groomed it some more. Again he addressed the chair and when the speaker said: "The gentleman from DeKalb," Mr. Kelley knew his turn had come and he cleared the deck for action. He stepped around from behind his desk and the Sun artist fell over a cuspidor in trying to get out of his way. The clerk of the House put cotton in his ears and everybody awoke to lively interest. Mr. Kelley is a large man and throws his head well back when he talks. He threw it back at such an angle as to shy a sentence up into the gallery now and then. There wasn't a waste word or a bit of buncomb in his whole effort. It rang now and then with wit and the gleam of satire was occasionally apparent like the glitter of a surgeon's scalpel. Oh, how he did lambast the lawyers! Even the lawyers who had been prating about the dear farmer didn't escape.



MR. KELLEY ADDRESSES THE CHAIR.



MR. KELLEY WARMS TO HIS WORK.

Said he: "I represent the only class that doesn't have to prove a good character, namely, the working class. Lawyers and liquor dealers have to prove good character. I am not here to represent them.

Lawyer McCullough here interjected a remark about school teachers, and Mr. Kelley responded with ready repartee and went on. He corrected Judge Hench on a matter of history, made his points with order and directness, dropped into the realm of simile long enough to liken an obnoxious theory to the beast with seven heads and ten horns, and with one exception used good language. A slip of the tongue made him say "substantuate." Then when he had made his argument he did what only one or two other speakers of the day had known enough to do. He stopped because he was done. He sat down. There was a hush for the moment and you could hear the echoes of his voice coming back from DeKalb county. The next speech after Mr. Kelley's able effort sounded like an embarrassed phonograph talking in a confidential tone to a small circle of friends.

Freeman Kelley, to whom the Sun first gave the name of "Fog Horn" Kelley, is a sterling man and very popular, especially among his own people. He was elected to congress twice, his friends claim, but to a Sun reporter he remarked that he was Tildenized out of the office.

It would be an event in our nation's history to hear Mr. Kelley's voice roaming about the national capitol, arousing the supreme judges from their lethargy and then climbing up into the dome to take a view of the surrounding country.

Save Your Hair

BY a timely use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation has no equal as a dressing. It keeps the scalp clean, cool, and healthy, and preserves the color, fullness, and beauty of the hair.

"I was rapidly becoming bald and gray; but after using two or three bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair grew thick and glossy and the original color was restored."—Melvin Aldrich, Canaan Centre, N. H.

"Some time ago I lost all my hair in consequence of measles. After due waiting, no new growth appeared. I then used Ayer's Hair Vigor and my hair grew

Thick and Strong.

It has apparently come to stay. The Vigor is evidently a great aid to nature."—J. B. Williams, Floresville, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past four or five years and find it a most satisfactory dressing for the hair. It is all I could desire, being harmless, causing the hair to retain its natural color, and requiring but a small quantity to render the hair easy to arrange."—Mrs. M. A. Bailey, 9 Charles street, Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for several years, and believe that it has caused my hair to retain its natural color."—Mrs. H. J. King, Dealer in Dry Goods, &c., Bishopville, Md.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by Druggists and Perfumers.

Veterinary Surgeon.

Dr. James Adams, Veterinary Surgeon will treat all diseases of domestic animals. He has had thirty years successful practice. Call on him at his residence No. 34 on North Main street, or at the drug store of Robbins & McCord. tf

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Joseph Ax, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

her
MARGARET A. X AX, Administrix.
mark

W. H. LEAS, Att'y for Estate.

January 21, 1891.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,

New York and Chicago.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

There are now 611 colored men in the government employ, distributed in part as follows: Interior department, 159; war department, 141; public printing office, 125.

A Safe Investment.

Is one which is guaranteed to bring you satisfactory results, or in case of failure a return of purchase price. On this safe plan you can buy from our advertised Druggist a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It is guaranteed to bring relief in every case, when used for any affection of throat, lungs or chest, such as consumption, inflammation of lungs, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, croup, etc. It is pleasant and agreeable to taste, perfectly safe, and can always be depended upon. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's. 1

Several window glass factories in different parts of the country have shut down on account of an overstocked market.

MERIT WINS. We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.

Robbins & McCord, Druggists. 1

If Koch's lymph can cure the consumption of consonants in spelling phthisis its victory will be complete.

Bradfield's Female Regulator

Should be used by the young woman, she who suffers from any disorder peculiar to her sex, and at change of life is a powerful tonic; benefits all who use it. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta. Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

The so-called silver senators (all republicans) are giving the stalwart republicans of the U. S. senate a great deal of trouble.

A Lady in South Carolina Writes:

My labor was shorter and less painful than on two former occasions; physicians astonished; I thank you for "Mother's Friend." It is worth its weight in gold. Address the Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

Four democratic state senators of Ohio have died since the election in 1889 The mortality has been wholly among the democrats.

Next Saturday Night

After six o'clock, or any day or night this week, you can buy at F. E. Davenport's a bottle of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup for your cough. This medicine is guaranteed to cure any cough or cold and all lung or throat troubles. For bronchial diseases it has no superior and many cases of bronchitis have been entirely cured by its use. Do not hesitate to try this great, meritorious remedy and be convinced of its curative powers. You can buy this medicine for 25c to give it a trial, of F. F. Davenport.

The following states will hold elections next fall: Ohio, Iowa, Massachusetts and New York will elect governors and other state officers. All of the states named now have democratic governors

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

Pretty nearly all the girls are anxious and ready to make a name for themselves, even though they find it necessary to change theirs to do so.

The Secret of Success.

Davenport the druggist, believes that the secret of success is perseverance. Therefore he persists in keeping the finest line of perfumeries, toilet articles, cosmetics, drugs and chemicals on the market. He especially invites all persons who have palpitation, short breath, weak or hungry spells, pain in side and shoulder, oppression, nightmare, dry cough, smothering, dropsy or heart disease to try Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, before it is too late. It has the largest sale of any similar remedy. Fine book of testimonials free. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is unsurpassed for sleeplessness, headache, fits, etc., and it contains no opiates. 2

If a man serves him faithfully six days in a week the devil doesn't care much whether he goes to church on Sunday or not.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

You can not buy your goodness as you do your ready-made clothing. Character must be homespun and hand-woven.

A Husband's Mistake.

Husbands too often permit wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co., of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hillsdale, Mich.; and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottles and fine book on nervous diseases, free at F. E. Davenport's. 2

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 23, 1891.

Senator Gorman is proving himself more than a match for the republican senators, and he is still confident that with the active and determined support of democratic senators and the moral support of the conservative masses of the country, the Force bill and its revolutionary forerunner, the gag-rule, can be defeated. He fairly and squarely outgeneraled the republicans when they attempted to wear out the democrats by a continuous night and day session of the Senate, and now he is winning new parliamentary laurels by the manner in which he is blocking the republican attempt to force a vote upon Senator Aldrich's gag-rule resolution. He compelled Mr. Morton to acknowledge that he had made an erroneous ruling. The republicans have but one hope of succeeding and that lies in Vice-President Morton making an arbitrary decision in their favor, and the probabilities are rather in favor of his doing so, although it will be because of the great pressure brought to bear upon him and not because he wants to do it.

Even if the Senate adopts the gag-rule resolution and passes the Force bill, there will still be grounds upon which to base hope for its defeat. The amendments made to the bill in the Senate will make its return to the House necessary, and there the democrats can renew the fight; which the nearness of the 4th of March and the end of the session, may make successful. At any rate the republicans in the House will have to have a quorum of their own members in order to pass it, and that is more than they have had for three successive days during the session. Czar Reed as he nears the end of his powers shows a disposition to resume some of his tricks of the last session. By the denial of a request that was right and fair, he, this week, provoked Mr. Mills into an exhibition of temper that is very much regretted by that gentleman's friends; not on Reed's account, he deserved all that Mr. Mills said of him, but on account of the effect that it may have upon the candidacy of Mr. Mills for the Speakership of the next House. "You are perpetrating a fraud upon the House," shouted Mr. Mills, advancing down the aisle, and shaking his fist at the Speaker, "and you know it." Mr. Mills then intimated in language not to be mistaken that the Speaker was not an honorable gentlemen. A minute or two later Representative Kerr, of Iowa, had the bad taste to call Mr. Mills a "traitor." "You are a traitor yourself," retorted Mr. Mills, "to the constitution and the laws. You are trying to surround the ballot box with bayonets and to deprive the people of their right of representation." This was followed by a scene hard to describe. The democrats cheered Mr. Mills loudly and the republicans hissed. Representative Perkins of Kansas said "put the dirty loafer (Mills) out," and in a moment he found the big fist of Representative Martin, of Indiana, in close proximity to his nose and was informed that if there was any "putting out" he (Martin) proposed taking a hand in it. That was the last heard of Perkins. In the mean time the Sergeant-at-Arms trotted out with the gold headed mace, the emblem of authority in the House and quiet was restored.

The Dockery resolution providing for an investigation of the congressional silver pools is bearing fruit. Senator Vest has testified that Senator Cameron told him that he had made some money speculating in silver bullion, and Senator Cameron has acknowledged it, claiming that he had as much right to speculate in silver as in corn, wheat or any other product. How is that for cool audacity? The chairman of the committee, Representative Dingley, of Maine, is accused of having adjourned the committee from last week until Wednesday of this week in order to prevent Senator Vest from testifying until after the Pennsylvania legislature had re-elected Cameron to the Senate, although Mr. Vest had stated his willingness to testify. It is believed here that Cameron would have been defeated had his connection with the silver speculation been made public before his re-election. There are other big republicans who will be exposed if the committee does its duty without fear or favor.

The latest scheme of Reed and his henchmen in the House to force the silver republican senators to vote for the Force bill is outlined in the announcement that the House committee on coinage, before which the free coinage bill now is, will not report that measure to the House until the Senate passes the Force bill. It remains to be seen how the silver republicans in the House will take this. They will be given an opportunity of voting with the democrats to discharge the committee and take the bill up in the House. Representative Bland has already offered a substitute for a resolution to be reported from the committee on rules to limit the debate on the appropriation bills, making the free coinage bill a continual order from and after January 27.

Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Ft. Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company, for election of Directors, and such other business as may be brought before it, will be held on the 5th day of February, 1891, at 10 a. m., at the office of the Company, at Jackson, Michigan. The Transfer Books will close on January 17, and remain closed until Feb. 5.

R. G. ROLSTON, Sec'y.

"VANISHING SURPLUS."

CARLISLE ARRAIGNS REPUBLICAN EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Enormous Rate at Which Public Expenditures Have Increased—An Enormous Deficit in the Near Future—Extravagance Caused by High Tariff Taxation.

Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, contributes to the February number of the Forum an able article, entitled "The Vanishing Surplus." The facts and figures set forth in this article deserve the careful attention of the people, as indicating the unparalleled recklessness in expenditures to which our extravagant tariff taxation leads.

Senator Carlisle combats this extravagance in taxation and in expenditure by laying down the broad principle that, "All other things being equal, that is the best government which exacts the least tribute from its citizens or subjects." He further says: "One of the principal objects of all good government is to promote the material welfare of its people by protecting them in the honest accumulation and peaceable enjoyment of property, and this cannot be fully accomplished by any government which takes from them, in the form of taxation or otherwise, more than is necessary to discharge its just obligations and to defray the expense of an economical administration of public affairs. The public peace may be preserved, the rights of persons may be scrupulously respected, and ample remedies may be afforded for all injuries inflicted upon the citizen by private individuals; but all this will not make the people prosperous, or permit them to be so, if the Government itself robs one part of them for the purpose of distributing the spoils to another part. Generosity is a commendable virtue, but justice is a greater one. It is the confirmed and incurable habit of the party now in power to dispose of the public money in a wasteful and extravagant manner, and there is no reason to suppose that it will cease to pursue this course until the treasury is exhausted. What was two years ago the richest public treasury in the world will be substantially bankrupt long before the term of the present administration shall expire, and then, perhaps, even the executive officers of the Government, who now delight in creating deficiencies to be supplied by additional appropriations, will be willing to assist in devising some plan by which expenditures can be curtailed."

The present high carnival of extravagant tariff taxation and still more extravagant expenditures leads to results, as pointed out by Mr. Carlisle, which are most amazing. He shows that while our population is now about sixteen times as great as in 1790, the expenditures of the Government, not counting payments upon the interest and principal of the public debt, are more than 130 times as great. The figures are as follows, excluding payments on the debt:

	Population.	Expenditures.
1790	3,929,214	$ 1,919,592
1890	62,480,540	261,637,203

In 1810 the ordinary expenditures were equal to only 73 cents per capita of the population. "In 1890, eighty years afterward, the population was less than nine times as great as it was then, but the ordinary expenditures were more then forty-eight times as great, and amounted to $4.19 per capita. From 1830 to 1840, including the period of the Seminole war, the population increased 32.67 per cent. and the expenditures increased 80 per cent.; from 1840 to 1850, during which time the Mexican war was commenced and prosecuted to a successful termination, the population increased 35.87 per cent. and the expenditures increased 53 per cent., but from 1880 to 1890, a period of profound peace, population increased 24.57 per cent. and expenditures increased 55 per cent. The ordinary expenditures of the current fiscal year, 1891, will be at least 12 per cent. greater than in 1890, although population, as shown by the recent census, is increasing at the rate of less than 2½ per cent. per annum."

How expenditures have increased under the Republican protectionist administrations of the past thirty years may be seen from the following figures, which again do not include public-debt payments:

	Expenditures per capita.
1860	$1.90
1880	3.77
1890	4.19

One of the most striking things in Mr. Carlisle's discussion is the prediction that, if the ordinary requirements of the sinking fund are complied with, there will be a deficit of $84,044,387 on July 1, 1892, or a deficit of $34,819,459 if nothing whatever is to be paid on that account.

Our protectionist law-makers, in their eager haste to lay tariff burdens upon the people and at the same time to make the expenses of the government so great as to demand higher and higher protective tariffs, have evidently overshot the mark. Their big deficit will be heard from in 1892.

Protected Fruit-Growers.

A California protectionist paper, in reviewing the trade and production of that State for 1890, says:

"The fruit crop of the past year is the largest ever known. The shipments of green fruit amounted to 105,000,000 pounds; dried fruits, 36,318,000 pounds; oranges, 3,187 carloads; raisins, 40,000,000 pounds; fruits, 84,250,000 pounds."

Yet it was in that same prosperous year 1890 that the California fruit-growers "talked poor" before a protection Congress, and got higher duties imposed on foreign fruits of all kinds. Now that they have got their higher duties, it is safe to crow over their prosperity.

There is abundant evidence that the California fruit-growers are among the most prosperous of all our people, and that their cry for protection was one of the most insincere of all the insincere prayers that went up to the great McKinley. The Rural Californian, a journal devoted to the fruit-growing interests of California, recently asked the question, "How to Get Rich?" and answered it by saying, "Buy a fruit ranch, or, better still, buy land and plant it yourself."

Here is how the Rural Californian further proceeds to "boom" the fruit-growing section of the State:

"The question is often asked of the Californian, sojourning in the Eastern States by every four out of six people he meets who have a desire to locate here, 'What can I do in your glorious country to make a living?' The question can be readily answered, 'What can I not do to make a living?' Though of course there are many avenues open to capital and to the man of brain and brawn, the backbone of the country is horticulture. This, more than all other industries combined, has made many people with no capital at all well to do in a comparatively short time. Nor is horticulture confined to growing a few varieties of fruits, but embraces pretty much the fruits of the temperate and semi-tropic zones, all of which are produced with the same unvarying success in all portions of Southern California, some localities being, of course, better adapted to particular kinds." The same paper claims, further, that land for orange groves is now selling at even higher prices than during the "boom period."

California raisin makers are exporting large quantities of their product to Australia, and have begun to make shipments to England also. But all the same they must have high duties to protect the home market and hold it for themselves. Some time ago a correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle said in that paper: "Contracts for figs for next month run from $50 to $80 a ton, and raisins in the sweat-box are easily contracted for at $120 a ton. In consequence of this boom in fruits it is thought there will be fully 12,000 acres of deciduous and citrous fruit orchards planted in Southern California before next May."

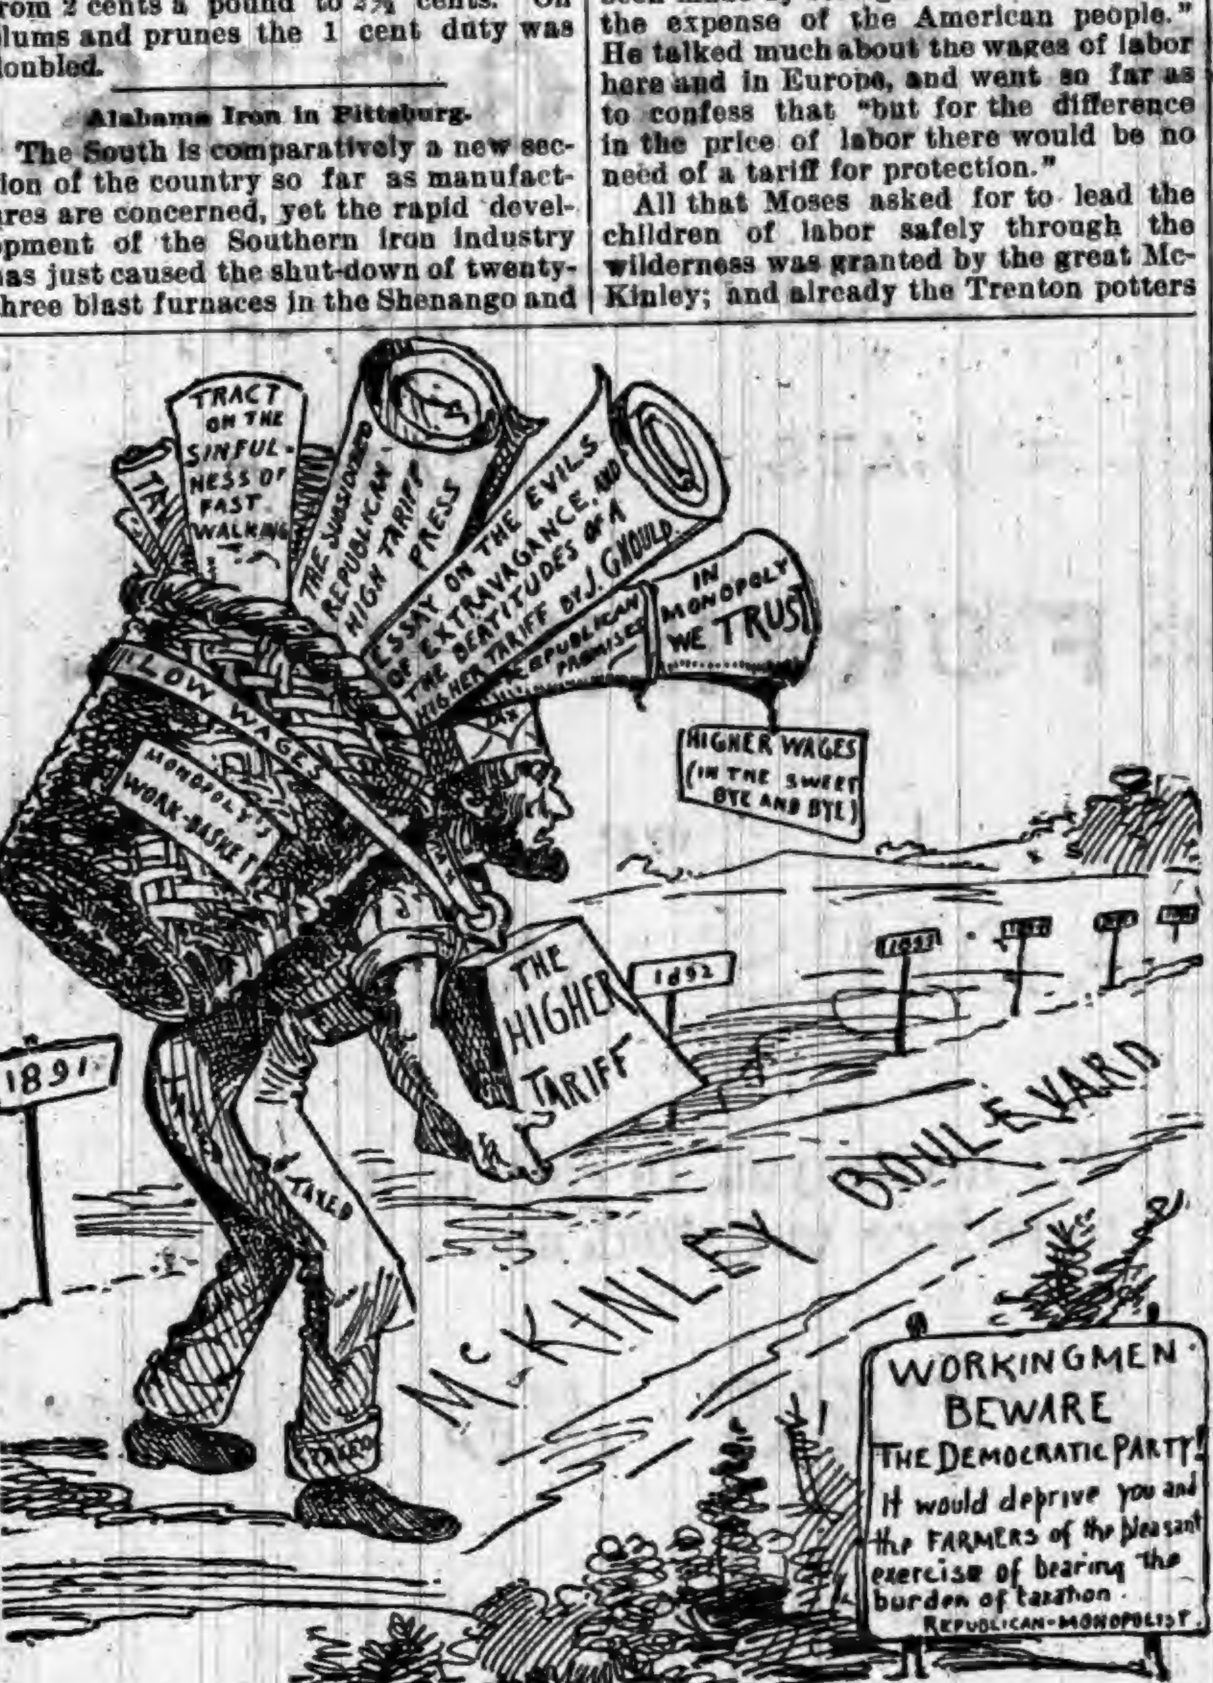
Yet with this very prosperous showing of the California fruit industry, the growers represented to Maj. McKinley last spring that they needed higher protection on all kinds of fruit. McKinley obediently gave them the duties asked for. The duty on oranges was about doubled, but the Senate restored the old rate. McKinley, however, succeeded in putting a duty of 30 per cent. on the boxes or barrels containing the oranges. The duty on raisins and figs was raised from 2 cents a pound to 2½ cents. On plums and prunes the 1 cent duty was doubled.

Alabama Iron in Pittsburg.

The South is comparatively a new section of the country so far as manufactures are concerned, yet the rapid development of the Southern iron industry has just caused the shut-down of twenty-three blast furnaces in the Shenango and Mahoning Valleys of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

How does this happen if it be true that "infant industries" in a new country cannot spring up and flourish without protection? These Southern furnaces started without any "protection" against those of the North, yet the Southern pig iron is hauled by rail 800 miles to Pittsburg, and shuts down furnaces in Pennsylvania and Ohio only sixty-four miles from that city. The Southern iron pays a freight of $4.10 a ton from Birmingham, Ala., to Pittsburg, while the furnaces shut down by it had to pay only 80 cents a ton.

How is this for protection's "infant industry" argument?



TRACT ON THE SINFULNESS OF FAST WALKING
THE SUBSIDIZED REPUBLICAN HIGH TARIFF PRESS
ESSAY ON THE EVILS OF EXTRAVAGANCE, AND THE BEATITUDES OF A HIGHER TARIFF BY J. GHOULD REPUBLICAN PROMISES IN MONOPOLY WE TRUST
LOW WAGES
MONOPOLY'S WORK-BASKET
HIGHER WAGES (IN THE SWEET BYE AND BYE)
THE HIGHER TARIFF
TAXED
1891
1892
McKINLEY BOULEVARD
WORKINGMEN BEWARE THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY! It would deprive you and the FARMERS of the pleasant exercise of bearing the burden of taxation. REPUBLICAN-MONOPOLIST.

The Republican Press would have the workingman believe that he should do this for his health.—Chicago Herald.

HANDS OF THE POTTER.

LOWER WAGES AND A STRIKE AT TRENTON, N. J.

A High Tariff Journal Prints Some Interesting News—The Highly Protected Manufacturers of Pottery Cut Wages One-third and Their Men Strike—This Is a Twice-Told Tale.

The protectionist newspapers and trade journals are printing a great deal of news now that will be of interest in future discussions of the McKinley tariff law. Here, for example, are two items which have recently appeared in the Boston Commercial Bulletin:

"The pottery manufacturers of Trenton, N. J., have submitted a schedule of wages to the sanitary ware pressers which means a reduction of about 33⅓ per cent."

"Nearly 400 potters are on strike in Trenton, N. J., because of the decision to reject the reduction of wages proposed by the manufacturers. The men were willing to continue work at the old scale pending further investigation, but the bosses insisted that the new list was to go into effect, and the men quit work."

These two items are taken from the same column in the high tariff organ; and on the same page is an editorial defending the McKinley tariff law.

The McKinleyites gave the pottery men higher protection than they ever had before, in order, of course, to "protect American labor," yet already this same American labor has its wages cut down one-third and goes out on a strike.

It is a significant fact that the tariff law of 1883 was followed by the same result, though not in so brief a time. This fact was admitted before the McKinley committee by Mr. John Moses, a large manufacturer, of Trenton, N. J., as the following extract from his testimony will show:

Mr. Carlisle—In answer to a question by Governor Gear, you said that if the Mills bill had passed, in your opinion you would have been compelled either to close up your establishment or to reduce wages. Is it not a fact that shortly after the passage of the act of 1883, which increased the duties, you reduced wages at Trenton?

Mr. Moses—No, sir.

Mr. Carlisle—They have never been reduced since 1883?

Mr. Moses—In 1885 there was a reduction submitted to by the men themselves, owing to the reduction made in the price of goods. From 1879 to 1885 there was no reduction of any kind, although the price of goods had been gradually going down. In 1885, about the 1st of January, we called our men together and held a consultation, and we showed that there was a necessity for a reduction of wages.

Mr. Carlisle—That was less than two years after the act of 1883 took effect. In about two years after that you found you were not able to pay the same wages as you did before that act was passed.

Mr. Moses—Yes, sir, that is true, because the foreign goods of all classes were thrown into our market. Prices of goods fell in the foreign market.

This Mr. Moses simply wrote out the duties which he wanted and handed in the list to McKinley, and that list appears in the tariff law to-day with no change, except in the direction of making the language stronger and more comprehensive. The duties themselves, which Moses asked for, were about the same as under the old law; but there was a more important form of protection that he wanted. He asked that the duties on foreign earthenware and pottery should be assessed on the cost of packing, on the freights in Europe and at sea, etc. As these charges were under the old law deducted before calculating the duty, Moses claimed that the importers were saving the duties on from 15 to 60 per cent. of their goods.

The good McKinley held up the hands of Moses and gave him everything asked for. Not only did the tariff bill include the earthenware duties as written down by the hand of Moses, but the administrative customs law, which went into effect August 1, 1890, assesses the duties on packages, freights, etc., and no allowance is made in it for goods broken or damaged in shipment.

Moses had a gloomy tale to tell about the pottery business. "The domestic potteries," he said, "have been kept in operation with the hope that the wisdom of our members of Congress would lead them to give us the protection which we so much need to maintain our ground against the colossal fortunes which have been made by foreign manufacturers at the expense of the American people." He talked much about the wages of labor here and in Europe, and went so far as to confess that "but for the difference in the price of labor there would be no need of a tariff for protection."

All that Moses asked for to lead the children of labor safely through the wilderness was granted by the great McKinley; and already the Trenton potters are on a strike because of a reduction of their wages by one-third.

Two Views of Free Wool.

The high tariff manufacturers' club of Philadelphia issues a journal which is called The Manufacturer, the chief end and aim of which is, of course, to defend McKinleyism and to attack all opponents of that monstrosity as enemies of American labor and industry.

The latest number of this Manufacturer criticises Mr. Cleveland once more for having advocated free wool in his famous tariff message. "Mr. Cleveland's free trade message in 1887," it says, "was devoted chiefly to an attack upon one of the greatest agricultural industries of the country. He demanded the removal of the duty on wool, and wool is grown in all but two or three score counties in the United States."

That statement makes it appear that Mr. Cleveland did a very wicked thing in recommending free wool; but on the opposite page of The Manufacturer is another statement which makes Mr. Cleveland's "free trade message" appear to have recommended the very thing that the wool-growers need. This statement is that "wool, under enlarged duties, goes down in price." In the previous number of The Manufacturer the same assertion is made in even stronger language, as follows: "The oppressive nature of the tax on raw wool might be demonstrated by the fact that low wool prices have always followed the imposition of high wool duties."

What a pretty piece of consistency! High wool duties make low wool prices, which is, of course, true; and yet the man who thinks the wool tax ought to be wiped out altogether, and says so, is criticised as making "an attack upon one of the greatest agricultural industries of the country." According to your own statement it is rather the McKinley law which makes that attack.

But free wool is coming "for a' that, and twice as mickle's a' that." Delano and Lawrence, and other political wool-growers of Ohio, have recently met and denounced the expressed desire of the manufacturers for free wool as "unjust, unfriendly, and in violation of the agreement made between the manufacturers and producers prior to the passage of the McKinley bill," and they also resolved that "the reduction of duties on wool will secure a reduction of the duties on the manufactures of wool, and any effort to secure such a reduction will be met by a united effort on the part of the wool-growers. Delano made a speech in which he "wanted to inform the manufacturers that when the wool-growers go down the manufacturers' monopoly will go down with them."

To all this vaporing the New York Dry Goods Economist, a prominent trade journal, which advocates protection of a milder type, replies as follows:

"Mrs. Partington sweeping back the Atlantic with a broom was a serious and awe-inspiring picture in comparison with this one. Venerable fossils, go to! Free wool is coming as irresistibly as that rising tide which turned that other dear old lady end for end upon the pebbly beach. Put up your bogies and cease rattling your sheet-iron thunder. You are an anachronism, a back number, a nuisance. Good-by!"

Killed by the Watch Trust.

We have a watch trust which is protected by a duty of 25 per cent. ad valorem. The Dueber Watch-Case Company, which was independent of the trust, has recently failed, and a representative of the company attributes the failure to the hostility of the trust. He says:

"We had been fighting the trust for three years, since Nov. 11, 1887, which was the date of our expulsion, and had to weaken at last. The plant at Canton, Ohio, cost $750,000, and the war with the trust came on just about the time the new factory was opened. It took away all our customers at one blow."

There is a duty of 75 cents a ton on coal. The present price of anthracite coal in the Schuylkill (Pa.) region is now $2.35 a ton, making the duty now equivalent to about 32 per cent. ad valorem. The miners' wages have been lowered 5 per cent. But, of course, the tariff will make the wages go up again—some day.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Choice Selection of Interesting Items.

The "bachelor" girl is now the term applied to the young woman who leaves the paternal home and strikes out for herself.

Some New Yorkers in good standing outside of the 400 believe that Ward McAllister is a myth created by a clever Bohemian. In this case fact is stranger than fiction.

A drove of hogs in Hudson, Mich., became intoxicated by drinking the scum from a sorghum factory, and in the orgies which followed one hog was drowned by the gay debauches.

Roller-skating is to be introduced into fashionable Boston society. The Hub evidently feels the need of relaxation after the severe mental strain consequent upon the Browning and Tolstoi fads.

In the last nine Presidential elections New York went Republican six times and Democratic three times. In the same elections Indiana went Republican six times and Democratic three times.

The American Agriculturist says that seven out of ten barns "burned by tramps" are actually set on fire by the pipe of the farmer himself. He knows the danger of working in the barn with a pipe in his mouth, but he risks it.

Eight hundred salesgirls in Berlin belong to a union which has had remarkable success. For ten cents a month they receive medical care, medicine, and help in getting work. The organization was started by a woman's club in that city.

A Kansas man sunk a shaft on his farm the other day, and in going down 100 feet it is said struck two five-foot veins of mineral paint, a ten-foot stratum of brick clay, a twenty-inch vein of coal, and a five-foot stratum of marble.

Uncle Sam is pretty liberal minded in regard to names of towns and post-offices, but when the State of Washington hobbed up with: "Caughtajackassrabbitthere" it was decided that the name had better be changed to plain "Hopeville."

Ismail Pasha, the ex-Khedive, whose extravagance ruined Egypt and necessitated his recall, has now applied to the Sultan for $50,000 to enable him to buy furniture for his palace at Stamboul. There is nothing close about Ismail as long as his friends settle the bills.

Dr. Helen L. Betts, of Boston, is the first woman physician chosen to visit the laboratory of Prof. Koch, of Berlin, for the purpose of investigating his discovery. She has been delegated by the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, of which she is a graduate.

The English dinner hour has been getting later during the whole of the present century. When the Queen married it was 7 o'clock. She now dines at 9. The Prince of Wales' effort to turn it back to 7:30 is supplemented by an appeal for dancing to begin at 9, and finish at 1.

Before the railroads and street cars were in use in India there were seven different castes in cities like Bombay which could not ride in the same vehicle with each other. This has all been knocked in the head, and the only struggle between them is to get the best seat.

The Detroit Press says: "If a boy fifteen years of age should be left ten acres of land in Michigan, and his guardian should cover it with hickory trees, the income of the boy when he came to be thirty years old would be from $9,000 to $11,000 clean cash off his little farm."

It appears from the souvenirs of the Baron de Barante which are about to be published, that Talleyrand fled to America menanced by the reign of terror, his worldly wealth consisting of 25 louis d'ors, and that Mme. de Stael prevented him from committing suicide by obtaining for him a post.

A negress named Caroline Jenkins, living near Houston, Texas, is a veritable Samson. Four police officers went to arrest her, when she took them one by one and threw them out of the house and locked the doors upon them. She can break a half-inch rope with ease by stretching it from hand to hand.

The people of Japan are not insensible to the requirements of station in life. A native paper proves it in this news-item: A nun (Buddhist) at Sin-hui, having had the misfortune to be afflicted with twins, the neighbors compelled her to expend a small fortune in firecrackers to clear the atmosphere of the scandal.

It has been estimated that the volume of water poured into the Rio de la Plata exceeds the aggregate discharge of all the rivers of Europe put together. Its ordinary flow at some points is 100,000 cubic feet per second. The ordinary volume of water in the Uruguay River averages 11,000,000 cubic feet per minute.

A rich man in St. Petersburg died, leaving an order that his sealed will should be opened twelve months after his death. When opened it contained another sealed packet, with instructions that it must not be opened for a year. The will had seven seals, the last one of which has only been broken although the testator died six years ago.

Maj. Gen. Molina Guirola, the recently appointed Minister of Salvador to the United States, is a man of distinguished appearance, was educated in the Salvadorian military academy, and has fought in the battles of the republic for twenty years. His present appointment was conferred by President Ezeta in recognition of his services during the recent war with Guatemala, when he acted as general minister, holding for a time all the cabinet portfolios. In 1867, while fighting against Guatemala, he lost a leg. Gen. Guirola intends to bring his family to this country soon and have his family educated here.

Dr. Carl Eigenmann has been collecting fish in San Diego for some years. In making up a collection recently for the British Museum he found a new specimen of herring that has pocket membranes for slipping in the dorsal pectoral and ventral fins. The scales are large, the eyes have a glassy covering and most of the head is transparent.

Milk given warm in the morning is an excellent invigorator for laying hens. It may also be given at any time, and the skim-milk will answer as well. All the soft food of laying hens can be mixed with milk in preference to water, and with advantage, as milk is a nitrogenous substance, and assists in providing the elements that compose the white of eggs.

Girls do have some advantages, anyway! Of 500,000 girl babies born in Massachusetts 364,222 reach the budding age of fifteen. Of the same number of boys only 350,430 reach that age. In the happy land of New Jersey, where there are fewer factories and more peaches and sweet potatoes, both babies have a better chance and the figures stand 368,311 and 378,293.

Hidden away in the New England conservatory, according to a story told in Boston, is a rising star from the South—Miss Will Allen Dromgoole, a feminine little Tennessean, who never meant to mystify Boston and New York editors by masquerading as a man. After she had written about sixty stories, including a serial for the Youth's Companion, Mr. Hezekiah Butterworth invited her to come East and make him a visit, thinking her a mature bachelor like himself. She knew this editor of the Youth's Companion was a man, but inferring that he was domiciled with a wife, accepted the invitation. After sending up her card at the office of the Youth's Companion a mutual enlightment ensued, which has caused considerable diversion in literary circles.

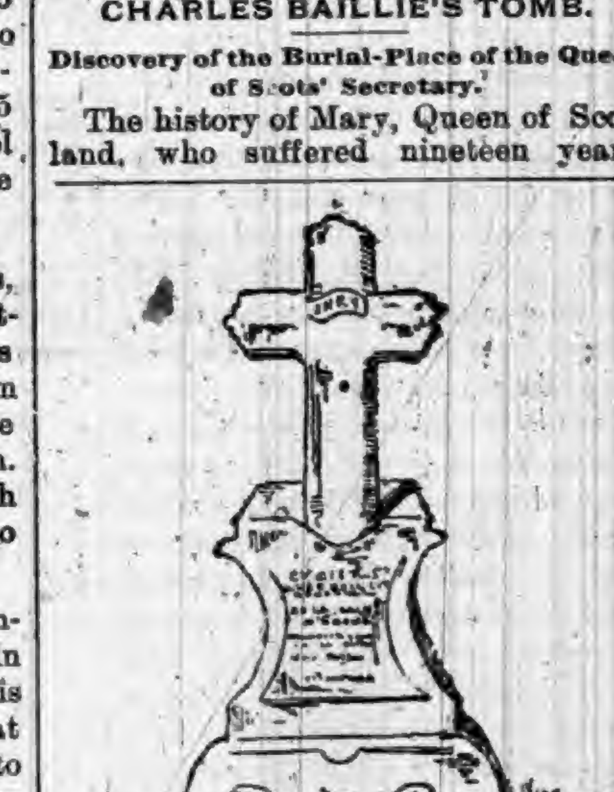
The modern ocean steamer is an enormous craft. Those of the larger size have as many as fifty-four furnaces, which create steam in nine enormous steam boilers. There are six furnaces to each boiler, and ten firemen to each furnace—or sixty firemen in all. Only half of them are on duty at once—thirty at a time—the shifts changing every four hours. They feed the furnaces with fifteen tons of coal an hour—two tons for each fireman during his four-hours' shift, or 340 tons a day for the steamer. The work of a fireman is hard, and not relieved by a sight of sea, sky or land. He is a sort of prisoner in a heated dungeon. The pay of a fireman is $20 a month. His life—between heat, exposure and riotous dissipation when ashore—is short. The maximum age of the class is 45 years.

The unseemly wrangles that have marked the preliminary efforts to organize the Columbian Exposition—announced to be held in 1893 instead of 1892, as should have been the case—will certainly work against the interests of the fair and may result in something very near a national disgrace. We, on this side of the water, understand how largely the rival interests of Chicago people are responsible for the squabble, but it will not be easy to convey to the mind of the foreigner an appreciation of this fact. Unless he has made a study of the political system in this country, he will hold the United States at large responsible for the acts of the State of Illinois and the city of Chicago. In fact, he will be to a degree justified in doing this, for the reason that the Congress of the United States designated Chicago as the place for the holding of the fair.

CHARLES BAILLIE'S TOMB.

Discovery of the Burial-Place of the Queen of Scots' Secretary.

The history of Mary, Queen of Scotland, who suffered nineteen years' captivity as an enemy of Queen Elizabeth, and was finally beheaded at Fotheringay Castle in 1587, has long been a theme of romantic declamation and discussion. One of her confidential servants and secretary, who escaped to Flanders, and who knew many of her secrets, outlived his royal mistress many years, and his last resting place has now been found in a Belgium churchyard. Over it is a stone cross, between 2 feet and 3 feet high, bearing the following inscription: "Cy-gist Sr. Char. Bailly, secretaire de la Reine d'Ecosse, decapitee en Angleterre pour le foy Catholique, qui trepassa le 27 Xbre, 1624, age de 84."



CHARLES BAILLIE'S TOMB.

A Great Traveler.

De Grimm—Do you see that man over there?

Quidnunc—Yes.

De G.—Well, I suppose he has been one of the greatest travelers the world ever saw.

Q.—Why, he doesn't look it. He appears to me very ordinary.

De G.—Can't help it. He has without doubt traveled twice as much as Stanley.

Q.—Why, who is he, pray?

De G.—Well, he's been over forty years brakeman on a New York express.—Boston Globe.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

Dear Gents:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. Harder,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

Crawfordsville, Ind., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every one.

Mrs. W. S. Ensminger.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. Chas. M. Travis, Notary Public.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

John T. Mish.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. Chas. W. Wright, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the one and only one great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

STATE LIFE AS IT IS.

PEN PICTURES OF THE EVENTS OF ONE WEEK.

Disastrous Explosion—Practical Patriotism—New Editor of the Indiana Baptist—Suicide of a Farmer—Dynamiting a Saloon.

—Michigan City is putting up a bamboo factory.

—If you live in Vincennes you must muzzle your dog.

—Tipton County is so proud of her good gravel roads.

—Many families are leaving scarlet-fever-ridden Bedford.

—At Terre Haute Ethel Towne was acquitted of the charge of forgery.

—A movement is on foot for an electric road from Brazil to Knightsville.

—Madison's Marine Railway Company has reorganized and will soon be in operation.

—Samuel Lance, a farmer of Vistula, was crushed to death by a tree he was felling.

—Jack Hart, a Monon brakeman, was crushed to death between the cars at Attica.

—M. Brunkman & Son's tile factory at Mount Vernon, was burned, with a loss of $3,000.

—The Clipper is the name of a paper just started at Hillsboro, by the Crayton brothers.

—James Doren, one of the old pioneers of Peru, and a veteran of the late war, died, aged 83.

—A syndicate has been formed in Louisville to hunt for gold among the Silver hills in Scott County.

—The Acme hoop and tap factory, of Edgarton, Ohio, is prospecting for a location at Crawfordsville.

—Joseph Lamb, attempting to break into Thomas Neal's farmhouse near Washington, was shot.

—Jonathan Spencer died from strychnine poisoning, the result of a blunder by an Owensboro druggist.

—L. A. Manlin, dealer in boots and shoes at New Carlisle, has assigned. Liabilities about $10,600.

—Evan Mitchell, of Seymour, a brakeman on the O. & M., was crushed to death while making a coupling.

—William Squad, a farmer residing near Hillsboro, is in jail charged with attempting to poison his family.

—The citizens of Franklin, by a majority of 145, have decided to keep the cows off the streets of that town.

—Some one stole ex-Mayor Herr's docket at Brazil, and he hasn't settled with the State yet! Here's a nice fix!

—Daniel Kotz, South Bend's landscape artist, has won favorable recognition and is now located in New York City.

—The four railroads running into Greencastle have all been sued for failure to comply with the railway blackboard law.

—Mrs. David Wright, of Cambridge City, began bleeding at the nose while in church and soon afterward died of exhaustion.

—Louis Sauer of the J., M. & I. was badly hurt at Seymour while making a car coupling. He was taken to his home at Henryville.

—Elias Snyder, of Daleville, was probably fatally injured by a fall from a wagon, the seat of which tipped over and threw him out.

—William Watson overturned a tank of boiling water in a Terre Haute saloon and was badly scalded. Three days later he died of lockjaw.

—J. M. Pucket, a model gentleman and brick manufacturer, of New Corner, has disappeared, leaving mourners to the extent of about $1,300.

—The aged mother of Mrs. Sarah Johnson, of Kokomo, fell down a stairway sustaining injuries that will prove fatal. She is 82 years old.

—James McDaniels' son, 15 years old, was accidentally shot in the leg by a companion while hunting near Lebanon. The leg had to be amputated.

—John Musselman, of Raysville, shot the left side of his face off while out hunting. In climbing a fence his gun was discharged accidentally.

—James C. Stanfield, of Henryville, a brakeman on the J., M. & I., fell between the wheels while making a coupling at Columbus, and was cut in two.

—The fly-wheel of the engine in Lauderback's saw-mill, near Grass Creek, Cass County, went to pieces. None of the many employes in the mill were injured.

—The two lads who started from Crawfordsville to fight the Indians have returned home, having come to the conclusion that their services are not needed.

—Frank McGowan, of Seymour, has sued the Pennsylvania Company for $6,000. He was ejected from a train although he offered a coupon of an excursion ticket.

—George Warburton, inmate of the Boone County Poor-house, was beaten to death by Samuel Beecham, colored, also inmate. Dispute arose over the ownership of a chair.

—The body of Peter Sheets was found in a swamp about eight miles from Plymouth. He was a well-to-do farmer, but became demented, and about six weeks ago wandered away.

—A dog belonging to Farmer Elliott, Knox County, went mad last week and bit several other dogs. Mr. Elliot had to kill a span of valuable mules, and cows, hogs and horses which had become afflicted. Alarm is widespread.

—The County Commissioners of Tipton County ordered all log-haulers of the different saw-mills and the heading teams of the A. R. Colman heading factory to stop hauling on the pikes, owing to their present condition. The teamsters at once submitted to the order.

—James B. Lego, over 70 years old a retired saw-mill operator, fell from a chair and died instantly while sitting in the office of Risch's livery stable, at Wabash. He was one of the oldest citizens and was in feeble health, having had two strokes of paralysis.

—Some of the most wealthy men in Fairmount have formed a stock company, and have leased several farms, with the intention of drilling for oil. Petroleum has been decovered in several gas wells in this immediate vicinity, and there is no doubt but what it can be found in large quantities.

—Oliver Cromwell, aged 83, an ex-member of the Legislature, has just secured a divorce from his third wife, at Brazil.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swintz, of South Bend, served cheese at a luncheon, and all their guests were seized with sudden illness. The results were not permanently serious.

—A confidence sharp, claiming to be a Mason, from Ripley County, has just been exposed after victimizing several of Madison's citizens by taking contracts to furnish spoke timber.

—George R. Joyce. who lived about two miles north of Fairland, was instantly killed while engaged in felling timber by having a tree fall on him. He was about 25 years old.

—Mrs. John Sprangler eloped from Milton the other night with a Quaker preacher conducting meetings there. They were met in Cambridge City by a mob and stoned and beaten.

—Taylor Hubbard, of Darlington, who was out on bond, failed to appear in the Montgomery County Court when his case was called and the bond will be forfeited. He was charged with larceny.

—The First Presbyterian Church at Crawfordsville has given a call to Rev. R. S. Inglas, a student in the Princeton Theological Seminary at Princeton, N. J. This church has been without a pastor for a year.

—Alexander Ramsey, a well-to-do farmer living five miles west of Danville, was found dead, hanging in his barn. He had looped a trace chain around his neck, tied a rope to the chain, tied the rope to a beam, and jumped down from the loft. He had lately said that he feared he would become insane. The coroner's verdict was that he was temporarily insane.

—Spontaneous combustion in the oil-room of E. R. Moore's grocery at Laporte caused a very destructive fire. The building was badly damaged, and the heavy smoke from the burning oil blackened and ruined the entire stock of goods which was valued at $5,000. The damage to the building is covered by insurance, and the stock of goods is insured for $3,000.

—The Crawfordsville Land and Improvement company has secured $6,000, and word has been sent to the officers of the American Wheel company to come and sign the necessary papers for the removal of the Newmarket hub and spoke factory to Crawfordsville. The officers of the improvement company are C. M. Crawford, president; Louis Birchoff, vice-president; H. R. Tinsley, treasurer; B. Russell, secretary.

—As Griffith Williams, one of the proprietors of Williams Brothers' foundry and machine-shop at Greensburg, was near a barrel of oil he let a torch or lamp he was bearing ignite the oil. An explosion followed, and he was badly burned about the face and limbs. A very disastrous fire occurred, and the large building was almost gutted. Insurance, $1,000 in the North British, on building, and $750, in the Westchester, on contents, which may cover the actual loss.

—The Postal Telegraph Company, which has recently extended its lines from Indianapolis to Terre Haute, and is nearly into St. Louis, is having considerable trouble in Clay County, owing to a spirit of opposition on the part of a few farmers this side of Brazil, whose land fronts on the National road, along which the Company has strung its wires. The farmers claimed the Company's men cut limbs from trees when they were building the line, and retaliated by cutting down telegraph poles.

—Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Beeler, who reside in the north part of Morgan County, near the Marion County line, have succeeded in rearing one of the largest families on record. They are the parents of twelve sons and seven daughters, but one daughter of whom is dead. Both are native Hoosiers, and have resided almost all their lives in Marion and Morgan counties. Neither of the parents is more than fifty-five years old, nor are they broken in health. A remarkable feature is the fact that there are no twins among the children.

—Rev. C. M. Carter, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Mitchell, was elected to the editorship of the Indiana Baptist, at Indianapolis, the leading Baptist journal of this State, and also one of their first papers in this section of the country. This is indeed a high honor to Rev. Carter, he being a young man under thirty years of age. He is a graduate of Franklin (Ind.) College, in 1887, of the Union Seminary, of New York, and the Southern Baptist Seminary, of Louisville, Ky. For the past two or three years he has been pastor in charge at this place, and has been one of the most successful pastors ever here.

—The first session of the Wabash County Farmers' Institute was held in Wabash, and was very largely attended. The feature was the paper read by Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City, on "The Possibilities and Probabilities of Farm Life." The lady owns and conducts one of the largest and most prosperous farms in the State, and is thoroughly conversant with her subject, and her paper was received with marked attention. A paper on "Natural Fertilizers," by Frank Mossman, and a general discussion of the topics presented, completed the exercises. The sessions of the institute are constantly growing in popularity and interest.

—A Panhandle passenger and Erie freight collided at the junction near Tipton, demolishing a freight car and causing heavy loss. Nobody was hurt.

—While Henry Reese was tearing down an old log stable on his farm, west of Connersville about four miles, he found stowed away a jewelry case containing a lady's gold watch and chain, pair of bracelets, breastpin and ear-rings, all in good state of preservation. They were of an old style and costly, and had probably been there for years.

—Mrs. Jane Meldrum, probably the oldest person in Shelby County, is dead. She was born in Scott County, Kentucky, May 1, 1795, and was in her 96th year. Her father lived to be 107 years old. Her mind was vigorous to the last, and she remembered and could describe many things that took place during the war of 1812, and even before.

—While Rev. Mr. Whiseand and Newton Miller were conversing, at Bethel Church, Richland Township, Greene County, some unknown person fired through a window, the bullet passing between the two gentlemen.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE.

THE Senate met in the afternoon of January 19. The following bills were introduced: Providing for a scheme of fire insurance to be conducted by the State; for the appointment of a mine inspector and prescribing his duties; to enable cities to issue bonds for street improvements, and prescribing how the business shall be transacted. The special order of business for the hour was the House bill appropriating $105,000 for the current expenses of the General Assembly during this session. The act divided the sum into three portions. The first part, $60,000, was to be devoted to the expenses of the House; the second part, $42,000, to the Senate, and the third part, $3,000, to the joint expenses of both houses. The attempt of the House to dictate how much money the Senate should expend was resented and voted down overwhelmingly in the House. The regular order of business was the report of committees, but they evidently had not had time enough to do anything definitely.

Mr. Claypool introduced a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee of three to investigate the present condition of the Constitutional Amendments of last session, and to present the same to the House for consideration. It was adopted.

Mr. Troy offered a resolution authorizing the Standing Committees of the House to act as Special Committees in making negotiations for the management of State institutions, etc., and giving them power to examine witnesses and send for persons and papers, etc. It was adopted without opposition.

THE House spent the afternoon of January 20, in considering majority and minority reports from the Judiciary Committee concerning grand jury powers. The majority favored an indefinite postponement of the bill to restrict investigations to felony cases. The minority favored the bill. The latter was finally substituted for the majority report, but so many amendments proposed that the bill was recommitted to the Judiciary Committee. The House committee on affairs of the Prison North was formally authorized to make a full and complete investigation of the affairs of that institution, and will go to Michigan City on Monday for that purpose. They will have a stenographer to take the evidence, and will ask the Governor and State Board of Charities to furnish what information they have. The vote for United States Senator resulted: House, Voorhees, 74; Hovey, 25; Senate, Voorhees, 74; Hovey, 16.

The following bills were introduced: Fixing the penalty for an assault with intent to commit felony at not more than fourteen years, nor less than one year; providing that after June 1, 1891, each county shall constitute a judicial circuit; authorizing the Superior, Circuit and Criminal Courts to pay short-hand reporters for transcribing the short-hand notes of evidence taken by them in certain cases; an act requiring employers to provide suitable seats for female employes in mercantile establishments, to be used by the employes when their duties do not require them to stand.

A LARGE number of bills were reported in the Senate January 21, by committees. The joint convention of the two houses declared D. W. Voorhees elected United States Senator by 69 majority. Vote stood—Voorhees, 109; Hover, 40. Resolution adopted to investigate State Treasurer Lemcke.

SENATOR HOWARD presented a memorial to the Senate, January 22, numerously signed by citizens of South Bend, asking that the provisions of the metropolitan police bill be extended to cities of twenty thousand inhabitants. House bill No. 38, to legalize the acts of notaries public whose commissions had expired, was passed. Senator Magee introduced a resolution, which was adopted, requiring the President of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association to present a detailed report of expenditures to date, with the estimate of the amount necessary to complete the monument. Senator Lynn's bill providing that Harrison County shall have four terms of court of five weeks each, and that Crawford County shall have four terms of three weeks each, the two counties comprising the Third Judicial Circuit, was passed.

THE House passed the day in getting bills into shape for definite action.

STANDING Senate committees, January 23, reported favorably on a number of bills, which were subsequently advanced to a third reading. Among the most important measures was Mr. Byrd's bill providing for the payment of the employes of mining companies once every two weeks. Adjourned until Monday, 11 a. m.

IN the House a resolution was adopted instructing Senators and requesting Representatives in Congress to vote for suppression of dressed beef and other trusts and for the repeal of the McKinley tariff, which protects trusts.

Some New Postage Stamps.

Philatelists will be interested in hearing that both the new companies in South Africa are in the field with especially designed postage and revenue stamps. The British East Africa Company has started with an issue ranging from the half-anna to five rupees, and bearing in each design a crowned sun, with the motto, "Light and Liberty," surrounded by a horseshoe label, inscribed with the title of the company. An issue is also in preparation for the South Africa Company, which is following the precedent established some years ago by the British North Borneo Company, some of whose earlier issues (long since withdrawn from circulation) already rank among the rarities in the stamp-collecting world. — Eugene Field's London Letter in the Chicago News.

Coleridge's Captives.

Coleridge, in his old age, became a characteristic feature in Highgate. He was the terror and the amusement of all the little children who bowled their hoops along the popular avenue. Notwithstanding his fondness for them he called them "Kingdom-of-Heaven-ites." His cyclopean figure and learning caused them indescribable alarm. Sometimes he would lay his hands on the shoulders of one of them and walk along discoursing metaphysics to the trembling captive, while the rest fled for refuge, and peeped out, with smiling faces, from behind the trees. "I never," he exclaimed one day to the baker's boy, "I never knew a man good because he was religious, but I have known one religious because he was good."

YEAST—When a man comes off with colors he is covered with glory, is he not? Crimsonbeak—Yes, unless he is a painter, and then he is covered with paint.—Yonkers Statesman.

As a Reminder.

A friend reports the following conversation between himself and a rich but miserly old customer:

Jeweler—This is a fair watch, but I can hardly guarantee it.

The Customer—Oh, that's just what I want. I am going to give it to my nephew as a keepsake. The poorer it runs the oftener he will think of me.—Jewelers' Weekly.

THE man who never talks about his neighbor is usually a splendid listiner.—Elmira Gazette.

One Deadly Feature of Smokeless Powder.

The recent experiments made during the Austrian maneuvers with smokeless powder demonstrate that one element in its employment had not been sufficiently calculated upon. Heavy firing went on for hours without a cloud in the air. It was very difficult to ascertain where a battery that was not in plain sight was placed, and almost impossible to discover where infantry was located when the powder-cloud was absent. In real warfare a whole brigade might be destroyed without knowing where the shot and shell came from.

About Dogs.

Anecdotes of the dignified and even magnanimous way in which large dogs avenge themselves for insults upon smaller members of their species are exceedingly numerous, and generally too well known for citation here. Dr. Hancock, in his "Essay on Instinct," alluding to one of these instances, in which a Newfoundland dog dropped a troublesome cur into the quay at Cork, and then, when it was struggling for life, plunged in and saved it, remarks that "it would be difficult to find any punishment more aptly contrived or more complete in character;" adding, that "if it were fully analyzed, an ample commentary might be written in order to show what a variety of comparisons, and motives, and generous feelings entered into the composition of this act." A very interesting instance of the sagacity with which these Newfoundland dogs act, and the way in which they retain their resentment, is afforded by Mr. Watson. He tells how a gentleman, on arriving at his country-house, in the neighborhood of London, discovered that he had brought with him a key that would be needed during his absence. He had with him a Newfoundland dog that was accustomed to carry things, and to it he intrusted the key. On its way to the town with the key the poor creature was attacked by a butcher's dog, but attempted no resistance, and only used its powers to get off with his charge. It delivered the key safely; and then, on its way home, stopped deliberately before the butcher's shop until the dog again came forth, when he attacked it furiously, and did not leave off until he had killed it.—Chambers' Journal

What Napoleon Said to His Doctor.

Doctor, how delightful is rest! The bed has become a place of luxury to me. I would not exchange it for all the thrones in the world. What an alteration! How fallen am I! I, whose activity was boundless, whose mind never slumbered, am now plunged in a lethargic stupor, and must make an effort even to raise my eyelids. I sometimes dictated upon different subjects to four or five secretaries who wrote as fast as words could be uttered; but then I was Napoleon, now I am no longer anything. My strength, my faculties forsake me. I do not live; I merely exist.

You are aware, doctor, that the art of healing consists in lulling and calming the imagination. That is the reason why the ancients dressed up in robes and adopted a costume striking and imposing. That costume you have unadvisedly abandoned; and you no longer exercise the same powerful influence over your patients. Who knows whether, if you were suddenly to appear before me with an enormous wig, a cap and long train, I should not take you for the god of health, whereas you are only the god of medicine.

Protect Your Health.

Cold and moisture combined have a torporizing effect upon the bodily organs, and the digestive and secretive processes are apt to be more tardily performed in winter than in the fall. The same is true, also, of the excretory functions. The bowels are often sluggish, and the pores of the skin throw off but little waste matter at this season. The system, therefore, requires opening up a little, and also purifying and regulating, and the safest, surest and most thorough tonic and alterative that can be used for these purposes is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persons who wish to escape the rheumatic twinges, the dyspeptic agonies, the painful disturbances of the bowels, the bilious attacks, and the nervous visitations so common at this time of the year, will do well to re-enforce their systems with this renowned vegetable stomachic and invigorant. It improves the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cheers the spirits, and renovates the whole physique.

Wanted to Go With Papa.

One of the best children's bonmets is told by a well-known book-maker in town. His little daughter was happy amid a parlor full of company, when bed-time came and she rebelled against having to leave. She threw herself on the floor, face down, and kicked and screamed.

"Come," said her mother, "be a good little girl, now, and go to bed. Don't you know what mamma has always told you—if you arn't a good little girl you can't go to Heaven?"

"I don't want to go to Heaven," said the child "I want to go where papa goes."—New York Sun.

Much Adieu.

"Have you seen 'Much Ado About Nothing?'"

"Much adieu about nothing? I should say so! My train is chiefly patronized by ladies."—Drake's Magazine

WHY rub, and toil, and wear out yourself and your clothes on washday, when, ever since 1864, Dobbins' Electric Soap has been offered on purpose to lighten your labor. Now try it. Your grocer has it.

How Oysters are Shipped.

Thousands of oysters are shipped to England from the region near Greenwich, Conn. They are packed and rammed into barrels so that the shells cannot open. This keeps the oysters alive and obviates the necessity of using ice. The oysters reach England in excellent condition.

"'BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES' are excellent for the relief of Hoarseness or Sore Throat. They are exceedingly effective."—Christian World, London England.

A Syrian Colony Experiment.

The projectors of the new Damascus for Syrian immigrants, have decided to purchase several thousand acres for the site of the town in Pennsylvania or Arizona. Silk culture, fruit growing and farming will, it is expected, furnish comfortable living to the citizens of the new Damascus.

IT pays to use SAPOLIO in all cleaning, for "Thift and Cleanliness are twin brothers." Sapolio is a solid cake of Scouring Soap. Try it in house cleaning.

A CRISIS is reported in China. There will always be a cry-sis when she loses her chewing gum.—Peoria Beacon.

A PLACARD at the entrance of the Reno (Nev.) Jail reads: "Standing room only."

DAINTY candies that children cry for are Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. They please the children, but they kill the worms.

A SIGN of an early fall—A bar of soap on the cellar steps.—New York Journal.

Totally Helpless

From Sciatic Rheumatism.

"In May, 1885, I was taken with sciatic rheumatism in my legs and arms, and was confined to my bed entirely helpless. In August I was just able to move around. I was reduced to a mere skeleton, my appetite was entirely gone and my friends thought I could not live. I took almost everything I could hear of, but with no good results, during that winter. One day, reading about taking Hood's Sarsaparilla in March, April and May, I concluded to try it. One bottle gave me so much relief that I took four bottles, and since then I have not been troubled with rheumatism, and my general health has never been better. My appetite is good and I have gained in flesh. I attribute my whole improvement to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla." WM. F. TAYLOR, Emporium, Cameron County, Pa.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

TACOMA $100 to $1,000 Carefully Invested here ANNUALLY from TWENTY to 100% Tacoma Investment Co., Tacoma, Wash.

A MAN who has practiced medicine for forty years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most forty years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,

L. L. GORSUCH, M. D.,
Office, 215 Summit St.

We will give $100 for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

☞ Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A Woman in a Moon.

It may not be generally known, but there is the head of a girl in the moon, says the Atchison Globe. It is a profile, and can be easily discerned when the moon is full. When the moon is in the Eastern sky she is looking north, and the head inclines upward. At the top of the yellow orb you will see her hair and a sort of haughty bang which conceals most of her forehead; a little below you will see her eye; then comes her nose (this is rather indistinct); then will be seen the chin, underneath which a very shapely neck curves back, indicating that she is well fed.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE for February, 1891, will contain "Mount Washington in Winter," by Edward L. Wilson, beautifully illustrated; the third paper on Japan (with many illustrations;) "About Africa," by J. Scott; "A Marine Tale," by Frank R. Stockton; "Neapolitan Art;" a full-page portrait of Livingstone, Poems, Point of View, etc. Now is the time to subscribe. Twenty-five cents a number; $3.00 a year. Charles Scribner's Sons, 743 Broadway, New York.

A Patient Man.

"No, Mr. Trotter," she said firmly, "I repeat it a thousand times—no!"

"Well, keep on," he remarked, pleasantly; "that's only twice, and by the time you reach the 600th you'll begin to vary it with a 'yes.' Will you kindly begin?"—Munsey's Weekly.

THOSE of you who are weary and heavy ladened with sickness and care, weighed down with the infirmities that beset the human system, can find the one thing necessary to restore you to bright, buoyant health in Sherman's Prickly Ash Bitters. It invigorates and strengthens the debilitated organs, aids digestion, and dispels the clouds arising from a diseased liver.

Promising Chip of the Old Block.

Newspaper Man's Little Boy (rushing in breathlessly)—Papa, you'd 'a' enjoyed bein' down where I was just now, I'll bet."

Newspaper Man—Why so, my son?"

"Man fell off'n a three-story buildin' and broke his back."

MOTHERS should watch carefully those signs of ill health in their daughters, and at once use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It will prove a lasting blessing.

Harsh Punishment.

Mr. Scrubbs (indignantly)—Sir, I have just discovered that your son has engaged himself to two of my daughters.

Mr. Grubbs (stupefied)—The young rascal! He should be compelled to marry them both.—New York Weekly.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cure Sick-Headache.

WHEN is a man out of date? When he's a weak (week) back.

The "Mother's Friend."

Not only shortens labor and lessens pain attending it but greatly diminishes the danger to life of both mother and child if used a few months before confinement. Write to The Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga., for further particulars. Sold by all druggists.

"TIGHT boots cause the blood too flow to the head," says the Chicago Sun. That is the reason there is often so much slack in a dude's pants.—Newman Independent.

BEST, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

A CHICAGO detective has partially reformed, and become a bank robber.—Boston Post.

BURNS AND SCALDS are cured by
St. Jacobs Oil used according to DIRECTIONS with each BOTTLE,
also SORE THROAT
WOUNDS, CUTS, SWELLINGS
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO., Baltimore, Md.

SYRUP of FIGS

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthy and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and $1 bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N.Y.

"LIKE A FROST-BLIGHTED FLOWER,"

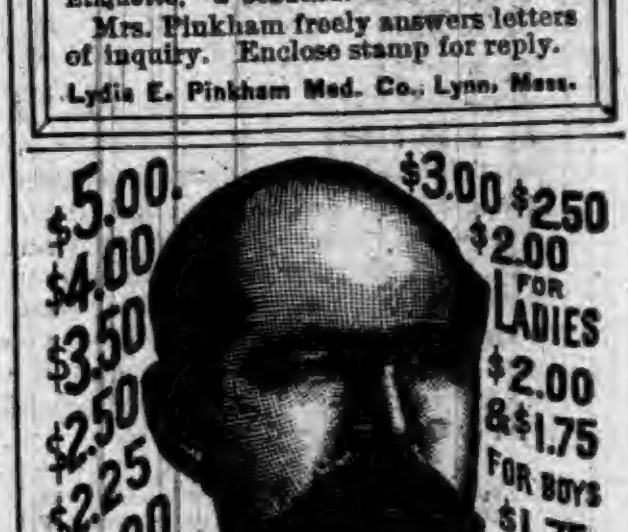
The fair young sufferer perishes, and often from causes unknown to the world, but superficial judgment, founded on appearances, takes this form of expression, "died of quick consumption," while in nine cases out of ten it should be, "died from carelessness." Mothers, look to your daughters. Daughters, look to yourselves.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound will restore you to health and happiness. It is a positive cure for all those weaknesses and ailments incident to women. Every Druggist sells it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.



W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

$5.00 Genuine Hand-sewed, an elegant and stylish dress Shoe which commends itself.
$4.00 Hand-sewed Welt. A fine calf Shoe unequaled for style and durability.
$3.50 Goodyear Welt is the standard dress Shoe at a popular price.
$3.50 Policeman's Shoe is especially adapted for railroad men, farmers, etc.
All made in Congress, Button and Lace.
$3.00 for Ladies, is the only hand-sewed Shoe sold at this popular price.
$2.50 Dongola Shoe for Ladies is a new departure and promises to become very popular.
$2.00 Shoe for Ladies and $1.75 for Misses still retain their excellence for style, etc.

All goods warranted and stamped with name on bottom. If advertised local agent cannot supply you, send direct to factory, inclosing advertised price or a postal for order blanks.

W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles, 50 cents and $1.00.

Keep Your Blood Pure.

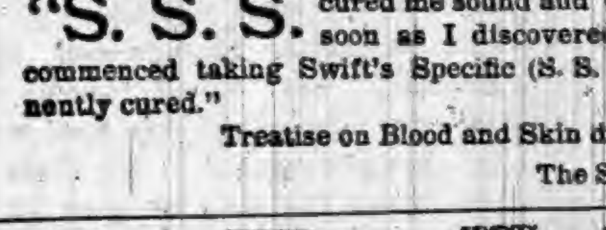
A small quantity of prevention is worth many pounds of cure. If your blood is in good condition the liability to any disease is much reduced and the ability to resist its wasting influence is tenfold greater. Look then to your blood, by taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) every few months. It is harmless in its effects to the most delicate infant, yet it cleanses the blood of all poisons and builds up the general health.

"S. S. S. cured me sound and well of contagious Blood Poison. As soon as I discovered I was afflicted with the disease I commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) and in a few weeks I was permanently cured."

GEORGE STEWART, Shelby, Ohio.

Treatise on Blood and Skin diseases mailed free.

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.



This Picture, Panel size, mailed for 4 cents.

J. F. SMITH & CO.,
Makers of "Bile Beans,"
255 & 257 Greenwich St., N. Y. City.

CURE Biliousness,
Sick Headache,
Malaria.
BILE BEANS.

Ely's Cream Balm For
CATARRH
THE POSITIVE CURE.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York. Price 50 cts.

THE CURE FOR
CATARRH
COLD IN HEAD
HAY FEVER
DEAFNESS HEADACHE
ELY'S CREAM BALM
50c

"I wept when I was born, and every day shows why," said A House-keeper — who didn't use SAPOLIO

Sapolio is a solid cake of scouring soap used for all cleaning purposes

"Ah! Ah!" Cried the housewife, "The Secret I know, no DIRT can resist SAPOLIO."

"Oh! Oh!" Cried the DIRT, "At length I must go, I cannot withstand SAPOLIO."

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH, RED CROSS DIAMOND BRAND
PENNYROYAL PILLS

THE ORIGINAL AND GENUINE. The only Safe, Sure, and reliable Pill for sale. Ladies, ask Druggist for Chichester's English Diamond Brand in Red and Gold metallic boxes sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other kind. Refuse Substitutions and Imitations. All pills in pasteboard boxes, pink wrappers, are dangerous counterfeits. At Druggists, or send us 4c. in stamps for particulars, testimonials, and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Name Paper. Sold by all Local Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO., Madison Square, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

PISO'S REMEDY FOR CATARRH.—Best. Easiest to use. Cheapest. Relief is immediate. A cure is certain. For Cold in the Head it has no equal.

CATARRH

It is an Ointment, of which a small particle is applied to the nostrils. Price, 50c. Sold by druggists or sent by mail. Address, E. T. HAZELTINE, Warren, Pa.

FREE ILLUSTRATED PUBLICATIONS, WITH MAPS, describing Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, the Free Government and Cheap NORTHERN PACIFIC R. R. LANDS

Best Agricultural, Grazing and Timber Lands now open to settlers. Mailed FREE. Address CHAS. B. LAMBORN, Land Com. N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn.

STEREOPTICONS McINTOSH Battery & Optical Co.
CHICAGO, ILL. MAGIC LANTERNS.

THE DEAF HEAR

WHEN THE DEAFNESS IS CAUSED BY SCARLET FEVER, COLDS, MEASLES, CATARRH, &C. BY THE USE OF THE INVISIBLE SOUND DISC which is guaranteed to help a larger per cent. of cases than all similar devices combined. The same to the Ears as glasses are to the eyes. Positively invisible. Worn months without removal. H. C. WALES, Bridgeport, Conn.

RIDGE'S FOOD

IT IS USED BY CHILDREN'S CHILDREN. Thousands of young men and women in this country owe their lives, their health and their happiness to Ridge's Food, their daily diet in Infancy and Childhood having been Ridge's Food. 35 cents up. [illegible] WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass.

GOLD MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.

W. BAKER & CO.'S
Breakfast Cocoa

from which the excess of oil has been removed,

Is absolutely pure and it is soluble.

No Chemicals

are used in its preparation. It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is therefore far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, strengthening, EASILY DIGESTED, and admirably adapted for invalids as well as for persons in health.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

-VASELINE-

FOR A ONE-DOLLAR BILL sent us by mail we will deliver, free of all charges, to any person in the United States, all of the following articles, carefully packed:

One two-ounce bottle of Pure Vaseline	10 cts.
One two-ounce bottle of Vaseline Pomade	15 "
One jar of Vaseline Cold Cream	15 "
One cake of Vaseline Camphor Ice	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, unscented	10 "
One cake of Vaseline Soap, exquisitely scented	25 "
One two-ounce bottle of White Vaseline	25 "
	$1.10

Or, for postage stamps, any single article at the price named. On no account be persuaded to accept from your druggist any Vaseline or preparation therefrom unless labeled with our name, because you will certainly receive an imitation which has little or no value.

Chesebrough Mfg. Co. 24 State St., N. Y.

ISLAND HOME

Stock Farm. H. C. Farnum, Importer and Breeder of Percheron & French Coach Horses. I offer a very large stud of horses to select from. I guarantee my stock, make prices reasonable and sell on easy terms. Visitors always welcome. Large catalogue free. Address H. C. FARNUM, Grosse Isle, Wayne Co., Mich.

ASTHMA.

Popham's Asthma Specific Gives immediate relief. It is believed to be the Best ASTHMA Remedy known to humanity. Send for Trial Package FREE. Sold by Druggists. Sent by mail, postpaid, for $1 per Box. Address THOS. POPHAM, 2001 Ridge Avenue, Philada.

PEDINE HOW ARE YOUR FEET. Cures cold or tender Swollen or perspiring. Smaller Shoes may be worn with comfort. Price, 50 cts. at Drug Stores, or by mail. Trial Package and illustrated pamphlet for a dime. THE PEDINE CO., WORLD BUILDING, NEW YORK.

CATARRH CURED. Write for sample. LAUDERBACH COMPANY, Newark, New Jersey. FREE

When Writing to Advertisers, please say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

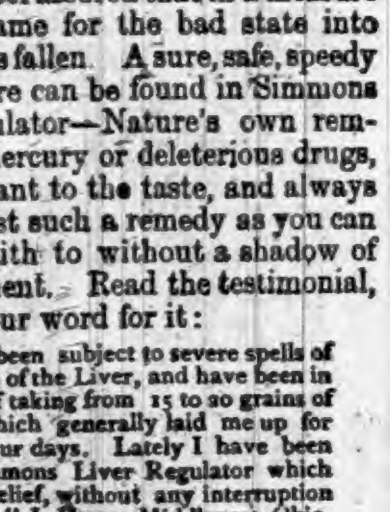
THE AUBURN COURIER,

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.......JANUARY 29, 1891.



ALAS!

How wretched is the man who has fallen a victim to Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, or diseased Liver, with all the horrible attendants. Look upon the picture. Poor man, being tired of dragging out a miserable existence, he is the picture of despondency; altogether, he is rather a forlorn specimen. Do we pity him? Of course; but at the same time feel assured that in a measure he is to blame for the bad state into which he has fallen. A sure, safe, speedy and easy cure can be found in Simmons Liver Regulator—Nature's own remedy. No mercury or deleterious drugs, not unpleasant to the taste, and always reliable—just such a remedy as you can pin your faith to without a shadow of disappointment. Read the testimonial, don't take our word for it:

"I have been subject to severe spells of Congestion of the Liver, and have been in the habit of taking from 15 to 20 grains of calomel, which generally laid me up for three or four days. Lately I have been taking Simmons Liver Regulator which gave me relief, without any interruption to business." J. Hugg, Middleport, Ohio.

J. H. ZEILIN & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS, PHILADELPHIA, PA.
PRICE, $1.00.

INGALLS in Kansas is having a hard time to get back to the senate.

IT is feared that Emperor William has a cancer in the throat, same as his father had.

MR. KELLEY made a good speech in the Assembly last week in favor of the one-eighth toll bill.

FT. WAYNE land owners want about half a million for fair ground site. Will sell 'em ours for that, already improved.

BIG snows in New York and New Jersey, thawed this week, and with the ice jams and floods destroyed much property.

THE vote for senator in Illinois, still stands, Palmer 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, for the Alliance, 3. It takes 109 to win.

YOUNG man in Indianapolis fined $500 last week for catching and kissing a girl against her will. Says he won't do it again.

GOV. HILL received 81 votes for U. S senator and Senator Evarts 79. This gives the Empire state one democrat in the senate.

WOOD on trial for causing the death of Blount a patient at the Richmond insane asylum last summer, goes to prison 21 years for it.

AMERICAN WHEEL WORKS at Ft. Wayne, will sue the Nickel Plate road for damages. A spark caused fire that burned the works.

JACOB H. GALLINGER, republican, and a new man is elected senator for New Hampshire. Orville B. Platt has been re-elected in Connecticutt.

PRINCE BAUDOUIN, nephew of the King of Belgium and heir to the throne, has suicided. He gave up life and a throne for a poor girl they would not let him marry.

U. S. SENATE has been studying some days to adopt the "cloture" or "previous question" which they never had before. It is intended to shut off debate so they can stop the talking of democrats who oppose the force bill.

VOORHEES was put into the senate first in 1877 to fill out Gov. Morton's unexpired term. He was re-elected for a full term in 1879 and again in 1885. Now he goes in for six years more, so that if he lives it will make nineteen years.

THE HARRISONS want an additi n built to the White House at a cost of $950,000, which means over a million when completed. The White House has been considered good enough for other presidents and their wives. Why not for Benny?

KALAKUA, King of the Sandwich Islands died at San Francisco last Tuesday. He had come here for his health. His people looked for him home on the steamer that will take his body, and had decorated the city. It will be taken down and mourning put up. His queen Tilinokalani will be queen.

THE TIMES of Columbia City was sold to the republicans week before last, and the name changed to "The Mail," and run as a red hot unreasoning, high tax republican organ. So the quarrel that helped to defeat a part of the democratic ticket in that county, will now be transferred to the republican side of the fence. This is better. We now look to see the straight democratic majority of Whitley increased as the years roll by.

MANY are asking whether the election of Gov. Hill to the senate will remove him from among the possible candidates for the presidency. Not necessarily, for it will be remembered that Garfield had been elected to the senate and that same year he was nominated for president and elected. He became president on the same day his senatorial term would have begun. But in Hill's case, the chances are, he will concede the presidency to Cleveland, who is evidently the choice of people. Still, many changes may occur before 1892.

INDIAN war is over.

VILAS elected senator from Wisconsin.

WM. A. PEFFER, farmers' alliance, is the new senator from Kansas in place of Ingalls.

BOTH houses of our legislature passed resolution that we will not give a cent for the world's fair if the force bill is passed. Other states say the same.

IT is laughable to hear republican papers object to seating Senator McHugh in the legislature. The committee found he had two votes more than the other man. On exactly such a contest counting the contested ballots in the same way, a democratic board of commissioners in Whitley county gave the clerkship to a republican by two votes. Why don't they complain of this?

VOORHEES received 109 votes for Senator and Hovey 40. And yet the democrats were afraid last summer, that they could not pull Mr. Voorhees through. His term of six years begins March 4. Both houses had adopted a joint rule, making the lieutenant-governor the presiding officer for their joint conventions. A telegram from Voorhees, said:

Please say to the democratic member of the legislature that while I cannot in mere words express my gratitude for the honor they have conferred on me, yet I will labor faithfully to do so by my actions here and elsewhere in the great cause of equal taxation, economical government and fair elections

D. W. VOORHEES.

Bills Introduced.

Since our last report we find the following bills have been introduced:

A bill to amend the act relative to issuing a teacher's license. One requiring railroad companies to provide suitable depots for passengers; a bill to have county superintendents elected by the people on a political ticket, the office to hold four years, and to be eligible to females; one making a charge of $400 for liquor license, $100 to go to school fund; one to define the crime of murder; one to stop playing base ball on Sunday; to encourage the sorghum industry; to restrict the expense of inquests; to prohibit road work later than Aug. 1st; providing for free school books; one to prohibit pool tables and other games in saloons, and to prohibit the use of blinds or screens in same; one to amend the gravel road law; one to make the mortgagee pay the taxes on the mortgage instead of the mortgagor; to prohibit entirely the killing of quails; to let physicians practice in any county, if they hold a license in their own; to define a legal fence; several ditch amendments; a joint resolution asking congress to make an appropriation to improve the Grand Calumet river near South Chicago; to prevent the destruction of any of the native birds of the state; to compel stock companies to file copy of charter with county recorder; that no bank officer shall be a notary public; that a person must have had ten years' experience to be state mine inspector; to compel teachers to attend township institutes without pay; to amend the act relating to the Momence dam to be removed; to pay $200 for capture of horse thieves; to fix salaries for all county officers and their deputies, and to include county commissioners; to have the salaries of county judges paid by counties instead of by state as now; to make all tramps and persons serving out fines in jail work on public roads; (Dr. Teal's bill to amend election law is in another column); to prescribe how traction engines must arrange to cross a bridge; requiring a $200 license to make cigarettes; to give county auditor same fees as county clerk, when cases are tried before the commissioners; to require all hedges along highways to be trimmed; to cede some land near New Albany to U. S. for a national cemetery; the same bill to protect and secure justice to coal miners, that Gov. Hovey vetoed two years ago, has been brought again and will likely be passed, no matter what Hovey thinks of it; a bill to make one-eighth the legal toll for millers; to prohibit the use of tobacco in churches, school rooms, etc.; to punish wife whippers by giving them 60 lashes; requiring grain dealers to keep a set of standard measures; an act regulating divorces; amending the dog law; one to extend the term of any justice whose term expires before the next township election in 1894; to authorize officers to arrest and hold a horse thief without a warrant; providing for putting patents on record; to establish county courts; to provide for an appellate court of five judges who can try many cases now sent to the supreme court; to require ditches to be cleaned Oct. 1st, instead of Nov. 1st; one to allow creditors who represent half the claims against a bankrupt to choose the assignee; to give coroners a salary of $250; to prevent road supervisors from using up more than 30 days; to make the terms of county officers begin on Jan. 1, next after terms of present officers expire; giving county commissioners $3 a day and 5 cents for each mile traveled; by Mr. Robbins, to compel the use of air brakes on both passenger and freight trains; to give the power of granting liquor license to the boards of towns and cities instead of counties; to make township trustees report names of poor who receive help, and amount thereof; to make the fine for gambling $10, $25, and $50, for the first, second and third offense, with imprisonment added;

The several committees have already killed a number of bills, while some are recommended for passage.

Administrator's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administratrix of the estate of William H. Dills, deceased, will sell at private sale, on and after Monday, February 9th, 1891, at the late office of said decedent, in the town of Auburn, in DeKalb county, Indiana, the personal property of said estate, consisting of one fire proof safe, one set of Blackford's Reports, one set of Indiana Reports, American Encyclopedia of Law, and various other law books, together with office furniture etc.

TERMS: All sums of five dollars and under cash, on sums over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given; the amount secured by the purchaser's note, with approved security.

Jan. 28, 1891.

JULIA MAY DILLS, Administratrix.
JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y for Estate.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

What he Sees, Hears and Thinks About.

The reading room, an institution which stands high as an evidence of the interest shown in the welfare of our people, especially the young, as manifested by the christian people of this city, seems to be growing into popular favor. Its establishment, of course, necessitated earnest and tireless efforts on the part of some, but since its existence has been fixed, the good results are gradually becoming visible. Our young men and young women are beginning to realize that the advantages afforded by it, are not mythical, or without import. Each evening witnesses a good attendance of those who are willing to devote themselves to that toilsome culture, which is the price of all great success." The order is good, with but few exceptions. The contributions of books are gradually coming in, and the old Township Library, that is, what is left of it, will soon be added to the already good supply of readable books. One other feature that speaks audibly for the progress of this venture, is, the books are being taken out by old and young; read and promptly returned—which is commendable. Four long seats have been added, which greatly enhances the accommodations. It is a remarkable fact that our young men are learning to appreciate the opportunities afforded by this room, and are leaving off some of their useless habits, to better their condition in life by cultivating the faculties in their possession. Last Sunday afternoon found a large number of them present with no lack of interest.

* * *

Most everybody knows something of the dry goods and clothing establishment, under the style of Schaab Bros. They have always been popular dealers in that line of goods, but they have something under headway now that will gratify the public. The third floor of their mammoth store room is being fitted up in style and taste, as a repository for the largest, best and most complete stock of carpets ever brought to the city. They will not only be carrying the largest stock of goods in the town, but they will have the largest business room. Three big rooms chock full of goods of the best quality, with prices that will stand the test of comparison. These gentlemen are thoroughly acquainted with the trade and the public will doubtless benefit by the enterprise exhibited by them.

* * *

Harry Rainier, of the block and steel, and his brother Edward, of clothing fame, are now basking in sunshine and reveling mid the scenes of the western plains. These young men are favorably known in the business and social circles of this city; both being popular as members of the Little German Band, which is so much in demand at our public entertainments. They will visit relatives at Clinton, Ill., before returning, which they expect to do in two weeks. It is thought a breath of pure, prairie air will revive them and invigorate their frail (?) constitutions.

* * *

The fellow with a pencil behind his ear, was ushered into the magnificent establishment where Kessler Brothers do an enormous cigar business. About the first expression that greeted him on entering, was: "Well, you've got it onto us. You might have seen us long ago, had you come in." We made no reply, except, that we felt glad to have staggered onto the scheme they termed "old." However, laying all jokes aside, it will enlighten all doubtful minds, to visit this factory. The proprietors are gentlemen of the highest order, and the large corps of workmen employed, do not fail to convince all that an immense quantity of tobacco is consumed in the manufacture of the choicest brands of cigars made; namely, K. & B., Young America, Golden Rule and Bill Head.

* * *

Last Friday afternoon, the people of the South Side, were suddenly brought to a painful realization that a human being's life was in danger. A rearing, plunging and maddened team, tearing along at an awful rate of speed, attracted attention to the scene of terror, which, as near as can be learned, was brought about in this fashion: Lewis Blaising, who is employed as driver for the team belonging to the Auburn Foundry & Machine works, was hauling the iron door to be used as shutters on the rear windows of the postoffice. It seems the load was inconvenient to handle, so much so that Mr. B., had to stand on the front hounds of the wagon. In coming to the railroad from the south, he found it necessary to stop. The sudden coming to a standstill threw him forward, his hands striking the rump of one of the horses. This frightened it, and both began to run wildly up the street, towards the depot. When they came to the foot of Main street, the horses made an abrupt turn, going between the depot and coal house, running over the platform, rattling the load off, breaking the reach and knocking the corner off the coal house, after which, they started furiously up Main street, with nothing but the front trucks and driver, but this velocity of speed was suddenly checked by their coming against an electric light pole, with such force that team and driver were laid low in one confused heap. During all this time, the driver was helplessly fixed in his perilous position on the hounds, with the horses' feet flying dangerously near to his body, he being powerless to check the terrible rate of speed at which he was being dragged along the open street. But with an almost superhuman—a last, desperate effort he managed to stop in the manner described. Women screamed and men shuddered at the awful sight before them believing that the stalwart man would be reduced to a lifeless mass of human flesh. Miraculously, however, Mr. Blaising escaped with but slight injuries, and this doubtless is a ride that will not be forgotten soon.

* * *

People who are inclined to think that business is declining in Auburn, will be astonished at the amount of manufacturing that is done here. There is the band saw mill with its vast yard filled with logs of all sizes, kinds and grades, to be cut into lumber of various qualities and grades. A visit to the mill, proper, reveals a sight, once seen, not to be soon forgotten. Once inside, a wonderful activity meets one's gaze. The massive saws as they are propelled through the big logs with terrible speed, impress the mind with the usefulness of modern inventions, as the big logs are reduced to lumber with great rapidity. The boards are taken from the main saw, and straightened on an edger, this of course, makes it ready for the yard. Other saws and machines are kept busy working up the slabs and inferior grades of lumber into wood, handle stuff, stick timber, etc. On this floor everything is in a sort of hurry skurry state of activity, while down stairs is found two monstrous boilers, which furnish steam for two powerful engines. One is a ninety-horse power, and runs the band saw, log car and carriage. The other is a twenty-horse power, and runs the edger, rip saws, etc. This is a great institution, employing a large number of hands, and is certainly a credit to the town.

* * *

What wonderful changes time will bring about. A few years ago, swamp elm could hardly be given away, and was dealt with as a useless encumbrance on a farm. The once-considered-worthless elm is now in demand at a premium. H. J. Trentman, of the handle factory, is converting this elm into hub blocks, and his extensive yard is literally covered with logs, piled as high as a man's head. Farmers are now enabled to dispose of their elm timber—body, limbs and all, at a fair price. Even the limbs only three or four inches in diameter, are used. The logs are sawed into blocks, then the blocks are taken through a machine, which cuts them down to the proper size, when they are dipped in a composition of rosin and kerosene oil, to preserve the wood from air checks. Ours, is an age of progress, and this special feature is fully appreciated by the farmers.

* * *

The Auburn Foundry & Machine Works still stands as a monument of business enterprise. The extensive buildings belonging to this establishment, are each and all occupied by men of talent and skill, who are assisting to carry on a profitable business.

* * *

The Auburn Church Furniture Co., is still holding up the standard of its popularity in that line of business. The work done by this firm is of the highest order, and brings patronage to them from towns where similar factories have been doing business for years. This company employs first-class workmen and use good material; thus enabling them to send out a quality of goods that will stand the test on their own merits. A book case is now being finished at this shop, that is a marvel of artistic and mechanical beauty. The rich carvings and panelings, with here and there a face or figure of some kind set in bold relief; the columns being ornamented with simple yet effective folds of drapery carved in the natural wood, while at the top of the columns is seen two lion heads supported by heavy scrolls. The whole presents a scene of wonderful mechanical skill. A hat rack and umbrella stand, for hall use, goes with the case, which is nothing short of indescribable, artistic beauty. The form and features of a graceful woman are set in heavy scrolls, and joined at the upper corners by heads wearing the royal crown of ancient times. A just description of this magnificent piece of workmanship would almost beggar the powers of ordinary rhetoric, or cast into shadow the strongest adjectives of the English language. It must be seen to be appreciated. These excellent pieces of furniture are for Mr. Nickey's residence in Ft. Wayne, and will cost a handsome sum of money. The artistic work was done by Joseph Staudacher. Mr. S., is a very young man, yet he is acknowledged by his fellow craftsmen as being one of the finest carvers this country affords, and this is among his crowning efforts.

* * *

One of the latest fads in this part of the country, is the "cow horn novelty." This new novel arrangement is nothing more nor less than the common cow's horn richly polished. E. A. Benedict, who has a repair shop on West Ninth street, has taken advantage of the opportunities in trade, in this particular line of business, and has specimens of his handiwork in G. W. McKay & Co's show window. Though these horns, when finished, make pretty ornaments, it requires a good deal of work to bring out their purity and tone of color. Only two or three can be polished in a day.

* * *

Every farmer realizes what it is to have a good, reliable wagon on the premises. They too know what it sometimes costs to fool with a wagon that has already passed its days of usefulness. As a general rule, factory wagons are gotten up and turned on the market for the money that is in the manufacture of them, regardless of a standard of reputation. A vehicle of that kind is run a short time, then, thrown aside as useless. We have a few wagonmakers, however, who keep the standard of their reputation constantly in view, and put up wagons that will stand the wear and tear of long years of hard usage, by putting in only such timber as is good, substantial and well seasoned. A good wagon cannot be made from poor material, no more than the chilling frosts of winter can give growth to the green verdure. We have one of those latter named wagon-makers in Auburn. We refer to J. W. Shaffer, who is an honest citizen and a veteran at his trade. He has been in business on South Main street, for many years, but a few years ago he and John Berg formed a partnership, under the name of Shaffer & Berg. There are wagons put up at this shop that have stood the test for ten or fifteen years,—evidence sufficient as to the quality of material used, and the excellence of the "roller," when it left the factory.

* * *

How delightful are the sweet strains of music to the ear of mortal man. The charms lent by the sonorous tones of the piano or the low, tinkling sounds of the guitar, are enchanting, and lead the inmost longings of the soul beyond the realm of earth, to lose themselves in the hazy, impenetrable, and happy forgetfulness of the unkown beyond. Entertainment of this kind is to be enjoyed on West Seventh St. The nimble fingers of Billy Miller manipulate the strings of the guitar, while Miss Mary Young performs admirably upon the piano.

* * *

Now, when people come to town about the first question that is asked, is, "Where can we do the best?" That of course, is a difficult question to answer, but it is a fact that the Family Grocery on North Main street, has facilities for gratifying the public desires that are very desirable. Mr. Brandon, the proprietor, is a gentleman in every sense of the term, and will do all in his power to please his customers.

A New Combine.

Dan Yingling came rushing into the the COURIER office Monday afternoon and almost out of breath informed us that "The kids have formed a trust." Further explanations showed the formation of a juvenile company of the boys who carry wood up stairs for parties in business rooms and offices. Heretofore the usual price has been 15 cents a cord or load. Now, the boys say, "25 cents or no carry." Besides agreeing on this rate, they formed a regular company with Dan Yingling for president; Walter Baker, secretary; Fred Reesch, treasurer. The other members are: Charley Sebring, Chris Culver, Leonard Yingling, Will Clark, Fred. Fox, Jim Williamson, Lou Kain and Verne Rinehart. The reported paid up capital is 26 cents thus giving them a cash basis in advance of the largest job taken at one time. This shows sound business ideas. The only flaw we can see in the combine, is not providing for a vice-president to call the meeting to order at times when Dan Yingling is necessarily absent hitching up Dr. Nusbaum's horse. Still that can be fixed yet by a two-thirds vote.

Dr. Teal's Bill.

Our joint member has a bill to amend some sections of the election law. The most important changes are these:

A candidate's name to appear but once on the ballot. If placed on the ballot by petition, he must stand by himself on the ticket. No more sailing under false flags. Devices (rooster, eagle, etc.,) to be inclosed in a square or rectangle of not less than one and one-half inches each side. Square at the left of each candidate to be not less than three-eighths of an inch on each side. Straight tickets must be stamped on the square. If the stamp touches the square the ticket is to be counted, but a stamp that touches no square shall be held to be a distinguishing mark and rejected. If the square is stamped and one or more of the candidates below the same square are stamped it shall also be held to be a distinguishing mark and not be counted. The head of one ticket and the squares opposite candidates of opposing tickets may be stamped and counted as a mixed ticket.

Saved by a Subscription Receipt.

It pays in more ways than one, to pay the printer. In the case of the man, Graham, who was thrown from a train near Waterloo, two or three weeks ago no one would have found out his name, but for a paid bill found on his person, for subscription to a newspaper. Had he allowed his subscription to go unpaid, he would still be unknown, as he is not yet able to talk. As it is, his partner was at once sent for, and is now caring for him. Thus it will be seen that a bill paid to the newspaper man, carries with it a double blessing. This is a moral that should sink deep into the hearts and pockets of every man who allows his subscription to get several years behind.

Literary Note.

The second instalment of the "Talleyrand Memoirs" will be published in the February Century, will be devoted entirely to Talleyrand's narration of his personal relations with Napoleon Bonaparte. Talleyrand apologizes for taking office under the Directory, describes his first meeting with Bonaparte, tells how the First Consul snubbed an old acquaintance, and relates other anecdotes of Napoleon tending to emphasize the weaknesses and vanities of the emperor. Talleyrand criticizes Napoleon' Spanish policy, and gives a detailed account (from notes which he had taken of the conversation) of an interview that Napoleon had at Erfurt with Goethe and Wieland.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice at Auburn, Ind., for the week ending Jan. 6, 1891. Mrs. E. L. Bracly, Mrs. Winnie Sevens, Miss Cadia Trumain, S. W. Baker, John Geeger, James George, Calvin Kendall, Jacob D. Keller, D. R. Neal, J. H. Osborn & Co., A. K. Rouse; J. H. Shoemire.

Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

GEO. W. GORDON, P. M.

McElree's Wine of Cardui
and THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT are for sale by the following merchants in Auburn by Robbins & McCord.

POSTS
NOTED FOR LOW
PRICES!
ON STAPLE
DRY GOODS.
BANK BLOCK, AUBURN.

DR. FRUTH.

Of New York, the well known and successful Specialist in Chronic Diseases, and diseases of the Eye and Ear by request of many friends and patients, has decided to visit

AUBURN, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1891.

Consultation and Examination free and confidential in his parlors at the SWINEFORD HOUSE from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. One day only.

CHRONIC DISEASES, —AND— DISEASES of the EYE and EAR A SPECIALTY

FREE Consultation and Examination

DR. D. O. FRUTH,
OF THE
PROVIDENT MEDICAL DISPENSARY,
NEW YORK CITY,

Ably assisted by a full corps of competent physicians and surgeons, treats with unparalleled success all Chronic, Nervous, Skin and Blood diseases of every nature upon the latest scientific principles. He particularly invites all whose cases have been neglected, badly treated or pronounced incurable. Patients who are doing well under the care of their own physicians need not call on us, as our province is to treat those who cannot find relief otherwise. No money required of responsible parties to commence treatment.

Common Sense as Applied to Medicine. It is well known by all intelligent observers that it is impossible for any person, no matter how highly endowed by nature or acquirements, to become thoroughly conversant with all the divisions of the science of medicine. Nearly all who have obtained distinction in medicine have made some special department their life work, being fitted therefor by natural adaption or selection, special education and experience. The doctor having devoted several years to the special study of chronic diseases in hospitals and general practice, and having the most recent and improved instruments for finding out diseased conditions in the organs of the body, he proposes to devote the whole of his time to the practice of these specialties.

He adopts the following plan, which is peculiar to the large hospitals, and is not and never has been the practice of country doctors, viz.: He carefully notes the symptoms of the patient, ascertains the condition of the internal organs, examines the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat by the most recent and approved instruments and methods, all of which he carefully records in his register for future reference. In this way he ascertains the true nature of the disease and its cause. Knowing the disease, he knows the changes it produces in the tissues, and, knowing the changes, he checks them with specific remedies, and places his patient on the high road to recovery. When sick people consult him he readily tells them whether he can cure or help them, or if they are beyond hope.

The examinations are in accordance with anatomical and physical science, as he will convince the most skeptical. By an examination he will convince anyone of the nature and extent of disease, amount of danger to life, and chance of a perfect cure. Believing that science is truth and "truth is mighty and will prevail" when known, and knowing that disease can be cured with positive certainty, he invites the afflicted to call and receive advice free and be cured of their diseases.

There is no subject that requires so much study and experience as the treatment and cure of chronic diseases. The astonishing success and remarkable cures performed by him is due to a thorough knowledge of the structure and functions of the human system, and the cure of diseases by natural remedies. Let those given up by others call for examination. He has successfully treated the following diseases since his arrival in this State: Eye and Ear diseases, Chronic Diarrhœa, Chronic Inflammation of the Womb, Chronic Inflammation of the Bladder, Painful or Irregular Menstruation, Fever Sores and Ulcers, Incontinence of Urine, Tape Worms, Crooked Limbs and Enlarged Joints, Spinal Curvatures, Club Foot, Hip Joint Disease, White Swelling, Discharging Abscesses, Sterility or Barrenness, Nervousness and General Debility, Impotency, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Leucorrhea or Whites, Blotches, Pimples, Skin Diseases, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Dropsy, Cancer, Epileptic Fits, Erysipelas, Gravel, Goitre, Gleet, Gonorrhoea, Hydrocele, Heart Disease, Headache, Piles, Hysteria, Syphilis, St. Vitus Dance, Chronic Dysentery, Enlarged Tonsils, Fistula in Ano, Hernia or Rupture, Ovarian Tumors, Paralysis, Prolapsus Uteri, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Scrofula, Consumption, Chronic Cough, Female Weakness, Spermatorrhoea, Rheumatism, etc. All surgical operations performed.

Curing of Piles guaranteed. Will give $1,000 for any case of failure. No money required of responsible parties.

Young Men who through ignorance or the careless exuberance of youthful spirits, have been unfortunate and find themselves in danger of losing their health and embittering their after lives may call with full confidence.

DR. FRUTH—Has attained the most wonderful success in the treatment of the cases to which he devotes his special attention. After years of experience he has discovered the most infallible method of curing weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, loss of memory, trembling and timidity, diseases of the nose, throat and lungs, affections of the liver, stomach and bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary habits of youth and secret practices, blighting the most radiant hopes and rendering marriage impossible.

Epilepsy, or Fits, positively cured by a new and never-failing method.

Private Diseases.—Blood Poison, Syphilis, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Hydrocele, Varicocele, Loss of Sexual Power and all diseases of the genito-urinary organs speedily and permanently cured. No risks incurred. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Medicine sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

Middle Aged Men, who find their vigor and vitality weakened by the traces of old complaints and their bodies racked with pain at a time when they should spend their declining years in peace and comfort, should consult Dr. Fruth at once and find the sympathy and [illegible] positively require. His cures are thorough and permanent.

Diseases of Women.—We shall continue as heretofore, to treat with our best consideration and skill the diseases peculiar to women. Our operations for Fistula, Ruptured Cervix Uteri, Ruptured Perineum, and for Stricture of the Cervical Canal, a condition resulting in sterility, have been alike gratifying both to ourselves and our patients.

Free Examination of the Urine. Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring an ounce of their urine, which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination.

Remarkable Cures perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failure. Parties treated by mail and express, but where possible personal consultation preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. List of questions free. Western Address, DR. FRUTH,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

REFERENCES—We, the undersigned, do cheerfully and conscientiously recommend Dr. Fruth as a gentleman of rare professional ability, ripe in judgment, humane to a fault, considerate in price and enthusiastic in relief of his fellow men, and we therefore urge the afflicted to avail themselves of his superior skill:—Granville M. Weeks, M. D., L. L. D., President Provident Dispensary, N. Y.; T. Meredith Maxwell, A. M., M. D., N. Y.; Orra Pomeroy, M. D., N. Y.; V. M. Davis, M. D., N. Y.; W. E. White, M. D., Toronto, Canada; E. E. Parker, A. M., M. D., Toledo, O. Also Ex-Governor Foster's Bank, Fostoria, Ohio.

FIRST IN THE FIELD

WITH NEW

SPRING GOODS!

White Goods and Embroideries
Black Goods and Embroideries,
Wool Dress Goods and Wash Dress Goods,
Kid Gloves and Hosiery,
Table Linens, Napkins, etc.,
We offer at very low prices.

CLOAKS AND WINTER GOODS Marked Way Down. For Bargains call and see

HARTER,

EAST OF COURT HOUSE,

AUBURN, - - - IND.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

LOCAL NEWS.

PIANOS & ORGANS on easy terms. Address, Davis & Husselman, Waterloo, Ind.

Take Simmons Liver Regulator in youth and you will enjoy a green old age.

Dr. S. B. Johnson, dentist, will be in his office at Waterloo on Thursday of each week.

Painting the town red means headache in the morning. Simmons Liver Regulator prevents it.

Dr. Wm. Bevier, of Waterloo, will have his office at his house this winter, and until further notice. tf

We give this week, the obituary of Mrs. Means, of Concord township, as it came too late for last week.

I prescribe Simmons Liver Regulator, and it deserves all the praise it receives. Dr. Atkinson, Siloam Springs, Ark.

The itching of the scalp, falling of the hair, resulting in baldness, are often caused by dandruff, which may be cured by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

SICK HEADACHE: Loose's Red Clover Pills cure sick headache, dyspepsia indigestion constipation, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Itch, mange, and scratches on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Woolfords Sanitary Lotion. This never fails. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana.

For purifying the blood, stimulating the appetite, and invigorating the system in the spring and early summer, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is unsurpassed. Be sure you get Ayer's Sarsaparilla and no other: else the result may be anything but satisfactory.

Second Entertainment.

The second dollar entertainment of ladies of the M. E. church will be held in the church Monday evening Feb. 2, at 7:30. The following is the program.

Singing.
Prayer.
Duet, Beautiful Sea, Mrs. Post and Mrs. Lewis.
Reading, from Samantha Allen "Among the Brethren," Mrs W. B Brown.
Solo, The Devoted Apple, Lulu Kuhlman.
Duet, Piano and Mandolin, Messrs. Davenport and Eldridge.
Reading, "What she could," Mrs. Casebeer.
Solo, Sweet Spirit hear my Prayer, Mrs. Post
Recitation, "For Disturbin of the Kwire," Blanche Shilling.
Solo, "Who's at my window?" with piano and violin accompaniment, Lulu Kuhlman.
Selection, Vicino a Te—Mori; Little German Band.

Admission 10cts for all except those who earned and paid the dollar.

McELREE'S WINE OF CARDUI for Weak Nerves.

Chicken-cholera and pips prevented and cured by Simmons Liver Regulator.

Give your pet dogs or cats Simmons Liver Regulator, when sick—it will cure them.

LOST: On Fifth street near Jackson about Jan. 13, a pair of spectacles. Finder will confer a favor by leaving them at the office of Drs. D. J. and Vesta M Swarts.

Ex Auditor C. C. Walter and daughter, Minnie, were visiting here last week, the latter the guest of Mrs Houston and other friends. Mr. Walter says he begins to feel like a real farmer again.

PILES, PILES, PILES: Loose's Red Clover Pile Remedy, is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, bleeding, itching, ulcerated and protruding piles. Price 50c. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Farmers' Institute for Allen county will be held in the circuit court room at Ft. Wayne, Jan. 30 and 31. Farmers of DeKalb are asked to attend. Should buy tickets of central traffic agents so as to get low rates.

The superior merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as an anodyne expectorant is due to a skilful combination of the most powerful ingredients. Nothing like it has ever been attempted in pharmacy, and its success in the cure of pulmonary complaints is unparalleled.

Why not earn money in spare time and evenings as local agent for warranted trees and plants? Men and women do well without experience. Send stamp for terms to J. Eugene Whitney, Rochester, N. Y. He is reliable, and pays salary to successful agents. tf

MILES' NERVE & LIVER PILLS. Act on a new principle—regulating the liver, stomach and bowels through the nerves. A new discovery. Dr. Miles' Pills speedily cure biliousness, bad taste, torpid liver, piles, constipation. Unequaled for men, women, and children. Smallest, mildest, surest! 30 doses, 25 cts. Samples free at F. E Davenport's.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft, or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavin, curbs, splints, sweeny, ring-bone, stifles, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle, warranted. The most wonderful blemish cure known. Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Indiana. tf

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.—"Mystic Cure" for rheumatism and neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord, druggists, Auburn.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

One of the best teaching pieces for the piano is without question "Lost in Sorrow: Reverie," by J. E. Ecker. It requires a very light and crisp style of execution; as a study for Staccato and Legato playing, fine phrasing, it cannot be excelled. The piece is already a great favorite and will be in good demand. Price, 40c. Ign. Fischer, publisher, Toledo, O.

Try BLACK-DRAUGHT tea for Dyspepsia.

Beuret for hardware.

Read the article on city elections.

Latest make of gasolene stoves at Beuret's.

Murillo, the new wall finish at Beuret's hardware store.

Dr. Fruth's next visit to Auburn will be Monday, Feb. 2. See his "ad."

M. B Masters was here last Friday nursing a sore hand. A felon is the trouble.

Remember the date of the farmers' institute at Waterloo, Feb. 7. All get ready and attend.

General hardware, nails and everything in that line at Beuret's, North Main street, Auburn.

Dr. W. C. Matchette one of the best known residents of Pierceton died there Jan. 15. His age was about 70.

Reuben Clouse was married to Amanda Lacy, Jan. 19, at the residence of Frank Wingard, in this township, Rev. W. L. Meese officiating.

The Auburn Windmill Company has been doing a great deal of business the past season. They report sales as good and continually increasing.

Mrs. Ax, of Waterloo, has been appointed administratrix of the estate of Joseph Ax. W. H. Leas is attorney to assist her in settling the estate.

The poles for the new electric fire alarm, have been delivered and men have been peeling them where they lie east of Freygang's harness shop.

Bristol Banner: Rev. H. M. Lamport, of Auburn, was in Bristol Thursday and preached an excellent sermon at the M. E. church in the evening.

A great deal of good matter was left out of the COURIER last week, because received after we had the paper full. Let us have them as early as possible.

Tinning done at short notice, by Beuret, Auburn. All kinds of work in his line, all repairing etc., done promptly and in good style at reasonable rates. Call on him.

Sam Buss is building the new porches for H. C. Shull's residence. When completed, as they will be during the coming spring, Mr. S. will have one of the best residences in town.

Geo Picker out in Kansas is now temporarily at work in Kansas City, Mo John Spake had a big contract in building and sent to Coffeyville, and got George to come and help him.

Dr. Nedry carried home a beautiful bible stand Saturday evening, which he had made and ornamented by covering the frame with small hemp cords. The top is of plush, and the whole thing is a beauty.

An article in our last issue about the rudeness of young men at church, will also apply to those who stand outside and annoy people passing along on the sidewalk. It is a nuisance that should be stopped.

The COURIER of last week had more than even its average amount of reading matter. We wish all who have one to spare, would lend it to their neighbors. We would like to have them see what we are doing.

The Press says a protection legislature would give us a better license law. He ought to explain what connection there is between the two. That would be as interesting as his assertion that farms are no lower in price than formerly.

Henry C. Robm, of Smithfield, was over here Thursday last. It is quite entertaining to hear Mr. R. talk of his early life, when schools were scarce and hard work abundant. He did not learn to read till he was twelve, though now he takes and reads five different newspapers.

A E. Ashley now of Ft. Wayne, was up here last week visiting his relatives, and the young friends. He is the oldest son of Joseph Ashley, who now resides at Avilla and is employed in the electric light works at Ft. Wayne. He has worked himself up to a good position there.

Among those who called on the COURIER, Friday, were Mr. Solomon Reinœhl of Fairfield Center, and Mr. A. H. Deetz, of Custer, Ind. Both are very agreeable gentlemen, and insist on the printer having the requisite amount of "dust" to liquidate their accounts on subscription. That is a noble idea and its cultivation helps to keep the mighty wheel of literature rolling.

The Dispatch objects, and very properly, to an amendment proposed to the election law by Mr. Haggard, to leave off the eagle, rooster, etc. But this is no worse than Gov. Hovey's plan. He wants the ballots put into the voter's hands a week or so before the election, so he can fix it up. This is just what the boodlers want. Hovey and Haggard are both good republicans, and don't want an anti boodle law.

It is said that the farmers are going to re-organize the debating society at Shugers' school house, in the near future. They had thought a discontinuance of that class of meetings would give them better opportunities to develop an interest in the Farmers' Alliance, and while they have succeeded admirably in the undertaking, they are compelled to acknowledge these literary societies as being among the prime educators of our land.

We see that the Mennonite Publishing Co, of Elkhart, is now ready to deliver their history of the Fretz Family, in which the descendants of John and Christian Fretz, now in various parts of America, will have a place. This family may be found almost everywhere, several of them being in this county. It will be of interest to them to know they can get this book by sending the money to the above named firm, the price being $1.35 to $3.10, by mail, according to style of binding.

Mr. Price West, a rising young lawyer is now permanently located in Auburn, having formed a partnership in the law with Hon. E. D. Hartman, one of our best known attorneys. The change was made Jan. 1, and the new firm are now in shape to assist their clients when their services are needed. We believe they will make a strong team, and wish them abundant success. It might not be amiss to say that Mr. West is a son of Fisher West, who lives over in Allen county, and is one of the best known farmers in his section.

Those who have not as yet seen the New Process Vapor stove, at Beuret's, should do so. It is a great invention. All you have to do is to turn a little gate and the gasolene goes to the burner in the form of gas, and you light it without waiting for it to heat as in the old kind. It seems almost impossible, but that is just the way it does. It makes no flash, no smoke nor smell, and burns quietly in a large blaze, covering the bottom of the kettle or other vessel used and so heating much quicker. Every one who is going to get a new gasolene stove should not fail to see the newest of the new, at Beuret's, in Auburn.

BLACK-DRAUGHT tea cures Constipation.

All kinds of dried fruits at Gibson's.

Fresh groceries in great variety at Gibson's.

J. A. Potter went up to Waterloo Tuesday.

Best bread and cakes in the city, baked at Gibson's.

Mrs. H. A. Stevens has a lady friend visiting her from Goshen.

Subscriptions to the new fair society at Hicksville have reached $3,000.

Hebel Bros., are still on deck with an unusually fine line of fresh groceries.

For first-class photos, call on J. G. Clapp, north side East Seventh street.

For a fine line of family groceries, call on Brandon, at No. 51, North Main street.

Mrs. Wm. McIntyre and Miss Lillie McTighe visited friends near Sedan, last Friday.

Closing out robes and blankets regardless of cost. Look out for bargains! Wm. Sheffer.

Miss Sadie Lochner, one of Hopewell's popular young ladies, is whiling away a few days with friends in town.

Miss Edith Trentman has returned to school at Ft. Wayne, after being at home a few days on account of ill health.

For good, fresh groceries, call on H. J. Mossey at No. 38 South Main street. New goods weekly, and prices reasonable.

Kessler Bros., for the finest brands of cigars. K. & B., Young America, Golden Rule and Bill Head, are the leading brands.

Dr. Wood of Angola, was here Tuesday. He is called to assist in Mrs. Frank Hogue's case. It does not appear that she is any better.

G. H. Yesbera, the tailor, will be in Cleveland all this week, looking up the best goods and latest styles. He is getting ready for the spring trade.

The new cigar factory on Eight street, starts out well. They have several hands employed, and are stripping and rolling up the leaves at a rapid rate.

Inventors who wish to obtain patents or wish to sell rights in patents should address, Chas McClellan, Solicitor of Claims, 612 F. St. N. W. Washington, D. C.

The committee on mileage of members gave Mr. Kelley 316 miles as a round trip and Brown of Angola, twenty miles farther north, only 260. DeKalb boys get the plum always.

Mrs Sawvell went over to Butler last Thursday, and from there up to their home in Franklin township. This gave Mr. Sawvel a chance to learn housekeeping for a few days.

You should not forget to notice the local columns for information in regard to what our live business men have for sale. You will find it an advantage to call on those who advertise.

Every student of U. S history should cut out and keep the article in last week's COURIER about the almost forgotten state of "Frankland." We presume some never heard of it.

Rev. Mr. Healy enters on his regular work here next Sunday, when he will preach both morning and evening. After this date there will be services every Sunday morning and evening.

Daniel Lung of Cedar Creek has moved up to Fremont in Steuben county, where he will help his uncle, Noah Lung to care for things. The latter has no family now, and is besides in poor health.

Will Little is getting pretty solid with the farmers, as we notice a good many of them call on him when they want their teams fed. It don't pay to let a team stand out all day after it has been driven to town.

A bill is up in the legislature to punish a wife beater by tying him up to a post in public and giving him 60 lashes, his only clothing to be a woolen shirt. Wonder if the member had DeKalb county in his mind?

Dr. Vesta Swarts who is attending Mrs. Moody, thinks there are signs of improvement. The case has been one requiring extremely careful treatment, owing to the probable internal injuries received at the Christmas runaway.

We doubt if northern Indiana has another as pretty and as neatly kept cigar factory as that of Kessler Brothers, in Auburn. The room is new and convenient and handsomely fitted up and furnished, and the boys keep it up in parlor style.

Marshal Pfefferl has been as faithful scraping the crossings this winter as Marshal Picker was last winter, and that is saying a good deal. And when Joe can't attend to it, his assistant, Bob. Simpson takes a hand. The marshal business is in good hands.

Mr. Lamport delivered a most excellent sermon to a crowded house Sunday. The new church will be dedicated Feb 15. The sermon will be by a noted divine from New York City. On Feb. 8, they expect to have a farewell sermon in the old church which will be one to call up many memories of days gone by.

The C. L. S. C. will meet next Saturday afternoon with Mrs McIntyre. As there is no regular work for that day the program will consist of literary exercises. Quotations from Milton, at roll call. Paper, on Cromwell, Miss Ramsey; Characteristics, Mrs. Clifton; Recitation, Mrs. McIntyre; Box, Mrs. Carruth; Select Reading, Mrs. Plum; Music, Miss Davis.

We publish to-day an illustrated article from the Indianapolis Daily Sun, a paper that speaks highly of Mr. Kelley, though it likes to talk about his big voice. We have of course, no intention of ridiculing our member, for he is one of the very best, as all down there agree But we know the people of DeKalb county, will be pleased to hear from their member even in a humorous way. It will be seen that he is abundantly able to take care of himself.

Rev. C. H. Payne D. D. of New York City, corresponding secretary of the educational society of the M. E. church has been secured for the dedicatory service of the new M. E. church. Dr. Payne is an able pulpit orator measuring up with the Bishops and leading divines of the day. He has been at the front in the educational work, having been the honored president of the Ohio Wesleyan University of Delaware for a number of years. This will be a rare treat for our people and all ought to go and hear him.

As the winter season goes on to its close, people seem to be about as apt in finding fault with the weather, as they are during the heat and drouth of summer. We should all bear in mind that if the management on weather would attempt to meet the ideas of sixty millions of people, each one of whom, has an individual desire to be gratified, it would be assuming a herculanean task with no possible chance of its accomplishment. The winter with us has been very mild, while across the Atlantic, this is said to be the hardest winter since Napoleon's campaign in Russia.

WINE OF CARDUI, a Tonic for Women.

Ho! ho!! A masquerade next Saturday!!!

Mrs. Dr. Adams, who has been sick, is improving.

Mr. Craig who has been quite ill, is able to sit up.

Miss Kittie Dills has been sick for a few days, though better now.

J. N. Wilson and wife spent Sunday in Waterloo the guest of their son.

The Avilla News says that Supt. F. D. Britton, of the B. & O., has resigned.

A. M. St. Clair is the next man who pays up to '92. Al. is good pay always.

Hon. Nick Ensley came up from Indianapolis on Monday. He reports the family all well.

Mrs. Fair is sick this week, at the home of G. C. Ralston, but we believe not seriously so.

Mrs. Aggie Murray, a former Waterloo girl, was here yesterday the guest of Mrs. H. B. McCord.

A full car load of horses was shipped Tuesday by the parties that are buying at Trout's livery barn.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Barne Friday afternoon. All come.

Frank Draggoo was in town last week He has been away for a few years, but will again make Concord his home.

Frank Park, of Kendallville, was here Tuesday. He is agent for the heaters, such as Frank Zimmerman has in use.

For a good, smooth and clean shave done up in style, call on B. F. Stahl, the "south side laborer," at 100 South Main street.

The Eagle Iron Works at the Junction have the contract for making the large sash weights for the new M. E. church.

Henry McIntyre went down to Ft. Wayne Monday afternoon, We believe it was for some special treatment for rheumatism.

For fine bread, cakes, pies, etc., fresh from the oven every day, call on H. Groscup, next door to Hoff's on West Seventh street.

The new M. E. church is nearing completion. The organ and the stained windows are here. Workmen are putting in the gas machine.

Masks of all sizes, kinds and appearances. Most complete stock ever brought to the city. Come and see them at Robbins & McCord's.

B. Koontz, at Columbia City, sends in his check to '92 on the COURIER and says they look for it each week to hear the news from the old home county.

Mrs. Jacob Rectenwald and Mrs. Samuel Noel, from near Garrett, were up here Monday, and called on the COURIER folks. Always glad to see our friends.

Mr. Hineman, a horse buyer will be at Trout's livery barn for a week or two buying all the good horses he can get. All who wish to sell should call and see him.

Joseph Myles, of Detroit, was here Tuesday on some business matter. He is a brother-in-law of Judge McClellan, and a prominent business man of his city.

D. A. Garwood informed us that a letter from Washington says that Charles McClellan has become editor of one of the papers there. We did not learn the name.

Meetings at the Baptist church are still in progress. Mr. Smith preached a strong sermon Sunday evening, and is doing the greater part of the work all the week.

Mr. Coffinberry is having the stone hauled for the new house he is expecting to build on the lot south of James Draggoo's. We believe he is to begin it early in the spring.

John Rickel, of Rochester, father of W. D. Rickel was here this week He is an old time Auburn man, and always finds plenty of friends when he gets back here.

Prof. D. J. Taylor the man dressmaker whose serious illness caused so much concern, is on the street again, and attributes his recovery to the skillful attention of Dr. Buchtel.

Mrs. George Lawrence, died at her home in Garrett Sunday, and was buried here Tuesday. She was Don and Holly Lawrence's mother, and she and her husband were well known here.

Hicksville Independent: Apples are retailing here at five cents apiece. We know of an exchange that was offered by one of our merchants of a barrel of oranges for a barrel of apples.

The workmen tried to dig a pit for the gas generator at the new church this week, but the ground was frozen. So they put on a big pile of stable litter and left it there to thaw the ground.

The L. L. C. will meet this week with Mrs. Ralston. Mrs Houser, leader. Lesson from 43d to 59th pages. Holland and its People, Mrs. Rose; Review of the prominent events of last year, Mrs. Zimmerman.

Frank Powers, who is employed in the band saw mill, got his fingers against the saw last Saturday, week, and they were badly cut. But he will save them in fair shape after all. His hand is healing nicely.

Not much of public interest has been done at court for two weeks, as it has been at work only a part of the time; mostly estate and such cases. The rape case against Bundy, jury disagreed. The U. B. case goes over to next term, as radicals were not ready. Court closes this week.

Rev. J. W. Stringfellow preached to a crowded house Sunday evening. His discourse was eloquent and argument decisive. Four accessions were made to the church at the morning meeting. It is hoped that he will see great results coming from his efforts, as well as those of the other churches, who are holding meetings at this time.

Lagrange Democrat: "Through the kindly offices of Congressman McClellan, Smith Munger has been placed upon the pension list with several hundred dollars back pay. Mr. Munger's case was a deserving one, but for many years it had hung fire in the department and but little headway was made until the last few months. Mr. Munger is to be congratulated."

Removal.

J. N. Wilson & Son, will remove their boot and shoe store next week to their new location north of the public square, the room so long occupied by the postoffice. The room has been thoroughly refitted, and repaired, and is in good shape for their business. Here they will as usual keep a full line of the best goods at the fairest prices, and they ask all their old customers and also many new ones, to remember the new place and call on them.

McElree's WINE OF CARDUI for female diseases.

Bar Resolutions.

At a meeting of the bar next day after Mr. Dills' death, the following resolutions were adopted, but we did not receive them till too late for insertion. J. E. Rose presided and H J. Shafer was secretary:

WHEREAS, William H. Dills, who was an active practitioner of this bar died suddenly at his home in Auburn, Ind., of heart disease, on the 15th day of January 1891. therefore,

Resolved, That we deeply feel the unexpected and mournful event of his death as members of the same profession and practitioners in the court with him, and we shall remember him as one whose ability in his profession and devotion to his calling were recognized not only by the members of the bar, and the many who intrusted important business to him during the more than thirty five years of his professional life, but also in being elected at the beginning of his practice to the office of prosecuting attorney and in later years nominated by the convention of his party for the office of circuit judge.

RESOLVED: That the sincere sympathy and condolence of the members of the bar are extended to his family and that as a token of the same and in memory of the departed these resolutions be spread upon the records of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and a copy thereof furnished to the widow of deceased

E. D. HARTMAN, } Com.
L. J. BLAIR. }

Farmers' Institute.

Program for Farmers' Institute to be held at Waterloo, Feb. 7, 1891.

FORENOON SESSION.

Song.
Prayer, by Rev. Mygrantz.
Song.
Opening address by R. M. Lockhart.
Recitation, Mrs. J. C. Hodges.
Corn Culture, Emory Johnston.
Discussion.
Song.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Song.
Ensilage and Silos in connection with Winter Dairying, J. C. Hodges.
Discussion led by W. Fulton.
Song.
The Most Profitable Stock for the Farmer, Cal Husselman.
Discussion led by J. W. Clark.
Song.
Recitation.
Best Rotation for Field Crops, Joseph Koch.
Discussion led by J. Y. W. McClellan.
Song.
Question Box.

A. B. WALSWORTH, Pres. S. H. HINE, Sec.

Mail Bag Keys.

And just here a word about mail locks and keys. All over this whole great country, from Maine to California, and from St. Paul to New Orleans, every mail lock is the exact counterpart of every other one of the many hundreds of thousands; and everyone of these, the key in any post office in the country, whether it be the smallest cross-roads settlement or the immense New York City office, will lock and unlock. Every key is numbered, and though the numbers run high into the thousands,—the key which I last used was number 79,600,—a record of every one is kept by the Government, and its whereabouts can be told at any time. Once in six or seven years, as a measure of safety, all the locks and keys are changed. New ones of entirely different pattern are sent out, and the old ones are called in and destroyed.—Max Bennett, in February St. Nicholas.

Dr. Fruth.

We again call the attention of our readers to the large advertisement of Dr. Fruth, in this issue of our paper. The doctor's wonderful success in handling that class of diseases which are beyond the skill of the general practitioner, is already becoming a subject for comment in our community. Were there more like Dr. Fruth, with the ability and disposition to spend their best years in mastering diseases that others neglect, untold misery and other valuable lives would be spared. The increasing numbers that throng his parlors at each succeeding visit speaks well for the doctor, and shows a keen appreciation for superior skill and abilility on the part of the afflicted. He again offers an opportunity for free consultation, which is sacredly confidential, in his parlors at the Swineford House, Monday afternoon, February 2nd, 1891.

Change of Firm.

The popular south side grocery has changed hands lately. Charles Schnell is back in there again with Ed. Weeks as partner. They began the 2nd of January and the two are working together nicely to build up and keep business. They ask all their old customers to remember them and bring in a few friends likewise. This firm is a good one and will do a good business. They will not only keep the best and freshest of goods, but guarantee reasonable prices. Call on them at the California grocery south of the public square.

Our Next Fairs.

At the recent meeting of the various fairs at Waterloo it was found the dates for this section had been fixed as follows:

South Bend, Ind.	Sept	15
Auburn, Ind.	"	15
Ligonier, Ind.	"	15
Montpelier, Ohio.	"	15
Hicksville, Ohio.	"	22
Angola, Ind.	"	22
Kendallville, Ind.	"	23
Bremen, Ind.	"	29
Waterloo, Ind.	Oct.	5

Patents Granted

to inventors in the state of Indiana during the past week reported by C. A. Snow & Co., patent attorneys and agents for procuring patents, opposite U. S. office, Washington, D. C.

F. H. Abbot, Chrisney, saw gumming machine; D. Munson, Indianapolis, pie-lifter.

A Lady at Portland, Ind.,

writes under date of Jan. 7, 1861 after using two weeks of POSITIVE PAINLESS PILE CURE: "S. U. Tarney, Dear sir: I am almost well. I shall take pleasure in telling others that are afflicted as I was.
Yours Truly,
8-5 MRS. NETTIE GEIGER.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Peters, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 2nd day of March, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of January 1891. AUGUSTUS BARTELS, Administrator 3t

E. D. HARTMAN, Att'y.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1843.

It had been raining, freezing as it fell, until the tree-tops were broken under their load of ice. That day and for several days, it seemed that the cattle must all die; for when the trees were cut down for browse, the small twigs, incased in a hard coat of ice, would break off, with the ice adhering and mingle with the snow. Besides this, the crust on the snow was so thick and hard that the cattle could hardly get about.

The wild animals also suffered almost as much as the domestic ones. It was nothing unusual to see squirrels so reduced as to be easily caught by hand.

'Squire Cooper while out hunting for bee trees came upon the partially eaten carcasses of nine deer. John Cobler discovered eighteen wild turkeys lying frozen under one roost and smaller game were destroyed in great numbers.

Some settlers lost all their hogs and two men, Mr. Rickett and James Hite lost one hundred each.

The end at last came and that week sent the snow, in another form to Lake Erie, and in a few weeks, herbage began to appear and hope sprang up again in the settler's heart.

Meanwhile the village of Auburn, remained in the woods, although lots changed ownership, people went and came and now and then one came to stay. There was little as yet to attract other than the speculator.

The county officials made here a temporary home and occasionally a log hut or frame building, for dwelling or business, was erected. In the fall of 1843, the public square was partially logged but not burnt off and the main street was encumbered with logs from the office put up for the auditor to Ingman's, later "Long's Hotel" now, the office and residence of doctors D. and V. Swarts, and all west of this was woods up to lot No. 72, once the business stand of Stiefel & Wolf, later known as "Grangers' Hall." Long's Hotel is the building on Sixth and Cedar streets.

Woods intervening shut off the view from the houses and firewood was close at hand.

Early in the spring the contract was let for the building of a school house. It was built by Messers Beck and McCrum, residents of Richland township and stood just west of the Stiefel & Wolf store.

Shortly after the school house was put up, the term of court was held and the room was arranged for judicial use. "A rough platform of boards was erected at the end for a judgment seat, a fence of unplaned boards was fixed across for a bar, and to warm the house an old, cracked stove was set up. Here on May 1st, court convened. Ariel Walden and Nelson Payne, Esquire, associate judges were present the first day. S. W. Sprott, clerk and J. Puffenbarger, sheriff. Samuel Henderson was bailiff, James W. Borden was judge president."

The October term was also held here and the docket was not lengthy. People had gone to law for slander, larceny and malicious trespass. This last was most numerous besides these there were instances of divorce, perjury and assault. Some of our townspeople served on the jury that term and can verify Judge Mott's statement that the old stove made such eloquent pleas, whenever a fresh supply of fuel was put in, as to move the whole court and bar to tears, not excepting even the hard hearted lawyers, with eyes "unused to weep." On such occasions to give vent to the deep emotions of the court (or the smoke) the door of the house had to be opened.

E. B. Mott was the school teacher in this building during the winter of '43 and '44. The size of his school, the studies pursued, the discipline enforced, the names of the pupils are unknown and who the other teachers were is not remembered.

(To be continued next week.)

At Rest.

Isabel Means (nee Watson) was born Feb. 15, 1821, in Richland (now Ashland) county, Ohio. In 1836, she, with her parents, came to DeKalb county, Ind., and settled in Jackson township, which was at that time a vast wilderness, containing but few houses. In 1839, she was united in marrige to James Means. To this union was born three sons and three daughters; of whom, one son and two daughters died in infancy. A husband, three children, four brothers, two sisters, three grandsons and one granddaughter have preceded her to the unknown realms. Two sons, one daughter, two grandsons, ten granddaughters, one brother and three sisters, survive her.

She united with the Methodist church in the summer of 1839, where she remained a consistent member until 1864, when the society disbanded. After this she attended the M. P. church, when she could.

She departed this life, Jan. 11, 1891, aged 69 years, 10 months and 27 days.

A few days ago while conversing with her daughter, in answer to the latter's question, "What are you looking at?", she said: "I am looking at the angels." For three years she has been a very great sufferer. She has, many times, prayed for the Lord to take her home to rest.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. B. Stanton, pastor of the M. E. church at Spencerville, Jan. 13, 1891.

Dear mother, your afflictions were hard to bear,
But now, your every pain is o'er;
And a starry crown you'll wear,
With the angels on the golden shore.

Immortal, thy trials are no more,
For thou art in the unseen land;
Thou hast left the things of earthly love,
To view the city at God's right hand.

Farewell, dear mother, we bid thee adieu,
As we consign thy body to the tomb;
No more on earth we'll meet you,
Thy spirit dwells with Jesus at home.

Thy songs of praise will never cease,
While thou art on the golden strand,
And thy soul shall forever rest in peace,
Eternally, with that angel band.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - PUBLISHER.

NEWS FROM ALL OVER.

OVER FIFTY PERSONS KILLED IN A MINE EXPLOSION.

Hacked Herself to Death—Chili Revolution—Vilas Elected—A Paper Mill Blown Up—A Marshal Killed.

LARGE LOSS OF LIFE.

Over Fifty Persons Killed in a Mine Explosion.

A terrible mine explosion occurred at the Mammoth works of the H. C. Frick Coke Company at Mammoth, Pa. The mines are on the Sewickley branch of the Southwest Branch Railroad, and are about half way between Latrobe and Mt. Pleasant. There seems to be something the matter with the wires of both the telephone and telegraph companies, as even the Frick employes are almost entirely without definite information. At the time of the accident there were between fifty and eighty men at work in the shaft, which is not a very deep one. There was a sudden explosion of gas at the point where the men were at work, and from present indications it looks as though most of them were killed.

Word has been received at Mt. Pleasant, that eighteen bodies had been taken from the mine. The machinery which runs the fan was not damaged, and plenty of fresh air has been forced into the mine to sustain the living, and to allow rescuing parties to enter in safety and bring out the bodies. The mine was badly wrecked in places, and it is not possible to get an accurate idea of the number of living or injured who may be buried or imprisoned. There is no fire in the mine resulting from the explosion, so there will be definite news in a short time. It is said that most of the killed are either English-speaking or German miners. The shaft is about 100 feet deep, and has a number of galleries. Superintendent Keighley, who was the inspector in charge at the Dunbar mine after its accident, has charge of these works. He has organized relief parties and is busily engaged in trying to penetrate the entries.

A later dispatch says that one hundred and ten men were killed in the explosion. Sixty bodies have been taken out so far. The mine is on fire, and it is feared the bodies of the others will be cremated.

Chili Revolution.

The revolutionary fleet has blockaded the port of Tongeri, Chili, and the government has dispatched 3,000 troops under the command of Gen. Torborallis to the relief and reinforcement of that place. It is reported that a battle has occurred at Tongeri between the government troops and the insurrectionist forces, but nothing is known as to the result of the engagement, if one has actually occurred. The revolutionists have occupied Limich Alto, province of Valparaiso, and have seized upon the national factories there, after having expelled the government director, who remained loyal to the fortunes of President Balmacedia. Quilot Aquilot, a town of about 12,000 population, in the same province, has also been captured by the rebels.

A Paper Mill Blown Up.

The Rock Falls Paper Mills at Sterling, Ill., was blown up by an explosion of "bleach." The mill was demolished. Two men, John Meyers and Alonzo Bell, have been taken from the ruins dead. Three or four other workmen are missing and are supposed to be in the ruins. The accident happened just at the hour the day and night forces were changing places and as many were coming and going, it will be impossible to know who is missing until daylight.

Diabolical Deed of Boys.

While skating on a pond at Milwaukee, Freddy Hackbarth and August Priese, both aged 12 years, were seized by three older boys, who said they wanted to "make niggers of them." After a fire had been lighted the little fellows' faces were held over the fire until the flesh rolled off and both may lose their eyesight. They will, at any rate, be disfigured for life. No arrests have yet been made. The cries of the youngsters brought workmen in the vicinity to their relief, and the older ones made good their escape.

Mrs. Flack is Dead.

Mrs. Flack, formerly the wife of James A. Flack, ex-Sheriff of New York, died of paralysis. The District Attorney said he could not say what effect her death would have on the new trial of James A. Flack and his son for criminally conspiring in the divorce matter.

Marshal Killed by a Negro Outlaw.

Deputy United States Marshal Bass Reeves, was shot and killed by a negro outlaw named Christie, at Fort Smith, Ark. Christie was being arrested for a murder committed some time ago.

Hacked Herself to Death.

Leva Hemmer, a German girl, committed suicide at San Francisco. She stood before the mirror and hacked her head to pieces with a meat cleaver.

Vilas Elected Senator.

Both houses of the Wisconsin legislature elected William F. Vilas to succeed John C. Spooner as United States Senator, by a strict party vote.

Gone to Work at Last.

So far as outward appearances go, the Colorado Legislature has at last adjusted its differences, and settled down to the transaction of business for the people for the first time in nearly three weeks.

Incendiary Vandals in Ohio.

An attempt was made to destroy the Record building at Oberlin, Ohio. Some persons having a grudge against Mr. Wagner, the publisher of the paper, broke into the building and set fire to the structure, but some attaches from the adjoining hotel discovered the flames in time to save the building. This is the second attempt to destroy the place by setting fire to it by unknown persons.

Shot by Burglars.

John Heslop, Treasurer of Ancaster Township, Ont., was shot and killed by burglars, who afterwards ransacked the house.

Church Lotteries Doomed.

A special from St. Paul, Minn., says: The Catholic Church, which, up to the present time, has permitted lotteries at fairs for the raising of money for church purposes, is to shut down on all such practices, at least in this section of Minnesota and North and South Dakota. Archbishop Ireland has issued the following order: "Public sentiment has become so pronounced, and rightly so, against lotteries and chance games that we deem it our duty to prohibit altogether, as we now do, the raising of money for religious or charitable purposes by the sale of chances, the use of wheels of fortune or by any method savoring of lottery or gambling. This rule, which we now make, admits of no exception. It applies to counties as well as to towns, to convents as well as parishes."

STRANGLED.

A Mother's Death Charged to Her Drunken Son.

Springfield (O.) special: From all appearances another harrowing deed is added to the bloody annals of crime in this city. Mrs. Bridget Doyle, a widow of 66 years, was found dead in bed with all the indications of a bloody and violent death. The bed and all were covered with blood-splashes, and a pool of blood had formed on the floor beside the bed. John, alias "Doggy," Doyle is suspected of the murder, and now lies in jail awaiting the decision of the coroner's inquest. The home where the suspected crime was committed, is a small, single, one-story frame on North Sycamore street, in the eastern part of the city. The neighborhood is badly stirred up, and it is the universal belief among the dead woman's neighbors that her drunken and dissolute son is her murderer. The room in which the dead woman was found bears all the sickening indications of an awful struggle for life. The bed was disheveled and in frightful disorder. Upon it lay the body of the woman. Her face was bruised, swollen and discolored by marks of violence, and covered with blood. Finger prints upon the throat and blood oozing from her nose and ears indicated death by strangulation. The hands were frightfully cut and bloody and covered with bruises, as if given in a death struggle. The bed clothing and mattress were saturated with water, showing either an effort on the part of the murderer to efface the evidence of his crime, or else to revive his victim after the strangling.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

At Brussels Over the Death of Prince Baudouin Heir Apparent.

The excitement created by the announcement of the sudden death of Prince Baudouin, heir to the throne of Belgium, increases hourly and is fed by the alarming rumors already in circulation as to the cause of the unexpected catastrophe. One of these rumors which gains the attentive ear of the public hints that when the mystery now surrounding the affair is dispelled, it will be found to be in circumstances and details almost a repetition of the tragedy which recently culminated in Austria with the death of Arch Duke Rudolph and the young Baroness Vetzers. Attention is directed to the fact that a German governess was recently, and under peculiar circumstances, dismissed from her place at the court of Brussels. It is now said that this woman has been engaged in an entrigue with Prince Bauduion, which resulted in the birth of a child. The official notice of death gives a hemorrhage as the cause and states that the prince had been suffering from a chill resulting from prolonged attendance at the bedside of his sister Henrietta, who has been critically ill. She has not been allowed to learn of her brother's death, for fear the news will cause a fatal termination of her illness.

The Prince's death leaves Prince Albert heir to the throne. He is a brother to the late Prince Bauduion and was born April 8, 1875.

THE LAST TRAIN ROBBERY.

Particulars of the $20,000 Haul Made by Texas Bandits.

A special from Brownsville, Texas, says: Additional particulars have been received of the train wrecking and robbery on the Rio Grande Railroad on the 19th, in which the bandits secured $20,000 in silver on the way to New Orleans. The train left here in the morning with passengers for the steamship Morgan at Brazos. When twelve miles from here the train was derailed by obstructions placed on the track at a point in the hills near the river bank. Fifteen masked men then plundered the express car, taking the silver shipment above mentioned, and rifled the United States mail pouches. The passengers were then held up and plundered of their money and valuables. The robbers then blindfolded the passengers and trainmen, forced them into a box car, locked them in and left. The derailed cars caught fire from the overturned locomotives, and but for the timely appearance of some countrymen near the scene, the imprisoned passengers and trainmen would have perished in the flames. The fireman and engineer were seriously injured when the locomotive went over, but fortunately no lives were lost. Officers are on the track of the bandits, but as they are supposed to have crossed the river into Mexico, there is little prospect of their being captured.

FOUND HER ON THE STAGE.

A Chicago Man Discovers His Divorced Wife and Marries Her.

A heavily bearded man who said he was G. L. Thompson, a commercial man of Chicago, caused a sensation at the Park Theater, Boston, Mass., by raising from his seat in the orchestra, and pointing out a pretty chorus singer with his finger, saying audibly "Kate." He sank into his chair a moment later, but after the first act made his way to the stage door, and rushing past the door-keeper, soon clasped the singer he had looked at so steadfastly in his arms. The singer, who has been with the Ship Ahoy company, which was playing there, refused to go on again, and left with the stranger. The woman was the divorced wife of the man, and the couple had been parted by the machinations of her parents. The man said he had been searching for the wife for four years, but had not found her until now. Her name was Laura Curtis, and her parents still reside in Chicago. The couple were immediately re-married, and left for New York, whence they will go to Chicago. The reconciliation was complete.

A Slick Thief.

Chicago special: The facts have just transpired in regard to a clever theft of a very valuable package of letters belonging to the Northwestern National Bank. The bank messenger called at the postoffice for the bank's mail, and was given part of it and was told to call for the remainder in fifteen minutes. Just before the expiration of that time a young man, who had evidently overheard the conversation with the messenger, put his head at the delivery window and said: "I want the rest of the Northwestern bank's mail." It was given him without question and nothing more was thought of the matter till the arrival of the regular messenger. Then there was a scurrying around, but the thief had escaped and he has not since been seen. Subsequently eight of the missing letters were found in a closet. It is supposed that the stolen package consisted of about sixty letters containing from $100,000 to $150,000 mostly in checks, drafts and other non-negotiable paper.

Soldier Savages.

It is probable that one of the many attractions of Chicago during the World's Fair will be a small nation of Sioux Indians encamped at Fort Sheridan. Gen. Miles, who is expected to arrive soon from Pine Ridge Agency, proposes to bring from their reservation about two hundred Sioux warriors, enlist them in the United States army and station them at Fort Sheridan. There they will be drilled the same as white enlisted regulars and reserved for use in possible future Indian wars. "Gen. Miles has been talking over the prospect in a general way," said Col. Corbin at army headquarters, "but I don't think he has yet evolved the details. He has been thinking of bringing a couple of companies of Indians to Fort Sheridan, but before it can be done, many preliminary arrangements must be made."

Patched Up.

The joint committee representing the Republican and Democratic sides of the Montana House has signed the compromise agreement submitted by the Democrats. The point raised with reference to which journal of proceeding should be adopted was finally disposed of by an agreement to leave the matter to two Senators. If either journal is adopted legal complications will arise, and it is possible that the new organization will commence with a new journal. According to the terms of the compromise the Democrats concede three of the five contestants from Silver Bow to the Republicans, thus giving to the Republicans twenty-eight members to twenty-seven, but the Democrats will have the organization of the House.

Accident to a Motor Car.

While a steam motor car with a "trailer" attached on the street car line was running between Irvington and Indianapolis it was ditched by a defective track, and thirteen passengers and three company employes were more or less injured, none of them escaping without some sort of a bruise. Miss Mary Brown, of Irvington, had a wrist broken and was hurt internally; Miss Minnie Frederick, also of Irvington, received a badly fractured limb near the knee joint, besides internal injuries, and Thomas Kennedy, conductor, had one knee-cap dislocated and both legs badly sprained.

Hurled Over a Precipice.

An awful accident occurred at Leadville, Col., which will result in the death of Mrs. Henry Smith, aged 55 years, while a lady named Mrs. Nehslin was also badly hurt. The two ladies reside at Oro, about two miles from Leadville, and after finishing their shopping started home in a buggy. Near Oro is a steep embankment, and in some manner the horse and buggy were thrown over and the couple hurled to the bottom, a distance of 100 feet. Both ladies were internally injured and Mrs. Smith is pronounced beyond recovery.

New Messiah Craze.

The story of the spread of the messiah craze to the Minnesota Indians on the reservation near St. Hilaire and the threatened uprising proves to be an absurd fake perpetrated by a member of Gov. Merriam's staff. The officers of the Great Northern Railway, Gen. Ruger and others strenuously deny all knowledge of an uprising. It turns out to be a scheme to induce the Legislature to make a heavy appropriation for the national guard, for which a lobby is now making a strong fight.

Killed His Son.

John Miller, a blacksmith living at 12 Hudson Park, Rochester, N. Y., went home drunk, and was at once remonstrated with by his son, John Miller, for his idleness and neglect to support his family. The father attacked the son, and a desperate struggle ensued. Finally the father stabbed his son several times with a pocket-knife, from the effects of which the son died. Miller, who is under arrest, says he remembers nothing of the occurrence.

Sold to the Monopoly.

The Standard Oil Company now owns the controlling interests in the Northwestern Ohio oil fields, having completed the deal by which it comes into possession of all the territory leases, wells, tools, and privileges of C. C. Harris, of Findlay, the largest individual producer in the State. The consideration was $200,000 in cash. This is the largest single purchase of territory the Standard has made in this locality.

Burned to Death.

Mrs. Lizzie Blackson, of Pittsburgh, was on the way to the kitchen to prepare breakfast when she accidentally ran against a marble stand in the next room. The shock upset the lamp, which she carried, and exploding, set her clothing in flames. Before they were extinguished she was burned almost to a crisp. Mr. Blackson was still at his work when the accident occurred.

Blown Up With Dynamite.

Bluefield (W. Va.) special: The fourth instance in which houses in this vicinity have been blown up with dynamite occurred here recently. The home of James Collins was demolished; Moses Henry's store was partially wrecked the same night and William Roan's dwelling was demolished and several persons injured. Three arrests have been made as a result of the explosion. The town is terrorized.

A Postmaster in Trouble.

Columbus special: John L. Jones, postmaster at Newbern, Ohio, is undergoing a preliminary trial before United States Commissioner Hacker of this place, for taking a letter from the Columbus postoffice that was addressed to John Cohee, of Newbern, Ind. Cohee owed Jones a store bill and he came here and got the letter, it is charged, in which there was $24 due Cohee as a pension.

Terrible Wreck On the Union Pacific Road.

The Union Pacific passenger train was wrecked at Florena, Kans., in a collision with a double header passenger train bearing returning soldiers from the West. No particulars can be obtained as the road officials are close-mouthed. Several persons reported killed, including two engineers. The three engines and ten or twelve passenger coaches were totally wrecked.

Forty Russian Miners Killed.

Details received at St. Petersburg of the colliery explosion near Cracow state that the disaster occurred in a pit at Jusovka department. According to these details, forty miners who were at work in the pit were killed outright. Eight others were taken out in an unconscious condition, and it is feared that many of them will not recover.

50,000 Out of Work.

It is estimated that 50,000 persons have been thrown out of work in Paris, by the severe weather, and the total loss in France by the stoppage of trade and the destruction of crops is 50,000,000 francs. The newspapers urge that the churches be kept open at night as a shelter for the homeless poor. The hospitals of all sorts are overflowing.

An Aged Couple Killed.

An incoming train nearing Washington on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, ran over and instantly killed James Owens, aged 79, and his wife, Nancy, aged 74. The couple were crossing the track in a milk wagon, and as both had their ears covered for warmth, they failed to hear the train.

Fearful Fire.

Fire broke out in the store of Marous & Co., in the Warner building, Buffalo, N. Y., and the flames swept in all directions. A part of the walls fell on a squad of firemen. When the debris was removed the foreman of engine company No. 4 and one of his men were found dead and five others were taken out badly injured, two of whom will die.

Fatal Ice Carnival.

At an ice boat carnival, at Erie, Pa., while one of the crafts was traveling at a terrific speed, it ran into a log, scarcely visible above the ice. Heman Fidler had his head crushed and legs broken. He died shortly after. Henry Scharefer was badly injured. Others on board escaped with little or no injuries.

Gas Explosion.

A horrible gas explosion at Mill Grove, Blackford County, Ind., is reported. The Salimonie Gas Company, of Fort Wayne, have men there digging a gas well, and it is supposed the explosion was under the boiler. It is rumored that two men were seriously hurt and one fatally burned.

Parnell's Retirement.

The Paris Siecicle states that Mr. William O'Brien has received from Mr. Arnold Morley, the Liberal member, on the part of Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues, such guarantees for a measure of home rule as are sufficient to meet the conditions upon which Mr. Parnell will retire from the leadership of the parliamentary party.

Judge Thurman's Aged Cousin Dead.

Jobe Thurman, a cousin of Ex-Senator Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, died six miles south of Knoxville, Tenn., aged 96. Deceased was born in Virginia, but has been a resident of this section since he was an infant. He was of an eccentric nature, but respected by all.

Strike Settled.

After a complete tie-up for four days, business was resumed upon the Chicago and Erie, the strike having ended in a compromise. Scott, the discharged dispatcher, withdrew and Fallon, a scab conductor, resigned, thus removing the cause of difference between the company and the men.

An Irish Straw.

Mr. Bodkin, the acting editor of the Insuppressible, the anti-Parnellite organ, has had an interview with Mr. O'Brien in Paris, and has been ordered to take his (O'Brien's) name from the title page where it now appears, if that journal continues its attacks on Mr. Parnell.

Into an Open Switch.

The Aztec limited express of the Mexican National road, ran into an open switch near Golondrinas station, Texas. The engine turned over, killing Engineer J. W. Dehani, and fatally wounding Fireman H. Stafford. None of the passengers were injured.

The Chinese Went.

Report comes from Milton, a few miles from Pendleton, Oregon, that the Chinese were driven out of town by a mob. One hundred men went to the Chinese quarters and led the celestials out with ropes around their necks. Some of them were badly hurt.

A Watchman Burned to Death.

The towboat Silas E. Coe, belonging to William Montgomery & Co., took fire while lying at the foot of Vine street, Cincinnati, and was completely destroyed. The watchman, Carney, employed on the boat, was burned to death. The Coe was valued at $16,000.

Lieutenant Garlington.

Lieut Garlington, the Seventh Cavalry officer wounded at the recent battle of Wounded Knee, has been ordered to report to Col. E. F. Townsend, of the army examining board, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for examination for promotion.

Tin Plate at Canton.

The first tin place manufactured in this country is on exhibition at Canton, Ohio. It is one of two cups made by a St. Louis company, and presented by them to Maj. KcKinley. It is composed of 97 per cent. iron.

A State Treasurer $95,000 Short.

The count of currency in the Arkansas State Treasury proceeded. The sum of $64,000 still wanting shows the shortage to be $95,000. The balance will be made good by the bondsmen as soon as officially notified.

Indiana Refuses to Appropriate Money for the World's Fair.

The Lower House of the Indiana General Assembly after debate covering several hours, by a vote of 62 to 32, resolved not to appropriate one dollar to the World's Fair if the Federal Senate passed the force bill.

Forty Miners Killed.

Berlin special: A terrible disaster has occurred at the Hibernia Colliery at Gelsenkirchen. Forty men were killed and thirty were severely injured by an explosion which took place in one of the pits.

Killed in a Political Broil.

Police Inspector Hawley, who was shot by Harley McCoy during a discussion over the present legislative trouble, in Colorado, has since died.

The Force Bill Defeated.

By a vote of 35 to 34 the Senate laid aside the election bill, a virtual defeat for that measure. The apportionment bill was taken up.

Sudden Death of an Actress.

Miss Georgia Mortimer, 25 years old, a member of the "Night Owl" company, which is playing at Cleveland, fell dead of heart trouble.

Jewish Rabbi Falls Dead.

A. T. Harris, a Jewish rabbi, fell dead in his pulpit at Richmond, Va., just after delivering a sermon.

Fatally Shot.

Rufus Sanders was fatally shot by John Hicks, at Campton, Ala. Both were in love with the same girl.

Dropped Dead.

John Herriman, the well-known retired New York dry goods merchant, dropped dead.

THE MARKETS.

CHICAGO.
Cattle—Common to Prime....	$3.25	@	5.75
Hogs—Shipping Grades..........	3.00	@	3.75
Sheep..........................	3.00	@	5.25
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	.92	@	.92½
Corn—No. 2....................	.49	@	.49½
Oats—No. 2....................	.43	@	.43½
Rye—No. 2.....................	.70	@	.71
Butter—Choice Creamery......	.22	@	.27
Cheese—Full Cream, flats......	.09½	@	.10½
Eggs—Fresh....................	.21	@	.22
Potatoes—Western, per bu.....	.90	@	.95
INDIANAPOLIS.
Cattle—Shipping...............	3.50	@	5.00
Hogs—Choice Light............	3.00	@	3.75
Sheep—Common to Prime......	3.00	@	4.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	.95	@	.96
Corn—No. 1 White..............	.50	@	.50½
Oats—No. 2 White..............	.47	@	.47½
ST. LOUIS.
Cattle..........................	4.00	@	5.00
Hogs...........................	3.00	@	3.75
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	.93	@	.94
Corn—No. 2....................	.48	@	.49
Oats—No. 2....................	.43½	@	.44½
Barley—Iowa..................	.68	@	.70
CINCINNATI.
Cattle..........................	3.00	@	4.50
Hogs...........................	3.00	@	3.75
Sheep..........................	3.00	@	5.50
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	.98	@	.99
Corn—No. 2....................	.53	@	.54
Oats—No. 2 Mixed.............	.47	@	.48
MILWAUKEE.
Wheat—No. 2 Spring...........	.87	@	.89
Corn—No. 3....................	.48	@	.49
Oats—No. 2 White..............	.44½	@	.45½
Rye—No. 1.....................	.70	@	.71
Barley—No. 2..................	.67	@	.68
DETROIT.
Cattle..........................	3.00	@	4.50
Hogs...........................	3.00	@	3.50
Sheep..........................	3.00	@	4.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	.95½	@	.96½
Corn—No. 2 Yellow............	.52½	@	.53½
Oats—No. 2 White..............	.47½	@	.48
TOLEDO.
Wheat..........................	.95	@	.96
Corn—Cash....................	.51	@	.52
Oats—No. 2 White..............	.45½	@	.46½
BUFFALO.
Cattle—Good to Prime.........	4.00	@	5.00
Hogs—Medium and Heavy......	3.50	@	4.00
Wheat—No. 1 Hard............	1.07½	@	1.08½
Corn—No. 2....................	.55	@	.56
EAST LIBERTY.
Cattle—Common to Prime.....	3.50	@	5.00
Hogs—Light....................	3.25	@	4.00
Sheep—Medium to Good.......	4.00	@	5.50
Lambs..........................	5.00	@	6.50
NEW YORK.
Cattle..........................	3.50	@	5.50
Hogs...........................	3.25	@	4.00
Sheep..........................	4.00	@	6.00
Wheat—No. 2 Red.............	1.07	@	1.09
Corn—No. 2....................	.61	@	.62
Oats—Mixed Western..........	.51	@	.53

TERRIFIC DAMAGE DONE

THE STORM'S WILD HAVOC WITH TELEGRAPH WIRES.

Business Suspended for Twenty-four Hours—Equal to the Blizzard of '87—Vessels Overdue and Not Reported.

[New York dispatch.]

For the first time in the history of the great telegraph and telephone companies which center in this city they are completely paralyzed. Never before have they experienced such complete and absolute havoc. The condition of their lines during the memorable blizzard was nothing compared with the state of things telegraphic to-day. The storm of yesterday was by all odds the worst that the telegraph companies have ever had to deal with. The sleet storm in 1887 had the record for general havoc, because it laid low every wire belonging to any company in this town. But yesterday's storm went further even than that. An idea of what wrecking of lines was done may be gathered from the fact that out of 1,500 running out of this city the Western Union company has but three wires working this mornning. The rest, with the poles that supported them, now lie beside railroad tracks and across fields and are caught in trees.

The Postal Telegraph Company actually had not one wire working out from the city, while the Metropolitan Telegraph and Telephone Company roughly estimates—it has not yet had time to learn the exact damage—that 2,500 of its wires have been laid low. The total damage to the companies mentioned which will result from this condition of affairs is estimated at $500,000. Two weeks' unceasing effort will be required to get the wires back into the condition which existed before the storm broke and tore down the poles and wires.

Between Philadelphia and Trenton and between that point and New Brunswick the telegraphic equipment is totally wrecked. Along the line of the Pennsylvania road, the poles and wires are scattered about on the ground. All the Eastern wires are down between Williams Bridge and Stamford, and all Western wires between Williams Bridge and Croton Falls are in the same condition. At Pleasantville, which is just back of Sing Sing, every wire is down for a distance of two miles. Every one of the company's wires which run along the line of the West Shore railroad is down south of Cornwall. The poles in the same direction are also lying beside the railroad track.

The Western Union wires which run through New Jersey are piled into small heaps. On Jersey flats not a pole can be seen standing across the meadows. Reports of that kind the company received from employes who came in on trains this morning. The total number of wires usually working to the north and west is 200. The company has in the neighborhood of 1,500 wires rendered useless.

In this city the number of wires down is roughly estimated at 4,500, and the number of poles down or broken at 250. In addition to the forest of poles that were strewn about the street many were hanging in a dangerous condition. Gangs of men were busy removing the snow and wreck, and toward afternoon matters began to assume a more cheerful appearance. A long, thick, heavy veil of mist shuts out from view the Long Island, New Jersey and Staten Island shores, while down the lower bay the mist from yesterday's storm hung like a heavy fog.

It was impossible to report any incoming vessels from the highlands or Sandy Hook. Not only were they not discernible but the wires had been broken down by the heavy fall of snow and the gale that blew while the storm was in progress. Soon after daylight two big Atlantic steamships loomed up at quarantine, incrusted in snow and ice, their shrouds fringed with snow. They were the French line steamship La Bretagne and the Cunard steamship Aurania.

Both of these vessels were due yesterday, but owing to the severity of yesterday's storm and the heavy seas that were running they were compelled to slacken their speed. The ships were not reported from the Hook and their arrival was known only when they reached a position where they could be seen with glasses from the barge office. There was no way of communicating with quarantine, as the wires could not be made to work. Lookouts were placed in the tower of the barge office with glasses in order to sight and report vessel arrivals.

The wires between this city and Fire Island and Barnegat also were down and not a ship was reported from either place. As far as could be seen from the barge office the bay was strewn with vessels with their whole canvas spread out to dry. It presented a picture that is rarely seen, and afforded pleasure for many curiosity-seekers.

Rolls and tangled nets of telegraph, telephone, and electric wires filled Brooklyn's streets, causing a damage estimated at $150,000.

Dissatisfied with the Gentiles.

There is no little excitement at Ogden, Utah, over the coming biennial election. The present Gentile administration has had many enemies, and there is a strong anti-ring feeling in the Liberal party, and a citizens' party has been formed which ignores the old party lines and will endeavor to place Mormons on its ticket. This new party has secured control of a number of the wards, and it is expected unless a satisfactory ticket is nominated that the Citizens' party will by securing the Mormon vote make a close race for the control of the city.

To Tax Patented Mining Claims.

There is considerable uneasiness among mining men in Nevada on account of a movement in the Legislature to tax all patented mining claims in the State. If carried out, this revenue alone will increase the Treasury many thousands of dollars.

The Texas Pistol Law.

The bill amending the pistol law so as to eliminate the imprisonment feature of thirty days was killed in the Texas House. The law remains the same. It fines the pistol carrier $25 to $200 and imprisons him in jail thirty to ninety days, but the latter is not imperative.

G. A. R. Appointment.

Commander-in-chief W. G. Veasey, of the G. A. R., has appointed ex-Gov. R. J. Oglesby a member of the National Memorial-Hall Committee in place of Judge Walter Q. Gresham, who declines.

Freedmen's Aid Society.

The Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church is now holding a jubilee at Cincinnati by way of celebrating the results of the work of a quarter of a century.

Little Colorado Strike.

The Colorado Springs Electric line has been tied up. The conductors and motor men have struck on account of a reduction in their wages from $55 per month to $49.50.

A Spaniard Hanged.

Ramon Lopez was hanged at Santa Barbara, for the murder of Mary Diserello.

THE SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAW-MAKERS.

Proceedings of the Senate and House of Representatives—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—Gist of the Business.

TURBULENCE again marked the proceedings of the House on the 21st, and again also it was over the approval of the journal. Mills, Bland, Rogers, and Breckinridge on the Democratic side, and Speaker Reed, McKinley, and Boutelle on the Republican, were the warring parties. At times intense feeling characterized the debate—or, more properly speaking, the quarrel—and the gallery was packed by an eager, listening throng. The scene was highly dramatic. Speaker Reed, pale, but calm and firm, listened to Rogers' scathing tirade in silence, and when it was ended made a ruling squarely against the wishes of the Democrats. In the Senate also the journal became a bone of contention, and a very acrimonious debate ensued. It was as to whether or not the Senate had decided to proceed with consideration of the cloture rule. Mr. Gorman held that no such decision had been reached, while the journal announced that it had. He spoke strongly against the Senate ignoring the laws established for its own government. He carried his point, and the journal was corrected. No further business of importance was transacted.

IN the Senate, on the 22d, Mr. Aldrich said that the journal disclosed the fact that it was the determined policy of the Democratic Senators to prevent any legislation or action unless their wishes as to certain measures should be acceded to. The action of the minority was revolutionary and would be resisted. When Mr. Aldrich had concluded his remarks he moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of his resolution for a change of the rules. A point of order was made that the unfinished business was the motion to correct Tuesday's journal. A long discussion followed, during which Mr. Stewart argued strongly on the Democratic side. Finally the Vice President ruled that Mr. Aldrich's motion to proceed to the consideration of the cloture rule was in order, and overruled the point of order that the question before the Senate was the motion to correct Tuesday's journal. The House on the same date got down to business, approved the journal, and then passed the District of Columbia appropriation bill. It then went into committee of the whole on the naval appropriation bill, general debate being limited to four hours.

AT 11 a. m., on the 23d, the Senate reassembled and resumed discussion of the cloture rule. Mr. Hoar delivered himself of some rather forcible and uncomplimentary remarks upon the course pursued by the Democrats. Mr. Cockrell spoke against the measure, and, with frequent interruptions, continued until adjournment. In the House Mr. Cooper of Indiana sent to the Clerk's desk and had read a resolution offered by him on Sept. 4 last, making charges against the Commissioner of Pensions. The resolution had been referred to the select committee examining previous charges; and on the 11th of September the Chairman of that committee had been directed to report the resolution, but he had never performed that duty.

IN the Senate, on the 24th, there was no prayer, no journal, no morning hour, and only an exact quorum present—forty-five Senators. The sensation of the day was the speech of Senator Stewart, of Nevada, against the force bill. Though a Republican, he has taken a position upon this question squarely in line with the Democrats, and so forcibly that there is a rumor that he will not be invited to future Republican caucuses for the debate of the bill. Mr. Stewart affects to find in the bill sufficient explanation of recent Democratic successes, and predicts further reverses for the Republican party if the bill is passed. He characterized the bill as an iniquitous measure, and declared that its principle, if carried into effect, would be more prejudicial to human liberty than secession itself. He questioned the constitutionality of the bill, and upon this point had a sharp tilt with Mr. Hoar. Mr. Morgan also spoke against the bill, and held the floor at adjournment. After the customary squabble over the approval of the journal, led by Mr. Breckinridge, the House went into committee of the whole (Mr. Burrows of Michigan in the chair) to consider the naval appropriation bill, and soon after adjourned to noon of the 26th.

AT noon of the 26th the Senate reassembled, in continuation of legislative session. Mr. Morgan resumed his opposition to the election bill, yielding only to Mr. Wolcott, who moved to proceed to consideration of the bill. A counter motion to lay Mr. Wolcott's on the table was defeated —35 to 34—Senators Cameron, Jones of Nevada, Stewart, Teller, Washburn and Wolcott voting with the Democrats. Then, by the same vote, the election bill was laid on the table. In the House the matutinal jangle over approval of the journal had been rehearsed, and the roll was being called upon a motion to go into committee of the whole to consider naval appropriations, when news of the Senate's action reached there, and the Democratic side broke out in enthusiastic cheers. "Another Bull Run," said Mr. Brewer of Michigan and wrangling ceased.

What to Teach Boys.

Teach them how to earn money.

Teach them how to be strictly truthful.

Teach them shorthand and typewriting.

Teach them economy in all their affairs.

Teach them to be polite in their manners.

Teach them history and political economy.

Teach them arithmetic in all its branches.

Teach them to avoid tobacco and strong drink.

Teach them to ride, drive, jump, run and swim.

Teach them careful and correct business habits.

Teach them how to get the most for their money.

Teach them, by example, how to do things well.

Teach them to avoid profane and indecent language.

Teach them habits of cleanliness and good order.

Teach them the care of horses, wagons and tools.

Teach them to be manly, self-reliant and aggressive.

Teach them to be neat and genteel in their appearance.

From the Dictionary.

IMAGINARY insects—bugaboos.

VERY loud-mouthed—donkeys.

PUT to flight—carrier pigeons.

ALL in a nutshell—the kernels.

BEARS good fruit—the epergne.

THE banner violinist—Michael.

CANNOT be rolled—war whoops.

A SCRAMBLE for breakfast—eggs.

ALWAYS in dew season—summer.

GIVES the cut direct—the scythe.

HAS its ups and downs—the churn.

A BUCKET-SHOP—the hardware store.

ARITHMETICAL material—figured silks.

MENTAL work—making up one's mind.

THE "deuce" is in it—a pack of cards.

HUMILIATING diet—eating one's words.

LIKELY to produce several stormy days—the Fayerweather will contest.

Fashion Miscellany.

FANS with folding handles are sometimes seen.

FEATHER plush is a novel garniture of the autumn.

THERE is a craze among collectors for old tapestries.

CLASPS for ball and opera cloaks are studded with stones.

VELVET calf is exceedingly popular for ladies' hand-bags and purses.

STYLES are very picturesque and materials and trimmings very rich.

TORCHON LACE is coming in again as a trimming for sachets, toilet slips, etc.

Favorite Pres
COPYRIGHT 1890

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the world-famed remedy for all chronic weaknesses and distressing derangements so common to American women. It is a potent, invigorating, restorative tonic, or strength-giver, imparting tone and vigor to the whole system. For feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon. Guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See guarantee printed on bottle-wrapper.

A Book of 160 pages, on "Woman: Her Diseases, and How to Cure them," sent sealed, in plain envelope, on receipt of ten cents, in stamps. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

"German Syrup"

A Cough and Croup Medicine.

For children a medicine should be absolutely reliable. A mother must be able to pin her faith to it as to her Bible. It must contain nothing violent, uncertain, or dangerous. It must be standard in material and manufacture. It must be plain and simple to administer; easy and pleasant to take. The child must like it. It must be prompt in action, giving immediate relief, as childrens' troubles come quick, grow fast, and end fatally or otherwise in a very short time. It must not only relieve quick but bring them around quick, as children chafe and fret and spoil their constitutions under long confinement. It must do its work in moderate doses. A large quantity of medicine in a child is not desirable. It must not interfere with the child's spirits, appetite or general health. These things suit old as well as young folks, and make Boschee's German Syrup the favorite family medicine.

SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE.

The success of this Great Cough Cure is without a parallel in the history of medicine. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive guarantee, a test that no other cure can successfully stand. That it may become known, the Proprietors, at an enormous expense, are placing a Sample Bottle Free into every home in the United States and Canada. If you have a Cough, Sore Throat, or Bronchitis, use it, for it will cure you. If your child has the Croup, or Whooping Cough, use it promptly, and relief is sure. If you dread that insidious disease Consumption, use it. Ask your Druggist for SHILOH'S CURE, Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your Lungs are sore or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster, Price 25 cts.

PURIFY YOUR BLOOD.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable kingdom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this reliable and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. He gave it the name of

Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well and favorably known by all who have used it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a corrective to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

IF YOU HAVE no appetite, Indigestion, Flatulence, Sick-Headache, "all run down" or losing flesh, you will find just what you need. They tone up the weak stomach and build up the flagging energies.

Tutt's Pills

Prettiest BOOK Ever Printed. FREE SEED cheap as dirt by oz. & lb. One cent a pkg. Up if rare. Cheap, pure, best. 1,000,000 extras. Beautiful Illustrated Catalogue free. R. H. Shumway, Rockford, Ill.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY MEMORY Mind wandering cured. Books learned in one reading. [illegible]

FAT FOLKS [illegible]

FREE [illegible]

$10 [illegible]

GANTER'S MAGIC —CHICKEN— Cholera Cure!

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens are destroyed by Cholera every year. It is more fatal to them than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a liquid remedy that positively destroys the Microbes has been made. Half of the young chickens are killed by Microbes before they are fryers. A 50-cent bottle is enough for 100 chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle you are not satisfied with it as a cure for Cholera, return it to the druggist from whom you purchased it, and he will refund your money.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

ACHE

Is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them. In vials at 25 cents; five for $1. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent by mail.

CARTER MEDICINE CO., New York.

SMALL PILL. SMALL DOSE. SMALL PRICE

PERFUMES

—MADE FROM FLOWERS IN THE—

LAND OF FLOWERS!

DOUSSAN'S

Sweet South

In 1 oz. Sprinkler-Top Bottles.

EACH 65 CENTS.

ALSO OUR EXTRA FINE SPECIALTIES:

LYS DES INCAS! SPRING MIST! LUNEAS! NEVADA! IMPERIAL PINK! ROUSSEL ROSE EDEN BOUQUET! LILY OF THE VALLEY! PICCIOLA!

All 50 cents per bottle.

The most delicate and most lasting odors made. Our trade-mark patented on every label.

"Delicate as a cobweb, Lasting as the hills."

If your druggist don't keep them send amount to us and we will forward prepaid.

DOUSSAN FRENCH PERFUMERY CO.

46 Chartres St., New Orleans, La.

YOU HAVE A COLD!

HIGGINS' T&C COMPOUND

WILL CURE YOU.

BUY A BOTTLE AT ONCE.

WHAT IS IT?

1—A Cough Medicine that is effective and won't nauseate. No disagreeable effects after taking.

2—As pleasant as maple syrup, and as effective as it is pleasant.

3—The largest bottle for the money on the market.

Almost everybody is using it and it is selling beyond all anticipation.

CHECKS DISEASE.

CURES ANY COUGH OR COLD.

GIVES INSTANT RELIEF.

MASTERS CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH.

BUY AT DRUGGISTS.

HIGGINS & HYDE, RUTLAND, Vt.

FOR MEN ONLY!

VIGOR AND STRENGTH For LOST or FAILING MANHOOD; General and NERVOUS DEBILITY; Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble MANHOOD fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen WEAK, UNDEVELOPED ORGANS & PARTS OF BODY. Absolutely unfailing HOME TREATMENT—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free. Address ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

AN OLD-FASHIONED FANCY.

BY MARY SHAW.

I remember fondly the zigzag rail fence
  Inclosing the vast farm, hill and dale;
Bristling barb-wire is now of more consequence,
  But to me give the old-fashioned rail.
Luscious wild berries grew its angles between—
  It was easy to climb or creep through;
The golden grain had always a ridge of green
  By the rail-fenced fields that childhood knew.
    Nooks to claim 'thout pre-empting,
    Offered wild berries tempting—
And in those days—ah, who could pass by?

The ones I recall had corners the rarest,
  From which wild roses nodded good-day,
As clover-caps lifted, from meadows the fairest,
  Where wild birds nested, or carolled gay.
And barb-wire—well, yes, I know it is better,
  Lasting, not easily blown by the breeze,
"Progressive," all that; yet I'm a regretter
  Of the rail fence "going," and not by degrees.
    Though far freer from harm
    Is a barb-wire fenced farm,
The children protest, and so do I.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.

Dr. Elfenstein's Mission

A Remarkable Romance.

BY EMILY THORNTON.

CHAPTER XVII.

ETHEL MAKES A STRANGE BLUNDER.

Ethel did not entirely recover from the effects of her fright until after the night's sleep had served to calm her nerves, and all the evening that followed she was excited and scarcely able to control herself.

When she bade the family good-night and locked herself into her room, in order to proceed to her nightly task, it was with a dazed feeling and an aching head. Nerving herself for her duty, however, as well as she could, she proceeded to light her candle, and, taking the indispensable knife, she passed through the wardrobe and passageway into the corridor beyond.

Possessing herself of the basket of food, she remembered to fasten the door with the iron hook, a precaution that the baronet had charged her always to observe, that by no possibility could she be surprised while accomplishing her task, then, passing onward, she opened the panel as usual, and placed the plate of food upon the shelves.

As she did so, she heard distinctly a movement on the other side, which, being rather unusual, for silence alone ordinarily reigned, startled her already excited nerves so much that she gave the shelves the required shove, and, just as they whirled away, she saw, to her horror, when it was too late to stop them, that she had dropped the knife from her hand, and it had gone around with the food.

Breathlessly she waited for the return movement, hoping that the creature within would not observe it, and that it would come back with the plate.

As she waited, a singular, loud, shrill noise or cry came from within.

The next moment the shelves had revolved, and the plate alone appeared.

Appalled with her own carelessness, and fancying she knew not what as the result, the terrified, half frantic girl could only draw shut the panels with all the expedition possible, and then hastily return the basket, fasten the door, and seek the safety of her own apartment.

Oh, how she blamed herself for that careless, blundering act, and the more she blamed, the more she could not foresee the result of her first false move.

What was now her duty?

Should she immediately seek the baronet, who was probably asleep by this time, and, telling him the mishap, ask what was to be done?

No! she could not think this course a wise one.

The baronet was an exceedingly passionate man. Such a tale, at this hour, would throw him into a whirl of nervous anger, that might cause damage to the broken hip, the bones of which, all hoped, had by this time commenced to unite.

She saw, then, at once, that this course would not answer.

But would it be well to tell him on the morrow?

What could he do if acquainted with the nature of her disaster?

He could not move from his bed. He could not, or would not crave assistance of any person he knew. It would only distress him, and prove of no avail in the end.

Perhaps, after all, the ape, or whatever the creature was, would do no harm with the knife. He probably would handle it a little, then drop it, and where it fell, it would lie, unremembered and useless.

Certainly this must be the result.

She felt she must consider it so, and trust that Providence would direct it all ensthis way, and so allow no harm to in ue.

No sleep visited her weary eyes, until long after midnight, she was so unhappy and so unnerved by all the events of the last twenty-four hours, and again and again she prayed that all might go well, and nothing terrible result from the loss of that dreadful knife.

Rising with the alarm of the usual bell that rang to awaken the household, the poor girl again commenced to review the problem that had presented itself to be worked out the night before. Once more she asked the question:

Should she worry Sir Reginald by telling him of the accident that had befallen her, or should she not?

Before deciding positively, she resolved to pay the corridor a morning visit, and by listening, study out if all was going on as usual.

This resolve she instantly carried into effect.

Turning once more from her room, down the corridor, she placed her ear close to the panel, and listened intently to hear if any movement could be discovered within the concealed room.

All was still. Not the faintest motion was perceptible; therefore, feeling greatly relieved, she returned, quite sure that all must be well, and firmly resolved to say nothing of what had happened, and while keeping silent endeavor to drive the entire circumstance from her own mind, and so be at peace.

The day passed on as usual, and when night brought her to the shelves she once more found to her satisfaction silence reigning, and felt that now, indeed, all was right.

Poor Ethel! She little knew the fearful consequences yet to ensue from her first blunder.

The third afternoon had arrived, and nothing had transpired to lead her to apprehend the least trouble from that unfortunate occurrence.

She had, therefore, regained the courage she had lost, and was fast driving the entire circumstance from her mind.

This afternoon Sir Reginald had expressed a wish for music, therefore she had brought her guitar to his bedside, and had sung several ballads for his amusement.

"I think," at length he said, interrupting her, "that it grows cloudy. Please look out, and tell me if a shower is approaching."

Ethel arose at his bidding, and, after examining the sky, returned, saying, as she resumed her seat:

"There is, indeed. A very black cloud is lying in the west, which foretells a hard shower."

"Then put aside your instrument and draw close to me, as I have some private instructions to give you in regard to a new work to be done to-night. Are we entirely alone?"

"We are. Mrs. Fredon left the room to prepare you some nourishment, and your wife and niece are in the grounds," replied Ethel, trembling, she knew not why.

"Then listen intently to my instructions. If that storm rages about half-past nine or ten o'clock to-night, you must visit the Haunted Tower and put in motion some machinery I have erected there."

"Oh, Sir Reginald," murmured the shrinking listener, "please do not ask that of me."

"Shut up! You just attend to my orders, and do what I tell you to do. Never dare dispute my will."

The baronet then proceeded to give minute directions for the lighting of each light, and also for the movements of the frightful and hideous image there concealed.

At its conclusion he remarked:

"Do you think you understand every particular of the work I now require to be done?"

"I do," replied Ethel; "but, sir, my soul revolts from the whole thing. I consider it a wicked deception, and I beg you to excuse me from undertaking it."

"Who cares what you think about it! No one asked your opinion. Do it you shall, so do not dare to utter another word against it."

"Sir Reginald, I have faithfully performed your wishes in regard to feeding the animal, whose life you value so highly, knowing that to preserve the life of even the least of God's creatures is a duty, but I can see no possible necessity for striving to impose upon the credulity of the inhabitants of this quiet place."

"That, I tell you is my business and not yours," was the angry reply. "You are here simply to attend to my work and I have well paid you for doing so."

"I know that; but surely I am at liberty to point out an error in your wishes and judgment. Sir Reginald, this thing that you ask me to do is wrong, and I entreat you to carry it no further. You say you have done this yourself for twenty-five years; surely that can answer any purpose you may have to effect by it. Please, then, be satisfied, and let this thing rest!"

"I tell you I will not," replied the baronet, fairly purple from rage. "Do you not see that your obstinacy is throwing me into a terrible and injurious excitement? I command you to obey my wishes. If you dare refuse, you shall leave my house this night, even though I know you have nowhere to lay your head. Do you hear?

"I do!" murmured the distressed girl.

"Will you obey?"

No answer came, the only reply she could make being a burst of tears.

Maddened by her silence and sobs, the baronet started up, until leaning upon his elbow, a thing he had been expressly forbidden to do, as it would jar his hip, he shook his fist violently in her face, while he demanded in fury:

"Will you obey?"

"I will!" she at last gasped, between her sobs. Poor girl! Seeing his violent excitement, and remembering her aunt's last charges, she dared not refuse.

"Then see that you do it," he returned, more calmly, as he sank back with a groan upon his pillow.

Mrs. Fredon having by this time reappeared, Ethel withdrew from his side, and repaired to her own apartment to weep over her unfortunate lot, and to watch the clouds, hoping that the expected shower might pass around without reaching the spot in which she resided.

But her hope was vain!

As the evening came, the dreaded cloud approached nearer and nearer, and when 10 o'clock struck, thunder, lightning, wind, and rain were riding furiously upon, above, and around the earth.

There was, therefore, no escape from the disgraceful duty that awaited her, so at her usual time she took the lighted candle in her hand and started with tearful eyes to attend to the task before her.

CHAPTER XVIII.

DR. ELFENSTEIN MAKES A MOVE.

After Dr. Elfenstein had asked permission of Sir Reginald Glendenning to search the Haunted Tower he felt exceedingly puzzled over his future course.

Resolved as he was to penetrate the mystery of that place, he could not understand how the thing was to be accomplished.

Sometimes he thought he was foolishly interested in this ghostly visitant, but again his promise to Mr. Rappelye to examine all the premises, penetrate to and study all the rooms, would return to his remembrance, and he felt that this must be included in that sacred charge.

In all his visits to Sir Reginald, although reserved in manner, his every nerve had been on the alert. He had been told that the room occupied by the present baronet was the one where Sir Arthur had met his sad fate.

Knowing this, he fairly studied that room.

He noted its width, height, and breadth; the height of the two windows from the floor, the size of those windows, and particularly he noted the one from which the rope had dangled that had been used to lower the body to the ground.

He had several times walked to that window, as if meditating over his patient's case, and looked out, surveying the ground below, and the distance from it to the lake, which was visible through the trees.

Then he scrutinized every article of furniture the room contained, from the massive black-walnut bedstead to a large, tall wardrobe, of the same material, that stood opposite the door, and which he observed was always locked. Several times he caught himself wishing he could see its contents, but smiled at his own curious nature.

From this house, which he visited daily in his professional calling, he often drove around, examining the stables and outbuildings, and sometimes slowly went around the tower to view the ruined part and to see if he could effect an entrance.

One day—it was the one on which Ethel started for the eventful walk, he in such a drive noticed a small, well-trodden pathway leading up to a clump of bushes. Instantly the thought struck him that behind those bushes, concealed from view, might be an open passage to the place, although he felt certain there was no doorway.

The more he thought of this the more he was sure it must be the case.

Why that well-used path through the grass if not for some such purpose?

Yes; some human feet were in the habit of entering there, and he resolved to return to the place, under cover of darkness, and investigate those bushes.

Full of this discovery, and full of hope that he might yet penetrate to the mysterious tower, he touched his horse with the whip and drove hastily away.

But just as he emerged again into the ramble, he saw Miss Belle Glendenning gazing at him from an upper window, and felt mortified that she should have noticed his ride around the premises, as conscience whispered that it must speak to her of a prying nature.

Feeling, however, that it was done, and could not now be recalled, he passed on, and proceeded to visit the homes of several sick persons who need his advice and assistance.

On his return it was that he suddenly heard a wild shriek of terror, and looking around, had seen Ethel in that dangerous situation, while the nearing train told of the death awaited her.

Springing to the ground, he had rushed to her assistance, and had, as we have already said, wrenched apart those stiff fastenings, and drawn her from her peril.

Then, with her fainting form clasped in his arms, he had carried her to a place of safety, and, placing her upon the grass, had held her against his breast, while he removed her hat, and by fanning and rubbing had sought to restore animation.

How lovely she looked to the young man as she thus lay so quietly in his embrace, her golden hair, which had become disheveled in his awkwardness, floating around her, with her white cheeks, upon which the long, black lashes curled, nestling so closely against his heart.

He could scarcely refrain from pressing his lips to hers, in his deep joy, that she was saved from the horrible danger that had surrounded her.

But he did refrain, and after she had recovered, and the shoe had been replaced, and her hair and hat rearranged and restored, he could not overcome a feeling of longing to have her in his arms once more, before he must yield her back, and again banishing her sweet remembrance, must return to the stern duty he had so solemnly undertaken.

Oh, how this spring of love resembleth the uncertain glory of an April day,
Which now shows all the beauty of the sun,
  and by and by a cloud takes all away.

Too well he remembered that he had promised, in the most sacred way, to give himself to the cause of another, to act for him, and to let nothing stand in his lawful way, in order to unravel this mystery.

No love, then, must enter his breast! No maiden must divert his mind from his life work, and his vow!

But one thing he would do: he would gather her in his arms just once more, place her in his gig, and carry her safely back to the Hall, and after that work alone should be his portion.

This, then, he proceeded to accomplish, but her startled look as he caught her up had frightened him, and the fear of her displeasure had led to the half apology he had uttered in his own defense.

After he had left her at the Hall it was hard to recall his truant thoughts to their proper sphere, but with set teeth and a firm resolve he plunged into study and active work in order to be at peace with himself.

He then returned to the remembrance of the little pathway he had discovered to the ruins, and determined to visit the place that very night.

But a writer has well said that "Man proposes, and God disposes," for he did not go near the place that evening, as a sudden call to visit a person in great agony, several miles away, sent him into an entirely different region, and detained him there awhile.

The dragon wing of night o'erspreads the earth, and not until
The first opening of the gorgeous east did he return.

The great suffering of this new patient even detained him by his side until after midnight the second evening, and a third time had night folded the earth before relief came to the weary one, and Earle Elfenstein was at liberty to pay the lonely ruin the desired call.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Second-Hand Love.

May Russell, after two or three winters of bellehood in her native town, went to visit her cousins in Blankville. She was not twenty-one years old—and was a pretty, sweet-tempered, vivacious girl. Her friends soon saw that Dr. Holmes, the physician of the village, meant to win May for his wife, and that May was ready to be won. For the first time in her life she had found a man who appealed to her highest nature, and in whom she could find her own better self.

Doctor Holmes was an honorable man of great depth and tenderness of feeling, who had been a faithful son and loyal friend, and who would give his whole heart to his wife.

"He is too good for May," said her cousin, Mrs. Russell, to her husband. "The girl began her flirtations at school, when she was ten years old. The Doctor has never before wished to marry any woman. She is skilled in the conduct of sham love affairs."

"The fooling is real with her now," replied Mr. Russell.

Doctor Holmes was a grave, quiet man. The step he was going to take was for life; he would not allow himself to be rash. Yet surely he could make no mistake in taking this apparently innocent, artless, sweet-natured girl into his heart and home forever?

At last he resolved to hesitate no longer, and one evening went to the house determined to ask her to be his wife. A young girl, one of May's companions, was in the room with her, and both were looking amusedly at a large card, on which were fastend six locks of hair, each labeled with a name and date.

"What have you there?" asked Doctor Holmes.

May laughed saucily. "I call them my scalps—tokens of my victories," she said. "They are locks of the hair of men who—shall I confess it—have professed to be my admirers."

Doctor Holmes was silent. Her friend soon after left the room. Then he said: "Are you serious? Do you mean that these men have been so much interested in you and have professed such regard for you as to give you locks of their hair, possibly at your request?"

"Yes, indeed," she said laughing. "In my part of the country a girl would feel neglected if she had not received some such tokens of personal regard, and perhaps of love, from gentlemen who had offered her special attention. She never means really to marry them."

"But she allows each man to look upon her as possibly his future wife, probably to kiss her?"

"Yes. There does not seem to be any harm in it."

"I think I cannot agree with you," he said, gravely. He left her and never returned.

May Russell's code rules the social relations of many young men and women. They hold familiar intercourse or form engagements which they know are not founded upon love or esteem, and which they never intend to fulfill. No young girl can pass through one of these "experiences," as they are called, without degradation and taint. She goes to her husband a battered, second-hand thing, which no art can restore to its first innocent purity.

We speak plainly, because the evil exists, and the danger is great.—Youth's Companion.

THE placing of the last stone in the spire of the cathedral at Ulm raises it to a height of 530 feet, and makes it the highest cathedral in the world

HUMOR.

Fixing a Limit.

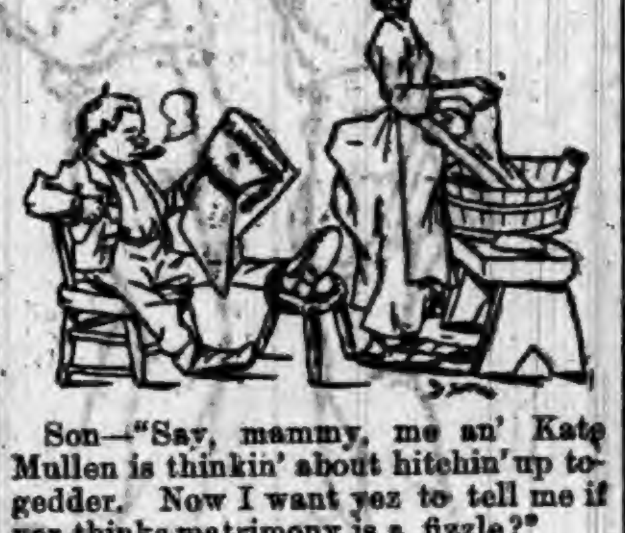
Dumbie—I never meet old Fuddle but he's sure to put me in a dilemma.

Crumbie—It would be a good thing if he could confine himself in one.

Dumbie—How so?

Crumbie—Why, there are only two "horns" to the average dilemma.

Seeking a Mother's Advice.



Son—"Say, mammy, me an' Kate Mullen is thinkin' about hitchin' up together. Now I want yez to tell me if yez thinks matrimony is a fizzle?"

They Never Get Hurt.

Female Visitor—My husband has been missing for three days.

Police Officer—Where was he last seen?

"Coming out of a saloon near the river, and——"

"Drunk or sober?"

"Very drunk; and I'm afraid——"

"Calm your fears, madam; he'll turn up all right."—Street & Smith's Good News.

In Its Concentrated Form.

"Doctor," said the tired-looking caller, "I believe a trial of Dr. Koch's lymph would do me good."

"Your lungs, sir," replied the physician, "are perfectly sound. You need no consumption cure."

"But I have a tired feeling all the time."

"A kind of indisposition to take any active exercise?"

"Yes."

"Or any other kind of exercise?"

"Yes."

"Or to do anything like work?"

"Um—yes."

"What you need, sir, is the lymph of industry."

"I believe you are right, doctor," said the caller, rising languidly. "I'll live on honey for the next thirty days, and see how it goes."—Chicago Tribune.

The Hunting Season.

Mrs. Nimrod—How much are these partridges?

Game Dealer—Forty cents a pair, madame.

"Well, I'll take them. My husband has gone out hunting over in New Jersey, and if he calls in here on his way back, tell him that I have bought one pair of partridges already."—Texas Siftings.

It Certainly Was Grease.

Two young men, while walking beneath an elevated railway in a town which shall be nameless, were appalled to find themselves the recipients of a bucketful of oily liquid dropped from an engine above their heads.

"Bah!" said one of them, with an angry glance upward. "So this is free America!"

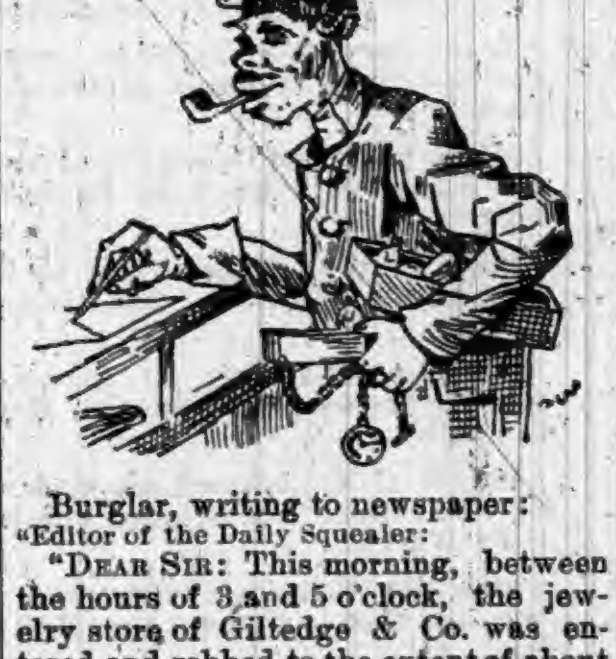
"You are wrong," said the other, ruefully wiping his coat; "it's Greece."—Harper's.

Favors a Third Party Movement.

Thinker—Do you know, Blinker, that I have been seriously considering this third party movement, and I quite advocate it. Are you in favor of it?

Blinker—In favor of it? I should say! Ever since our marriage I've had a mother-in-law officiating as third party in my house, and any movement that'll get rid of her I'll boost with all my vehemence.

A Very Considerate Burglar.



Burglar, writing to newspaper: "Editor of the Daily Squealer:

"DEAR SIR: This morning, between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock, the jewelry store of Giltedge & Co. was entered and robbed to the extent of about $4,000 in watches and diamonds. The culprit is still at large. Kindly make mention of the affair in your paper."

It Barred Her Out.

Mabel—I think the chief reason that marriage is so often a failure is that people marry outside their own circle. Now, I think that a woman should never marry a man who is not in every way her equal.

Jaques—Then you have quite determined, have you, to be an old maid?

A Long-Felt Want.

Able Editor—Want a position, eh? Do you understand the tariff question?

Applicant—Um—to tell the truth, I don't know anything about the tariff.

"Are you familiar with international law?"

"No, can't say that I am."

"Have you followed up the various African and polar explorations, and have you all the localities at your finger ends, so that you could write column after column on the subject without exhausting yourself?

"I—I never took any interest in such things."

"Are you thoroughly familiar with English, French, German and Russian politics?"

"Don't know anything about European squabbles, and don't want to."

"Young man, take that desk there. I shouldn't wonder if you could make a paper that sensible people would like to read."—Exchange.

It Wasn't Gum.

"Well, the country girls are at it, too," said one drummer to another, as they sat in the office of a Missouri tavern.

"At what?"

"Chewing gum. I did hope that when I got out of the city I might see some woman giving her jaws a rest. But just look at that girl over there."

"That ain't no gum, pardner," interposed a native. "That's tobacker—reg'lar ole long green!"

ALL that you long for is yours already in that very longing.—Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

HELPMATE SEWING MACHINE

A MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

EMBODIES EVERY DESIRABLE IMPROVEMENT, MANY OF WHICH ARE EXCLUSIVELY ITS OWN.

LIGHTEST, FASTEST, AND BEST.

HANDSOMEST WOOD WORK MADE.

SEE OUR AGENT OR ADDRESS

WILLIAMS MFG. COMPANY, (LT'D.)

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. AND MONTREAL, CANADA.

A Live Agent wanted in every town where we are not represented.

NO MORE OF THIS!

Rubber Shoes unless worn uncomfortably tight, will often slip off the feet. To remedy this evil the

"COLCHESTER" RUBBER CO.

offer a shoe with the inside of the heel lined with rubber. This clings to the shoe and prevents the Rubber from slipping off.

Call for the "Colchester"

"ADHESIVE COUNTERS"

and you can walk, run or jump in them.

AN ACCURATE WATCH

is an enviable possession, saves time, delays and accidents. The choice of a Movement is an important matter and requires investigation. The remarkable points of superiority possessed by

THE COLUMBUS

Has gained it the endorsement of Rail Road Officials and the most exacting users of watches.

The great variety of movements we make meet the requirements of any and every purchaser, and can be supplied by or through any responsible dealers in U. S. and Canada.

COLUMBUS WATCH CO.,

COLUMBUS, OHIO.

THE PROPHYLACTIC TOOTH BRUSH

Is a Marvelous Brush.

ONCE USED, NOTHING CAN DISPLACE IT.

KEPT BY ALL DEALERS.

CIRCULARS FROM

Florence Mfg. Co., Florence, Mass.

BY MAIL 35 CENTS.

ODELL TYPE WRITER

ONLY $15.

IN 3 DAYS YOU CAN WRITE FASTER THAN WITH A PEN.

CLEAN, PERFECT WORK. Manifolds 14 Copies, METAL TYPE.

IT IS FOR EVERYBODY.

Only 35 parts; high-priced machines have 800. Shows simplicity and durability.

YOU WANT ONE.

STANDARD CYCLE CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The only line running through solid Vestibuled Trains between Chicago and Philadelphia via Washington and Baltimore.

Time Card in Effect Nov. 16, 1890.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
		pm	am	am
Sandusky......lv	......	......	7 30	......	......
Wheeling........	am *6 50	9 45	......	10 35	pm 12 35
Zanesville.......	9 58	am 12 53	......	pm 1 50	7 17
Newark..........	pm 12 30	1 50	......	3 05	8 30
Columbus.....ar	1 25	2 50	......	4 05	9 30
Columbus.....lv	am 7 20	pm 11 35	......	am 11 25	pm 10 50
Mansfield.......	pm 12 29	am 3 25	......	pm 5 10	10 28
Deshler..........	3 12	5 52	10 30	10 24	am 1 47
Defiance.........	3 50	6 30	11 40	11 20	2 29
Auburn jc.......	4 44	7 28	pm 1 07	am 12 48	3 29
Avilla...........	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Chicago.......ar	pm 9 30	11 40	6 40	5 50	8 25

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	am	pm	am	pm	pm
Chicago.......lv	*10 10	*2 55	†7 10	*10 40	*3 05
Wellsboro.......	......	......	......	......	......
Milford jc.......	......	......	......	......	......
Avilla...........	......	......	......	......	......
Auburn jc.......	......	7 10	pm 12 43	am 3 06	9 42
Defiance.........	pm 3 00	8 00	2 12	4 27	10 48
Mansfield.......	6 14	11 20	......	9 45	am 12 44
Columbus.......	*9 30	am 2 50	......	pm 1 25	4 30
Newark..........	8 07	1 00	......	12 40	5 00
Zanesville.......	8 47	1 44	......	1 30	5 50
Wheeling.....ar	11 55	4 40	......	5 10	10 00
Pittsburgh....ar	......	7 25	......	8 00	pm 4 00
Washington...ar	am 11 50	pm 4 45	......	am 7 10	......
Baltimore.....ar	pm 12 45	5 45	......	8 30	......
Philadelphia..ar	3 25	8 15	......	11 13	......
New York.....ar	5 52	10 40	......	pm 1 40	......

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡ Daily except Monday.

Sleeping and Dining Cars on all through trains. For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address O. P. McCarty, Ass't Gen'l Pass Agent, Cincinnati, O. City Office Auburn, Ind.

C. O. SCULL, Gen'l Passenger Agent, Baltimore, Md.
J. T. ODELL, Gen. Manager Baltimore, Md.
W. W. PEABODY, Gen. Sup't.,
L. S. ALLEN, Assist. Gen. P. A. Chicago., Ill.

FT. WAYNE BRANCH

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 30, 1890.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss.	Fre'gt.
Fort Wayne.......dp	11 50 am	4 40 pm	6 40 am
New Era.............	12 20 pm	5 16	7 29
Auburn Junc........	12 31	5 27	7 45
Auburn..............	12 34	5 30	8 05
Waterloo............	12 47	5 42	9 20
Summit..............	1 02	5 55	10 35
Pleasant Lake.......	1 12	6 07	11 20
Angola..............	1 20	6 18	12 01
Fremont.............	1 35	6 34	1 35 pm
Reading.............	2 04	7 04	2 35
Bankers.............	2 15	7 15	2 55
Hillsdale...........	2 37	7 30	....
Fort Wayne Junc....	2 45	7 39	3 35
Jonesville..........	2 47	7 41	3 40
Jackson.............	3 45	8 40	5 20

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail.
Jackson.............	6 45 am	11 15 am	6 30 am
Jonesville..........	8 50	12 10 pm	7 23
Fort Wayne Junc....	8 55	12 15	7 25
Hillsdale...........	....	12 30	7 35
Bankers.............	9 40	12 56	7 51
Reading.............	10 05	1 07	8 01
Fremont.............	11 20	1 35	8 32
Angola..............	12 01	1 55	8 48
Pleasant Lake.......	12 45 pm	2 06	8 58
Summit..............	1 45	2 16	9 08
Waterloo............	2 20	2 30	9 20
Auburn..............	3 45	2 53	9 33
Auburn Junc........	4 00	2 57	9 36
New Era.............	4 40	3 08	9 47
Fort Wayne..........	6 20	3 40	10 20

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn.

TIME TABLE

THE WABASH LINE

TRAINS CARRYING PASSENGERS LEAVE

AUBURN, INDIANA.

GOING EAST.

Atlantic Express...............2:38 am—Daily
Boston Express.................5:45 am—Daily
Detroit Accom...................2:30 pm—Ex Sun
New York Lim...................8:04 pm—Daily

GOING WEST.

Pacific Express..................1:32 am..Daily
Logansport Accom..............7:55 am—Daily
Mail & Express..................12:38 pm—Ex Sun
Chicago & St. Louis Lim.......5:12 pm—Daily
St. Louis..........................7:33 pm—Daily

No. 53 will only stop for Chicago passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
T. H. SPROTT, City Ticket Agent.
CHAS. M. HAYS, Gen'l Mannager.
F. CHANDLER, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent

I CURE FITS!

When I say CURE I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of

FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS,

A life-long study. I WARRANT my remedy to CURE the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a FREE BOTTLE of my INFALLIBLE REMEDY. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address

H. G. ROOT, M.C., 183 PEARL ST., NEW YORK

BEFORE YOU BUY A STEAM ENGINE OR BOILER

SEND FOR OUR CATALOGUE AND PRICES

ATLAS ENGINE WORKS, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

DELINQUENT TAX SALE.

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned Delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1889, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including the interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1890.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Amount of tax $ cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Freeman W S	in s w qr	14	33	12		20	6 61
Hall Thomas jr	w hf n w qr	26	33	12	80	00	83 46
Holbrook Sanford	s hf n w qr	32	33	12	80	00	73 61
Work Wesley	off e side s w qr	27	33	12	92	00	104 73
do	und 2-3ds off w side s w qr	27	33	12	40	00	25 97
do	und 2-3ds pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	38	48	75 75
do	und 2-3ds n w pt w hf n e qr	27	33	12	23	50	15 84
do	und 2 3ds w hf n e qr	32	33	12	53	33	128 41
Work Mary E	und 1-3d pt e hf s e qr	28	33	12	19	24	36 57
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Cool John	s e 1-4th s w qr	8	33	13	40	00	15 68
Dancer John F	e hf s e qr	20	33	13	80	00	70 79
Elson Thomas	n pt w hf s e qr	16	33	13	50	00	24 27
Kryder David	in s side s w 1-4th n w qr	6	33	13	1	63	1 44
McNamara James	in n w cor n hf n e qr	34	33	13	6	00	5 39
Powell Levi B	Auburn Junction D. add lot 6						4 88
Frederick Samuel	Auburn Stamet's add lot 16						2 48
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Abel J G F	in s w 1-4th s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	10 67
Hart J E	und 1-3d in s w qr	15	33	14	00	10	70
Mosier Cyrus F	in s w qr	15	33	14	00	50	1 47
Monroe Julia L	in s end e hf s e qr	7	33	14	00	25	84
Wearley Wm L	e pt n w qr	34	33	14	20	00	16 27
Hinsdale Sophronia	Orange lot 129						1 07
Baltz Emma	O P Spencerville lot 30 pt of						6 70
do	O P Spencerville lot 31						69
Myers Eliza	Fales' add Spencerville lot 21						1 03
Rhodes William	O P Spencerville 25x30 ft of lt 30 e pt						3 79
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Fusselman Quince	in s e pt n hf s w qr	6	35	15	1	00	5 78
Jeffords David	in n w qr	6	35	15	0	80	1 08
Larned State Bank	in n pt s w qr	6	35	15	1	28	5 35
Milliman Jane	in s e cor w pt s w qr	19	35	15	2	00	11 10
Miller Walter K	in n w cor s e qr	6	35	15	18	20
do	in n e cor s e qr	6	35	15	7	48	24 20
Rhodes J M and C A	in s w qr n w qr	6	35	15	00	50	2 98
Catlett David	Vienna lot 21						9 14
do	do lot 25						60
Fusselman Mary H	do s e hf of lot 48						50
do	do s e hf of lot 37						51
Like Julia	do lot 2						9 79
Larned State Bank	do lot 1						81
Moody Wert L	do lot 49 s pt
do	do lot 49 s e pt						1 46
McDonald Rebecca	do lot 10 n hf						1 48
do	do lot 15 n hf						42
Pressler Ella & Jacob	do lot 41 pt of						3 66
do	do lot 44 pt of						63
Rex George N	do lot 81
do	do lot 88						12 60
Salmon Matilda J	do lot 44 30 ft off n end						59
do	do lot 37 18x28 ft in n e cor						4 51
do	do lot 41 30 ft n end						59
Smith Philander	do lot 71						61
Tarney John W	do lot 3 n pt						39
	STAFFORD TOWNSHIP.
Funk Mary	pt n hf n hf s e qr	18	34	15	39	25	25 04
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Brown John	w hf n w qr	13	34	14	82	40	68 24
Brown Malinda	und 2-15ths pt w hf n w qr	31	34	14	10	12	8 98
Clark George	do	31	34	14	10	12	14 80
Heller S M	s pt e 1-3d e hf n w qr	11	34	14	10	00	7 72
Huntsman A E & R F	s e qr n w qr	28	34	14	40	00	15 63
Jenkins John	in n w cor s e qr n w qr	16	34	14	6	00	8 82
do	n e qr n e qr	17	34	14	40	00	20 01
Lockwood Lyman	s 3-4ths s e qr n e qr	19	34	14	30	00	83 34
Maxwell Jos & Sarah	in n e cor w hf n e qr	34	34	14	12	00	11 02
Palmerton George N	in s e cor s w qr	34	34	14	22	00	17 52
Haskins Esther M	e 3-4ths s w qr s w qr	21	34	14	30	00	138 31
do	w qr s e qr s w qr	21	34	14	10	00	46 24
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Abel G H & J E	s end w hf s e qr	32	34	13	16	80	11 93
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
Hanna James T	n w qr s e qr	33	34	12	40	00	49 67
Meyers & Hersier	und 2-3ds w pt w hf n w qr	2	33	12	00	67	6 96
Thompson John	pt w hf e hf n e qr	10	33	12	30	00	17 05
Cowan Washington	Garrett M. & H. add lot 64						88
Myers Samuel E	do 63						88
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Dearborn B B	J add Lawrence lot 98						5 57
Rohm Susannah	do 5						2 70
do	do 6						61
Weirick Jacob	O P Lawrence lot 63						91
Gilpier John	McM 1st add Corunna lot 9						68
do	do 10						60
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Camp Andrew	in n e cor n hf n w qr	22	35	12	60	50	2 46
Hanna James T	s w qr s w qr	3	35	12	40	00	4 12
Row Magdalene	in e part n w qr	22	35	12	00	33	2 46
	SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Markley Nannie et al	n hf n e qr s e qr	10	35	13	20	00	29 63
do	pt w pt n hf n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	5	00	2 99
Markley Nancy	in n w cor n w qr s w qr	11	35	13	2	00	1 27
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Enzor Catharine	s hf s e qr s e qr	11	35	14	20	00	16 25
Frederick Joseph	s w qr s e qr	6	35	14	40	00	19 09
Garrison Kenton	in n w cor n e qr	2	35	14
do	in mid pt n w qr	2	35	14	33	11	64 53
Porter Clark & Jane	s e qr n e qr	26	35	14	40	00	20 60
Rhinehart Christian	e end n pt w hf n e qr	12	35	14	30	00	6 63
Willard Henry	in n w qr	2	35	14	00	25	1 17
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Dinius Theodore & L	und 5-9ths w end n hf n w qr	16	35	15	25	60	14 06
Fry Charles	n e qr n w fr qr	9	35	15	40	00	15 88
Myers Laura A	in s w cor n e qr	20	35	15	5	00	6 51
	GRANT TOWNSHIP.
Stroh Mary	in n pt s w qr	4	34	13	1	25	13 79
	WATERLOO TOWN.
Falk & Lamley	L 2d add lot 29						4 77
Miller Hiram G	O P lot 155 s pt						3 62
Stroh Peter B	in 3 e qr	3	34	13	1	00	23 20
Booth George	C add Uniontown lot 5						9 28
	BUTLER TOWN.
Ackley E C	D's add lot 35						17 57
Beggs David	E's 3d add lot 236						5 97
Doxsee Christian	O P lot 161						11 07
Garber Isaac	Eg's add lot 201						1 11
do	do lot 221						20 13
Moltz Charles	do lot 136 e hf						1 81
do	do lot 137						29 24
do	do lot 138						3 43
Mason W A	M's add lot 16						4 36
Mason Albert J	D's add lot 38						18 74
do	O P lot 290						3 81
Benner Robert	do 289						3 19
Riker B C & E	Eg's 3d add lot 208						88
do	do 209						88
do	do 210						88
do	do 216						12 69
do	do 217						1 39
Stough William	D's add lot 22						65
do	do 4 und hf n 23 ft						8 31
Searight Samuel G	E's add lot 146 w pt						14 98
do	D's add lot 65						34 23
Town Earl	Eg's 2d add lot 142						9 63
Wile Lewis	O P lot 97						10 31
	GARRETT TOWN.
Basse John & Mary	Oz 3d add lot 1 blk 1						7 81
Balt Land Imp Co	O P lot 24 blk 21						5 08
do	C's 1st add lot 2 blk 36						1 86
Hopper Charles	Thomas's add lot 10 blk 6						21 93
Munn Elizabeth	Oz 3d add lot 10 blk 2						10 49
Reneman C F & L V	O P lot 19 blk 33						4 31
Shisley James & Anna	Cowan's 1st add lot 3 blk 53						1 03
do	Cowan's 1st add s hf of lot 2 blk 53						61
	AUBURN TOWN.
Biller Emma J	K's add n hf lot 6						9 82
Griswold Abigail	W add lot 141						13 84
do	do 142						7 67
Newton George	Ashley's add lot 14 except 39 ft e side						1 66
Russel Anna & Albert	Ensley's 2d add lot 35						5 36

I, H. N. Coffinberry, Auditor in and for said county of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1889, with the delinquent tax, penalty and interest; and also the tax for the year 1890, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given, that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owners thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction at the court house door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1891, (the same being the 9th day of said month,) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

H. N. COFFINBERRY, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Jan. 14, 1891.

Honest Work! $20 to $40 a week made by earnest men and women. We furnish the Capital! If you mean business, drop us a card and get some facts that will open your eyes! A legitimate line of goods, and honest men wanted to introduce them in town and country. Don't Wait! Address, at once, P. O. Box 649, Cincinnati, O.

Save $36.50 on Your Ticket to California.

J. C. JUDSON & CO.'S personally conducted California Excursions in broad gauge Pullman Tourist Sleeping Cars, via Denver & Rio Grande R. R., (the scenic line of the world) leave Chicago via Chicago & Alton R. R. 12:00 noon Saturday of every week, each excursion in charge of an efficient and gentlemanly excursion manager. Pullman tourist sleeping cars through from Boston and Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles. For rates, reservation of berths, etc., call on or address, J. C. JUDSON & CO., 195 Clark Street, Chicago.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of Sarah J. Henning, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

DANIEL SWIHART, Administrator

December 29, 1890. 4

Notice To Stockholders.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad Company will be held at the general office, in the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., on Wednesday, March 4, 1891, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the election of thirteen Directors to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented at the meeting.

J. H. P. HUGHART, Secretary.

WE PAY SALARY and expenses to LIVE AGENTS men or women. NO DRONES WANTED. Work steady year round and cash weekly. Good pay for part time. FINE OUTFIT FREE. Experience not needed. Send references and stamp at once. J. EUGENE WHITNEY, Rochester, New York.

☞ This firm is perfectly responsible.

In a Short Time.

A prominent man of Clarinda, Iowa, says: Through the recommendation of J. P. Burrows, of our city, I gave your Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup a trial in a case of severe cough, after using it a short time my cough was cured. Which fact gives me such great confidence in it's merits that upon every occasion I recommend it to my neighbors.

Yours,

AMOS CLARK.

Morris Lutten, Chicago, got flying machine in his mind and arranged his overcoat over his head. He jumped from a second story window and hit the ground, breaking his thigh.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To The Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

What's Come to Stay?

Old Honesty PLUG CHEWING TOBACCO

WHY?

Because it's the Chewer's delight Just what he wants and will have, now that he can get it. It's the finest in the market. Gives a delicious and lasting CHEW.

Get a sample from your Dealer. John Finzer & Bros. Louisville, Ky.

CORRESPONDENCE

WATERLOO.

Grandfather Willis is quite sick.

This week J. J. Fitzgerald is in Michigan.

Mrs. Keep is slowly improving in health.

Frank Bevier was over in Michigan, last week.

J. S Jackman was at Ft. Wayne Saturday shopping.

J. C. Day moved into his new house on Union street Tuesday.

Miss Ella Goodwin spent Sunday with friends in Kendallville.

Miss Clara Ettinger spent Sunday with friends in the country.

John Ettinger and wife, of Springfield, Ill., are visiting his parents.

Charlie Speer came home sick from Chicago on last Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Minnie Bigler, of Elkhart, is here visiting her father, Robert Patterson.

Mrs. George Stamets, of Auburn, is spending a few days with her parents.

Mrs. J. Taylor, of Kendallville, is here visiting her old friends and neighbors.

Elder Stewart is holding a series of meetings in the Disciple church of this place.

Misses Ditha and Dora Anthony visited over Sunday with Mrs. John Rummel, of Auburn.

Hon. Freeman Kelley came up from Indianapolis Saturday but returned Monday.

Mrs. Ina McDowell, of Auburn, is spending the week with her aunt Mrs. A. L. Faucett.

Rev. W. O. Butler spent last week with his family here. He returned this week to Ft. Wayne.

Miss Ada Williamson went over to Auburn last week to see her sister, Mrs. McCord.

Miss Allie Young, who has been visiting friends here, has returned to her home in Angola.

R. A. Haskin has moved here from Butler. He occupies the Fisk property on Maple street.

Mrs. Aggie Murray, of Manistee, Mich. and her children are here with her parents, A. J. Sinclair and wife.

Dr. Wood, of Angola, was here Tuesday to see Dell Lock, who has been so sick. He is reported still very sick.

Isaac Speer and wife attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Tilla Coats, in Williams county, O, on last Thursday.

The building on South Wayne street opposite Dr. Carpenter's drug store, is now occupied by Mr. Friend for a barber shop.

W. May has organized a writing school meeting evenings in one of the high school rooms. He has sixty scholars at this date.

Clint Graham, the man who fell off the train, improves very slowly. He has not regained his mind entirely. His brother is now with him.

Ed. Thompson, of our town, who is a traveling salesman, returned home Thursday, from a lengthy trip through Michigan and Wisconsin.

A number of persons went from here to Auburn, Monday, to attend the U. B. church trial, but the radicals had it carried over to the March term.

J. F. Shuman, though improving has not been able to attend court this term, rather discouraging for a young attorney, but John will be on hand for business hereafter.

Wednesday evening of this week the the ladies of the Methodist church gave one of their popular ten cent suppers, at the parsonage. This was also a pleasant opportunity to visit with Rev. and Mrs. Rhetts at their home.

The last M. E. quarterly meeting of the year will be held next Saturday and Sunday. Elder Simpson is expected to be present. At this time also, Rev. L. A. Rhetts designs commencing a series of meetings hoping th y may prove revival meetings in fact, as well as name.

Cyrus Boyer has rented the Henning property on the hill in the southwest part of town. He has rented his farm and intends to move to Waterloo the first of April.

Last Friday afternoon the ladies of the Presbyterian church held their social with Mrs. Robert Crooks. Being certain always to have a pleasant time there, besides enjoying a good supper, everybody desires to be present.

The Disciples still continue their meetings. So far there has been one addition to their membership The United Brethren have added some to their church as a result of their meetings. The Evangelicals also have met with some success.

Rev. S. P. Klotz' revival meeting at the U. B. church still continues with unabated interest. Eight persons have already united with the church with more to follow. He will commence a meeting at the new church in Smithfield the last of this week.

BUTLER.

Mrs. R. H. Murch goes to Fostoria next week to attend the wedding of a friend.

Geo. Hollinger, living four miles south of town, is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

Protracted meeting was commenced last Sunday evening at the U. B. church. May they be successful.

Albert Gengnagle, our popular harness maker sold a set of double harness this week to a gentleman at Kendals, Mich.

The M. E. quarterly meeting passed off very pleasantly. Rev. Simpson, the presiding elder, always calls out a full house.

R. H. Murch has been promoted from fireman to engineer on the Wabash. Always glad to chronicle the good fortune of a worthy man.

F. W. Oberlin and wife who have been visiting in Detroit and other parts of Michigan for the past three weeks have returned to Butler.

The postoffice under its new management seems to be giving universal satisfaction. The force of clerks seems to be ample, courteous, attentive and obliging. Mr. Jones has probably struck the calling that has eluded his grasp these many years.

Mrs. Noah Showalter died suddenly last thursday. She was well advanced in years and among the early settlers of this township. Her funeral took place on the 24th, at the Church of God, of which society she was a member, Rev. Mr. Dempsy officiating. She leaves an aged husband and two sons to mourn her departure.

About forty of the relatives and neighbors of A. W. Seldenright gathered quietly at his residence last Friday night to apprise him of the fact that it was his 42d birthday. So quiet had been the move of his young wife and daughter that he was wholly unaware of the movement until he returned from his work at Butler about 6:30 p. m., not having recalled the fact that this was his birthday. A few suitable presents were presented to him and after a friendly visit and an excellent supper that his good wife knows just how to prepare, all departed well pleased with their visit.

(From Another Correspondent.)

The beautiful weather continues.

Mr, Little, and family have moved to Marion, Ind.

Rumor says there is to be a wedding in town soon, is it so?

The protracted meeting is still in progress with some success.

Frank Ray, of Auburn visited his friend Jay over Sunday last.

Mrs. Peachey, of Hamilton, is spending a few days with her daughter Mrs. Aldrich.

Amanda Bowman and Mrs Kirk from over in the bad lands, are to have a slander trial this week, another nuisance to the community.

The Wabash shops are now running on half time, the men only having work three days in a week, as business being very dull at present.

The justice court is busy bringing criminals to justice. A young man was fined $14 for being drunk, he refused to pay the bail and therefore he went to jail.

Rent continues extremely high in Butler, and there are a good many empty houses in town from the fact that times are dull, work scarce and therefore renters are living in closer quarters to save rent.

The temperance billiard man walked up to, your honor, 'Squire McNabb'-court to the time of $14 for allowing minors to play billiards. This is only a beginning of what will be if he continues as he has been doing.

CONCORD.

J. B. Gifford was at Auburn Thursday.

Eva May has two ladies from Auburn visiting her.

H. B. Culbertson, of Auburn, is acting as hub inspector.

Frank Draggoo was taken seriously ill last Sabbath evening.

Mrs. Nancy Wyatt has not been feeling so well for a few days.

A goodly number attended church at Rehoboth Sabbath evening.

A few days ago twenty five loads of hubs were delivered at the mill.

Johnnie Testison, of St. Joe, visited his cousin, Merritt Baker Sunday.

Mrs. D. W. Baker entertained several of her lady friends last Wednesday.

Ida Keller was taken seriously ill this week, but is reported better at present.

The oyster supper at Smith's hall was not a financial success Saturday evening.

Rev. S. S. Stanton is conducting a protracted effort at Rehoboth with telling success.

John Smith and wife, of Jackson township, were the guests of C. C. Smith on Sunday.

Charles Kimer and Frank Culler, of Union Chapel, attended Sabbath school here last Sabbath.

E. Ewing and wife and Will Simanton and wife left for their homes in Ashland county, Ohio, Thursday last.

R. B. Olesa had a full fledged hustler last week and run the mill day and night in order to fill his orders for other firms.

Mr. Darling has returned to his home near Perrysville, Ohio, after a two weeks visit with his sisters, Mrs. John Smith, of Fairview and Mrs. Will Provines, of Spencerville.

DEKALB.

Ice harvest is about closed.

Pedro parties still in progress.

Pat McTyre has returned to Van Wert, Ohio.

Whooping cough is reported in our village.

Clifton Walter returned from his western trip.

Mrs. H. M. Gorman is having her drove well repaired this week.

D. N. Terry is under the weather at present. Back teeth is the cause.

The hop at St. Johns rink Friday evening last week was almost a failure, only a few Garrett ladies being present.

The next new thing out is the life of Sitting Bull and the late Indian war a book of some 500 pages. It would be exciting to read.

J. A. Miller's horse broke from his hitching place while at New Era Station and very near demolished the cart, but escaped with but little injury.

Farmer Alliance is in the air and drifting near this place. They expect to organize Friday night at DeKalb school house. If it is the right kind of a breeze we will be glad to receive it.

J. F. Groves was the loser of a valuable horse which got one of its legs broken while in the stable. It is a mystery to all who examined the horse and condition of stable. The horse had to be killed.

A birthday party was given old Mr. McKinley on Jan. 22, it being his 71st. birthday. He was presented with a very nice easy chair, costing $14, all enjoyed the occasion very much. Honor thy father and mother and despise them not when they are old.

NEWVILLE.

Mack Leighty is improving at present.

Ott and Clyde were visiting their parents last Sabbath.

Richard Krum is among us once more. Report was that he just about went.

O. has concluded not to change her name at present, but thinks she may in in the near future.

S. H. Bartlett is on the convalescent list with some grade of fever. We miss him on our streets.

We have a young Fitzsimmons in our town, he is a great fighter and on his muscle when he gets loaded.

The party on the same evening of the dance was rather rockey, there were quite a number full. John was loaded.

It is rumored that Mrs. Baird is contemplating marrying Mr. Coffrin, of Kansas, the famous woman's suffrage debater.

The dance was a success. Nice moonlight, had a fine temperate crowd, which is an exception to the rule for a Newville dance.

G. W. Porter is doing the principal business at present. He is a good square man to trade with and he sells oil less than anybody.

Aunt Hannah Robertson is so she can go visiting a short time ago. At one time everybody looked for her death any time. You cannot always tell.

A young man at Kendalville has beat the young married man of Newville out of his best girl. We think it a good thing and saves the young man's reputation.

SUMMIT.

Dona Shiffly spent Sunday with friends in Angola.

Samuel McKennen spent Sunday with friends in Michigan.

Miss Margaret Mortorff visited friends in Hudson over Sunday.

J. Ringler, from west of Hudson, was on our streets last Saturday.

H. D. Snowberger and wife spent Sunday with relatives in Waterloo,

Rollie McDougle, of Hudson, was in our town last Thursday evening.

Thomas Hammond jr., cut his foot last Monday which will lay him up for a few days.

Geo. Craig and wife visited Mrs. C's. grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Sawvel last Sunday.

Protracted meeting closed at Barker's church last Wednesday evening with 36 converts.

Mrs. Rigby and daughter, of Waterloo, visited a few days with her niece Mrs. Henry Snowberger.

S. S. Forney of this place has just received a new machine for building fences, and desires to say to the farmers of this community that he is ready any time to ubild fence at reasonable rates.

SPENCERVILLE.

E. R. Chaney moved to Concord Tuesday.

Ed. Beams and wife returned home Thursday.

The protracted meeting in the M. E. church is growing in interest.

Prof. Koeppe will move into the property vacated by E. R. Chaney.

The masonic fraternity are adding to their number at every meeting.

Editor Rice, of the Masonic Advocate, Indianapolis was in town last week in the interest of his paper.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, a large number of our citizens attended the Lockwood lecture at St Joe Thursday evening.

Mrs. Louis Berry undertook to cure a corn on her toe with carbolic acid and is now suffering so severely that amputation may be necessary to save her life.

City Election Under the New Law.

The Shelbyville Democrat says that it is not generally so understood, but the new election law will apply to the city elections to be held this spring the same as it does to the county and state elections and this is quite likely to bring about huge surprises in some cities. Nominations must be made about three weeks before election, so that the proper notice may be given through the newspapers—two weeks as required by law. Then the tickets must be printed with the same care. The parties will find it necessary to organize a committee. The chairmen of the committees each appoint an election commissioner, and they, in conjuction with the city clerk, discharge the duties performed by the county clerk and county commissioners in a general election. The city marshal acts in the capacity of the sheriff of the county. In Goshen, the common council has already adopted voting precincts and is preparing to carry out the law the same as in county elections. Clerk Wolfe and Marshal Self are posted on their duties and ready to carry them out when the time comes.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court, of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of William H. Dills, deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JULIA MAY DILLS, Administratrix.

JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y for Estate.

January 21, 1891.

BARGAINS

—AT—

Wilson's Shoe Store.

FOR ONE WEEK,

Closing Wednesday, Feb. 4th, we Offer a Line of Ladies' $2.00 Kid Shoes, D and E Wide, at $1.50,

A $2.50 Shoe at $2.00,
A $3.00 Shoe at $2.50,
A $3.50 and $4.00 Line at $3.00 and $3.25,
Our $3.50 Warranted Kip Boot at $3.00,
Boys' $2.50 Warranted Boot at $2.00,
All Wool Felts and Heavy, First-Class Overs, $2.25.

We Move our Stock at Close of Sale into the OLD POSTOFFICE BUILDING, North of Square.

YOURS TRULY,

J. N. WILSON & SON.

Three little people just home from school.
Learning to work and to wash by rule.
"Hark! cries one as she comes near,
"Mind this rule" she exclaims, "my dear."
"If with dirt (our foe) you'd cope,
Always use THE SANTA CLAUS SOAP."
ALL GROCERS SELL SANTA CLAUS SOAP.
MADE ONLY BY
N. K. FAIRBANK & Co.— CHICAGO.

100 PAGES WIDE AWAKE, 1891

beginning with the Holiday Number,

is permanently enlarged to one hundred pages, radiant with news and larger type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for WIDE AWAKE a story called "Diamonds and Toads".

HON. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles under the general title of "Our Government", for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called "Cab and Caboose". Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, "FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS GROWN UP", will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Perousie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistible little folks' serial, by ELIZABETH CUMMINGS.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: "Dining with Gladstone," by Mrs. Gen. John A. Logan; "Amy Robsart's Embroidery," by Frances A. Humperey; "Mother Goose's Pets," by Agnes Repplier; "Gypsies and Gypsying," by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; "some Horses that I have Known," by Maud Howe; "Sainte Marie College of Wynchestre," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Boston's Girl Sculptor," by Mrs. Newberry; "The Sugar Crank," by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, BY E. W. HAWLEY, of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, will interest High School Students. Three Sets of Cash Prizes.

THE BEST OF SHORT STORIES from thousands offered and solicited the past year—some by new authors.

Figure Drawing for Children, in twelve illustrated lessons by CAROLINE H. RIMMER, with four prize offers each month.

The ever popular "Ways to do things," the "School and Playground Stories," "Tangles," "Post Office" and "Men and Things".

Wide Awake is only $2.40 a year.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, Publishers, Boston.

THERE ARE MANY USES FOR SAPOLIO.

To clean tombstones.
To polish knives.
To clean dishes.
To renew oil-cloth.
To scrub floors.
To whiten marble.
To renovate paint.
To wash out sinks.
To remove rust.
To brighten metals.
To scour bath-tubs.
To scour kettles.

EVERYBODY USES IT.

Dentists to clean false teeth.
Surgeons to polish their instruments.
Confectioners to scour their pans.
Mechanics to brighten their tools.
Cooks to clean the kitchen sink.
Painters to clean off surfaces.
Engineers to clean parts of machines.
Ministers to renovate old chapels.
Sextons to clean the tombstones.
Hostlers on brasses and white horses.
Artists to clean their palettes.
Wheelmen to clean bicycles.
Housemaids to scrub marble floors.
Chemists to remove some stains.
Carvers to sharpen their knives.
Shrewd ones to scour old straw hats.
Soldiers to brighten their arms.
Renovators to clean carpets.

EVERY ONE FINDS A NEW USE.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXI. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. FEBRUARY ,5 1891. NUMBE

THIS NEW LIST

Comprises some of our very best bargains, and it will pay you well to examine it carefully. The most of the

FARMS

mentioned are

SACRIFICE BARGAINS

and MUST BE SOLD, and the

TOWN PROPERTIES

can be classed under the same head. Remember this when you get ready to buy property, we will show you our list to choose from and if you find anything in it that you would like to see we will take pleasure in showing it to you at no expense to you, whether you buy or not.

No. 47. One hundred and sixty acres good land in Franklin township, 4 miles to good markets. The improvements consist of 2 good frame dwelling houses, 2 good frame barns (large,) wind pump, 3 wells, cistern, cellar, 2 splendid orchards. This a splendid farm and is well adapted for two families.

No. 67. An elegant eighty acres of land with good buildings, orchards and other fruits. This farm lies just east of Auburn.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, will sell on easy terms and long time. Installment plan if preferred.

No. 156. Eighty acre farm. 1½ miles from Jackson Center. 55 acres under cultivation. 25 acres timber. The whole farm thoroughly under-drained. Soil sandy loam. One-story frame dwelling, good cellar, barn 28x58, good wire and picket fences. good orchard of 55 bearing trees, 56 grapevines of different varieties, 6 varieties of cherries and plenty of small fruit Will sell for cash at a price fair to purchaser or will exchange for small farm in this county or Western land.

No 257. Forty acres good land 4 miles north of Butler, Ind. 20 acres cleared, balance timber. Soil black sandy loam, good log house and barn, well and fences. Three-fourths mile from school. Price $1,000. ½ cash, balance long time.

Four vacant lots in south end of town. Will sell on the installment plan.

No 209 160 acres of fine farm land in Kingman county Kan. Will exchange for farm in DeKalb county and pay cash difference.

No. 217. Thirty acres at Moore's. Good buildings. 2 good wells sugar camp. fine fruit, with 20 acres cleared.

No. 231. Eighty acres of fine farming land 4 miles southwest of Garrett, 45 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, balance timber and pasture land. Good dwelling, barn, orchard and good fences.

No. 224. Large 2-story frame dwelling, on North Vanburen st. Elegant residence property, nearly an acre of ground.

No. 231. Seventy-five acres 2½ miles south of Spencerville, 65 acres under cultivation, balance good timber, good house, bank barn 36x50 feet, well, wind pump, orchard, and all fences in good repair. Price $3,500,

No. 259. Elegant residence property on South Jackson Street. Price $1,000.

Vacant lots in South Auburn, right handy by to factories, for sale on easy terms.

No. 307. 230 acres good farming land in Wilmington township. This farm is well adapted for stock raising. Will sell for small cash payment and long time, or will exchange for a smaller farm.

No. 308. Ninety-five acres of excellent land with good buildings, orchard and other improvements, within five miles of Hicksville, O.

No. 309. 78 acres of elegant farm land, every foot tillable and of the best quality of soil. Large two story brick dwelling house, cellar, well, cistern, splendid orchard of 100 trees, all bearing, fences in good repair. This is only a short distance from a railroad town in the St. Joe valley.

No. 310. Fine residence property on West Third St. 2-story frame dwelling, 6 rooms, good cellar, wood house, well and cistern, fruit and shade trees.

No. 311. A large frame hotel in a live town in northeastern Indiana Trade well established. This property can be bought cheap.

No. 315. Eighty acres splendid land in Jackson township, 2 story brick dwelling house, frame barn 32x64 feet orchard of 80 bearing apple trees and plenty of small fruit of different varieties, 65 acres cleared and under cultivation, balance timber.

Vacant lots right handy by to factories in South Auburn, on long time and easy payments.

No. 317. 40 acres good land within 5 miles of Auburn. Good frame dwelling and barn, 23 acres under cultivation, balance timber,

No. 287. An elegant farm of 160 acres part broken ready for cropping, stone house on the place, in Graham Co., Kansas. Will trade for live stock, stock of merchandise or town property.

No. 305. 160 acres land near live town in Nebraska, will sell or exchange for town or farm property in DeKalb county.

No. 321. 80 acres good all around farm land in Smithfield township. Good dwelling house, barn 34x44, good orchard of 70 bearing apple trees, grapes cherries and other small fruits, 10 acres good timber land, balance under cultivation and well under-drained.

No. 322. Two vacant lots in the original plat of Auburn.

No. 322. Elegant residence property on south Main St.

No. 324. 81 acres of land in Newville township, good five-room frame dwelling house, two good frame barns, splendid orchard, 50 acres under cultivation, balance timber land, no waste land, splendid sugar camp on this farm. This farm will be sold on long time and payments to suit purchaser.

No. 326. Fifty-six acres of as fine land as there is in the county. Four miles from Butler and 8 miles from Auburn, in Wilmington township. Good frame dwelling, frame barn, 30x50, wagon shed, corn crib and granary, two good wells, cistern, splendid cellar, 100 apple trees and other fruits. Seven acres timber, balance under cultivation. Entire farm well under drained. Will be sold cheap.

Five vacant lots well located near factories in the south end of town, on easy terms with but a small cash payment down.

No. 327. A nice 40-acre tract in Keyser Tp., good frame house and barn, orchard of 75 trees, good fences, 8 acres good timber. balance farming land, only 2½ miles from Garrett, Ind.

No. 333 An elegant new flouring mill doing a good business and located in a good farming district and in large territory. This mill is for sale at a bargain. It is located near a good town in Northeastern Indiana.

No. 332. Eighty-six acres land in Fairfield township, sixty acres cleared. frame house and barn, cellar, well, cistern, good spring near center of the eighty, and running water through northeast part of farm. All kinds of fruit on the farm. This is a farm that it is worth your time to look at before you buy if you intend buying a farm.

No. 335. Brick house with 5 vacant lots in South Auburn. Long time and easy payments.

No. 336 30 acres of as fine timber land as there is any in the county. Located within 2 miles of a railroad station. Here is a bargain for any one wanting to buy a small farm on which there is enough timber to pay for the land. The soil is a black sandy loam and will make a farm to be proud of.

No. 337. 127 acres fine land in Allen county. Good buildings and fences, no waste land, 32 acres timber land, and 13 acres grass land, balance under cultivation. Small cash payment and balance on long time, or will exchange for town or farm property.

No. 338. 40 acres excellent land in Wilmington township. Log house and barn good apple orchard, well and fences, 34 acres under cultivation, balance timber. Will exchange for property in Auburn.

No. 340. Elegant residence property on North Jackson street. Fine frame buildings, well, cistern and fruits. Price $1,500.

No. 339. Fine residence property in Garrett, located near the business center of the town.

No. 341. 110 acres land in Richland township, frame dwelling 24x24, and barn 35x40 70 acres under plow, 30 acres timber and 10 acres grass land.

Vacant lots in the south part of town on long time and easy terms.

No. 342. 170 acres of fine land 8 miles east of Auburn, 4 miles south of Butler and 4 miles north of St. Joe. Fine frame dwelling house—main 22x24, wings 14x28 and 14x31 feet; 11 rooms, cellar under whole house, wood house, 3 good barns, one 36x50, one 30x66 and one 22x28 feet; 2 good wells, windmill and elevated tank, 2 good orchards of from 125 to 150 bearing trees, 150 acres under cultivation, balance timber.

No. 312. A 60-acre farm in Wilmington township, good frame dwelling, barn, all necessary out-buildings, well and cistern.

No 314. A fine large dwelling property on south Jackson street There is plenty of fruit of almost all kinds, excellent walks around entire property and of the durable kind.

Two good farms of 160 acres each; one in Kansas and the other in Nebraska to exchange for land or town property in Northern Indiana.

Railroad and Steamship Tickets

Sold to any point North. South, East or West at lowest rates, and by the best routes. Call on or address,

RICKEL & SPROTT,

Real Estate and Immigration Ag'ts.

Under Farmers Bank,

AUBURN, IND.

LUNCH ROOM.

J. H. Collins' Lunch Room on West Seventh street. Good Meals at all hours, Oysters in all styles and of the best brands, Hot Coffee and Tea. Give me a call when in town. Remember the place, next door to Pommert's barber shop.

J. H. COLLINS, Pro.

J. A. CAMPBELL,

BUTLER, IND.,

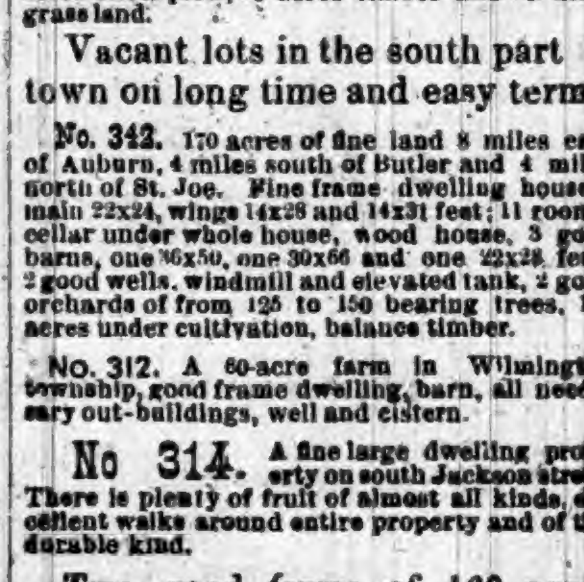
INSURANCE,

In all the leading companies promptly placed in DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

The man with a good resolution is beginning to look for a repair shop.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.



WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

"Mothers' Friend," is worth its weight in gold. My wife suffered more in ten minutes with either of her other children than she did altogether with her last, after having used four bottles of "Mothers' Friend." It is a blessing to expectant mothers, says a customer. HENDERSON DALE, Carmi, Ill

Having used two bottles my sixth child was born with no pain comparatively.
Mrs. L. O. Vaughan, Sheridan Lake, Col.

Wonderful—relieves much suffering.
Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by express on receipt of price, $1.50 per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Book to mothers mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

F. E. DAVENPORT.
Auburn, Ind.

What a beautiful thing a genuine unwashed "Rosebud" Indian must be.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Peters, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 2nd day of March, 1891, and show cause, if any, why my FINAL SETTLEMENT ACCOUNTS with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 13th day of January 1891. AUGUSTUS BARTELS, Administrator
3t

E. D. HARTMAN, Att'y.

AUBURN AND VICINITY.

Some Reminiscences of its Early Days and Pioneer Citizens.

1843.

We have given an outline of the plan for the court house. This plan had been drawn by John Coburn whose theories of architecture in this case were impracticable and required reconstruction. The board of commissioners recorded the amended plan and advertised for contractors. The town lots owned by the county were appraised and it was understood that the builder was to be paid in these lots or money derived from their sale. Three bids were received. One by James R. Cooper for $1400, which was a fair price for the labor and structure required. One by James Hite for $800, and one by Samuel Haines for $400.

This last seems to have been ignored for Mr. Hite got the contract and went resolutely to work to carry it to completion. He found he had taken it far too low and after selling some of the lots deeded to him and sinking the value of a section of land he had owned, he gave up unable to proceed farther.

The frame was up by fall but the building was not enclosed and upon a joint agreement, the commissioners settled with Mr Hite by his giving his note for $16.93 and they receiving the building as it was, together with all lumber, material, lots and money in hand of the county agent not otherwise contracted for. Various parties worked upon the building. It was painted by Mr. Parsons and on April 29, '44 the court held its first session therein.

The commissioners in 1843 were Daniel Moody, Warner Spooner and John Helwig; A. Hague was clerk of the board and J. Puffenberger, the sheriff.

There were still some roads to open and the course of others to be changed and the highways were mere wagon tracks. The board ordered that the road revenue should be laid out to the best advantage and supervisors on receipt of their proportion of said fund were required to advertise to let jobs on public highways to the lowest bidder.

An addition to the county jail was erected by Samuel W. Ralston for which he was paid on its completion $175 in county orders.

Wm. R. Robinson was engaged to cut down the timber contiguous to the jail which the grand jury declared "insufficient" on making their official visit.

The board of commissioners upon general complaint of the citizens of the county in relation to the receipt of state scrip for all county and road dues and also, for school purposes and seminary fund, after mature deliberation in the premises and believing said board ought to be the conservators of the credit and public weal of said county did order and direct the county treasurer, school commissioner and seminary trustees to refuse and not receive state scrip for county and road dues or for school purpose and seminary fund.

An examination of the treasury showed that there was on hand as follows: State scrip $5 40, road receipt, $3.50, in county orders, $8.65, paper money $171.00, checks $225,40 and specie $272.69

These terms scrip, paper money and specie will recall to the middle aged of the community, a period of great financial depression.

The young men of to-day familiar with treasury notes, national currency, gold and silver certificate and specie know little of the annoyances and losses of that ever fluctuating and frequently failing paper money.

Changing in value daily, the bank note reporter fixed the value of your money, and bills in one locality, would not pass in some other.

The order to refuse scrip was unsuccessful for the fall statement showed over $600 of it in the treasury. I wish some one would tell us what "state scrip" was. In contrast with our present poor farm, home and superintendent with good care of the poor we learn of the plan of farming out the indigent.

Theophilus Ketchen, a pauper at public vendue was bid in for $32.50 for six months keeping.

The health of Auburn did not improve and chills and fever prevailed to a distressing degree. Judge E. Mott stated that "In the early history of Auburn there was scarce a man but that at some period, was under the necessity of plying the mop, handling the skillet, or bending over the washtub, and that owing to the above cause and to the fact that female help was not to be had, he himself had been compelled, for two weeks at a time, to perform all kinds of household and kitchen service."

PIONEER WEDDINGS.

As so many have suggested that we republish the early weddings of the county, in connection with the history we are publishing, we commence this week to give them and shall continue as we have space, trying to keep the two set of articles up to about the same date. We give the dates on which the licenses were issued. The first we find are for 1837.

Sept. 5, Francis Smith to Maria Gunsenhouser.
Sept. 5, John Platter to Emeline Walden.

1838.

Jan. 18, Dan. Coats to Mary Allen.
Feb. 28, Walter Slaughter to Mary Ackley.
Mar. 12, William McClure to Eve Moody.
May 6, Aaron Vealey to Elinor Nelson.
June 9, Hawley Netterfield to Miranda A. Babcock.
June 26, Noah Brooks to Lydia Abbott,
June 26, Lemuel DePew to Sarah Watson.
Aug. 7, Wm. DePew to Eunice Belle Moore.
Aug. 8, Wm. Watson to Elizabeth Smith.
Aug. 8, John W. Rose to Elizabeth Coats.
Aug. 11, Adam Hartle to Prudence Boice.
Nov. 10 Roland Charles Hollister to Fanny Coleman.
Nov. 16, Elias Smith to Thursey Watson.
Dec. 25, Peter Simon to Louisa Fair.

1839.

Jan. 19, John Rhodes to Hannah Crouch.
Feb. 6, Michael Robinson to Reason R. Spurrier.
Feb. 11, James Thomas to Eunice Strong.
Mar. 8, James Means jr. to Isabel Watson.
Apr. 29, Wm. R. Herbert to Wealthy Sterns.
May 3, Joseph Johnson to Betsey Nelson,
May 25, John Rotnoor to Abigail Robe.
July 1, Peter S. Vester to Annabella Widner.
July 9, Cornelius Widener to Elizabeth Bartlett.
Aug. 18, Ashel Chapell to Elizabeth Campbell
Aug. 26, Chas. Watson to Rachel Wyatt.
Sept. 25, Wm. Rhodes to Betsy Boyle.
Nov. 5, Lorenzo D. Alton to Orilla Netterfield.
Nov. 21, John Houlton to Nancy Lewis.
Nov. 28, Wm. Tanner to Eliza Dickinson.
Dec. 9, Isaac Eakright to Emily Handy.
Dec. 23, Uri Phillips to Phebe Abbott,
Dec. 24, Striper Hinkle to Olive Barker

1840.

Jan. 7, Jacob McClish to Leonora Chaffee.
Jan. 15, Wm. S. Goodell to Catherine Herrick.
Jan. 19, Samuel Wasson to Eliza Means.
Jan. 30, Elias Gilpin to Susan Fetter.
Mar. 28, John Moody to Mary Ann Patterson
Mar. 30, Isaac Lawhead to Jane M. Widney.
Apr. 27, Asa Shaw to Elizabeth Allen.
June 10, Nathaniel Fitch to Sarah DeLong.
June 23, John Bates to Mary Jane Hanes.
May 21, Ephraim S. Strong to Mariette Robinson.
July 17, Edward Deefers to Mary Kinsley.
Aug. 31, Charles Rohrbaugh to Rebecca Nelson.
Sept. 10, Martin A. King to Hannah Houlton.
Nov. 12, Zachariah Ackley to Catherine Hull.
Nov. 28, Jacob Sheets to Ellen Burdine.
Dec. 15, Jeremiah Norris to Anne Cassbeer.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb circuit court of the state of Indiana, administratrix of the estate of Joseph Ax, deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

her
MARGARET A. X AX, Administrix.
mark

W. H. LEAS, Att'y for Estate.
January 21, 1891.

The greatest improvement in Corsets during the past twenty years is the use of Coraline in the place of horn or whalebone. It is used in all of Dr. Warner's Corsets and in no others.

The advantages of Coraline over horn or whalebone are that it does not become set like whalebone, and it is more flexible and more durable.

Dr. Warner's Coraline Corsets are made in twenty-four different styles, fitting every variety of figures—thin, medium, stout, long waists and short waists.

Sold everywhere.

WARNER BROS., Mfrs.,

New York and Chicago.

If You wish anything in

DRY GOODS,

CLOTHING,

HATS CAPS

FURNISHINGS

OR

LADIES' WRAPS,

We invite you to call as we wish to reduce our stock and will make

PRICES SO LOW

That you cannot help but

Save Money

By trading with us. Always pleased to show goods.

Yours Respt.,

SCHAAB & BRO.

It is conceded by the profession that when a play don't run good the actors usually walk.

Height of Cruelty.

Nervous women seldom receive the sympathy they deserve. While often the pictures of health, they are constantly ailing. To withhold sympathy from these unfortunates is the height of cruelty. They have a weak heart, causing shortness of breath, fluttering. pain in side, weak and hungry spells, and finally swelling of ankles, oppression, choking, smothering and dropsy. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is just the thing for them. For their nervousness, headache, weakness, etc., his Restorative Nervine is unequaled. Fine treatise on "Heart and Nervous Diseases" and marvelous testimonials free. Sold and guaranteed by F. E. Davenport. 3

Krupp, the Prussian gunmaker, has an annual income of about $1,500,000. Real blood money that.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Robbins & McCords drug store, large bottles 50c. and $1. 2

The difference between repartee and impudence is the size of the man who says it.

Prescription of all Physicians.

Accurately compounded at Robbins & McCord's where you can find the largest stock of toilet articles, perfumeries, cosmetics, sponges, hair, bath, shaving and tooth brushes. Truss fitting a speciality. All the leading patent medicines can be found on my shelves. My stock of drugs and chemicals cannot be excelled in town. Also sole agent for Van Wert's Balsam for throat and lungs, which I can recommend to all as a superior remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. We guarantee to cure or money refunded. Call for a trial size free. Large dollar bottle, holding one-half pint, for 50 cents. Remember the place: Robbins & McCord. tf

A social entertainment has been postponed on account of the prize fight.

At Home.

Decatur, Ind., March 25, 1890.

The Dr. Marshall Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: Permit me to inform you that the medicine which I purchased of you, Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, is the best medicine I ever used for bronchitis, asthma coughs. I have for many years been troubled with bronchial affections and asthma, and I never found anything that so effectually removes these difficulties as Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup. I consider it the best remedy known for bronchitis, asthma and coughs, all of which I am willing to attest by affidavit if demanded.

DAVID SHOWERS,
ex Probate judge of Adams Co.

Sold by F. E. Davenport.

Mrs. Slimdiet—"What part of the chicken shall I give you, Mr. Goodfeed?" "All but the neck."

A Mystery Explained.

The papers contain frequent notices of rich, pretty and educated girls eloping with negroes, tramps and coachmen. The well-known specialist, Dr. Franklin Miles, says all such girls are more or less hysterical, nervous, very impulsive, unbalanced; usually subject to headache, neuralgia, sleeplessness, immoderate crying or laughing. These show a weak nervous system for which there is no remedy equal to Restorative Nervine. Trial bottles and fine book, containing many marvelous cures, free at F. E. Davenport's who also sells and guarantees Dr. Miles' celebrated New Heart Cure, the finest of heart tonics. Cures fluttering, short breath, etc. 3

A cave surpassing in magnitude Kentucky's famous resort has been discovered in the Black Hills, S. D.

HAPPY HOOSIERS. Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman, of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best kidney and liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle, at Robbins & McCords drug store. 2

Amelie Rives Chanler, who is under treatment in Paris, is a sort of anxiety to her physicians.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless childbirth, our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs, and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter, sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

The music hall proprietor must be forgiven for putting on airs; its his business.

Bradfield's Female Regulator

Should be used by the young woman, she who suffers from any disorder peculiar to her sex, and at change of life is a powerful tonic; benefits all who use it. Write The Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta, Ga. for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

Tariff reform is marching right on. It swept the country last fall and will do it again in 1892.

A Lady in South Carolina Writes:

My labor was shorter and less painful than on two former occasions; physicians astonished; I thank you for "Mother's Friend." It is worth its weight in gold. Address the Bradfield Reg. Co. Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by F. E. Davenport and all druggists. 10

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 30

Mr. Harrison dies hard, very Senator Hoar and his radical colleagues recognize that their last defeat meant the final disposition of the Force bill, and they have accepted the result with the best grace possible although it is far from satisfactory to them. Not so Mr. Harrison. He is so wedded to the idea of Federal interference in southern elections and its consequent benefit to him and his party that he refuses to believe the Force bill dead, and has begun scheming for another attempt to rush it through the Senate. He is strongly seconded by Speaker Reed and the House republicans generally, but the idea has so far been very coldly received by the senators whose recollection of the two square knock downs they have already received while battling for this unpopular and unjust bill makes them shy of again entering the ring against the intelligent public opinion of the country.

Still there is no telling what these republicans may do. It is certain that if they saw their way clear to pass the bill that they would again take it up. Their desire is as strong for the passage of the bill as it ever was, but it is the dread of another defeat that makes them hesitate. Democratic senators are fully aware that all danger from this bill will not be passed until the close of the session, and they will see to it that the republicans get no chance to catch them napping.

That the democrats are always ready to aid in the transaction of legitimate business was shown when Senator Gorman notified the republican steering committee that the democrats were prepared to agree to any order of business which did not include the cloture rule or Force bill. The program as arranged provides for the consideration of the following bills, after the Apportionment bill is disposed of: Eight hour bill, Copyright, Pure food, and the job of the session, the bill to guarantee the payment of $200,000,000 in bonds of the Nicaragua canal company. It is certainly a suspicious circumstance that this bill for the exclusive benefit of a corporation should have been given a place in the order of business when dozens of bills important to the country at large were left out. Some music ought to be heard when this bill gets before the Senate, and will be, unless I am very much mistaken.

The defeat of Senator Ingalls did not raise a cyclone of grief at the Capitol.

Unless the republicans attempt some of their tricks it is believed that all of the appropriation bills can be disposed of by the 4th of March, and an extra session avoided.

Chairman Dingley, of the House committee now investigating the silver pool scandal, is charged with having intimated, in a conversation with Mr. Payne, a member of the committee, that Senator Vest would never have been allowed to testify if he had known that he would "give away" Senator Cameron. This charge is not made by a democrat, but by a good republican, Gen H. V. Boynton. Mr. Dingley denies it, and Gen. Boynton says W. B. Stevens heard the conversation in question. Its a nice mess, a republican mess, all through, and before the committee finishes its labors it will be in need of being investigated.

The arguments in the Behring Sea case were heard by the supreme court this week. They contained nothing new on either side, thanks to the enterprise of our newspaper in having told us two weeks ago what points each side would try to make.

The anti-silver men have opened their campaign against free coinage by bringing a lot of eastern bankers here to tell the House coinage committe what a dangerous thing free coinage is so as to make it conform to the views of the president. Both schemes are meant to accomplish the same thing—delay, and that's how it will be beaten, if it is beaten. The committee will delay reporting it back to the House as long as possible, and after it is reported Speaker Reed will delay its consideration if he can, and between all these delays the time will have become too short to pass the bill at this session. See? Great scheme isn't it? Not very original though.

Mr. Blaine isn't saying anything about the Force bill, but he has had a kind of an I told-you-so look ever since Mr. Harrison was knocked out at the same time his pet measure was.

Our Leading Druggists.

F. E. Davenport are wide awake business men, securing that which they know will give satisfaction to their customers. They have just received a fresh supply of Dr. Marshall's Lung Syrup, the favorite cough medicine, and say they are selling more of this remedy than all others combined. This being the case there must certainly be great merit in this medicine as it is giving such universal satisfaction. You can buy it of F. E. Davenport.

The present speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives, Mason J. Niblack, is the first person to serve a second term in that position.

Administrator's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned administratrix of the estate of William H. Dills, deceased, will sell at private sale, on and after Monday, February 9th, 1891, at the late office of said decedent, in the town of Auburn, in Dekalb county, Indiana, the personal property of said estate, consisting of one fire proof safe, one set of Blackford's Reports, one set of Indiana Reports, American Encyclopedia of Law, and various other law books, together with office furniture, etc.

TERMS: All sums of five dollars and under cash, on sums over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given, the amount secured by the purchaser's note, with approved security.

Jan. 28, 1891.

JULIA MAY DILLS, Administratrix.

JAMES E. ROSE, Att'y for Estate.

NOT M'KINLEYED.

THE FAILURE OF THE FARMER'S TARIFF EXPOSED.

Porter's New York Press Shows that the McKinley Duties Have Not Raised the Prices of Farm Products—Facts and Figures Showing the Worthlessness of the "Farmer's Tariff."

The protection papers can be depended upon to make admissions which damage their case and confirm the positions of the tariff reformers. The opponents of our present tariff system have at all times contended that protective duties on general farm products could not possibly result in any advantage to the farmers, since we are exporters of such products to an enormous extent, and since we import almost nothing in those lines. For these reasons tariff reformers predicted that McKinley's so-called "farmers' tariff" would prove a failure, since his duties on farm products could not raise the prices on such commodities.

A prominent Republican journal now undertakes to show in detail that this prediction is fulfilled, that the prices of farm products have not advanced. This journal is the New York Press, of which Robert P. Porter was editor before he became Superintendent of the Census. The Press was founded and has been kept alive by wealthy protectionists for the purpose of propagating the protection heresy. This protectionist missionary journal undertakes in a two-column news article, entitled "Not 'McKinleyed,'" to show that the McKinley law has not increased the price of the necessaries of life.

The Press goes about its task in a very light-hearted way. "There has been a great deal of talk," it says, "anent the new tariff law, that the measure was bound to raise the price of necessaries, would raise the price anyway, and great endeavors have been made by free-traders to prove that the enactment of the bill introduced by Major McKinley has 'enhanced the price of necessaries to the poor,' to employ an English common-law idiom. The law has now been in effect three months, and the Press has been looking around a little in this city and its suburbs to ascertain in a quiet way for itself what really has been the effect of the McKinley law in its bearings upon the necessaries of the table. The result in this city is that the free-trade outcry appears to have all the well-defined symptoms of a bugaboo."

With this jaunty introduction the Press proceeds to give brief interviews with grocers and butchers, and to print the price lists of some of these. Looking over these price lists, one sees that they are made up entirely of the products of our farms, dairies and orchards. The prices of beef, mutton, pork and poultry, vegetables, green and canned fruits, canned meats, etc., are given in these lists, and we are assured by the merchants that these things are as cheap now as in October.

This is precisely what any man could have foretold; but it was not to be expected that one of the chief protection organs in the country would undertake to demonstrate to the farmers that McKinley's tariff on farm products does them no possible good.

One wholesale dealer in meats assured the Press reporter that "prices have been high right along for five months, and the McKinley bill has had no effect on them whatever. The fact is that the prices average two cents a pound lower than they did Nov. 1." A fruit dealer "declared that prices now remain steadily as they were Oct. 1;" and a dealer in butter and cheese made precisely the same report for those articles. A firm of large pork dealers asserted that their prices were the same as Oct. 1. The head of this firm went on: "The fact is, we are purchasing a little cheaper than we were Oct. 1, but as we were selling very close then, the prices have not dropped. Hogs have not been so cheap in ten yeas as they are this year. They are two cents more a pound than they were Nov. 1, but that is due solely to the fact that feed is so high. It has nothing whatever to do with any tariff measure."

This article in the Press, as the farmer will see, was written for city readers, and was intended to show them that the McKinley law has not hurt them by raising the prices of farm produce. It was not intended for farmers, for the farmers must be made to believe that McKinley's "farmer's tariff" really does them some good.

But how could the McKinley duties be expected to raise the prices of these things? Let the farmers reflect on a few figures of duties under the old law and under the McKinley law, together with our imports and exports of a few articles for the fiscal year 1890:

BUTTER.—Old duty, 4 cents per pound; McKinley duty, 6 cents; imports, 75,523 pounds; exports, 29,748,042 pounds.

CHEESE.—Old duty 4 cents, McKinley duty 6 cents; imports, 9,263,573 pounds; exports, 95,376,053 pounds.

BACON.—Old duty 2 cents, McKinley duty 5 cents; imports (too insignificant to get into the Treasury reports, but all "meat products" were about $500,000 worth); exports, 531,899,000 pounds.

HAMS.—Old duty 2 cents, McKinley duty 5 cents; imports (none reported); exports, 76,591,000 pounds.

BEEF.—Old duty 1 cent, McKinley duty 2 cents; imports (none reported); exports, 353,500,000 pounds.

MUTTON.—Same duties as beef; imports (none reported); exports, 256,000 pounds.

PORK.—(Fresh and pickled.) Same duties as beef; imports (none reported); exports, 80,000,000 pounds.

LARD.—Old duty 2 cents, McKinley duty 2 cents; imports (none reported); exports, 471,000,000 pounds.

APPLES.—Old duty (none), McKinley duty 25 cents per bushel; imports (none reported); exports 453,000 barrels.

DRIED APPLES.—Old duty (none), McKinley duty 2 cents a pound; imports (none reported); exports, 20,800,000 pounds.

BARLEY.—Old duty 10 cents a bushel, McKinley duty 30 cents; imports, 11,330,000; exports, 1,400,000 bushels.

CORN.—Old duty 10 cents, McKinley duty 15 cents; imports, 1,626 bushels; exports, 101,900,000 bushels.

OATS.—Old duty 10 cents, McKinley duty 15 cents; imports, 21,000 bushels; exports, 13,690,000 bushels.

OAT MEAL.—Old duty a half cent per pound, McKinley duty one cent; imports; 2,360,000 pounds; exports, 25,460,000 pounds.

WHEAT.—Old duty 20 cents a bushel, McKinley duty 25 cents; imports, 157,000 bushels; exports, 54,380,000 bushels.

FLOUR.—Old duty 20 per cent., McKinley duty 25 per cent.; imports, 1,219 barrels; exports, 12,231,000 barrels.

And yet McKinley tried to remedy agricultural depression by raising the duties on farm products! Can anybody suppose that he thought an increase of duty on these products of the farm could have the slightest effect in raising prices, and thus in helping the farmers? If McKinley really expected his "farmers' tariff" to have any such effect, this protectionist journal has taken pains to show that nothing of the kind has happened. What a sorry and discreditable thing the whole business is anyway! McKinley doubtless fancied that he was at least doing the cause of protection good service when he concocted this "farmers' tariff," and here is the protectionist Press equally sure that it is serving the cause of protection by showing its city readers that this same "farmers' tariff" has had no effect at all in raising prices.

But then the protectionists may be depended upon to show up the inconsistencies and absurdities of their so-called system; for even protectionists cannot shut their eyes to facts all summer and winter, too.

TARIFF LETTERS TO FARMER BROWN.

NO. 14.

Does the Tariff Develop Our Industries Symmetrically?

DEAR FARMER BROWN: The protectionists deal in much specious talk about promoting "the symmetrical development of our industries," and "an equilibrium of all industries." In his speech in the Senate on September 10, last year, Senator Jones, of Nevada, gave expression to this idea by saying: "I believe, in order to have a perfect system of industries, there must be an equilibrium of all industries, and that this country must produce everything which by nature it is capable of producing."

What the protectionists mean by this "equilibrium of industries" and "symmetry of industries" seems to be a combination of two ideas: First, that all possible industries must be carried on in this country; and, secondly, that the rate of profits must be kept at about the same level in all industries. One industry, they argue, or think they argue, must not be favored at the expense of another; must not be allowed to outstrip another in gaining wealth.

Talk of this kind, be it remembered, is indulged in by protectionists in defense of protection; and it is in favor of the manufacturing classes that such talk is uttered. But what an absurd position these men take here! Who is it that would make unfair and disproportionate gains if there were no protective tariff? They mean, of course, that the farmer would; for when they say there must be an "equilibrium" of profits in all industries, and when they say this in support of a protective tariff in manufactured goods, they necessarily imply that without protection the farmer would make much greater profits and the manufacturer much smaller profits. But do you think that the farmer is getting his share now in this "equilibrium" of profits? Gov. Boies of Iowa stated in his noted speech at the dinner of the New York Reform Club that farming had been done at a loss during the past few years in the great State of Iowa. Iowa is one of the greatest of our agricultural States, and when farming is done at a loss there, how must the condition of agriculture be in less favored States? It is a well-known fact that the farmers are now, as is confessed by that arch-protectionist Robert P. Porter, "passing through the gloomy valley of hard times." It is not to be wondered at that the conviction is settling down in the minds of the farmers that they are not getting all that justly belongs to them, and that far from having an "equilibrium" of profits, they are toiling and other men are reaping the profits of that toil.

Indeed, there are indisputable facts to show that, while the farmers are either laying up nothing or else actually going in debt, many others in the protected classes are making enormous fortunes every year. Andrew Carnegie has become a millionaire, worth, it is said, some $50,000,000, and all this made in the manufacture of steel rails and other steel products, made at a time when there was a duty of $17 a ton on steel rails, and when the country was paying every year, by a comparison of actual prices, $56,000,000 for iron and steel products, over and above the price in England. The figure given officially by United States Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright, as the total cost of producing a ton of steel rails, is $25.77. The steel rail manufacture of this country was in the hands of eleven companies ten years ago, but consolidations have reduced the number to six, and these have a "combine" to regulate prices. This combine has just put up the prices of steel rails $2 to $3 a ton, making the price $30. This makes a net profit of $4.23 a ton. The New York Engineering and Mining Journal estimates the annual output of Carnegie's two rail mills at 600,000 tons. This amount at a net profit of $4.23 a ton would yield $2,538,000. One of Carnegie's mills recently turned out 1,441 tons of rails in a single day. This amount would yield a net profit of $6,095—and all this in a single day!

But this is only one case. We hear of a plate-glass company that makes 34 per cent. a year on its capital; of a lampware factory that declares a dividend of 20 per cent. a year, and puts more than that into its surplus fund besides; of a cotton mill that earns dividends of from 20 to 37 per cent.; of a copper mining company with a capital of $1,250,000 which has paid dividends of $34,350,000 during its brief existence. Yet all the prosperous concerns here named are highly protected under the humbug plea of developing our industries "symmetrically."

Is this what is meant by a symmetry of industries? How does Carnegie's profits for a single day compare with the profits of all the farmers in your county for a whole month?

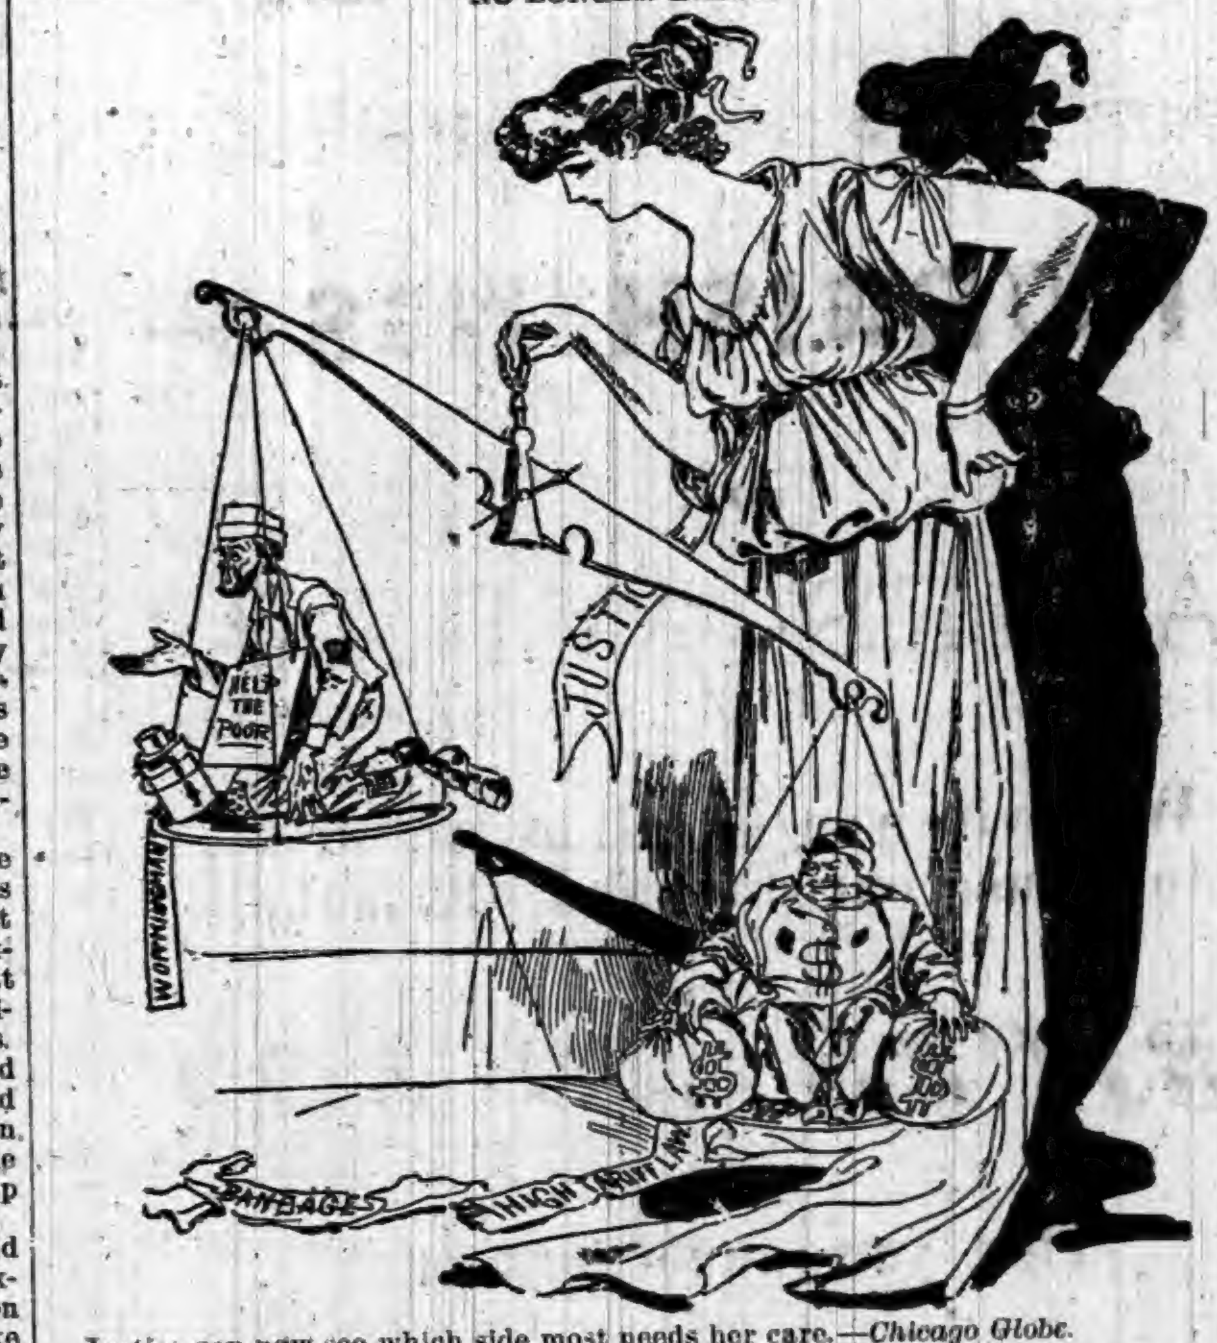
Can protection, then, give us an equalization of industries? Have I not succeeded in showing in previous letters that it is of the very essence and nature of protection to take away from one industry in order to give to another? As farming is the only industry which can be preyed upon by nearly all others in order to meet the expenses of this "equilibrium," and as there is absolutely no way in which the farmers can even up accounts with those who get the "equilibrium," is it not a clear case that this most important industry gets no good at all, but only harm and disaster, from a system of protected "equilibrium?"

These principles can be laid down as the bed-rock underneath all this tariff controversy: That no man will permanently engage in an industry which cannot be conducted on a paying basis; that if an industry cannot be profitably conducted without a tariff it is run at a loss to the consumer with a tariff; that such an industry cannot add to the "symmetry" of our industrial life, for it withdraws men from work which can be profitably done and sets them to doing what is, under natural conditions, unprofitable; that in many protected industries an undue number of seekers after wealth rush in with the expectation of gain, build factories far in excess of the home market, and these factories are therefore compelled either to go out of business altogether or to shut down for a part of the year; and that the products of these factories are in most cases shut out of the foreign market by reason of the high price of tariff-taxed raw materials.

Where such forces are at work, how can it be said that we have "symmetry?" Is it not more reasonable to expect to find "symmetry" and "equilibrium" in industries in a country where each man can turn his hand to the labor of his choice, with no one to step in and demand a part of his earnings under the name of "protection" to some other man's work? Yours truly,

RICHARD KNOX.

NO LONGER BLIND.



Justice can now see which side most needs her care.—Chicago Globe.

AGAINST THE WOOL TAX.

The wool tariff is doomed. The wool growers themselves have started to kill it. One of the most remarkable events in the recent tariff agitation has just happened. The oldest wool-growers' association in the country has passed resolutions strongly condemning the wool tax, and demanding that wool be placed on the free list. This is the Ontario and Livingston Sheep-breeders and Wool-growers' association, which recently held its twenty-fourth convention in Honeoye, N. Y. This association has always been strongly in favor of protection; but now a change has come over the spirit of its dreams. At the meeting referred to the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, It has been the policy in the past for this association to annually pass stereotyped resolutions praying Congress to restore the wool duty of 1867 or its equivalent; and

WHEREAS, This association, finally recognizing the unsoundness of its past position on this question, and ever ready to correct any error into which it may have fallen, begs leave to submit the following:

First—We recognize that the wool duty is a delusion and a snare to the wool grower, and that it has largely been instrumental in driving to the wall an industry it was calculated to benefit.

Second—Prior to 1867, under the various changes of the wool duties, the price of wool fluctuated, not in sympathy with the tariff, but by reason of the ever controlling law of demand and supply, the grower having received high prices and low prices under high tariffs, and, conversely, low prices and high prices under low tariffs.

Third—The success of the wool-grower depends on the success of the woolen manufacturer, while the American manufacturer is seriously handicapped by reason of being compelled to pay exorbitant tariff taxes on every pound of clothing wool imported for necessary admixture, while all foreign countries of any consequence have the benefit of free wool, and are thus enabled to undersell our manufacturers.

Fourth—The great wool tariff of 1867 resulted in driving from the eight chief wool-producing States—for whose special benefit said tariff was conceived and passed—more than 50 per cent. of their sheep in a single decade, while the price of wool declined in a nearly corresponding ratio.

Fifth—The importation of foreign wool increased from about 36,000,000 pounds in 1867 to more than 126,000,000 pounds in 1871, just four years succeeding the highest duty ever imposed on wool and woolens.

Sixth—During eight of the past eighteen years the foreign price of imported clothing wools at the last port of export actually exceeded the price of our domestic fleece in the markets of Boston, New York or Philadelphia, while in no single year did the domestic wools bring the foreign price, plus the duty.

Seventh—England, France, and Germany are the only three countries in the world that export woolen manufactures in excess of the imports of raw wool; in other words, these countries by admitting wool free have created a demand for their home wool in excess of all wools required to clothe their people, and, after giving employment to labor, export more wool than they have imported. The United States, on the other hand, by imposing a high duty on raw wool, has not only destroyed our export trade but so throttled our manufacturers as to ruin the market for domestic fleece and give to the English, French, and German manufacturers the cream of our markets for cloths.

Eighth—The free importation of raw wool into the United States would knock out the imports of woolen goods, and would revive the present depressed state of our own manufactures, thus giving employment to labor here, and creating an increased demand for our strong wools for necessary admixture.

Ninth—Recognizing the truth of the above facts, therefore, we, the members of the Ontario and Livingston Sheep Breeders and Wool Growers' Association, in convention assembled, most respectfully petition Congress to immediately place wool and woolen manufactures on the free list, in order that these industries may again thrive and assume that magnitude commensurate with a nation of 63,000,000 of people.

POSITIVELY ALL HERE.

REFERRING, OF COURSE, TO THE NEWS IN INDIANA.

A Narrow Escape—Work of Conscience—His Fingers Ground—Suicide of an Ex-Sheriff.

—John Mills dropped dead while chopping wood, at Medora.

—Salem will be able to see its way soon by electric light.

—New Albany will have a Y. M. C. A. building to cost $30,000.

—Reports of scarlet fever epidemic at Bedford are greatly exaggerated.

—Greencastle fondly hopes the early future will bring them a canning factory.

—Indiana press almost unanimously favors the repeal of the Grubbs libel law.

—Miss Mary Cox, of Okalla, Putnam County, dropped dead from heart failure.

—Abram Koontz, of Yorktown, was seriously injured in a runaway at Muncie.

—John Eidelberry, Columbus carpenter, lost all fingers of one hand in machinery.

—Amo is all upset over the attempt being made to open a saloon in their peaceful burg.

—Wabash is getting good, too, and has warned their gamblers to "get a move on them."

—Paul Besche, 17, died in South Bend, from "unaccustomed indulgence in intoxicants."

—A mad dog near Alaska wounded several dogs and other animals before it was killed.

—Joseph Perod's horse dropped dead with fright in Elkhart at sight of an electric car.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Miller has been elected a member of the Muncie Board of Health.

—Clay good for aluminum abounds near Fairmont. Maybe they'll manufacture it.

—Salem is to have electric light, artificial ice, cold storage, and a cannery. How's that?

—Mrs. Jennie S. Glare, of Madison, fell dead while conversing with friends at her home.

—A. Carrier, of Covington, was caught by the branches of a falling tree and seriously injured.

—Monroe Talbott's little boy was run over by a horse near Shelbyville, and deformed for life.

—H. S. Badollet's canary, Vincennes, after a silence of three years, burst forth in beautiful song.

—The Christian Church at Crawfordsville has extended a call to Rev. S. W. Brown, of Logansport.

—Samuel Catherwood, a veteran railway agent at Greencastle, has been stricken with paralysis.

—Jacob Faith, of Scott Township, Harrison County, died of injuries caused by falling from a wagon.

—Sellersburg is one of three towns in the United States appointed to have "experimental free delivery."

—Miss Redecca Rannells, of Richland Township, Fulton County, was fatally injured in a sleighing accident.

—Leonard Brosanbower, of Stony Creek Township, Madison County, attempted to commit suicide. His mind was upset by religious excitement.

—Brigham Young, while repairing a smoke-stack at New Albany, fell forty feet, and was killed. He leaves a family.

—James N. Lasswell, proprietor of a hotel at English, tsruck Pat Hannegan, his porter, with a club and broke his skull.

—George Martin, of Covington, was badly disfigured by falling from a scaffold and striking his face against a sawbuck.

—The two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Evans, living at Donaldsville, was fatally scalded by the overturning of a tub of hot water.

—Willis Norris, a once notorious gambler, and once the wealthiest man in New Albany, died in the Floyd County poorhouse.

—Stephen Huffer, a prominent teacher of Clinton County, has disappeared with about $4,000 of money intrusted to him for investment.

—Lester Lastutter, a wealthy farmer near Rising Sun, was found dead in the depot at Aurora, with indications pointing to suicide.

—Wm. Foreman, aged 23 years, was killed near Poland. He was coon-hunting with others, and was crushed under a falling tree.

—Mrs. Frances Spray sues the city of Seymour for $5,000 damages; hurt in a fall a dark night where warning light should have been.

—Five prisoners in the Dearborn County jail walked out the other night, but three returned during the day, and another was captured.

—The body of Johnny Miles, a sailor and well-known character on the lakes for twenty years past, was found floating in the harbor at Michigan City.

—Henry Gasper, aged 16, of Michigan City, was arrested and confessed to ten burglaries. It is estimated that he has stolen $5,000 worth of property.

—A business block, owned by E. Campbell, was burned at Sedalia. Eli Masters, merchant, lost $4,000 on stock, upon which he had $1,500 insurance in the Citizens' of Evansville.

—I. F. Force, of New Albany, was probably fatally injured by walking out of a second-story window of a hotel at Rochester, N. Y., while in a somnambulistic condition.

—Jack Milligan almost demolished the central police station at New Albany during the temporary absence of the officer in charge, in an attempt to rescue a friend, Macus Duncan, using a pick-ax to accomplish his purpose. He was surprised while at work and promptly locked in a cell.

—Dr. Schutt, reputable LaPorte citizen, proposes to make it torrid for Detective Norris, of Ohio, who had him arrested on charge of unlawfully obtaining money, and subsequently offering to "let him off" for $100.

—Joseph Shearer shot and killed George Miller and seriously wounded his brother, Eli, at Portland. Shearer's wife—by him deserted last fall—borrowed $10 of Miller to go to her father, giving some furniture as security. Shearer returned lately, wanted the furniture and refused to pay the $10. Miller protested, hence the shooting.

—William Nimmert, an employe in the chilled plow works at South Bend, was killed by the bursting of a grindstone.

—Jack Baber, of Jeffersonville, is a philanthropist in his humble way. He has whitewashed all the telegraph poles of the town, and is now building board side waks where they are most needed, at his own expense.

—The Monon ditch, thirty-five miles in length and one hundred feet in width and sixteen feet in depth, located in the counties of Jasper, Pulaski and White, when completed, will reclaim over 100,000 acres of farming lands.

—Miss Hattie Smith, aged 17, daughter of the Hon. W. K. Smith, of Shoals, died in St. Louis, after an illness of only a few days of congestion of the stomach. She was to have been a bride in a few weeks, and her trousseau will now serve as burial robes. She is a very popular young lady, beloved by all.

—Ora Rodgers and Murray Ray, two young men of Valparaiso, were seriously injured by a gas explosion. They threw coal-oil in a church furnace, which ignited a quantity of generated gas. The young men were hurled against the wall of the building, but managed to crawl out and were afterward found.

—At St. Mary's of the Woods, the mother home of the order of Sisters of Providence, in Vigo County, Bishop Chatard performed the ceremony by which seventeen young women joined the order. Several of them were from Terre Haute and had a large social acquaintance there. There were many friends present at the ceremony.

—"Buck" Stanley of Logansport, has just completed a series of temperance meetings at Rensselaer. He has an inimitable but popular style and he accomplished much good for the cause of temperance in that community. About 800 signed the pledge. He closed by a lecture wherein he described his work in the capture of the famous Green brothers.

—The inhabitants of Monroe City, Knox County, are much agitated over the mysterious disappearance of Samuel Campbell who left his home on the 21st inst. to buy furs in Daviess County, since which time nothing has been heard of him. He has been traced to some shanty boats in White River bottoms and it is feared that he has been foully dealt with.

—The Lebanon Light, Heat and Power Company are to be made defendants in a $10,000 damage suit, growing out of the company shutting the supply of natural gas from John M. Powell's business room, in which he used it for heat and light. Mr. Powell is a leading member of the council and had paid for the use of gas for the month of January in advance. This is to be a test case, and, if successful, more are to follow.

—Over four years ago, shortly after Indiana's first natural-gas well was found at Eaton, Frederick Hoover, of New Corner, ten miles from Muncie, with his sons, erected a derrick, which has since been used in the sinking of a well. Mr. Hoover would employ no one but his own family in the work, which made it slow and tedious. But it has just resulted in giving the man one of the best wells in the State.

—J. K. Miller, a highly respected farmer, living two miles west of Brazil, was arrested, charged with cutting down the Postal Telegraph Company's poles, erected on the National road, near his farm. Farmers along the line are indignant at the company, which purchased its franchise of a Terre Haute claimant, whose title they deny. It is charged that one or two farmers have been paid for right of way, and all now demand it. It will be a test case, involving an issue of much interest, as the line extends from Indianapolis to St. Louis.

—A very narrow escape from a fatal accident occurred recently at Crawfordsville. As Gus Karl and Duff Casad were driving a horse hitched to a buggy, the animal ran away. Karl jumped out, and the animal jumped over a slop-wagon driven by a colored man named Robert Jones. The wagon, buggy, Jones, and Casad were all thrown into the gutter and the two vehicles demolished. Casad was badly injured, as was also Jones, who also had his pants torn and ruined.

—Sam Grant, of Lafayette, has challenged Ed Cory, of Crawfordsville, or any other man who is aching for a fight, to fight for a $200 purse, or spar ten rounds in any opera house, the winner to receive 5 per cent. of receipts, or will fight upon any terms. Grant says that he never makes bluffs through newspapers, and when he says fight he means it, and he wants less talk and more scrap. He also says that he is "always ready to come at the call of time."

—John Murnan, who lives in Moral Township, Shelby County, stole five steers from a neighbor and drove them off to Indianapolis and sold them for $83. This was in December last. John's conscience has been worrying him ever since. The other day he came voluntarily into court and confessed to having committed the theft, and prayed the indulgence of the judge. Judge Hackney let him off upon bond upon the condition that he pay back the money he received from the sale of the steers, then he shall be a free man; if not, he will be prosecuted for grand larceny during the next term of court.

—John Candan, aged 60, residing near Monon, was deserted by his second wife, who joined the Salvation Army. He blew out his brains.

—Mrs. Owens, Connersville, shot her 5-year-old boy, not dangerously. Said she would thus prevent his being taken to the poor-house, as was intended.

—The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: No State can make a more interesting exhibit of difficulties overcome, of progress attained, or of prospects more bright, than Indiana.

—Rev. C. E. Bacon, who for the past three years has been pastor of the Methodist church in Wabash, has decided to accept a call from the First Methodist Church at Evansville.

—James Welsh, a brakeman, was killed at Columbus. He was a son of John Welsh, of Edinburg. He was a well-respected young man and the main support of his father and sister.

—Bartholomew Surver, a farmer living near Clay City, formerly sheriff of Clay County, committed suicide while temporarily insane. He was 70 years of age and leaves a wife and nine children.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

—AND—

Stomach AND Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by the native inhabitants of South America, who rely almost wholly upon its great medicinal powers to cure every form of disease by which they are overtaken.

This new and valuable South American medicine possesses powers and qualities hitherto unknown to the medical profession. This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and diseases of the general Nervous System. It also cures all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the Great Nervine Tonic qualities which it possesses and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body and as a great renewer of a broken down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the Lungs than any ten consumption remedies ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic almost constantly for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

CURES

Nervousness and
Nervous Prostration,
Nervous Headache and
Sick Headache,
Female Weakness,
All Diseases of Women,
Nervous Chills,
Paralysis,
Nervous Paroxysms and
Nervous Choking
Hot Flashes,
Palpitation of the Heart,
Mental Despondency,
Sleeplessness,
St. Vitus's Dance,
Nervousness of Females,
Nervousness of Old Age,
Neuralgia,
Pains in the Heart,
Pains in the Back,
Failing Health.

Broken Constitution,
Debility of Old Age,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,
Heartburn and Sour Stomach,
Weight and Tenderness in Stomach,
Loss of Appetite,
Frightful Dreams,
Dizziness and Ringing in the Ears,
Weakness of Extremities and
Fainting,
Impure and Impoverished Blood,
Boils and Carbuncles,
Scrofula,
Scrofulous Swelling and Ulcers,
Consumption of the Lungs,
Catarrh of the Lungs,
Bronchitis and Chronic Cough,
Liver Complaint,
Chronic Diarrhœa,
Delicate and Scrofulous Children,
Summer Complaint of Infants.

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied, and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This recent production of the South American Continent has been found, by analysis, to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its magic power to cure all forms of nervous derangements.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If every-one knew the value of this remedy as I do, you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HARDEE,
Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used twelve bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system. But now I can lie down and sleep all night as sweetly as a baby, and I feel like a sound man. I do not think there has ever been a medicine introduced into this country which will at all compare with this Nervine Tonic as a cure for the stomach."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., May 19, 1886.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk. I had to handle her like an infant. Doctor and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the South American Nervine Tonic; the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the South American Nervine the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to every-one.

MRS. W. S. ENSMINGER.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this May 19, 1887. CHAS. M. TRAVIS, Notary Public.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus's Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus's Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health from whatever cause.

JOHN T. MISH.

State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, } ss:
Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. CHAS. W. WRIGHT, Notary Public.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stom[illegible] ☞ No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the Stomach, because the experience and testimony of thousands go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to The Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted Stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

Mrs. M. Russell, Sugar Creek Valley, Ind., writes: "I have used several bottles of The South American Nervine Tonic, and will say I consider it the best medicine in the world. I believe it saved the lives of two of my children. They were down and nothing appeared to do them any good until I procured this remedy. It was very surprising how rapidly they both improved on its use. I recommend the medicine to all my neighbors."

Mrs. Ella A. Bratton, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I can not express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

Ed. J. Brown, Druggist, of Edina, Mo., writes: "My health had been very poor for years, was coughing severely. I only weighed 110 pounds when I commenced using South American Nervine. I have used two bottles and now weigh 130 pounds, and am much stronger and better than have been for five years. Am sure would not have lived through the Winter had I not secured this remedy. My customers see what it has done for me and buy it eagerly. It gives great satisfaction."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

Sold by Robbins & McCord, Auburn, Ind

PRICE: Large 18-oz. bottles, $1.25; trial, 15 cents.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE

COURIER.

THE SEMINOLE WAR.

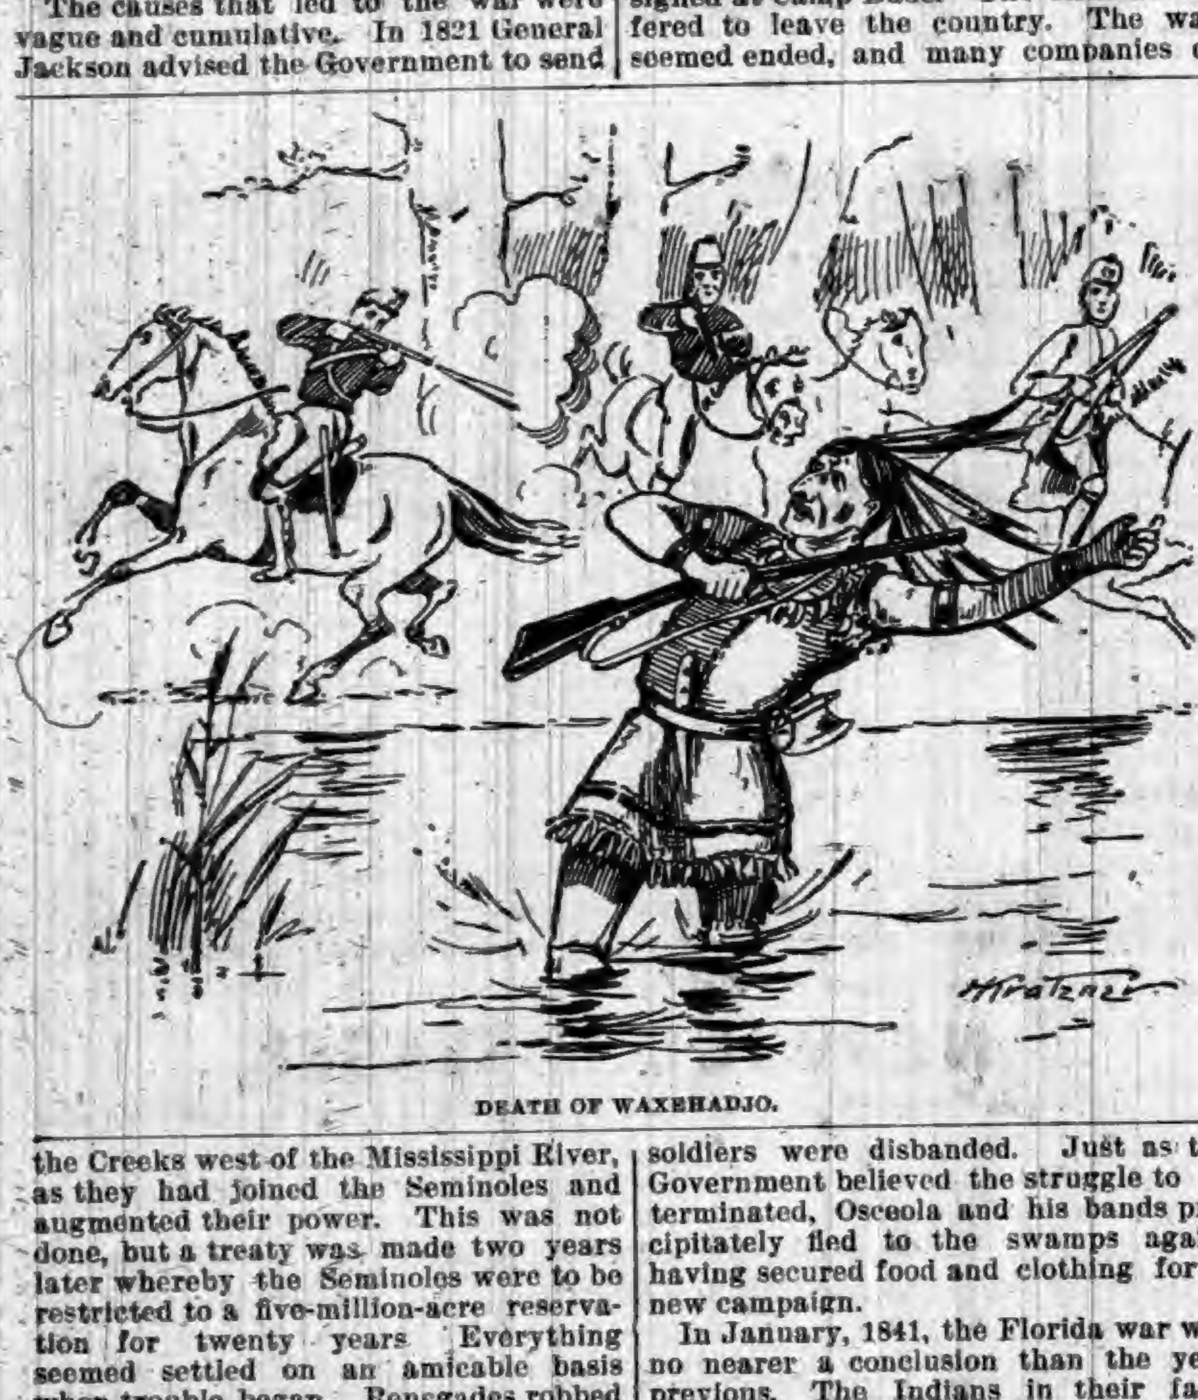
AN INTERESTING SCRAP OF AMERICAN HISTORY.

The Story of a Struggle that Cost the Government Nearly Twenty Millions of Dollars—How a Handful of Indians Kept Our Army at Bay for Seven Years.

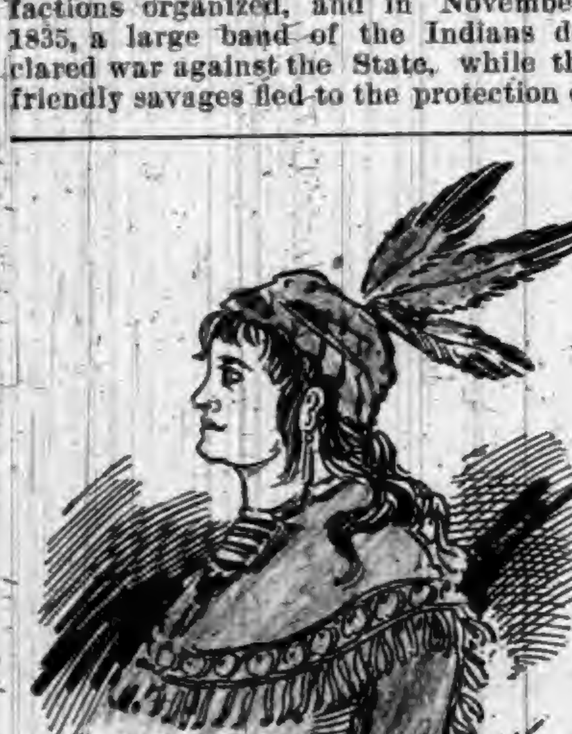
THERE are few episodes of Indian warfare so interesting, complicated, and prolific of important results as the great Seminole war of Florida. The tribes involved, the noted savage leaders identified with the struggle, and the action of such well-known men as Gen. Gaines, Gen. Scott, Lewis Cass, Zachary Taylor, and Andrew Jackson in the affair comprised elements that, at the time, united in calling the attention of the entire country to a series of battles which virtually exterminated a once powerful and courageous band of Indians.

When Florida was ceded to the United States in 1821, as indemnity from Spain for $5,000,000 spoliations, the Seminoles then living within its bordes were the remnants of the Upper Creeks and the Miscosukees. They were a source of trouble to Gen. Jackson in the 1818-19 campaigns, and the latter retaliated by burning villages west of the Suwanee River. The vagrant tribes then consolidated, and at the time of the breaking out of the Seminole war numbered about 1,900, with nineteen sub-chiefs, Micoucopy as leader and Assiala, or Osceola as he is poetically named, a ruling genius of great influence.

The causes that led to the war were vague and cumulative. In 1821 General Jackson advised the Government to send the Creeks west of the Mississippi River, as they had joined the Seminoles and augmented their power. This was not done, but a treaty was made two years later whereby the Seminoles were to be restricted to a five-million-acre reservation for twenty years. Everything seemed settled on an amicable basis when trouble began. Renegades robbed the Indians, and the latter retaliated. The Government offered the latter liberal inducements to leave the State. The soldiery became aggressive; the savages felt that they were not being sufficiently reimbursed for slaves, live-stock and land. There was much agitation and discussion. The Government attempted to force the Indians to leave. Various factions organized, and in November, 1835, a large band of the Indians declared war against the State, while the friendly savages fled to the protection of the frontier forts. They pointed to the repeated treaties broken or disregarded, and to the neglect and abuse that had made them reckless. War was inevitable, and a seven-years struggle ensued.



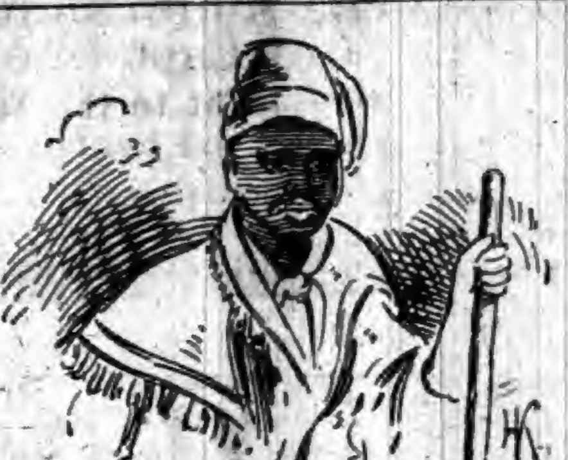
DEATH OF WAXEHADJO.



CHIEF OSCEOLA.

The center of operations during 1835 had been the vicinity of Fort King. At this and neighboring forts were stationed some 700 regular troops under the command of Gen. Clinch, who expected to keep the 3,000 Indians in the neighboring swamps peaceable until they should emigrate. Even Osceola had agreed to leave, and hundreds of people were eagerly awaiting Jan. 1, 1836, when they might take up the abandoned land. Just about then, unfortunately, some white men caught some Indians slaughtering cattle. They whipped and robbed them. A fight ensued. The old revengeful spirit of the Indians was aroused. Some 400 Indians abandoned Osceola and warned the whites to prepare for warfare. An Indian who favored emigration was murdered by the malcontents.

Osceola had become the virtual leader of the savages, and late in December, with sixty warriors, he lay in ambush for two days near Fort King and shot down Gen. Thompson and Lieut. Smith while the latter were strolling near the fort. The murder was a brutal one, some thirty-five bullets being fired into the victims and their scalps taken and cut into pieces for mementos. The fort was instantly aroused. It contained only forty-six men. Two companies were ordered from Fort Brooke to its relief. These soldiers, under the command of Maj. Dade, were attacked on their way to Fort King by the Seminoles and 100 officers and men were massacred in cold blood. Osceola retired to Wahoo Swamp laden with plunder and supplies. A wild celebration ensued, which ended in their hastening to the Withlacoochie River to intercept the pursuing Gen. Clinch and his 200 regular troops. A spirited contest ensued, in which the Indians were beaten back. Osceola held his position, notwithstanding the diplomacy of negro Abraham, who had great influence over the negroes, and who with the other chiefs exerted considerable diplomacy in dealing with the whites. The entire country was now thoroughly aroused; every week new depredations of the Indians were reported. Sixteen plantations in East Florida were completely destroyed by the savages—negroes were shot down, children hacked to pieces, homes desolated and sorrow and poverty succeeded prosperity and happiness. Gen. Clinch was authorized to call for troops. To this the country at large generously responded, some 4,000 men being in action during the first year of the war. Charleston banks subscribed $25,000 and Georgia sent some 2,500 men during the seven years of struggle. Gen. Gaines left New Orleans with 1,100 men. Gen. Scott was ordered to Florida, and then began that series of skirmishes in the bayous that have given to legendary lore its most striking and marvelous exploits in the way of savage warfare. Battle after battle ensued. The troops penetrated the enemy's country in every direction, even by water, but insufficient means of transportation, bad food, the climate, and the want of guides, led to disaster. The savages kept them at bay or in doubt of their whereabouts. For over a year they led them a terrible chase, killing them off in ones or twos, precipitating battles in advantageous spots, and enduring without loss or fatigue the hardships to which they themselves were accustomed. Finally, in March, 1837, a treaty was signed at Camp Dade. The Indians offered to leave the country. The war seemed ended, and many companies of soldiers were disbanded. Just as the Government believed the struggle to be terminated, Osceola and his bands precipitately fled to the swamps again, having secured food and clothing for a new campaign.

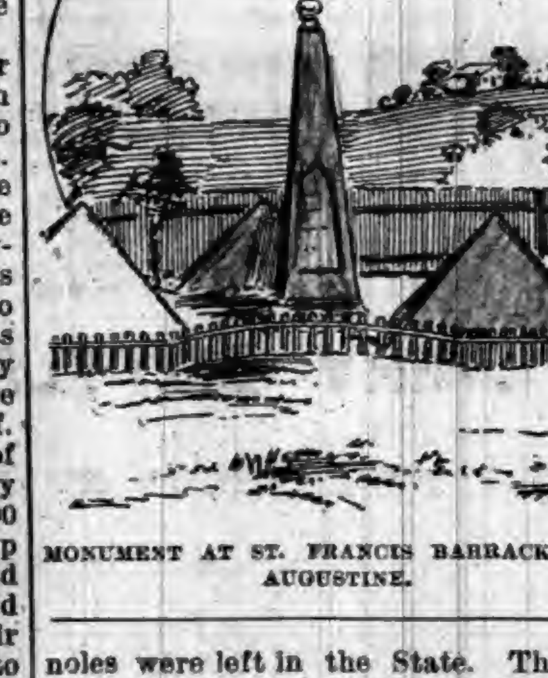


NEGRO ABRAHAM.

In January, 1841, the Florida war was no nearer a conclusion than the year previous. The Indians in their fastnesses were intractable, defying the soldiers. The army was concentrated at Fort Brooke. A million dollars was appropriated by Congress to suppress hostilities, but vainly were the Indians offered money to emigrate, and their fields and villages destroyed. Secure in swamp retreats, they sallied forth to pillage, returning laden with plunder. Gen. Armistead found it almost impossible to track the enemy to their lairs, and when he did their number was small, the savages separating continually. Provision trains were constantly robbed. Waxehadjo, a cruel and intrepid warrior, for months waylaid the express from Fort Cross to Tampa Bay. He had burnt the mail and put the rider to the most terrible tortures, and summary punishment was determined upon. Capt. Beall was dispatched to the scene of the latest outrage. He found the chief and two men examining the driver's haversack. The head of the latter was lying on the coals of a fire. The two Indians sought flight, and Waxehadjo escaped to the water. Here he dived to evade his foes, but was finally shot and his body hung to a near tree as a warning to his tribe. Like incidents marked the campaign against Billy Bowlegs, another terrible chinftain, but the main party of the Indians were not to be discovered or engaged in combined combat. The year of the scouting and fighting in the Big Cypress Swamp reads like a romance.

It is impossible to give within the confines of a brief article any fair idea of the warfare that ensued. It consisted in repeated, sorties individual acts of vandalism, and solitary combats in which cunning and cruelty were always displayed. In vain the military tried to locate the hiding places of their foes, and they finally started out to destroy the fields of the Indians in every direction. Small parties of the savages were apprehended and inprisoned or sent to some other State, but the segments of the tribe still harassed the military and kept the settlements in constant dread.

Through the years that followed the war raged on. It was only in 1842 that a final pacification was brought about. It was then that less than fifty Seminoles were left in the State. The war had cost $19,480,000, exclusive of expenditures for the regular army. Some 20,000 men had been engaged in the conflict, and the loss in battle and from sickness had been very great. Billy Bowlegs remained chief of the tribe, and he and his adherents became peaceful citizens of the State, farming and hunting amid their former scenes of pillage and battle.



MONUMENT AT ST. FRANCIS BARRACKS, ST. AUGUSTINE.

The State erected a beautiful monument to the memory of the officers and soldiers who were killed in battle or died in service during the Florida war. It was erected at St. Francis Barracks, St. Augustine. The number killed in the war is given as 1,466 officers and men.

Gold Disliked by Bankers.

"Do you know that gold is the most unwieldy of all the different kinds of money now in circulation?" said a prominent banker to your correspondent.

"Why?" was asked.

"Because it is not bankable without careful scrutiny."

"How is that?"

"Simply this: Take a greenback, a silver certificate, a gold certificate or a national bank note to your bank, and it is received and placed to your credit without a moment's delay. Not so with gold. A few days ago a gentleman brought to our bank upward of $3,000 in gold of different denominations, and was much provoked because we could not receive it forthwith and give him credit with the amount the face of the coin represented. This we could not do, because the law requires that gold shall be redeemed only at its actual value. Coins carried in the pocket for any length of time naturally lose something in weight by abrasion, probably but a fractional part of a cent on a $10 piece, but it is a loss, nevertheless, and therefore bankers cannot give credit for gold deposits until the coin shall have been weighed. In the case in point my friend took his gold to the Treasury Department and was compelled to wait there nearly an hour before he could get notes for it. Every coin had to be passed through the scales, and after the weighing process had been completed, three coins—two $5 pieces and one $10 piece—were returned to him as short in weight. Before returning short-weight coins the department stamps on the face of each a cross. The owner is left to either send the coins to the United States Mint for redemption or to again put them into circulation. Eventually the coins with crosses on their faces will go to the mint and be redeemed at their actual value. In many instances there may not be more than a few cents' shortage on $50 worth of coin. Business men, however, naturally object to the inconvenience, and get rid of their gold as fast as possible."—Indianapolis Journal.

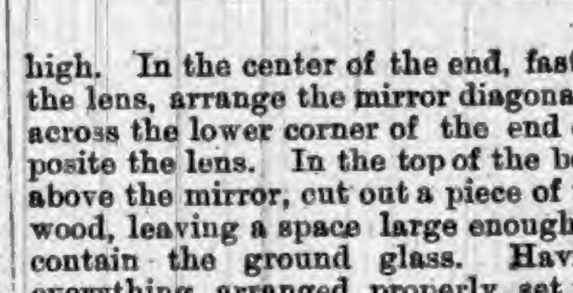
The Ocean Cables of the World.

According to the latest report of the International Bureau of Telegraph Administrations, the submarine telegraph system of the world consists of 120,070 nautical miles of cable. Government administrations own 12,324 miles, while 107,546 are the property of private companies. The total cost of these cables is in the vicinity of $200,000,000. The largest owner of submarine cables is the Eastern Telegraph Company, whose system covers the ground from England to India, and comprises 21,860 miles of cable. The eastern extension, which exploits the far East, has 12,958 miles more. Early in that year the system of West African cables, which started from Cadiz only six years ago, was completed to Cape Town, so that the dark continent is now completely encircled by submarine telegraph, touching at numerous points along the coast. More than 17,000 miles of cables has been required to do this, and several companies, with more or less aid from the British, French, Spanish, and Portuguese Governments, have participated in carrying out the work.

The North Atlantic is spanned by no less than eleven cables, all laid since 1879, though I think not all are working at the present time. Five companies are engaged in forwarding telegrams between North America and Europe, and the total length of the cables owned by them, including coast connections, is over 30,000 nautical miles.—Scribner's.

How to Make a Sketching Camera.

Procure at some variety store a small mirror and a drawing slate with a ground glass. You will need a small lens; one out of a microscope will do if you have it, if not you can get one for fifteen or twenty cents. Made a small wooden box about eight inches long, by five inches wide, by four inches high. In the center of the end, fasten the lens, arrange the mirror diagonally across the lower corner of the end opposite the lens. In the top of the box, above the mirror, cut out a piece of the wood, leaving a space large enough to contain the ground glass. Having everything arranged properly, set the camera on a chair or table, with the lens toward the object you wish to sketch, cover your head with a dark cloth, and proceed to sketch with a good pencil on the ground-glass the outline of the picture you see there. You can afterwards copy the picture onto another paper.



Slaves of the Bureau.

Some time ago a leading manufacturing firm advertised for two young women to take temporary places in their rebate department. A down-town employment bureau, managed by elderly women, agreed to furnish the girls. The salary determined upon for each was $10 a week. Every Saturday the employment bureau sent a messenger for the girls' wages. At last one of the firm became suspicious, and questioned the girls as to their relations with the bureau. For a time they gave evasive answers, and seemed so much intimidated that they couldn't be induced to say a word against the women. It was only upon the closest questioning that the girls burst into tears and admitted that they were the veriest slaves of the two women who controlled the bureau. They said out of $20 a week each of them received only $3 for herself.

The following week the firm paid each girl her $10, and refused to recognize the messenger. This prompt and effectual action brought several angry communications from the women of the employment bureau, and when these failed of their result a letter came from a lawyer threatening to sue the firm for the money. It never amounted to more than threats, and the girls continued to receive their salary in full as long as the work lasted. —New York letter.

An Ishmaelite.

Sunday-school Teacher—Now, children, an Ishmaelite is a man whose hand is against every man's and every man's hand is against him.

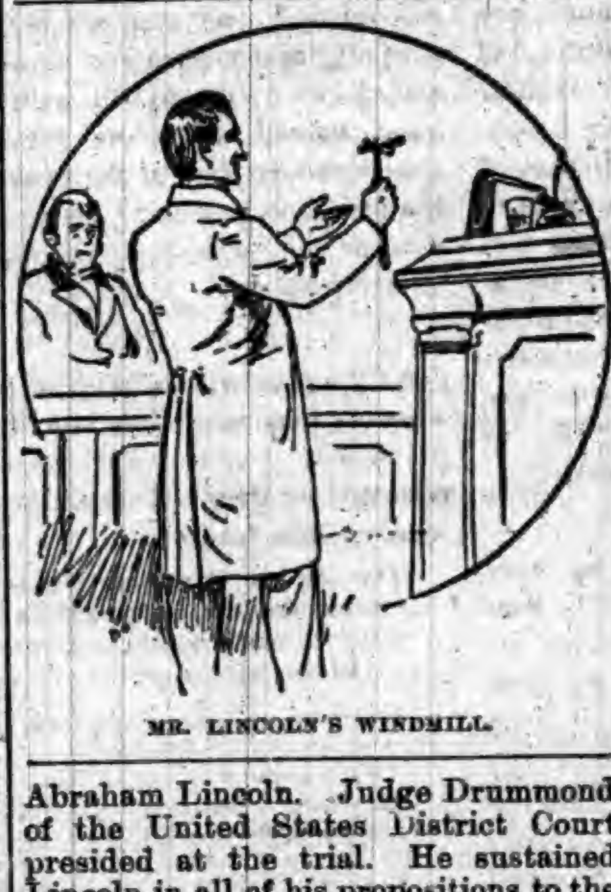
Johnnie (innocently)—Teacher, what's the difference between a poker-player and an Ishmaelite?—Washington Star.

ONE OF LINCOLN'S CASES.

The Great Man Whittled a Little Windmill to Convince the Jury.

In the year 1848 there was a memorable lawsuit in Chicago between Parker and Hoyt over the infringement of a patent right of a water-wheel, says the Chicago Tribune. Adams, Butterfield, and others were attorneys for the plaintiff and Abraham Lincoln appeared for the defendant. During the progress of the suit John Brink, Esq., now of Crystal Lake, Ill., chanced to be in the city, and the following is his account of it:

The trial lasted thirteen days and excited an unusual amount of interest. When Mr. Brink reached the city he found every one talking about the suit and the great Supreme Court lawyer Abraham Lincoln. Judge Drummond of the United States District Court presided at the trial. He sustained Lincoln in all of his propositions to the court, and in all of his objections to the positions taken by the opposing counsel.



MR. LINCOLN'S WINDMILL.

In the course of the trial a flume was made and water applied to the wheels for the purpose of demonstrating to the jurors the exact facts in the case. Indian meal was thrown into the water to show the jury more clearly the effect of the water on the wheels. Soon after this experiment had been made Lawyer Adams said to Mr. Brink: "Don't you think we have the best of the case?" Mr. Brink replied: "I do not know that I am a suitable judge, as I did not arrive here until the suit had been in progress two or three days. But this man Lincoln seems to hold you five fellows pretty snug."

Then Adams said: "I would rather fight every lawyer in the State of Illinois than Abe Lincoln, because he is a natural man, a natural lawyer, a natural mechanic, in fact a natural anything, and he knows more about that waterwheel than the man who made it, and I don't know anything about it."

While the attorneys for the plaintiff were making their pleas Lincoln sat there, and, although listening attentively, whittled out a pine stick about half an inch square and a foot long. From that he cut off two pieces about three inches in length, and with these two pieces he made the wings of a windmill. He fastened them together by running a pin through the center of the two wings and that pin into the end of the other and longer stick. After having put it together he blew upon it, and when it worked to his satisfaction he took it apart and placed it in his pocket.

There were eighty-four witnesses on the two sides, and Mr. Brink thinks that Lincoln took no notes, but trusted wholly to memory.

He requested the witnesses to be present during his plea, and said if he made any mistakes in regard to their testimony he wished them to correct him. When presenting his side of the case he took out the above-mentioned windmill from his pocket and, putting it together, blew upon it and explained it to the jury. He assured them that if any infringement had been made Parker had infringed upon the old-time windmill, and that Hoyt had not infringed upon Parker. Adams was to make the closing plea, and in Lincoln's speech he anticipated what Adams would say, and by this means weakened the force of his plea. Lincoln won his case, and the jury were out only a little over two hours.

Was Indignant.

A man wearing a number of badges went into a Chicago saloon, kept by a German, and calling the proprietor, said: "I had come in here to take a drink at your bar, but I have discovered that I should not patronize you?"

"Vell, how vas dot?"

"Because, upon looking round after coming in, I see that you have an awning made in imitation of the flag of my country. It is a shame, sir, a miserable shame. I fought for that flag, fought for it while you were doing the work of a slave in an oppressed empire. I stood in trenches knee deep in water, watching for the enemy, while you occupied a bed of straw in your master's stable. Now you come to this blessed country where there is no oppression, no slavery, and, with the freedom which we grant you, get money enough to start a saloon; and how do you repay this country for the chance it has given you? The first thing you do is to take the blessed emblem of the republic and use it for an awning. I say it is a shame, and furthermore, I say that you are an ingrate—a man that has no heart of appreciation."

The German was staggered. "Vy, mien frient, I no thought me of dot. I don'd wander brink de vlag of de goundry in disgraze."

"But you have done it. Look at that awning."

"Mien frient, let me dell you dot I miend no harm. I hobe you vill nod hold id againsd my house."

"How can I help it?"

"I dell you. You haf somedings mit me—bottle wine."

"All right, as you seem to be penitent I'll join you."

When the fellow had gone, the German stood for a time with his elbows on the bar, and then, musing, said: "I do belief dot man haf made a fool of myself."—Arkansaw Traveler.

THE majority of fatal lightning strokes occur in the level, open country. Trees, villages and thickly built-up towns, by their numerous projections into the air, and their net-work of wires and rails, serve to neutralize or scatter the electric forces of the clouds, thereby protecting the inhabitants from direct strokes.

THE accumulation of explosive gases in a room, mine or ship's hold can now be ascertained by means of an indicator. It consists of a porous cylinder closed by a thin metal membrane, and the penetrating gases raise the membrane, close a circuit and ring an alarm.

Gulf Stream Water.

Probably you never heard of it before, the water of the Gulf Stream is confidently believed by certain old people on Staten Island to be a sovereign remedy for disorders of the stomach. They drink half a glass after each meal, smack their lips, take a stout horn of whisky and in about three days they get well. So they say. So pilots and other seafaring men who get out to the Gulf Stream are frequently importuned to bring in jugs of the Gulf [illegible] water for the invalids. There is a man down there whose faith is unlimited, and he has been besieging for about thirty years a certain pilot of his acquaintance to bring him in some water. But the pilot always forgot.

The other day, however, he tickled the old man almost to death by bringing him three jugs of the precious liquid. The old man began to brace up at once, and three days later he chased the pilot half way around the island to overwhelm him with gratitude.

"So it did you good, did it?" said the pilot.

"Good? Why, bless you, my boy, it has added ten years to my life. I feel like a youngster again. I'll bet that I can beat you in a foot race right here."

And the pilot did not smile nor jibe nor jeer. But when the flood tide had been running about an hour that evening he went softly down to the end of Stapleton pier, drew out a tin bucket and dipped up about a gallon of the limpid stream, and the next morning the old man was overjoyed to get two more jugs of Gulf Stream water from his thoughtful friend.

"It's a kind of shabby trick," said the pilot, apologetically; "but as long as there are buckets handy around Stapleton I guess Uncle Josh needn't go without Gulf Stream water."

A Squaw's Remarkable Journeying.

In the last century a Chinook Indian woman, known to Father Huk, a great traveler and missionary of that period, while he was with the Indians on what we now call the Pacific coast, was many years afterward met by him in Asia. Through many vicissitudes and strange experiences, she had passed from tribe to tribe and place to place, always moving northward, until she reached Behring Strait, and there having gone out in one of the large canoes used by the seafaring Indians of that region, in a great storm they were driven across the strait to wreck and death to all save her, and she wandered on until she met Father Huk in the interior of Asia. She had not sought to return, but following the spirit of adventure bred in her by her strange experiences, she went on to see new lands.—Courier-Journal.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY,

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of CATARRH that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.
FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.
{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

An Impossibility.

Wagely—I understand you've been out West.

Wooden—Yes; went everywhere, saw every thing.

"Well, what impressed you most?"

"Well, I think I was most impressed by their sunrises."

"Pardon me; that was impossible."

"Why?"

"Because the sun doesn't rise in the West."

A Well Disciplined Pair.

"I've got a dog," said the West Side woman to her East Side visitor, "that actually balances himself on his head at command."

"That's nothing," retorted the East Side woman, "I've got a husband whose hair stands straight up when I speak to him."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

MANY people think that the word "Bitters" can be used only in connection with an intoxicating beverage. This is a mistake, as the best remedy for all diseases of the blood, liver, kidneys, etc., is Prickly Ash Bitters. It is purely a medicine and every article used in its manufacture is of vegetable origin of known curative qualities.

A Hopeless Case.

Visitor (at public library)—If you have the bound volumes of the Congressional Record for the last ten years I should like——

Attendant (ringing telephone violently) Give me the police station, quick! There's an escaped maniac here!—Chicago Tribune.

THERE is nothing (unless it be the sewing machine) that has lightened woman's labor as much as Dobbins' Electric Soap, constantly sold since 1864. All grocers have it. Have you made its acquaintance? Try it.

Susceptible to Impressions.

"That strikes me quite forcibly," observed Dinkelspiel, as a large double-breasted bale of hay dropped from the top of the elevator and landed on his head.

SUDDEN CHANGES OF WEATHER cause Throat Diseases. There is no more effectual remedy for Coughs, Colds, etc., than BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES. Sold only in boxes. Price 25 cts.

Lonesome for Two.

"It's awful lonesome here, George."

"Why, Ethel, you have me."

"I know it. That makes it twice as lonesome; once for each."

POOR little child! She don't eat well, she don't sleep well, she don't look well. She needs Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers. Papa, get her a box.

HANDKERCHIEF flirtations at the beach are sea waves that are not sad.

IT was in a house where they never used SAPOLIO that "The pot called the kettle black." Try it in your next house cleaning.

SOME men are club-footed, but it is the policeman who is club-waisted.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

RULE for church fair oyster suppers—Twice one is stew.

Totally Helpless

From Sciatic Rheumatism.

